

Carving "Turk" Is Easy—When You Know How

SURE, you can carve the Thanksgiving turkey—simplest thing in the world. Follow these easy rules and you're sure to be the envy of all the guests who are usually awed by the dire prospect of having to whittle the festive fowl themselves. What's more, this simple method will give you time for a few nibbles at the white meat yourself before the first diner you served is howling for more.

Make sure the knife is sharp. Advance confidently upon the enemy, carving the side next you first, as it lies with the breast to your left. Fig. 1 shows leg being removed by placing knife between thigh and body, cutting from left to right. Pressing leg outward with knife and bending it back with left hand easily separates it from the body. It is rarely necessary to locate the socket and sever the thigh.

With leg removed to a service plate, as shown in Fig. 2, the triangular piece of dark meat is cut first from the thigh; then ligaments between thigh and drumstick are cut, just over round bone to the thigh side. Small portions of dark meat are prepared from thigh and drumstick, or latter is left whole. The wing, after being removed, is left on the platter or served, as you prefer.

Now for the breast. To avoid damaging the meat with fork holes, insert fork astride keel bone and beyond its point, one time on each side along the bone. Slice meat down from the keel bone, as shown in Fig. 3, or, starting just above the joint where the wing was removed, slice upward to the keel bone parallel to the breast bone. Note fork is held straight or almost straight up and down.

Another position of the fork is shown in Fig. 4. It is inserted in the side through the ribs. Platter is turned at right angles to the carver. White meat is sliced downward away from the keel bone or upward, as described above. The meat service will be made complete by placing two slices of white meat over the dark meat (usually two pieces) and the dressing.

By following this procedure an attractive service is assured and the meat is kept as hot as possible. If the carver is being assisted in such a manner it is best to carve white meat as needed for each individual service. Otherwise sufficient slices for all guests may be cut and placed on the platter along the edge in readiness to serve or on a separate plate.

Washington Was First to Proclaim Thanksgiving Day

But Thank a Woman for Keeping It Alive.

ARGUMENT about the origin of Thanksgiving day in the United States has been going on, lo, these many years. There are several answers, and which of them is correct depends entirely upon the point of view.

We think of Thanksgiving usually as an institution begun by the Pilgrims. Without a doubt it was the Pilgrims who were the first group of American people to cease work to observe a day of thanksgiving.

It was George Washington, as President, who proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving day.

It was Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, who fought for many years to have the national holiday revived as a regular annual celebration.

It was President Abraham Lincoln who issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation since Jefferson, reviving a practice that has been observed each year ever since by whatever President who happened to be in office.

America's first official national Thanksgiving day occurred on November 23, 1789, or 168 years after Bradford's call upon the Pilgrims to give thanks. President Washington proclaimed it at the request of a joint committee of both houses of congress who beseeched him to declare a day of thanks for the favors of God bestowed upon the new republic.

In his proclamation President Washington said: "Now therefore do I recommend to the people of the United States a Day of Thanksgiving . . . that we then may unite in rendering unto Him our humble thanks for His kind care and protection of this country previous to its becoming a nation . . . for the favorable interposition of His Providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquillity, union and plenty which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government . . . for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed . . . and also that we may then unite and beseech Him . . . to promote virtue, knowledge and the increase of science among us."

Several more Thanksgiving day proclamations were made in the following years; then under Jefferson they were forgotten. But those sentiments of Washington's original proclamation became a creed generations later to Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of the highly influential Godey's Lady's Book, the magazine with the quaint and colorful fashion prints which today decorate lamp shades and hang in picture frames in thousands of homes.

This cultured, energetic little woman devoted a large share of her time to her plan to make Thanksgiving day an annual national holiday. She wrote literally thousands of personal letters to governors arguing that their states unite in observing a Thanksgiving day. She foresaw the coming of the Civil War, and she looked upon a national Thanksgiving day, uniformly celebrated by all of the states, as conducive toward peace.

But it was not until after the war had started that she succeeded in obtaining a Presidential proclamation from Abraham Lincoln.

A national proclamation has gone forth in each of the 74 years since that time. If we are happy about it, let us give thanks this Thanksgiving to the far-seeing editor of Godey's Lady's Book.

