CHIEF OF POLICE BRANDT WARNS BICYCLE RIDERS

With the arrival of spring, bicycle riding on sidewalks and streets has become a problem here again, and Chief of Police George F. Brandt has warned bicycle riders to use extreme caution to avoid accident.

Brandt, the chief declared, has safety department records which show bicycle-and-car accidents were three-and-a-half times as many in Wisconsin.

Following the following state safety laws, bicycle riders can do their own part to save their lives, the local points out:

- Obey all automobile traffic laws.
- Remain alert and walk across dangerous intersections; keep to the right and close to the curb.
- Always ride in a park or other place free of the street until you are on a sidewalk.
- Always without wobbling and avoid potholes. Slow down on slippery roads.
- Never carry a passenger; it's dangerous for both of you.
- Never hitch-hike by holding to a moving vehicle.
- When riding at night carry a light on front and either a light or reflector in the rear; light clothing is best.
- Don't carry a parcel in one hand, while without holding the handlebars.
- If parcels are carried, strap them to the frame or carrier.
- Choose your route carefully, avoid crowds and traffic.
- Keep your bicycle adjusted to road and in good condition. Check the brakes frequently.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

MRS. KATIE SCHAUH OF WAYNE EXPIRES

The angel of death reached out and took a beloved aged resident of the town of Wayne, Mrs. Katie Schaub, nee Arnet, at her home on Tuesday, April 13, at 4:30 a. m., as a result of a stroke, following an illness since February 11 of this year. She had attained the age of 74 years and would have been 75 on April 22.

Born on April 22, 1863, in the town of Wayne, she was married to George Schaub on Dec. 11, 1887 at Wayne Center. She came to her present home in 1891. No children were born to the couple.

Her husband predeceased her on April 5th, 1895. Members of her family who preceded her in death were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Arnet, two sisters and two brothers. She leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Margaret and Louisa Arnet, both of Wayne, and a brother, George of West Bend.

Funeral services were held Thursday, April 15, at 2 p. m. at Miller's Funeral Home in this village, with burial taking place in the Washington County Memorial Park, Rev. A. A. Graf officiating.

The venerable Mrs. Schaub was a daughter of pioneer settlers of the town of Wayne. Every attempt was made to restore her health following the stroke but she slowly weakened until death took her. With Mrs. Schaub's death a good woman has gone to her reward. She was beloved by all and esteemed in her community. We extend our condolences to the bereaved.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned take this opportunity to sincerely thank all those who assisted them during their recent bereavement, the death of their beloved sister, Katie Schaub; to Rev. Graf for his consoling words and prayers, the pallbearers, for the floral offerings, to Millers, who had charge of the funeral, to those who loaned cars, and to all those who attended the funeral.

ERVIN DOMANN IS CALLED IN DEATH

A young man, who was in the prime of life, was called from this world last Thursday, April 8th, when Ervin Domann, aged 37, passed away at his home in the town of Scott, Sheboygan county, west of Beechwood, after an illness of four weeks with a complication of diseases.

Born March 11, 1900, in the town of Scott, he was married to Clara Abel on May 17, 1930, at West Bend, who survives him. Two children were born to this union, namely, Marian and Rpth, who also survive.

Besides these he leaves his aged mother, Mrs. Helmut Domann of the town of Scott, one sister, Mrs. Herman Kling, of the town of Scott, and two brothers, Richard of Sheboygan and Emil of the town of Wayne. A sister preceded him in death.

The funeral was held on Monday, April 13th, from the Domann home, the Rev. Gustav Kanless of the Immanuel Lutheran church of the town of Scott officiating. Burial took place in the Immanuel cemetery.

Pallbearers were Edwin, John, Jr. and Herbert Abel, Herman Kling, Robert Haese and Ervin Schultz.

Mr. Domann, who was well known throughout the community, operated a chicken farm. His untimely death caused great grief to his family circle. We join in extending sympathy.

MRS. FENSTERMACHER DIES AT OMAHA, NEBR.

Word was sent us by Mrs. Charles F. Blasser of West Bend of the death of her sister, Mrs. Luella Fenstermacher, 46, nee Muehleis, of Omaha, Nebr., on March 31st.

Mrs. Fenstermacher was born on May 21, 1890, in the town of Wayne. She was married in Kewaskum to Oscar Fenstermacher Jan. 31, 1911. They took up their residence at Cedar Bluffs, Nebr. and moved to Omaha a year ago.

Deceased is survived by her husband; four children, Lenore and Gertrude of Tremont, Nebr., and David and Helen Marie at home; two sisters, Mrs. Blasser of West Bend and Mrs. L. Fritz of Wymore, Nebr.

The funeral was held on April 3 at Cedar Bluffs. Burial took place in the same city. Mrs. Fenstermacher is well remembered by many of her former friends here who will find sorrow in hearing of her demise.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned desire to express their most heartfelt thanks to all those who assisted in any way during their recent bereavement, the loss of their beloved father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Backhaus. Especial thanks to Rev. Kanless, the choir, to all who assisted in lightening their load of sorrow, to the pallbearers, to Millers, who had charge of the funeral, and to all who showed their respect for the departed by attending the last sad rites.

CHILD STRUCK BY CAR WHILE CROSSING STREET

Anthony, small son of Mr. and Mrs. George Strohmeier of the town of Wayne had a narrow escape from serious injury late Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile in front of the Rex Garage in this village.

While crossing the street with his father the little fellow ran ahead, as children will do, when he was struck by the oncoming car, knocking him to the pavement. Had the automobile been traveling fast or had the brakes been faulty the lad might have been killed as the front wheels were only inches from his head when the car was halted.

Mr. Strohmeier, who still walks with crutches from a serious accident some time ago, was unable to assist his son. Gerhard Reinders, who was at the scene and the driver of the car, a stranger, immediately rushed the injured child to a physician's office where, fortunately, he was found to have sustained only minor cuts and bruises.

SCHOOL TAKES SECOND AND THIRD IN FORENSICS

A second and a third place was won by students of Kewaskum High school in the league forensic contests held at the Lomira High school last Wednesday afternoon.

Annabelle Grotenhuis placed second in the dramatic declamations contest with "Kidnaped." Caroline Feitz, Slinger, won first in this division with "The Scar." Kewaskum's other place, a third, was won by Audrey Koch in extemporaneous reading. La Verne Wolf, Lomira, was first, and Eugene Stuesser, Slinger, second. M. Mertes and Marvin Koenig, who represented the local school in oratory, and Dolores Backhaus in the humorous declamations, failed to place.

Schools competing were Lomira, Cumnellsport, Slinger and Kewaskum. Lomira took two first places, a second and a third; Cumnellsport a second; Slinger three firsts and two seconds, and Kewaskum a second and a third.

First and second place winners in the Lomira contest will enter the district contest at Waupun Saturday, April 17, and first and second place winners at the Waupun contest will be eligible to enter the district contest which will be held at the State Teachers college at Oshkosh Apr. 20. Annabelle Grotenhuis will be the only one representing Kewaskum at Waupun.

MODERN WOODMEN HOLD INITIATION HERE TUESDAY

The Kewaskum Camp 2233 of M. W. A. was host Tuesday evening to a large group of neighboring M. W. A. members who came to witness the initiation of a group of new members into the organization.

Featured on the occasion was the Beaver Dam drill team and the Ripon drum corps, which organizations paraded down Main street to the Kewaskum Opera House where a speaker from Madison gave valuable information pertaining to M. W. A. life. Here the initiation of ten new members was held. A live "billy" goat led by two members, was also a part of the parade and caused no end of excitement to the youngsters of the village.

Following the activities the group returned to the M. W. A. hall where refreshments were served and a social good time was had.

TOWN AUBURN CONTESTS HELD AT NEW FANE SCHOOL

Spelling and achievement contests for Town Auburn were held last Friday afternoon at the New Fane school under the direction of Miss Minerva Sommerfeld. Winners were: Spelling—first, Marie Krahn of Gage school and second, Edward Kobschmidt of East Valley school. Achievement—first, Eva Mae Buss of Gage school and second, Virginia Trapp of New Prospect school. The first place winners will participate in the county contests at the Fond du Lac courthouse Saturday, April 17. Pupils from Five Corners, Lake Fifteen, New Prospect, Gage, East Valley and New Fane took part in the contests.

The following pupils of the New Fane school had perfect attendance for the fifth six weeks: Byrdell and Vernon Pirks, Audrey Ehnert, Harold Backhaus and Joyce Krueger.

MR. AND MRS. SIMON STOFFEL WILL MOVE TO MILWAUKEE

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Stoffel, prominent farm residents of the town of Kewaskum for many years, have been making preparations during the past week to move their household goods to Milwaukee some time next week, where they will reside in the future. They have three daughters, Crescence, Mildred and Mrs. Lawrence Schmitt, and one son, Rev. Clarence Stoffel, living in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Stoffel have been active members of Holy Trinity church and enjoyed a great many friends in Kewaskum and vicinity who deeply regret their leaving our midst. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Stoffel and children, who have resided on West Water st. in the village, took over the farm, to which they moved Thursday. Nicholas, who is also a son, has been operating the farm for his parents in the past.

WRITES ABOUT BEAGLES

A fine article appeared in the Green Sheet of last Friday evening's Milwaukee Journal about beagle dogs. It was written by Gordon McQuarrie, outdoor writer, and gave prominent mention of Kewaskum as the beagle center of the state, and Jos. Eberle's dogs. Joe is president of the Wisconsin Beagle club. A large picture of Julius Reysen and two of his beagles also accompanied the story.

MOVE INTO OUR VILLAGE

Mr. and Mrs. William Brandstetter and daughter this week moved from West Bend to Kewaskum where they are now occupying the upper rooms of the home of the former's mother, Mrs. C. Brandstetter. Mr. Brandstetter is a painter in this village.

PEACE EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Welcome to Sunday school at 8:45 a. m. and to English worship service at 9:30 a. m.

S. S. workers' meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m.

Richard M. A. Gadow, Pastor.

CAR CLIPS OFF ELECTRIC POLE

While returning from Beechwood at about 1 a. m. last Saturday morning in his automobile, Orville Koehler, who resides 1/2 mile south of Kewaskum, clipped off a high tension electric pole in front of the Traugott Stenschke residence in the village when his steering apparatus became faulty as a result of the rough road.

The pole was clipped off near the base and fell to the ground. As it contained a transformer the entire electric power and light for the village was shut off. As the transformer crashed the sky was illuminated with a flash like lightning.

Ed. "Mush" Bauer, Campbellsport, a Fond du Lac county deputy sheriff, who was in the village at the time while on duty watching for the persons who robbed a tavern at Dundee the same evening, immediately notified headquarters of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. at West Bend, from where a line truck and crew was rushed to repair the damage. It took about two hours before power was restored and workmen labored until the following afternoon to replace the pole and make repairs. As most of the people slept at the time not a great many knew of the happening but those who did, mostly neighbors, were confused as to what was happening as workmen toiled through the night with their searchlights and red flares.

The damage to Koehler's car was confined to the axle, right front wheel and a dented up fender. Luckily, he was uninjured.

Janssen of Kewaskum, R. R.

MANY FROM HERE ATTEND DANCE AND BANQUET AT SCHWARTZ

About 40 people from this village attended the annual Land o' Lakes, Land o' Rivers banquet and dance at the Schwartz Ballroom, Hartford, on Tuesday evening and all had one marvelous time.

First of all a banquet was held for the basketball players, managers and those closely connected with the teams of the four divisions of the two leagues. Then the boys joined their lady friends and wives and many outsiders to spend the remainder of the evening dancing to two fine orchestras.

At the banquet 165 individual medals for the players, 8 pennants and 8 trophies were given out to the various champions. Each player on the Kewaskum team received a silver medal for winning second place in the northern division of the Lakes league. The team also received a large pennant, and Lyle Gibson was awarded a gold medal for being second highest scorer in the league, being outscored by Ritter of Cedarburg by a few points in the last two games.

Speakers included such notables as Art. Buck of Carroll college, the highest scorer in the United States in football last fall; Coach Earl Lampe of the same school; Geo. F. Downer, director of publicity at the University of Wisconsin, and Celen Walford, sports writer of the Milwaukee Journal, who also took a picture for his paper, which appeared in Wednesday evening's issue.

All members are urged to be present as there will be election of officers.

BRING DAMAGE SUITS IN AUTO CRASH

Echoes of the fatal accident on Highway 55 just north of the Washington county line, and about 3 miles north of Kewaskum on Feb. 15, were heard in circuit court at Fond du Lac last week, when widows of two men killed in the crash filed suit for a total of $30,000 damages.

Defendants were P. H. Whealon of Fond du Lac, operator of a freight truck line and the Liability Assurance Corporation, Ltd.

The plaintiffs were Mrs. Marguerite Schlegel, widow of Charles A. Schlegel, and Mrs. Norma Clark, widow of Charles Clark, both residents of Milwaukee.

