PORT OF THE WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR

The exhibit at this year's county fair was one of the most important, the quality of which has been seen in a number of years. All classes were well attended and the quality was of a high order. The fair was held on Saturday and Sunday at the fair grounds near the town of Kewaskum.

BROWN SWISS

Swiss classes were small in number but the quality was not as good as in previous years. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

JERSEYS

Jersey classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

RED POLLED

Red polled classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

SHORTHORN

Shorthorn classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

GUERNSEYS

Guernsey classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

HOLSTEINS

Holstein classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

SPECIAL BULL CLASS

Special bull classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

FARMERS DIVISION

Farmers division classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

COWS

Cow classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

COLT SHOW

Colt show classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

PERCHERONS

Percheron classes were of very high type and the quality was of a high order. The champion was a very good specimen of the breed.

LOUIS BACKHAUS, SR. PASSES AWAY

Louis Backhaus, Sr., well known resident of this village, and former town official, passed away at 9:30 a. m. last Thursday, Aug. 19, at his home on Prospect avenue following an illness of eight days with double pneumonia. He had attained the venerable age of 81 years.

Born in the town of Kewaskum on Feb. 19, 1856, Mr. Backhaus resided there all his life until 12 years ago, in 1925, when he retired from his farm and came to his present home in the village. He was married to Miss Wilhelmina Bleck on Feb. 14, 1883, St. Valentine's day. In Kewaskum, who survives, Mrs. Backhaus is also seriously ill with pneumonia at her home at this time, which makes the death of her husband all the more a burden of sorrow.

Four children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Backhaus, one of whom, a son, Alfred, died in 1904, at the age of 11. Those surviving are Amanda (Mrs. Edward Kibbel) and Reuben of the town of Auburn Fond du Lac county, and Louis Backhaus, Jr. on the homestead in the town of Kewaskum. Mr. Backhaus also leaves five grandchildren, namely: Deborah, Dorothy, Beatrice and Vernice Backhaus and Jerome Kibbel, all of the town of Auburn.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 22, from the Kewaskum Funeral home and at 2:00 p. m. at the Evangelical St. Lucas Lutheran church. Rev. Gerhard Kanless officiated. Burial took place in the congregation's cemetery.

Palbearers were Conrad Bier, Gust. Zumach, Paul Backhaus, Henry Degen, Frank Quandt and Carl Spradow.

Mr. Backhaus was active in politics throughout the entire time he lived on his farm in the town of Kewaskum. He served as school clerk for twenty-five years and held the offices of town chairman and town clerk for several years. He was one of the true pioneers of this vicinity who came from an old settler family. All regarded him as a good, hard working, and upright man. He was honored and well liked by all who came to know his character. Love for his family and friends was ever foremost in his mind. He was a true Christian man who was beloved by those near and dear to him. To them we extend our most sincere condolences.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned desire to express sincere thanks to all those neighbors and friends who willingly assisted them in their bereavement, the death of their dear husband and father, Louis Backhaus, Sr. Special thanks to the choir, Rev. Gerhard Kanless for his consoling words, the pallbearers, Reinders, the funeral director; for the floral tributes, to those who loaned cars, to all who assisted them during the illness, death and burial, and to all who showed their respect for the departed one by attending the funeral.

Mrs. Louis Backhaus and children

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Christ. Schaefer, Jr., who passed away Aug. 31, 1936:

To one who so nobly filled his position, a perfect husband and father, that he will live forever in our fondest memory as an inspiration.

'Tis sad as we miss him but not in vain;

His suffering God took in His hand, And sometime we may also understand;

Meeting in heaven, where there is no pain, Up there never to part again. Sadly missed by his wife and children.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned desire to express their heartfelt thanks to all who so kindly assisted them in their recent bereavement, the loss of their dearly beloved husband and father, Edw. C. Miller. Special thanks are extended to Rev. Richard Gadow; to Millers, the funeral directors; to those who loaned cars at the funeral and to all who assisted in any way and showed their respect for the departed one by attending the last sad rites.

Mrs. Edw. C. Miller and Sons

TRAILER AND CAR COLLIDE ON HIGHWAY NEAR HERE

A 1933 Chevrolet two-door sedan, being driven by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herman of Barton collided with a trailer hooked to a 1928 Chevrolet, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schultz of Kewaskum, R. R., at about 6:15 p. m. Tuesday, when the trailer broke away from the Schultz car and crashed into the Herman machine. Both the trailer and car were damaged. The accident occurred near the Knoeck service station on Highway 45-55 about four miles south of Kewaskum. Mrs. Herman sustained a bruised leg. Mr. and Mrs. Herman were on their way north to Kewaskum and the Schultz car was traveling south at the time of the collision. Herman is a son of Mrs. Mary Herman of this village.

BASEBALL TEAM TIES FOR FIRST HALF CHAMPIONSHIP

The Kewaskum baseball team of the Badger State League gained a three-way tie for the first half championship last Sunday by soundly beating Plymouth in the first game of their double-header by a score of 24 to 1 in a postponed game from the first half. At the same time Kohler beat Grafton 8 to 7, in eleven innings to also join the tie. So we have Kewaskum, Kohler and Grafton all tied up.

On Monday evening of this week a meeting of the officials of the three teams was held in this village at Edler's baseball headquarters to decide what form of playoff would be used. All three team representatives agreed on waiting until the end of the season for this elimination. Kohler leads the league this second half. Should they win, then Kewaskum will play one game with Grafton at the end of the season. The winner will meet Kohler. This method would eliminate the playing of extra games.

Next Sunday, Aug. 29, Kohler, the first place team in this half, will play at Kewaskum. Kohler beat the local team in their last meeting at Sheboygan and revenge is sweet. This will be a real, uphill battle and surely one of the best games of the summer. Let's have a big crowd out Sunday to see a good ball game, and your local team at home. This will be the last game with Kohler this season.

HOWARD SCHMIDT GRANTED AMATEUR RADIO LICENSE

Howard Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schmidt of this village has been granted an amateur radio operator's license by the Federal Communications Commission.

The call letters for Howard's amateur station will be W9DDD. He will transmit code on 7146 K C., 7206 K. C., and 14,292 K. C.

The station will be located in Howard's home. He has been interested and active in radio as a personal hobby for several years. After the first of September, anyone wishing to see the station and equipment is welcome to do so.

FRED WEDDIG WEDS LUCILLE ALLIET

In a pretty, summer ceremony, Miss Lucille Alliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Alliet of Route 2, West Bend, and Fred Weddig, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weddig of this village, were united in marriage Tuesday morning, August 24, at 9 a. m. in the rectory of Holy Angel's church at West Bend. Rev. Edward Stehling tied the nuptial knot.

The popular bride, a graduate of the West Bend High school, has been employed as bookkeeper at the West Bend Gumble store. The well known bridegroom, a graduate of the local high school, has been in the employ of the Schroeder dairy, town of Trenton, for several years.

Miss Rose Alliet attended her sister as bridesmaid. The bridegroom was attended by Frank Wnninghoff, a friend of the couple, as best man. The bride was very prettily attired in a white silk organza gown with a rolled collar and hands of self-material around her skirt. She wore a fingertip length veil of net, having a narrow halo. She carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and baby's breath. Her bridesmaid wore a peach net gown over taffeta. Her flowers consisted of tallismen roses and she wore tallismen roses in her hair.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at 11:30 a. m. at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party and parents of the couple. In the afternoon a wedding reception was held for 40 guests.

