KEWASKUM BEATS PORT IN OPENER

The village basketball team opened its 1937-38 season in the Land o' Lakes league last Sunday evening by easily defeating the visiting Port Washington Marcons, 46 to 30, before a goodsized opening game crowd.

In the victory the locals showed a great deal of strength at this point in the season. Kewaskum took the lead in the first quarter and increased it during the contest. Port never threatened to overcome the lead. In the last quarter the visitors scored more points than during the first three, due to the fact that substitutes finished the game for the home quint.

At the end of the quarter Kewaskum held a slim 12 to 10 advantage but took a commanding lead in the second period when scoring 9 points while holding the invaders scoreless. The game was cinched in the third quarter which found the home team playing very brilliant ball, both offen. sive and defensive, scoring 23 points Port's 2, making the score 43 to 12. With reserves in the game in the final stanza Kewaskum tallied only 3 markers while the Maroons came to life and netted 18, but the game was won.

Scoring will be more frequent this season in all leagues due to a new rule in effect. With this new rule the center jump is eliminated after each basket. Instead the opposing team takes the ball from out of bounds under the basket of the team which scored. This saves much time, makes the game faster and helps considerably in increasing the scoring.

Coach Kohn and Marx led the scoring in Sunday's battle with 12 points apiece. Stenschke, and also Foster and Schuefer of Port followed with 10 each. The lineups:

GRAND OPENING AT KOCH'S REMODELED STORE NEXT WEEK

A. G. Koch, Inc. will hold the grand opening of their newly remodeled store next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 14, 15 and 16. Prizes will be given and bargains of all kinds will be offered. See ad on page 5.

Koch's store has been completely modernized inside and out and will be formally opened next week as one of the finest grocery, dry goods and hardware stores in this section of the state.

Established a good many years ago by the late A. G. Koch, the store has grown steadily up to the present time when it was deemed advisable to remodel the building to afford greater space, comfort and convenience.

During the past years Koch's has served a vast trade in this territory. The store is now under the management of Arthur W. and Erwin Koch, sons of the late A. G. Koch, Inc.

When attending the opening the many customers of the store will find modern style black and ivory store front of structural glass, and a newly designed interior with porcelain enamel vegetable bins, steel shelving and modern counters in white with black. new lighting fixtures and new wall and ceiling treatment. The type of interior equipment will make it highly sanitary.

As one enters the building he sees, on the left side of the grocery department, a spacious arched doorway which leads to the dry goods department. On the right of the room anoth. er arched doorway leads to the hardware department, located in what was formerly the postoffice. A feature in the store is the modern, comfortable rest room.

As much as possible of the work was done by local men. Chas. Brandt was the carpenter contractor and had charge of this work . Melvin Brandt was in complete charge of the painting and decorating work and plumbing was done by John F. Schaefer and men. Different Kewaskum men also handled several other smaller assignments.

The store front now has larger and very stylish show windows and the entrance is arranged more conveniently. The interior offers neat and roomy provisions for displaying the merchandise prominently. The grocery section is separated by a wall toward the rear of the room from the egg department es, The new bins, shelt and cases allow wider aisles for more convenient shopping. The work has been in progress for a number of weeks, carried out a section at a time to avoid as much as possible interference with normal daily operations in the store. Some of the structural work was done at night to avoid discomfort of customers. This newly remodeled, modernized store is indeed a pride to the village and community. Koch's invites you to attend their opening.

Civil Service Plan Hit

DRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S proposal that a single administrator be substituted for the three-man civil service executive board was severely criticized by the Brookings croachment of politics rather than to repel it."

The institution report, drafted by Lewis Meriam, questioned the feasibility of the plan and doubted whether it would achieve the President's purpose of taking the civil service commission out of politics.

Religious and political affiliations would present difficulties in selection of a single administrator, the report pointed out, adding that the proposed plan would represent too much centralization of power in an individual.

