Russian Note Shies Italy

FURTHER evidence of the complete accord of the two great Fascist governments was revealed when Germany joined Italy in refusing to be represented at the Nyon, Switzerland, conference to end "piracy" on the Mediterranean. The Nazis gave the same excuses as Italy: That the action of Soviet Russia in accusing Italian submarines of sinking two Russian merchant ships and demanding full indemnity made impartial conclusions of the parley impossible, and that the whole affair might better be ironed out by the committee for non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

So heated were the differences between the Italians and the Russians, it was feared the incident might lead to a break in diplomatic relations, if not to actual armed con-

Great Britain, Russia and France went right ahead with their plans for the conference. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was instructed, however, to make no proposals which would tend to divide the Mediterranean powers into Fascist and anti-Fascist groups. It was believed he would propose that merchant ships be allowed a naval convov through the danger zones.

Britain, one of the chief sufferers from the submarine attacks on shipping, was embarrassed shortly before the conference was to begin when a Spanish insurgent cruiser (Italy is known to be aiding the insurgents) commandeered a British erchantman off Palermo. A MERICANS in Shanghai, constantly in danger of their lives, cabled Washington, demanding the protection of United States ships. The American Chamber of Commerce in the war-torn city asked Secretary of State Hull for immediate clarification of the State department's stand. No deadline for evacuation had vet been set, and when rumors spread that the United States flagship Augusta was making ready to leave Yangtze waters. panic spread among the Yanks in Shanghai.

Many business men, with lifetime savings invested there vigorously urged the President to adopt foreign policy with a strong front and keep the American flag waving." One veteran Yank resident circulated a petition demanding that the President "get off his yacht, get on his feet and get some guts

American missionaries and business men protested that the United States' position in the Far East was largely the result of their life's work, and insisted on a more steadfast attitude to keep the American stake in China. The State department replied that there was a broad distinction between getting out of the line of fire and relinquishing privileges established over the years. Vice consuls in many Chinese ports were ordered to leave their posts.

Opposition Surprises Nippon

JAPANESE naval guns and bombers carried the war 600 miles south of Shanghai when they attacked the port of Amoy, which houses a huge Chinese fort and arsenal, opposite the island of Formosa. Their bombs carried little effect and the shore artillery chased the warships, completely disabling one. The battle was but thirty miles from Hong Kong, recently ravished by a typhoon.

Elsewhere along the far-flung front the Japanese were meeting with opposition the caliber of which they had not expected. Along the Woosung front, 200,000 Chinese, including crack German-trained divi- per acre of 228.5 pounds.

Russia in 1904 Japanese aerial bombardments continued in the Chapei, Kiangwan, Taichong and Yanchong districts of Shanghai. The continued peril of the international settlement and the French concession spurred the American, British and French consuls to demand of both the Japanese and Chinese that their forces be withdrawn from that vicinity. Scores of noncombatants were daily being killed and wounded there by falling bombs and shells.

But Japan's long-awaited "big push" had not yet materialized. It was believed large reinforcements were being awaited. The Chinese man power was beginning to tell against the inferior numbers of the lapanese.

One of the war's most sensational military coups occurred in the rocky hills west of Peiping when 4,000 Japanese troops were reported dicated that Dodd, now vacationing wiped out by the Chinese in ambush. The Japanese line was said to have been driven back five miles by the terrific onslaught, and Japanese commanders were reported more worried than ever over the success of their invasion in this sector.

Another of the war's great horrors was perpetrated when the Japanese bombed a refugee train 30 miles south of Shanghai, killing 300 and wounding 400 noncombatants. Chinese bombers' efforts at reprisal were ineffective.

Only in the northern province of Chahar did the Japanese make real sion of 100 "prominent" Mongols from $15,000 to $50,000. and Chinese (many of them known to be associated with the Japanese army) was setting up a new "popautonomous government under Japanese control.

