

THE NEWS REACHES PETER RABBIT

IT ISN'T often that Peter Rabbit doesn't know what is going on in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows, but once in a great while it happens. That was the case the time that everybody was looking for the storehouse of Busy Bee so as to make a friend of Buster Bear, who is very fond of honey.

It happens that Peter had been staying very close to the dear Old Briar Patch in the daytime, visiting the Green Forest only at night. Now, of course, no one looked for the storehouse of Busy Bee at night, and so Peter didn't know anything about it for some time. When he did hear about it, he was very much put out because he had not known about it before. Peter is one of those people who want to be the first to know what is going on.

Now, Peter was quite as much afraid of Buster Bear as were any of his friends. In fact, it was because of Buster that he had given up going to the Green Forest as much as he used to or would have liked to. So when he heard that everyone was looking for honey for Buster Bear, he was filled with a great wish that he, too, might hunt for the honey. He might, he just might, find it. And if he did, why he and Buster Bear would be friends as long as they lived, and that would be perfectly splendid. The more he thought about it as he sat in the dear Old Briar Patch the more splendid it seemed, and he began to wish that he could climb trees like Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, or else that he could fly. He thought flying would be even better.

But he couldn't do either, and so couldn't quite see how he had the least chance in the world to find the honey which would make Buster Bear his friend. He sat in the dear Old Briar Patch and thought and thought. Jimmy Skunk came along

KNOW THYSELF

ARE GREAT MUSICIANS USUALLY INTROVERTS?

MUSICIANS are both extravert and introvert, but the introvert tendency dominates. Performers are more likely to be extraverts than are composers, who are almost universally introverted. Richard Wagner was naturally very introvert, but poverty drove him through performance to slightly extravert traits at times. His Tristan and Isolde is the product of sensuous introversion of the richest sort; born out of his life in general. Beethoven was an introvert through-out. He never married, and lived in general disorder. In his intuitive mind, his introverted experience roamed from the neuro-fighting of his Eroica groping for power, to the depths of sensation in his Ninth Symphony. His music was made of tremendous moods. Without introversion, no such music would ever have been written.

out where she goes to," replied Jimmy. Peter didn't say anything more, but he did a great deal of thinking, and he did wish that Jimmy Skunk would hurry away. You see, he had thought of a plan. He had thought of some one, a friend of his, who ought to know all about Busy Bee and her honey, and he was anxious to go hunt him up. So for once Peter didn't want to talk, and after a little Jimmy Skunk went on his way to hunt for fat beetles.

and noticed that Peter was studying over something. "Hello!" he exclaimed. "Got something on your mind, Peter Rabbit?"

Now, Peter didn't like to admit that he wished he could find the honey of Busy Bee, so he pretended not to hear Jimmy's question. "Hello, Jimmy Skunk!" he exclaimed, as if he had just discovered Jimmy's presence. "How are you?"

"Fine," replied Jimmy. "I'm glad to see that you haven't gone crazy like everybody else."

"What do you mean?" asked Peter.

"Why, everybody in the Green Forest is running around with their heads tipped back until they look as if they certainly would break their necks. They're all looking for honey, and to see them you would think that they expected it was going to drop right down on their noses. I never did see such foolishness, and all just to try to please Buster Bear. Some day one of them will walk right into his clutches, for you can't look up and watch where you are going at the same time. If I wanted to find that honey I wouldn't go about breaking my neck to do it. No, sir, not much!"

"What would you do?" asked Peter so eagerly that Jimmy looked at him sharply.

SUNLIGHT AS A HEALTH FACTOR

It Comes in Food in Form of Vitamin D.

By EDITH M. BARBER

"A PLACE in the sun" has from time immemorial been a phrase used to describe a man's ambitions. The value of sunlight as a health factor has been recognized since the beginning of time. It is only recently, however, that we have known what particular quality of sunlight is most valuable as a health factor.

The action of the violet rays upon the skin has been found to supply a property which allows the body to utilize the phosphorus and calcium in such a way that strong bones are produced. In life as it is lived today it is difficult for us to get enough direct sunlight for this purpose, even when it is supplemented by foods which supply the same quality which we know as vitamin D. Among the foods which we use daily we find small amounts in egg yolks and in cream and butter. Fish oils, however, supply vitamin D in liberal quantities.

Science has made it possible for us to get a supply of vitamin D from foods which naturally contain little of it; we can now buy milk which has been "irradiated" by artificial violet rays by feeding the cows irradiated yeast or by adding a concentrated form of cod liver oil. Several cereals and a number of other foods which have been treated with vitamin D are also available. Natural vitamin D has been isolated by Dr. Nicholas A. Milas of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In the laboratories of this institution a concentrate which has a far greater potency than any other form of vitamin D has been produced.

TESTED RECIPES.

Boston Baked Beans.