The strike had disrupted transportation in the northeastern section of the country and was accompanied by numerous incidents of violence. The wage increase, effective next July 1, will be onefourth of a cent a mile, and no minimum milage is guaranteed. The union had demanded a flat rate of 5.5 cents a mile with a 200-mile-aday guarantee.

Derby's speech followed one given by Herschel V. Johnson, American charge d'affaires in London, during which Johnson warned indirectly that the Americans .would not permit the pact to have political strings.

-*-Farm Bill Reported

MARVIN JONES of Texas, chairman of the house agricultural committee, submitted the house's farm bill, together with a majority report defending the measure and calling for speedy enactment so that the rise of mounting crop surpluses which are depressing market prices may be offset.

The house bill is less drastic than the senate version, but it was denounced vigorously in a minority report which declared it was "unconstitutional, unsound, un-American," likely to "work to the detriment of American agriculture," and threatening to "dislocate" foreign and domestic markets.

Both house and senate bills, it was predicted, would be modified because of the President's implied threat to veto the legislation unless it was put on a "pay-as-yougo" basis. He insisted the farm bill must not interfere with his plans

Much Talk, on its feet, but it has not yet ac-No Action complished much.

The house ways and means committee, it is true, is making some headway and a number of senators, including the powerful Senator Harrison of Mississippi, are asserting the necessity for a reversal of federal policy. But, again, there is much more talk than action, and in the meantime the country's business is sliding lower and lower. The difficulty in the present situation and the thing that probably has been more responsible for the business slump than anything else is that business heretofore has been unable to tell what the federal government is going to do. It has become evident already that with a somewhat changed atmosphere in congress, there are many business men who are more hopeful than a month ago. Business men, big and little, are quick to note that there are senators and representatives who think the time has ar- uation. Of course, those alleged rived for business to receive some consideration. And it ought to be about reforming America, and I am added that unless business does get some consideration, this current depression is going to be as bad as the last one. The federal government must give attention to the agricultural problem and it must fit that job into some consideration of the other half of American life, namely, the commerce and industry outside of agricultural life. It will be recalled that during the first two years of President Roosevelt's administration there was a flock of laws passed that were of great value to the country. Many of them were of a temporary character and were enacted on that basis. That would have been fine if the administration had stopped there. But it did not. The roaming herd of so-called thinkers who were scattered far and wide in federal jobs had to have their innings. At least they thought they had to have a turn at bat. All of their pet theories had to be tried out. The result: many laws that were purely experimental, dangerous, damaging and a burden to business. With many millions of others. I expected at that time to see these queer looking laws shaken down, corrected, or repealed where it was

Building Boom Wanted

 $R_{\rm law}^{\rm EVISION}$ of the existing housing law in order to facilitate a building boom was asked by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress. He said such legislation would ease the flow of credit and open great reservoirs of idle capital to fight the business slump. The responsibility for the success of such a program he placed squarely on labor and industry.

Specifically, the President recommended changes in the housing act which would:

1. Reduce from 51/2 per cent to 5 per cent the interest and service charges permitted by the Federal Housing administration on loans made by private institutions.

2. Authorize the housing administrator to fix the mortgage insurance premium charge as low as 1/2 of 1 per cent on the diminishing balance of the insured mortgage instead of on the original face amount, and to 1/4 of 1 per cent on the diminishing balance of an insured mortgage where the estimated value of the property does not exceed $6,000 and where the mortgage is insured prior to July 1, 1939.

3. Increase the insurable limit from 80 to 90 per cent in cases where the appraised value of the last eight years and will be the prinproperty does not exceed $6,000. 4. Facilitate the construction and financing of groups of houses for rent, or for rent with options to purchase, through blanket mortgages.

5. Clarify and simplify provisions for the construction of large scale rental properties through facilitating their financing.

