Gigantic Military Bluff Game
Focuses Attention on Europe
By Joseph W. LaBine

Foreign

Seldom had the world seen such furious shadow boxing. In France, 100 motor buses burned up the roads, carrying troops to the frontier in a maneuver that made Frenchmen recall Gen. Joseph Simon Gallieni's taxicab roundup of 1914.

Back to London rushed German Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson. Back, too, rushed vacationing cabinet members. In the morning, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain walked his wife around St. James' park as if nothing had happened.

But by afternoon his cabinet was immersed in gloom. Echoing puzzled Britain's thoughts, the isolationist Daily Mail cried: "The British public are disgusted. Rumors of all sorts go round, but from official sources people hear nothing. It is time that the British public were frankly told what is happening."

Much would Mr. Chamberlain have paid to know what was happening. Cause of this international fussing was Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, who even then was doing some fussing of his own. Two days before, England's Sir John Simon had warned Germany to keep its hands off little Czechoslovakia, on pain of war with Great Britain.

But Adolf Hitler answered this bluff with a new bluff, preparing to keep his 1,000,000 reserves under arms until mid-October. Flying from one frontier to the next, Dictator Hitler proudly surveyed the war machine that all Europe fears he will soon point at Czechoslovakia.

For more than a month, Britain's Viscount Runciman has struggled to arbitrate differences between Czechoslovakia and her 3,500,000 rebellious subjects, pro-Nazi Germans living in the Sudeten region which fronts Greater Germany. While Adolf Hitler's official newspapers whip up Nazi resentment against Czechoslovakia, Sudeteners themselves have been doing their best to stir up trouble.

Their leader, Konrad Henlein, has obeyed Herr Hitler by refusing all mediation efforts by Viscount Runciman or Czechoslovakia's government. Since Germany would quite likely gobble up the Sudeten if given an opportunity, Great Britain has strongly protested Konrad Henlein's demand for autonomy.

Last week, after sitting calmly through these protests, Sudeten pointed an admiring finger at England's autonomy arrangement with Ireland (Eire). While Viscount Runciman blushed, they asked why a similar arrangement could not be made between Czechoslovakia and themselves.

After a week's bluffing, the end was not yet in sight. For his part, Fuehrer Hitler bluffed that he wanted (1) complete autonomy for Sudeten; (2) repudiation of Czech alliances with France, Russia, Poland; (3) Czech non-aggression pact with Germany; (4) Czech customs union with Germany.

Though Europe was jittering badly, the disinterested observer could count noses and find Adolf Hitler forlornly friendless. Lined against him were France, Britain, Russia, Czechoslovakia. Silent, but presumably favoring the Czechs, were Rumania, Yugo-Slavia. Even his best friend, Benito Mussolini, warned he would not intervene in the Sudeten squabble.

Politics
Last month, South Carolinians were treated to the unique political show that no other state can boast. Since law demands it, three Democrats running for U. S. senatorial nomination traveled together, stayed at the same hotels, denounced each other daily from the same platforms. These men were: Ellison D. ("Cotton Ed") Smith, who has stayed a South Carolina senator 30 years by championing luke warm New Dealism, "Cotton Ed" Smith's defeat was asked last month by Franklin Roosevelt. Gov. Olin D. Johnson, strapping, 41-year-old World War veteran, who had Franklin Roosevelt's blessing. His chief campaign argument was that "Cotton Ed" once remarked a man could live in South Carolina on 50 cents a day.

Other materials found in these ruins include seashells from the Gulf of California, remains of squash shells and squash seeds, corns, a walnut shell, cane cigarettes, lima beans, pumpkin seeds, a boll of native cotton, and sandals woven from leaves of the yucca plant.

The shells probably were traded from tribe to tribe for several hundred miles, as shells from the Gulf of California is quite common in prehistoric ruins of southwestern United States.

workers; (3) that he once said "To hell with the President of the United States"; (4) that he claims more power behind him than the U. S. government; (5) that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins had more than enough evidence to deport him.

Harry Bridges' deportation was blocked last April pending a court ruling which does not forbid aliens to belong to "the Communist party or any other party except one which teaches overthrow . . . of the government of the United States."

But, armed with his evidence, Chairman Dies demanded that Secretary Perkins resume deportation action against Harry Bridges. Next day came the answer: "It is not usual for the legislative branch . . . to attempt to usurp the functions and duties of the administrative branch. I cannot accept your analysis and evaluation of the evidence . . . as it appears to have been made without sufficient knowledge of the law . . ."