In the evening the newlyweds left on a wedding journey into northern Illinois and along the eastern border of Minnesota. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Weddig will be at home at 169 North Main street, West Bend, after Sept. 1. The bridegroom will be in the employ of the Hon. Bros. Construction company after that time.

Those from this village who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. John Weddig and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weddig and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Weddig and son Leon. Mrs. Elizabeth Mertes, the Misses Eda Feuerhammer, Marcella Heisler and Helen Harbeck, and the Messrs. William Schaefer, Frank Felix and William Harbeck.

NEWCOMERS TO VILLAGE

Kewaskum continued to grow a little bigger when two more families moved in recently. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Backhaus and family have moved from the town of Kewaskum into the residence recently purchased by Mr. Backhaus on First street, formerly the Kludt home. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schrauth, who were married a short time ago, have also moved into our little city. They came here from Elmwood and are at present living in the Mrs. Rob. Backhaus home on Second street.

ST. LUCAS EVANG. LUTH. CHURCH

13TH ANNUAL SKAT AND SCHAFFSKOPF TOURNAMENT

The 13th annual skat and schaffskopf tournament will be held at Jake Goring's resort, Big Cedar lake, Sunday, Sept. 12. It will include a card party for the ladies.

There will be one session only, beginning at 2:30 p. m. sharp. The entry fee for skat is $1, and 50 per cent of receipts will be returned in cash prizes. In schaffskopf, for which the admission is also $1, prizes will be awarded in proportion to the number of players participating.

Ladies are particularly invited. The entry fee for their card games is 50 cents, and cash prizes will be distributed. Tasty hot sandwiches will be available. "Invite all the skat and schaffskopf players and their ladies to come." Mr. Goring urged this reporter. "They will have a royal fine time."

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Graf of this village and Lester Borchert of Wayne returned home last Wednesday from a most interesting 16-day trip to Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, and the Dakotas.

OPENING AT KOHLVILLE

L. Kearley extends an invitation to the public to attend the grand opening of his tavern and ballroom at Kohlsville on Saturday, Aug. 28. Free dancing to the music of the Ke-Wayrie Five orchestra.

SCHOOL TO RESUME CLASSES ON SEPTEMBER 7

According to information from Prin. Clifford M. Rose, the Kewaskum High school and grades will resume classes on Tuesday, Sept. 7, the day following Labor Day, at 9:00 a. m.

The board of education has engaged the same capable staff of teachers for the ensuing year who instructed the pupils during the past school year with one exception Miss LaVerre Bratz of near Filmore will replace Miss Lois Hamlyn of near West Bend in the intermediate room, consisting of the third, fourth and fifth grades.

The entire teaching staff for the coming school term will be as follows:

Principal—Clifford M. Rose.

Manual Training—Harry Furlong.

Social Science and Athletics—Lyle E. Gibson.

Commercial—Margaret E. Browne.

History and Music—Margaret O. Lea.

English and Dramatics—Agnes Busch.

Grammar Grades—Mrs. O. Muenk.

Intermediate Grades—Laverne Bratz.

Primary Grades—Viola Daley.

Prin. Rose offers the following invitation to all those young people intending to attend high school this fall:

"Pupils in the vicinity who completed their grade school course this past June are invited to attend our high school and take advantage of the many courses offered. In addition to the academic courses required for high school graduation, courses in manual training, typewriting, shorthand, and bookkeeping are offered.

"A splendid opportunity is given all who wish to participate in dramatics and music. During the school year plays and operettas are given for the benefit of the pupils and the entertainment of the community. Our vocal soloists, ensembles and choruses make numerous appearances throughout the school year. The high school orchestra appears on all school programs.

"In the spring of each year our high school orators, declaimers, extemporaneous readers and extemporaneous speakers represent our school in district competition.

"Baseball, basketball and track claim the interest of those who are interested in athletics."

MENU CONTEST WINNER NAMED

Doris Annear, Richland Center, is the grand prize winner of the 1937 Dairy Menu contest sponsored by the Kewaskum Statesman and the Wisconsin Press Association. As a reward for her skill in preparing a complete daily menu for a family of five, emphasizing the use of Wisconsin dairy products Mrs. Annear, and a companion of her own choosing, will have all expenses paid on an all-eastern conducted tour.

Mrs. Annear, who entered the contest through the Richland Democrat, and her companion will visit Niagara Falls, New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, and Washington, D. C. The trip, lasting five days, is conducted by the Milwaukee Road. Besides the all-eastern trip, Doris Annear also received a free trip to the state fair on Dairy Day, and a combination cheese and relish tray, as winner of the first prize in the Wisconsin Dells group.

Besides Mrs. Annear, there were 29 other winners, three in each of the 19 Wisconsin groups. In the Lakeside group, of which Kewaskum is a member, the three winners were: Mrs. William F. Ostus, Milwaukee, first; Mrs. Lillian Andrews, Plymouth, second; and Martha A. Hicks, Plymouth, third.

The first place winner in each group received a free trip to the state fair in addition to a combination cheese and relish tray. Second and third prize winners in each group will receive cheese trays.

Breakfast on Doris Annear's grand prize winning menu includes grape fruit with maraschino cherry center, cream of wheat with dates and cream, James River waffles, bacon, maple syrup, coffee and hot chocolate.

For lunch, Mrs. Annear suggested savory eggs, pickled apricots and ripe olives, combination salad with sour cream dressing, nut muffins, butter, dainty dessert, and milk.

The prize winning dinner began with a melon ball cocktail and followed with stuffed pork chops, baked potatoes, corn on cob, sweet gherkins, grape cluster salad, dinner rolls, butter, tea and milk, and peach cream sherbert with brownies.

All of the menus entered in the contest will be turned over to the state department of agriculture and markets for use in its campaign to advertise Wisconsin dairy products.

HOSPITAL NEWS

John Mathieu of Elmora underwent an operation at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Louis Backhaus of Prospect avenue, this village, who was confined to St. Agnes hospital for several days with pneumonia, has returned to her home to recuperate.

Infantile Paralysis Wave May Let Science Test Preventive

Nasal Sprays Save Laboratory Monkeys, But Will They Work on Humans?

Hero monkey—that's what science calls the tiny rhesus monkey, like the little fellow here, whose nose is being sprayed in an experiment to test a preventive for infantile paralysis; thousands of monkeys have died in the cause. If the sprays prove successful on humans it may mean the end of pitiful cases like that of the little girl above. The annual, nation-wide series of President's Birthday parties helps to raise funds for the research work; a scene from one is also shown.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

WITH a wave of infantile paralysis assuming serious proportions in the south central region of the United States, science may find its long-awaited opportunity to make mass tests of nose sprays as a means of preventing the dread, crippling disease.

Nasal sprays have proved nearly 100 per cent effective upon laboratory monkeys, which respond to poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) in the same way humans do. But until an extensive outbreak of the disease occurred there was no chance to conduct experiments upon humans, for the lives of large numbers of persons must not be endangered unnecessarily.

Now that outbreak may be at hand, for the south central regions are reporting an increase in "polio" cases far over the normal increase which comes with the summer months. Between May 9 and July 24 there were, according to the United States public health service, 486 cases reported from the west south central region, as compared with only 18 cases for the same period of 1936 and 65 cases for the same period of 1935. During these weeks the east south central region reported 317 cases as compared with 234 in 1936 and 57 in 1935. There was some indication of the spread of the disease eastward.

