SAFETY COUNCIL HAS BUSY MEETING

A generalized discussion of traffic safety measures was held at a meeting of the Washington County Safety Council in the city auditorium at Hartford on Monday evening, October 4. A number of "spots" hazardous to traffic, such as the Pleasant Hill curve on Highway 60 immediately west of the city of Hartford, were brought to the attention of the council.

A Hartford member of the council, E. C. Grissmann, reported that gravel, including good sized pebbles, continually comes down on Highway 60 from the town road located along the curve at Pleasant Hill, thus constituting a hazard to motorists traveling over that spot. He was told that the town board of Hartford would be the proper authorities to approach in order that a mat may be placed on the town road to correct the situation.

The question of making state trunk highways arterials, particularly Highway 60, was again discussed. At its June meeting, the council had recommended that Washington, Dodge, and Ozaukee counties unite in asking the state highway commission at Madison to take action making this route an arterial along its entire length, except where it crosses Federal Highways 41 and 45. Chairman Harold Riley, West Bend, reported that as yet no action had been taken by the state commission. Should such action be taken, it would mean that motorists entering 60 from state roads would be compelled to come to a full stop before going into the main arterial. It was pointed out that at present all state trunk highways are not through arterials, only certain designated ones being of this type.

The council heard a report that as yet no action had been taken against what the council terms an illegally placed billboard at the intersection of Highways 45-55 and 60 on a curve a mile west of Jackson. It was indicated, however, that such action will be forthcoming shortly. Action will be taken, also, on a sign giving confusing directions at the intersection of Highways 45-55 and 28 at the north village limits of Kewaskum.

Some discussion was held on safety patrols for schools and the displaying of safety bulletins in schools and on bulletin boards along roads near schools, after which the council adjourned.

The next meeting will be held at Slinger at 8 p. m. on Monday, Nov. 1.

Mixed Mustard Pickles

Use two quarts each of beans, cauliflower, tiny cucumbers and silver-skinned onions. Cut the beans and break the cauliflower into flowerets. The cucumbers may be sliced lengthwise if desired. Shred five large peppers and put all on to boil in a gallon of vinegar. When boiling take up the vegetables and return the vinegar to the kettle. Mix one ounce tumeric, one-half pound mustard, three cups brown sugar, two cups flour, one-half cup salt and enough cold vinegar to form a paste. Add this paste to the hot vinegar and stir well blended. Then add the vegetables and heat until scalding hot again. Seal at once.

JUMPER TELLS PETER WHO THE STRANGER IS

PETER RABBIT could hardly believe what he had seen—the big black stranger, with the great terrible claws, backing away from Jimmy Skunk, and Jimmy acting just as if he were in the habit of meeting this stranger every day and making him get out of his way. And yet he knew that Jimmy never had seen him before. Peter always had had a great deal of respect for Jimmy Skunk. He knew that Jimmy just laughed at Reddy Fox, although Reddy is ever so much bigger than he, and he knew that Bowser the Hound always turned aside if he happened to meet Jimmy. But he really had not thought that Jimmy would dare to treat this great stranger so, and if he hadn't seen it himself he wouldn't have believed it because—well, because he couldn't have believed it.

"Supposing You Tell Me Who You've Seen," Said He, Quite as if He Had No Particular Interest in the Matter.

Peter was full of wonder and excitement as he hurried away to tell all whom he should meet what he had seen. He didn't know who the stranger was. Never had he seen anyone like him in the Green Forest. The very thought of him made Peter shake with fright, even if Jimmy Skunk should say that there was nothing to be afraid of, and Peter knew that this is just what Jimmy would say when he met him. Presently as he hurried, lipperty-lipperty-ly, through the Green Forest he met his cousin, Jumper the Hare.

"Oh, Jumper! Cousin Jumper! I've seen him!" cried Peter just as soon as he was near enough to make himself heard.

Jumper sat up and looked at Peter curiously. "Supposing you tell me whom you've seen," said he quite as if he had no particular interest in the matter.

"Why, the stranger! The great big stranger who made those tracks in the snow I told you about and whom you tried to find and couldn't. I saw him just a few minutes ago. Who do you suppose he is, and do you suppose he has come to the Green Forest to stay?" cried Peter, talking so fast that the words just tumbled out.

"How should I know?" replied Jumper the Hare. "Suppose you tell me something about him. What does he look like?"

"Well, he's big," began Peter. "He's bigger than anyone else in the Green Forest. Why, he's as big as Farmer Brown's boy! He wears a black fur coat. He stands on two legs and he walks on four legs, and he hasn't any tail."

Jumper yawned just as if he weren't the least bit interested. "I've heard all that before from Sammy Jay," said he.

"And don't you believe it?" cried Peter.

Jumper the Hare smiled at Peter, and Peter knew right away by that smile that his big cousin had been teasing him. "Yes," said he, "I believe it because—well, because I've seen him myself."

"You have?" cried Peter, "and do you really know who he is?" Jumper nodded. "Yes," said he, "he's an old acquaintance of mine."

"Who?" demanded Peter, his eyes popping out with excitement.

"Tell me quick, who is he?"

"He's someone I used to know when I lived in the Green Woods before I came to live in the Green Forest on the edge of the Green Meadows," replied Jumper, speaking so slowly that Peter thought he would never get it out.

"But what's his name? Do tell me his name, Cousin Jumper," implored Peter.

"His name," replied Jumper slowly, very slowly, while Peter held his breath and leaned forward with eyes and ears and mouth wide open, "his name is—"

"Is what?" cried Peter.

"Is Buster Bear," replied Jumper the Hare.

IMPORTANCE OF WATER TO BODY

Look to Source of Supply When Choosing a Home.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE most important material which we take into our bodies through the mouth is completely lacking in food value! This sounds like a contradictory statement. It is, however, water which we are describing in these terms.

As has been proven many times, man can live much longer without food than he can without drink, which he must have, not only to satisfy his thirst craving, but for use in every body process.

The first qualifications in choosing a place of residence is a liberal and sure water supply. Those of us who live in cities and suburbs take this for granted. This is not the case, however, in the country.

It was brought to my attention in Maine when a new well was necessary. Captain Sinnott was called upon to locate the well on one of the veins of water which run at intervals through the region.

He came armed with a crocheted willow twig, which, believe it or not, turned toward the ground when it found running water. Of course, it would not be so obliging for everyone, although we were all allowed to try our hand at divining.

One or two of us actually found that we had the power, although we were scientific scoffers.

To go back to the importance of water which too often we neglect to drink in the proper quantity. At least eight glasses should be taken daily if our body machinery is to be supplied with amounts which will enable it to run efficiently.

Some of this may be taken at meals if it is drunk after food has been chewed and swallowed. The rest may be taken between meals. Part of the supply may be of course in the form of any sort of liquid beverage.