Schlegel was killed when the vehicle in which he and Clark were driving north collided with a truck driven by Herbert Schwartz, Fond du Lac, an employee of the Whealon line. Clark died later at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend.

Each of the plaintiffs asked total damages of $15,000—$12,500 for pecuniary losses because of the death of her husband and $2,500 for the loss of his companionship and society.

The complaint alleges that the driver of the truck failed to keep his vehicle under control, was operating at an excessive speed and did not use the brakes to control the vehicle.

ROUND LAKE RESIDENT INVOLVED IN ACCIDENT

What might have proven a serious accident occurred to Albert Newton, who resides at a cottage at Round Lake, while returning from Fond du Lac last Thursday afternoon when he lost control of his Ford car on County Trunk B near Armstrong, and it left the road and turned over in a ditch.

The accident was caused when the cover on a bucket of tar Mr. Newton was carrying in the back seat came off and the contents spilled over the interior of the car.

The car was badly damaged but fortunately the driver was uninjured.

FARMERS RECEIVE PAYMENTS

More than 500 Washington county farmers received agricultural conservation payments during the past week. Those who are in the program and who have not as yet received payments will be notified when their checks are received by the county office.

TO OBSERVE MUSIC WEEK IN LOCAL AUDITORIUM

Music week will be observed here this year during the first week in May with a program in the Kewaskum High school auditorium.

This activity should be one in which the entire community has a right to participate if they so choose.

All persons or organizations who wish to participate in this observation are asked to contact Mr. Rose, principal of the school.

ROAST CHICKEN AT ARCHWAY

A delicious roast chicken lunch will be served at the Archway Cafe Saturday evening. Come in and treat yourself to an excellent meal.

BASEBALL MEETING TUESDAY EVENING

A meeting of the Kewaskum Baseball club, member of the Badger State league, will be held next Tuesday evening, April 20, at 8 p. m. sharp at Eberle's Beer Garden. This will be a very important meeting and all players, fans and others interested are urged to attend. Every fan and businessman is especially requested to be present as business in regard to sponsoring a team and to make other arrangements for the coming season. The officers want everyone to come so be there if you can possibly make it that night.

Since Port Washington and Mayville have dropped out, and Fond du Lac has entered the league, the circuit will be composed of five teams unless another team can be obtained by May 9, the opening game.

As the date of the opening game is only a few weeks off, the local team must hurry its arrangements to be ready at that time. A practice game or two will be played soon, perhaps Sunday afternoon, to get the boys in shape.

OPERATION

Ambrose Bremser of near St. Michaels underwent an emergency appendectomy at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, on Wednesday evening, Apr. 14. He is resting comfortably at this writing.

EDITORIAL

Does honesty pay? This is a question that many people are interested in. Do people succeed better if they are honest in word and act, or do they get along more successfully if they ignore the rules of dependability? The argument is frequently made that it does pay. As evidences, instances were given to show that people have become wealthy through shady practices. But the people who gathered this evidence have overlooked the fact that many numbers of men and women have failed because they could not be depended upon. Many businessmen have failed because their customers could not rely upon them. For one person who succeeds through the practice of dishonesty, there are probably hundreds who failed because of that practice. Honesty is the best surety toward guaranteeing your future.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Gladys Holzmann has entered first grade.
Barbara Schaefer has returned to school after being absent for three months because of illness.
The fifth grade geography class is beginning to study the Central States.
The sixth grade reading class is reading "Stories of Outdoor Science."
The art class has started to design imitation stained glass windows.
The enrollment of the grammar room is now 39. Alfred and Gertrude Holzmann have joined the eighth and sixth grades respectively.
In an eighth grade spelling contest, Lorraine Honeck received first place.
In the physics class has now started the study of magnetism. We have learned the different methods of making magnets and how the earth acts as a magnet. Then we have also studied electromagnetism which means that every electric current is surrounded by magnetic lines of force.

In economics we have studied how prices of things affect our choices; why people buy, and the elasticity of demand. We have now started the chapter on "Cost of Production" which deals with competition, how cost of production determines supply, and how production of wealth is carried on under conditions of increasing costs.

The geography class has been studying the chapter on the British Empire. They learned that it is the largest empire in the world; in area and population it is four times the size of the U. S. Then also, it is the richest, most powerful and influential of all European nations; yet England, the nucleus of the empire, is no larger than Alabama. The factors which have combined to favor growth in power and influence of the British nation are these: mild climate, suitable coast line, natural resources, liberal and adaptable government, and the character of its people.

The biology class is studying plant life, kinds, functions, adaptations and structure of roots.
The general science class is studying "Simple Machines." This is the simple function of the machine before going on to complex machines.

Russell Belger typed 41 words per minute with 3 errors, Dolores Backhaus typed 39 words per minute with 2 errors and Eleanor Bartelt typed 38 words per minute with 3 errors in the beginning typing test on April 2. Anita Mertz typed 56 words per minute with 7 errors, Rosemary Haug typed 56 words per minute with 4 errors and Audrey Koepke typed 48 words per minute with 1 error in the advanced typewriting test on the same date.

AROUND THE SCHOOL

Two N. Y. A. boys have begun work on the school tennis courts, track field and grounds. We hope to have the tennis courts in fine condition for play during the coming season.

The district spelling and achievement tests were held at the Armstrong school Friday afternoon. Harold Bruger won first place in both contests, while Ronald Dins won second in both. As contestants can take part in but one event, Harold Bruger will represent the school in achievement and Ronald Dins in spelling at the Osceola township contest at the Mitchell school Friday. The following pupils of the school had perfect attendance for the fifth six weeks of school: Robert Towbig, Frankie Burns, Alvin Conger, Francis Burns, James Foy, Adeline Zacho and Charles Panuski. David Towbig is teacher.

CHIEF OF POLICE BRANDT WARNS BICYCLE RIDERS

With the arrival of spring, bicycle riding on sidewalks and streets has become a problem here again, and Chief of Police George F. Brandt warned bicycle riders to use extreme caution to avoid accident.

Brandt, the chief declared, states department records reveal that bicycle-and-car accidents there were train-and-automobile accidents in Wisconsin.

Following the following state safety laws, bicycle riders can do their part to save their lives, the local points out:

1. Obey all automobile traffic laws.
2. Do not drink and walk across dangerous intersections; keep to the right and close to the curb.
3. Do not ride in a park or other places off the street until the right side well.

4. Ride without wobbling and avoid sharp turns. Wobbling through traffic is dangerous. Slow down on slippery streets and roads.

5. Never carry a passenger; it's dangerous for both of you.
6. Never hitch-hike by holding to a moving vehicle.
7. When riding at night carry a light in front and either a light or reflector in the rear; light clothing and reflective materials see you.
8. Don't carry a parcel in one hand, and without holding the handlebars. Parcels are carried, strap them to the frame or carrier.
9. Choose your route carefully, avoid crowds and traffic.
10. Keep your bicycle adjusted to you and in good condition. Check brakes frequently.

MRS. KATIE SCHAUB
OF WAYNE EXPIRES

The angel of death reached out and took a beloved aged resident of the town of Wayne, Mrs. Katie Schaub, nee Arnet, at her home on Tuesday, April 13, at 4:30 a. m., as a result of a stroke, following an illness since February 11 of this year. She had attained the age of 74 years and would have been 75 on April 22.

Born on April 22, 1863, in the town of Wayne, she was married to George Schaub on Dec. 11, 1887 at Wayne Center. She came to her present home in 1891. No children were born to the couple.

Her husband predeceased her on April 5th, 1895. Members of her family who preceded her in death were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Arnet, two sisters and two brothers.
She leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Margaret and Louisa Arnet, both of Wayne, and a brother, George of West Bend.

Funeral services were held Thursday, April 15, at 2 p. m. at Millers' Funeral Home in this village, with burial taking place in the Washington County Memorial Park, Rev. A. A.
Graf officiating.

The venerable Mrs. Schaub was a daughter of pioneer settlers of the town of Wayne. Every attempt was made to restore her health following the stroke but she slowly weakened until death took her. With Mrs.
Schaub's death a good woman has gone to her reward. She was beloved by all and esteemed in her community. We extend our condolences to the bereaved.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned take this opportunity to sincerely thank all those who assisted them during their recent bereavement, the death of their beloved sister, Katie Schaub; to Rev.
Graf for his consoling words and prayers, the pallbearers, for the floral offerings, to Millers, who had charge of the funeral, to those who loaned cars, and to all those who attended the funeral.

ERVIN DOMANN IS CALLED IN DEATH

A young man, who was in his prime of life, was called from this world last Thursday, April 8th, when Ervin Domann, aged 37, passed away at his home in the town of Scott, Sheboygan county, west of Beechwood, after an illness of four weeks with a complication of diseases.

Born March 11, 1900, in the town of Scott, he was married to Clara Abel on May 17, 1930, at West Bend, who survives him. Two children were born to this union, namely, Marian and Ruth, who also survive.

Besides these he leaves his aged mother, Mrs. Helmut Domann of the town of Scott, one sister, Mrs. Herman Klug, of the town of Scott, and two brothers, Richard of Sheboygan and Emil of the town of Wayne. A sister preceded him in death.

The funeral was held on Monday,
April 13th, from the Domann home,
the Rev. Gustav Kanless of the Immanuel Lutheran church of the town of Scott officiating. Burial took place in the Immanuel cemetery.

Pallbearers were Elwin, John, Jr.
and Herbert Abel, Herman Klug, Robert Haese and Ervin Schultz.

Mr. Domann, who was well known throughout the community, operated a chicken farm. His untimely death caused great grief to his family circle. We join in extending sympathy.

MRS. FENSTERMACHER
DIES AT OMAHA, NEBR.

Word was sent us by Mrs. Charles F. Blaesser, of West Bend of the death of her sister, Mrs. Luella Fenstermacher, 46, nee Muehleis, of Omaha,
Nebr., on March 31st.

Mrs. Fenstermacher was born on May 21, 1890, in the town of Wayne.
She was married in Kewaskum to Oscar Fenstermacher Jan. 11, 1911.
They took up their residence at Cedar Bluffs, Nebr. and moved to Omaha a year ago.

Deceased is survived by her husband; four children, Lenore and Gerald of Tremont, Nebr., and David and Helen Marie at home; two sisters,
Mrs. Blaesser of West Bend and Mrs.
L. Fritz of Wymore, Nebr.

The funeral was held on April 3 at Cedar Bluffs. Burial took place in the same city. Mrs. Fenstermacher is well remembered by many of her former friends here who will find sorrow in hearing of her demise.

Anthony, small son of Mr. and Mrs.
George Strohmeier of the town of Wayne had a narrow escape from serious injury late Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile in front of the Rex Garage in this village.

While crossing the street with his father the little fellow ran ahead, as children will do, when he was struck by the oncoming car, knocking him to the pavement. Had the automobile been traveling fast or had the brakes been faulty the lad might have been killed as the front wheels were only inches from his head when the car was halted.

Mr. Strohmeier, who still walks with crutches from a serious accident some time ago, was unable to assist his son. Gerhard Reinders, who was at the scene and the driver of the car, a stranger, immediately rushed the injured child to a physician's office where, fortunately, he was found to have sustained only minor cuts and bruises.

ners will participate in the county contests at the Fond du Lac courthouse Saturday, April 17. Pupils from Five Corners, Lake Fifteen, New Prospect, Gage, East Valley and
New Fane took part in the contests.

The following pupils of the New Fane school had perfect attendance for the fifth six weeks: Byrdell and Vernon Pirks, Audrey Ehnert, Harold Backhaus and Joyce Krueger.

Justman of Theresa.

A second and a third place was won by students of Kewaskum High school in the league forensic contests held at the Lom' High school last Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Annabelle Grotenhuis placed second in the dramatic declamations contest with "Kidnaped." Caroline Feitz, Slinger, won first in this division with "The Scar." Kewaskum's other place, a third, was won by Audrey Koch in extemporaneous reading. La Verne Wolf, Lomira, was first, and Eugene Struesser, Slinger, second. M. na Mertes and Marvin Koenig, who represented the local school in oratory, and Dolores Backhaus in the humorous declamations, failed to place.

Schools competing were Lomira, Campbellsport, Slinger and Kewaskum. Lomira took two first places, a second and a third; Campbellsport a second; Slinger three firsts and two seconds, and Kewaskum a second and a third.

First and second place winners in the Lomira contest will enter the sub-district contest at Waupun Saturday, April 17, and first and second place winners at the Waupun contest will be eligible to enter the district contest which will be held at the State Teachers college at Oshkosh Apr. 20.
Annabelle Grotenhuis will be the only one representing Kewaskum at Waupun.