"Perhaps it is fortunate that Shirley Temple was born an American citizen and that we will not have to debate the issue raised by the preposterous revelations of your committee in regard to this innocent and likeable child."

Plainly Madame Secretary Perkins did not intend to deport Harry Bridges, and Representative Dies could do nothing about it.

Crime
At Philadelphia's county prison, 600 convicts went on a hunger strike. Three mornings later, 25 ringleaders were led to the one-story "Klondike" building with its row of tiny cells, each 3 feet long by 4 feet wide. Into each cell, whose doors are solid except for a slot, whose walls are lined with disproportionately large radiators, guards tossed four or five prisoners. Then they turned on the heat.

By noon the convicts were suffering. By nightfall they fought for the privilege of sucking air through the door slot. By midnight they prayed on their knees for guards to turn off the steam or show them. By next morning they cried insanely and clawed at their own parboiled flesh. By evening most of them lay senseless, but the heat was not turned off until next morning, when guards inspected their victims, four were dead.

Into this modern black hole of Calcutta walked Coroner Charles M. Hersch to arrest four guards, charging them with homicide. Prison Superintendent William B. Mills said the men had died from injuries received fighting among themselves, but Coroner Hersch thought otherwise. As his investigation began involving not only prison authorities, but all Philadelphia officialdom as well, he threatened: "Before I am finished, everyone responsible for this revolting situation will be punished."

Navy
Pet ambition of every navy is a fleet second to none. Never in U. S. naval history has a chief of operations voiced absolute contentment with his equipment. Last year, as 1938's war scare was just beginning to sprout (see FOREIGN), congress approved a huge naval building program to squelch its navy's growing inferiority complex.

Last week, in the seventy-fifth anniversary issue of the Army and Navy Journal, Admiral William D. Leahy made a remarkable statement: "The new building program will give the United States for the first time a homogeneous fleet, well-balanced and equipped with modern weapons and machinery."

It's Urbanarean Now
Ceylon no longer has villagers. They are urbanareans. The new word was coined by the chairman of an urban district council, according to a report received in Colombo. When an electrical engineer submitted a report on the extension of electric lines, he referred to the "villages" in adjoining districts. Up jumped the chairman. "We are not villagers," he declared. "We are urbanareans." This means "inhabitants of an urban area."

Labor

Since coming to the U. S. from Australia, Allen Harry Bridges has become John Lewis' chief C. I. O. aide among Pacific coast maritime workers. Last month the un-American committee of Rep. Martin Dies (Dem., Texas) produced interesting charges about Harry Bridges. The charges:

(1) That he is a member of the Communist party, having been seen paying a $2 assessment and membership dues; (2) that he is more interested in advancing Communism than the interests of his maritime

California's McAdoo
He'll get $30 every Thursday.
William Gibbs McAdoo, incumbent, ran for Democratic senatorial nomination against 74-year-old William Gibbs McAdoo, incumbent.

Last July, Franklin Roosevelt asked California to reject him and censured Candidate Downey's campaign as "utopian."

Same day as South Carolina defeated Franklin Roosevelt's candidate (see above), Californians also exercised their franchise. All day they voted, and at Los Angeles the excitement rose to fever pitch. A short, sharp earthquake was felt. By midnight, the President heard about his second defeat of the day. Candidate Downey was nominated.

Next day, California's Supreme court met to decide the legality of "$30 every Thursday."

Aviation
Once a captain in the Russian czar's guards, Alexander P. de Seversky came to the U. S. when he found himself an exile, established a name for himself designing speed planes. His latest ship: a low-wing, single-motored military pursuit plane which Aviatrix Jacqueline Cochran hoped to fly in this year's Bendix races.

To test his new ship, Seversky flew from New York to Los Angeles in 10 hours, 3 minutes, 7 seconds, bettering by almost 1 1/2 hours the mark set in 1933 by Roscoe Turner.

Carrying a remarkable load of fuel in its wing-to-wing tanks, the ship can cruise 3,000 miles, would be a logical convoy for new U. S. "flying fortresses" that cruise 5,000 miles.