Grape Juice Flip. 1 pint grape juice 1/2 cup lemon juice 1/4 cup sugar 1 cup water 1 pint ginger ale

Combine grape juice, lemon juice, sugar and water and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour over cracked ice and add ginger ale. Makes six large glasses.

Cottage Cheese Salaq. 1/2 pound cottage cheese 1 tablespoon minced onion or chives 1 teaspoon paprika Lettuce or romaine 1 pimiento

Mix the cheese, onion or chives and paprika well and pack in a small bowl to set in the refrigerator

Veal Scalopini. 1 1/2 pounds veal steak Flour, salt, pepper Olive oil or butter 1 clove garlic 1/2 cup white wine 2 tablespoons lemon juice Parsley

Have the veal cut thin. Dust with flour, salt and pepper. Brown in the olive oil with the garlic. Add wine and lemon juice and let simmer 30 minutes, or until the veal is tender. Remove garlic. Sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Baked Cabbage and Tomatoes. 1 1/2 cups well-seasoned tomato sauce 3 cups chopped cooked cabbage 1/2 cup grated cheese 1/2 cup bread crumbs Salt Pepper

Put alternate layers of tomato sauce and cabbage in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with cheese and crumbs, salt and pepper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until slightly browned.

DOUBLE WINDOWS FOR CASEMENTS

DURING the warm times of year, casement windows that swing outward are certainly attractive. This is not only for appearance, but for the full ventilation that comes with the opening of an entire window space.

In winter, however, the situation is reversed. Out-swinging casement windows are more likely to leak than is the case with windows of other kinds. Also, the ordinary form of double window cannot be used.

When there are two or more case-mental windows in a room, it is unusual for more than one to be opened during bitter weather. This being so, all of the windows but one

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

By JEAN

YOUNG wives are always telling us that they can't drag their Buns and Bills out of the house of an evening. They are sure that they have married drips, after all.

If we are in a romantic mood when one of these confidences comes along, we are always horrified. Don't the poor girls know how lucky they are to have husbands who love their hearts? Don't they realize that they are envied the length and breadth of Maple avenue? Don't they remember that two people sitting under the same lamp was always their picture of marital bliss before they were married?

But sometimes our modern mood is upon us, and we tell our fretting friends to act their age. To use their brains. A temper, we tell them, is just a sign of an empty head.

If you really want your husband to go places with you, try to think up places that he might really like to go. Don't be unimaginative and suggest the movies every night, or a bridge party at the Simpsons.

By mere repetition he gets bored. Think up thirty-one different places you might go, and spring a new one every night in the month. Suggest ferry rides and moonlight swims and country fairs. Ten to one, by the end of the month your Ben or Bill will catch fire. If he doesn't, maybe he is a drip.

Buy Gift Only If You Want to and Are Able

DEAR Mrs. Post: Does an invitation to the wedding reception or to the wedding at the house always necessitate sending a present to the bride? I know it is a rule but I wondered just how hard and fast it was.

The question of buying presents constantly is becoming a serious handicap to our already rather strained income. In some cases we hardly know the bride and groom and in others we don't know the young people at all.

Answer: The giving of presents is much more a matter of personal feeling, and of your ability to buy them, than of rule. Although it is always rather expected that you send a present when you accept an invitation to the house, this is really not an obligation to the extent of preventing one who can not afford to send a present, from going to the wedding.

On the other hand, if the bride (or groom) is a personal friend or their families are very intimate friends you would certainly try to send a present even though her wedding was so small that you could not be invited.

When Not to Tip. DEAR Mrs. Post: I have gone for years to a very expensive hair-dressing establishment and have always left a tip for those who take care of me.

In discussing the question with a friend, she believes that their prices are exorbitant enough so that no tip is necessary. To substantiate her side of the argument she gave me for example some of the better restaurants in which no tips are expected.

Answer: Unless the restaurant or the hairdressers have signs plainly explaining that no tipping is permitted, you would be expected to tip at the usual rates. And unless your total bill is very high your percentage would, if anything, be slightly higher than in similar places having cheaper rates.

Use of Monograms. DEAR Mrs. Post: What is the proper arrangement of initials in a monogram? I am thinking now of the monogram that has a taller initial in the center. Also, is a monogram ever carried out on the envelopes, and if not, may a return address be put on the flaps of envelopes to be used with paper marked with a monogram?

Answer: When the initial in the center is larger it is always the initial of the surname. It is proper, if you like it, to have the address stamped on the flap of the envelope for paper marked with a monogram, although strictly speaking formal notes are sent without any return address.

Paper marked with a monogram is more formal than paper stamped with an address but of course you can use it for any personal letters.

Women in Night Clubs. DEAR Mrs. Post: I was much interested in your article in which you said that women should not go to a night club unaccompanied by a man.

Won't you please tell me whether this also applies to the early dinner hour? I sometimes go to New York accompanied by my mother, or other older woman relative, and instead of having dinner in a quiet restaurant we like to go to one that has Broadway atmosphere with music and show.

Answer: A young woman dining no matter where and staying for awhile with her mother or other older woman relative is quite a different situation from that of two young women going late to a night club without a man!

Use Logical Form. DEAR Mrs. Post: Is there a proper answer to make when someone expresses thanks for a birthday card or other slight remembrance? If I say, "I'm glad you liked it," then I feel that I am assuming they liked the card when all the person may have said was "Thank you."

I always find the situation awkward and wonder whether there is some suitable reply to be used at such times.

Answer: If they admire the card or think it amusing, then you say, "I'm glad you like it," and if they merely thank you for having sent it then you say, "You're very welcome."

Hawking, Horseback Sport, Popular With Hungarians

Hawking is done mostly on horseback, and much the same sort of terrain is required as for following hounds. The plains of Hungary, where the country is just rough enough to be exciting and where birds are numerous, is favorable for hunting, and that doubtless is one of the reasons that falconry has never died out there, observes a writer in the New York Times.

Training the birds, either those born in captivity or captured hawks (these are the "haggards"), is an important and difficult part of preparation for hunting. The hawks are taught at first to follow a lure a very short distance, and the lure comes to mean food to them. Later on the live prey takes the place of the lure.

Hawks are taken out hooded and leashed on the wrist of the mounted huntsman, and cast off when the game is sighted. Then the trained bird mounts until it is a speck in the sky. Then she stoops—that is, launches herself like a plummet from high above to strike the prey. The hunter follows the pursuit to be in at the death and capture the hawk.

Home Heating Hints

By John... Heating Engineer

Have Your Furnace Cleaned and Inspected Now Before the Cold Weather Comes Along.

HERE'S a straight hint about your heating plant that will save you a lot of money. Have your furnace cleaned. It is one of the great precautions you can take to insure its most economical operation during the winter season.

