Roads to be Improved in Mauthe Lake Area

Construction of a new grade on the town road approach to the Kettle Moraine state forest at Mauthe lake will start this month. Fond du Lac county and state officials decided at a recent conference at the park.

The work, for which approximately $10,000 is available will be done by Fond du Lac county highway crews and equipment at the regular rental price.

A town of Auburn road, leading north from the county trunk highway near New Fane will be widened to approximately 24 feet and a new grade established for approximately one mile to the park entrance, Fond du Lac County Highway Commissioner John H. Bottkoll said.

The road leading into the park will be widened to between 24 and 30 feet for another approximate mile, clear to the parking space adjacent to the new bathing beach at the park. This project will cost approximately half of the funds available. Mr. Bottkoll said, and early next spring the new approaching highway, the road leading into the park and the parking space, will be blacktopped.

Development plans call for the eventual widening and blacktopping of the town road north of the park to County Highway 55 near New Prospect.

This will give a wide blacktop approach to the park from both directions. Additional improvements will be made as funds are available, the state setting aside approximately $5,000 from gas tax funds for this purpose.

Reunion of Klessig- Jaehng Families

The fourth annual reunion of the members of the Klessig-Jaehng families was held last Sunday, Aug. 7th, at the old farm place, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crass at Fillmore. The families annually look forward to the reunion, as this occasion is the one opportunity for all to meet at least once each year. This year's family gathering did not fall short of enjoyment from other years.

All were happy to have Father John Kane present, who is at home in Milwaukee on a furlough from the mission field in India. Father Kane showed curiosity from his field of work, each connected with an interesting story. One of these was the skin of a large leopard, shot a year ago by a priest. The skin, the draped dress of the Hindu woman, was gracefully draped around Miss Betty Klug, who posed for a picture in this costume. The speaker interestingly talked of the land of India, its extreme climate changes, the cultivation of rice, the main industry, and the primitive living conditions of the natives.

The following family members were present: Bertha Woog, Dr. and Mrs. John Klug and daughters, Hazel and Betty, Pearl Kreilkamp, Augusta Bratz, Alma Beger and sons, Leroy and Bobby, and Helen Pratz of Random Lake; Ernst and Clara Witt, Gordon and Ad. Lyn Bratz and baby, Gordon Bratz, Arthur and Leona Wilhelm, Edward and Nora Kane and son Francis, Ellis and Helen Kane and daughters, Ruth and Eunice of Milwaukee; Herbert and Rose Witt and sons, Ivan and Donald of Fredonia; Hugo and Martha Bratz and daughter La Verne of Fillmore; Ernst and Mattie Bratz, Anton and Bernice Bratz, Joan and David Bratz of Weyauwega; John and Selma Klessig of Kewaskum; Bertha Voeks of Palatine Ill.; William and Martha Crass of Janesville, Julian and Manila Hansen of Blue Island, Ill., and Father John Kane of India.

The following guests were present: Arthur and Marida Crass and family, Carl, Clyde, Carol, Earl and Lee Crass of Fillmore, Reuben Klumb of Fredonia, Joe Grundle and Mr. and Mrs. Goetsch of Milwaukee.

Work to Start Soon on New Street Lighting

With the acceptance by the village board at its regular monthly meeting last week of the bid of the Westinghouse Electric Supply company, amounting to $2,179.18, for Kewaskum's new ornamental street lighting system, work on this project is expected to get under way within the next three weeks. The lighting will be installed on Main street and Fond du Lac avenue.

New light standards will replace the suspended street lights now in use. The standards will be made of Hollowspan granite. Twenty-six of these will be erected on the streets with an additional six to be placed upon the bridge on East Main street. The standards will rise 20 feet above the street level with a six foot bracket extending inwardly toward the street which will hold the lights. The standard atop the bridge will extend eight feet above the railing on same.

On Fond du Lac avenue the lighting system will occupy both sides of the street as far south as the K. A. Honck garage and north as far as the Val. Peters harness shop. The entire length of Main street will contain the lights from the intersection with Fond du Lac avenue to the bridge at the east end.

The lighting system will be arranged so that all are on until midnight and half the rest of the night. The lights will be approximately 75 feet apart on opposite sides of the street and between 150 and 175 feet apart on the same side.

All common labor for the system will be done by village workmen. The village will install the lights under the supervision of the engineering department of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric company, which will dig the holes, do the wiring and connecting. Cables have already been laid. This work was done in 1930 at the time Main street was paved.

Warden Schlump also planted 18,000 fingerling rainbow trout Tuesday divided between Feldner's creek near St. Cloud and the creek at Camp Byron. The fish were brought to Fond du Lac in an oxygen tankcar from the state trout hatchery at Wild Rose.