Miscellany
Fifteen years ago, in 1923, an earthquake killed 150,000 Japanese in Yokahama. Night before this year's anniversary, sentimental Yokahamans retired, planned to spend the next day in mourning. At midnight there was a high wind. At 2:45 a typhoon struck, collapsing houses, grounding steamers, flooding streets. Pushing on to Tokyo, the typhoon killed hundreds. Thus was an earthquake's anniversary observed.

Prehistoric Stone Ruins
Yield Cotton Fragments
Excavation of a room in the prehistoric stone ruins in Wupatki National monument in Arizona has yielded, in addition to imperishable artifacts of pottery and stone, a few fragments of woven cotton cloth, including one with two stripes dyed dark brown. From tree-ring dating, it is definitely known that the room was occupied in 1163, says the department of interior.

President's Supporters Catch Brunt of Opposition Criticism

Roosevelt Personally Under Direct Fire of Enemies Only Twice; Interference in State Primaries Now Subject of Bitter Controversy; Prestige Will Be Hurt.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It has been a matter of frequent reference among observers how President Roosevelt's supporters or subordinates, or spokesmen for him, have caught the brunt of opposition criticism.

Mr. Roosevelt personally has been under the direct fire of his enemies on only two occasions. He played his political cards so that, when some plan blew up, it was some subordinate or supporter whose neck was found out too far.

The President, of course, found himself as the target when he proposed packing the Supreme court with six additional justices of his own choosing and when he sought reorganization of the government, but, generally speaking, the Roosevelt prestige has avoided damage, until now.

Which brings us to the bitter controversy over presidential interference in state primaries, and the second stage—Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that it was a violation of public morality for Republicans to enter a Democratic primary. This controversy is the most heated and has the broadest implications of any of the three in which the storm centered about Mr. Roosevelt's own head. It is likely to be the most far-reaching in its result.

The Roosevelt prestige is bound to be damaged whether he wins or loses when the score finally is totaled, and, as far as can be seen now, he will not be able to avoid it.

I remember having written, when the President made his cross-country trip in the dual capacity of President and head of the Democratic party, that it appeared difficult to dissociate the two capacities. I predicted at that time, two months ago, that there were germs of trouble in such an attempt. It was not long before the germs were growing.

Mr. Roosevelt's pat on the back for Senator Buckley of Ohio, and his bold command to the Democratic voters of Kentucky to send Sen. "Dear Alben" Barkley back to the senate brought a shower of ripe verbal eggs onto the head of either the President or the head of the Democratic party. I did not know which personality was naming the favorite Democratic candidate in the primaries then, nor do I yet know.

From all of the information from those states since, I gather that the voters in the primaries did not know whether they were voting to support the President of the United States or the head of the Democratic party.

Pat on Back for McAdoo, Face Slap for O'Connor
Then, on to the Middle West and the Far West, the pat on the back for Senator McAdoo, who has opposition for the Democratic senatorial nomination in California; and, next, in Georgia where Mr. Roosevelt uttered the now famous "Gone with the Wind" remark to the liberal Senator George, to be followed by a direct endorsement of Lawrence Camp for the senatorial nomination against Mr. George.

Later, Mr. Roosevelt gave a vicious political slap in the face to Rep. John O'Connor, in New York, and attacked Senator Tydings in Maryland by saying that Representative Davey Lewis ought to have the Democratic nomination.

In addition to these direct interferences in the primaries, Mr. Roosevelt's subordinates—men like Relief Administrator Hopkins and Secretary Ickes—horned into primaries in Iowa, Oregon, Idaho and elsewhere. They were well liked in Iowa and Idaho, and it was the result in the latter state that has brought up the second stage of the controversy.

Idaho's Senator Pope used to say that if any constituent wanted to know his position on a given question, it was necessary only to inquire whether the President was for or against it. Apparently, the voters in Idaho did not like that; they preferred a senator to vote their views rather than one who consistently voted the President's view.

Anyway, they nominated Representative Clark, in their Democratic primary. He had something in excess of 3,500 more votes than Mr. Pope.

The licking administered to Senator Pope did not taste well to the President or the coterie of New Deal advisors. Senator Pope obviously did not like it either, and he did the childish thing of emitting a loud and noxious squawk that the nomination was taken from him by Republicans. He said they went into the Democratic primary and gave Representative Clark their votes in sufficient number to override the will of a majority of the Democrats in the state.

Senator Pope went to Hyde Park, N. Y., to weep out his story on the shoulders of Mr. Roosevelt, but it has not been made clear whether it was the shoulders of the President of the United States or of

Internal Revenue Shows Drop in July Collections
WASHINGTON.—A drop of $25,647,809 in collections of internal revenue for last month from the total for July, 1937, was reported by the bureau of internal revenue.