Plague Upon a Plague

JOHN L. LEWIS, fire-eating chairman of the Committee for Inbuke at President Roosevelt for im-

on campaign promises and hinted at the possibility of a third party in the elections of 1940. In a radio speech he declared: "It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's John L. Lewis house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace." This was regarded as an answer to the "plague on both your houses" which President Roosevelt called down on extremists of both sides in the "little steel" strike. In his campaign for re-election he had "supped at labor's table" to the extent of a half-million-dollar contribution to the Democratic national committee by the C. I. O.

Lewis suggested that it would be a wise move for labor and agriculture to wage their battles together politically.

"Labor has suffered just as our farm population has suffered," he said, "from a viciously unequal distribution of the national income.

"The exploitation of both classes of workers has been the source of panic and depression, and upon the economic welfare of both rests the best assurance of a sound and permanent prosperity."

Chinese Won't 'Cooperate'!

APAN'S aim in the undeclared war is to make China submit once and for all to her will, the Japanese government virtually ad mitted through its foreign minister, Koki Hirota. The seriousness of Japan's intentions were obviated when Emperor Hirohito, departing from precedent, referred to the conflict in detail in a public statement from the throne, and when it was revealed that Nippon is preparing more appropriations for her already heavy war chest.

Hirota blamed the Chinese central government for the present fighting because it refuses to "co-operate" with Japan in "maintaining peace" in eastern Asia. Japanese military action against China, he said, was taken to make impossible the recurrence of the current hostilities. 'Japan," he said, "has no other objective than to see a happy and tranquil North China and Sino-Japanese relations so adjusted as to enable us to put into practice our policy . .

"Since China, ignoring our true motive, mobilized her vast armies against us, we can do no other than o counter by force of arms."

The emperor, in addressing the ouses of parliament, greatly impressed his subjects with a review of the war, arriving at much the same conclusions as Hirota had. The session of parliament was called to consider the appropriation of $592,000,000 for the campaigns in China, raising the total of the nation's war chest to $737,000,000.

Dodd and Hull Disagree

BY THE time this is printed William E. Dodd may no longer be United States ambassador to Germany. In an interview he vigorously opposed any American representation at the Nazi party congress in Nuremberg. Secretary of State Cordell Hull refused to comment upon Dodd's attitude, but announced that the United States would be represented at the conference which will Ambassador celebrate Hitler's EDWARD F. McGRADY, assistant secretary of labor, and chief strike trouble shooter of Mme. Frances Perkins' department, resigned to devote his talents to radio. ## Hitler: 'Stand by Japan'

A DOLF HITLER, in a manifesto to the German nation, offered to stand by both Italy and Japan in a "defensive fight against bolshevism." He charged that the "two major wars" now going on (the Sino-Japanese and the Spanish civil wars) were the result of "attempts to spread communism." The Reichsfeuhrer's speech was read to the Nazi party congress in Nuremberg while he sat on the platform. It could not have been better timed in view of the current friction between Italy and Soviet Russia over submarine piracy in the Mediterranean. Germany and Italy's "community of interests" have emerged in recent months, he said, "more and more an element in the defense of Europe against chaotic imbecility.' His manifesto continued: "Our (anti-communistic) agreement with Japan serves the same fundamental mission-to stand together in defense of world civilization."

Postage Stamp War

H ONDURAS and Nicaragua were on the verge of running up the curtain on their own little show in honor of Mars, the god of war-all over a postage stamp. Nicaragua issued a stamp bearing a map which showed an area along the Honduras boundary as "territory in dispute." Hondurans claimed it was an affront to their sovereignty, citing the Spanish award which both sides accepted in 1906 and which was supposed to have settled the territory question. Folsom prison officials relented. His "Stealing Through Life" attracted wide attention. He became a model prisoner, with the first success of his writing efforts. Now he is free, after serving 11 years of a 25-year sentence. The total of all his sentences would have stretched beyond a life term. He is now thirty-nine years old.