- 1 quart pea beans.
3/4 pound fat salt pork
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 teaspoon mustard
Boiling water

Pick over beans, cover with cold water and soak overnight. Drain, cover with water, heat (keeping water below boiling point) and cook until skins will burst, which may be determined by taking a few beans on the tip of a spoon and blowing on them when skins will burst if cooked. Drain beans. Scald pork and scrape; remove one-quarter inch slice and put in bottom of bean pot. Cut through rind of remaining pork every half inch, making cuts one inch deep. Put beans in pot and bury pork in beans, leaving rind exposed. Mix salt, molasses and sugar, add one cup boiling water and pour over beans; then add enough boiling water to cover beans. Cover bean pot and bake six to eight hours in slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) uncovering the last hour of cooking, that the rind may become brown and crisp. Add water as needed.

Maine Lobster Stew.

- 1 lobster, medium size (1 1/4 pounds)
4 tablespoons butter
1 1/4 quarts milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/4 teaspoons pepper

Chop the meat of the lobster very fine. Mash liver and coral together and add half of the salt and pepper. Place butter in sauce pan, add lobster, liver and coral and allow to simmer for a short time, but do not allow the butter to brown. Keep all the tail bones of lobster and add to milk and scald. Strain and pour on the lobster; add remaining seasoning. Bring back to the boiling point and serve in large soup bowls.

Corned Beef Hash.

- 2 cups chopped corned beef
2 cups chopped boiled potatoes
1 tablespoon minced onion
Salt, pepper
Milk, if desired
2 tablespoons fat

Mix beef, potatoes with onion and seasonings and add a little milk if a moist hash is desired. Melt the fat in a heavy frying pan, add the meat mixture and stir until thoroughly mixed. Press the mixture down in the pan until it holds together and cook over a low fire until brown underneath.

Eggs Benedict.

- 3 English muffins
6 slices frizzled ham
6 poached eggs
Hollandaise sauce

Split the English muffins and toast. Arrange the slices of ham on each muffin half. The ham should be fried lightly (frizzled) in a hot frying pan. Arrange poached eggs on ham and pour over the hollandaise sauce.

Sabayon Sauce.

- 1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
4 egg yolks
2 tablespoons herry

Combine one cup of the sugar with the water and stir over a low heat until the sugar is dissolved; boil three minutes. In the top of the double boiler put the egg yolks, stir in the remaining sugar and beat until foamy. Beat in the sugar syrup gradually and cook over hot water until the mixture thickens. Add the herry and serve.

Bore First English Hallmark

The earliest known object bearing an English hallmark is a two-pronged fork with the marks for the years 1632-33. The maker is not known but the fork belonged to the Kenners and Montague families of Boughton, England. The fork is in the Victoria and Albert museum.

Mississippi's Mouth at Sea Level; Source Above

According to Stimpson's "Popular Questions Answered," there are certain small streams which occasionally reverse the direction of their currents. One example is given, the river Crossing, a small stream in Penobscot county, Maine; this stream sometimes flows south and sometimes north, depending on the flood conditions in the Soudabscot and Kenduskeag rivers which it connects. The same authority deals with the common belief that the Casiquiare river in Venezuela sometimes reverses the current direction, but this is stated to be incorrect. The question is often asked with regard to the Mississippi, the idea being that because the earth bulges at the center and is flattened toward the poles, the mouth of that river is about four miles farther than its source from the center of the earth. In measuring elevations, however, all of these are referred to sea level, not to the earth's center. Surface measurements have

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

By JEAN

A GIRL who brings her toes out for the summer and sits around tennis courts or on lawns should be prepared to meet with a few droll cuties. In the first place, there are always little boys and girls thoughtlessly running after balls and mallets. In the second place, your toes are very likely to be used as a home plate. When they are you should smile (if you can) and learn to sit on your feet. Let the kids have your handkerchief for a base.

In the second place, the young men who mill around you can't all be expected to be so agile as to avoid your toes all summer long. When one of them does do a good heel and toe act with you, you should try to be fairly pleasant about it after the first "ouch." If you make too big a fuss you'll probably plant a horrible complex in the boy which will last the rest of his life. For, you see, there's absolutely nothing he can do about a toe he's stepped on, which leaves him pretty frustrated. He can't offer to send it to the cleaners, nor can he bring roses to your bedside over it. So you might as well accept his apology and be done with it. But apologize he must. And this paragraph we direct to all masculine steppers on toes. Never, for heaven's sake, make your apology sound as though you blame the girl. Remember, she didn't stick her foot out too far, nor is her foot too big. It was all your fault. You were awkward, your heel slipped, your foot is an outside. Convey that apology and you'll be a Romeo for life.

Commodore Perry Arrived

Too Late to Save Seaman Bird. Probably the only sour note in events surrounding Commodore Oliver Perry's victory on Lake Erie was the execution of Seaman James Bird, according to H. J. Carr, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

During the battle Bird was wounded, but instead of going below deck for treatment he stayed at his post until the firing ceased. After the fight he went to Gowanda, N. Y., on a furlough, and here he was betrayed by a man who told the sea man the war was over and that there was no necessity to return to service. The betrayer wanted Bird to work for him.

Meanwhile Bird was charged with desertion and a reward offered for his capture. On the pretext there was money due the seaman for service in the war, Bird's betrayer took him to Erie, Pa., to collect.