Try This Stuffing
To each cup of broken stale bread add ½ tablespoon chopped fat from the bird. Be sure to have the market man send the fat with the bird. If there is insufficient fat use butter, not substitutes. Add also to each cup: 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 teaspoons chopped celery, 1 teaspoon chopped sweet pepper pulp and ½ teaspoon minced parsley. To each four cups of this mixture add herbs, sage, thyme and sweet marjoram—2 teaspoons of the first and 1 teaspoon of the other if powdered and a little more if you are so fortunate as to have dried herbs. Also add one teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. This blend is recommended. Sew up filled cavity, bringing skin together. Stuff small cavity at neck and sew the stuffing in as described.

Stuff the Bird, but Not Yourself, Doctors Warn

DROP that drumstick, if you're already full! And go easy on that second helping of dressing; there's pumpkin pie coming!

Thanksgiving is a lot of fun, but not if you overeat. One state medical association warns:

"No longer should our Thanksgiving peck on 'thank the Lord that we had enough to eat' but for once it should give us strength to resist the temptation of eating too much."

"An eminent physician who believed that we were eating too much once said: 'The American calendar is divided into 365 stuffing days with Thanksgiving and Christmas heading the list.'"

"It is possible for a person to have a thoroughly enjoyable feast day Thanksgiving without spoiling it by overeating. Not all the jollifying, eating and partying is to be done on one day in America where we

"Much Obligated" Is Grandpa's Grace for Thanksgiving

GRANDPA VANDERHOF collects snakes and keeps them in the living room, attends commencement exercises, and refuses to pay income tax because he doesn't believe in it. Members of his family write magnificently unsuccessful plays, study aesthetic dancing, make fireworks, play the xylophone and are content to forget about work and live off Grandpa.

But the contentment enjoyed by Grandpa and his flock have already warmed the hearts of millions of Americans, who have learned to love them. They're not real people, of course, only characters in "You Can't Take It With You," the Pulitzer prize play by Moss Hart and

Aldrich Bowker, who says the famous Grace of Grandpa Vanderhof in the Chicago cast of "You Can't Take It With You."

George S. Kaufman, which for many months has been breaking theater attendance in the large cities in which it has played.

No more appropriate and charming Thanksgiving prayer could be imagined than the Grace which Grandpa Vanderhof asks as his daffy brood sits down to dinner—which may well consist of tomatoes, corn flakes and beer, if nobody thought to order anything else from the grocer. It has already become one of the most famous speeches in the American theater:

"Well, Sir," he begins, napkin in hand, "we've been getting along pretty good for quite a while now, and we've certainly been much obliged."

"Remember, all we ask is just to go along and be happy in our own sort of way. Of course, we want to keep our health, but as far as anything else is concerned we'll leave it to You."

"Thank you."

have food to go around for the whole year, so leave a little for the other 364 days of the year," the statement adds. "So without curtailing good fellowship or cramping your Thanksgiving spirit, it might be well to think of a few simple rules of everyday life even with the abundance of Thanksgiving."

Wording Invitations to Sub-Deb's Party

DEAR Mrs. Post: My husband and I would like to give a small dance for our daughter who is of sub-debutante age, and the question of a proper form for invitations has come up. If we have them engraved "Mr. and Mrs. request the pleasure of your company at a dance in honor of their daughter" won't this invitation suggest that we are bringing our daughter out at this dance? We would not like to create this impression. It seems that all the invitations my son receives to debutante parties are worded this way, but it is also true that my husband and I receive invitations to older parties also in this same wording.

Answer: An invitation such as you suggested and also the one in which the daughter's name appears immediately under that of the parents does mean that she is "out" or is to be presented at the party. On invitations to parties given for younger daughters it would be better to have forms engraved, if you do not already have them, which are intended to be filled in. These same forms are used for dinners or other occasions, which do not require a large enough number to have an especially worded invitation engraved. Your daughter's name would simply be written across the top.

Where Fashion Leads We Trail Like Sheep

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you please explain about the wearing of veils in the present day? Mother insists that they were never intended to be worn after dark and I can hardly believe she is right because why would so many of the hats bought for street wear have veils attached to them?