His criminal career began in Oakland in 1914, with petty thievery, which kept him pretty steadily in jail thereafter. In 1914, he was the notorious "ammonia bandit" of Oakland, finally taken in a daring bank robbery. His loss of credits barred him from writing for a long time, but this was lifted after his numerous fiction stories began to get attention.

Most of California's prison writers came to grief, after they were released, as I recall it. There was only one who made a "clean break." He is a bit of a mystery man, his real name carefully concealed by the prison authorities. School Is Training Ground for Manners

D EAR Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether my son, who is fourteen, ought to continue to give up his seat on the school bus to girls going back and forth from high school? He complained the other day that if he has to continue this practice he will have to stand all spring since the bus to tor small to provide seats for everyone? Answer: Since a school bus can hardly be rated as a public conveyance, I am afraid that as long as the seating is inadequate to take care of everyone, the boys wil all have to give up their seats to the girls standing near them-and especially is this true if they know the girls. This seems very unfair, I know, but it would really be demoralizing to his social training were he to do otherwise. Even in a public bus a man who is a gentleman would not think of remaining seated if the woman standing in front of him were someone he knew.

Real Epicure Insists on Mixing Own Salad

DEAR Mrs. Post: In a certain restaurant at which I eat my lunch every day, when I order a salad bowl of greens they bring the dressing in a separate pitcher. Is it proper to mix the salad in the bowl or to put a little salad on one's plate at a time and pour the dressing over it? People seem to do both and I wonder why the bowl and wooden implements are provided if one is not supposed to mix it first.

Answer: Genuine salad lovers all mix salad thoroughly beforehand, but others would be more inclined to pour the dressing on a portion at a time. In other words, you do as you choose.

Decorative Covers Only.

D EAR Mrs. Post: Is it incorrect to keep dust covers on books when these are displayed in open book shelves? I have kept on the covers because they were more decorative than the books themselves and thought they would add color to the living room. My daughter now comes home from college and says they must come off because in bad taste. Where did she get this idea?

Answer: If you mean they have their own paper jackets on them, I think these look too much like a store. But if they are uniform covers, which you have put on for decorative color, then leave them on by

Depends on Circumstances. D EAR Mrs. Post: Socially I know it is proper for a young man to rise when women enter the room. but does this apply equally when a woman teacher enters the classroom?

Answer: If the class is very small the boys (or young men) would naturally rise for a woman teacher, and strictly speaking, also for a man. But in a very big class where the pupils are practically the audience and the teacher is a lecturer who takes her (or his) place on a platform, the students would remain seated.

Adopting a Child. DEAR Mrs. Post: We are expecting a young boy from an orphanage very soon, having been able to get him through a local politician who recommended us highly and used his influence. Is there anything we could do to show our appreciation to him? I do not know his wife.

Answer: I think it would be better to wait until the child has become thoroughly established in your family and then write the politician a letter and tell him how happy Johnny has made you.

Say What You Mean. D EAR Mrs. Post: Even weddings in our community are not rare and at a great many of them people wear full evening regalia. I am going to have a small evening wedding at home only because this is the time that seems best suited to our plans. How can we make it clear to the guests that this will not be a dress occasion? Otherwise some will come in evening clothes and others will not, and some might feel uncomfortable. Answer: At the end of the invita-tions write "Not evening dress."

Don't Dirty a Doily. D EAR Mrs. Post: When the finger bowl is brought to the table on the dessert plate, on which is a lace doily, how does one remove the finger bowl to the table, and where is it put? Is the doily removed with it or is dessert put on the doily?

Answer: The doily should be lifted off with the finger bowl and both put down at your place wherever there is room. On no account put anything eatable on top of a lace

Save Enamel of Teeth

DR. JAMES W. BARTON

AN ADVERTISEMENT of a paint manufacturer is "Save the Surface and You Save All." And this is true regarding the surface of wood, iron and other materials.