SWEETNESS . . .

ONE HUNDRED SEVENTY-SIX years ago this summer the first stalks of sugar cane were imported to Louisiana from Java, 12,000 miles away. Today this oldest industry is the foundation for Louisiana's agricultural wealth, income amounting to $52,000,000 annually. RIGHT: Luscious stalks of emerald green cane, from 8 to 12 feet high, fall beneath the blows of a machete when cutting season arrives in the fall. BELOW: Gigantic mounds of cane arise outside the mills during grinding season.

Here is one of the great machine units converting cane in the process of being crushed to extract the juice. This is the modern transformation of those first crude sugar kettles in which sticky molasses was turned into granules of sugar.

After refining, thousands of bags of raw sugar are shown being stored in the warehouse to await shipment to all parts of the country. Some of it will find its way into candy, some into your sugar bowl and coffee cup.

Farmer Brown's Little Boy Puzzled by Lack of Trout

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

FARMER BROWN'S boy was tramping through the Green Forest whistling merrily. He always whistles when he feels light-hearted and he always feels light-hearted when he goes fishing. You see, he is just as fond of fishing as is Little Joe Otter or Billy Mink or Buster Bear. And now he was making his way through the Green Forest to the Laughing Brook, sure that by the time he had followed it down to the Smiling Pool he would have a fine lot of trout to take home. He knew patient, but his patience brought no reward, not so much as the faintest kind of a nibble. Farmer Brown's boy trudged on to the next pool and there was a puzzled frown on his freckled face. Such a thing never had happened before. He didn't know what to make of it. All the night before he had dreamed about the delicious dinner of fried trout he would have the next day and now—well if he didn't catch some trout pretty soon that splendid dinner would never be anything but a dream.

"If I didn't know that nobody else comes fishing here I should think that somebody had been here this very morning and caught all the fish or else frightened them so that they are all in hiding," said he, as he trudged on to the next pool. "I never had such luck in all my life before. Hello! What's this?"

There on the bank beside the little pool were the heads of three trout. Farmer Brown's boy scowled down at them more puzzled than ever. "Somebody has been fishing here and they have had better luck than I have," thought he. He looked up the Laughing Brook and down the Laughing Brook and this way and that way but no one was to be seen. Then he picked up one of the little heads and looked at it sharply. "It wasn't cut off with a knife; it was bitten off!" he exclaimed. "I wonder now if Billy Mink is the scamp who has spoiled my fun."

Thereafter he kept a sharp lookout for signs of Billy Mink, but though he found two or three more trout heads he saw no other signs and he caught no fish. This puzzled him more than ever. It didn't seem possible that such a little fellow as Billy Mink could have caught or frightened all the fish or have eaten so many. Besides, he didn't remember ever having known Billy to leave heads around that way. Billy sometimes catches more fish than he can eat but then he usually hides them. The farther he went down the Laughing Brook the more puzzled Farmer Brown's boy grew. It made him feel very queer. He would have felt still more queer if he had known that all the time two other fishermen who had been before him were watching him and chuckling to themselves. They were Little Joe Otter and Buster Bear.

Bothered by Bees? —Just Use Vacuum

GLEN RIDGE, N. J.—James D. Hall has hit upon a new device for exterminating yellow jackets. For several months Hall has been waging a losing battle against a swarm of yellow jackets that built their nests under the eaves alongside the chimney of his home. After dousing the nests with paint and gases to no avail, he filled the bag of a vacuum cleaner with ammonia and applied the cleaner to the opening through which the yellow jackets entered their nests. After the yellow jackets had been sucked into the bag, Hall set it aside 20 hours to let the lethal ammonia do its work.

Modern Bathroom Gay, Waterproof

Nowadays, the old Saturday night order of the bath has gone by the boards, but just the same, not many of us go poetic over the rite of bathing through the winter. It's just one of those things that has to be done. But with summer the bathroom really comes into its own. Then bathing is fun in itself. Not to mention its part in summer sports. That's when a lady with a house really gets around to doing something about the bathroom.

If it's in for a real doing-over, give more than a passing thought to the idea of linoleum for the walls. Partly because it is so practical. Easy to clean with a damp cloth and besides all corners and baseboards are rounded. But mainly because it really offers an opportunity for something new under the shower. You can have as much gayety and design as with wall paper, and yet be as waterproof as your kitchen floor. Which is something, if you want plain and simple color, there it is in a range of interesting tones. If you want riotous individual design, you can have it inlaid right into the walls and to your own fancy.