Wisconsin News

Small Apple Crop—Wisconsin's 1937 production of apples is estimated to be 31 per cent less than last year and about 13 per cent below the ten year average.

Skat League to Meet—The Wisconsin Skat league will hold its seventy-third tournament at Menomonee Falls on Sept. 18. About 1,200 skat players from Wisconsin and other states are expected to attend.

End Work Holiday—About 1,800 workers at the Gillette Rubber company plant in Eau Claire ended a two-day "work holiday" after voting to accept a new labor contract offered by the firm. The walkout was in protest of the hiring of one non-union man.

Plane Crash Kills Two—Leo Haag of Mount Horeb and Frank McCormick of Madison were killed when their airplane crashed on the shore of Lake Waubesa, three miles north of Madison. They had gone up for a flying lesson, Haag being the student and McCormick his instructor.

New State Fair Record—The nine-day 1938 Wisconsin state fair set a new attendance record when 624,401 persons passed through the gates. This was 21,815 more than the 1937 mark. The fair showed a profit for the fourth straight year, although premium money was increased considerably.

Six Go to G. A. R. Meet—Wisconsin's delegation to the seventy-second encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Des Moines, Iowa, was composed of only six Civil War veterans. They are John Hart of La Crosse, commander of the Wisconsin department, A. R. Kibbe of New Richmond, and Henry Held, Eric Westernhagen, W. P. Bryant and W. H. Chesbro, all of Milwaukee.

Raid Dope Weed Plant—A joint federal and state campaign to eradicate the narcotic weed, marijuana, in Wisconsin, resulted in the arrest of four Mexicans and seizure of a large quantity of the dope weed in a shack seven miles south of Janesville, which had evidently been used as a drying and curing plant.

Brown County Ousters Asked—Petitions have been filed with Gov. La Follette asking for the removal of two Brown county officials, District Attorney C. J. Dorschel and Sheriff Clifford Kellner, upon charges that they have knowingly permitted the operation of slot machine gambling and houses of prostitution in the town of Preble, adjoining Green Bay. A John Doe investigation of the charges has been ordered by Municipal Judge N. J. Monahan.

Nash Fights Picketing—Seeking to prevent picketing at its Racine automobile plant, where 800 workers were laid off recently, the Nash-Kelvinator corporation obtained a court order looking toward an injunction. Immediately after the lay-off, the CIO union posted "observers" at the plant for the expressed purpose of preventing removal of any machinery, dies or tools to the Nash plant in Kenosha.

Pea Cannery Form Co-Op—Without asking or waiting for government aid, representatives of Wisconsin and midwest pea cannery men in Milwaukee and took steps to stabilize their industry through organization of the Canned Pea Marketing Co-operative. Operating on a national scale, the co-operative will strive to educate the consuming public to the nutritional value of canned peas, also to establish higher grading standards and obtain more orderly marketing methods.

Officers elected were Norman O. Sorenson of Gillett, president, and Wendell McElDowney of West Salem, secretary and treasurer.

Fear for PWA Plans—Wrought up over reports that all PWA applications for Wisconsin were being held up while federal authorities considered a $26,000,000 allotment for Gov. La Follette's "little TVA," the Milwaukee common council adopted a resolution making protest to Washington against any possibility that local communities of the state would receive no more PWA funds.

Reports from Washington indicated that if Gov. La Follette were given his requested grant for development for flood control and power production on the Wisconsin, Eau Pleine and Fox rivers, that would leave very little, if anything, for other Wisconsin projects.

Resort Managers Fined—A. W. Stewart, operator of the Tuscumbea Country club, and E. Bartel, holder of the tavern license at the swanky Lawsonia hotel, were fined $100 each at Green Lake after they pleaded guilty to possession of slot machines.

Lion's Scratch Fatal—Thomas W. Cahill of Memphis, Tenn., died of infection from wounds received when he was scratched by a lion belonging to the Seils-Sterling circus, which has been quartered on a farm near Sheboygan since the circus closed two months ago.

Suspect Firebug—Fire, apparently of incendiary origin, destroyed the George Klements lumber mill yard at Polar, nine miles east of Antigo. The sawmill did not burn. Loss is estimated at $40,000 to $50,000.