When the heating surface is covered with soot and ash, as much as one-sixteenth of an inch of soot will act as an insulator against the heat, being five times as effective as asbestos. It wastes fuel and money.

HERE'S ONLY ONE

By SOPHIE KERR

Preparing to close her summer home and spend the winter in France with a great-aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, Rachel, twenty and pretty, that she tell her understanding soul, finds the task difficult...

"Are you calling me a lady?"
"Not offensively."

The next morning Anne had a talk with Hobart Grable while Rachel took her passport for the necessary visa. Hobart was gloomy and annoyed about her going away for the winter...

"I depend on you to look after her," said Anne with mild malice. "Every month when you pay her allowance you must go and call on her and her friend Pink. It'll do you good, Hobart, to find out what the young moderns are thinking."

"I wouldn't go near 'em on a bet, Anne, it's unkind of you to go away this particular winter. I've taken season tickets for the opera, Lily Pons is coming back and there's a new dramatic soprano from Norway who's the greatest Isolde living today...

When she came away Anne wondered if in the end she might be driven to the shelter of Hobart Grable's unchanging loyalty just because it was unchanging. But presently she forgot him in meeting Rachel and trying once more to discover, in the short time left, what wall had risen between them. It was all as usual on the surface...

CHAPTER IV
"If you're going to do any prolonged phoning I'll leave you," said Pink. "I'm due back at the office."

of the new mascara on Rachel's long lashes vermillion lipstick—"Angel!" exclaimed Pink, at last, "You're a knockout! Now we'll see how long this stuff stays put!"

Rhoda had to climb three flights to the Steeles' and the stairs grew steeper and darker with each floor. The narrow halls were full of cooking smells and the whole place was rackerly with radios at full blast...

Rhoda came in, carrying a big casserole. "It's stew tonight," she said, "with everything in it except the mouse Tom cat caught yesterday. Come along with the salad, Pink. We're going very ritzy—three courses. Oliver, slice the bread. Tom has to make the coffee."

"Invaluable on Broadway, fishing, if you have got the right bait," said Oliver. "I wish I had it."

"You, darling, are like Mrs. Moriarty's Christmas tree—purely for ornamentation." The bread was a great fresh Italian loaf, the stew was hot and full of flavor. There were chopped chives and a rumor of garlic in the salad, the cheese was Bel Paese at its best, and Tom's coffee would have pleased the great Montagne...

"The dainties of my getting a job," said Rachel. "I want to tell you one thing," said Rhoda, her earrings waving, "you must find something where you won't crowd out any girl who needs the money. You've got enough to live on, haven't you? Well then, you ought to go into a field where it's sort of specialized and meritorious and just anybody can't get by. See what I mean? That way you stand on your own and if you didn't do it, nobody else would."

"Do you sing or act?" put in Oliver. "I'm thinking of radio." "I'm sorry, I don't." "I needn't ask if you're trained as a teacher or a librarian or a play supervisor—" Tom added: "I don't believe she's a plumber or a carpenter or a paperhanger or even a good cement worker."

GOOD MANAGEMENT TO INCREASE EGGS

Early Preparation Must Be Made for Pullet.

By Roy S. Dearsteyne, Head Poultry Department, North Carolina State College. The poultryman who has a well managed flock is the poultryman who will receive the biggest returns from the fall increase in egg production. Pullets should be ready for the laying house in early fall. The house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the birds are placed inside. Broken window panes should be replaced, and if drop curtains are used on open-front houses, these should be checked for needed repairs.

Look Slim and Sleek. The newest fashions give you a slim, sleek look even if you are not blessed with a svelte figure. The jabot model in the illustration is designed to make even the woman who is a bit on the plump side look sleek and inches slimmer.

Consult Your Vet. Although the vaccination of cattle against Bang's disease (contagious abortion) looks promising, it is still experimental and should not be done except by a skilled veterinarian, warns Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry in Washington. The vaccine being used contains living Bang's disease germs, and should not be used on mature or pregnant cattle as it may infect them.

Turnips for Horses. Turnips may be fed to horses either boiled or raw, though this feed is not a common one for this class of stock, advises a writer in the Montreal Herald. Roots should not be depended on for the energy needed by working horses. Roots are about 90 per cent water, so that it would take 100 pounds of dry feed to equal 10 pounds of hay in dry feed. It is doubtful whether turnips would have any effect on heavies.

Confining Poultry. Trim the tips of chicken's wings, perhaps one wing more than the other, to keep them from flying over the fence, is the advice of the Indiana Farmer's Guide. Uneven trimming will unbalance the bird when an attempt to fly needs to be taken off to stop this practice and little attractiveness of the bird will be lost. This suggestion is the most economical and practical for the poultryman.

Diagnosing Pullorum. It is practically impossible to make a diagnosis of pullorum disease without the use of laboratory facilities. If the chicks are autopsied we may find white cheesy-like patches growing in the lungs. Pullorum disease is one of the few ailments that would cause this condition. This disease usually shows up before chicks are 10 days old and this aids us in making the diagnosis. The unabsorbed yolk is not a reliable indication.

Fall Fashion Parade

BE THE first to wear the new Fall fashions in your group—let Sew-Your-Own help you to step right out in front, in the parade of new Fall Fashions. Today's trio gives you wide choice. Your first occasion frock if you are young and slim is a good looking basque model; for run-around a pretty yoke model that is as easy to make as it is to wear; and if you are full bodied a jabot model that takes away inches.

Plan now to visit the fruit grounds and see the high quality fruit Washington county grows.

PULLETS—FALL MOVING TO LAYING HOUSE

Just when is the best time to move pullets to the range to the laying house?
It's a question that poultrymen raise every year, and anyone of several reasons may indicate that it's time to do the moving.
Conditions which J. B. Hayes, state extension poultryman, gives for moving pullets to the laying house include crowded roosting quarters when for lack of space, some are sleeping on the floor, which makes all birds subject to an outbreak of cold; when a few eggs are found on roasts, or when cold falls rains set in.

Hayes regards the moving of pullets to the laying house as the operation that is best done quietly. The windows of the laying house he would leave open to furnish plenty of fresh air and ventilation and the other three sides closed to avoid draft.

It is well not to leave pullets on range after they start laying under crowded conditions or during a period of cold fall rains. The houses should be kept open and well ventilated. This is necessary in order that the weather may be hardened off before cold weather. By giving attention to moving at the proper time and to hardening off, much will be done to prevent the colds that may otherwise develop in flocks at this time of the year.

