Work Moving Along Rapidly on Street Lighting System

Work on Kewaskum's new ornamental street lighting system was started on Monday of this week and at present is proceeding in earnest. The lighting is being installed on Main street and Fond du Lac avenue.

Most of the work is being done by village workmen under the supervision of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric company. During the forepart of the week the workers, with the aid of the Washington county air hammer, broke up the cement sidewalk blocks at each station the granite light standards are to be set in, and also uncovered the cables for the lights.

The standards were hauled here by truck on Thursday and were deposited at the holes in which they are to be inserted. The Wisconsin Gas & Electric company crew immediately put their truck and hoist into operation and by Thursday evening most of the standards were placed in their upright positions. Sand was poured around the base of the standards to hold them in position until concrete foundations can be poured. This work is next in line. The standards extend 20 feet above the street and will hold a six foot bracket extending inwardly toward the street which will hold the lights. Twenty-six standards will be erected with an additional six to be placed atop the bridge on South Main street.

After all the standards have been firmly placed in position, and connected up and the brackets and lights added, the old poles holding the present dim suspended street lamps will be cut down to greatly improve the appearance of the two most important streets of the village. The result will make Kewaskum look like a blooming new city.

CHIRP!—CHIRP!—HEAR ABOUT MY OPERATION?

Yes, even canaries sometimes have operations. The young fellow above waits patiently while Dr. A. J. Durant, professor of veterinary science at the University of Missouri, prepares proper dosage of a special anesthetic he has prepared.

Hold still! This may hurt a little at first but think how good you'll feel after it's over. The canary, its wings and legs made fast with thread and thumbtacks, is now resigned to his fate. Hurry up—let's get it over with!

Help for Couple About to Move Into New Home

By BETTY WELLS
"WE'RE going to get married as soon as our new home is finished," writes O. W. B. "And I want to have the furnishings all planned and ready to go in when the workmen are through. I enclose a floor plan.

"The walls are plastered in white with ceilings the same color. So far I have a taupe rug for the living room and a walnut suite for the front bedroom. I have not selected the rest of the furniture, so would appreciate your suggestions. I want Venetian blinds for the front of the house. What color should they be? What material and color for curtains, and should they be tied back or hung straight? What about accessories and furniture coverings?"

With the white walls and taupe rug in your living room, we'd like a tomato red slip cover for the sofa

White spread and curtains with bands cut from a floral striped linen, you select. Then a pair of wing chairs in a dusty leaf green. At the windows have tied-back curtains of chintz or cretonne with a white ground and a splashy pattern in tomato red and green. Have the Venetian blinds painted white and get white lamps. For odd accessories, use pewter or some of the new aluminum alloys that are

After the anesthetic has taken effect feathers are removed from the canary and the incision started. Here the surgeon at the University of Missouri's "canary hospital" is hard at work.

All over and the wound sewed up! Pretty soon our canary will "come out from under." It won't be long now before he'll chirp to his feathered friends: "Let me tell you about my operation—"

BEDTIME STORY
Blacky's Going to Find Out If Boy Is Really Frightened!

By THORNTON W. BURGESS
Blacky is a dreamer;
Blacky is a schemer;
His voice is strong.
When things go wrong,
Blacky is a screamer.

IT'S a fact. Blacky the Crow is forever dreaming and scheming and almost always it is of mischief. He is one of the smartest and cleverest of all the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and all the others know it. Blacky likes excitement.

So now as he sat in the top of the Big Hickory Tree beside the Smiling Pool and looked down on all the little people gathered there he was very happy. In the first place, he felt very important, and, you know, Blacky dearly loves to feel important. They had all come at his invitation to listen to a plan for seeing for themselves if it was really true that Farmer Brown's boy was afraid of Buster Bear. Little Joe Otter had said so. Everybody believed that Little Joe believed what he said, but everybody felt that it would be a lot easier to believe it themselves if they could actually see Farmer Brown's boy run away from Buster Bear. You see, never in all their lives before had they known Farmer Brown's boy to be really afraid of anybody. To be sure, he always treated Jimmy Skunk with a great deal of respect, but he didn't run away from Jimmy. And so it was very hard to believe that he would run away from anyone. That was the reason they were willing to come to listen to the plan of Blacky the Crow.