6. Grant national mortgage associations "explicit authority to make loans on large-scale properties that are subject to special regulation by the federal housing administrator."

iness has been smug. It has thought too little, in many instances, of its obligations to the public at large. But surely there is a point beyond which federal punishment ought not go since there is a responsibility also in the other direction. Unless business gets a reasonable chance to stand on its own feet, how is it going to re-employ workers and reduce the relief rolls?

Every individual wants to earn some money. He wants a return for his labor. He dreams some day of a retirement, a lay off when he can watch the world go by. I can see no reason why the federal government should not encourage, rather than discourage, such a thing. It is the conviction of a very great many, an increasing number of people that the federal government is messing too much

But aside from that phase. There are a number of things happening that are difficult to understand. At a time when business is sliding off like a snowball going down hill, the President steps out and orders an investigation by the federal trade commission into "high prices." The inquiry, of course, is directed at monopoly. I have no doubt at all that there will be a blast from some government official pretty soon in which "big business" again will be told it is crushing the "little fellow" and that the public is suffering from the high prices maintained by a "trust." There may be even a There may be even a fireside chat because a President's voice penetrates everywhere.

If they are done, business again can employ workers and as it employs workand as they get wages, they buy.

This means profits and profits mean tax receipts by the treasuries of state and nation.

To show how some of these taxes come about, I am told that Herman Oliphant, general counsel to the secretary of the treasury, promoted the ridiculous tax on undistributed profits of corporations. When it was pushed through congress Mr. Roosevelt said it would force corporations to declare dividends of all of their earnings and he was for it. It did just that. But when the corporations had distributed everything to their share-fell off, they had no money left to tide them over until business picked up again. Hence, some of them are on the verge of bankruptcy. I do not know where Mr. Oliphant got the idea, or how he sold it to Mr. Roosevelt. I do not know of any business connection that Mr. Oliphant ever had with any important corporation. It is important, however, to note that Mr. Oliphant has made no move whatsoever to defend this brain child that turned out to be such an unwanted baby. (And while writing about Mr. Oliphant, it may be noted that until Secretary Morgenthau came onto the scene, there was never any need for a general counsel to the secretary of the treasury.) I was talking with two of the younger Democratic members of the house the other day-Mark Wilnecessity for curtailment of expenditures. These men see far enough the business of this country until it who have money invested in business were candies and nuts, plenty for sities are going to take only reasonable all, and such a babble of happy chances; they won't risk going into voices. I felt the thrill of it myself ber debt to do business if they must be and the big star glowed in sympa-en. afraid that changes in policy at thy. Washington will destroy them after they have started.

Mr. Clark and Mr. Wilcox are, as I said, of the younger group and they are wondering where all the tax money is going to come from in the future. There are many of the same mind in the house of representatives. The Idaho representative holds to the conviction that business must be compelled to be honest, but he observed that unless business is given a chance, there will not be any work for labor to de and there will not be any profits for the government to tax.

Keep Air Out of Steam and Hot Water Radiators So Heat Can Circulate Freely

FREQUENTLY I get complaints from home-owners about failure of steam or hot water heating systems to keep radiators completely hot.

This condition is often due to air being in the coils of the radiator. This air must be released before the coils can fill with steam. This usually is simple, being remedied by automatic air valves. If your radiator has such valves and the radiators remain air-bound, unscrew the little plug at the top of the valve, tightening the plug again when all the air escapes from the valves. Putting the vent valves for a few hours in a container of kerosene also helps to eliminate the air.

However, if neither of these operations corrects the trouble-or should the coils fill with water-it would be a good policy to have an expert check the valves and remedy the difficulty.

It is possible also for hot water radiators to become air-choked. To overcome this, open the air valves once in awhile with a valve key and leave them open until water starts flowing from them. Be sure to have something handy in which to catch the water when the valves are opened. WNU Service.