Similarly there was a tendency a few years ago to apply this slogan to the care of the teeth-save the surface (enamel) and > you save the whole tooth. However, when dental research workers found that it was possible for teeth to decay notwithstanding that the enamel covering was apparently not broken, other causes for dental decay were sought, with the result that now dentists and physicians recommend the use of more leafy vegetables and fruits and less of starch foods and meats. So popular has this idea of preventing decay of teeth by the use of leafy vegetables and fruits be-come that many adults—teachers and parents—are not so insistent upon having the children brush their teeth as they formerly were.

Brushing Still Important. Now what about brushing the teeth and saving the enamel? Is brushing the teeth still an important point in preventing decay?

Dr. N. Kobrin in a radio address under the auspices of the Oral Hygiene Committee of Greater New York, said: "The toothbrush must be classed as one of the valuable aids in the prevention of tooth decay. At the Dental college of the University of Pennsylvania Professor Appleton has done some fine research on the question of the number of bacteria (organisms) in the mouth following the brushing of the teeth. His study included several hundred cases. The greatest number of bacteria were found in the mouth in the morning immediately on arising. After the teeth had been cleaned the number of bacteria dropped 50 per cent; by the noontime meal, bacteria had increased 20 per cent and dropped that much after brushing, increasing again before dinner to 75 per cent, after which the count fell 25 per cent when the teeth were cleaned.'

This doesn't mean that brushing the teeth will prevent all decay but it does mean that the chances of decav through the surface of the tooth will be just half as many if the teeth are brushed regularly.

Diet for Middle Age.

Many men and women as they approach middle age begin to put on considerable weight. They have reached a stage in their lives when they do not have to do any hard physical work and can choose just about what they like to eat. It is only natural that with no exercise and eating plenty of the foods they like, fat will accumulate.

Now, at middle age, excess fat is always a liability and if, as it often happens, the individual has any weakness, hereditary or acquired, in the heart, blood vessels or kidnevs then the excess weight can be a menace to health and to life itself. The unfortunate point about this is that while the foods that increase weight can be cut down with safety in these cases, the foods that must be eaten to preserve strength and maintain body tissue, the proteidsmeat, eggs, fish-cannot be eaten as freely as when there is no heart, kidney or blood vessel condition to consider. Some of the suggestions offered to these overweight middle-aged individuals with the tendency to heart, blood vessel and kidney complica-

1. Eat the "lean" meats such as steaks, roast beef, white meat of turkey or chicken, lamb chops without any fat. 2. Avoid the fat meats such as pork, bacon, sausage, goose, duck, spiced and canned meats. 3. Avoid salmon, herring, sardines, mackerel, all shell-fish except.

raw oysters. Avoid fried fish or fish with rich sauces. 4. Eat eggs-soft boiled, omelette, poached, or scrambled. 5. Avoid pastries, pies, candies, ice cream. 6. Avoid cheese, except cottage

7. Avoid mustard, catsup, horseradish.

8. Salads should be eaten without 9. Drink water, buttermilk, weak tea or coffee.

10. Avoid chocolate, sweet drinks, alcoholic and malt drinks. 11. Avoid turnips, corn, beets, onions, garlic, cabbage, cucumbers, raw vegetables, and some of the raw fruits that cause gas. 12. Eat fresh and stewed fruits not sweetened.

13. Eat all light cooked vegetables -peas, string beans, spinach, carrots, asparagus, tomatoes and cel-

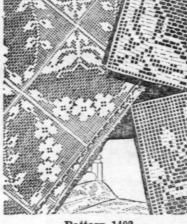

14. Drink a half glass of water an hour before meals.

Pare and slice apples. Stew to pulp. Stir in butter, lemon juice and sugar to taste. Allow apple sauce to cool. Then stir in the beaten egg. Spread cold butter rather thickly on a plain tin mold and cover with a thick layer of bread crumbs, pressing down the crumbs to make them adhere to the butter. Pour over the apple sauce and put on another layer of crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) until the crumbs are brown and come away from the mold. Put plate on top of mold and invert to turn out. Dust with powdered sugar and cinnamon and