Answer: It is impossible to attempt to limit fashions. Perhaps women will wear veils around their wrists or around their necks next, for whatever fashion says to do we all, like so many sheep, follow after. Of course they didn't used to wear veils in the evening. Of course they didn't used to go without backs in their dresses either, nor did they play tennis in panties! At present they do wear stiff little ruffle trimmings on the hats and call them veils, and also call some of the hats they grace evening hats. As for the large circular evening veils that are dropped snugly over the hair to keep it in place, and then flare smartly at the bottom edge, which are illustrated in the fashion magazines, they are perhaps legitimate children of day before yesterday's "fascinator."

Announcing a Birth

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it unusual for parents to handwrite an announcement of a baby's birth on white cards? I think something simple like "Mr. and Mrs. John Parents are happy to announce the birth of Mary Lou at St. Luke's hospital" would be nicer than having them printed, or filling in stock forms. And is it all right to mention the hospital as I have, since I would like my out of town friends to send letters to me.

Answer: I would get a box of very small sized white note paper instead of cards, and write exactly what you said. Break the message down this way:

Mr. and Mrs. John Parent are happy to announce the birth of Mary Lou at St. Luke's Hospital on Friday, February 10th

Cutting-In at Dance

SOME time ago I was the guest of a girl at a big dance at which I was a total stranger. Stags cut in on us frequently and I stood out most of the evening. Could I have cut in on other girls whom I had not met?

Answer: What your friend should have done would have been to take you up to some of the girls first before you and she went on dancing. Then the next time she was cut in on you could have cut in on any of these girls to whom she had introduced you. To leave you not knowing a person in the room was showing very little social tact on her part.

"At Home" Cards.

DEAR Mrs. Post: After our marriage we are going west for several months but do not expect that my husband will have to stay on after that time. His next place will be permanent but we are not sure where it will be as yet. Under the circumstances, what should I do about enclosing at home cards with my announcements?

Answer: I wouldn't enclose at home cards. Those who want to write you can write to your own home address and by and by, when you are settled permanently, send out your visiting card with your address on it.

Marriage in Albania

In Albania the signing of the marriage contract by the bride's father and the groom makes a marriage, and the bride cannot leave her father's house until claimed by the husband, even if he never comes.

Bridal Veil Tradition

The Bridal veil is a relic of the "canopy" which in medieval times was held above the couple at their wedding as a symbol of the responsibilities they were assuming.

Three Kings in a Year

In 1936 England had three kings, George V, Edward VIII and George VI. England has had three sovereigns during two other calendar years. In 1483 King Edward IV died and his son Edward V was murdered by his uncle Richard III. In 1553 Edward VI died and his cousin Jane was allowed to reign only a few days. She was imprisoned by the supporters of Edward's sister, Queen Mary I, and beheaded the next year.

Firestone GROUND GRIP TIRES

WIN First Honors AT TROY • BIG ROCK LILY LAKE • WHEATLAND PLOWING CONTESTS

Using Firestone Ground Grip Tires, Paul Stiefbold made the highest score for any one meet, with 92½ points out of 100. He also had the largest number of points for the four contests, 356½ out of a possible 400.

Carl Shoger had the highest average score per contest with 90 out of 100 possible points, using Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

Clarence Shoger won first place the Young Men's Club in all the four contests on Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

FIRESTONE Ground Grip Tires won sweeping victories this year in the plowing contests at Troy, Lily Lake, Big Rock and Wheatland, Illinois. In the plowing contests, as on the farms, more tractors were equipped with Firestone Ground Grip Tires than all other makes of tires combined. And these all-purpose tractor tires scored 3500½ points out of a possible total of 4100 for the four contests.

Why do plowing champions choose Firestone Ground Grip Tires? The answer is:

GREATER TRACTION—Takes a deeper, broader bite into the soil. Has positive self-cleaning action.

GREATER STRENGTH—Resists the strain of heavy pulling because every fiber of every cord is saturated with liquid rubber by the patented Firestone Gum-Dipping process. Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread bind the tread and cord body so solidly together that we guarantee they will not separate.

GREATER SAVINGS—Saves 25% in time and up to 50% in fuel over steel-lugged wheels.

GREATER DRAWBAR PULL enables this tire to do more work in a given time.