MR. AND MRS. SIMON STOFFEL WILL MOVE TO MILWAUKEE

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Stoffel, prominent farm residents of the town of Kewaskum for many years, have been making preparations during the past week to move their household goods to Milwaukee some time next week, where they will reside in the future. They have three daughters, Crescense, Mildred and Mrs. Lawrence
Schmitt, and one son, Rev. Clarence Stoffel, living in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Stoffel have been active members of Holy Trinity church and enjoyed a great many friends in Kewaskum and vicinity who deeply regret their leaving our midst. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Stoffel and children, who have resided on West Water st.
in the village, took over the farm, to which they moved Thursday. Nicholas, who is also a son, has been operating the farm for his parents in the past.

WRITES ABOUT BEAGLES

A fine article appeared in the Green Sheet of last Friday evening's Milwaukee Journal about beagle dogs.
It was written by Gordon McQuarrie, outdoor writer, and gave prominent mention of Kewaskum as the beagle center of the state, and Jos. Eberle's dogs. Joe is president of the Wisconsin Beagle club. A large picture of Julius Reysen and two of his beagles also accompanied the story.

MODERN WOOD- MEN HOLD INITIA- TION HERE TUESDAY

The Kewaskum Camp 2233 of M.
W. A. was host Tuesday evening to a large group of neighboring M. W.
A. members who came to witness the initiation of a group of new members into the organization.

Featured on the occasion was the Beaver Dam drill team and the Ripon drum corps, which organizations paraded down Main street to the Kewaskum Opera House where a speaker from Madison gave a valuable information pertaining to M. W. A. Here the initiation of ten new members was held. A live "billy" goat led by two members, was also a part of the parade and caused no end of excitement to the youngsters of the village.

Following the activities the group returned to the M. W. A. hall where refreshments were served and a social good time was had.

MANY FROM HERE ATTEND DANCE AND BANQUET AT SCHWARTZ

About 40 people from this village attended the annual Land o' Lakes, Land o' Rivers banquet and dance at the Schwartz Ballroom, Hartford, on Tuesday evening and all had one marvelous time.

First of all a banquet was held for the basketball players, managers and those closely connected with the teams of the four divisions of the two leagues. Then the boys joined their lady friends and wives and many outsiders to spend the remainder of the evening dancing to two fine orchestras.

At the banquet 168 individual medals for the players, 8 pennants and 8 trophies were given out to the various champions. Each player on the Kewaskum team received a silver medal for winning second place in the northern division of the Lakes league.
The team also received a large pennant, and Lyle Gibson was awarded a gold medal for being second highest scorer in the league, being outscored by Ritter of Cedarburg by a few points in the last two games.

Speakers included such notables as Art. Buck of Carroll college, the highest scorer in the United States in football last fall; Coach Earl Lampe of the same school; Geo. F. Downer, director of publicity at the University of Wisconsin, and Celon Walfoort, sports writer of the Milwaukee Journal, who also took a picture for his paper, which appeared in Wednesday evening's issue.

MOVE INTO OUR VILLAGE

Mr. and Mrs. William Brandstetter and daughter this week moved from West Bend to Kewaskum where they are now occupying the upper rooms of the home of the former's mother, Mrs. C. Brandstetter. Mr. Brandstetter is a painter in this village.

CAR CLIPS OFF ELECTRIC POLE

While returning from Beechwood at about 1 a. m. last Saturday morning in his automobile, Orville Kocher, who resides 1/2 mile south of Kewaskum, clipped off a high tension electric pole in front of the Traugott Stenschke residence in the village when his steering apparatus became faulty as a result of the rough road.

The pole was clipped off near the base and fell to the ground. As it contained a transformer the entire electric power and light for the village was shut off. As the transformer crashed the sky was illuminated with a flash like lightning.

Ed. "Mush" Bauer, Campbellsport,
a Fond du Lac county deputy sheriff, who was in the village at the time while on duty watching for the persons who robbed a tavern at Dundee the same evening, immediately notified headquarters of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. at West Bend, from where a line truck and crew was rushed to repair the damage. It took about two hours before power was restored and workmen labored until the following afternoon to replace the pole and make repairs. As most of the people slept at the time not a great many knew of the happening but those who did, mostly neighbors, were confused as to what was happening as workmen toiled through the night with their searchlights and red flares.

The damage to Kocher's car was confined to the axle, right front wheel and a dented up fender. Luckily, he was uninjured.

BRING DAMAGE SUITS IN AUTO CRASH

Echoes of the fatal accident on Highway 55 just north of the Washington county line, and about 3 miles north of Kewaskum on Feb. 18, were heard in circuit court at Fond du Lac last week, when widows of the two men killed in the crash filed suit for a total of $30,000 damages.

Defendants were P. H. Wheelon of Fond du Lac, operator of a freight truck line and the Liability Assurance Corporation, Ltd.

The plaintiffs were Mrs. Marguerite Schlueter, widow of Charles A.
Schlueter, and Mrs. Norma Clark, widow of Charles Clark, both residents of Milwaukee.

Schlueter was killed when the vehicle in which he and Clark were driving north collided with a truck driven by Herbert Schwartz, Fond du Lac, an employee of the Wheelon line.
Clark died later at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend.

Each of the plaintiffs asked total damages of $15,000—$12,500 for pecuniary losses because of the death of her husband and $2,500 for the loss of his companionship and society.

The complaint alleges that the driver of the truck failed to keep his vehicle under control, was operating at an excessive speed and did not use the brakes to control the vehicle.

What might have proven a serious accident occurred to Albert Newton, who resides at a cottage at Round Lake, while returning from Fond du Lac last Thursday afternoon when he lost control of his Ford car on County Trunk B near Armstrong, and it left the road and turned over in a ditch.

The accident was caused when the cover on a bucket of tar Mr. Newton was carrying in the back seat came off and the contents spilled over the interior of the car.

The car was badly damaged but fortunately the driver was uninjured.

FARMERS RECEIVE PAYMENTS

More than 500 Washington county farmers received agricultural conservation payments during the past week. Those who are in the program and who have not as yet received payments will be paid when their checks are received by the county office.

TO OBSERVE MUSIC WEEK
IN LOCAL AUDITORIUM

Music week will be observed here this year during the first week in May with a program in the Kewaskum High school auditorium.

This activity should be one in which the entire community has a right to participate if they so choose.

All persons or organizations who wish to participate in this observation are asked to contact Mr. Rose, principal of the school.

ROAST CHICKEN AT ARCHWAY

A delicious roast chicken lunch will be served at the Archway Cafe Saturday evening, April 20, at 8 p. m. sharp at Eberle's Beer Garden. This will be a very important meeting and all players, fans and others interested are urged to attend. Every fan and businessman is especially requested to present as business in regard to sponsoring a team and to make other arrangements for the coming season.
The officers want everyone to come so be there if you can possibly make it that night.

Since Port Washington and Mayville have dropped out, and Fond du Lac has entered the league, the circuit will be composed of five teams unless another team can be obtained by May 9, the opening game.

As the date of the opening game is only a few weeks off, the local team must hurry its arrangements to be ready at that time. A practice game or two will be played soon, perhaps Sunday afternoon, to get the boys in shape.

Senate Condemns Sitdown Strike but Sparing President—Henry Ford Defies Lewis—Governor Benson Incurs Censure of Minnesota Senate.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

IN ORDER to get the Guffey coal control bill through the senate without an amendment condemning the sitdown strike, Majority Leader Joe Robinson promised to permit consideration of a resolution carrying similar condemnation, but when it was presented and adopted, by a vote of 75 to 3, it was not a joint resolution, which would require the signature of the President. That was what Senator McNary and others wanted, but Robinson said it must be concurrent, because he would not put Mr. Roosevelt in the position of having to indicate his position on the sitdown strike by either signing or vetoing the measure.

Sen. Robinson

Besides vetoing the sitdown strike "illegal and contrary to sound public policy" the resolution as adopted took a double slap at the employers by also declaring: "That the so-called industrial spy system breeds fear, suspicion and animosity, tends to cause strikes and industrial warfare and is contrary to sound public policy; and that it is likewise contrary to sound public policy for any employer to deny the right of collective bargaining, to foster the company union or to engage in any other unfair labor practice as defined in the national labor relations act."

HENRY FORD returned from Detroit to his winter residence at Ways, Ga., and there announced that the Ford Motor company "never will recognize" the United Automobile Workers of America or any other union. "We'll deal with individual workers," he said.

Ford said that any of his men who struck would be "led out of the particular plant with regrets" because he knew the men are simply being duped and coerced by the strike leaders.

"We won't hold any grudge against them and will be willing to hire them back," he added.

He said public officials were charged with protecting citizens from such disorders as sitdown strikes.

"Those who seize property not their own are in the same category as housebreakers," Ford said.

John L. Lewis in reply told a union meeting in Detroit that he had no doubt Ford will continue to deal with individual employees "as long as his employees permit him to follow that policy and no longer." And the C. I. O. chief added ominously: "I have no doubt Henry Ford will change his mind on this subject."

The strike in the Ford plant in Kansas City came to an end and the members of the United Automobile Workers were boasting of gaining a victory over the imperturbable Henry. But the advantage they won was slight and temporary, and the battle with Ford is yet to be fought.

The thirty-day strike of the Chrysler company employees came to an end when W. P. Chrysler and John Lewis reached an agreement under persuasion of Governor Murphy. The company agreed to recognize the U. A. W. A. as the bargaining agency for its members, and the union pledged that it would call no sitdown strikes nor permit its members to engage in any Chrysler plants for the duration of the contract, which extends to March 3, 1938.

The strike of Reo company men was settled on approximately the same terms, and Governor Murphy then turned his attention to the Hudson company strike.

The C. I. O. invaded Canada by calling out 3,700 workers in the plants of the General Motors company of Canada at Oshawa, Ont. But it was the old-fashioned kind of strike, with picketing, and the union pledged there would be no violence.

THREE hundred sitdown strikers at the plant of the Hershey Chocolate corporation at Hershey, Pa., were overwhelmed and driven out by a mob of thousands of irate farmers and loyal workers of the company. The farmers were enraged because the strike had cut off their market for $10,000 worth of milk daily. They and the non-strikers were armed with clubs and bricks and the strikers were treated roughly.

Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania ordered an investigation and declared formally: "The bloodshed at the Hershey plant was a disgrace to the Commonwealth. The blame lies directly on the sheriff of the county, who said he did not need the assistance of the state police to maintain order. Precedent decrees that local authorities must ask the state's assistance before it intervenes."

"The state police will not be used to suppress union labor. Neither are they interested in the sitdown problem. They will prevent mob rule. Apparently the sheriff was not an unbiased law enforcement officer in this case."

MOVING back again to the West, we find Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor governor of Minnesota, involved in labor troubles that might conceivably result in his impeachment. About 200 members of the "people's lobby" staged a sitdown in the senate chamber at St. Paul for the purpose of enforcing their demands for immediate action on the governor's relief plan. Benson had previously spoken to the crowd, telling them "it is all right to be a little rough once in a while" in dealing with the legislature, and the lawmakers were exceedingly resentful. The governor, after one day and night, persuaded the demonstrators to leave, telling them they had done a good job.

Gov. Benson

On regaining possession of its chamber, the senate put through a resolution condemning the governor for "inciting people to riot" and failing to perform his lawful duties to "quell and quiet the mob."

While there was no serious talk of impeachment, the report was current that the senate resolution was drafted deliberately as a possible basis for such action.

BITUMINOUS coal miners were on strike only one day, for the new wage scale, providing an $85,000,000 increase of pay for the 400,000 men, was signed by representatives of the operators and the United Mine Workers of America. Of course the consumer will have to pay for this wage boost. Charles O'Neill, president of the United Eastern Coal Sales corporation and chairman of the operators' delegation at the conference, said the cost of bituminous coal at the mine would go up at least 25 cents a ton.

The miners won a raise of 50 cents a day, but lost their demand for a 30-hour week. The 35-hour week, or 7 hours a day and 5 days a week, which was in effect under the old contract, will remain. Also the men failed to get two weeks' vacation with pay and a guaranty of 200 days of work a year.

THERE is going to be a lively three-cornered struggle in the southwestern oil fields. The C. I. O., whose plans in that direction were mentioned in this column not long ago, has begun the campaign to organize the workers in the Texas field. Harvey C. Fremming of Washington, president of the International Association of Oil Field Gas Well and Refinery Workers and close friend of John Lewis, is in charge of the operations. A rival movement for members and prestige will be started in a few days by the A. F. of L.

Gov. James V. Allred of Texas has given notice that he will use "every resource" against sitdown strikes, which he declares are unlawful and un-American. He added: "My investigation convinces me that sit-down strike organizers have invaded Texas. Sit-down methods do not represent the desires of an overwhelming majority of organized labor in this state."

TRANS-ATLANTIC air service between the United States and Great Britain may be expected to start almost immediately, for the last obstacle in its way was removed by an agreement with Canada concerning routes through the Dominion.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson announced that two routes through Canada had been made available for trans-Atlantic flying craft that will make a total of four trips a week. One route is by way of Shediac, N. B., and the other through Montreal. The hop-off point for eastward flights over the ocean would be from Bottwood, N. F., which also would be landfall on the westward flights.