AN Japan really conquer China? You can hear this question posed almost wherever you find groups discussing the present hostilities in the Far East. And the answer usually provided is that no nation will ever conquer China, for China's hundreds of millions (so it is said) will eventually reconquer an invader by absorption. There are, according to the most | Orient is about the time that Rusmodern of qualified oriental observ- sian planes drove several crack Chiers, reasons why Japan may never | nese divisions scurrying out of Barconquer China, but this time-honored reason is not one of them. The chief reason is one which automatically denies this one. It is the long-awaited bloom of Chinese nationalism, which appears to have flowered at last.

China has been invaded periodically for a good many years. Perhaps because of the belief of Chinese political leaders in the nation's | incident around Marco Polo bridge capacity for racial absorption, perpeace which characterizes the Chi- expected Tokyo will have 400,000 nese, China, even as late as a cou- men in the field. ole of years ago, was content to believe that she could eventually weather storms of Japanese invasion without fighting. The Japanese were quick to discover this, and began to believe that they could cut themselves larger and larger chunks of their neighbor's territory virtually without fighting.

The attitudes of both sides were clearly demonstrated when the Japanese successfully invaded Mannight, has forgotten her thousand churia in 1931. Jehol in 1932, eastern Hopei in 1933, Chahar in 1934 and 1935, and Suiyuan in 1936.

The manner of these conquests try of the hated invader is over. was encouraged by the Chinese reluctance to fight back. Always a geographic frontier separated territories controlled by the Chinese from those controlled by the Japanese. "For the sake of peace," Japan would demand that the Chinese side of the frontier area be demilitarized. In the demilitarized zone it would not be long before what was termed a "popular autonomous movement" would spring up, and a government would be formed which was "friendly" to Japan; in a short time Japan would have quietly assumed political control of the

No Unison Was Possible.

So, a new geographic frontier would be created. Then the Japanese government would become annoyed at "provocation" by Chinese army units once more and a new demilitarized zone would have to be established. Soon this would become an autonomous state, friendly to Japan.

And so on, and so on, and so on. About the only serious resistance Japan encountered during these invasions was that offered by the local troops of some Chinese war lord. Internal jealousies and conflict were such that no unified national opposition was possible. It was this condition which provoked a high officer in the French Indo China army, traveling in China, to declare that three divisions of any crack European army could conquer the whole country and a single brigade could police it thereafter.

In this belief Japan concurred. Was it not ner custom to send out an expeditionary force of 20,000 to 30,000 men, and quickly clean up the local Chinese unit of opposition with such despatch that no other war lord would be willing to send his men against them? It took only and China will have no more of it. a few Japanese divisions to chase 150,000 of the best-equipped Chinese troops out of Manchuria. One of enough to put the salvation of the the favorite military jokes of the nation above their own personal gains. It has become apparent to them that they are far better off under the national Chinese government than as puppet rulers controlled by Tokyo. They are even ready and willing to co-operate with Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese dictator whom most of them hate and at whose hands many of them have felt stinging defeat.

It was only a few months ago that his truth became apparent to both Japan and China itself. That was when Chiang was kidnaped and held Merely cabbages! A few years ago prisoner for a short time.

And Japan's army may have decided that the occasion must immediately be made to stamp out this new Chinese national unity.

All of this sounds like the most optimistic picture for China in a long, long time, and probably it is. But China is yet hardly ready or able to set back a real Japanese military invasion on a large scale. Japan's training and equipment are among the finest in the world. But what is even more important, China's military command is woefully incompetent. Its strategy of war is almost entirely a rule-book strategy, and looks pitiful against that of the Japanese command, trained well and experienced in the science of

Against the Japanese tremendous mechanical superiority the Chinese have a great superiority in numbers. Their chief hope seems to lie in keeping the Japanese occupied over a large field of operations for a long time.

Munitions Supply Problem.