Specify Firestone Ground Grip Tires when buying a new tractor or any wheeled farm implement. And, for your present equipment, ask your nearest Firestone Implement Dealer, Tire Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply & Service Store about the economical Firestone Cut-Down Wheel Program.

APPLE FIRE BLIGHT CONTROL—FALL PRUNING

Now is the time when Washington county farmers will likely find it to their advantage to prune their apple trees for the control of fire blight. R. E. Vaughan of the college of agriculture, who has been working with orchardists in the control of this disease, reports that dead limbs and cankers on the leaves can be spotted now better than they can in the spring. Vaughan finds that later many fire blight cankers will escape notice and will continue to remain a source of infection. When limbs 1 1/2 inches in size are cut off, the exposed wound should be protected by a thin dressing of a good tree paint, Vaughan suggests. The rough edges of the cut should be made smooth with a sharp knife before the paint is put on. Although it is not necessary to disinfect the saw after each cut, as the tree is in a dormant condition, Vaughan believes it wise to make the cut well below the canker so as to be sure that it is all cut out.

RED CLOVER FIELD PLOTS

Dept. of Agronomy U. of Wis. Hill Farms, Madison, Oct. 25, 1937. The value of different strains of red clover is usually based on winter survival and insect and disease reaction. Unadapted strains are less winter hardy and more susceptible to disease and insect attacks than adapted strains and as a result produce lower yields and hay of poorer quality. Sixty-eight samples of red clover seed from various states in the United States and from several of the countries from which seed is imported into the United States were sown in duplicate plots at the University Hill farms during the past summer. The drought and heat had a striking differential effect on these clover plants. The growth of annual weeds was kept in check by mowing above the tops of the red clover plants. Even with this favorable treatment the weather gradually reduced the stand of plants of some strains more than of others. Counts were made this fall on the number of plants per unit of area in order to get the effect of the weather on relative stands of the different strains and also to have an accurate record of stand to check winter survival in the spring. The results obtained with fifty-nine of these strains are given in the following table:

Country	No. of Samples	Percent
New Zealand	1	118
Canada	6	110
United States	23	100
Chile	1	92
England	1	58
France	1	42
Hungary	8	39
Roumania	2	36
Latvia	1	33
Czechoslovakia	1	33
Poland	9	24

These results demonstrate rather clearly that the European red clovers are greatly inferior to the American red clovers in their abilities to produce a good stand in years when drought and high temperatures prevail.

Twenty-five Years Ago

November 30, 1912
John Kreutzer, aged 17, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kreutzer, Sr., residing two miles northeast of the village of Campbellsport, has been reported missing by his parents. This is the second disappearance to be reported within two months. Oscar Kibbel of whom no trace has been found, having disappeared in September.

When circuit court of Washington county opened at West Bend last Monday afternoon, the first case tried was that of James Woods and Charles Mason, charged with drugging and robbing Andrew Albrecht of Barton, a saloon keeper, of $300, the morning of April 30th. Woods was sentenced to two years at Waupun and Mason for one year, both at hard labor. Woods and Mason were captured by Sheriff Schloemer and his deputies at St. Michaels the next morning after Marshal Brandt of this village captured Collier in this village. The latter had a complete set of burglar tools in his possession and pleaded guilty to a charge of having aid tools in his possession. He was sentenced to five years.

A very pretty wedding took place at the St. Michaels church on Thursday morning, Thanksgiving day, Nov. 28th, when Rev. Bayer pronounced the words that made Christ, Schoofs and Miss Anna Berres, man and wife.

John Flammang Schrank, who shot ex-President Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee and who has been committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh, left for that institution at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Chas. Brandt moved his household goods into his new residence in the Roseheimer new addition this week.

Miss Ellen Wunderle was agreeably surprised by a number of her friends on Wednesday evening, the occasion being her birthday anniversary.

Louis Klein and wife celebrated their wedding anniversary at their home last week Saturday evening.

Only the McCormick-Deering All-Purpose Farm Truck

Has all these extra-value features

THE McCormick-Deering Farm Truck is the only truck embodying all the features shown above. It is built entirely of steel and is electrically welded in sixty different places. While it is constructed for heavy farm hauling at tractor speeds, its light weight—750 pounds—and its all-around handiness adapt it equally well for use with horses. See us when you need a farm truck. Come in and go over the McCormick-Deering All-Steel Truck and examine its many features—then you will appreciate its superiority over any other truck on the market.