Doctors hope that the nose spray will be proved definitely successful in its application to human beings, for it is more than a century since the first written account of poliomyelitis was made by a trained physician.

English Doctor Started Crusade.

Even so, progress has been phenomenally rapid in the light of the age of the disease, for it is probably as old as mankind.

But it was only 192 years ago that Dr. John Badham, of Woking, England, moved by the condition of four tiny patients, pleaded through the medium of medical journals for other doctors to come to his aid with suggestions for the cure of a disease nobody knew anything about.

Dr. Badham's paper, telling of the plight of the four crippled youngsters doomed to pathetically unhappy lives, launched one of the greatest crusades in medical history. Poorly equipped as they were, doctors of the Nineteenth century did not hesitate in responding to the pioneering Badham's call for assistance.

Get on Trail of Germ.

Only five years later, Jacob von Heine, German orthopedic surgeon of Canstatt, made public an important study of infantile paralysis. His practice brought him in contact with many cases of deformed limbs in children. A shrewd observer, he noticed something about young paralytics which other medical men had largely overlooked. He saw that paralysis was the result of some kind of acute disease which preceded the appearance of muscular weakness.

The discovery was epochal for, in other words, Heine perceived that paralysis in children didn't just happen—it had a definite antecedent cause. He won for himself a place of honor in ranks of those battling against the spread of infantile paralysis. It was a battle that widened to many more fronts as time wore on, and by 1885 the infectious nature of the disease was pretty generally accepted.

Yet it was not until 1908 that the first real advance was made in the search for a germ. Then Landsteiner and Popper, in Paris, injected portions of the brain and spinal chord, taken from a fatal human case of infantile paralysis, into some monkeys. They succeeded in infecting the monkeys with the disease, thus putting it on an experimental basis for the first time. Only a short time later several doctors almost simultaneously managed to pass poliomyelitis from one monkey to another. They were Flexner and Lewis in New York, Leiner and Von Weisner in Vienna, and Landsteiner and Levaditi in Paris.

The way was now cleared for studying the mechanism of the disease. It was indicated how the germ was spreading, but scientists still had not banded in any united effort. It took a national tragedy to wake them up.

In the summer of 1916 the great infantile paralysis epidemic hit the United States. It began in a small area in Brooklyn, then spread rapidly over the rest of New York City and Long Island, eventually cascading over the entire country. It touched every state, and struck down more than 25,000 persons, most of them children.

Health Officers at Loss.

Panic swept the nation. In the mistaken belief that only those under sixteen were susceptible, railroad officials refused to let children ride on trains. Vigilante bands of citizens established unofficial martial law in many places, and health certificates were required as "passports" for children moving from one community to another.

Health officers made every conceivable effort to check the disease, but they still lacked a working knowledge of ways and means to combat its ravages. The epidemic died of itself, finally, and so did public terror. There have been less epidemics since then; 15,000 cases were reported in 1931, and 10,000 each in the years 1927 and 1935.

Medical science recognized infantile paralysis as one of its most challenging problems and redoubled its efforts to find an answer. Foundations, research laboratories both public and private, universities and individual physicians and research workers concentrated their attention upon it.

But it remained for a layman, Col. Henry L. Doherty, to begin the most novel move in the battle, one which popularized the fight among all classes of Americans. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a victim of infantile paralysis, inspired the move. President Roosevelt's previous interest in the cause of fellow sufferers had been repeatedly manifested by activities on behalf of the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation where victims are treated.

First President's Birthday Ball. Visiting Warm Springs in 1933, Colonel Doherty also became deeply interested, and acquired a first-hand knowledge of the research and after-treatment work going forward in this country. He saw the need for more widespread co-ordination of effort. After discussing the matter with the President, he conceived the idea of a gigantic series of parties which would enable millions of Americans to do their share in the war on polio.

Under Colonel Doherty's direction the mammoth party-organizing task was started. A national headquarters was established in New York and civic-minded persons were called upon to help. The first series of parties was held on January 30, 1934, the President's birthday.

Funds Aid Experiment.

So far more than $4,000,000 has been raised by the annual parties. Seventy per cent remains to fight infantile paralysis in the community where it was raised, while 30 per cent goes to the national fund, to be used for research or rehabilitation work.

One important use to which the receipts from the parties was put was the development of the nasal spray preventive for poliomyelitis. How this spray came to be discovered is a dramatic episode in medical history. The subversive microbes have ever defied scientists to follow their meanderings. Yet, after long and brilliant experimentation, scientists in laboratories in New York, Chicago, Stanford university and London at last found out that the nose was a doorway to the polio virus.

In the laboratories of the United States public health service, Charles Armstrong, a "microbe hunter," decided that if he could find some means of blocking that doorway, there would be no way for the deadly germs to attack. For three years he experimented with a whole drove of rhesus monkeys. Finally he found what he wanted. By washing the insides of the monkeys' noses with a weak solution of picric acid and alum, he was able to save 24 out of 25 monkeys exposed to a hot, exceptionally dangerous infantile paralysis virus!

Confusion Hampers Test.

Armstrong was confident that if his solution worked with monkeys it ought to be effective on humans. But he was forced to wait for an opportunity to make the test. It apparently arrived last summer, when an epidemic broke out in Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Rushing to the scene, he won widespread support to his plan of spraying the solution into the children's noses.

He planned to have the doctors supervise the spraying and keep careful records. Unfortunately the experiment got out of hand; the doctors became swamped with demands upon their time and many parents used the easily procurable solution without bothering about scientific counsel on its use.

After salvaging what records he could and making extensive records of his own, Armstrong decided that a more powerful solution was needed. Two California scientists, working on funds supplied by the President's Birthday Ball commission, supplied it. They were E. W. Schultz and L. P. Gebhardt of Stanford university, and they offered a 1 per cent zinc sulphate solution. Zinc sulphate had been used for years as an eyewash. They discovered it was virtually 100 per cent effective in preventing infantile paralysis when sprayed into the noses of monkeys.

Flu May Follow Common Cold

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

AS MEDICAL students we were taught that influenza or flu was due to a certain little organism or bacillus called the bacillus of Pfeiffer, after its discoverer.

During the flu epidemic of 1918, it was found that a number of individuals who did not suffer with flu had this bacillus or organism in their throats. Today many physicians believe that more than one organism may cause the common cold and give rise to the usual symptoms of sneezing, increased pulse and temperature and a feeling of tiredness.

However, when a case goes on to extreme prostration and greatly increased temperature, it is believed due to the organisms of another ailment entering in, such as that of flu, pneumonia, bronchopneumonia or others.

Cold Leaves the Door Open. Thus someone has said that the common cold when it enters the system leaves the door open which so interferes with the defenses of the nose and throat that they can't stop these other organisms from entering. It would seem that very often the first ailment to follow a simple or common cold is the flu, and the flu so prostrates the individual during the first few days that these other organisms, often already present in the body, are able to fight off the natural defenses and manufacture the poisons which cause the serious symptoms that follow.

During the 1918 epidemic it was my privilege to be senior medical officer of a military base hospital of 800 beds. At the end of the first week of the epidemic we had to install extra beds in wards and in the corridors to accommodate the large number of flu patients.

Fortunately most of the patients came to us directly from their units, remained a few days, and made a good recovery. But many patients who remained on their feet for the first two or three days of the flu, then reported sick to their own medical officer and were then sent on to us, had or developed serious complications during their stay with us—pneumonia and bronchopneumonia.