Why Hold an Election? If religious societies are trampled upon and all pre-election propaganda favors the Communist party, what is the sense of this mammoth voting orgy? As in Hitler's recent German elections, there can be but one outcome. But it is not sheer comedy, say the Soviet leaders. Voters may have no choice of political parties or principles, but they have free choice among men. Those they believe the most honest and efficient will be elected; incompetent and corrupt officials will be ousted. How a Mongol peasant in Siberia is to judge the qualifications of two candidates in Vladivostok, a thousand miles distant, is not explained. But let no one scorn modern Soviet Russia as a backward country.

very transformation is the most startling fact about this startling nation. It is Russia's one major claim to success. She has made her citizens so patriotic that they pity the American woman for her "lack of freedom." She has built huge industrial cities and changed agriculture from a primitive occupation to a scientific mechanized vocation. She has made people interested in their own country by a nation-wide system of free holidays on the semitropical coast of the Black sea. Her army, once an undisciplined body of misfits, now challenges the world. Where most countries must beg youth to enter the army, Red Russia finds military candidates enthusiastic. And well they might be, for Soviet soldiers are better clothed, fed and housed than the masses. They receive practical and mental education, and after their period of service is up they settle on one of the thousands of communal farms maintained by the army. Although Russia's citizenry boasts of "freedom" and "liberty," these things are based only on a comparison with their former feudal status. True democracies do not recognize as "freedom" any system which progresses by compulsion for the individual. In other words, is it "free dom" when the ruling powers assume the right to shoot, imprison or exile all dissenters?

But proud Russia, her eyes closed to these apparent discrepancies, invites comparison and boasts that this month she will hold "the most democratic election." If the Timber Commissariat gets around to manufacturing pencils and ballot paper, and if newly-enfranchised Russians learn how to mark their "X" in the proper square, the election will be a success in Moscow's eyes. Likely it will be a success no matter what happens, because Com-

PROTECT CRACKS AGAINST ICE

A CRACK in anything outdoorswoodwork, concrete, masonrywill be made wider should ice form within it. Before winter sets in, the outside of a house should be inspected to locate any cracks or crevices that would hold water and that might be enlarged by the expansion that occurs when ice forms. Stucco walls should be under special notice. Small surface cracks can be disregarded; the cracks to look out for are the deep ones in which water will be retained. A crack in stucco should be widened with a cold chisel, so that a patch can be packed deeply within. The patching material is a mixture of 1 part cement with 3 parts of clean building sand, and only enough water to make the mixture. At the time the crack is patched, the stucco should be thoroughly soaked with water to prevent the absorption of water from the patching material. Cracks in brickwork and masonry are likely to be in the mortar joints. In closing these, the old mortar should be dug out for a depth of an mortar. Special care should be taken to close all cracks in clapboards. Small cracks can be closed with thick paint; deeper ones with white lead, used either as it comes or smeared on cotton wicking or heavy cord. In particular, the joints of clapboards at corners should be noted; for it is there that cracking will be especially serious.

WAS always told that a lady should never be seen eating on the street. I believed in the old myth for a long time. But as I keep telling my mother, life isn't what it used to be. In her day you had to go into the kitchen, make up a sandwich, and march out into the street with it if you wanted to be caught eating on the street. It was a lot of work for a mere principle. But now street eating creeps up on you. You pass a street corner stand where there are nice hot dogs on view and you get hungry. Well, if well put your hot dog in your pocketbook and walk into the nearest hotel lobby to eat it. That, again, would be too much work for a mere principle. The real crux of the problem now lies in how and where you do your street eating. In the first place, it is more ladylike to stand still while you eat, rather than to wander along the sidewalk munching. In the second place, it is considered more elite to stand still beside the hot dog wagon, rather than beside the church steps while you lap up your roll-cnd.

If it's a chocolate bar you've decided to eat on the public highways, be careful about choosing your streets. You shouldn't be caught eating on the main business street, or the ritziest parkway in town. What you do in the back alleys is your own business. WNU Service.