Here he was seized and ordered shot, and the man received the reward for turning him over to the authorities. Perry heard of the seaman's plight and came to plead for his life—but he arrived in Erie just as the guns of the firing squad barked death for Bird.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Magazine Solicitors.

HOUSTON, TEXAS.—What has become of all the struggling collegians, ranging in age up to fifty-five, who used to solicit magazine subscriptions so they could spend another semester at dear old Bushwah?

We counted that day lost whose low descending sun didn't find us signing on the dotted line. And sometimes we got the wrong magazines and sometimes we didn't get any magazines at all and once in a while we got the magazines we'd ordered and then didn't like them.

But our consolation was that we'd aided all those earnest undergraduates to complete the education for which they panted as the hart panteth after the water-brook.

Can it be that the gallant army packed the campuses until vast numbers got crushed in the jam? Or is it that many of them are getting too old to travel around? Lately there has been an unaccountable falling-off in the business. We are bearing up bravely, since now we have more time in which to lead our own lives.

P. S.—I have on hand a complete file for 1935 of the Northwestern Bee Raiser which I would like to trade for a ukulele.

Matriarchy's Approach.

SOME inspired philosopher—and not a woman either—declares that within a century women will dominate every imaginable field of human endeavor. What do you mean, within a century? If the prophet will leave out the ancient science of growing chin-whiskers and the knack of making a sleeping car washroom look like a hurray's nest I'm saying that women are already away out in front everywhere.

Since Henry the Eighth, the two greatest kings England had were both queens—Elizabeth and Victoria. Men thought up war and improved the art of war and now are hoping to perfect it to the point of exterminating the species, but 'twas in the midst of bloody warfare that Florence Nightingale laid the foundations and Clara Barton built the structure of mercy by method and life-saving by skill and tenderness and sanitation.

Take this country at the present moment; for energy, for readiness of speech, for range of interest, for versatility in making publicity and, incidentally, acquiring it, for endurance under strain, what man amongst us is to be compared with the first lady of the language, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?

Banishing Sectionalism.

ON ONE stretch of road down here—and it is not a main-traveled highway and this not exactly the tourist season—I saw cars bearing license tags of nine separate states, ranging from New Hampshire and Florida to Utah and Oregon, besides one from Hawaii and one from Puerto Rico. And next to summer Texas cars will be boring into every corner of this Union and the folks riding in them will be getting acquainted with their fellow-countrymen and finding out that, when you know the other fellow, he's not so different, after all.

Like most evil things, sectionalism and parochial prejudices and with Vermont neighbor to Virginia and the Dakotas talking it over with the Carolinas, there's seed being sown which inevitably must sprout a finer yield of Americanism than any our land ever produced—if only we keep the tares of communism and the chaff of snobbery out of the crop, only make patriotic service a thing of elbow-grease and not of lip-movements.

What price, then, the wearers of the black shirts and the white sheets; the parlor pinkies, the yellow internationalists and the red flag wavers?

Freedom of the Press.

DICTATORS invariably cancel freedom of the press and curb freedom of education. Otherwise, they fail.

Although he uttered the words over 250 years ago, Governor Berkeley of Virginia spoke for all the breed of political tyrants when he said: "I thank God there are no free schools, nor printing, for learning has brought disobedience and heresy into the world, and printing has divulged them."

Foulness in drama or literature, like a skunk penned under a barrel, eventually destroys itself by just naturally choking to death on its own smell.

Control of the newest medium of publicity, the radio, is easy. But information put in type keeps on traveling. No people ever stayed free once the press—and the school-teacher—had been muzzled.

Taste Reveals Oxidation

A tallowy flavor in butter and in dry milk results from oxidation of the butter fat present, according to the American Chemical society. In cream a stale, metallic flavor appears also to be caused by oxidation, it is declared. This flavor occurs to the greatest extent in strawberry ice cream.

Three Little Words

NEXT time you or yours want "something nice to wear," remember me and my three little words: Sew-Your-Own! Yes, Milady, sew-your-own because it pays big dividends. It's good for you! Instead of worrying about clothes you can't have, you'll be humming about all the pretty things you can have—and all because you sew, sew, Sew-Your-Own! Won't you join us today or very soon?

White House or Cottage. Even if your home were the White House, Milady, you would need a little frock like today's 1413 to see you through your housekeeping chores. It has that style usually reserved for expensive frocks and its simplicity will fascinate you. A young collar tons its shirtwaist styling, while the trim short sleeves and shirred yoke are features to be appreciated every time you put it on. It will make you smart in crisp new gingham, and it's more than chic in silk crepe. Try it both ways—you'll like them!

So Simple, So Sweet. Little Miss Two-to-Eight will use her very nicest three-syllable words to exclaim over this frock (above center) designed especially for her by Sew-Your-Own! It is one of those so-simple, so-sweet little affairs that every mother and every daughter has a weakness for. The new prints or criss-cross gingham will look more than appealing on your little "forty pounds of charm," especially if the trimming is of gay red ribbon to match the bows in her hair.