Whatever you decide on for your linoleum wall motif, repeat the motif in your bath linens. Monograms are usually initials but they don't have to be. If you're a fishy family, let your hobby mark your linens with interesting varieties of fish embroidered on your towels. Ships, coral stalks, flowers or what-have-you will do quite as well. Some people have golf sticks or tennis rackets, horses, dogs, cats or birds. It's up to you.

CHICK DISEASE IS COSTLY TO FARMER

Cleanliness Urged as Best Method of Control.

Supplied by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

The best way to fight coccidiosis, one of the most widespread parasitic diseases of young chickens, is to practice rigid sanitary measures and thus prevent its getting a start in the flock.

During the early summer farmers are likely to spend considerable money for remedies recommended in the treatment of coccidiosis. However, it is pointed out that although many treatments have been tried and advocated for curing the disease, the opinion of poultry investigators is that none of these treatments is effective.

Daily cleaning and disinfecting of the brooder house and poultry yards is recommended for preventing the spread of the disease, the acute form of which often causes death among birds up to two months of age.

A well-balanced diet supplemented by a generous amount of green feed is important for building up the bird's resistance to coccidiosis. Feeding of a mash containing 40 per cent dried skim milk or buttermilk has been advocated generally as being effective in protecting young chickens from infection. Since results from the use of milk have not been entirely consistent, it cannot be recommended as a cure for the disease.

Coccidiosis is easily recognized by such symptoms as ruffled feathers, pallor, rapid emaciation and bloody droppings.

The disease is spread by contamination of the feed, water and soil with droppings of fowls harboring the parasites. Water, shoes, grain sacks or other objects may carry the parasites. They are also spread by birds or insects which fly from one poultry yard to another. Rats and mice also may serve as carriers of the organisms.

United States 'Safest' Country for Live Stock

"The United States is probably the safest country in the world in which to raise live stock," says Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture. "In addition, the supply and the wholesomeness of animal products in this country are excelled by those of no other nation."

Step by step, scientific research, he adds, has been whittling down the dangers and losses until the supply of meat and milk has become one of the most dependable elements of national life.

Even in times of widespread drought and untimely freezing temperatures that curtail cereal, vegetable, and fruit crops, the production of meat and milk continues. Animals not only utilize a variety of feeds but, if necessary, are readily moved from areas of feed shortage to favorable locations.

Nest Talk

The common poultry house nest has an open entrance from the front, but fewer eggs would be broken and less adult cannibalism would occur if a dark entrance were provided from the rear, says a writer in Hoard's Dairyman. This change can usually be accomplished by setting the present nests out from the wall with legs and wall supports and 1 by 4-inch board walks resting on the wall supports. The front should then be closed with a hinged board which enables gathering of the eggs from the front. The nest should be 14 inches square and 12 inches high.

One Crop Dairy Farmer

"One crop" Harry Norton, as he is called by his neighbors around Adelphi, N. J., is a dairy farmer who threw out all his plows and went into grassland farming. Norton feeds his herd grass, 12 months of the year. Half the year the cattle are in pasture, and the other half they eat grass silage and early-cut hay. Grass silage improves the cows' appearance, keeps color in their milk. Early-cut timothy gives heifers more body than alfalfa, he finds. "I let some western farmer raise the grain I need," says Norton. "All I do is spread manure and cut hay. It saves labor and machinery and reduces the cost of producing milk."—The Country Home Magazine.

Culling the Cockerels

Where cockerels are to be saved for breeders, the first culling should be made when from eight to twelve weeks old, says Hoard's Dairyman. For best results the flock should be culled continuously and all through the growing period the birds should be watched carefully and any cockerels showing poor development or lacking in vitality should be discarded. The first culling of pullets may be made at the same time.

Thin-Shelled Eggs

It is a natural tendency of some hens to lay thin-shelled eggs when they have reached the peak of production and are going into a non-production stage. As production decreases the size of the egg also decreases and the thin shelled eggs increase. A properly balanced ration with a plentiful supply of oyster shell or crushed limestone will sometimes correct this tendency but if this is already supplied nothing will stop thin-shelled eggs.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

WE SAY luncheon mats yet, more and more, mats are being used three times a day. This change from the traditional table cloth saves time and laundry; the color and variety of mats add interest to table settings.

A set of sheerest organdie is used with dainty china. The mat shown here is the other extreme. It is made of soft blue denim and is embroidered in heavy white cotton. Napkins may be made to match, or plain white napkins may be used. Here are all the directions you will need for the embroidery.

Cut the mats the desired size, pulling a thread of the fabric to guide you in cutting the edge straight. Hem the edges by hand with 3/8-inch hems, using matching cotton sewing thread or threads of the fabric. If the hem is not strong enough, now, blanket stitch over the hems with the same thread as shown here.