Therein lies Nippon's great vulnerability. For these operations cost vast sums of money. If all of China were to carry on against them the sort of guerilla warfare conducted by the communists of the Northwest, Japan would be a povertystricken nation ere long. But who can tell whether the Chinese army officers have the ability to use so ish in their policy of conquest, the large an army in this type of war-

One of the principal difficulties in turning the Chinese army into many scattered guerilla bands to continually harass the Japanese would be that of supplying ammunitions and armament. This would not be much of a problem if the 143 divisions of the regular army could succeed in holding the coastal defenses against Japan. Inland, China has many great arsenals capable of turning out munitions, small arms, machine guns and trench mortars. If the Chinese elect to keep on fighting as they have in the early weeks of the war, it may be a contest to see which nation can endure impoverishment the longest. In that vincial war lords have seen the light case, China, on her record, would appear in a fair way to win.

In sharp contrast to the scattered provincial armies are these trained Chinese nationals.

HOT WEATHER ADDS TO DAIRY TROUBLE

Rations, Heat, Flys Check an Even Milk Flow.

By John A. Arey, Extension Dairy Special-ist, North Carolina State College. WNU Service.

Faulty rations, heat and flies are blamed for the difficulty of getting cows to produce a full, even flow of milk through the summer. Grazing in most permanent pastures gets short and tough, and the grass contains less protein than earlier in the Temporary grazing crops such as lespedeza and sudan grass are needed to supplement the permanent pasture, or the cows should be fed silage, with the protein content of the grain mixture being increased to 20 per cent. As the grazing in the pasture decreases the quantity of grain fed should be increased. Cows suffer from heat, and if possible the place where they are kept during the hot part of the day should be provided with a shade and an ample supply of fresh water. Flies will irritate cows and keep them from producing a full milk flow. As far as possible, fly breeding places should be eliminated. Stalls and manure pits should be cleaned as often as possible, at least once a week, and the manure hauled to the fields. Fly traps and sprays will also help protect the animals from this annoyance.

Sanitation Will Prevent

or Check Turkey Disease Sanitary measures will prevent or check the development of the blackhead disease of turkeys which is killing many poults, according to Dr. E. N. Stout, State college at Fort Collins, Colo.

Some turkey growers are being victimized by irresponsible people who are selling vaccines and medicines as cures for blackhead, Dr. Stout is informed.

No drug or vaccine has been developed that has any value in curing or preventing this disease, he declares. There are, however, he adds, certain sanitary measures which are valuable in preventing or checking this disease. Turkeys should not be raised with chickens because chickens often are infested with worms which may carry microscopic parasites that cause blackhead after turkeys eat contaminated food or drink polluted

It is dangerous to allow turkeys to drink ditch water because of the danger of blackhead infection from chickens on other farms through which the ditch water flows.

"Climacteric" of an Apple

Did you ever hear of the "climacteric" of an apple? It is a new English term, likely to be used in this country, says the Rural New-Yorker. It denotes the stage of development of fruit in which all source of food supply from the parent tree is cut off and it no longer has the capacity to build up and repair itself. In this stage the fruit takes up oxygen, gives off carbon dioxide, gives off heat, loses cell turgor, and fails to maintain the wear and tear on itself. Speaking loosely this might be called the ripening stage. Most fruit is harvested just before the onset of climacteric.

Age Limit on Pullets

There is a good deal of latitude in the classification of fowls according to size, weight and age, there being no exact limits which may be called into use to designate the birds at their different stages of growth, according to a writer in the Rural New-Yorker. In ordinary usage, a pullet is a female fowl under one year of age, after which age the pullet becomes a hen. As a marketing term for young birds, however, a pullet is an immature female from 8 to 20 weeks of age from three-fourths pound to 31/2 pounds in weight.