Extortion Charged—Francis Davidson, 23, of New London, will face a federal grand jury charged with having written a threatening letter demanding $200 to Walter Lewis, president of a New London labor union. Davidson was arrested when he extracted a decoy letter from a book at the public library.

Prevent Injuries on the Highways

Talk Safety With Your Children

(Number 1 of a Series on Highway Safety)

☐ Schoolboy patrols comprise one of the greatest life saving organizations in the country. Scores of cities have found that their records of fatalities and injuries to children of school age have greatly improved since they installed schoolboy patrols.

☐ It is not unusual to find children who have studied safety lessons urging their parents to follow safety rules. "Daddy, you crossed against the light," is a frequent expression coming from safety-minded youngsters as their parents ignore traffic signals.

☐ Today is the day of safety. The child of today is the driver and pedestrian of tomorrow. Carry a plea of safety to the child and youth in our schools. In view of the great good that is being done through the schoolboy patrol, each parent should impress upon the youngsters the need for obeying traffic signals and protecting themselves generally.

☐ On rainy days there's double danger. Jay-walking is one of the most frequent causes of accidents. Teach your children to cross only at corners and that a skidding car is entirely out of control of the driver. Impress the importance of each child watching carefully the instructions of the schoolboy patrols as a further help in avoiding accidents.

☐ One child dies every day—Every day a grave is being dug in Wisconsin for a child victim—Someone dear to you may be next.

One Nation Indivisible

Picture Parade

WHEREAS young America consumed more than it produced, the America of 1938 approaches self-sufficiency as the farm buys from the city, the city from the farm.

Here is an illustration of this "indivisibility." Farmers above deliver cattle and crops to great cities for distribution throughout the nation.

Wages of industrial workers must be paid from the sale of their products. And the farm is a major market for products manufactured in the factories of our major cities.

To enable them to buy factory goods, farmers are cooperating with experts in finding new uses for crops, and putting chain stores to work buying surpluses and selling farm products to city workers.

Can Live on Scant Pasture Zebu, called "Brahman cattle" in the United States, have the ability to live on scant pasture, can resist hot weather, diseases and pests.

Green Scum Contains Beauty The algae or green scum seen on still water, despite its unattractiveness to the naked eye, under the microscope is revealed as having forms exact in geometrical design and of breath-taking beauty.

Woman's Work in Virgin Islands Occupations of women in the Virgin Islands are varied and include teaching, nursing, and domestic service as well as coaling of ships by hand, and sugar cane cultivation.

Sugar Cane Workers Use Machetes Sugar cane workers use the machete for cutting cane, and others consider them a general utility. The average machete has a blade 22 inches long and 1 1/2 inches wide.

FARM TOPICS

MILK IS FAVORED AS POULTRY FEED

Stimulates Birds' Appetites During Hot Weather.

By Dr. W. C. Thompson, Poultry Husbandman, Rutgers University, WNU Service.

Because hot weather tends to lower feed consumption of poultry flocks, anything which stimulates the appetites of birds is of value in summer.

Milk can be fed in the liquid form as either buttermilk or skim milk for drinking purposes when available in sufficient amounts. One hundred birds will consume between 35 and 40 pounds of liquid milk daily if they do not have water available, and a large quantity is needed when milk is used in this form.

The semi-solid or paste form of milk is very satisfactory for summer feeding, as it is palatable and the birds will consume it in rather large quantities, even under adverse weather conditions.

Milk in paste form is probably one of the best summer feeds for poultry. It is even somewhat superior to dried milk, unless the latter is used in a moist mash.

The use of an increased quantity of milk in the proper form should be continued until late September, or until such time as more satisfactory weather conditions prevail.

Flies Not All to Blame

For Drop in Milk Flow

Don't blame the flies for the drop in summer milk production, says H. R. Searles, extension dairyman, University Farm, St. Paul.

Summer is the low-cost period for the dairyman, and if cows go down in production when pastures begin to get short, he is losing an opportunity for profit.

The ripe mature grasses have about the feeding value of wild hay, and the dairyman can supplement these through a variety of ways.

Then, points out Searles, there is always regular barn feeding, which is practiced by the good dairyman every summer. Alfalfa or clover hay, if available, is cheaper than grain.

Where hay is not available, about a half winter ration of grain will give excellent results. If there is a fair supply of grass, the ration can be any one of the farm grains available—corn, oats or barley.