MORE CABBAGE IN PROSPECT FOR WISCONSIN THIS YEAR

There ought to be a lot of cabbage for "Jiggs' dinners" this winter, and sauerkraut lovers should have their appetites satisfied, too. In other words, the supply of cabbage this year is much larger than that of last year, according to estimates of the crop reported to the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture.
Cabbage growers in the state report much larger acreages of both cabbage for kraut and for market than average, and although some damage was done during August by the dry, hot weather, the state's production this year is expected to be considerably above that harvested last year.

Present estimates of corn production are slightly lower than a month ago, but the crop of 2,549,000,000 bushels is still 67 per cent above last year and slightly above average production for the country.

NEW BALL GROUNDS IN PARK

WEST BEND—PWA work is now in progress at West Bend city park, to construct what will prove to be, in every particular, one of Wisconsin's finest baseball parks. The new athletic field will be just east of the park. An 8-tier grandstand with a seating capacity of 1,000 will also be built surrounding the infield. The field will be enclosed and will be equipped with lights for night playing. Besides the regular big field, there will be three softball diamonds. A number of tennis courts will also be constructed.

COURT FIGHT ISN'T ENDED

Lawyers See the Judiciary Still Threatened... Sumners Says People Lose Control of Government

Il Duce and Der Reichsfuehrer Review Nazi Troops in Munich.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Bar for Free Courts

CONVINCED that the independence of the federal judiciary is still threatened, despite the defeat of the plan to enlarge the Supreme court, the American Bar association, in session in Kansas City, voted unanimously to authorize a committee to keep up the fight to preserve the freedom of the courts, as recommended by a special committee. That committee said: "There appears to be no likelihood that efforts to re-make the courts of the United States will not be renewed. Your special committee is of the opinion that the association ought to maintain itself in readiness to meet such issues as they may recur, rather than to rely upon impromptu organization for the purpose."

The lawyers listened to many speeches, both attacking and defending President Roosevelt's court program and his appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme court. The climax to all this came when Hatton W. Sumners of Texas, chairman of the house judiciary committee, arose to talk. He had a prepared address, but shifted to an extemporaneous talk in which he declared the people have lost control of the government of the United States and it has passed into the hands of a million people in its executive department, in which only one man was elected, and which the people could not control.

"What are we going to do about it?" Sumners cried. "Are you willing to join a battalion of death to save the Constitution and the government?" "As we look to the future, we are rapidly approaching a crisis when it will be decided whether our economic system and our government will stand or fall. "I mean actually. A very serious situation is before the people. It means we have got to do something soon. We have got to balance the budget. We have got to decentralize government responsibility."

Cummings Hasn't Quit Fight

ATTORNEY GENERAL CUMMINGS in his press conference anticipated strongly that the administration intends to push for the court reforms the President has demanded. To support this position he produced the annual report of the judicial conference composed of the chief justice and senior circuit judges. It recommended appointment of 16 additional federal judges. "In this report" said Mr. Cummings, "the judiciary has capitulated. They admit now there is congestion and delay in the judicial system. They ask for additional judges to provide relief. This is a complete capitulation and a welcome one."

O'Mahoney Butts In

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, on the way to Seattle, first entered the "enemy's" country when he crossed the border of Wyoming, the state of Joseph O'Mahoney, leader of the anti-Supreme court enlargement forces. Mr. Roosevelt's train reached Cheyenne in the early morning, and there, among the well-wishers, was Joseph, though he had pointedly not been invited to board the train. He walked alongside the President's car and Mrs. Roosevelt emerged, shook his hand and asked after Mrs. O'Mahoney.

Senator O'Mahoney

The senator then entered the private car and he and Mr. Roosevelt shook hands and said "Hello," but the atmosphere was decidedly chilling; he took leave of the party at Casper, Wyo., after accompanying the President and his group on a drive about that city.

The Chief Executive spent two days in Yellowstone national park, and then went on to Boise, Idaho; set, and motions of the planets. Allegorical personages figure in the action of the clock, and at noon visitors come to see the Twelve Apostles appear and kneel at the feet of Jesus Christ while the cock crows three times. The present clock is considered a mechanical masterpiece and is the third to be erected on the cathedral. The first clock, begun in 1352, was used for 200 years, and in the latter Sixteenth century a second astronomical clock replaced it.

to the Bonneville dam near Portland, and thence to Seattle. After a pleasant visit with his grandchildren, Mr. Roosevelt boarded the destroyer Phelps and went to Victoria, B. C., for a "good neighbor" call on Lieutenant Governor Hamber. His schedule thereafter included a night at Lake Crescent, Wash., a drive around the Olympic peninsula ending at Tacoma, and then the eastward trip with stops at Grand Coulee and Fort Pock dams, Grand Forks, N. D., and St. Paul, and a few hours in Chicago to dedicate the new Boulevard bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river.

Soviet Helping China?

JAPANESE officials in Shanghai asserted they had learned that Marshal Galentz - Blucher, commander of the Russian Far East army, was directing the Chinese campaign against Japan by telephone from his Siberian headquarters. According to Domei, the Japanese news agency, munitions and other military supplies are being transported by trucks into China across the province of Sinkiang from Soviet Siberia. If these reports are true it may be Stalin has decided the time has come for Russia to take sides with China openly, and that would make things tough for the Japanese invaders.

With callous brutality Japan continued the air raids on Nanking, Canton and other large Chinese cities, the bombs slaughtering thousands of helpless civilians. The utter contempt for protests of western nations shown by Japan seemed warranted by the failure to insist on respect for the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China. For this failure Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek blames especially the United States. "This war," said he, "will last as long as Japanese aggression lasts in China."

Russia Warns Japan

TOKYO officially notified Moscow that the Chinese were plotting to attack the Russian embassy in Nanking with planes disguised as Japanese aircraft, for the purpose of involving the Soviet government in the Sino-Japanese conflict. With the equivalent of "Oh, yeah!", Russia retorted with a stern warning that it would hold Japan responsible for any bombing of the embassy, intentional or accidental. The Soviet officials said they considered the reported plot a "pure prevarication showing the intention of some Japanese military powers to bombard the Soviet embassy intentionally and then try to escape responsibility."

The League of Nations adopted a resolution severely condemning Japan for the aerial bombardment of defenseless Chinese cities, and Tokyo, indignantly, charged the league of acting without verifying the facts. To the protests of five great powers, previously filed, the Japanese government replied with the assertion that the bombing of Nanking was "necessary for our purpose."

The British public is becoming increasingly aroused against Japan and there is a general demand for a boycott of Japanese goods. The government has permitted an aircraft company to take a big order for fighting planes that will soon be shipped to China, and they may be manned by independent British pilots.