That Poured-in Look. "Something nice to wear," in the full sense of the phrase, is the brand new frock at the right. Your teens and bride will be dates to look forward to with this smart model in black satin or velvet, awaiting your call. Fashion says "that poured-in look," and Sew-Your-Own said "when" just in the nick to make this your most figure-flattering frock. It is equally effective for the sub-deb and young executive. It belongs in every well-groomed lady's wardrobe. Why not in yours?

The Patterns. Pattern 1413 is designed for sizes 34 to 50. Size 34 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35 or 39-inch material. Pattern 1852 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material plus 6 yards of ribbon for trimming, and 1 yard for belt. Pattern 1383 is designed for sizes 14 to 20. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Vegetable Fondue a Pleasing Entree

VEGETABLE fondue is a delicate entree and one which can be easily made and is bound to please the family. To make the preparation extra simple start with a can of mixed vegetables. It may be one canned especially for salads or soup. Drain the liquid from the vegetables, but do not throw it away as it contains good food value. Chop the vegetables rather fine, or mash, whichever seems easier to you.

A little suspicion of freshly grated onion is good to add to the vegetables if the family likes the flavor, and surely they do.

Scald milk in double boiler, add bread, butter, egg and salt. Remove from the fire and add the onion and mixed vegetables. Beat in the egg yolks and fold in the whites which have been beaten until stiff. Pour the mixture into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) until it is firm in the center, or about 40 minutes. When the fondue is done the mixture will not adhere to a silver knife when inserted in the center. Serves 4.

Crisp bacon and spiced peaches would be good to serve with the fondue. The peaches come all spiced in cans, too, so they do not mean extra labor.

CHAPTER XII—Continued. By SOPHIE KERR. © Sophie Kerr Underwood, WNU Service.

Bob's acquiescence wasn't wholehearted, she thought, after she'd greeted Mrs. Duffy and pre-empted the Duffy tub. It might be that he was still in love with her and found it painful to see her... it might... but somehow she didn't believe it.

It was grand to be clean again, even if her clothes were tired and wrinkled. She felt quite herself as she made the rounds of the various stores. She had told them all the same tale she had invented for Bob and felt she didn't care if they didn't believe it. At last she headed back to the house to be met on the terrace by an agitated Mr. Kreef.

"Right away when I went over this morning I knew someone'd been in. And I ducked around downstairs and didn't find anybody, but up in your ma's room there was your suitcase and I recognized it. How you got it there you get in?"

While he put wood on the fire Rachel explained about the kitchen window and Mr. Kreef was greatly bothered. "I mighta noticed that window and nailed it shut, and then where you been?"

"I'd have come over and pounded on your door, Mr. Kreef, I knew you had a key." "But what'd you do this morning?" "You didn't have a fire, or nothing to eat. You should've come over then. Miss Kreef's none too neighborly, I know, and sorry I am to admit it, but she'd surely have made you a cup of coffee."

I went down and had breakfast with Bob Eddis. "You did, Miss Rachel?" It sounded sly, amused. "What's all the excitement about Mr. Eddis? Come on now, be a good sport, tell me. I know there's something going on."

Mr. Kreef liked nothing better than a dish of gossip. He pursed his mouth with importance and crinkled his eyes in a knowing smile. "He's beaung the new primary schoolteacher, she's a right pretty girl, too, and cute as Christmas. She come to Rockboro after you and your ma left last fall and first off she boarded at Miss Duffy's and then Miss Duffy sent her over to her sister's, Miss Catlin's, just an act of charity because Miss Catlin was so hard up on Miss Duffy knew a schoolteacher'd pay regular, but she and Mr. Eddis they made it right up, quick, and most every day they eats their dinners together at the tea shop, and he takes her to the pictures and they walk on the beach, just like you and him used to do."

"Mr. Kreef, this is interesting!" exclaimed Rachel. "This makes a lot of things clear to me. What's the schoolteacher's name?" "She's a Miss Alice Hale. Hope you don't feel bad about it, Miss Rachel. I contend to Miss Kreef that you could have had him if you'd wanted him, but you didn't want him. A body with a pair glass eyes could've seen that he was after you last year. She's a light blonde."

"I wouldn't have any chance against a light blonde, so I'll have to make the best of it, though it breaks my heart." "Now, Miss Rachel, quit your fooling. I guess you didn't want Mr. Eddis and I say you were right, for though he's a nice young fellow, he's not the one for you, peculiar. It's no way for a young man to live in a little made-over shack, housekeeper for himself. A hermit, you might as well describe him. And then, he don't like the radio. That's unnatural. He goes on like this and he'll just grow into an old crank. 'S too bad. I've certainly had pleasure out of your radio, Miss Rachel, this winter. My name was mentioned twice, once for your birthday Cheerio sent me a greeting and Kel Murray's orchestra played a special tune for me and called my name and address in full and said it was for me. Several people downtown spoke to me about it. He interrupted his spate of talk to look out of the front window. 'Here comes somebody up the road, looks like a stranger. Probably another one of these dinged brush peddlers hunting me down. They give a body no peace! He's coming in here by mistake.'"