One must get off his feet and to bed immediately when attacked by a severe cold or the flu.

Safe Method of Reducing.

There are a great many individuals who, while not really fat, know that they are carrying ten to fifteen more pounds than they should to have comfort and proper working ability. They naturally dislike the idea of going on any one of the special diets, but would be willing to follow in a general way a system that would take off the surplus weight over a period of six months to a year.

Sometimes it is enough for them to know what classes of foods to avoid and what classes to eat. Thus cutting down on highly nutritious or high caloric foods—sugar, potatoes, bread, butter, cream, egg-yolks—and increasing the less nutritious or low caloric foods—cabbage, cauliflower, skimmed milk, fresh fruits, and green vegetables—is all that is needed to bring about the required reduction in weight.

As far as meat, fish, eggs (proteins) are concerned at least one helping of meat or fish should be eaten daily to maintain the "structure" of the body. Thus the reducing diet should include lean meat, eggs and soft cheeses (which supply protein and are at the same time not too high in fuel value) and small amounts of a few carbohydrate or starch foods such as bread, potatoes and very simple desserts.

Fats should be almost entirely avoided because their fuel or food value is more than twice that of protein or starch foods.

However, even if fats and starches are cut down and fruits and leafy vegetables increased, the proteins (meat, eggs, fish) must be increased not only for their "staying" power, and for maintaining body structure but also because protein foods make a "fast burning" fire in the system, greatly increasing the heat, and burning up surplus tissue such as fat. Hence a person would lose weight faster on a diet containing an insufficient amount of food but with a greater amount of proteins in proportion to fats and starches because the meat and eggs "burn" more fiercely.

This doesn't mean that a "great" amount of extra meat or eggs should be eaten because many overweights may have the early symptoms of high blood pressure or kidney conditions.

Research physicians doing special work on obesity or overweight, while advising almost a complete avoidance of fat foods, advise that "some" starch foods be eaten every day.

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

1. What is the largest liner that has gone through the Panama canal?
2. How many of our Presidents owned slaves?
3. Who first discovered the principles of magnetism?
4. What are the elevations above sea level of the Great Lakes?
5. How much space does a ton of gold occupy?
6. Roman senators were appointed for a term of what duration?
7. Are all eyes of the same size?
8. How is salt secured?

Answers

1. The Panama canal office says that the Empress of Britain was the largest liner to pass through the canal. It was also the liner to pay the largest fee, which was $18,941.25.
2. Ten Presidents owned slaves: Washington, Monroe, Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Johnson and Grant. Lincoln never owned slaves.
3. Discovery of the simple principles of magnetism possessed by magnetite, or loadstone, was made by Chinese in 1400 B. C., or 3,500 years before magnetism was known in Europe.
4. The Great Lakes have approximately the following elevations above sea level: Superior, 602 feet; Michigan, 581; Huron, 581; Erie, 241; and Ontario, 246 feet.
5. A 14.1 inch cube of gold weighs a ton.

6. Roman senators were appointed for life unless expelled from office for some dishonorable cause.
7. Contrary to general opinion, says a specialist, there is no small eye or large eye. All eyes are approximately the same size. The reason for the apparent difference depends upon the orifice or aperture through which the eyes are seen. It is the variable diameter of this opening that creates the erroneous impression of different sizes of eyes.
8. There are three ways in which salt may be secured: First, by mining; second, by evaporation of sea water; and third, by digging wells until a salt vein is struck and then pouring water and pumping it up again as brine.

TESTED AND PROVED ON THE FARM

THE AMAZING New Firestone

GROUND GRIP TIRE

PROVIDES GREATER DRAWBAR PULL, GREATER TRACTION AND SAVES MORE TIME AND FUEL

NEWS of the amazing performance of the NEW Firestone Ground Grip Tire is sweeping rural America. Farmers everywhere who have seen this new tire are so enthusiastic about it that sales have been climbing steadily upward and production has been greatly increased to meet the demand.

Why all this enthusiasm? Those of you who have seen the new Firestone Ground Grip Tire in action know the answer. Tests show that it will pull a three-bottom plow under soil conditions where other makes of tires can pull only a two-bottom plow. The re-designed tread gives greater traction and better self-cleaning action. It will not pack the soil—in fact, it leaves a mulch on the surface of the tread track that prevents rapid evaporation of moisture in the soil. These tests also show up to 30% more available drawbar pull on dry sod, up to 40% more on dry plowed ground, up to 50% more on wet plowed ground than with any other tire tested.

Only in Firestone Tires do you get so many patented extra-quality features. The Ground Grip Tread is patented and is made of specially compounded rubber which resists the action of sun, rain and snow. Gum-Dipping is a patented Firestone Process, by which every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber which gives added strength to resist the strain of heavy pulling. The Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords under the tread are patented. This Firestone construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit.

You want and need ALL these features. Only Firestone has them! See this new tire at your nearest Firestone Implement Dealer, Tire Dealer or Auto Supply & Service Store today.

had been with them on their every turn except one; but he had dealt them a cruel jolt. The morning they had broken through the rotten "mush ice" and the packs, guns, and all their lives. After struggling they had laid a pole walking upon the ice and fished for fish; but the water was too deep, and they had come to it.

He and Poleon, by themselves, could have kept ahead of the Chiwaughimis, at least for several hours longer; but Sam held them back. By nine o'clock Sam's eyes had swollen shut; he was totally blinded; he had to be led every step of the way.

Steadily and swiftly the metis whittled down the lead. When Craig had first sighted them they were seven ridges behind. In an hour they were but five. By ten o'clock, only three.

They evidently saw that Sam was snow-blinded, and guessed that the party had only one rifle, Cesar's missing gun; for they came whipping over the ridges without pausing to scout out possible ambushes.

One of them, swifter or more daring than the others, had drawn away from the pack and was half a mile out in front. Craig thought at first that this metis was intending to circle around, head them off and hold them till the others caught up. But the man showed no signs of that. Instead of swinging to one side, he kept straight on the trail. Outstripping the other half-breeds, he drew closer and closer till he was within long rifle range.

Whirling on a hilltop for a glance at this lone pursuer, Craig saw him kneeling in a patch of gray snow and clipping a fresh magazine into his gun. He was yelling, a taunting exultant yell, at having killed one of the three white men.

A fury swept Craig. He jerked up his rifle, steadied it against the boulder, took quick aim. At his first shot Cesar Chiwaughimi cut and sprang down the slope toward a clump of blackish rocks. Craig's second bullet hit him, for he lurched and fell to his knees; but he scrambled up, panic-stricken, and scurried on toward the rock shelter.

He did reach it—but not alive. For one of Craig's vengeance-screaming bullets struck him squarely, knocked him off his feet, spun him around; he fell in a sprawling heap, and lodged against those blackish boulders where he had thought to find safety.

Across Sam's body Craig and Poleon looked at each other in a daze of disbelief. Sam was dead. They could not realize it. Poleon bent and shook him by the arm. "Sam—Sam!"

Craig touched Poleon's shoulder. "Don't, Poleon. Don't you see that he—that he's gone? You leave here; you hurry on. I'm going to whip across and get that Chiwaughimi's gun and shells."

"You can, do it. Dose utters are too close." "I've got to! Where are those others?" "They're coming out east slope now! I saw 'em—from on top dis ridge, 'wile you was helping Sam. You can't ever make it."