Yarnell's Policy Wins

ADMIRAL HARRY YARNELL was decidedly opposed to the policy of Washington to withdraw American warships from Chinese waters in the face of danger. His protests have been considered by the general board of the Navy department and his program approved. Consequently our naval vessels will remain there to protect our nationals "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

Auto Union Shake-Up

SEVERAL times Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, has intimated that there were too many radicals among the leaders of that union. Now, allegedly for reasons of economy, he has got rid of some of them. These organizers have been let out: Victor Reuther, one of the leaders in the General Motors strike at Flint, Mich., last winter; Robert Kanter, Stanley Novak, Melvin Bishop and William Tonn of Detroit; R. D. Richter of Saginaw; Charles Rigby, Ohio; Frank McMillan, Kansas City; Eugene Stauder, Frank Barbee and Frank Schutz, Indiana.

Martin also announced he had promoted Loren Houser to be organizational director for Detroit. Elmer Dowell was made director of all General Motors locals in the nation. R. J. Thomas, international vice president, has been appointed director of all Chrysler locals, and Richard T. Frankenstein, director of the organization program among Ford Motor company employees.

Lester Washburn of Lansing, Mich., leader of the "labor holiday" last spring, was made director of the U. A. W. for western Michigan, and Charles Madden, Pontiac, director of eastern Michigan outside of Detroit.

Italy Wins "Parity"

GREAT BRITAIN and France yielded to the demands of Mussolini and granted "parity" to Italy in the anti-piracy patrol of the Mediterranean. That sea was divided into three zones. The Italian zone includes the extensive Italian coast line, the Tyrrhenian sea around Sardinia and, in the east, the coast of the Libyan colony. The Aegean sea is assigned to Britain; and France will guard the Syrian coast and the sea lane between Marseilles and Algiers.

All three zones extend east to the Suez canal since all three powers are interested in keeping open that gateway to the East.

War Dance for Duce

BENITO MUSSOLINI, visiting Adolf Hitler for the purpose of composing and presenting to the world a statement of the intentions and demands of the Italian and German governments, was received by the Nazis with great enthusiasm. Il Duce, on the way to Berlin, stood on a hill in Mecklenburg with Hitler and witnessed a big war dance staged by the reichsfuehrer that displayed the regained military might of Germany most impressively. Hitler's best officers and troops, armed with the latest weapons of death, put on a sham battle participated in by all land and air forces. In the nearby Baltic the German warships showed how they chase "Red" submarines; and at Wustrow the anti-aircraft batteries gave a demonstration of their effectiveness.

The huge munitions plants in the Ruhr district were visited, and the throngs of workers, given a holiday with pay, cheered the two dictators heartily. Every city and village was decorated. In Berlin there were tremendous demonstrations and elaborate festivities in honor of the visitor from Rome. In the midst of the display of war strength and preparedness, Hitler and Mussolini made speeches declaring their devotion to the cause of peace. At the same time they insisted the world must grant to Germany and Italy the recognition and the rights they feel are their due.

After a grand review of the Nazi army, the two dictators conferred privately. Details of the conversation were kept secret, but officials said Il Duce and Der Fuehrer not only discussed German-Italian cooperation but also talked about an understanding in southeastern Europe—the inclusion of Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and possibly Rumania in a general European realignment.

Noted Merchant Dies

EDWARD A. FILENE, best known of all Boston's merchants, died of pneumonia in the American hospital in Paris. He was seventy-seven years old. Besides being a business man, Mr. Filene was a noted social economist. He was sometimes called the apostle of mass production and distribution.

Only ten days after he took charge of the American legation in Vienna, Greenville T. Emmet died of double pneumonia. He was sixty years old and was a former law partner of President Roosevelt. He was minister to the Netherlands in 1933 and was given the Austrian post last July.

More Woe in Palestine

GREAT BRITAIN'S contested plan to divide Palestine between the Jews and the Arabs, with a slice for herself, came to the front again when Lewis Andrews, British commissioner of Galilee, was assassinated by a group of terrorists in Nazareth. Three men, two in European garb and one in peasant clothing, ambushed Andrews and shot him and his bodyguard to death. Andrews had gained the enmity of extremists because of the strictness of his rule as district commissioner.

Another instance of official action that seems to indicate a bad trend in government lately has occurred. This incident was propagated by the federal power commission, one of the numerous federal agencies that is supposed to be largely judicial in character but with administrative powers.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—Some weeks ago when the Treasury was parading a lot of names of well known individuals before a joint congressional tax committee, I discussed the purposes of the investigation and reached the conclusion that the whole affair was staged. If I remember correctly, I called it a vaudeville stunt, designed by the Treasury to save its face for having made bad guesses as to tax collections. The tax collections, as everyone knows, were much below New Deal estimates and somebody had to be the goat. So, it was natural to make rich men the goat by calling them tax evaders.

At the same time, I reported to you the fact that there was a difference of opinion among Treasury subordinates. Some of them wanted to make a great show of names of individuals who had resorted to practices not prohibited by law in order to reduce their taxes.

I did not know at that time how serious the disagreement was within the Treasury. It has only lately come out into the open. As a result, two important Treasury officials have quit their jobs and have gone back to private life. I refer to Morrison Shafroth and Russell I. Ryan, chief counsel and assistant chief counsel, respectively, of the bureau of internal revenue. These two men know more about tax evaders and tax avoiders than anybody else in the Treasury but they had one grievous fault. They wanted to be honest about the whole situation. That was a fault because being honest did not make possible a flamboyant display of hatred for taxpayers who had employed legitimate means to pay as little tax as the law permitted.

As far as I can ascertain, Messrs. Shafroth and Ryan wanted to cooperate fully with the highrups in the Treasury in so far as a tax investigation by a joint congressional committee would point the way for improvement of the law. They knew, as many others know, that the internal revenue laws have holes in them. The smart lawyers and smart taxpayers naturally have taken advantage of these holes in the law because they are human despite the fact they are rich. So, the chief counsel and his assistant proposed to Secretary Morgenthau and Treasury General Counsel Herman Oliphant that the investigation be made along lines of a scientific character, that close study be given to some of the methods that had been employed to avoid taxes. In other words, Shafroth and Ryan were anxious to develop legislation on the basis of the experiences which they had had and loopholes which they had found to be in common use. But their fault was honesty, as government officials would not be denied the vaudeville performance and the columns upon columns of publicity which Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Oliphant, not to mention President Roosevelt, desired to see.

I stayed through all of the hearings before the joint congressional committee. They ran for fourteen days. Each day the treasury trotted out another official as the witness before the committee and he was armed with a prepared statement which he read for some two hours to a committee that sat back in easy chairs and smoked cigars in comfort—while newspaper men avidly wrote stories about rich men, some good and some bad, who had committed the heinous sin of paying as little tax as the law permitted.