Rachel turned to follow Mr. Kreef's glance, then she jumped up and ran to the door. The stranger was Curt Elton.

CHAPTER XIII. It took a little maneuvering to get rid of Mr. Kreef without hurting his feelings or indulging his curiosity, but it was managed at last. And this being accomplished and Rachel and Curt left alone, an odd restraint fell on them.

Rachel broke it. "I do believe you're disappointed that I wasn't in the hands of gangsters or something wild, so you could rescue me. Did you bring a tommy-gun?" "Not even a slingshot. Rachel, why did you come?" "Why did you come?" "Curt got up and put some wood on the fire."

"It's very pleasant here," he said. "Any room with sunlight and a fireplace full of driftwood is decorated. And besides, there's the sea over the dunes. It must be lovely in summer."

"But quite!" said Rachel, mocking. "Too, too lovely! Simply deevine. Gay rugs and chintz covers, ornaments on the mantelshelf, books, pictures and fresh flowers artistically arranged, my dear, you have no idea how really charming the little dump can be!" "I don't deserve that, do I?" "But what do you deserve, Curt? I don't even know why you've come."

"But you're not sorry I came?" "No, of course not." "I was worried about you, that's why I came. I phoned Terriss and telegraphed and I've had taken find, he said the Caynes had taken find, but she knew her way and down on

DORIS DENE'S COLUMN

Few Husbands Prove the Don Juans Their Wives Fear.

DEAR DORIS DENE: I am afraid I am the type of wife known as unreasonably jealous. Perhaps I have always been suspicious because I was attracted when I was young and I knew how many men were willing to cheat on their wives for my sake. I can't get into the habit of trusting my husband. I want him to be with me all the time. I resent any outside interests he has. I know this is wrong but how can I build up any faith in men in general? I cannot say I am a happy wife although I love my husband and believe that he really loves me. Any help you can give me will be of great value. —G. E. M.

ANSWER—As a matter of fact I doubt very much whether you were quite so besieged with attentions from married men as you imagined you were. Perhaps two husbands out of all those you knew showed signs of being ready to make love to you but that wasn't a staggering proportion of the harried male population. Because you happened on two weak members of the married crowd, you jumped to conclusions about man's inability to be faithful, which aren't fair to the masculine sex.

Actually men on the whole don't run to infidelity as much as they're supposed to. Give an average happy home and a nice wife and a promising job and a fair amount of interests, no man really wants to bother getting himself tangled up in some unfortunate relationship. The average man wants peace, and his wife, if she's wise, sees that he gets it.

But when a possessive woman insists that her man shall make her his chief interest in life, she's on the way to trouble. When she won't let him have his game of golf and his evenings of bridge and his business dinners then she's cutting him away from all the normal outlets which make him appreciate his home and his spouse. She's relying too much on herself and on her personality.

Also she's surrounding him with an atmosphere of possessive love which would be enough to turn any man's head. Most normal everyday men don't go about all day thinking up ways of being unfaithful. They don't brood darkly on thoughts of illicit love. They are not given to constant self-analyses as to the depth of their affection for their wives. Most of them, in their simple uncomplicated way, just accept the fact of their love and their marriage quite calmly and let it go at that. And it takes quite a severe wrench to tear a man from this ordinary everyday acceptance of love and marriage—and to plunge him into an amorous entanglement which spoils his peace.

But when the poor male is constantly reminded of how likely it is that he will be unfaithful—when he's accused of misdeeds which haven't occurred to him—when he is kept busy persuading his wife that she loves her and her alone—isn't it only natural that infidelities should come to seem a more normal part of life to him than they otherwise would have?

Get over all your notions about your husband, G. E. M. He is probably not attractive enough to do all the heart-breaking you accuse him of.

DEAR DORIS DENE: We are two girls in love with the same boy. We are both willing to give him up for each other's sake. We are such devoted friends that no man could ever come between us—but of course we would each like to marry him if it were the right thing to do. —T. and B.

ANSWER—And all the time apparently the poor man hasn't a word to say about the arrangements. Surely by this time he must have formed an opinion of his own as to which of you two charmers would do. Wouldn't it be better to let him make his confession of love to one of you—before casting lots as to which girl gets the prize?

If T. gives up the boy in order to be loyal to B. she may be doing herself and the man she loves an incalculable wrong. B. may never have suited the hero of the piece. He may never have dreamed of her in connection with marriage. What right, therefore, has T. to consign romance to oblivion, in favor of friendship. Her gesture of self-sacrifice will not help B.'s cause, for Romeo hasn't already chosen her.

Let the hero choose his own bride. It may take a good deal of character for you two girls to remain friends under the circumstances but if your standard of friendship is so high, you should be able to weather this storm.