It required all her will to re-enter that room and to her relief Elinor was concentrated on her make-up and took no notice of her. The silence was ominous, but Rachel preferred it. Rachel put the bathroom in order and returned to lift the brocade and hold it while Elinor stepped into it. The two women avoided looking at one another, but at the last moment, powdered and tinted and resplendent in the rich gown, Elinor flashed a resentful glance at Rachel and said, "I'm going to speak to Mr. Cayne about this," and went out so quickly that Rachel could have smiled. "She's afraid of me," she thought, "she feels something different. And she isn't allowed any freedom with the servants. I suppose," she granted with unwilling justice, "that's enough to make any woman peevish. I oughtn't to blame her too much. Mr. Cayne's sweet, but he's an old tyrant, too. Oh dear, I wish they would be definitely one thing or another, all these shades and varieties are too hard to deal with." She had a moment of revolt. "I'm getting old too fast, I shouldn't be so reasonable about these people, I'm as tolerant as Anne, it's not like me!" And then, thankfully, soberly, "If I only could be like Anne! If I needn't be a bit like this-this mother I wanted so much!" More soberly still, "I must stop wallowing in these hysterical ideas and make up my mind what I ought to This was not easy, she found her-

To follow Terriss' instructions and search Holbrook's room, and then, if the boy was guilty, to reveal itshe didn't want to do it, she had too profound a conviction that Holbrook was guilty. When his father knew, how it would beat down his pride and affection! Yet perhaps Terriss was right, to know it now might save knowing worse later. But she didn't want to stick her unpracticed hand into human lives with a chance of marring them. It was too much responsibility. EW YORK-If President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina of the Dominican republic persists in his impromptu war with Haiti, and spurns President Ball Player Roosevelt's offer Might Solve of mediation, it is Latin Feud possible that they might buy him off with a fast black shortstop and a couple of outfielders.

President Molina is a rabid baseball fanatic, and only last June he was accused of stealing many of the best players of the American negro teams. The charges, quite violent and vehement they were, were made by the National Negro League of America, comprising six teams, and were backed up by Ferdinand Q. Morton, New York civil service commissioner, who is the Judge Landis of the league.

It was asserted that agents and emissaries of the President did repeatedly, by trick and device, snatch an ebony ball player wherever they might find him; that they had thus cashiered some of the best talent of the negro league. The Pittsburgh Crawfords were especially loud and insistent in their complaint.

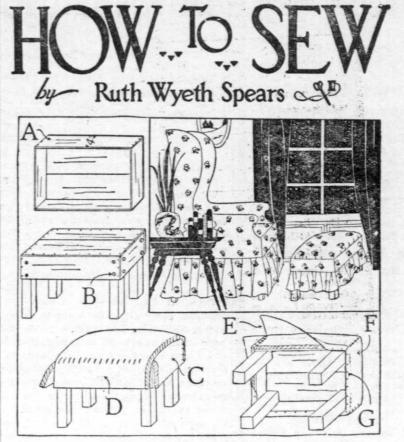

The dictator of Santo Domingo learned fighting and ball playing with the United States Marines, with them eight years, until the end of the period of occupation in 1924. When he took over the country in 1930, by double-crossing old President Velasquez, his enemies said, he made baseball a major detail of his planned economy.

Several thousand exiles have for several years maintained a junta in New York city, led by Dr. Angel Morales, former Dominican minister to Washington. They have accused President Trujillo of wholesale killings and of ruthless suppression of all political rights and civil rights.

When it comes time to serve the custard, unmold it onto a chop platter and around the custard arrange prunes which have been pitted and stuffed lightly with shredded American cheese. Mounds of whipped cream placed between the prunes would be a good idea. A little prune juice poured over the top of the custard and cream will add flavor and a pleasing appearance. Miss Vincent-you don't think it's the servants, do you? I somehow can't stomach suspicioning them, they've been with me so long and they've always come through no matter what I wanted."