The resignations of Shafroth and Ryan rather convince me that the Treasury stooped to about the lowest level it has reached in recent years. Of course, it was not the first time in our history that income tax has been used for political intimidation. Reprisal is a strong word to use about government officials but I cannot escape the feeling that the Treasury used that investigation as a method of reprisal against many men who had opposed the New Deal.

Just a Big Laugh

I reach that conclusion on the basis of a review of the names which Messrs. Shafroth and Ryan refused to parade before the committee but which the Treasury itself used as the principal actors. I can add to this a statement of the fact that Under-Secretary Magill, who had charge of presenting the so-called evidence before the committee at the capitol, believed the Treasury was not following an entirely wise course in the methods it employed. But Mr. Magill went along with the scheme and there were many of the correspondents trying to do that hearing who felt he tried to do that job fairly.

So now Morrison Shafroth and Russell Ryan are back in private life and in their places are men picked by Mr. Oliphant, men who are likely to obey orders regardless of the whims of Mr. Oliphant and Secretary Morgenthau.

ed Gas and Electric company. These same individuals were directors for numerous corporations that are subsidiaries of that same company.

The federal power act provides that the commission may require directors of one power company to list themselves of connection with any other power companies—one of the strongest features of the law. The commission is empowered to make its own investigation of these interlocked directorates and then on its own motion may require such directors to appear and give the commission satisfactory reasons why they are holding places on the boards of more than one corporation. This also is a sound provision of law and undoubtedly works to the benefit of all consumers of light and power.

Before I proceed further, let it be definitely understood that I have not a great deal of respect for the Associated Gas and Electric company. Its record does not warrant my respect as an observer. Undoubtedly, however, its management complies with the terms of its corporate charter but as a great public utility it has obligations to the public beyond the terms of its charter and it is my opinion that the moral obligations are such that this age demands full observation of them.

This brings us to the crux of the power commission action. Late in September Vice Chairman Seavey of the commission had ordered the group of directors referred to above to show cause why they should not be compelled to relinquish various positions on other boards of directors. A hearing date was set. A few days before the hearing date, the directors in question resigned the positions to which the commission objected and then their attorney issued a statement which said, in effect, that they had resigned because they were convicted in the minds of the commission before the commissioners had heard the case. He used rather strong language, perhaps too strong in expressing his views.

Upon publication of the attorney's statement, Vice Chairman Seavey promptly ordered him to appear before the commission to give his reasons for the statement and to defend himself against disbarment from practice as a lawyer before the commission.

Now, let me be misunderstood, I do not know the attorney, Mr. Paxson; I know nothing about the merits of the case in question. But it is significant that an agency of the government suddenly decides that it can prevent a man from earning his living because he criticized members of that agency.

It may be that the commission must have some means of defending itself against criticism; it may likewise be that Mr. Paxson was out of bounds with the things he said, and it may be that the nation wants to see federal agencies given power to control the speech of individuals who dare to say what is in their minds. I cannot believe that it is a sound function of government under our American system for a federal agency to use or even to have power that can be employed to prevent criticism of policies of the men temporarily in power.

Bringing the case closer home: if federal agencies are going to use power to prevent free speech on the part of those with whom they come in contact, then, it seems only a short step to the point where that same agency can say to me as a writer: "Don't you criticize us; we will throw you in jail if you do."

I call attention to this general situation because, as I said at the beginning, I think it is a dangerous trend in government. I think it is time for congress to awaken and use some caution in the powers it delegates to executive agencies.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—Jack Doyle, the Irish crooner and heavyweight boxer, sometimes known as the "mild Irish rose," said the other day he had quit fighting. But now word comes from San Francisco that the mauling minstrel wants to get back in the ring and that he has signed Harry Brodie of San Francisco as manager. However, his fiancée, Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde, insists that he stick to his singing. Fighting, she says, is too brutal. Fighting, she is a daughter of the late Horace E. Dodge, automobile maker, and an heiress of the Dodge fortune.

At fourteen, Jack Doyle was heaving a 15-pound shovel on the coal docks at Queens-town. At fifteen, he was sailing the mast on a Finnish vessel. At sixteen, he was in the Irish guards, doubling in the characteristically Celtic pastimes of singing and fighting.

He is six feet four and one-half inches tall and weighs 217 pounds. With his wavy black hair and still unmarred features, he is rated as the handsomest fighter in the business. He once smacked down ten big bruisers all at once—but that was in Hollywood, when he was trying out for the screen, two years ago. He didn't screen well and picked up his fighting again, dumping Buddy Baer neatly in one round.

In 1930, he was champion of the Irish guards. Last April, he gave Kingfish Levinsky a handsome 12-round drubbing. As yet he hasn't any very notorious scalps on his belt, but he is still only twenty-four. Judith Allen, film actress, divorced him last April, and he awaits a final decree before marrying Mrs. Godde, whose divorce from Timothy Godde, London and Paris textile exporter, is also coming through. He has been here two and one-half years and writes home that he's having a wonderful time.

This writer thought the articles about the telepathy experiments at Duke university were one of the most interesting magazine serials of recent years. Dr. J. B. Rhine, with a large staff of assistants, made what appeared to be the first scientific laboratory examination of thought transference. They reported it a fact of everyday life. Their finding was that minds can communicate over long distances. Now it is announced that Dr. Rhine's book, "New Frontiers of the Mind," will appear soon. It will cover the Duke university experiments.

Dr. Rhine qualifies as a disinterested observer, having vigorously assailed fake occultism in the past. Mrs. Rhine has been his co-worker and co-laborator in exploring the world beyond the senses. They both took their doctor's degrees at the University of Chicago, later pursuing studies of abnormal psychology. In 1926 and 1927, they conducted in Boston an examination of "Margery," the famous clairvoyant. They reported that "the whole game was a base and brazen trickery, carried out cleverly enough under the guise of spirit manifestations."

Commenting recently on his work at Duke university, Dr. Rhine said: "Our results have a bearing on the general problem of the survival of life after death. They show that the mind has powers not dependent upon the senses, an assumption that is made under the theory that life can exist apart from the body."

Dr. Rhine is head of the unique parapsychological laboratory of Duke university. His telepathy experiments include 100,000 experiments in which he recorded thought transference over a distance of 1,000 miles. He said their validity, as against chance, was in the ratio of 100,000,000 to 1.

The Paraguay rebellion is one more reminder that there are no halfway stations on the road to totalitarian rule. President Rafael Franco, Gran Chaco war hero, was driven out several weeks ago, because he wanted to meet Bolivia half way and make concessions in the war settlement. Now the rebels are trying to bring him back.

When he set up his dictatorship last October, Hitler was his model. He invoked the "noble ideal of democracy," but proclaimed his own personal iron-fisted rule. He announced an extreme of both regimentation and freedom. It didn't work, but he may be president again and have another try at it.