WHEN YOU know YOU PAID A BILL... CAN YOU PROVE IT?

You may distinctly remember paying a bill—but if its sender says you didn't, how are you to protect yourself from paying twice? The answer is simple—a checking account here removes any such danger. Besides being legal evidences of payment, cancelled checks relieve you of the necessity of asking for—and filing—receipted bills.

Many men and women, particular in their financial habits, have checking accounts here for this safety—as well as for the saving of time and trouble.

What Is the Human Mind? Is "Mind-Reading" Possible?

Duke University Experiments May Prove Existence of Telepathy.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

MISTER, have you ever "played a hunch"? Transacted a business deal against your better judgment because "something told you to"?

Lady, has your "intuition" ever told you anything your eyes and ears could never discern?

Almost everyone has experienced these things or known someone else who has. Some tell of the most startling experiences with a sincere conviction that cannot be denied.

What Is the Mind?

These are the experiments conducted by Dr. J. B. Rhine and several associates in the department of psychology of Duke university, at Durham, N. C.

Convinced ESP is Answer.

In fact, it made little difference whether or not they were in the same room with the recorder. Tests were conducted exhaustively with subject and experimenter in rooms 100 and 250 yards apart.

Radio Telepathy Test.

It is telepathic tests similar in some ways to these which are being employed on the Zenith Foundation's radio program. In the first program, listeners were told that a selecting machine in the studio would be operated seven times during the test.

How Tests Were Made

Dr. Rhine and his associates devised a special deck of 25 cards as standard equipment for the tests. The deck contained five cards each of five different characters: a square, a cross, a circle, a star and a series of wavy lines.

experimenter took a shuffled pack of ESP cards, in unknown order, and laid them before him, face down.

The subject was asked to concentrate upon the cards while the experimenter removed them from the pack, one at a time, without looking at them. The subject called for each card the symbol which first flashed into his mind.

Since there were five cards each of five different symbols in a pack, pure chance would permit a correct call of 1 card in 5, or 5 cards in 25.

"The assumption has also been made," says this same writer, "that, in the long run, pure guessing would result in an average score of 5 guesses right out of 25.

Some subjects actually made higher scores in the "telepathic" tests than they did in the objective tests. In three daily trials, one subject made scores of 19, 16 and 16, in her first experience in ESP work.

"A SCHOOL BUS"
A marked improvement to this school would be the addition of a school bus, because so many of the students come from the rural areas. This would be a great advantage for the country students who have difficulty getting to school or for some who do not go to school because they have no way of getting there.

Some of the students have to come extraordinarily early to school to get to school; they have to ride along with factory workers, milk trucks, etc. Often this causes unreasonable comment among other students, but this circumstance cannot be altered as truck rides offer the only chances some students have to get to school.

A school bus would run on a definite schedule each morning and evening. In this way the students could go home at a regular time instead of having to wait for the factory to close which means a late ride home again.

These students could be let out about one-half hour earlier during the winter months. The last study period could be shortened so as to give them a chance to reach home safely in bad weather.

If these students had the advantage of a school bus, they could probably attend school more regularly, which may mean an improvement in their school work.

The works incurred by such a system would be paid for by the tuition students' taxes.

I really think a school bus would be a great advantage for those people in the rural section who find it difficult to get to school. Don't most of you agree?

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS
The junior scholastic class is now reading and writing according to the traditional method.

A few days ago each pupil in the freshman class had to write an introduction of himself, which included the locality in which he lived, his tasks and hobbies, and the kind of person he thought he was. The class showed great interest in these introductions when many of them were read in class. I think the pupils, even though they know each other, have become better acquainted with one another.

The American history class is discussing the causes and outcomes of our second war for independence. This war is known as the War of 1812.

The general science class has begun Unit IV, "Providing a Good Food Supply." Certain articles have been brought in by the pupils to carry on various experiments. One experiment that seemed to arouse particular interest in the pupils was, "How do parts of living things appear under the compound microscope?"

In citizenship we have been learning how to make the community attractive. An attractive community is likely to be safe and healthful.