On the Big Rock in the Smiling Pool sat Little Joe Otter, Billy Mink and Jerry Muskrat. On his big green lily-pad sat Grandfather Frog. On another lily-pad sat Spotty the Turtle. On the bank on one side of the Smiling Pool were Peter Rabbit, Jumper the Hare, Danny Meadow Mouse, Johnny Chuck, Jimmy Skunk, Unc' Billy Possum, Striped Chipmunk, and old Mr. Toad. On the other side of the Smiling Pool were Reddy Fox, Digger the Badger, and Bobby Coon. In the Big Hickory Tree were Chatterer the Red Squirrel, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, and Sammy Jay.

Blacky waited until he was sure that no one else was coming. Then he cleared his throat very loudly and began to speak. "Friends," said he. "Everybody grinned for Blacky has played so many sharp tricks that no one is really his friend, unless it is that other mischief-maker, Sammy Jay, who, you know, is Blacky's say that I will be a lot more sure that Farmer Brown's boy is afraid of Buster Bear when I see him run away myself. Now, here is my plan: Tomorrow morning very early Sammy Jay and I will make a great fuss near the edge of the Green Forest. Farmer Brown's boy has a great deal of curiosity, and he will be sure to come over to see what it is all about. Then we will lead him to where Buster Bear is. If he runs away, then I will be the first to admit that Buster Bear is as great a hero as some of you seem to think he is. It is a very simple plan, and if you will all hide where you can watch you will be able to see for yourselves if Little Joe Otter is right. Now, what do you say?" Right away everybody began to talk at the same time. It was such a simple plan that everybody agreed to it. And it promised to be so exciting that everybody promised to be there; that is, everybody but Grandfather Frog and Spotty the Turtle, who didn't care to go so far away from the Smiling Pool. So it was agreed that Blacky should try his plan the very next morning. © T. W. Burgess.—WNU Service.

Wool—In Autumn Fashion

Knitted outfits will be highly popular this fall and here's a preview of what you may expect. Her short heavy jacket is knitted of double zephyr type worsted yarn in moss stitch. The eight gored flared skirt is of four-ply wool tight-twist yarn. Why not try your hand at knitting?

No Forks Here—And No Women!

NEW YORK.—Once each summer men of Columbia University Teachers college hold their steak fry. Knives, forks and women are barred at this celebration, a 22-year-old tradition originated by Prof. George D. Strayer, who felt educators needed an occasional respite from pedagogy and the feminine atmosphere of the school.

DON'T LAUGH AT THE RAINMAKERS; IT SEEMS YOU'RE ONE OF THEM!

WASHINGTON.—Professional "rainmakers" with their mystifying and Rube Goldbergish apparatus are the butt of many a joke, but every person on earth, 15 times a minute throughout their collective lives, helps make rain. The scientific reasoning behind this seeming riddle is described by Dr. G. R. Wait of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Tiny particles, too small to be seen even with the most powerful microscopes, float in the air and form the centers around which water vapor in the air collects and condenses to form rain. These particles, whose composition is still unknown to scientists, are called condensation-nuclei. While such nuclei cannot be seen directly, states Dr. Wait, ingenious, indirect methods make them create artificial raindrops in scientific apparatus and thus form spots large enough to be seen in microscopes. In this way the tremendous number floating in the air, at all times, is now known. Studies reported by Dr. Wait indicate that the average person, each minute during his life, breathes out some 3,000,000,000 of these condensation-nuclei. This is about 50,000,000 each second or about 200,000,000 for each breath, based on a person breathing once every four seconds. "While these man-created nuclei do have a part in becoming centers for future raindrops their number is smaller than the enormous amount produced whenever anything is burned. Home furnace fires, concentrated manufacturing areas like steel mills and even the salt particles from the ocean itself all produce condensation-nuclei, points out Dr. Wait.

SHOULD BE READY FOR THE HARVEST

Have Equipment in Repair To Handle Fruit Crop.

By M. B. Hoffman, New York State College of Agriculture, WNU Service.

Harvest time is a busy time for the fruit grower. He has to estimate the crop, plan for dependable pickers, and have on hand the needed supply of baskets, boxes, pads, nails, liners, and similar equipment. Everything included in the equipment of harvesting and packing should be in good repair ahead of time. Ruts and rough places in the orchard roadways should be repaired to prevent bruising the fruit when it is hauled from the orchard. The right kind of picking ladder is a big satisfaction. For peaches, prunes, and small apple and pear trees, the stepladder is desirable. A stepladder, wide at the base, narrowing toward the top and with a single leg for support, is the easiest to place among the branches.