Old General Estigarriba chased him out in February, 1936, calling him a communist. By February 20, he was back in power, chasing both the old general and the communists. He is now forty years old, trained in the army, withdrawing in 1934 and back in for the war.

Old Man Winter Wetting His Chilly Whistle, Americans Get Ready to Spend $2,000,000,000 Keeping Warm.

Old Man Winter has its problems for the poor fellow in the cartoon, who, like 12,000 other Americans, pumps cold air into the planes in summer fills them with warm air in winter; after all, a steam heating unit goes into operation. Some scientists predict that one day most of the heat will come from the sun via the solar machine, such as Dr. C. G. Abbot, of the Smithsonian Institution demonstrating (right).

Convected heat—the kind given off by open fires and hot air furnaces—produces warmth by heating the air. On the other hand, it was found that radiant heat consists of rays which warm the body without necessarily having much effect on the surrounding air.

As the result of this research, and investigations by scientists connected with other industrial concerns, engineers have found the answer to widely-varying problems in heating brought about by changed conditions of modern living. They have conquered the difficulties of installing 65 miles of steam conduits beneath the swarming arteries of traffic in New York to pipe warmth from central heating plants to 2,000 office and residence buildings. On the opposite end of the scale is the successful installation of a separate heating system in a bird house.

Air-Conditioned Bird House. The steam-heated bird house, probably the only one in existence, is the property of a California woman. In training canaries to sing, she found it most effective to keep them shut up in large outdoor houses, completely insulated against outside noises so that the birds would hear nothing but the sound of phonograph records being played. This brought on the problem of air-conditioning the bird house, and a complete ventilating and steam heating system was installed, with steam heat pipes enclosed in the walls.

Managers of the nation's transcontinental airways, faced with the difficulties of passenger comfort on winter flights, took their problem to heating engineers, who have developed a unique system for warming the huge passenger planes that now roar across the sky trails.

As the result of scientific research and experiments, cross-country planes this winter will be warmed by "flying steam heat," designed to maintain a temperature in the cabins of at least 70 degrees even during the coldest weather. The flying heaters, which weigh only 140 pounds, produce enough steam to heat a five-room house on the ground. Using only eight quarts of water, the miniature boilers are heated by exhaust gases from the engines, and the temperature is regulated either by thermostats, or by controls in the pilot's compartment. Provision is made for a complete change of air in the transport planes every four minutes, so that the atmosphere does not become "stuffy."

Thawing Out Iron Ore. Before the take-off of each flight, and before the exhaust from the engines has had a chance to start the steam heater in operation, the interiors of the huge planes are warmed by special mobile heating units, maintained at the airports. These units, mounted on small trucks, pump warmed air into the cabins, thus bringing the temperature to the desired level before passengers enter the ship.

Not only is human comfort in the wintertime dependent on scientific developments, but the business life of the nation as well, for industrial schedules must be maintained despite weather conditions. Here again, research experts in one industry came to the rescue of another when engineers the B. F. Goodrich company solved a stubborn problem at the root of all industry by making it possible to ship iron ore in zero weather from the Great Lakes district.

On the shores of Lake Superior, where snow and ice close in while the big ore boats are still running, carloads of wet iron ore freeze into solid chunks before they can be unloaded. To meet this emergency, the engineers devised a hose of specially compounded rubber through which super-heated steam is pumped into the cars, effectively thawing out the ore so that it can be handled quickly and efficiently and shipped to the steel mills as the "food" to keep industry humming.

The largest part of 350,000,000 tons of coal will be burned in the next three or four months.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

When Washing Soft Polishing Dusters.—Rinse them in slightly soapy water instead of clear water. This makes the dusters much softer and they polish better.

Removing Scorch Marks.—Scorch marks can be removed from linen by boiling together the juice of an onion, one ounce fullers' earth, one-quarter ounce shredded soap, and one teacupful vinegar. Allow the paste to dry on, then brush off and wash in the usual way.

Johnny Cake.—One cup yellow corn meal, one cup bread flour, one-third cup sugar, one and one-half cups sour milk, half teaspoon soda, half teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Mix and sift the dry ingredients twice, and gradually add the sour milk. Beat well, and bake in a shallow greased pan, in a moderate oven.

Cleaning Enameled Sinks.—Those stubborn dark streaks which accumulate on enameled sinks and bathtubs can be removed with kerosene.

Strain the Starch.—Starch used in laundering should be strained to remove all lumps that might blister when ironing.

When Peeling Small Onions.—Cover small onions with hot water and let stand for a minute or two and the skins are easily removed.

Dry Soiled Clothes.—When clothes are sent to the laundry they are usually paid for by weight. Money can be saved if the housewife makes certain all articles are dry before they are sent out.

Eggs in Tomatoes.—Take large tomatoes, slice off the tops, remove the pulp. Break an egg into each case, replace the pulp, add a nut of butter, season with pepper and salt. Replace the tops and bake in a hot oven for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold, garnished with cress, peas or lettuce.

Potatoes for Short Cakes.—Hot, boiled and mashed white potatoes are good in making short cakes and puddings. They not only save flour, but require less shortening.

Did you ever realize that a school is due mostly to inventions? A school could not function without them. The making of books, desks, pencils, and the school building itself all need the help of inventors; in fact there is not a single object in school which was not the result of some sort of a new idea. The making of one desk needs a number of inventions: saws, planes, hammers, nails, and glue.

During the old stone age or about twelve thousand years ago there were few or no inventions. Not even tools nor fire was known then, and there were no schools. Up to the time of Christ there were numbers of small and great inventions. Education had then seemed to be developing, and it has been increasing ever since. Our grandfather had schools made of logs with ground as the floors. They had few books and no pencils nor paper—they used slates. That, too, was due largely to the lack of inventions.

If the world of today had had fewer inventions, probably our schools would still be made of logs instead of bricks and would still have one room instead of a number of rooms. We would have to get along with a great many things less than we have at present.

How many of us realize that a "need" is felt and then an alert mind gets busy and produces a desired object? Do you realize that school boys and girls are inventors? Yes, each one tries to make this world a better one by improving the conditions of it. These conditions are generally improved by people who feel the "needs" and in schools, those "needs" are felt by students.

In order that the English taught in our state schools be of a standardized type, the State Department of Public Instruction is conducting sectional meetings throughout the state, for English teachers, supervisors, and principals. On Tuesday afternoon Miss Busch and Mr. Rose attended the sectional meeting held in the West Bend

At the first meeting of the year, which was held in Fond du Lac on Wednesday of this week, the content organization, and maintenance of our school libraries was discussed. Miss Busch, our librarian, with those from the other league schools contributed to make the meeting a most helpful one.

The Kewaskum High school again easily beat Campbellsport on Sept. 29, by a score of 15-7. The winning pitcher was Harold Manthel.