Craig groaned at the evil luck. Except for that one fatal bullet which struck Sam down, they would have got across the ridgeline; he would have waylaid Cesar Chiwaughimi, secured the 'breed's rifle and precious cartridges.

Poleon stooped, picked up Craig's empty shells from the snow, and silently held them in his palm, for Craig to see.

"I—I shot five times!" Craig jerked out. "I didn't know, didn't realize—"

The rifle slipped from his hands to the ground. He let it lie. It was useless. He had shot all their cartridges.

"It's aw-right, Craig," Poleon said. "You had to keel de man dat keeled Sam."

After a few moments the two of them turned away from the body of their dead partner, and went on. They had no weapon or defense now, but they were thinking less about their own hopeless plight than about Sam, lying back there, stark and lifeless.

The Chiwaughimis finally trapped them, late that afternoon, in a little timbered valley 12 miles from the Bay.

With the Chiwaughimis only 700 yards behind and occasionally dropping a splatter of bullets around them, they had plunged down into the valley, waded breast-deep across its rushing torrent, and started up the slope opposite.

In that move out of the timber, the four Chiwaughimis came whipping over the ridge, and ran part way down the west slope. Glancing back, Craig saw them halt, there on the hillside, and wait, with their rifles at ready.

Lost Their Packs, Guns, and Almost Their Lives.

only two ridges behind, and recognized him by the bright-colored centure fechee that he wore. The man was Cesar Chiwaughimi.

"We got to stop and peek him off, Craig," Poleon panted, as they hurried down the boulder slope and into the trees.

"No, not here. We'll pick him off, but not here," Craig answered, leading the way across an icy torrent in the little valley. "We've got to make it up this slope and over the top. Then, while you hurry on with Sam, I'll stop just over the ridgeline, and wait for him to come whooping across. He'll run headlong into my ambush, that way; and I'll not only get him but his rifle and cartridges too."

The hill was steep and toilsome. Fairly pulling Sam along, Craig smashed through the buckbrush, reached the belt of scraggly timber, climbed through it to the bare slope above, and raced for the rocky crest.

They had come within 20 yards of it, when—K-r-ing!—a sharp-speaking rifle cracked, across the valley. A bullet zinging over their heads, glanced off a granite rock and sang its ricochet song out through the air.

"Get on over the ridge!" Craig yelled at Poleon, who whirled to look at the Chiwaughimi. "Sam, come on—faster!"

K-r-ing-ring-ring—the savage sent a stream of steel-jackets across at them. A bullet hit the stock of Craig's gun and knocked the weapon out of his hand. He grabbed the rifle up again and guided Sam over a stretch of slippery ice-hard snow. A second bullet burned through his jacket sleeve and seared along his forearm—a red-hot flash of pain. He swung Sam around a boulder that barred their way. Only a dozen feet to the top. Poleon was already there. K-r-ing-ring! Sam stumbled and fell, tearing loose Craig's grasp. Craig bent and seized his arm. "Sam! Scramble up! It's only a jump—"

He broke off. Sam did not get up or answer. His arm was limp, his whole body had gone limp. He rolled over, blood trickling from his mouth; and lay still.

In horror Craig gazed down at him and saw that he had been shot through the head and instantly killed.

Poleon came running back down to help, thinking Sam had merely been wounded. Craig lifted his eyes from the body of his dead partner, and looked across the valley. A quarter way down the opposite slope, Cesar Chiwaughimi was

Names of Seven Women Are Inscribed in the Hall of Fame in New York City

The names of seven women are inscribed in the Hall of Fame in New York City, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. They are: Mary Lyon, Emma Willard, Maria Mitchell, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Frances E. Willard, Charlotte Cushman and Alice Freeman Palmer. The first three were chosen in 1905, the next two in 1910, Charlotte Cushman in 1915, and Mrs. Palmer in 1920.

Mary Lyon, born in 1797 at Buckland, Mass., founded the Mount Holyoke Female Seminary in 1837 and soon gave it a high reputation and extensive patronage. She died at South Hadley in 1849. Maria Mitchell, also of Massachusetts, was born in the Island of Nantucket in 1818. She became a distinguished astronomer, and was professor of astronomy at Vassar from that school's opening in 1865 until a few months before her death in 1889. In 1847 she discovered a comet, and was decorated by the King of Denmark for this achievement.

Emma Willard, born in 1787 in Berlin, Conn., became a teacher and an educational writer. From 1821 she was principal of a seminary at Troy, N. Y. She wrote a history of the United States and a number of other histories. She died in 1870. Frances E. Willard, church reformer, was born at Churchill, N. Y., in 1839, was an organizer of the

BOARDER HEN NOT WORTH FEED; CULL Non-Producers Will Bring No Profit From Eggs.

By Dr. W. C. Thompson, Poultry Husbandman, Rutgers University.—WNU Service. Don't feed boarders if it is the aim to maintain high egg production during the summer months. Egg prices will probably begin to advance soon, but in view of present grain prices, the hope of profit in egg farming lies chiefly in keeping egg production at relatively high levels.

Cull the laying flocks carefully, removing birds which have stopped production. Such birds are early molters with yellow pigmentation on shanks and beaks and with withered, dry combs.

Carry on the same feeding program as in winter and provide an ample water supply. There should be no let-down in feeding, for it requires lots of good food to produce eggs no matter what the season. Do not change rations in summer.

Keep the nests clean, sparsely littered, well ventilated and sufficient in number to furnish one nest for every five hens.

Gather eggs at noon and in late afternoon, preferably using wire baskets which permit a circulation of air and rapid cooling. Store eggs in a cool, somewhat moist room and market them frequently during hot weather.

Remove any male birds—except when eggs for hatching may be still desired—and produce only infertile eggs for table use.

Good quality stock is necessary to get the best results in summer egg production regardless of fine management. If present stock is questionable as to breeding, perhaps the coming fall will offer a good opportunity to change.

Shipping Inspection for Fruit and Vegetables

This is the fifteenth year of the federal shipping point inspection service on fresh fruits and vegetables, administered by the bureau of agricultural economics. Nearly five times as many carloads of these commodities were inspected at shipping points in 1936 as during 1923, and the first full year this service was available.

During the first years the service was available in only a few states and only during the harvesting season of certain products. Today it is available during the entire year, under co-operative agreements with the state, in California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, Oregon, Texas, Utah, and Washington.

In other states, with the exception of New Mexico, Kentucky, and Vermont, where no co-operative agreements are in effect, the service is offered during the movement of the major fruits and vegetables if the volume for inspection is sufficient to prevent prohibitive costs to users.

In nearly all parts of the country the service is self-sustaining. A few states have small appropriations which are used to supplement the fees collected.

The United States Department of Agriculture receives from the inspection fees only enough to cover the cost of supervision and general overhead expenses.

Don't Wash Eggs

Eggs have a natural bloom to them when fresh. When stale they become slick, or shiny. This bloom seems to be made up of tiny pores in the shell, which may be seen upon close examination. When a hen sets on the egg a few days, when the egg becomes old, or when it is washed, these tiny pores become stopped up and the egg cannot "breathe" with a consequent deterioration in quality. For that reason, says the Missouri Farmer, eggs should never be washed if they are to be sold on the market. A better way is to wipe them off with a dry cloth, or sandpaper the spot of dirt off with a piece of sandpaper or emery cloth.

Farm Notes

Apples, pears, and peaches are produced in three-fourths of the states.

A daily loss of nine ounces per 100 eggs during the incubator period indicates that the proper humidity is being maintained.