For mature apple trees, the rung ladder with a wide base and coming to a point at the top is the most satisfactory. The larger ladders should be made of light wood. Basswood makes an excellent ladder.

The type of containers used in handling fruit has a great influence on the amount and severity of bruising. In general, picking containers with rigid walls cause the least bruising.

Males for Next Season Should Be Chosen Early

If one desires to hatch one's own eggs next year, now is the time to select the cockerels that will be needed, says a writer in the Missouri Farmer. As the chicks grow, the topnotchers of the flock begin to show up. They forge ahead of their fellows, and plainly indicate that they possess more vigor, faster growing and feathering qualities than their brothers. These are the ones to mark for breeding purposes.

Out of a hundred males there will be a half dozen or so of these topnotchers. These should be kept throughout the summer and then next fall culled again, since several of them will fail to maintain the pace set by the leaders. A few more than will be needed for the matings next year should be kept, since one or two might die in the interim. In selecting cockerels for breeding purposes, vigor is the all-important consideration. Lacking this quality, a male is worthless because his offspring will be unsatisfactory.

Weedy Milk

From the standpoint of herd management there are two things that can be done to prevent weedy-flavored cream. One is to keep the cows off the weedy pasture for from three to five hours before milking. That may in some cases mean that the cows will have to be taken off the weedy pasture at noon and in the evening before retiring for the night, during the time that the weeds are at their worst stage, says Hoard's Dairyman. The second way to avoid weedy cream is to provide the cows enough good feed so they will not be forced to eat weeds. When cows have access to a good pasture, they will usually leave the weeds alone. If the pasture is short it should be supplemented with hay, grain, silage, or green feed. A combination of these two methods is excellent. Turn the cows on the weedy pasture after milking but transfer them to a good pasture or to a yard where they have access to other feed three or four hours before milking.

Cross-Breeding

For many years American poultrymen have, by crossing different breeds, produced chicks that show sex differences by the different color of the males and females. Rhode Island Red males, for example, crossed with Barred Rock hens produce black female chicks with black shanks. The males, also black, have yellow shanks and a white spot on the head. Another example of cross-breeding for sex determination of chicks is the crossing of rapid-feathering Single-Comb White Leghorns with slow-feathering Single-Comb White Leghorns. The male chicks have small primary wing feathers. Females hatch with larger primary wing feathers. Cross-breeding has its limitations, however. Two breeding lines must be maintained. Generally the poultryman wants but one breed.

Agricultural Extension

The United States stands ahead of most other countries in agricultural extension, or the education of farmers on the land, according to Prof. Bristow Adams, of the New York State college of agriculture. Professor Adams, who recently returned from a world tour, studied the methods employed in the more progressive countries south of the equator. Greatest progress, he said, is now being made in Australia and New Zealand.

Inedible Eggs Total Loss

Fertile eggs that have become inedible are a total loss, and ultimately that loss is borne by the producers because the lower prices paid for eggs during warm weather months. It is extremely important that fertile eggs should not be produced except for hatching purposes, and at the close of the hatching season the males should be removed from the laying flock and marketed or confined away from the flock if they are to be used another season.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Putty That Sticks.—To make putty stick to window panes use a small quantity of white lead; mix thoroughly with the putty.

Economy Note.—Pieces of ribbon that come on gift boxes may be utilized in making shoulder straps for underwear. Cut them into six or eight-inch strips.

Clean With Soda.—If there is a constant smell of burning when cooking is going on, examine gas burners. They are probably filled with sediment from "boilovers."

Save Ironing.—If sheets are hung on the line dripping wet the weight of the water pulls them down and removes most of the wrinkles. They may then be folded neatly without ironing when dry.

Polish Hardwood Floors.—Do not let hardwood floors get too worn before having them polished. A little polish on the worn places each week keeps floors always looking well.

Humor From the Soil.—There is a kind of sturdy humor in the country that the city folk do not know. A humor that is straight out of the soil. It may be wit in the city, but deals with words; humor with the soil. —David Grayson.

ARE YOU A HYPOCRITE?

The average motorist is an unconscious hypocrite. That's a strong characterization—but a little impersonal analysis will substantiate it.

How often have you fondly criticized some driver for an offense which you commit periodically yourself? How often have you taken comfort in the thought that accidents are caused by some reckless breed of motorists with whom you have nothing in common, thus dodging the fact that only pure fool's luck has saved you from a crash on a dozen occasions. Have you ever attempted to get a ticket "fixed"—even though you pay lip service to the cause of aggressive, impartial law enforcement?