K. H. S. was defeated in a hard battle at Grafton on Oct. 1, by a score of 5-0. Costly errors by Kewaskum determined the game. Harold Bunkelmann pitched a fine game but support was lacking.

On Oct. 4, the high school team traveled to Waldo and was defeated by a score of 6-4. K. H. S. outbit Waldo, 12 hits to their 5, but 5 errors again were costly and resulted in the defeat. Liermann pitched a good game.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS SATURDAY; WARNINGS GIVEN

Madison, Wis., Oct. 7—"A hunting we will go"—that is the ditty being sung by many hunters this week, for Saturday, October 9, is the official opening day of the duck hunting season.

"Starting Saturday and continuing through December there will be many hunters pursuing game. The hunting sport is a fine one as it may be enjoyed in the outdoors. Business men, factory workers and others who are literally cooped up during the week can get out for a few days of pleasure, relaxation and exercise in the fresh air during the hunting season.

TREATMENT OF INJURIES
The hunting season has a tragic side as well, warned the State Medical society in its special bulletin on this subject. Many avoidable accidents have happened on hunting trips such as in the case of guns, accidentally discharging, and causing death or permanent injury to a fellow hunter or to the person who carries the gun. Then too, sprains of joints and scratches from bushes, thorns, trees, fences, particularly barbed wire fences may cause a great deal of trouble. In the case of sprains, x-rays should be taken as soon as possible to determine the seriousness of the injury, as there is a possibility of the strain actually being a fracture. Scratches or cuts should be given immediate first-aid treatment as infection is apt to set in an open wound, and blood poisoning may be a result. Such injuries should be sterilized at once and protected from further infection by the application of a clean dressing. Particular caution should be exercised in caring for the deep puncture wounds to be sure that they are thoroughly cleansed and sterilized. This type of wound should heal from the inside to the surface. Emphasis is placed on this type of wound as it is the most ideal type for the development of lockjaw.

CAUTION WITH GUNS
Each year there are many casualties and fatalities which result from gun accidents. There are many ways in which hunters can help to reduce accidents of this kind. For instance: 1. They should not drag a gun through a fence or thick brush. 2. They should not allow the hunting dog to jump on his master, as he might accidentally catch his paws in the trigger guard. 3. They should not carry a loaded gun in the car; or, 4. They should not drag guns out of boats. These are only a few of the ways in which fatalities result from carelessness in handling firearms.

EXPOSURE TO COLDS
A timely warning to the hunter might be: "Get out your red flannels and wear them!" The hunting sport brings with it many hours of exposure to all kinds of weather. Warm clothing should be worn at all times to protect the hunter from colds. Loss of sleep,

Small Case to Supreme Court
In March, 1935, the United States Supreme court was obliged to review a trivial case—a $10 damage suit—which came directly on appeal from a justice court in Texas because no other state court had jurisdiction over it, owing to the small sum in question, and because it involved a violation of the federal constitution.—Lytton E. Maxwell, Durham, N. C., in Collier's Weekly.

improper meals and long hours of exposure to cold weather, lower the resistance of the body to colds and pneumonia. At the first sign of a cold the hunter should leave the blind and take immediate steps to cure the cold. The best way to do this is to go to bed at once. The patient should then drink a full glass of hot liquid each hour. Fruit juices and hot water are most advisable for this drink. The diet should be light and the system kept open. Seventy-five per cent of the pneumonia cases are the result of neglected common colds.

"When you start out on your hunt, with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Staeg and take extra care and precaution to avoid unnecessary accidents."

MOTORISTS REQUESTED TO DIM THEIR LIGHTS

As days grow shorter and more night driving becomes inevitable, it becomes increasingly necessary to obey the state dimming law, the state highway commission points out. Motorists throughout Wisconsin are dimming their lights when meeting cars, but there still remain many drivers who don't realize that they are endangering their own lives and property by failing to depress the light beams when meeting other cars.

Not only is dimming the headlights required by law, but it is common courtesy to the other motorist—a railroad engineer's signal to the other driver to "Come ahead; I'm alert and the way's clear for you."

Twenty-five Years Ago

Saturday, October 12, 1912
While attending a herd of cattle in a pasture on his farm near Campbellsport, John Ramthun, aged 76 years, was stricken with a paralytic stroke at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, dying a few minutes later.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groeschel entertained a large number of friends and neighbors at their place on last Wednesday evening in honor of their 15th wedding anniversary. The evening was very pleasantly spent in dancing, music for the occasion being furnished by Jos. Honeck.

A very pretty wedding took place last Saturday afternoon at the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church, when Rev. Greve pronounced the words that made Herbert Backhaus and Miss Selma Miller man and wife.

Joseph Remmel of Wausau this week purchased the meat market of Henry Powers of Campbellsport. Possession will be given to Mr. Remmel about December 1st.

Henry and Charles Mueckerheide will in the very near future erect a feed mill and equip same with a complete new outfit of machinery on the premises known as the Bilgo saw mill grounds, which they have leased for a number of years.

Honeck's concerting band furnished the music for the dance held in John Rinzel's hall at New Fane last Saturday evening.

MARQUETTE AND SOUTH DAKOTA TO CLASH

Marquette university's first home night football game in two years will be staged next Friday night, Oct. 8, when the Golden Avalanche will engage the University of South Dakota at the Hilltop stadium in Milwaukee.

The kickoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock, and reserved seats will be available at $1.65 each.

South Dakota is expected to give Coach Paddy Driscoll's Hilltoppers keen competition. Not to be confused with South Dakota State which recently lost to Wisconsin at Madison, the Coyotes are expecting one of the greatest teams in their history and hope to upset the dope bucket in Milwaukee.

The Coyotes, coached by Harry Gamage, are playing almost entirely this fall with veteran material. They boast 21 lettermen-eight in the backfield, four at end, three at tackle, four at guard and two at center, all held over from last year's great team.

Marquette defeated South Dakota 15-0 in 1923, the only previous gridiron meeting between the two schools.

Coach Driscoll hopes that by Friday night his casualty list will be reduced and that most of his regulars will be ready for action. It is likely, with the return of two or three boys who have been on the sidelines with injuries, that he will be able to present his strongest front of the season against the Coyotes.

It will be the last home game for the Hilltoppers before the homecoming tilt with Iowa State, Nov. 13.

Young stockmen from at least 17 Wisconsin counties will exhibit baby lambs, lambs and pigs at the Junior Livestock Exposition at the University Stock Pavilion, Madison, October 25-28.

The first department of agricultural economics established in this country was that at the University of Wisconsin in which have been trained many of the leading economists of America.

Three Colorado men have likely set a world's record in catching live grasshoppers. They gathered close to two million hoppers most of which they sold for fish bait, it is reported.