Next, make tiny chain stitches between the blanket stitches. This completes the embroidery. The long sides of the mat are short ends are embroidered with the top of every other chain stitch as shown at C. Chain stitches are then made as at D.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' latest book gives complete directions for many novelties, gifts and ideas for yourself and the children. Also fully illustrated 96 embroidery stitches with interesting variations. You will use these in Book 2, enclosing 25 cent dress Mrs. Spears, 230 S. Wabash St., Chicago.

WOOD TICK WOULD TICK WOOD!

CHICAGO.—This year's voracious crop of wood ticks is the largest in many summers and a current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association tells how to avoid being bitten. Most surprising this year is the presence for the first time of the common dog tick in many cities. There are several hundred varieties, one carrying spotted fever. Another causes fatal infection. To avoid being bitten: Keep ticks from gorging on blood of dogs—give your pet frequent inspection. Wear boots laced over the trouser legs when walking in tick infested regions. Avoid brushing against foliage when walking in the country. Feel the back of your neck and head, their favorite feeding places, and examine children once or twice a day. Examine the whole body after exposure, to ticks. If one is found, pull it off and insert the bite and surrounding tissues by inserting a round toothpick dipped in iodine into the exact spot where the tick was found. To detick clothing, place it in a vessel tightly covered and set on top of it a pan containing half a teacup of carbon tetrachloride or carbon disulfide. Ticks are numerous along the eastern coast from Massachusetts to Florida, especially within a few miles of shore. Texas and Florida have a great many and parts of Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin are infested.

Is It Potentially A Plane Carrier?

LONDON.—Aerial photographs of Germany's new cruise ship, the Wilhelm Gustloff, first of a large fleet, have aroused speculation whether these craft with their long upper deck, obstructed only by a funnel, could quickly be converted into aircraft carriers. The boat pictured here is about 700 feet long with a deck area of 53,800 square feet.

FARING WELL FOR THE FAIR

Hundreds of calves in Wisconsin are being petted and pampered these days in preparation for entry in the Wisconsin State Fair, Aug. 20-28. This Junior Fair entry is being admired by the owners, Evelyn Zingsheim and Fred Bahler. Premiums totaling $35,517.50 will be awarded.

County Agent Notes

Uncle Jim Says

"Fall seeded rye besides being a good cover crop, will get our cows out to pasture at least two weeks earlier next spring. Two or three cows per acre have a hard time to keep ahead of it surely makes them give a lot of milk. Gains from early pasture are very profitable especially if the winter feed supply is running low. Early pasture means more time in the field to get the crops in right.

"Steep slopes that wash easily, if covered with rye are protected against heavy losses due to wind and water erosion. There are also less plant foods lost by leaching if the soil is covered with a crop such as rye when other crops aren't growing.

"If seeded early enough, rye will produce some late fall pasture.

"Rye for pasture is surely an important part of a complete pasture program."

entatives are Louis Opgenorth, Kewaskum; Arthur Quade and Edwin J. Krueger, West Bend.

"Besides the 48 states, 60 nations have accepted invitations to take part in this international gathering," declares Hayes. "A display of fowls from many lands will make the exhibition of unusual interest. Included will be South American breeds producing eggs with black shells and a Japanese rooster with 15-foot tail feathers. Incubators telling the history of hatching eggs from primitive Egyptian ovens to modern machines with thousands of eggs capacity will be on display."

WISCONSIN'S WEED PROBLEM

With all that has been said in the past about the necessity for killing weeds, Wisconsin's real weed problems are just beginning.

This is the way O. S. Aamodt, head of the department of agronomy at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, views the situation. He finds that several new weeds far more difficult to eradicate and control than any we have had so far are becoming of alarming importance to Wisconsin.

Among the weeds which are causing chief concern are the field bindweed, leafy spurge, Austrian cress, and perennial pepper grass. Patches of these have been reported in sections of the state for a number of years where they continue to grow and spread every year. On one farm in southeastern Wisconsin, the bindweed has been present during the last 50 years and during all that time, the farmer has been unable to stop its spread over the farm.

The bindweed is often referred to as creeping Jenny, and small flowered morning glory. It is similar to the common wild morning glory in appearance except its leaves are smaller and are more pointed. The flowers are about an inch or an inch and a half in diameter and pinkish in color. It differs also from the common morning glory in that its root system may penetrate to depths of 25 or 30 feet in the soil. The only really effective method of eradication at the present time, according to Aamodt, is the use of chemical weed eradicators. Control appears possible with several successive crops of winter rye combined with thorough summer following between the time of harvest in July and reseeding in September.