Johnson said that under the agreement British and United States planes would make two crossings apiece weekly.

SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS of Illinois told the senate that he believes the time has come for President Roosevelt to call an international peace conference that would revise the treaty of Versailles. He said the object of the conference would be to reach a "new disposition that might content the nations that are now in revolt and which continue in conflict because of the affront and injury they feel was worked upon them under the terms of the treaty."

The senator asserted the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt abroad would lend much to the success of such a conference.

very well defined, not a single piece of meteoric iron has been found. In explaining, Dr. Fisher writes: "The pieces were probably carried away by the peasants, or by the earlier Vikings. As is well known, iron was prized by the Vikings and the Danes, who were the founders of this Baltic province. In support of this theory, it is also known that the Eskimos pounded off with tough rocks fragments of the Cape York meteorites for the purpose of making knives."

Storm of Red Pepper Inhabitants of the Samoryn district, which forms the southern boundary between Czechoslovakia and Hungary and is famous for the cultivation of cayenne pepper, are demanding that the product for which they are famous should in the future be sold in covered jars and not in open boxes and bags. During the recent gale clouds of pungent cayenne pepper from the market descended on the whole town, penetrating like a sandstorm.

River Falls—The thirteenth annual high school music and band marching contest will be held here Apr. 29 and 30. Approximately 25 high schools of northwestern Wisconsin are expected to participate.

Oshkosh—Circuit Judge Fred Beglinger signed a court order to permit the closed Paine Thrift bank to pay a 7 per cent dividend. The order releases $70,000 and brings dividend payments up to 75 per cent of the depositors' claims.

Whitehall—Trempealeau county has been virtually assured a large milk plant, following a recent meeting here of 70 directors of 14 creameries in western Wisconsin. The directors considered establishing a central flexible milk plant, which would be co-operatively owned by the creameries.

Madison—Proposal to place the state of Wisconsin in the automobile insurance business as it is already in the life insurance business was defeated, 18 to 14, by the senate.

THAT France and Russia are flagrantly violating the Spanish civil war neutrality agreement by sending aid to the Madrid government is the charge flung by Virginia Gayda, Italian editor who is generally regarded as voicing the views of Premier Mussolini. The charges are so serious that many observers believe they mean Italy may soon break away from the agreement and openly go to the assistance of the Franco regime.

Gayda said 25 officers of the French general staff were mapping the strategy of the loyalists especially on the front northeast of Madrid, and that transshipment had been permitted through France of much war material made in the United States. He alleged that Edouard Daladier, French minister of war, is receiving reports on the performance of the new 155 millimeter (6.1 inch) French guns sent to Spain and used extensively in the Guadalupe battle.

The Spanish steamer Mar Negro, Gayda declared, was en route to Valencia from Odessa, Russia, with a cargo of munitions of war for the Spanish government.

THE house of representatives passed, 122 to 14, a measure, admittedly experimental, designed to speed Supreme court decisions on the constitutionality of acts of congress. It embraces one of the phases of the President's court program.

The bill provides that whenever the constitutionality of an act of congress is drawn in question in any suit in a federal court, the attorney general is permitted to appear and present arguments on behalf of the government. The attorney general is given the same rights as a party in the suit.

PERSISTENT search in the mountains of northern Arizona revealed the wreck of the skyliner that had been missing several days; and in the wreckage were the corpses of the eight occupants, six of them burned beyond recognition. The plane had been sold and was being taken from Burbank, Calif., to New York. It had smashed against the side of a mountain, the cause of the disaster being unknown.

PRICES of government bonds have been declining in a disturbing manner, and the administration decided to do something to check the slump. The open market committee of the federal reserve system discussed the matter all one day, and next day President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and Chairman Eccles of the reserve board held a long conference. The result was this announcement:

"With a view (1) to exerting its influence toward orderly conditions in the money market and (2) to facilitating the orderly adjustment of member banks to the increased reserve requirements effective May 1, 1937, the open market committee of the federal reserve system is prepared to make open market purchases of government securities for the account of federal reserve banks in such amounts and at such times as may be desirable."

The security and commodity markets were given a rather severe jolt by the President when he told the correspondents that prices of durable goods, especially steel and copper, were too high and that it was time for a shift in federal expenditure from them so as to spread the national income more evenly.

PROCLAIMED by the President, congress and all governors, Army day was celebrated throughout the nation on April 6, the twentieth anniversary of America's entrance into the World War.

The keynote of Army day, according to Rear Admiral Reginald R. Belknap, U. S. N., retired, general chairman of the day, is "Peace through preparedness." "The peace that we have seen the terrible destruction wrought by war want to do all in our power to avoid another war," he said. "The best way to do this, we believe, is by having a strong, well-trained, well-equipped army and navy. So strengthened, an aggressor nation will think twice before trying to draw us into war."

The best way to achieve this preparedness, he added, is by carrying out the provisions of the National Defense act of 1920.

THAT Florida ship canal project, which would cut the state in two, has come to the fore again and probably will have to be fought out once more in congress. Two reports on the matter have just been filed. One, from Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of engineers of the army, says the federal government would be justified in completing the project at a cost of $197,921,000. The other, from the river and harbor board, says the canal is economically unsound.

Madison—The Wisconsin legislature enacted Gov. La Follette's state labor relations proposal known as "the Little Wagner act." The assembly, by a 76 to 19 vote, accepted the bill as it was received from the senate. Following the lead of the senate, the assembly also defeated propositions to write into the act a specific provision outlawing sitdown strikes. The bill provides for appointment of a three-man labor relations board by the governor with consent of the senate to guarantee the right of collective bargaining, determine employees' representatives for that purpose, prevent unfair labor practices, and arbitrate or conciliate labor disputes. Company unions of all character are denied recognition of the board under this act. Gov. La Follette is expected to sign the bill as soon as it is relayed to him from the senate.

Milwaukee—Judge George E. over district court, was defeated overwhelmingly for re-election by Harvey L. Neelen. The vote was more than 2 to 1 in favor of the 21-year-old son of the late Judge B. Neelen who preceded Page on the district court bench here.

Madison—J. Morgan Wilson, manager of the Wisconsin Rural Electric Co-operative association, said the state will have 5,207 miles of co-operative lines, serving 20,000 homes, in operation by the end of the year.

Madison—A bill by Assemblyman Palmer F. Daus, democrat, Fort Atkinson, providing $150,000 for a state rough fish removal program, was recommended unanimously for passage by the assembly conservation committee.

Kenosha—Thirty-three Kenosha county farmers were given Gopis guild certificates, national recognition for improved production records in dairy herds. The presentations featured the annual dairymen's dinner.

Whitehall—Trempealeau county has been virtually assured a large milk plant, following a recent meeting here of 70 directors of 14 creameries in western Wisconsin. The directors considered establishing a central flexible milk plant, which would be co-operatively owned by the creameries.

Badger State «Happenings»

Milwaukee—Wisconsin's total of unemployed was reduced by 6,063 in February through the efforts of the National Reemployment Service and the Wisconsin Employment Service.

La Crosse—La Crosse's oldest family voting combination—Mrs. Amanda Atkinson, 98, and her son, Frank, 78, cast ballots again Apr. 6. Mrs. Atkinson has voted in every presidential, state, county and municipal election since suffrage.

Neenah—An 8-cent hourly wage increase was granted by the Bergstrom Paper Co. The increase followed the announcements of a 10-cent hourly increase by Kimberly-Clark corporation and an 8-cent raise by the Gilbert Paper Co.

Manitowoc—Working so quietly no one detected them, burglars used an acetylene torch to burn a hole through the top of the Newton State bank safe and escaped with loot estimated at $4,000. Newton is an unincorporated village of about 50 inhabitants 10 miles south of here.

Madison—Gov. La Follette signed a bill requiring children under 16 to attend school for the full term during which their district schools are open. Present law limits compulsory attendance to six months, whereas most rural and city schools conduct classes for eight or nine months.

Two Rivers—It looks like Two Rivers police will either have to be content with an old motorcycle or travel on foot. Several weeks ago the city council authorized City Manager E. J. Donnelly to advertise for bids for a new machine. When the time came to open the bids, there were none.

Beloit—Mr. and Mrs. Halver Baukin, whose family circle has been unbroken by death in 60 years, celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary here Apr. 4 with a family reunion. Attending were eight children, 13 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and guests who were present at the Baukins' wedding in 1877.

Madison—Jobs on Wisconsin farms are going begging despite a 16 per cent increase, reports from the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets and the state employment service said. Wisconsin farmers reported that farm laborers are now receiving an average rate of $31.25 a month with board, $45 without board. On Apr. 1, 1936, the average wage rate was $26.75 with board, $38.75 without.

Wisconsin Rapids—Three non-union candidates for the board of education, Claredona Hougen, Earl Sherman and Earl Brennan, were chosen over union opponents. Those chosen were Guy Cole, secretary; John P. Kelley, president of local 531, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, and Gordon D. Shipman. The results assure the non-union forces a majority of four on the board.

Milwaukee—Incumbents survived the only state office contests in Wisconsin's spring election. Justice Joseph Martin, Green Bay, was elected to a 10 year term on the court to which he was first appointed by former Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman in 1934.

Neenah—Otto Jorgensen and August Ziegler, Neenah, each paid a fine of $50 and costs to Chris Jensen, justice of the peace, after pleading guilty to possession of a gill net.

Chippewa Falls—Three persons were killed when the machine in which they were riding was struck by a Soo Line passenger train between Cadott and Body, 16 miles east of here.

Madison—Gov. La Follette signed a bill passed by the legislature providing a $25,000 appropriation for advertising Wisconsin attractions during the remainder of the 1937 fiscal year ending June 30.

Caroline—Nearing 89 and observing his sixty-second wedding anniversary Apr. 2, Theodore Buettner continues actively engaged in the flour milling business which he started 65 years ago. His wife, 84, also is in good health.

Sauk City—Less than 24 hours after his re-election as city treasurer, William Rischmueller, 65, hanged himself here. He had been city treasurer for six years. Rischmueller was said to have been in poor health since he suffered a broken shoulder two months ago.

La Crosse—Because of prolonged strikes closing automobile plants in Michigan, particularly the Chrysler and Reo units, the Moto Meter Gauge and Equipment company was forced to shut down. The layoff, affecting 1,500 workers, is for an indefinite period, company officials said.

Ladysmith—The Rusk County Soil Conservation committee has received the second block of benefit payment checks for farmers who participated in the 1936 soil conservation program. There were some 500 checks in this block, totaling about $18,000. The first payment totaled $10,000.

Menasha—The body of Russell Poquette, 30, Menasha, with his head torn off by an explosion, was found in his wrecked automobile on the outskirts of the city. Investigation indicated that Poquette placed a piece of dynamite in his mouth and set off a fatal explosion with wires attached to his automobile battery.

Madison—A bill requiring all new automobiles sold in Wisconsin after next October to be equipped with first aid kits was passed by the assembly. The measure provides for kits which the author, Assemblyman Fritz, progressive, La Crosse, estimated would cost about 75 cents apiece. Each kit would include gauze, bandages, adhesive tape, tincture of iron, iodine and a scissors.

New London—L. M. Wright, city treasurer, reported the New London municipal light and power utility made an increase of $10,000 in earnings over the preceding year. Earnings after deducting material and operating expenses from the water department were $6,411 and from electricity $14,874. The city received a dividend of $17,500 and $3,785.83 was added to the surplus fund which now amounts to $141,019.80.

Milwaukee—Henry Ohl, jr., president of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, who for 40 years has been a member of the socialist party, has resigned from the party. The resignation of Ohl, long a leader in socialist affairs, was a direct result of the action of the special national convention of the socialist party at Chicago recently at which the party endorsed John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization, bitter rival of the A. F. of L.

Madison—Senator Ingram, progressive, Eau Claire, introduced a bill to tax all coin machines for the benefit of the state conservation fund. The measure sets up a scale of levies on penny and nickel vending machines ranging from 50 cents to $2 on each machine, taxes pinball machines $20 each, and "all other machines," including any slot machine not vending merchandise or testing skill, $100 each. These taxes would be levied upon the person in whose establishment the machines are displayed. In addition the bill would tax owners, salesmen or collectors $50 a year.

Madison—Gov. La Follette has announced the re-appointment of Harold M. Wilkie, Madison, and Robert V. Baker, jr., Kenosha, and the appointment of Arthur J. Glover, Fort Atkinson, to the board of University of Wisconsin regents. The governor announced that Wilkie, board president and regent from the second congressional district, has been appointed as a delegate of the state at large, succeeding Dr. Gunnar Gunderson, La Crosse, retired. Glover will succeed Wilkie as regent of the second congressional district. Baker retained his position as regent from the first congressional district.

Load Tractor to Its Full Limit

Labor Efficiency Demands Careful Planning by the Farmer.