Agricultural Notes

There are 19 million acres of land under irrigation in the West.

New York and Wisconsin are the principal cheese-making states.

Bamboo will grow in the United States where cotton is harvested.

Moisture in the place where eggs are stored helps to maintain their quality.

Live stock and fires are the two most important factors in preventing the improvement of farm woodlots.

About 18 distinct varieties of cheese are on the market today.

Wheat raised in Argentina in the 1937-38 season weighed nearly 6,000,000 tons.

Supplemental irrigation is practiced on nearly 1,000,000 acres of land east of the 100th meridian.

The Iowa corn crop has had an on-the-farm value of more than $200,000,000 in each of eighteen years since 1912.

The agricultural commissioner of Mississippi regards soy beans as potentially the most valuable new crop for American farms.

Most depleted pasture soils will not grow legumes successfully because they are acid and often low in phosphorus.

Although popular for its color for many years, the tomato did not win recognition as an important food until after the discovery of its vitamin value some 15 years ago.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

'The Nurse and the Thug' By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: Here's a holdup story with a different twist—almost a tragic one, for, we learn from Augusta C. Gores of Glendale, L. I., "The gunman confessed to Judge Savarese that he was about to assault me."

Augusta, who is a nurse, was attending an invalid patient in Glendale, and on the night of April 4, 1936, at 11:20 p. m., she alighted from the Metropolitan avenue trolley a block and a half from the house at which she was employed.

The road at that point happens to be very lonely, inasmuch as Saint John's cemetery is but a block away. Augusta felt rather creepy for that reason as she was walking that distance from the trolley.

Suddenly, ahead of her, she saw a lengthened shadow, traveling in the same direction. SOMEONE WAS COMING ALONG BEHIND HER.

She looked back to make certain, and, sure enough, a man was hurrying along toward her. Augusta felt the man might be following her, so she figured she would cross to the opposite side of the road in order to see whether the man would actually follow her.

He did. Augusta looked back once more as she was crossing, and as she did, the man crossed also. He, too, was looking back to see whether the road behind him was clear. "I was not mistaken," Augusta says.

No Chance to Escape by Running. Fear came over her. Fighting for control, she realized in mounting panic, that she must suppress her blind desire to outrun the man.

Behind her the footsteps grew louder. At last, unable any longer to restrain herself, Augusta turned. Not a foot away from her was the man. She attempted to turn back to the avenue, as there were several cars going through, but the fellow prevented her from doing so by telling her to go on ahead of him and obey his orders as he had her covered with a gun and would use it on her if she screamed or made any attempt to call for help.

At the same time, Augusta says, the man pressed his body up against hers so that she might feel that he had a gun.

The man wore a leather jacket, and had his hand in the breast pocket, concealing the weapon. This was enough for Augusta. All thoughts of flight vanished. She knew she must somehow talk her way out of this situation. But she knew in the next instant that she didn't have a choice.

Augusta invented a husband. As the man began getting rough, Augusta told him desperately that she expected her husband along any minute, and that her husband was a police officer.

Augusta adds in parentheses: "I happen to be a widow." She thought by manufacturing this story the man might go away and let her alone, but, on the contrary, he seemed inflamed by this threat.

And despite her rising panic, she knew that her one hope lay in just one thing—SHE MUST NOT LET THIS FELLOW KNOW HOW FRIGHTENED SHE WAS OF HIM.

To scream was useless; there was no one who would have heard her cries. Augusta's one hope lay in holding off her annoyance until someone should happen along.

The man was powerful, and Augusta was powerless against his drunken strength. In vain she wrestled to free herself from his grip. He was just about to overpower her when, turning down the road, Augusta saw the headlights of a car.

Her Savior Was a Policeman. The thug had his back turned. Augusta, recalling her feeble threat of a few moments back, cried out: "Here he comes now!"

The instant's attraction was enough. While the thug wheeled to face, as he thought, the approaching police officer (Augusta's fictitious husband) she pulled away from him and threw herself into the range of the headlights!

The car was traveling at a pretty good clip, and the driver told Augusta afterward that he did not see her until he was almost on top of her, and actually came very close to running her down.

Augusta leaped on the car's running board, begged the driver, a man to help her, explaining that she was the victim of a holdup.

By this time the thug was making his getaway. He was making good headway, WHEN SUDDENLY AUGUSTA HEARD A SHOT!