A CHRISTIAN BACHELOR: Thanks for your letter. Sorry I can't reprint it but I am afraid it might hurt the feelings of some of those who need help desperately—and who cannot altogether be blamed if their interests seem to be selfish. Some time when we've been looking at a problem for days and weeks and months we do slip into a rut and become so self-centered we alienate the sympathy of those around us. That's why it is a good thing to write to an outsider when the difficulty seems almost insuperable.

The Oldest Flower Garden. According to the magazine Horticulture, the oldest flower garden in America dates back to the middle of the sixteenth century. When Montcalm occupied Fort Ticonderoga the French fenced in part of the old planting ground that the Indians had previously used for their corn fields. Before foreign intervention it is probable that the Iroquois and Algonquin Indians used this same site for growing purposes. No one knows how early the ground was first cultivated.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Making a Chintz Bed Spread With Corded Seams.

WOULD you like to make a chintz bedspread to match your curtains? Of course, such a spread must have seams in it, for most chintzes are only 36 inches wide, while the average double bed is about 54 inches wide. But seams need not detract from the beauty of the spread.

Eleven and a half yards of 36-inch-wide chintz will make this spread and pillow cover for a double bed. In the diagrams at the right I have given the dimensions for cutting these for a 54-inch-wide bed. It is best to cut the center portions first; then cut the 18-inch side sections for the pillow cover; then the 10-inch strips for pillow cover and spread. This leaves a long 26-inch-wide strip for the side ruffles of the spread.

Cable cord for the corded seams may be purchased at notion counters. Prepared bias trimming may be used for the cord covering. Baste the covering over the cord, as shown here at A; then place the covered cord in the seam, as shown, and stitch as at B, using the cording foot of your machine. Uncle Phil Says:

Missing Those of Today. Many of us are very busy looking for tomorrow's possibilities. Sincerity writes the character of a man with indelible letters. A man's age commands veneration. A woman's commands tact. A man may reject what is called "an opportunity" because he doesn't want a life of highly paid drudgery.

Would Reverse Order Work? Young folks don't have to give any reasons for falling in love and getting married, but when they want to be divorced the law requires very definite ones. A weakling: One who thinks every failure in his life is due to somebody else. When you hear of a rummage sale in town, hurry to the scene of it and buy back your fishing clothes.

Both Are Disagreeable. With a tolerably well-swollen head, it doesn't matter so much whether one has wealth or not. A man who is sure of himself doesn't have to "impress people." As a rule he doesn't care. Time is money only if you know how to turn it into money. A man believes in being warm in his winter clothes and a woman in looking svelte. Louder automobile horns are always succeeded by still louder ones until the law stops them.

Suede Shoes.—Never let them get too dirty and they'll wear for ages. Brush off any mud with a wire brush, but to remove shiny marks rub them lightly with fine sandpaper or an emery board from a manure set. This roughs up the "pile" and makes the surface dull again.

Shiny Glassware.—Water glasses and other glassware will shine like new if a tablespoon of vinegar is added to the rinse water.

Feeding Children.—Introduce new, unfamiliar foods to a child by giving small amounts at first; then increase them gradually.

Tarnished Silver.—Tarnish can be removed from silverware which has been stored for a long time by soaking it for two hours in water left from cooking potatoes, then rubbing with a soft brush or cloth and silver polish.

The Telephone Mouthpiece.—Wash the mouthpiece of the telephone frequently to keep it sanitary.

Well-Made Sauce.—When making a drawn butter sauce be sure to blend the butter and flour thoroughly before adding boiling water. If they are not well mixed, the sauce will be lumpy. Cook in a double boiler or small saucepan over boiling water. Sauce that is made over a hot flame is apt to be oily. Add the water a little at a time, stirring constantly, so that the sauce will be of the right consistency. Add seasoning to taste.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men? GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands? Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family. How to Have More Trivial Accidents

If we are going to have automobile accidents, let's have the little ones. It is not such a serious matter when we dent a fender. What we don't want to dent is a skull. How shall we select for ourselves the smaller or more insignificant or skin-deep grade "C" accidents? I have a book in my lap, compiled by The Travelers Insurance Company on last year's smashes and cruises. It tells us which kind of accidents are the deadliest. Let's get a line on 'em and avoid THAT kind. About the surest way to cinch your death in an automobile accident is to mix in a little alcohol. With an intoxicated driver (you or somebody else) at the wheel, your chance of death is greater than with a sober man at the wheel. I mean if you take 1,000 drunk accidents and 1,000 sober accidents there'll be more deaths in the drunk accidents. Even an intoxicated pedestrian has

FARM BUILDERS MEETING

There was held a meeting of farm building contractors and farmers who contemplate doing farm building at the court house in West Bend on Friday, January 7th, beginning at 9:00 a. m.

Speakers were Mr. S. A. Witzel, farm building advisor of the college of agriculture, and Mr. L. O. Hausen of the Portland Cement association. Both speakers discussed recent trends in their respective construction fields.

Lumber dealers, contractors, and those contemplating doing building work during the coming year attended this meeting.

TWO ORCHARD SCHOOLS

Orchard schools beginning on Monday, January 10th, have been planned for farmers in Washington county.