By E. R. Gross, Professor of Agricultural Engineering, New Jersey College of Agriculture—WNU Service.

The most economical way to run a tractor is to load it full, just a little less than the engine will possibly carry, leaving enough margin of power to carry the machine and its load over difficult places.

Although a tractor should not be overloaded, a full load results in more work per man-hour of operation, more work per gallon of fuel and proportionally less wear and tear on the machine.

It is wasteful to allow a tractor operator to spend a day discing a field and then a second day rolling or smoothing it when the tractor would easily pull both machines, hitched in tandem, and do the two operations in one day. Labor efficiency demands better planning.

The tractor is so complicated a machine that it consumes considerable power just to keep itself going. This lost power is only slightly increased as load is added. The machine therefore becomes more and more efficient as the load is stepped up.

The same principle may be applied to the wear on the tractor. There is a definite amount of wear on the moving parts when the machine is running idle. This represents a loss to which is added the wear of carrying the load. Hence, the greater the load the less the ratio of wear to work done. These two principles of fuel consumed and wear will apply as long as the tractor is not overloaded.

The farmer should plan his field and belt operations to use as nearly as possible the full power of the tractor. Devising multiple hitches to perform two or three operations at one time and using machines of a size suited to the power of the tractor aid materially in economically organizing farming operations.

Machines Should Be in Condition for Service

The efficient farmer like the progressive manufacturer often replaces old machinery with new, which does better work and with less labor, even though the older equipment is not entirely worn out. Because of superior design, better quality materials and improved construction the capacity of the new machines may be so increased or their dependability and freedom from breakdown may be improved so much that they will pay for themselves in only a few seasons, warns a writer in the Wisconsin Agriculturist.

However, as long as older machinery is being used, every effort should be made to keep it in repair and the farm operator who desires to get his work done on time next summer will take steps at once to see that his machines are "all set and ready to go" for the busy season just ahead. Field breakdowns and delays while waiting for replacement parts, are expensive and often subject ripening crops to grave weather hazards. There are not the extra charges for telegrams and express for early orders that may be required with rush shipments. Where overhauling by mechanics is needed, more time and attention may be given than later on when emergency calls for service are frequent.

Drought-Stunted Sudan

Sudan grass and grain sorghums are among the most valuable forage crops, but these plants may develop prussic acid when growth is interfered with in any way by drought, trampling, wilting, or frosting, says Hoard's Dairymen. This is also true of wild cherry and arrowgrass. Under such conditions there is a chemical reaction between two harmless substances, a glycoside and an enzyme. However, if the forage crops may be cut, cured, and then fed without danger of prussic acid poisoning.

With the Beekeepers

Many commercial beekeepers started in a very modest way with only one or two hives. With this experience and by keeping abreast of the times they have forged ahead. The beginner who progresses is the man who attends bee meetings whenever possible in order to mingle with successful beekeepers, and reads books on the subject, and who also observes the bees himself, asserts a writer in the Montreal Herald. It pays to keep up with the latest developments in beekeeping as it does in other lines.

Moon-Blindness

Moon-blindness is an inflammation or clouding of the interior of the eye, which usually comes on very suddenly. It may appear again and again in the same animal, becoming worse each time until the animal is totally blind. The exact cause of moon-blindness has never been discovered. Disease germs, unfavorable feeding and stabling conditions, constant eye-strain, advancing age and grazing on low ground have all been blamed.

Grass Cheap Dairy Feed

"Pasture grasses furnish the dairyman with the cheapest source of feed," says the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. Tabulation of costs of growing various crops, gathered from 18 states, showed grasses cost the farmer only 64 cents for each 100 pounds of digestible nutrients, compared to 83 cents for alfalfa, 97 cents for clover hay, and $1.54 for corn silage. Oats are at the other extreme with a cost of $2.02.

EGGS IMPORTANT IN IDEAL DIET

Their Frequent Use Now Is Held Vital to Health.

By EDITH M. BARBER

OUR ancestors considered eggs more or less an accessory food. Early man used them as emergency rations when meat was scarce or lacking. The Romans are known to have liked them at the beginning of a meal, perhaps as part of what we now call hors d'oeuvres. From this custom came the phrase "from eggs to apples," signifying the beginning and end of a meal.

Although in many parts of the world people are not particular in regard to the source of the eggs which they eat, when we speak of eggs in this country we are almost invariably referring to the product of the hen. We like the delicate flavor and, fortunately, birds of the chicken family have proved easy to domesticate.

While eggs are considered with meat and fish as protein-bearing foods, their contribution of minerals and vitamins is most important. All these assets, however, with the exception of protein, which is furnished by both the yolk and the white, are concentrated in the former. For this reason the yolk of the egg is added to the diet of the infant, while the white is usually reserved for some time later. In the ideal diet of both children and adults, eggs should figure several times during the week.

French Omelet.

6 eggs
6 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter

Beat the eggs slightly, add water and seasonings. Melt the butter in a hot frying pan and pour in the mixture. Cook gently until edges set, then with a knife lift and let the liquid run underneath. Brown, fold and turn on to a hot platter.

Cheese Cake.

1 package zwieback
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
5/8 cups cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs
1 cup cream

Roll the zwieback into crumbs and mix with the two tablespoons of sugar and butter. Blend thoroughly and put into a nine-inch spring pan and press evenly on the bottom. Mix the one cup of sugar with flour and salt and cream together with the cream cheese. Add the vanilla and the egg yolks; add cream and mix again. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into spring form and bake in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit) about an hour, or until the center is set.

Baked Cheese Omelet.

1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 pound American cheese. Rub through grater
4 eggs
1 cup hot water
1/2 teaspoon salt

Pour water over bread crumbs, and add salt, cheese and well-beaten yolks of eggs. Mix thoroughly, and fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until firm.

Tomatoes With Cheese and Eggs.

1 can tomatoes
1 clove garlic
8 hard-cooked eggs
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup American cheese, grated
2 cups soft bread crumbs
4 tablespoons butter or other fat

Rub a baking dish with the cut clove of garlic. Divide the contents of the can of tomatoes into two equal parts. Add half the contents of the can to the baking dish; slice four hard-cooked eggs and lay the slices on the tomatoes, cover with one-half the sugar, salt, paprika and white pepper mixed together; sprinkle one-half cup of cheese over this, then put a layer of bread crumbs over the cheese and dot this with two tablespoons butter. Repeat the process, using the remainder of the tomatoes, eggs, seasonings, cheese, crumbs and butter. Bake about 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit), or until the top layer of crumbs is nicely browned.

Stuffed Eggs.

6 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon mixed mustard
1/2 teaspoon onion juice
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Shell the eggs, cut in halves and remove yolks carefully. Mash yolks thoroughly, add mayonnaise and seasonings. Mix well and refill the shells with this mixture. Serve on a bed of parsley or other green as a first course or with a salad.

Onion Soup.

Put contents of two or three cans of onion soup into an earthenware casserole. Cover with one-inch slices of french bread, sprinkle liberally with grated Parmesan cheese and bake in a hot oven about ten minutes or until the cheese melts. Serve with extra Parmesan cheese. © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Sources of Illness.

Ice boxes and cupboards are frequently the source to which one may trace the beginning of illness. Placing unclean ice in ice boxes on the back porch, where dust sifts into the food, is a dangerous practice.

Iodine Stains.

Cover an iodine stain with cornstarch and wet it in cold water or milk. Let it stand until stain disappears. Change cornstarch if necessary.

AROUND the HOUSE

A Mirror Brightens—Many housekeepers have found that a hanging mirror will often brighten up a dark corner.

Useful Velvet—If you are making anything of velvet do not throw away the pieces of material left over. Save them for using as polishers for your black-leaded stoves and for your shoes. You'll get a real mirror-like shine on both if you rub them with velvet after the usual polish has been applied.

To Remove a Tight Lid—Tie a piece of string round the tin two or three times, just below the lid; then push a pencil between the string and the tin, twist the pencil over, and the resulting pressure will release the lid.

Use Baking Sheets—Baking powder biscuits and cookies rise better and brown more evenly on baking sheets than they do in pans.

Removing Grease Stains—Grease stains can be removed from cement walks and porches with a poultice made by dissolving four ounces of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of water and mixing in whiting until a paste the consistency of mortar is obtained and plastering a layer of this over the stained area. When dry remove with a trowel or putty knife.

Removing Tea Stains—Tea and coffee stains can sometimes be removed from china cups by rubbing them with a damp cloth dipped in baking soda.

A Supper Special—One cup left-over cooked vegetables, four eggs, half-teaspoonful salt, dash of pepper, half-cup grated cheese. Break the eggs and beat the yolks and whites together. Stir in the vegetables. Add pepper and salt. Put in greased baking dish. Cover with grated cheese and bake in hot oven ten minutes.

Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb—One shoulder of lamb, two tablespoons chopped onion, three tablespoons cooking fat, two cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon chopped mint, one tablespoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Have the shoulder blade removed. This

Uncle Phil Says:

Haste Versus Hurry

There is a distinction between haste and hurry—hurry adding to the element of confusion. Good deeds are scarcer than bad ones, but one evil act will keep people talking longer than a hundred good ones.

A trained mind deserves the companionship of a cultured heart. Peace, to any of the great powers, seems to involve its own domination over the others.

Unsatisfying Retribution

Observant men have made up their minds to this: Retribution is seldom adequate.

A man of culture is respected for it. Don't be afraid of acquiring it, only be sure of getting enough.

The eager expectancy of youth is the source of so much enthusiasm for a better world.

Most envy, says the old-timer, is based on the fact that he failed to see the chance the other fellow took.

There seems to be a conspiracy of incidents to keep you from being on time.

Take a Hand in the Doings

To enjoy a celebration, be one of the performers in it instead of a looker-on.

Self-denial is good for everyone notwithstanding each enforcement of it nearly ruins one's temper.

Mothers used to tell their children that the bears would get them. Now they say automobiles.

We are all busy seeing the other fellow's duty; and generally it is a fact that he isn't doing it.

When a man is a failure, he seldom wants advice. That's what he's always had.

"Quotations"

An adequate revival of international trade will be the most powerful single force for easing political tensions and averting the danger of war.—Cardell Hull.

I cannot stand a sad expression on someone's face. I wish to see everyone happy, smiling and enjoying himself.—Ignace Jan Paderewski.

Why Firestone GROUND GRIP TIRES GIVE MORE TRACTION

The patented scientific arrangement and spacing of the deep, rugged bars of the tread make this tire self-cleaning. It will not clog or ball up, thus providing clean traction with every turn of the wheel. The deep rugged tread is held inseparably to the cord body because every cotton fiber in every cord has been soaked in pure liquid rubber by the Firestone Patented Process of Gum-Dipping. This gives the tire much greater strength to resist the strains of the extra "pull."

Ground Grip Tires save 25 per cent in time and 25 per cent in fuel. They give more traction and drawbar pull—ride easier and cut down repair bills. You can save time and money by equipping your tractors, trucks and farm implements with Ground Grip Tires. See your Implement Dealer, Firestone Tire Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store today.

The NEW GEHL

HERE is the outstanding Manure Spreader in regard to strength, handling, and quality of work. Many years of experience by GEHL engineers are reflected in its superior points of improvement.

A REAL Spreader

A better method of attaching the all-steel beaters and building them larger to eliminate twine wrapping, also gives great advantage in pulverizing and spreading. Easier draft, shorter turning and greater load capacity are due to the short wheel base and

Auto-Type Front and I-Beam Axle

The super-strong, I-beam steel axle is of the oscillating type set well back under load. Wheels are adjustable and do not "plow" in making sharp turn. Spreader is low and easy to load. A boy and two horses can operate it.

Many all-steel beaters give the GEHL unequalled excellence in pulverizing and spreading evenly.

Front wheels have oil-sealed maple bearings which wear longer and are easier to replace.

Positive chain lift; easy to operate, lifts chain higher and when in gear engages more cog.

C.I.O.—THE NEW TIDE IN LABOR

Unions Learn to Use Mass Production Methods

Leaders Meet Big Business On Its Own Ground

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

LABOR in the mass production industries can protect its rights only by adopting the same mass production methods its employers use. That is the theory of the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by bull-dog jawed, shaggy-browed John L. Lewis. The effectiveness of this appeal and the thoroughness of its practice in the recent sit-down strikes has all America speculating as to what is the eventual place in the sun for the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Does John L. Lewis want to be President? Does he want to be able to name the man who will succeed F. D. R.? Will his left-wing labor movement be content to form a powerful force to insure higher wages, better hours, fatter working conditions? Or is it bent on complete social revolution?

It is still too early to tell. But it is not difficult to understand why so many labor students believe that C. I. O. will assume an importance to which the craft unions and the American Federation of Labor have never risen.

This is not to say that C. I. O. is not a force to be reckoned with. It is not only in industries which are organized on a craft basis. Workers in such industries are scattered over the country in comparatively small groups.