And here's the strange coincidence. The very man Augusta had stopped in the car proved to be a police officer in plain clothes, who was coming home from a prizefight. He was a total stranger to Augusta, but he must have been just as effective as if he had been the imaginary husband she had tried to scare the thug with.

SEEDS...

California's eucalyptus trees grew from a handful of Australian seeds. Seeds of kindness will similarly enrich our personal lives.

By WINIFRED WILLARD

SIMPLE thing for him to send from Australia by slow-sailing ship to his wife at home in California. Just a handful of seeds! Small thing to bother with. Big thing to reckon with in the long run.

By the standard of the dollar, eucalyptus leaves, sap, bark and fiber turn themselves into good American money in the course of every year, for medicines, tonics, preparations that many thousands of us use without knowing how we got them.

Any inventory of California's claims to pre-eminence—roses the year round, sun-kissed oranges, sun-made raisins—must reckon with the wealth of the eucalyptus and with the two people, unpretentious and unassuming, who laid that wealth in California's lap—William Taylor, pioneer, preacher, practical man of affairs and his little home-making wife.

Two travelers on happy holiday in Florida stopping to call on a friend. It was a carefree, glad day under the palm trees beside the lovely lake in Winter Park.

The auditor of an important educational group was a regular traveler. Traveling grows monotonous but offers a chance generally to catch up on rest and to read a bit. This particular trip was long.

Seeds must have time to grow. And there is never any way to know ahead which seeds will pay to plant, which will grow and make our gardens of life its loveliest.

Adventure in Companionship. Queer things—seeds! Sometimes we don't recognize them. Take that luncheon at Washington's Mayflower hotel one spring Saturday. There were 300 guests.

Colombia Recognized in 1822. The Republic of Colombia, at that time made up of Venezuela, Colombia, Panama and Ecuador, was the first Latin-American government to have its independence recognized by the United States (1822), reports the Pan-American Union Bulletin.

Origin of Word Gopher. The name gopher comes from the French word, gaufre, meaning honeycomb, and was given to the animal because it honeycombs the ground by burrowing in it.

LOOKING INTO FUTURE

A farmer, in reply to a request for payment of installments due on his land, says London Tit-Bits Magazine, wrote:

"Dear Sir—I got your letter about what I owe you. Now be patient, I ain't forgot you. Please wait. When I have the money, I pay you. If this was Judgment day, and you was no more prepared to meet your Maker than I am to meet your account, you sure would have to go to Hades. Trusting you will agree to do this, I am, yours truly."

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Enumerates the Nutritious Values of the BANANA

OVERWEIGHT. Spoils Your Looks Impairs Efficiency

Explains How Our Most Satisfying Food Fruit Helps to Maintain Health at All Ages.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York City.

BEFORE the discovery of the vitamins and before we knew so much regarding the body's mineral requirements, interest in food was centered around proteins, carbohydrates and fats. Fruits which in general supply little protein and fat, and widely varying amounts of carbohydrates, received scant consideration as a source of essential nutrients.

But with our steadily increasing knowledge of vitamins and of the importance to the body of a long list of essential mineral elements, fruits have assumed a commanding place in nutrition. And those who follow the primary rule of a well balanced diet and serve fruit twice daily have been rewarded with increased health and vigor.

In addition to their minerals and vitamins, fruits are valued because of their bulk or cellulose which helps to insure regular health habits.

The Most Economical Fruit
Many homemakers consider that fruits as a class are more expensive items included in the food budget. But that statement is far too general and indicates a lack of information concerning the comparative nutritive values of the different kinds of fruit. For example, it has been said of the delicious and economical banana, that it gives more nutritive as well as money value than almost any other food.

Fruits, in general, are frequently divided into two classes; they are known as flavor fruits when they contain 80 per cent or more of water and as food fruits when the water content is less than 80 per cent. Bananas are a food fruit of the first order!

Ripe bananas are rich in carbohydrates and furnish the body with splendid energy values, with a minimum tax on the digestive system.

Double Fuel Value
When fully ripened, this fruit provides quick energy because a certain amount of its sugars are almost immediately absorbed by the body. On the other hand, several hours must elapse before the remaining sugars are completely assimilated. Thus, eating bananas provides a continuous supply of energy for a considerable period.

They not only help to promote rapid recovery from fatigue but also furnish a continuing supply of energy which keeps one from becoming hungry again too soon after a meal.