Milk or cream cooled quickly after milking time keeps much better in hot weather than that which is allowed to cool slowly.

Agricultural authorities say a single barberry bush can harbor 64,000,000 spores of grain-destroying, black-stem rust.

It is estimated that in the United States 12,000 dozens of eggs are laid every three minutes, day and night, throughout the year.

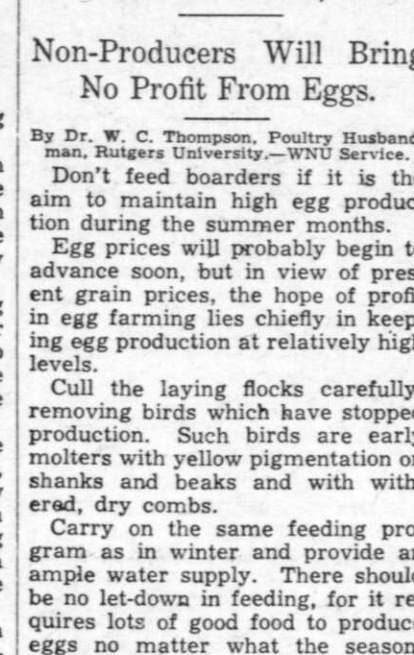

South Dakota's duck crop for 1937, in 58 of 69 counties, not including four United States refuges, is estimated at more than 725,000 birds.

The practice of adding molasses in ensiling hay and grass is on the increase and reports are favorable. It is practical, says the Rural New Yorker, as it can be used with hay crops that otherwise might be spoiled from rain. Silage from any crop cannot be marketed at any distance due to its perishable nature. The effect on the teeth and bones of livestock would be beneficial. The amount of molasses recommended per ton with legume hay crops is from 50 to 75 pounds per ton.

Game in China

China, despite its large population, abounds with game in many regions. It is estimated the country has a larger duck population than America.

Hanging Mirrors.

Hang the mirror where it adds to the size as well as attractiveness of the room. A couple of well-hung mirrors can do wonders to the small living room.

Ironing Hints.

The best way to press rough silk is with a warm iron when the material is entirely dry. Linen and organdy should never be ironed when still very wet. Never use a hot iron on artificial silk—put a dry cloth over it and use a warm iron.

Improving Canned Grapefruit.

The flavor of canned grapefruit can be improved by aerating it, that is, pouring it from one container into another several times.

The Outstanding 3-Plow Tractor

McCormick-Deering W-30

The new McCormick-Deering W-30 Tractor stands head and shoulders above any other tractor of its type. It is different in that it has new types of seals which keep water, mud, dust, and other abrasive materials from getting into the operating parts. It has a ball-bearing transmission. Steering is made unusually easy through the use of roller bearings at the bottom of each steering-rod pivot pin and on the steering shaft just above the main gear. In all, there are 34 ball and roller bearings in the W-30.

The engine features replaceable cylinders, hard exhaust-valve seat inserts, and provides abundant power to all three plow bottoms under average conditions. These are just a few of the outstanding features that make the W-30 the best buy on the market. Stop in and see this tractor or ask us to demonstrate it.

CHINA'S HORROR GROWS

Thousands Die in Unofficial War . . . Senate Confirms Black Appointment . . . House Debates Deficiency Bill

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Declared or Not, It's War

SHANGHAI'S "war" of 1932 was a second-rate movie sham battle compared with what's going on over there now.

Thousands upon thousands of civilians lie dead, dying and wounded, and the toll increases day after day.

Even in the International Settlement life is fleeting, insecure, for bombs and shells drop there, too.

As this is written, the Chinese land forces, outnumbering the Japanese four to one, are forcing the invaders slowly back to the Whangpoo in fierce ground fighting.

Eye-witnesses reported that the Japanese had concentrated some 40 destroyers, six cruisers, four dreadnaughts, an airplane carrier and many gunboats in the rivers near Shanghai.

United States marines were on hand, of course, to offer what protection they could to American nationals, and reinforcements were quick in leaving San Diego, Calif., to join them.

It was not considered likely that President Roosevelt would invoke the neutrality act so long as no "official" state of war between Japan and China existed.

Japan continued to "defend" itself, officially, from the wicked Chinese, whom its foreign office characterized as "prejudiced."

The house passed the low-cost housing bill, but with so many alterations that it had to go to a joint committee for the differences to be straightened out before it could be sent to the White House.

Question Black's Eligibility

THE senate confirmed the President's nomination of Sen. Hugo L. Black of Alabama to the Supreme court, 63 to 16, but only after a bitter fight, following which the minority protested that the confirmation had been railroaded through.

Six Democrats and ten Republicans voted against Black. The Democratic insurgents, led by Edward R. Burke (Neb.) and Royal S. Copeland (N. Y.) based their objections principally upon charges that he was associated with the Ku Klux Klan, and therefore unfit to sit with the high tribunal for reasons of racial and religious prejudice.

That his eligibility might be tested before the court itself was a possibility when Attorney Albert Levitt, former special assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, filed a plea for leave to prepare an order for Black to show affirmatively why he should be permitted to serve as an associate justice.

1. That Black could not become a justice because during his term as a senator the Summers retirement act was passed, permitting justices to retire at full pay.

2. That no vacancy existed on the Supreme court anyway, since Justice Willis Van Devanter had only retired, not resigned, and may still be called for judicial service by the chief justice.

It was expected that the Black appointment would become political fodder in the next election campaigns.

Grist from the Mill

AFTER months of wrangling over the Supreme court measure, the wages and hours bill, the ever-normal-granary bill and other administration "musts" the house of representatives began to act upon some other legislation in haste, with a view to adjournment some day, some time.

The house appropriations committee reported out the year's last "deficiency" measure to supply funds for government operations overlooked in the regular budget. It called for $78,500,000; two previous deficiency measures, totaling nearly a billion, had been passed.

The house passed the low-cost housing bill, but with so many alterations that it had to go to a joint committee for the differences to be straightened out before it could be sent to the White House.

Japan continued to "defend" itself, officially, from the wicked Chinese, whom its foreign office characterized as "prejudiced."

Strange Doings at Sea

FOUR insurgent airplanes dropped 25 bombs upon the Danish vessel Edith and sank it in the Mediterranean, came the report from Barcelona. The crew of 20 and a French observer for the non-intervention control were rescued by two fishing boats.

The captain of the French freighter Peame reported to authorities that a torpedo had been fired upon his ship by an unidentified submarine which floated beside his ship for several minutes off the Tunisian coast.

When the Spanish tanker Campeador was sunk in the Mediterranean, the rebel command issued a communique taking the full blame. But the captain of the tanker insisted an Italian destroyer sank it.

Campaign Aftermath

TURNED down by the house rules committee when he demanded a special investigation, Rep. Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican floor leader, has carried direct to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings his charges of violation of the federal corrupt practices act by the Democratic national committee.

In a letter to Cummings, Snell charged:

1. That sales of the book, autographed by the President, at $196 at $250 each constitute an illegal collection of campaign funds and a direct violation of section 313 of the corrupt practices act.

2. That a Colorado man was the "victim of eleven specific acts of reprisals" by the resettlement administration and threats to "put him out of business" since his refusal last October to subscribe $500 to the book sales campaign.

3. That a New Yorker was approached by a Democratic campaign committee agent with promise of White House intervention in return for a $25,000 subscription or retainer.