Employers Regarded Impersonally. In the largest industries—such as automobiles, steel, textiles, glass, oil, and a few others—workers are concentrated in a few large groups. Development of the machine and the assembly line is eliminating the necessity for skilled craft labor and equalizing the importance of all types of workers.

In one of these industries working conditions are the same throughout the entire industry. If scores of plants are controlled by the same big corporation, as in the case of the automobile firms, there is usually a general labor policy which is uniform throughout. The individual worker feels that the company for little under such a policy, especially if the owners of his plant are in another city. If he is regarded as impersonally by his employers, he must bargain with them just as impersonally. This can be accomplished, the C. I. O. tells him, when he and his fellows band together in one big industrial, or vertical, union.

Large industries are organized on a mass production basis. Their policies toward labor are determined and administered from a central point. C. I. O. even contends that a few wealthy interests have concentrated control of all large industries in Wall Street and present a united front against labor. Therefore it is necessary for the workers to present a united front against industry.

Acting on this premise, the C. I. O. has built up a closely integrated network of industrial unions. Policies for all of them are directed from C. I. O. headquarters in Washington. Whenever there is trouble in one industry, the C. I. O. is thus able to bring the full measure of its strength and wealth to bear in the situation.

Sit-down strikes cost money, but C. I. O. has it. In these, the early industry needs expert advice and physical aid in picketing. It can send experienced men from the United Mine Workers to organize member unions in other industries. Make no mistake about it. Labor under the C. I. O. is big business. Initiation fees, special assessments and dues place millions of dollars at its disposal. This means C. I. O. has the wherewithal to expand from one efficiency permits. The part John L. Lewis played in swaying the labor vote in the last election guarantees that C. I. O. shall have plenty of friends in federal and state governments.

C. I. O. leaders are taking full advantage of their power. The very potentialities of the C. I. O. modus operandi continue to attract brilliant, effective young leaders who are a far cry from the traditional labor leaders of the past. They are not toughs and loud-mouths. They can read and write. Many of them are college-educated; some are actually "career men." They do not operate in grimy little offices with battered cuspidors and nothing but the cobwebs to keep the plaster from falling off the ceiling. When they meet with industrialists they are ready to talk the industrialists' language. Their offices are just as modern as those of their opponents. And frequently they know more about the enemy's business than the enemy does.

C. I. O. leaders know the wisdom of keeping friendly relations with the press. Chairman John L. Lewis is shown here making a statement to reporters.

These new leaders know that modern methods command the respect not only of the leaders of the of radio, press and moving picture news reel propaganda. Their speakers travel the road, using sound-cars where they will be most effective, just as the political orators did during the 1936 campaign.

They tell the worker of the reasons for this new movement which we have covered above. They also tell him that his "economic frontier" has disappeared; he can no longer, if he is dissatisfied, pick up and head west for new ventures, or get himself a job in another industry.

Well Armed With Facts.

They teach the worker that if he would obtain his social rights he must be concerned with more than wages and hours. C. I. O. tells him he must be assured of authority in determining the conditions under which he shall work. He must have some safeguard against the speeding up of production to an extent where the pace will hurt him physically and may unreasonably cut down the number of jobs to be had. He must have assurance that his grievances will be adjusted fairly.

There must be a definite understanding as to the operations of the rules of seniority. All these things C. I. O. promises to accomplish for him.

C. I. O. leaders seldom can be bulldozed by the representatives of industry. They are well enough informed to recognize any tricks or misstatements at once. Their research departments arm them with statistics fully as convincing as those of the companies with whom they are dealing. C. I. O. knows a corporation's financial statement from A to Z, and its research department has read between the lines.

The corporations have clever lawyers who can tell their executives how to get around certain legal difficulties, and are ever at hand to advise in negotiations. So has the C. I. O. Its lawyers in New York, Washington, Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other cities are a match for the corporation lawyers. Legal advice is important in keeping the central organization clear of charges which might be pressed against it in the conduct of sit-down strikes which have been held illegal by most authorities.

Even the high-powered propaganda and public relations corps of industry has not been able to outdo the C. I. O. Newspaper men of wide experience handle the press relations of the C. I. O., and they have done a good job—in much the same way that the industrial press agents have wooed public opinion by inducing corporation executives to cooperate with the press.

The C. I. O. press agents have been careful to cultivate the most favorable relations with all newspapers, whether they are friendly, hostile or lukewarm. They give reporters "tip-offs" when it is likely some big news will break. "They send out mimeographed 'releases' of stories citing the union's side of a controversy. What is probably most important of all, they make sure that individuals in the union behave themselves in the presence of the press, never preventing a photographer from getting his picture or giving a reporter a discourteous reply. They encourage the leaders to sit down with the press and discuss problems "frankly."

There are few tricks of psychology. C. I. O. overflows. C. I. O. is determined to get somewhere. But how far?

days of its program, the United Mine Workers, John L. Lewis' first love, have borne the brunt of the expense. They contributed most of the half million dollars needed to organize the steel workers, the hundreds of thousands to conduct the General Motors strike and the Chrysler strike.

Millions at C. I. O. Disposal. The advantage of the central organization is further emphasized by the speed with which it is able to assist member unions in emergencies. It trains squads of organizers in one industry and is able to send them in a hurry to any point where a member union in that or another industries in which they are active, but of their own following. They use airplanes to speed from council to council. They engage the best suites in the best hotels. Their offices are located in the finest buildings.

Leaders are chosen from diverse fields in which there are C. I. O. member unions. They form a board of strategy not unlike the boards of directors of the firms with which they are dealing.

Working together harmoniously, these leaders are using the methods of the big industries to sell their ideas to the workers and to the public. They have hired experts in the creation and dissemination

National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Silly Law Doomed
Washington.—Senator McKellar, Tennessee Democrat, arose in the senate recently to offer a bill that would repeal a provision of law prohibiting the employment of both man and wife by the government. It has been in effect since the summer of 1933. The provision ought to be and probably will be repealed because, as far as I can see, there is actually no sense in the national government refusing to employ efficient workers because a man's wife or a woman's husband already is on the federal payroll.

It was not the importance of this particular repeal proposal, however, that interested me. Senator McKellar's action was significant and interesting only because when repeal of the so-called marriage clause and federal law was proposed, it marked the beginning of the end of one of the most abortive pieces of legislation that has been on our statute books. I refer to the so-called economy act of 1933.

I cannot refrain from recalling a prediction that I made when the economy act was before congress in 1933. It was introduced and supported by the New Deal legislature in an effort to carry out a campaign promise made when President Roosevelt was running for office in 1932. You will remember that he promised to reduce the cost of government twenty-five per cent, saying in many speeches that the cost of government was too high and that a reduction in taxes was necessary. It will be recalled like wise how he said that "Taxes come from the sweat of every man who works."

Well, the economy act was driven through, despite declaration from many senators and many representatives that it was impossible to mutilate the structure of government as proposed in that bill and still have a government that would function properly. And here were some of the most ridiculous provisions in that legislation to come before congress in many years: They worked injustices on veterans of the World War, on farmers, on the armed government workers, on the army and navy and marine corps, and hamstrung and handicapped government agencies in a manner I had not seen in my long experience as an observer of national affairs.

It was on that occasion that I made the prediction mentioned above, and to which I call attention because of the McKellar proposal for repeal of the marriage clause. I wrote at that time my definite conviction that the economy law was silly; that it would work hardships and that its basis was ninety per cent politics. I predicted further that within a year the politicians in the house and senate who had shouted so loudly about economy would begin to chisel various provisions out of that law. And now we see the end.

The end of the law has come but not the end of its effects. Practices in federal government administration that had been operating satisfactorily and very efficiently throughout the years were thrown into the discard and new ideas substituted. The discarded methods were the development of experience and were serving the purposes for which they were intended. Some of them have been restored and are again functioning as they should but one can wander around through the maze of government corridors and find attempts still being made to make schemes work that are unwise in practice, schemes, from the mind of theorists. It will be a number of years before the effects of the economy act will be obliterated.

Spending Orgy
As the chiseling began and the economy act fell to pieces under sounder thinking, there was launched the greatest spending orgy any nation ever witnessed. It has continued with unabated peculiarity and is still continuing notwithstanding the fact that within the last few weeks we have heard statements from administration sources to the effect that administration expenditures will be cut. The fact is they have not been cut.

But the average person outside of Washington sees and hears only the relation of the totals of government spending such as relief for the destitute and vast programs of public building. They do not hear nor do they see what is going on among agencies of the government that relate to comparatively small items of money outgo. It is these small items, when taken together, that bulk so large even though by comparison with relief the total appears insignificant.

I am going to call attention to just one item, a small item as government expenses go, about which I suspect most persons who do me the honor to read these articles have had little information because they are in a position to see only isolated examples. I refer to government publications.

Representative Taber of New York called attention to the condition respecting government publications recently when the house appropriations committee was holding hearings on a bill appropriating funds for several government departments.

Mr. Taber estimated that government publications were costing in the neighborhood of twenty-million-dollars a year. He called them administration propaganda.

Washington.—Senator McKellar, Tennessee Democrat, arose in the senate recently to offer a bill that would repeal a provision of law prohibiting the employment of both man and wife by the government. It has been in effect since the summer of 1933. The provision ought to be and probably will be repealed because, as far as I can see, there is actually no sense in the national government refusing to employ efficient workers because a man's wife or a woman's husband already is on the federal payroll.

I mentioned the distribution of official statements for the press and to voters throughout the country. There is no way, as far as I can see, to calculate the total, but one Washington correspondent recently took occasion to weigh the output of press statements from the Department of Agriculture for one week. His curiosity had been aroused by the tremendous volume that had been delivered to his office—both by mail and by special messenger—and so he weighed the week's gist. It totaled more than three and one-half pounds. This, as I said, was from only one department and the weight was the weight of the paper alone.

One need not employ a great deal of imagination to think of the cost involved. First there was the paper itself. In the second place there was the cost of typing the material and then of mimeographing it. But before it reached either one of these stages, it was necessary that a vast amount of work be done by well paid men and women writers and research workers who prepared the material that was used whether in mimeographing or in printing.

There are two publications that come to my desk regularly that strike me as being extraordinarily expensive. The "Consumers Guide," a product of the Agriculture Adjustment administration and the "Electrication News," published by the Rural Electrification administration, are the two most expensive and most elaborate periodicals that I regularly see. They are sent out free not only to the Washington correspondents but to thousands upon thousands of voters—to any voter whose name either agency obtains. And they are paid for out of taxpayers' money.

Typographically, each of these periodicals is exceptionally well done from a magazine standpoint. They are replete with pictures, and copper engraving is expensive; the articles and news items contained in them are well written, thus showing that good writers are on the pay rolls of these agencies.

And so it is throughout the government. Everywhere a correspondent goes among government offices he meets "federal workers," among the government personnel, engaged in preparing and distributing the government's stories for public reading.

Franking Abuse
Now, let me touch on another phase of the cost of government publications. I refer to the use of the franking privilege. As everyone knows, government mail goes through the United States mails without the payment of postage. That does not mean, however, that the steamships or the airplanes or the railroads that mail free. The only difference between that mail and the letters you write or receive is that the government pays the transportation on the pound basis and no stamps are used. It is bulk transportation whereas when you and I mail letters we pay the cost of transportation on those letters to the government by means of a postage stamp.

It is entirely proper and reasonable that government mail should not require postage stamps. It would simply be pocketing government money out of one pocket and putting it in another. Yet, in the end you and I, as taxpayers, pay for the transportation of the government mail and we pay for the millions of pieces that are sent out from the various government departments.

Since these are the facts, it is necessary in attempting to calculate the cost of government publications to realize that they are being hauled on the lines of transportation and delivered through the post offices and by your letter carrier at government expense. It is an item of cost that can be overlooked but what amounts to in total I know of no living person who can tell.

Chameleons
The change of color in chameleons and certain frogs is a very interesting phenomenon in nature. Many complicated factors enter into these changes, but in general, they are caused by the expansion and contraction of the pigment cells in the superficial layers of the skin. The cells are lined up with the sympathetic and central nervous system by means of nerve fibers, and they all act in harmony as the result of a common stimulus, which may be due to moisture, light, or temperature conditions, cerebral excitement, food, or the creature's physiological condition; or the surroundings acting through its eyes.

Smart, Flattering Dresses

MRS. DICK EVANS has come to town and brought Ann and Eddie LeRoy with her. She lives in Palm Beach in the wintertime and, of course, knows all about style. That's why she wears this director type frock that is both new and figure flattering. In the floral print she has chosen she is perfectly governed for the parties that will be given for her in the home town. The kiddies are wearing the simple styles appropriate to childhood and therein their smartness lies.

for little children and the delicate patterns for the mature figure. Afternoon dresses for the particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Send 15 cents today for your copy. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1121 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago. Price of patterns, 15 cents (coins) each.