If you live in the southern part of the county and are interested in learning how to improve your orchard, attend the school scheduled for Dickel's hill, Richfield, beginning at about 9:30 on Monday morning, January 10th.

If you live in the northern part of the county, attend the school to be held at Liepke's hill in Kohlsville. The meeting will start at about 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. C. L. Kuehner of the college of agriculture will be present.

FREE TREES FOR WINDBREAK PLANTINGS

A limited number of free evergreen transplants suitable for windbreak planting are available to Washington county farmers. These are to be distributed to farmers who have not received such trees in previous years.

The number of trees available to any farmer will depend upon the number of requests for them. The varieties available are Norway spruce, white pine, Scotch pine, Norway pine.

FREE TREES FOR FOREST PLANTING STOCK

A limited number of farmers may secure 500 to 1000 free trees for forest planting. These trees are one-year-old seedlings and must be planted so as to improve forest areas.

In addition to conifers, one-year-old seedlings of Red Oak, White Oak and Black Locust are available.

FARMERS RECOMMEND PROGRAM FOR DAIRY PRODUCERS

A group of 22 Wisconsin dairy farmers recently recommended a program for dairy producers to stabilize the price of dairy products.

The recommendation followed a two-week study of the dairy situation by the farmers, coming from all sections of the state, and an examination of possible methods of improving the economic position of the dairy producer.

The farmers recommended:

1. That purchase of surplus dairy products for distribution to relief clients, authorized under section 32 of public law 320, be continued insofar as practicable.

2. That consideration be given to a storage plan for dairy products whereby accumulated supplies during periods of high production might be more evenly distributed during periods of low production for the benefit of producers and protection of consumers.

3. That a production adjustment program for dairy producers, fitted into the existing agricultural conservation program be put into operation to give adequate protection in the event of abnormally large supplies, and accompanying low prices, become too burdensome for other measures.

The recommendations were drawn at the close of the second week of a statewide conference, and after the farmers had held informal meetings with producers in the counties they represented.

At a large majority of the meetings held by the farmers in their counties, sentiment was brought out in support of some kind of a dairy program, the farmers reported.

In a set of resolutions adopted at the close of the meeting the farmers declared: "We recognize the value of the commodity purchase act, known as Section 32, Public Law No. 320, in handling seasonal surpluses, and recommend its continued use."

"We take the position that dairymen should produce enough to take care of demand, plus a storage supply sufficient to adequately protect the consumer."

"We recognize the merits of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1937. We believe that the application of this act should be expanded and used to prevent unfair practices in the marketing of dairy products. We commend the AAA organization for its work already attempted under it (the act). We suggest that the producers be more fully advised of its merits."

"We recommend to the secretary of agriculture that a sufficient fund be set up by placing a tax on dairy products whereby finances be established for financing a national cooperative dairy holding pool."

EGGS FOR DARK DAYS

Madison—While eggs have an important place in the diet through all seasons, they are especially beneficial during the dark winter months when sunshine vitamins are needed in the diet, according to C. Howard King, poultry and egg marketing specialist of the department of agriculture and markets.

The egg yolk contains virtually all of the vitamin alphabet, King said, with most of the vitamins being present in generous amounts. Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, is present in egg yolks in such quantities as to be exceeded only in fish oils. Thus, eggs can be truly classed as "sealed packages of sunshine," he explained.

WORK OF 1937 WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE

By Henry O. Schowalter, Assemblyman, Washington County

X. LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Of primary interest to the counties was the passing of Chapter 6, Laws of 1937, commonly called the deficiency bill, which appropriated about one and one-half million dollars to pay counties the full amount of state aid for old-age assistance, aid to dependent children and blind aid for the two fiscal years which ended June 30, 1937.

The counties had paid out the entire amount but had not received the entire share because the previous legislature had failed to provide the funds even though they had forced the counties to pay out the aids.

Under Chapter 147, county boards are authorized by a two-thirds vote to purchase excess delinquent taxes from local units.

Chapters 28 and 412 authorize county boards at their discretion to appropriate not exceeding $5,000 a year for advertising and developing the attractions of the county and $500 a year for local historical societies.

Efforts were made to provide for the non-partisan election of county officers. Bill 39A proposed to change our election laws to do this and the measure met defeat in the Assembly. Three attempts were made to have a statewide advisory referendum on the question but all three after bitter debate were defeated. Another effort was made to accomplish the same purpose by a joint resolution amending the Constitution to provide for non-partisan election of county officers and increasing their term of office to four years. The resolution too was defeated.

The town law relating to the opening and closing hours of voting polls was changed to provide that they shall be closed at 5:30 p. m. The town board giving proper notice can extend this time to not earlier than 6:00 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Where town highways are taken over as part of the state trunk system the state must assume town obligations incurred by the town in building such road. Such expense is to be charged against the state highway fund.

Other legislation affecting towns authorizes town boards to fix fees for auction sales and authorizes towns to issue bonds to refund prior town indebtedness. It was proposed that the powers of town boards be extended over the entire town including unincorporated villages and granting them power to do town planning. The bill failed to pass in the Senate.