It is a fact that a large proportion of accidents are caused by the reckless ten per cent, but the other ninety per cent periodically take chances and are responsible for many of our annual auto deaths.

Who, for example, doesn't sometimes pass a car when the stretch of empty road that can be seen is too short for safety? Who doesn't occasionally succumb to the lure of excessive speed—even though he has little or nothing to go when his destination is reached. Who doesn't periodically neglect necessary repairs to brakes, lights or steering mechanisms, on the theory that he will get around to it when more convenient?

We'll go a good way toward reducing accidents when the average driver begins asking himself such questions and returning honest answers. Accident prevention, so far as it concerns the human element, is a personal, individual matter—and each individual has to really want to drive safely at all times before he can analyze his driving errors and correct them.

DRIVERS! Never give anyone the opportunity to point you out as the man who spoiled our safety record.

Farm Problem Still Unsolved
After Five Years, Three Bills

By Joseph W. LaBine

Agriculture

Since 1933, Franklin Roosevelt's administration has enacted three major farm relief laws...

No business can live by spending alone. To match its $3,000,000,000 outlay, Farm Relief's five-year income has been only $969,258,000...

By last week it looked like this latest panacea was failing. To Henry Wallace in Washington came reports of good weather and bountiful crops...

That Henry Wallace deserved sympathy, was plain. Whether he would get it, was something else.

Foreign nations that once bought U. S. wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco have started buying from other surplus-producing countries.

Some are even growing their own crops, approaching self-sufficiency.

dropped back to 1932 levels. His figures: 1938 income would be $7,500,000,000, against 1932's $4,328,000,000.

Already seeking new ways of bolstering U. S. agriculture to a pre-war status, Secretary Wallace left for Montreal, there to discuss with Canadians a way of splitting the world export market between North America's two nations.

But next winter, when Farm Relief is again thrown at congress, there must be discussion of the only panacea yet remaining: export subsidies, federal price fixing and compulsory limitation.

Domestic Since 1927, Mexico has seized $10,000,000,000 in American-owned farm lands. Last spring Mexico did even better, confiscating $200,000,000 worth of American-owned oil lands.

Cordell Hull mullied this unprecedented answer through his mind for two weeks, then decided to try again with another tack.

It is proposed to replace the rule of just compensation by the rule of confiscation.

Politics Not since early July had Franklin Roosevelt seen James A. Farley. Since then the former had made a cross-country tour, fished the Pacific and wished for the defeat of anti-New Deal legislators in Georgia, South Carolina, Maryland, New York.

Last week Teacher Farley came to Hyde Park to see his most successful political student once more.

Behind closed doors the President and postmaster general talked all afternoon, all evening, part of the next morning. Though no early official announcement was forthcoming, newsmen got their heads together, decided Jim Farley had urged the President to push his "purge" of Maryland's Sen. Millard E. Tydings.

Blood sediment test helps doctor analyze progress of infection.

New Taxes Sure to Come, Senator Harrison Warns

Another Federal Deficit of Four Billion Dollars Faces Country; New Sources of Revenue Sought; More Persons to Be Hit.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — It requires a considerable amount of courage for an active politician to talk about more taxes in an election year, and it is a hopeful sign when one tells the truth about such a politically delicate matter.

So, maybe the veteran Senator Harrison has a two-fold purpose in mind, and it takes courage for him to have either one of the two ideas because he is in politics.

But there is another federal treasury deficit of something like $4,000,000,000 staring us in the face, and the size of it indicates that no progress has been made whatsoever in curtailing federal spending.

Bindle Pete Seeks Hobo King's Head

New York. — Many years ago this writer, quite unimpairedly, aided in making Dr. Bindle Pete, who has been a hobo king, and from time to time, stands before the press, a hobo king's head.

From Washington's Maddening Crowd, Your Congressman Takes His 'Vacation'

Well, a Job Like That! But Get Him in a Corner and Your Ambassador to Washington Will Admit the Earliest Job Is a $10,000 Pain in the Neck!

By JOSEPH W. LABINE

Mr. Doakes was on vacation. A few weeks ago congressmen for the summer and Mr. Doakes left promptly for his well earned rest. So, having nothing to think of, he huffed past winter with its wages-and-hours act, a reorganization bill, its farm bill and tax bills, we expect to find the Senator in a congenially expansive mood.