Pre-Salted Celery

Pre-salted celery may become a new market feature if tests to be made in Dare county, N. C., this season bear out present indications. County agent C. W. Overman found celery making excellent growth in waste places near Manteo although the plants were at times covered by tide waters. Those who tasted the celery said the tide water gave the celery just enough salt to make it highly palatable. At any rate, a number of growers are trying plants.

Avian Paralysis in Poultry

In studies at Massachusetts State college avian paralysis is believed to be due to cell or filterable virus which affects the nervous system. It has been transmitted through the egg, though the manner of transmission is not fully understood. Birds with resistance and with susceptibility to the disease have been found. The question remains open and much additional study is necessary to clear up many of the important points.

Honey Locust Pods as Feed

Honey locust pods are used for cattle and hog feed on Goldworth farm, Villa Rica, Georgia, according to a writer in the Farm Journal. Pods from trees in pasture fields are eaten greedily from the ground beneath the trees. Pods from trees in other fields are gathered and ground into a meal for feeding cattle in the barn when weather prevents pasturing in winter. Cows not in milk have no other feed than grass and the honey locust pods.

They're Not All Professors— Those Absent-Minded Ones

Absent-mindedness isn't confined to the professors, says the "I'm late as it is."

The late Dwight W. Morrow once telephoned his secretary plained that he didn't know what from Philadelphia, to inquire, "What am I in Philadelphia for?"

me," the friend said.

Form of Beauty

BEAUTY depends more upon the movement of the face, than upon the form of the features when at rest. Thus a countenance habitually under the influence of amiable feelings, acquires a beauty of the highest order, from the frequency with which such feelings are the originating causes of the movement or expressions which stamp their character upon it .- Mrs. S. C. Hall.

The more we do, the more we can do; the more busy we are, the more leisure we have. A busy man always has time.

"If we go nearby," Stern said.

They entered the nearest restaurant and sat down. Stern comwas the matter with him, he didn't seem to be hungry.

"Beg pardon, sir," the waiter said, "but it's no wonder, sir. You just finished your lunch about ten minutes ago.'

Those Who Are Good Must of Needs Match

I doubt whether anything in the world can beautify a soul more spontaneously, more naturally, than the knowledge that some where in its neighborhood there exists a pure and noble being whom it can unreservedly love. When the soul has veritably drawn near to such a being, beauty is no longer a lovely, lifeless thing, that one exhibits to a stranger, for it takes unto itself an imperious existence, and its activity becomes so natural as to be henceforth irresistible. Wherefore you will do well to think it over, for none are alone.-Maeter

Uncertain, too, inbeen partially cooked. Whatever vegetable you choose, part of the pulp should be removed and mixed with the bread crumbs or rice which furnish the foundation of the stuffing. Slices should be cut from the tops of eggplants, peppers and tomatoes. If small acorn squashes are used, they should be cut in half and the seeds removed. The stuffings should be very well seasoned with salt, pepper, minced onion and whatever herbs you like. In addition minced ham, bits of cooked bacon or any other meats which you have on hand will add to the flavor. Flaked sardines or anchovy paste may be used instead. If a plain stuffing is used, grated cheese may be sprinkled over the top of the stuffed vegetables before they are baked.

Both peppers and tomatoes are particularly good with a combination of raw corn, cut from the cob, well seasoned with minced onion, salt, pepper and paprika. You may like to drop an egg on top of each tomato or pepper stuffed in this way. By the time the eggs are set, the vegetables will be done to a Elinor had lied about her age. But turn in a moderate oven.

Special Stuffed Squash.

3 acorn squashes Salt, pepper 2 cups creamed celery onion, minced 2 strips pimiento Dry bread crumbs

Bacon Wash and dry squash. Cut in halves, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Bake in a derate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until almost tender, about 30 minutes. Fill centers with creamed celery, to which the minced onion and chopped pimiento have been added. Cover top with crumbs and lay on slices of bacon. Return to oven and cook until the bacon is crisp and crumbs are brown. Baked Tomatoes.