Villages of one thousand population, under Chapter 300, may become cities of the fourth class. The previous minimum was twelve hundred.

The more important enactments affecting city government are: Chapter 94 extending the law on rest days for policemen to cities of the fourth class (24 hours rest in eight days and eight hours work day); Chapter 402 clarifying the city planning law; and Chapter 137 which enables city councils to change or fix officers' salaries on or before the first council meeting in February for officers to be elected or appointed for a definite term during the ensuing year.

Of interest to all local government units is Chapter 1, Laws of the Special Session, which provides that after 1937 property tax receipt forms, contain separate columns showing the amount paid for state, county, local school and other taxes.

Many governing units have stamped on each receipt the amounts levied but to compute the actual tax levied will mean a great deal of additional work and expense. An effort was made to amend the bill so that only the amounts levied (rate set) by each governmental unit need be shown. The amendment failed to pass.

Some of the more important bills affecting municipalities generally which failed to pass are: 2A which proposed to allow municipalities to compete with privately-owned utilities without obtaining a certificate of convenience and necessity; 655A requiring municipalities and counties to carry out liability insurance; 334A providing for municipal milk and dairy distribution agencies; 422A providing for a municipal pension system in cities and villages; and 464A repealing the charge-back for old age assistance.

FARM AND HOME LINES

A non-bitter variety of sweet clover is now under test at the Wisconsin experiment station which does not produce the "bleeding disease" or "sweet clover disease" in livestock as do the common sweet clovers.

Wisconsin farmers and breeders, who are seeking purebred stock, will have an opportunity to pick from 65 Percherons, Belgians and Clydesdales of both sexes which will go on sale at the University of Wisconsin stock pavilion, Madison, on February 24.

Wisconsin's condenseries established a new record in production during 1937, while creameries in the state produced more butter than in any year except 1931.

A Suggestion

Television, Science's Youngster, Starts Wearing Long Trousers

United States and Great Britain Battle Transmission Obstacles, Pave Way for Successful Staging of "See-and-Hear" Radio Shows

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

In Manhattan's Radio City a few weeks ago fashion mannequins paraded before a strange new camera. In a neighboring building a distinguished audience saw these young women on a miniature motion picture screen, meanwhile hearing their gowns described by a commentator.

In London a movie audience witnessed a program being enacted at Alexandria palace, 30 miles away.

In Philadelphia each day regular motion picture news reels are "fed" to a mysterious new cable. In New York, 90 miles distant, the news reels are viewed on a 7 by 10-inch screen.

Such is the magic of television, a powerful new communication medium whose possibilities are being explored in America by broadcasting and telephone interests, in England by the British Broadcasting company, and in Germany by the state. Each has accomplished something; massed together these accomplishments are tremendous.

In the Western hemisphere greatest television experiments have been made by the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiary, the National Broadcasting company. Each day in Radio City experimental programs are televised to whoever might be "watching" within the 25 to 35-mile radius that present day television covers.

The "Bugs" Are Gone. Actually, RCA's engineers have already ironed out most of the "bugs" in transmission and developed several great improvements in reception. A studio technique has been devised for handling the iconoscope, or television camera. A larger cathode ray tube has been perfected to show a 7 by 10-inch image. Another tube projects it to a 3 by 4-foot screen. The sickly ting the location of artillery fire. Another British accomplishment is the televising of color. Early in December John C. Baird, one of England's pioneers in the field, announced he had transmitted a colored image of the Union Jack. Baird's television system is one of two now in use across the sea, having been started in 1929. BBC began its transmissions in 1932 and three years later the government provided for a research commission to pave the way for general broadcasts.

Movies See Possibilities.

The projection of televised entertainment to a movie theater screen is one of BBC's greatest accomplishments to date. A British motion picture concern is already seeking permission to televise variety programs exclusively to a group of theaters.

Television may eventually fall directly into the motion picture industry's lap, simply because no other entertainment field has perfected a studio technique comparable to that required for successful staging of "shows." Several Hollywood studios of coaxial cable at $5,000 a mile. Total cost would be almost $500,000,000.

Besides RCA and Bell Telephone, other American experimenters with television include the Columbia Broadcasting system with a $2,500,000 experimentation program under Gilbert Selde, former newspaper man, and the Don Lee-Mutual network on the Pacific coast. A prominent radio concern plans a transmitting station in Chicago.

Great Britain at Work.

Although Germany claims a radio television record of 300 miles, Great Britain readily admits she leads the world in experimentation with this amazing new child of science. For more than a year the British Broadcasting company has been televising daily programs to an audience of some 8,000 receivers in the London area.

Headquarters are at Alexandria palace and although television covers but a 50-mile radius from that

The camera's work is to transform a pattern of lights and shadows to corresponding electrical impulses. center, officials say the area is being increased steadily. They have already adopted coaxial cable in Great Britain; BBC's programs are now "piped" from London to Birmingham and the cable is being extended to Manchester, Leeds and Newcastle.

Lamps, cameras and "props" crowd this television studio in Radio City, New York.