NAME LOUIS OPGENORTH ON POULTRY SHOW COMMITTEE

Because Wisconsin receives nearly $40,000,000 from poultry and has more than 15,000,000 hens on 90 per cent of the farms, Badger poultrymen are pledged to support the World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland in 1939.

In order that the show and exposition may be truly representative of the poultry industry, Wisconsin poultry leaders agreed to secure 10,000 memberships for the congress, says J. B. Hayes, chairman of the state committee.

Washington county has appointed a committee of leading poultry men and farmers to lead the organization drive in this county, announces County Agent E. E. Skalsky. The county representatives are

EDITORIAL

LET US PREVENT FARM AND HOME FIRES

Thoughtfulness and carelessness in the home will help take much of the "mystery" out of spontaneous ignition or "cause unknown" fires.

The many hayloft fires on farms each year are especially deplorable. Some may be due to smoking, many, no doubt, result from spontaneous heating of hay. Proper curing, careful spreading, salting and drying of hay, especially clovers, with good ventilation of hay lofts are a few of the best known preventatives of such fires.

A fire occurs in some American home every two minutes. About two-thirds of the Wisconsin fires are in places of human abode, representing nearly one-half of the state fire loss. The majority of deaths by fire occur in homes, and fully three-fourths of these victims are women and children.

Home fire causes are readily discovered and preventive remedies are simple. In many instances the home owner knows that the chimney of his home is defective, that it has not been cleaned for years and that it may burn out at any time, that the shingle roof on his home is deteriorated or even moss-grown just waiting for a spark to ignite it. He knows that the smokelapses of his stove or furnace are rust-eaten, unsound and not properly joined. He is especially concerned about potential fire hazards in the neighborhood, but insofar as his own home is concerned "nothing will happen."

Similarly the home owner remembers that the basement, closets and attic are convenient storage places for junk and combustible rubbish, that oil rags and oily rags are stored conveniently in the stairway closet, subject to spontaneous ignition. He knows that his good wife or the maid frequently uses kerosene to start fires or to revive sluggish fires and that they are using naphtha or gasoline for cleaning purposes.

He knows that matches are not properly stored out of reach of children and in metal containers and that the children play with matches, building bonfires in the neighborhood, and that members of his family go into clothes closets with lighted matches. He keeps ashes in wooden boxes, barrels and cardboard containers.

The rural home owner knows that a good lightning rod system would ward off lightning strokes. He knows he has no ladder to reach the roof, so he cannot extinguish the smallest roof fire and cannot reach members of his family should they happen to be trapped in upstairs rooms. He knows he is without a fire extinguisher or other appliance to put out incipient fires. HE KNOWS ALL OF THESE THINGS AND MORE THAN THAT, but true to his American gambling spirit takes a chance. He is willing to take a chance that he will not have a fire, risking home, property and the lives of his wife and children.

When all of us recognize potential destroyers of lives and property, why do we take a "chance?" Let's all of us eliminate these hazards now, today.

Uncle Ezra said: "What this country needs is more close shaves in the barber shops and less on the highways."

—Jac. Bruessel Jr. and family of the town of Kewaskum were guests of the H. C. Mante family at Hartford Sunday.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION AT AUBURN HEIGHTS SUNDAY

The 5th anniversary of the lake queen and 9th anniversary of Lake Auburn Heights will be celebrated Sunday afternoon and evening, Aug. 14. The queen, Gladys Marie Kleinke, was born on this land when only a path led through the farm to the lake. When she was four years old her mother, Mrs. Amanda Kleinke Baker, had the ground platted and started a resort. After being approved by the state a road was built and lots were sold. Since then the annual picnic has been held. At the 4th annual celebration the queen was crowned, and now observes her fifth anniversary in that capacity. She will be dressed for the occasion in the resort's colors, red and white, wearing a red sash and white net dress. Her crown and wand will be tied with white streamers. The queen will start the program with her own band, a 14-piece mandolin orchestra, which she will lead at the organ. Miss Gladys is a lively musician and could play an accordion at the age of four years. The afternoon program is free and the sister lakes are invited to participate in this event. The mandolin orchestra is a splendid organization which you will enjoy hearing, so attend one and all have a good time. In the evening a dance will be held featuring Al's Melody Kings.

Back-to-the-land movement is going on in the United States, census figures indicate.

IN MEMORY

In memory of our dear husband and father, William Quandt, who passed away one year ago, on Aug. 11, 1937: We little thought when you left home that you would never return; That you so soon in death should sleep, And leave us all alone. Although you could not speak to us Or could not say goodbye; We know your thoughts were with us all. When you were called to die. The hands that did so much for us How helplessly they lay; God knows they worked continuously But they are gone today. Sadly missed by his wife and children.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Schaeffer and daughter Pearl and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Skupniewitz visited friends at Eden on Sunday.