Snell attached affidavits and a synopsis of the evidence he had furnished the house rules committee.

Rebels Press Santander

REPORTS from the insurgent command said that 35 villages and 1,000 prisoners had been captured by the rebels in their drive on Santander and the tiny remaining slice of the northern Spanish coast held by the government.

The government admitted that some advances had been made, but refused to concede that General Franco's forces were threatening the main defenses of the Santander area.

Franco, in his new drive, was using the same tactics which eventually brought about a siege of many months. Bombing planes and artillery were pounding the fortifications while other airplanes poured machine gun fire upon trenches.

Insurgents planned the Santander advance to require as little manpower as possible, so as to leave enough men at the Madrid front to start a separate offensive there if necessary.

Rumor Has Farley Quitting

Jim Farley is said to have lost $10,000 a year over his salary of $15,000 and is, according to his friends, today in debt.

French Lifeline Periled?

THE Paris press disclosed that France considers herself in danger of losing her possessions in the Near East and of having her air route connections with the Far East severed by the news out of Syria.

Censorship of the news out of Syria is strict, but some reports have leaked through which indicate the revolt recently quelled was a serious one. According to one dispatch the population is extremely dissatisfied with the terms of the Franco-Syrian treaty signed last September 10.

Large sections of the population differ in religion from the Syrians in Damascus. They are willing to be governed by a foreign nation like France, as they have been for centuries, but they do not want to be subjected to the will of the Damascus politicians.

Protests Lease of Ships

LA NACION, influential newspaper of Buenos Aires, Argentina, caused some stir by vigorously protesting the proposed leasing of obsolete United States warships to Brazil, declaring that such an act would upset the balance of naval power in South America.

Secretary of State Hull had written a letter to the senate naval committee asking congressional authority for the leasing of over-age war vessels to South American republics. When the Argentinean objections were noted, President Roosevelt pointed out that the vessels in question were obsolete, and were only to be used for training.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington. — Some years ago, when New England's sharp-tongued George H. Moses sat in the presiding officer's chair as president pro tempore of the senate, I used to marvel at the speed with which he got rid of legislation.

The late Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas was the Republican leader. Between the astute Curtis and the nimble-witted Moses, the senate many times really ran in high gear.

To me, it was reminiscent of the old days, therefore, when I watched Vice President "Jack" Garner operate in the senate the other day to get the judiciary reform bill through that body without permitting a deluge of debate.

But the significance of this incident should not be overlooked. It was noteworthy that the Vice President established a precedent by granting permission to senators to include in the Congressional Record speeches they would have made if the debate had been prolonged.

The ease with which that bill was put through demonstrates that those who opposed the original bill to add six new justices to the Supreme court were objecting only to the court packing and not to the reforms in procedure.

The bill as it becomes law provides for a number of changes in court procedure to the end that adjudication of controversy can be accomplished much more quickly than has been the case in the past.

It does not include any addition to the membership of the Supreme court and it does not include any provision for sending hand-picked judges to the various circuits and districts as the White House and the Department of Justice may decide.

Thus, when Senator Copeland broke openly and accused the President of stooping to local politics, he opened the way for conservatives everywhere to strike back at the political machine managed by Postmaster General Jim Farley in Mr. Roosevelt's behalf.

The selection of Senator Copeland by the famous Tammany organization in New York City was the signal for the New Deal faction of the great city to take off their coats. They promptly announced selection of New York Supreme Court Justice Mahoney as their candidate against Copeland.

It was obvious to the vast majority of senators and representatives and to observers here within six weeks after Mr. Roosevelt submitted the court packing bill that he could not force it through. He refused nevertheless to admit defeat. In consequence, it took nearly six months of bitter and futile wrangling in the senate to convince the President that he was on the wrong side of the question as far as public sentiment was concerned.

So, congress has wasted nearly all of the 1937 session on a proposition for which it was not responsible. Moreover, it has been forced into a position where in its closing days it rushed along to enact numerous bills that should have had weeks of consideration. Actually, the 1937 session has accomplished little that will not have to be redone in subsequent years because of the haste and the lack of consideration given important subjects.

It may be said that congress should remain in session under those circumstances and give all of the time that is necessary to deliberation of measures before it. Yet, facts must be faced. One of these facts is that through all of the months prior to adjournment scores of members were wearing themselves down fighting against a proposition with which they could not agree. In the meantime, Washington's summer is a completely hot and humid summer. Most of the members of the senate and house are no longer boys of college age. They cannot withstand the physical rigors of heavy work in weather conditions that prevail in Washington summer. Thus it is not strange at all that as July passed and August wore on, most of the members wanted to go to places more comfortable than the Capital city and that constituted a terrific urge to get rid of whatever legislation was before them with the very minimum of effort. In consequence, there has been some very bad legislation and congress is now wholly to blame for it.

A friend of mine, a well-known doctor, who is not a politician, knows nothing about politics—a man, in short, who minds his own business and tries to do his best job of which he is capable, asked me a question the other day that precipitated this discussion.

He asked me why the newspapers throughout the country were giving so much space, front page space at that, to the political fight over the Democratic nomination for mayor in New York.

My doctor friend observed that which is true, namely, that the mayor of New York is only mayor of that city and has no jurisdiction or power anywhere else; he observed as well that New York City is simply a subdivision of the state of New York and that New York state is only one state out of forty-eight in our nation. Further, he suggested that he, and he believed millions of others, could not possibly have any interest in whether Tammany or the New Deal faction of Democrats in New York City should win the nomination and their mayoralty candidate.

Superficially, the doctor was right. His thoughts, however, do not touch the root of that situation. Fundamentally, the battle between Tammany and the Democrats in New York is a battle between the old line, conservative Democrats throughout the nation and the New Deal faction of the party which is headed by President Roosevelt. It is vitally important also to the Republicans for the reason that the Presidential election of 1940 is almost certain to be a campaign in which we will find conservatives from whatever party aligned on one hand and radicals from whatever party aligned on the other side. To that extent, the New York primary and mayoralty election is the beginning of the 1940 presidential campaign.

The bitterness that is going to prevail from here on has been given something of a preview by the charge by Senator Copeland, the Tammany candidate, that President Roosevelt was interfering in a purely local fight. Senator Copeland's activities in the senate have been almost wholly antagonistic to the President and the New Deal generally. Where the President has been sound, as the conservatives recognize sound policies, Senator Copeland has fought alongside of the New Dealers. Otherwise, he has not concealed his opposition to radical New Deal proposals.

He opened the way for conservatives everywhere to strike back at the political machine managed by Postmaster General Jim Farley in Mr. Roosevelt's behalf. As one house member suggested: "Senator Copeland has put fire into the fight."

The selection of Senator Copeland by the famous Tammany organization in New York City was the signal for the New Deal faction of the great city to take off their coats. They promptly announced selection of New York Supreme Court Justice Mahoney as their candidate against Copeland.

In consequence, there has been some very bad legislation and congress is now wholly to blame for it.

True, Secretary Marvin McIntyre of the White House staff denied that the President had talked politics with the Mahoney leaders. But the denial was not accepted by Copeland as being sincere, for he added: "I am not afraid of Mr. Roosevelt's reprisals. The President enjoys a great personal popularity, but his political popularity is swiftly disappearing."