The geography class is studying about glaciers of the present and of the past, the causes of glaciers, and how we know that there have been glaciers in past ages. The class is also studying the formation the glaciers have left, how glaciers have been useful, and how they were injurious.

GRADE NEWS

PRIMARY ROOM—
The second grade children are very much interested in their new social study readers, "Science Stories" and "David's Friends."

The first grade children have completed the first pre-primer.

INTERMEDIATE ROOM—
The fourth graders began their studying about maps. We are planning a map exhibit. Some of us are bringing samples of maps to school. We are going to make a floor map of our room and a map of Kewaskum.

The fifth graders are beginning their study of westward movement.

GRAMMAR ROOM—

We had an orange brought by Donald Koeberle and a porcupine brought by Roger Stahl in our room. They were interesting to our nature study classes.

The seventh grade social science class has started a review of place geography, using a large world map furnished by the Quaker Oats Co.

OFFICE NEWS

The school students and teachers of the high school wish to thank the Kewaskum Woman's club for the very fine melophone which they contributed to our school band. As a result of this gift some worthy boy or girl will be given an opportunity to increase his musical education. That the pupils might know something of its tone quality, Mr. Purlong obliged by playing a few scales on it.

WORK OF 1937 WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE

By Henry O. Schowalter, Assemblyman, Washington County

The regular and special sessions of the 1937 Wisconsin Legislature have adjourned. The Kewaskum Statesman has granted to me the opportunity to bring to the citizens of Washington county in a series of articles, a summary of the many measures enacted into law or considered. To the Kewaskum Statesman I wish to express my appreciation for giving to me the privilege of making this report of my stewardship as your assemblyman.

—Henry O. Schowalter

III. AGRICULTURE
Many of the problems of the farmer were considered in both the regular and special sessions of the legislature. An emergency agency known as the Wisconsin Home and Farm Credit Administration was created to continue until July 1, 1939, its primary purpose is to assist needy farmers, primary owners, and others to obtain credit, in refinancing their old debts and to secure relief and aid from drought or other disaster. This agency also cooperates with the federal government in accomplishing these purposes.

Under Chapter 25, Laws of 1937, one million dollars were appropriated for emergency drought relief for farmers. Funds were allotted on the basis of need to the counties making application. Loans not exceeding $100 were made to farmers for seed and livestock feed. Such loans immediately became liens against the liquor tax monies that that particular county gets from the state. If the farmer fails to pay back the loan the amount will be taken from the county's share of the liquor tax.

Chapter 369 simplifies and continues the old law regulating the distribution of milk. This act has done much to eliminate unfair methods of competition in the purchasing, handling or selling of milk. It has brought a better price for milk to the farmers of our section of Wisconsin.

The control of Bang's disease was further made possible by allowing counties upon petition of 75% of the cattle owners therein to set up a testing area. Both the state and federal government help in paying for the cattle which have to be destroyed.

Chapter 129 exempts from taxation all hay, grain and other feed raised on farms for live stock feed. It is not exempt if kept for sale.
The department of agriculture and markets was also given the authority to order treatment and control of such farm pests as grasshoppers, army worms, or chinch bugs. Counties and towns are directed to cooperate with the state and federal programs.

Some of the more important measures which failed of enactment because action was incomplete when the legislature adjourned were: bill 4268 authorizing the state to accept and use donations for advertising and promoting Wisconsin dairy products; bill 710A providing for free distribution of milk to school children, and bill 810A providing for state testing of milk.

Two major proposals in the field of agriculture came before the special session. The department of agriculture and markets has been recognized from the three man commission set-up to a board of seven men. All of them must be actively engaged in agriculture. They merely act in an advisory and policy forming capacity and elect a director to be the executive to carry out the policies set up by them. It is expected that the service this department gives to our farmers will be greatly improved.

Chapter 4, one of the most far reaching acts passed during the special session creates the Wisconsin Agricultural Authority. The act directs the private nonstock, nonprofit corporation to carry out the functions in the interest of the agriculture of these are: extend and develop new markets, improve methods of grading, marketing, transporting and distributing products and state-wide studies of existing Wisconsin agriculture. The appropriation has $150,000 to run until July 1, 1939.