Big Asia May Be Too Small
For Stubborn Russia, Japan

by Edward W. Pickard

Joseph Stalin once said Russia wanted "not one inch" of foreign soil. Last week Japan decided Dictator Stalin had either changed his mind or was at last throwing open support to beleaguered China.

Since 1931, when Japan marched into Manchuria, American newspaper readers have heard periodically that Tokyo and Moscow were "on the brink of war."

Only Russia's autonomous Siberian army kept land-hungry Japan from moving into Soviet territory. But even that was not enough to prevent periodic

Politics

Long before Tennessee Valley Authority was a household term, Tennessee's Senator George L. Berry bought a large block of land in his home state.

Last week George Berry fell in his own state's disfavor. From Memphis the powerful Crump political machine swept over Tennessee, nominated one Thomas Stewart for senator in the Democratic primaries.

At 8 p. m., one night last week, eight Soviet tanks stormed over a hill near Changkufeng at the roughly-defined junction of Manchukuo, Russian Siberia and Japanese Korea.

Next day, while eastern Japan went under emergency regulations, the war started again. By nightfall the third day, Russia claimed undisputed capture of Changkufeng but it appeared the fun was just starting.

Neither nation appeared to be giving an inch, which supported the theory that one or the other must eventually get out of Asia. At Tokyo, Foreign Minister Kazushige Ugaki daily sent fresh instructions to his Moscow ambassador, demanding that Russia prevent "recurrence of lawlessness."

At Washington, the state department hoped it would end in armed truce. In Paris, the foreign office said Russia had sent assurance that no "actual warfare" would develop.

Japan's other war pushed closer to Hankow last week as China once more moved its government westward, this time to ancient Chungking, 1,500 miles from Shanghai.

Last winter Great Britain broke off diplomatic relations after Mexico seized its oil properties. On July 15, the United States state department demanded prompt payment for American land seized since 1915.

Last week as Russia and Japan moved to war, American dollars and gold moved over the Atlantic. When nervous European capital scurried for cover, gold soared from $34.77 to $34.94 an ounce, a new 16-month high.

Several months ago fabulous Byron (Whizzer) White turned down a $15,000 offer to play professional football with the Pittsburgh Pirates next autumn.

But last week after careful deliberation Whizzer White found a way to have his cake and eat it. Rehearsing for a radio program at Denver, he took time off to announce acceptance of the Pirate contract and postponement of the Rhodes scholarship until next January.

Elated, Manager Art Rooney forecast a National league championship for his Pirates. From Washington, where the Redskins had just signed Sammy Baugh to a three-year contract at the biggest salary in professional football's history, Owner George Marshall wired Rooney that it might be wise to hire the Pitt stadium for the Pirate-Redskin game October 2.

BATTLE AT McDONALD'S FARM

HOW four youthful Chicago criminals started out to give Canada a few thrills by staging a cross-country crime wage, and how these conceited young punks finished up as riddled corpses inside of two weeks, makes one of the best police stories in years.

Here their projected crime wave was held up a bit, for they took too much alkali water and were quite ill for several days. Two of them almost died, it was later learned.

Further on a bit he would pass the MacDonald homestead in which was kept the only safe and strong box in all the vast prairie territory.

Moving cautiously over to the homesteader's cottage, he peered into a window to discover four men hovering over and about the great big safe.

Well, dat's one of 'em outa der way, by crapes," said one. "Y-e-a-h... We'll rub 'em out like dis as we go along," said another.

MIXTURE OF RELIEF CASH AND POLITICS DANGEROUS

Candidates' Methods of Influencing Voters Scored by Washington Observer; Suggests Return to Election of Senators by Legislatures

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—I had finished reading my evening paper a few nights ago when I found myself quite down in the dumps. The news of the day was disturbing.

On page one, there was an account of the bitter factional fight within the Democratic ranks in Tennessee. Sen. George Berry was seeking re-election—rather, renomination—and Senator McKellar, his colleague, was fighting tooth and nail to prevent it.

Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States in the Wilson administration, once said: "I have only one apology that I know of to make for my political life. I apologize to the American people for having been in favor of the election of United States senators by the people."

There were countless charges of the use of money, federal relief money, state payroll money, other money.

There was, likewise, a fight going on next door. In Kentucky, Gov. "Happy" Chandler was seeking the Democratic nomination to the senate and Sen. "Dear Alben" Barkley wanted to be renominated and re-elected.

And then, rather in disgust with the whole thing, I turned to a new book. The volume is titled "Notable Virginia Bar Addresses."