He was sitting under a tree sipping mint julep, though the weather was hot. Instead we found him sweltering in his home office, wishing it were winter again. He could get back to work and quiet of official life.

Months to pacify the malcontents and win new friends. Of course a congressman or senator could go into hiding every summer, but he wouldn't last more than one term. As it is, more than one lawmaker is complaining right now because he must serve on a special committee or house committee which operates during "fence patching" season.

The smart politician will head for home every opportunity he gets, making himself convenient to constituents; not forcing his way, you understand, but just being around to see the scores of unhappy people with pressing problems. It's this kind of "politicking" that kids you when it's not expected, that wins elections.

On the average summer day, your congressman-at-home will be kept busy with appointments from early morning until late at night. He will buy luncheons, drinks and dinners, attend picnics, weddings, funerals and a meeting of the Elks club. Below

ONE WAY TO SPEND THE SUMMER—Members of the congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority, pause at Chickamauga, Tenn., on a particularly hot afternoon, to inspect one of TVA's dams.

But the current summer isn't average, just as the last congressional session wasn't average. Since before Christmas the spectre of election probably has hung over the head of your legislator. His constituents back home early began sending word of the rising opposition forces that had to be combated somehow.

It will be no wonder if your congressman goes back to Washington next winter thankful that his "vacation" is over, because his campaign can be devastatingly tiresome. On parade before the voters will be his personal appearance, his family connections or lack of them, his ability to tell jokes and play the fiddle.

The wizened old heads at Washington, who have held their jobs so long that re-election is automatic, shake their heads at this frantic rummaging around after votes. Says one: "If those fellows were intelligent, they would do their campaigning in the off year. The voters haven't nearly the depths of dumbness they are credited with. They know they are getting a last-minute pat on the back. Now, I figure I won this year's election last year. A good many of my colleagues went fishing during the summer. I spent two months calling on the voters. They appreciate it, and I expect a good majority in November."

Which is all easy enough to say if you're a George Norris or William Borah, but it doesn't always hold true. Many a congressman has spent every summer at home and given unstintingly of his time to keep the folks happy, yet his troubles just keep growing. Maybe he'll squeeze through the election next November, but if he does there'll be a new crop of patronage seekers on his trail. There'll also be someone hanging around to make sure he keeps those last few promises he made against his better judgment. Pretty nice, a job like that!

LEFT—Your congressman on vacation constantly finds himself the center of attention, forced to defend his opinions; it's a hair-graying job. BELOW—The familiar "sea of upturned faces" now greeting many a legislator working for re-election.

Save Time With Mock Smocking

By Ruth Wyeth Spears
IF SMOCKING seems to be time consuming, here is a short cut that saves hours. The first step is to shir the material by machine. Loosen the tension slightly and stitch in straight rows; then pull up the bobbin thread to gather the material.
You will note in the sketch that some of the simple hand stitches are made over two rows of gathers and the others over a single row. Much of the beauty of mock smocking depends upon the spacing of the rows. The double rows of gathers in the sketch, No. 2 and 4, are 1/4-inch apart. The space between these and the single rows should be about 3/4-inch.

Another important point is the choice of colors and an interesting variety of stitches. In the arrangement shown here, rows 1, 3 and 5 are made in the darkest color by back-stitching over the gathers as in row 5 and then working loop-stitches through the back-stitches as in row 1. Row 2 is a version of plain feather stitching, and row 4 is done in the Cretan stitch. Variations of all of these stitches and dozens of others that will be new to you and your friends are fully illustrated in Book 2 offered herewith. Are you ready for birthdays; and the next church bazaars? Do you turn time into money with things to sell? Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2 has helped thousands of women. It is full of new ideas for things you can make in your spare time. If your home is your hobby you will also want Book 1--Sewing for the Home Decorator. Order by number enclosing 25 cents for each book. If you order both books, a leaflet on crazypatch quilts with 38 authentic stitches will be included free. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Postmortem Fun

In the valley of the Loire at Brissac, France, peasants may be seen tilling the fields dressed as Spanish matadors or decked out in grass skirts, because a Connecticut millionaire became so disgusted with the French that he said there was no degradation they would not endure for money. He left 180,000 francs to the 18 employees of his estate on the condition that they wear the outlandish costumes he had spent a lifetime in collecting. --Forum Magazine.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.
Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Constancy Needed

Without constancy, there is neither love, friendship nor virtue in the world.--Addison.