The edible portion of one average-sized banana weighs about 3½ ounces and provides 100 calories. It takes almost the same weight of white potato to yield the same number of calories.

Bananas a Protective Food
Bananas take an important position among the protective foods, because they are a good source of four vitamins, A, B, C and G, and contain a total of 11 minerals. They leave an alkaline-ash following digestion.

Fully ripened bananas are easily digested and are mildly laxative.

Valuable in Child's Diet
Bananas deserve a prominent place in the child's diet from infancy to maturity. Some baby specialists prescribe mashed and strained ripe bananas as one of the first solid foods to be introduced in the infant's diet. The ripe banana is considered to be especially valuable at the time when sugar is withdrawn from the formula and the baby is given whole milk for the first time. The calories in the bananas take the place of the calories previously received from the sugar, and thus weight gains are steadily maintained.

Help Children Gain Weight
Because of their high caloric value, plus their content of minerals and vitamins, bananas may well be used regularly throughout childhood.

Bananas and milk make an excellent food combination because the milk supplements the fruit with protein, fat, minerals and vitamins. This combination is often used as a supplementary lunch for underweight children, and carefully conducted studies have indicated its usefulness in helping youngsters to gain weight.

Almost all children like the taste of bananas and they do not seem to tire of this bland and pleasing fruit. And though the banana is regarded as a solid food, it can, if desired, be mashed and whipped into liquid form and combined with milk to make a healthful and nourishing beverage.

Ideal for the Elderly
If elderly individuals are to maintain top health, fruits should be given a prominent place in their diet. But many fruits are avoided by individuals past middle age, either because their acid taste is displeasing or because they present difficulties in mastication. Ripe bananas, however, practically melt in the mouth. Being easily digested, they are a fortunate choice for elderly persons, providing necessary energy values with a minimum of digestive effort.

Most Versatile Fruit
Bananas are always in season and are usually most inexpensive. It is desirable, of course, that only fully ripened bananas be eaten raw. That is because their constituents vary with the degree of ripeness.

Embroidered snow crystals on colored linen.

A LETTER comes telling the story of a clever girl designed for her dressing table. The problem was to make them to fit spaces of unusual size. Her room color scheme was blue and white and a design of white embroidered snow crystals on cool blue linen was what she wanted. Here is the way she achieved a charming result.

The linen was cut the desired size and narrow hems creased with a warm iron. The hems were then backstitched in white from the right side with three strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery cotton. She wanted the arrangement of the snow crystals to be helter-skelter—just as they would fall; so she took a handful of coins and tossed them onto the linen. There was a 50-cent piece; a quarter; some dimes, nickels and pennies. After several tosses she drew around each coin where it fell.

Still using three strands of the white cotton she took four stitches across the marked circle and then brought the needle out in the center, as shown here in step 2, ready to take a tiny stitch to bind the long stitches together. The crystals were embroidered over the long stitches, the larger ones being more elaborate than the small-

Don't handicap your child for life by improper feeding. The omission of even one minute substance may impair health, reduce learning ability.

For Our Children

Let us do the most we can to make the home a place where the children shall grow helpful, natural, happier, toward the noblest manhood and womanhood. Let us remember that it is the little things that make up the atmosphere. The kind word to the child, the little fault finding, the little nagging—it is just these little things that makes the comfort or discomfort of the home.

And it may seriously affect your health. If you are over 30, and weigh more than the normal weight for your height at the age of 30, the chances are that you would benefit greatly by a rational program of weight reduction.

You are invited to write to C. Houston Goudiss for his scientific Reducing Bulletin, which outlines the safe, certain and comfortable method of weight reduction by counting calories. It includes balanced reducing menus and a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods.

With it, you can easily compute the caloric value of every meal you eat.

Just write to
C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th St., New York City—a post card will do—and ask for the Reducing Bulletin.

Bananas are picked when they are green and hard, and the carbohydrate content is almost entirely starch. As they ripen, the starch is converted into easily digested sugars.

In fully ripened bananas—those in which brown flecks appear on the yellow skins—the starch has almost entirely disappeared and the flavor has been developed to its highest point. The all-yellow banana is also ripe enough for eating and it is likewise firm enough for cooking. Partially ripe bananas—those which are yellow with a green tip—may be cooked and served as a vegetable or as dessert.

Considering their availability, ease of digestion, high food value and economy, bananas deserve to be classed as one of the staple foods in every well planned dietary.