"No, I don't think it's the servants, Mr. Cayne." "That Terriss, he's always harping on them. But now this Buckham boy-I shouldn't wonder a bit if we'd got the right track at last. He's hung around more or less for quite a while."

"Then," said Rachel, "I'll tell Mr. Terriss to look up the Buckham boy. And I'll go out and telephone right away; if I use the phone here, Mrs. Cayne might come in." Mr. Cayne stopped her for a last "You can understand now word. why I don't take Holbrook and put Cayne." "For goodness sake, give me that rry," said Lena. "Curry takes curry,' time to cook, that's what spoils it generally. What's up in there?" "Tell you when I get back," promised Rachel. The public phone that Rachel used was in a drugstore halfway down the block. It seemed to take an age to get there, another age to get the connection, but at last she heard Terriss' dry voice. "I thought it was about time something else went," he said, when Rachel had told him about the brace-"Haven't you got any lead at let. all?" His tone implied that he merely asked the question as a matter of form. She told him about Roy Buckham, and then, "But there's something more."

"What more?" "Mr. Terriss, maybe I'm crazy, maybe I oughtn't even to think of this, but Holbrook tried to borrow money from me a few days ago and Lena tells me he's borrowed money from both her and Towers until they wouldn't lend him anything more. The answer that came back was so amazing she could scarcely believe her ears.

"Well, at last! I'd been waiting and wondering to see if you'd never catch on! I've been dead certain it was the boy all along. Now we're going places! Come on, give me the whole story, how much did you slip him?"

"I didn't give him anything!" Quickly she described the whole incident, ending with "Why didn't you let me know you suspected the son. I'd have watched him lots more closely.

"No, Miss Vincent, that's bad dope. I can't say anything about the mother, because the old man keeps her wrapped in cotton wool, but his father'd have to know it. It's up to him then to take the boy in hand, see? And he can tell his wife or not. But if the boy's the thief, as I've thought all along, better his old man should learn it now before the boy starts lifting somebody else's stuff." "But the boy may not be the thief.' "Don't give me an argument; just search his room like you were hunting for chinches, Miss Vincent, and report to me soon's you've finished." Rachel rushed back to the apartment, her head whirling. Mrs.

Cayne had come in and was waiting impatiently, so there was no chance to speak to Mr. Cayne, but Rachel took time to write on a piece of paper, "Have notified Terriss," and slipped it under his door as she ran to answer the imperative bell. "I'm sorry, madame," she ex-

Yet that would be shirking, too. And then the thought of Curt Elton came to her, there was the one person who might be told and who would understand and advise. Tomorrow was Thursday, her day out. She would tell Terriss she had had it? And not let Mr. and Mrs. Cayne no opportunity to search Holbrook's room until after she had talked to

"I like these better than orchids," Rachel replied. "They're fascinating."

She laid the flowers at the side of her plate and now and then, as all flowers do, they drew her eyes and attention. They helped to normalize her strained and acid thoughts. Curt's presence helped much more. Once more she told all except the essential fact of her relationship to Elinor. He sided with Terriss. "But, Curt," she objected, "T have this awful hunch that it's Hol-

"That's something for Terriss to discover. I must say I don't like his trying to get money out of you, but there again, he's spoiled and he may have wanted to buy something his father wouldn't approve of, or throw a party unbeknownst to his family. Boys at that age often do things like that, they want to appear grand and lavish to their friends. What sort are his friends?'

"They look like any other boys to it down and Rachel advanced with me, weedy and pimply and know-itwouldn't say any of them would ever be intellectual giants."

Mannerisms Some people, especially women, have a habit of placing the first finger along the cheek when in thought. These are usually generous to a fault. Others cup the chin in the hand. These are the slow but sure type. Those who nervously touch the chin or stroke the mouth when thinking are quick and sometimes erratic.