Among the 27 speeches listed there, I decided to read that by the late Thomas R. Marshall. His address, like all of the others, was intended to preach a good government and the obligations of the lawyer as well as the layman.

"I have only one apology that I know of to make for my political life. I apologize to the American people for having been in favor of the election of United States senators by the people. My reason for it was different from the reason of many men.

LONDON OVERNIGHT!

Sound Strange After This Year's Ocean Flights

JOSEPH W. LABINE
New York a hard-boiled flight announcer led his voice in prayer. Throughout the one hundred million were focused on some spot over the briny Atlantic where Charles A. Lindbergh was piloting his "Spirit of St. Louis" to Paris and fame.

It was in 1927, only 11 days ago another transatlantic flight ended and only a handful of people bothered to think about it. Of more than 50 transatlantic flights planned this year, only two are attracting attention, those of the Huges and Douglas, and the "mistake" flier.

The ocean flight that made Lindbergh hold their breath a year ago has now become commonplace, and rightly so. It does not dim the achievement of Lindbergh; it only means that transatlantic aviation has grown up, that it has begun to capitalize on the Lindbergh program of the Atlantic.

There is more to this story of aerial navigation than meets the eye. Transoceanic flying hasn't been merely a matter of building one ship larger than the last and seeing how far it would go without refueling. Since Charles Lindbergh first dreamed about it during his New York-Paris hop, the best minds of aviation have been working to develop fool-proof ships that will run mechanically.

Until such ships could be perfected, the United States was justified in frowning on stunt Atlantic flights. That's why Doug Corrigan's request for a permit last year was denied; it's why Corrigan had to depend on a wayward compass to fly his ship to Ireland a few weeks ago.

Outside of the weight problem mentioned above, engineers have found most of their difficulty in conquering the weather. Unlike the Pacific, which is usually calm, the Atlantic is beset with atmospheric disturbances. Especially is this true on the east-west hop, where until last year there were relatively few successful flights.

Until a few weeks ago the ceiling for commercial planes was 20,000 feet. Since engineers have long known that Atlantic weather disturbances could be overcome by high altitudes, they have been seeking some means of reaching these heights under practical conditions. Although oxygen equipment has been available to facilitate great elevations, it weighs so much that pay loads would be cut too low.

But from Sweden has come word of a new airplane motor capable of sustained performance at altitudes up to 59,000 feet. If it lives up to its claims, the motor will facilitate flights through the stratosphere where weather is always calm.

U. S. Service Ready.
Whatever may have happened to her supremacy on the high seas, America need take no back seat in transoceanic service. While France, England and Germany are busy with their "survey" flights, Pan-American is preparing to inaugurate regularly scheduled service from New York to London in her mammoth Boeing "clipper" ships. Just London newspapers, one day old, were sold by this newsie in Times Square, New York City, a couple of weeks ago. The papers were carried across the Atlantic by England's pick-a-back plane, Mercury.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Sandwich Filler.—Chopped olives, chopped chives, and cream cheese make a delicious paste for sandwiches.

Orderly Bathroom.—Don't forget to fold towels or hang straight on racks after using. Nothing looks so disorderly in a bathroom as a lot of crumpled towels.

For Mud Stains.—Allow the mud to get quite dry then brush with a clean, really stiff brush. If this doesn't remove the stains, rub them with a sliced raw potato, which should do the trick.

Vinegar on Greens.—A little vinegar or lemon juice will add to the piquancy of greens. It should not be cooked into the greens, but sprinkled over them just before they are served.

Cleaning Gas Stove.—When you've finished cleaning your gas cooker wipe the hot plate and bars with a cloth dipped in olive oil. This prevents rust.

Beans in Color.—Cook peas and green beans uncovered if you want them to retain their color. Be careful not to overcook green vegetables.

The Wobbly Table.—Have you a wobbly table in your home which has one leg a bit shorter than the rest and it always has to be propped a bit to stay put? One woman solved this problem by tacking an ordinary rubber washer on the leg and her table is as secure as can be now.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Locals Win, Move Into Tie For Second Place

The Kewaskum ball team won its second straight game and moved into a three-way tie for second place in the Badger State league with an easy victory over the "jinx" Grafton club here last Sunday. Final score was 8 to 3.

Kewaskum tallied three runs in the third inning and two in the fourth to give Serwatka a 5 to 0 lead and allow him to coast to victory in the remaining innings. As in the West Bend game the preceding week, Serwatka again pitched effective ball, especially in the pinches. He allowed only seven hits and set down nine visiting batters along the old strikeout route. Robel gave up 13 hits but errors by his mates helped Kewaskum run its score up to eight. He fanned 10 men.