Auntie Rose Sews, Too. Little Ann is asking Auntie Rose if she makes her clothes too. "Sure enough, dear," comes the reply. "I made this percale for mornings and have a beauty in yellow crepe cut from the same pattern to wear to the Bid-or-Bid meetings."

"I'll bet you can sew fast, too, the way Mother does. It only took her two mornings to make Eddie's suit and my dress. Won't you help me with my doll clothes now?"

"Indeed I will, Ann, and then we'll have some of those oatmeal cookies you like for lunch."

The Patterns. Pattern 1272 is available in sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material and 2 1/2 yards of ribbon for the belt. Who Are the Rich? SIR ERNEST CASSELL, who was enormously rich and influential, left this message to the world: "Most people put too much belief in the theory that wealth brings happiness. Perhaps I, being well-to-do, may be entitled to say that it is not so. The things that are most worth having are things that money cannot buy. I am a lonely man. This bears out the Cingalese proverb, which says, 'He which is happy is rich, but it does not follow that he who is rich is happy.'"—Lord Baden-Powell.

He began to work with a new intensity. Mary Ann, facing him across Dan's body, sensed this, and looked at him quickly. But she said nothing, asked no question, continued like a machine to supplement in every way his efforts with her own.

And presently, as his senses cleared, Doctor Greeding began to feel, with that fine instinct of the surgeon which is so often right with-out any tangible reason for its con-clusion, that Dan might be saved. All went so smoothly. The bullet had been driven by a light powder-charge—by a target, rather than a service-load. Also, the ball had struck Dan's belt and thus lost some of its force, so that its destructive effect was less than might otherwise have been the case.

Thus the wound itself was as mild as possible—though deadly se-rious enough. But also there seemed to Doctor Greeding ground for hope in the fact that this absurd, irregu-lar surgical procedure insisted on performing itself without the least touch of razor-blades instead of the blunt scissors for dissection, threaded and seamed in place of snaps, clumsily bent spoons for retractors, each in his hands so incredibly shrewd and skillful served their purpose well, and at the moment the supply of gauze for sponges neared exhaustion, Jerrell and Thomas came racing up the path, bringing all that might be required.

When Doctor Greeding saw the end of the task in sight, he spoke to Nancy. "Enough either—take the towel away now." She obeyed, and he finished, sure that what he had done was well done; with a nod to Mary Ann, he withdrew from the table where Dan lay. He went to the sink to wash his hands. Nancy was there, leaning back against the drain-board, white and still. Doctor Greeding looked at his daughter, and he asked gently:

"Head ache? It's the fumes. Get out of doors. We must keep Dan warm, can't open any windows here."

Nancy went obediently toward the kitchen door, and Mary Ann said: "We'll move him into the dining-room, arrange some sort of screen around him there to keep off drafts."

Doctor Greeding nodded. He said wearily: "It's been a strain. My head's aching. A surgeon should never operate on his friends!"

"You did all that could be done, did it perfectly," Mary Ann assured him; and she asked, with a sudden weakening in her tones, her first confession of fear: "Tell me what you think!"

Doctor Greeding hesitated. "Every-thing was as fortunate as possi-ble," he said. "There are many per-forations, as you say. That was in-avoidable. But not much poisonous matter free. Of course, all we could do was repair the damage, and drain the wound, and—wait. You know that as well as I." He added: "Yet—I believe he will get better!"

With Thomas and Jerrell helping, they carried Dan into the dining-room, and laid a mattress on the table for his bed, and set a fire on the hearth.

And thus began the vigil that must endure for days. Doctor Greeding assumed command. "Another pro-cedure may be necessary later," he explained. "I'll get whatever we are likely to need, have it ready." He telephoned to Boston and ar-ranged that a full kit should be dis-patched by messenger. He suggest-ed a nurse; but Mary Ann negat-ived that.

"I shall be within call always," she said. "And Nancy will want to help. Any unnecessary people could only add to the confusion. He needs quiet, needs to sleep."

He assented. "Yes, that's true," he agreed.

"But I must let Father know," she remembered.

Doctor Greeding said quickly: "Of course." And he urged: "Have him come up here, Mary Ann." He was suddenly and for no tangible reason eager to see Professor Carlisle again.

"Jerrell took this matter in hand; he volunteered to drive to Boston and fetch Dan's father. 'It's bet-ter than having him make the trip alone,' he said. 'And—I must con-fess my fault to him, Mary Ann.'"

She reassured him. "It wasn't your fault. It was an accident," she urged. Yet she let him go.

Thomas took him in the boat to the landing where he had left his car. He would, they decided, return next day.

Dusk began to creep across the lake and cloak the island. Dan was drowsily conscious, murmur-ing absurdities and realizing their absurdity and chuckling at himself; and Nancy, close by him, holding his hand, laughed with him ever so tenderly. Mary Ann had made a couch in the billiard-room, close by where he lay. After dinner—they ate in the kitchen, in relays, one of them always by his side—Mary Ann insisted that Doctor Greeding go to bed for a while.

"I'll call you later," she prom-ised. "Nancy will stay with him, and I'll sleep here, and we'll call you!"

So Doctor Greeding went to his room; but at first he did not sleep. He turned on all the lights, unwill-ing that there should be anywhere a shadowed corner in which any-thing or nothing might be hidden. The man's nerves began to twitch restlessly. He had a sense of dark forces gathering like a smothering cloud. He slept at last uneasily; and when at last some one came tapping at his door, he woke with a bound and a cry.

"It's Nancy, Father," the girl said reassuringly, through the pan-els. "It's all right. Nothing's hap-pened. Only Mary Ann thought you might come down for a while now."

"At once," he promised, steadily enough; yet it was in fact some time before he was sufficiently com-posed to face them. When he came downstairs, he found Mary Ann by Dan's side, Nancy half asleep in a great chair near. Doctor Greeding touched Dan's wrist, his brow, and nodded reassuringly; and Mary Ann smiled. She went to spread a blanket gently over Nancy.

"You lie down too," Doctor Greeding directed.

She obeyed him, white and weary; and Doctor Greeding was left with the hurt man. He stood beside Dan for a moment; then he too sat down—sat without moving, while long thoughts absorbed him.

Sometime later he looked toward Nancy. Her eyes were open. He saw the glint of them.

"Awake, dear?" he murmured. She smiled. "I had a bad dream," she whispered. "But it's all right if you're here." And she sighed, and slept again. Her faith was like a draft of warming wine.

Hours later Nancy roused, and came and stood with her hand touching Dan's. His fingers closed faintly over hers.

"He knows me," Nancy whis-pered; and Dan muttered: "Nancy. There?"

"Here always, Dan. Hush now, darling. Sleep."

She held him in her love as a mother holds a babe in arms. Doctor Greeding drew back into the shadows while she took his place at her lover's side. And so at last the long night ended, darkness yield-ing to the warm gray of dawn.

CHAPTER X

There followed days of waiting, of that inaction which is so much more difficult than action, when they could only tend the hurt man, and seek to cheer him with their smiles, feeding with the fuel of their un-tainted strength the flickering fire of life that burned in him. Sometimes he was in torment, but he managed to grin despite the pain, hiding his anguish behind a brave mask of mirth from these folk who loved him.

He did this deceive Nancy; but at such hours his brow was wet, and Mary Ann knew he suffered, and eased him as she could.

Doctor Greeding himself seldom went far from where the hurt man lay. He clung to Dan's proximity, as a mariner in stormy weather clings to safe anchorage, with a jealous diligence. Here was his task and his desire; to make sure, first of all, that Dan came back to health again. He would not by even a brief absence take the least risk of failure.

The vigil left its mark upon him, so that even Mary Ann urged him to rest, to walk around the island, or take a boat-ride, or find some other means of distraction.

"You need it," she insisted. "You're deadly tired."

"I'm all right," he protested. "I'll stand by."

Jerrell and Professor Carlisle had arrived early on the first morning, having left Cambridge at dawn. Doctor Greeding welcomed them. There was rising in him a deep affection for these folk, a new per-ception of the kindness and under-standing in them all. Jerrell, for in-stance, had not offered to throw the resources of his wealth at their disposal; his silence seemed to as-sure that whatever could be done for Dan, they would do. Some men, Doctor Greeding reflected, would have displayed the arrogance natural to financial power; would have insisted on summoning other physicians, nurses, on importing hospital facilities of every kind. He liked Jerrell for his reticence in this direction.

And Doctor Greeding had, where the others were concerned, even more personal reasons for grati-tude. The accident to Dan was, after all, his fault; and Nancy, and Dan too—since they were familiar with firearms—must that wise bold man, whose shrewd eyes saw so much, who might be keen enough to suspect, and even to credit, the incredible. He perceived that ques-tions multiplied in the other's mind; but so long as he himself stayed near Dan, who must overbear any catechism that might be attempted, Professor Carlisle could not inter-rogate him.

And—Doctor Greeding had no an-swers ready for the old man's un-asked questions; so he clung to Dan as a buckler and a shield.

He and Mary Ann and Nancy shared that vigil; but he bore the greater burden. It was as though he poured his own life and strength into the hurt man. He seemed in fact visibly to fail while Dan grew stronger. For Dan's strength did begin to return, his color to im-prove; and his spirits were brave and unshaken.

Doctor Greeding, by contrast, be-gan to look like an ill man. Nancy paid him a heavenly tenderness. And Mary Ann entered with her in-to this conspiracy of gentleness to-ward the man who so visibly grew weary and drawn before their eyes. She said to him, once, at dawn:

"You mustn't wear yourself out, Doctor." And she added, under-standingly: "Father told me you blame yourself for Dan's being hurt. But that's wrong. You mustn't wor-ry. Grief and worry can make you ill, and Dan doesn't blame you. None of us do."

He said: "I wonder if that's why Dan's getting better. Because he's not blaming me, not—hating me."

But Professor Carlisle waited, watching Doctor Greeding; and the surgeon said explicitly:

"No, Ira." He spoke to Dan's father. "You see, Professor Carlisle, I had just fired the pistol. I removed the empty clip, thinking I had fired the last cartridge. Most accidents with automatics occur through just such carelessness as mine. I should have worked the action to be sure that the barrel was empty. I neglected to do this. I should have made sure the gun was empty before giving it to Jerrell."

He smiled frankly. "No one has blamed me," he confessed. "They've all been mighty kind and generous. But it was my fault, just the same."

Neither man spoke; and he added honestly:

"As a matter of fact, this was worse than carelessness. With that particular pistol, if the barrel is empty, the action stays half-open. The fact that it was closed should have warned me that there was still a cartridge in the barrel. I was in-credibly stupid!"

There was a moment's silence. Then Jerrell said uncomfortably: "Decent of you to say that, Ned. But after all, if I hadn't pointed the gun at Dan—"

He added, in an incredulous recollection: "I didn't mean to, tried not to. I can't understand it, even now. It was exactly as if some-one's hand, on mine, swung the pis-tol toward Dan—"

"If it had been empty, you could have done no harm," Doctor Greeding insisted.

Professor Carlisle looked keenly at the Doctor. "No one is—blam-able for an accident," he remarked. "This of course was an accident. Let it rest so."

And he repeated his question of a moment before. "You think he will recover?"

"Yes." "Why?" the older man inquired. "On what signs do you rely?"

Doctor Greeding hesitated, shook his head, smiled. "I don't know," he said. "Instinct. A guess, per-haps." He chuckled. "Or it may be that I'm ruckled on my luck. I was born under a caul, Professor. The old women say that's a sign of luck, you know; and I've always been lucky, certainly."

Professor Carlisle sat down, al-most suddenly, as though he were tired. His eyes still on Doctor Greeding's face, he filled his pipe and lighted it. So presently he spoke.

"Born under a caul, were you, Doctor?" he repeated thoughtfully. And he said: "I remember you once told me some strange experi-ences of a friend of yours, who was also born under a caul."

Doctor Greeding felt his cheek flame; then the blood drained away, and he cursed his folly, his own loose tongue. There was no accusa-tion in the Professor's tone; yet Doctor Greeding felt himself ac-cused.

"Yes, so I did," he confessed lamely.

Professor Carlisle puffed at his pipe, his old eyes stern and still. "Strange things do happen," he said gravely, "—some things too dark for the human mind to contemplate." He met Doctor Greeding's glance. "I perceive," he said, "that Dan and Nancy—"

"Yes, I am much pleased," Doc-tor Greeding said hurriedly.

"You do not—object?" the Pro-fessor asked.

"No," the other man assured him. "No!" And he said: "Strange things, yes. Dan's recovery—I think he will recover—is almost like a miracle, for instance." Some-thing like an appeal for mercy was in his tone.

The old man said inflexibly: "Yes. If he does recover."

And at that, abruptly, Doctor Greeding turned away and went out through the billiard-room to where Dan lay. He questioned Mary Ann with a glance.

"He's fine," she said. "Not much pain, and no temperature. Doctor, you mustn't—doubt. He'll get bet-ter." She smiled hearteningly. "He's bound to. This is one of your mi-racles, you know."