Cut tomatoes in halves. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and sugar. Arrange a few pieces of minced onion on each half, dot with butter or bacon fat and bake in a modern oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit), 15 to 20 minutes

Baked Stuffed Eggplant.

1 eggplant tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons minced onion 3 cups soft bread crumbs l teaspoon salt tablespoon lemon juice Wash eggplant and cook in boiling salted water 20 minutes. Remove from water and drain. Cut slice from side and remove pulp with a spoon. Melt butter, add minced onion and cook three minutes. Add bread crumbs, seasonings and finely cut pulp. Refill eggplant shell with stuffing, and bake in a hot oven, (450 degrees Fahrenheit,) until brown. Serve with baked halved tomatoes.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Salmon.

6 tomatoes cup flaked salmon 2 teaspoons minced onion 1 tablespoon lemon juice 2 tablespoons melted butter Paprika

Bay leaf Select firm tomatoes of the same size, cut slices from the tops and remove part of the pulp. To salmon flaked add minced onion, lemon juice, melted butter, a sprinkling of paprika and the tomato pulp. Stuff the tomato cups with the mixture, place a small piece of bay leaf on each one, put in a greased baking pan and bake about 15 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) until the tomatoes are tender. Serve on a hot platter with a white or brown sauce.

Deviled Corn.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"I HAVE six children and I'm proud of it!" said the lady 'e'no lives on the hill. "I don't moun that I think I'm especially clever just for having them-don't get me wrong. But I think to have such a big family and manage my home as nicely as I do is quite something if I do say so myself. In fact I think I'm as much an artist as if I painted the pictures for the magazine cov-

We think so, too. Especially when she showed us the ingenious ways she had managed to tuck six children away in her small colonial cottage. It wouldn't have been any trick on a big budget, but on an income like theirs it certainly meant finesse.

The four boys were bunked together dormitory fashion with four cots all alike across one room. The walls were prepared in a simple all-over design with rather faint green trees on a white ground. The woodwork in this room was painted in the same shade of pale green while the curtains were of a plain fabric in bright red made with rings so you could pull them back and forth to serve as both glass curtains and window shades. The main problem here was space for the boys to keep their things. Two small old dressers had the gewgaws taken off and a coat of light green paint, and this made room for one big drawer and one little drawer for each boy. In addition to this their mother bought four of those utility cabinets you see in the stores, one for each boy, to use for keeping his hang-up clothes. These four cabinets also got a coat of light green paint and stood side by side in a row against an unobtrusive wall. There wasn't room left for anything else when all this got into place, so the boys used their beds

The two little girls have a room together where some thought had gone into creating an attractive effect on a small budget. Here an inexpensive but delightful wall paper has been used . . . white with ight blue plaids through it. Then for bedspread and curtains a dress dimity in white with pink flowers running riot all over it. The woodwork in this room was painted light blue as was the dresser and two little chairs had blue slip covers placed flutter over the prospect of making new curtains and draperies for her living room. She recently bought a sofa and chair in modern style covered in blue and piped in soft green, an unusual but pleasant color combination. Her new rug is tan and brown and she has a white fireplace and a new spinet piano with a white leather covered stool. She is planning to add either a bookcase or a desk and an occasional chair, perhaps in white or eggshell leather. The walls of the room are an offwhite but that can be changed if desired.

Since this modern room replaces a maple ensemble that's graduated to the back of the house, she wants to retain something of the warmth and friendliness that the room has always had before. With that in mind she asks what she should do about the draperies and whether we'd advise a new wall color . . if so what?

We're inclined to advise a warm deep dusty beige for the walls of this room, then maybe one of those hand blocked modern linen prints in blues and greens. Sometimes you run across quite a distinguished pattern with that combination. If not use blue on natural linen. Then repeat green and white in accessories for the room.

Another very handsome thing to do in this room would be to have the walls painted in the green of the pipings, then add draperies and lamps of white and accessories in blues

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon ex-press is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For threegenerations one woman has told another how to go "smil-ing through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide digtress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