Features of the contest were the longest home run of the season on the local field by Bintlzer of Grafton with a man on base and Kudek's spectacular one hand stab of Spaeth's hard line drive in deep left field with a man on in the fourth. On Bintlzer's homer the ball went into the shrubbery in front of the school in deep left field. Harbeck led the Kewaskum hitters with three out of five times at bat while "Shorty" Muenier banged out two for three to lead the opponents.

Kewaskum's three tallies in the third frame came when Lucci led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by Kral. Kudek singled Lucci to third and took second on the throw-in. Harbeck's single drove in both runners and then Jagmin hit a long triple to left center, scoring Harbeck. Felda singled in the fourth and went to third as Lucci reached second on Port's error. Kral promptly singled and the locals had two more runs.

An error by Jagmin and singles by Bintlzer and Port gave Grafton its first run in the fifth. Bintlzer's homer after Eggert had singled gave the visitors their last two runs in the sixth.

Kewaskum added three runs in the seventh on five singles, by Kudek, Harbeck, Jagmin, Marx and Felda, and a long sacrifice fly by Mucha.

Even after the game was completed the thrills were not over as a near free-for-all fight was prevented by Traffic Officer Brandt when Grafton fans who were too enthusiastic stormed the umpires and local fans came to the protection of the "umps."

KEWASKUM MUST WIN ITS GAME AT KOHLER SUNDAY

The feature game of the Badger State league will be played this coming Sunday when Kewaskum travels to Kohler to battle the league leaders. This game is a very crucial one, especially for the local team. If Kewaskum loses, its chances to win the second half championship and meet West Bend in the playoff is ruined. If the team wins, it will be only one game behind the leaders and still stands a good chance to move to the top of the league in its last three games. Kewaskum must win and will do everything possible to carry out that responsibility. Serwatka will pitch for the locals against Niemann, ace of the Kohler club. It should be a real thriller so be sure to follow the team to Kohler and lend them all the support possible to send them home with a victory.

About 700 pounds of water must be supplied by the soil to produce a pound of dry alfalfa hay, estimates E. Troug of the University of Wisconsin.

CHEVROLET

"The Six Supreme"

LEADS THE FIELD IN SALES BECAUSE IT LEADS IN VALUE

CHEVROLET

In a year of greater motor car values . . . a year when people are demanding the most for their money in everything they buy . . . people are giving Chevrolet clear-cut leadership over all other low-priced cars and trucks, and, in fact, over the entire automobile industry.

Value is always the victor, and, again in 1938, value is enabling Chevrolet—The Six Supreme—to win nationwide supremacy in automobile sales!

The latest official new car registration figures, compiled by R. L. Polk & Company, show that Chevrolet is leading all other makes of cars, regardless of type, size or price, by tens of thousands of deliveries.

For this we have to thank our millions of Chevrolet friends who have been quick to recognize the outstanding quality and outstanding dollar-value of this smarter, newer, more modern low-priced car.

These men and women have checked all makes of cars and all phases of car value—including style, performance, comfort, safety—and they are declaring in favor of the new 1938 Chevrolet by a decisive majority.

May we take this opportunity to thank Chevrolet owners and prospective owners most sincerely for their friendship, and may we make the following suggestion to you:

Buy where the majority of people are buying. . . Visit your nearest Chevrolet dealer and invest in this most popular of all motor cars. . . Choose a new 1938 Chevrolet—The Six Supreme!

"You'll be AHEAD with a CHEVROLET!"

Twenty-five Years Ago

August 12, 1913
Considerable excitement prevailed on Tuesday morning, when an auto driven by Dr. N. Edw. Hausmann and a rig belonging to the firm of L. Rosenheim, general merchants, driven by Walter Schneider, an employee, collided on the crossing at the intersection of Fond du Lac avenue and Main street. The doctor with his car was going northward around the corner, while Mr. Schneider was going southward. As there were wagons on both sides of the road, the passage was very narrow, and also hid the sight of each other approaching. When the doctor noticed the danger he set his brakes and wanted to reverse his engine, but by so doing choked same. Mr. Schneider, seeing the danger, turned his horse to one side, but it became unmanageable and jumped into the front part of the auto, forcing its head through the windshield, completely demolishing same, other damages done to the machine were broken lamps and bent fenders. No one was injured.

A few months ago, a movement was started by the Woman's club and the businessmen of this village to establish a public library. As far as the aid of the village and the businessmen is concerned, this movement was a success, but as the days are going by, the less you hear of whether it will be pushed through.

There will be doings at Long lake, near Dundee, on Sunday, August 31. The three big attractions of the day will be concerts by the Maennerchor Teutonia of Mayville, the Plymouth Maennerchor of Plymouth, and Hoffmann's concert band of Campbellsport.