"It's already twenty-four hours," he reflected. "Would draining?"

"Perfectly." "I'll stay with him for a while," he suggested. "If you want to—rest."

And he did in fact stay close to Dan's side during the days that fol-lowed. This was not all solicitude for Dan. It was in part defensive; since so long as he stayed near Dan—who was conscious and ration-ally now—he need not be alone with Professor Carlisle.

There was in Doctor Greeding a passionate desire to avoid that wise bold man, whose shrewd eyes saw so much, who might be keen enough to suspect, and even to credit, the incredible. He perceived that ques-tions multiplied in the other's mind; but so long as he himself stayed near Dan, who must overbear any catechism that might be attempted, Professor Carlisle could not inter-rogate him.

Hate and anger are poisonous things, Mary Ann. They can de-stroy a man, if he harbors them." She purred smilingly: "Nobody hates anybody here."

He said gently: "You're a very fine woman, Mary Ann." There was a question in his mind, but he did not ask it. There was no need. To any discerning eye, it was clear enough that between Mary Ann and Jerrell there was a bond which grew stronger in these days under the same roof together. Jerrell seemed younger each day; and Mary Ann wore radiance like a garment, and a happy certainty and pride.

The second day after Dan's hurt, there was a change in the weather. It grew warmer, and a hot haze ob-scured the sky, diffusing the rays of the sun. Dan suffered from the heat, as they all did; yet the day passed somehow. After dinner, Nan-cy and Doctor Greeding went out on the open terrace in front of the house, where a faint breeze stirred. The stars were obscured by the haze across the sky; and Nancy said:

"I need a shower, Father, to clear the air." He nodded. "Tomorrow, prob-ably," he said. "It's never uncom-fortably hot here for very long."

They stood side by side, her arm through his. "But I don't think I shall ever like it here again," she confessed.

He was shaken. "No? Why, Nan-cy?" "I think partly because Dan was—hurt here," she decided. "And—it can't ever be the same without Mother. When Dan can be moved, let's go back to Cambridge, Fa-ther. Sell the island."

"I wish you'd stay here with me," he suggested. "For a while, for this last time..."

She said, with the blind cruelty of youth: "I hate leaving you, Fa-ther. But—I want to be with Dan, always. Life's so short! I know that now. We've so little time. I don't want to miss a single day I might have with him!"

"I shall be lonely without you Nancy," he confessed.

"I know," she nodded. "And I'm sorry. It's the way the world is, though, isn't it, Father? No mat-ter how much I love you, I must go to Dan."

He assented gravely. "Yes. And I won't try to keep you from him."

She laughed, clinging to his arm, her voice deep and warm. "You couldn't, ever," she whispered ar-dently. "No matter how you tried. Nothing ever can."

Growth of Oysters

It requires from four to six years to produce a good oyster, says a writer in Literary Digest. First the oyster clutch is planted every July. Little more than an old shell, this provides a rough surface for spawning. From a single female oyster can spawn from five to fifteen million eggs a year. On their first birthday the fittest youngsters there, they grow up for a couple of years before being taken to still another home. At least another twelve months, often two years, pass before they are harvested. The oyster season, for fishermen and eaters alike, is from September to April. In the summer they are believed too light of weight to be tasty; therefore their year is only during the "cr" months.

Magazines are the core of our modern reading and are often enlightening as well as entertaining. Many persons outside of school never read any printed matter except newspapers and magazines. For that reason our high school takes a great many magazines of various kinds to appeal to the various tastes so that the pupils can formulate a good-reading-habit of the better magazines.
About three weeks ago the students of the high school were given the opportunity to indicate by vote, what magazines subscribed for by the school were best liked by the boys and girls and which additional periodicals they would like to have. This vote was put to the student body in order to help revise the list of magazines yearly ordered by the school.
Many of the magazines and periodicals we now have are very good, but there are a number of good magazines that we do not have. There are also some magazines which we now have that are not read too frequently and could be supplemented with better ones which are more interesting and educational.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Sylvia Brudos Harris was a caller in the grammar room Monday afternoon.
The sixth grade reading class is studying the cause and prevention of floods in the Mississippi Valley. The mumps has made its appearance in the grammar room.
The art class has nearly completed its study of imitation stained glass windows.
The seventh grade social science class is working on a theme on Japan, ancient and modern.
Tuesday, April 6, the intermediate room had a perfect attendance for the first time since their Christmas vacation.
The third grade geography class is now studying "clothing materials."
Miss Dorothy Berres, teacher of the Wayne Center school, visited the intermediate and primary rooms on Wednesday morning.
Last week the intermediate pupils had a "clean finger nail contest." The fourth grade is the winner. Lois Klukas, a third grade pupil, had the best individual score.

IN THE CLASSROOMS

Following are the results of the typing test of April 9:
Advanced class—Rosemary Haug, 9 errors, 60 words per minute; Kathryn Ebenreiter, 5 errors, 48 words per minute.
Beginning class—Russell Belger, 9 errors, 47 words per minute; Eleanor Bartelt, 4 errors, 40 words per minute.
Notes are usually issued by firms or individuals for one of the three following reasons: (1) to secure an extension of time on an account payable, (2) as evidence of a loan, (3) in settlement for assets purchased.
The firm or individual that borrows money on a note is usually required to pay for the use of the money. This is known as interest and is an expense to the one borrowing the money. The bookkeeping class completed the chapters in their text book pertaining to the recording of notes payable and interest expense.
The past week the economics class has studied how price is affected by demand and supply. They have been required to draw graphs, showing both supply and demand curves and the price at which quantities offered and quantities taken are equal.
The class has now started the study of combinations and monopolies. The things they will study in this unit are the different kinds of combinations and monopolies, the various attempts made by the United States government to control combination, etc.
The physics class is studying "Electrons." This unit deals with positive and negative electricity, how electrification is brought about, the different methods of charging bodies and many other things which are phenomenal in nature, and which have caused the class some difficulty trying to figure out.
In English the freshmen are studying word, phrase and clause modifiers to show how sentences can be named.
The sophomore English class is studying a unit on conduct. They are reading the new book, "Behave Yourself," which gives advice on the etiquette to the "budding man and woman."

The juniors are learning the forms and construction of "everyday business letters."

The seniors are studying 20th century prose literature which includes essays by authors such as Hudson, John Galsworthy, Max Beerbohm, and G. K. Chesterton.

SPORTS

About 15 boys have been practicing for the past week in track. Coach Furlong is coaching the boys mostly in high jump, pole vault and broad jump.
The baseball boys have been practicing in the gym and Coach Gibson will have the boys outside as soon as the diamond is in shape for use.
A game with Grafton was already scheduled for yesterday, Thursday.

County Agent Notes

CONSERVATION PROGRAM

More than 500 farmers received agricultural conservation payments during the past week. Those who are in the program and who have not as yet received payments will be notified when their checks are received by the county office.

Township committees are meeting with farmers at the present time to assist them in planning their crop planting programs. The committees explain to the farmers what crops they may grow so as to receive farm benefits under the program. The farmers on diversion farms are told that the government has established a minimum soil building allowance of $10.00 for their farm. On most farms the allowance is much greater and the farmers are told what soil building practices they may carry out to earn this payment. On small or non-diversion farms the minimum soil building allowance is $20.00. Diversion payments cannot be earned on these farms.

The township committees have been supplied with 1936 crop rotation maps from the county soils office. These enable the farmer to state definite the various crop acreages he wishes to plant in 1937.

In order to insure equality of distribution the bases set up during the past year have been reviewed and adjusted in the light of actual information supplied by actual farm measurements during the past year.
At these meetings between farmers and township committees the farmers will be asked to decide on the following:
How much of the soil depleting base to divert to soil conserving purposes to qualify for diversion and conservation payments.
How to use the acres in the soil conserving base.
What soil building practices to use to earn soil building allowances.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT

It will pay to manage pastures carefully in 1937.
As much as $1 per cent more milk, 50 per cent more cow pasture days of grazing, with a resulting savings in milk production costs of 60 cents a hundred-weight, are among the outstanding results obtained in pasture management trials where a mixture of grasses was used instead of bluegrass alone.
The benefits obtained by rotational grazing, fertilization of blue grass, and supplementary sudan grass pasture, have been convincingly demonstrated on a farm near Port Atkinson where pasture research has been carried on for eight consecutive years.
In a single year, due to superior management, grazing was furnished continuously from May 7 to November 1, or for a period lacking just a week of being six months. This record was made in spite of the fact that rainfall that season was only 36 per cent of normal between March 1 and August 15, and 82 per cent of normal for the eight-month period up to November 1.
The outstanding development of the 1936 season reported by O. S. Aamodt, E. Truog, and F. Boyd, of the University of Wisconsin staff carrying on the project, was the abundant grazing and fine milk yields produced on a pasture mixture composed of red top, timothy, bluegrass and red, alsike and white clover. This mixture produced 80 per cent more cow pasture days of grazing, and 81 per cent more milk, than bluegrass alone, when both were given similar fertilization.

DAIRY PRODUCT HEARINGS

Madison—The relation between the manufacture and distribution of dairy products and the price the consumer must pay for such products will be considered at four public hearings announced by Commissioner F. Schultze of the Department of Agriculture and Markets.
With especial consideration to be given the practice of furnishing milk cans to producers in order to secure their business, the hearings have been scheduled as follows:
April 21—Sparta, courthouse, 1:30 p. m.; April 22—Rice Lake, city hall, 1:30 p. m.; April 23—Oshkosh, courthouse, 1:30 p. m.; April 25—Madison, state capitol, 2:00 p. m.
Practices which tend to increase the costs of dairy products to the consuming public will be brought out at these meetings, Schultze said.

RIISING PRICE LEVEL THREATENS FARM BUYING POWER

Madison—The present sharp rise in the general price level will probably stop the advance in the agricultural buying power which has gone on for some time.
While prices of Wisconsin farm products have advanced considerably during the past year, a sharp increase in the cost of commodities bought by farmers has also occurred and the purchasing power of the farm dollar shows only a slight increase compared with a year ago, the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture announced.
While Wisconsin farmers have been receiving higher prices they have also been paying more for the commodities they buy. An advance in the prices paid by farmers has been almost equal to the increase in the prices received by them.
From 21 percent above the pre-war level, the index of prices paid by Wisconsin farmers has increased during the past year to 38 per cent above the pre-war level. Thus the purchasing power of the farm dollar is 93 per cent of the 1910-14 average, which is still 7 points below the parity level.

FARMERS URGED NOT TO PURCHASE FOREIGN SEED

Madison—The following statement relative to red clover seed was issued jointly today by the department of agronomy of the college of agriculture and the state department of agriculture and markets:
"Due to the extreme shortage and high price of domestic red clover seed, some Wisconsin farmers are considering the use of foreign grown seed this spring. They are doing this because the foreign seed is available to them at a cost of $8.00 to $9.00 per bushel below the price of domestic red clover. Farmers should remember, however, that they will not be entitled to receive any benefit payments under the Agriculture Adjustment program if they plant red clover seed produced in foreign countries other than Canada. However, those farmers who have decided to use the imported Wisconsin State Fair Agricultural premiums in excess of $72,000 will be paid at the Wisconsin State Fair to be held in Fair Park, Milwaukee, August 21 to 29. About $3,000 has been added to the 4-H premium list, bringing the total premiums in this department to $12,000.
Accommodations have been made to house the club boys and girls in a comfortable building instead of tents as a year ago. By this plan more than 1000 boys and girls can be accommodated during the week and will be provided with comfortable sleeping quarters in the club building. The same building will also provide ample space for a dining room and a large exhibit hall for the club exhibits other than livestock.
Many of the cattle shown in the open class will be released on Thursday night to make room for the large number of calves to be shown in the club department. Likewise a double use will be made of the horse barn with the draft horses being released on Thursday night to make room for the 4-H club colts and the light harness horses to be exhibited in the night horse show which will be held the last four nights of the fair.
Poultry will be released on Friday to make room for the Dog Show which will be held the closing Saturday and Sunday. The poultry exhibits are being moved to the building formerly occupied by the Dog Show and the Poultry Building has been remodelled to accommodate the Home Economics and the Farm Crops Departments which were moved from the Resource Building to make room for the Club Show

NEW $190,000 BUILDING BE ERRECTED AT HILL

Announcement was made by the Carmelite Fathers that major contracts have been let for a new six-story building built at the hill during the summer, at a cost of approximately $190,000.
Herman Gaul, Chicago, who supervised the construction of the present church, will be in charge of the new work, which Hutter Construction Co. of Lac will handle the actual construction. According to present plans, the new structure will be of steel construction, throughout, faced with red granite, the same color as the northwest corner of the church. The top three stories contain a structure, when completed, utilized as a monastery and philosophy, while the presentery will be turned into a college, where high school courses will be taught during the summer and fall.
At present there are 100 students and teachers located at Hill. The new structure it will be completed around