Though the ancients were sufficiently impressed by the damage done to horses' hoofs to devise certain forms of covering for them (in the shape of socks or sandals), the practice of nailing iron plates or rim-shoes to the hoof does not appear to have been introduced earlier than the Second Century B. GOOD TASTE TODAY by EMILY POST World's Foremost Authority on Etiquette

Shaking Hands Is Matter of Impulse

DEAR Mrs. Post: Should a woman, when taking leave of a small family group, several of whom she met on this occasion for the first time, shake hands with everyone? And would the fact that she shook hands with each one an hour or so before when meeting them have any bearing on your answer? While I know that shaking hands is not so much practised today as it once was, I wish I knew at what times it was still the polite thing to do.

Answer: The question of whether to shake hands under the circumstances you mentioned is far more a matter of impulse than of rule. If those whom you have been talking with are standing directly next to you, your natural impulse would be to shake hands. But if they are sitting in different parts of the room you would certainly not go from one to the other. Again, if one of them goes with you as far as the door, you would probably shake hands with her, or him, as you say good-by.

Let Members Pour at Women's Club Tea

DEAR Mrs. Post: Our women's club is giving a large tea for approximately a hundred and fifty guests. Would you suggest that it is better at a tea of this size to let the hotel do all the serving, or do you think it more friendly to have members of the committee preside at the tea table?

Answer: At a tea for as many as fifty the details of serving are more often than not taken care of by the caterers, or by the servants in a private house. However, in your case, if sufficient members of the committee take turns at pouring, it should not be too tiring for any one of them, and there is no question that club hostesses at the tea table would create a more friendly atmosphere. In any case, all the other details of replacing used cups and saucers with fresh ones and replenishing sandwiches and cakes and passing them will be taken care of by the hotel.

Serving Young Guests.

DEAR Mrs. Post: I would like to give an evening surprise birthday party for my son, asking a dozen or so of his high school friends. Everything is to be simple and the evening will probably be spent in playing a variety of games, as our house does not afford space for dancing. For refreshments, would chicken sandwiches and milk be sufficient? I know all the young people drink milk and hardly any of them drink coffee, and I thought milk would be very easy to serve. Or can you suggest something that you like better?

Answer: If you are sure they like milk better than anything else, this is an excellent reason for serving it. Otherwise, I think I would suggest that you have cocoa for a change, and also because a hot drink would taste better with cold sandwiches.

Break Away Gently.

DEAR Mrs. Post: What I first began working in this office several of the girls invited me to go to lunch with them and tried to make things pleasant for me. But now I don't seem to be able to get away from them ever and I find that their interests are not mine. I would rather not lunch with them but seem to be getting deeper into the habit. What can you suggest for me to do?

Answer: Since you can not very well tell them you do not want to sit with them, the only thing I can think of to suggest is that you make other engagements for yourself at noon, at first occasionally and later on habitually.

Ribbons and Seats.

DEAR Mrs. Post: What is meant by "in front of the ribbons" and "within the ribbons" and who is seated in each place?

Answer: Both mean the same thing; having a place within the enclosure marked by the ribbons. The pews in front of the ribbons are always seated according to nearness of relationship, and cards bearing the actual pew-numbers are sent by the mother of the groom to each of those relatives and a few dearest friends who are to be seated on the groom's side of the church, and by the mother of the bride to each of those who are to be seated on the bride's side of the church.

Fine Technical Point.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Which is correct? Drink your soup or eat your soup?

Answer: Eat your soup with a spoon and drink it from a cup. In other words, you eat it with a table-spoon when served in a plate; you sip it from a teaspoon or drink it, when served in a cup.

SPORT NEWS

LOCALS WIN, 24 TO 1, THEN LOSE, 2 TO 1, IN DOUBLE HEADER

The Kewaskum baseball team broke even in the doubleheader played against Plymouth at the fair grounds in that city last Sunday afternoon. In the first game the locals went on a hitting rampage and easily defeated Plymouth, 24 to 1. In the second contest, however, the batting power was missing and the Kewaskum nine went down in defeat in a pitcher's duel, 2 to 1, in eleven innings.

FIRST GAME (7 INNINGS)

In the first game, which got underway at 1:15 p. m., Kewaskum gave Plymouth one of the worst beatings ever administered in the Badger league. The locals also established some kind of a league record by scoring 24 runs in seven innings to the opponents' 1. The game was called at the end of the seventh to make way for the second game, because it was hopeless for Plymouth to attempt to overcome the visitors' lead. Had the affair gone the full nine innings, Kewaskum would probably have run their score to about 30 runs.

Plymouth used three pitchers in this game. Sprangers, H. Miller and Burkart. Wally Sprangers, who is also one of the star pitchers for the champion Allen-Bradley team of Milwaukee, started the game, but showed no effectiveness at all against the Kewaskum sluggers. After allowing three runs in the first inning, one in the second and four in the third he removed himself and H. Miller came in to the mound. He was even less effective and allowed six more runs before the third inning was completed. At the start of the fourth frame Burkart was doing the twirling. He finished the last four innings but was also hit very hard, allowing one run in the fourth, seven in the fifth, and two in the sixth. In the last inning, the seventh, he retired the side in order, the only inning in which Kewaskum did not score.

Marx pitched the entire seven innings for the locals and didn't even exert himself with the tremendous lead given him by his teammates. Plymouth's one run came in the third inning on a double by Burkart and a single by Sprangers. Marx fanned 10, allowed eight hits and issued three walks. He again had errorless support. The batting stars for Kewaskum in this slugfest were Jagmin, who connected for four hits out of four times at bat, including a home run, Mathias, with five out of six, and Kudek, with four out of six.

This contest was the playoff of a postponed first half game and the victory gained Kewaskum a three way tie for the first half championship with Kohler and Grafton.

INDIANS WALLOP BARK LAKE NINE

After being idle for two weeks, the Kewaskum Indians again played a Land o' Valleys league game on the home field last Sunday and soundly trounced the visiting Bark Lake team, 25 to 2. This was the 10th straight victory for the young fellows against no defeats. The Indians remain in first place, one game ahead of Port Washington. There are three more games on the schedule, the season closing Labor Day, against Port Washington.

A new pitcher was discovered in Sunday's game when Francis Roden hurled the full contest for Kewaskum. He set down Bark Lake with only three hits, his curves working beautifully. Paul Kral did the catching. Willard Prost and Tony Uelinen led the local hitting attack with four hits apiece.

SCORES LAST SUNDAY

Kewaskum 25, Bark Lake 2.
Port Washington 22, Slinger 10.
Rockfield 3, Granville 2.

ball was lost in the high grass in short right field and by the time it was found, the runner had scampered all the way home. The final score should rightly have been 1 to 0 in nine innings with Kewaskum winning. Another reason why Hepppe deserved to win his game was because Kewaskum was hitting the ball hard all through the contest and only very spectacular fielding by Plymouth, especially the outfielders, DeZwarte and H. Miller, who robbed the locals of a number of otherwise safe hits, saved Koopman. Only three batters were fanned by Koopman which shows every man on the local team was hitting the ball. Hepppe struck out nine. Kewaskum got 11 hits but failed in the pinches, leaving many left on the bases. Plymouth's left fielder and center fielder each caught six flies, which can give you an idea of how Kewaskum's batters kept them running all over the field with their hard smashes. Still they caught 'em.

However, both pitchers deserve a great deal of credit for their excellent performance. Both teams scored one run in the first inning and not another marker was scored until the 11th inning fluke.

Kudek of Kewaskum was also the batting hero of this game with four out of five. Four out of six in the first game gave him eight hits out of eleven trips to the plate for the day.
