Evening Train Stops For Passengers From West Bend

Evening passenger train 161, which leaves West Bend at 9:32 p. m. again will stop in Kewaskum when several passengers who have attended the show or have had business in that city wish to get off here, as a result of the efforts of A. L. Rosenheimer, Jr. of this village and A. C. Berkholz of West Bend, owner of West Bend theatre.

The regular stop of the train here was discontinued recently when officials of the North Western railway found that on many occasions there were no passengers aboard for the village. Since that time stops were made only for passengers from Milwaukee or beyond and did not provide for people traveling by rail between here and West Bend.

Messrs. Rosenheimer and Berkholz corresponded with Asst. Supt. C. L. Strom and Supt. P. B. Campbell of the North Western line and secured the new conditional stop. Railroad officials expressed the hope that people will patronize the trains in appreciation of this accommodation service.

VISITING WESTERN STATES

G. Washington Foerster of Wayne and George Herbel of Campbellsport, his uncle, left last Wednesday via automobile on a trip through the western states.

J.H. Martin Honored by Postmaster General

John H. Martin of this village, who was retired as rural letter carrier on Route 1 with the close of business on Sept. 30 after 33 years and two months of service, was singularly honored in a letter of congratulations and praise from United States Postmaster General James A. Farley last week. Inclosed with the message was an autographed photograph of the postmaster general.

Mr. Martin intends to have the letter framed in honor and remembrance of his retirement. He can feel justly proud of the great honor bestowed upon him by a man of such high position as that of Mr. Farley.

The letter was authorized in the office of the postmaster general, post office department, United States of America, Washington, D. C. and reads as follows:

October 4, 1938

Mr. John H. Martin, Kewaskum, Wisconsin

My dear Mr. Martin:

It has come to my attention that, after many years of conscientious and satisfactory service, you are to enjoy the privilege extended by the provisions of the Retirement Act and are retiring with annuity from the position of rural carrier at Kewaskum, to pursue a less active mode of life.

You have a creditable record as an employee in the postal service. I congratulate you upon the loyalty and efficiency of your service and desire to extend my personal wish for your continued happiness and contentment.

I am inclosing an autographed photograph in the thought that you may desire to have it as a memento of the closing years of your service.

Very truly yours, James A. Farley, Postmaster General

STATE ADOPTS NEW METHOD TO GET 1939 AUTO LICENSES

Wisconsin motor vehicle owners will find that the obtaining of their 1939 license plates has been simplified by the inauguration of a new system of handling applications by the Motor Vehicle Division of the Department of State. Every owner who had an automobile licensed during 1938 will receive a postal card bearing the description of his car, and when he makes application for his 1939 license it will only be necessary for him to mail the card and his remittance to the Motor Vehicle Division, Madison. The certificate of title should not be sent to the department unless it is necessary to transfer ownership of the vehicle, or the owner of the vehicle neglects to return the card.

In announcing the change Secretary of State Theodore Dammann said: "Application cards were formerly sent out as first class mail, and because the certificate of title cannot be enclosed with the license plates this document also had to be returned to the vehicle owner by first class mail. In line with our policy of improving the service to motor vehicle owners and other administrative economies insofar as the limitations of the law will permit, this will result in a saving of over $70,000 annually."

Opening of Pheasant Season on Saturday Awaits by Hunters

With a record supply of pheasants reported in surrounding sections, bird hunters are awaiting the opening at 1 p. m. Saturday of the annual 14-day shooting season. On opening day shooting may not begin until 1 p. m. and will continue to 4 p. m. the same day. Thereafter the shooting hours will be between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. to conform to the shooting hours set by the federal government for migratory waterfowl. Hunters are limited to two male pheasants a day. The season will close at 4 p. m. on Oct. 28.

The season on Hungarian partridge also opens at 1 p. m. Saturday. The partridge season will remain open 14 days and the limit is four per day. Shooting hours are the same as for pheasants. Hunters are cautioned that they positively cannot hunt game birds with a rifle.

The squirrel season in Washington county opens Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p. m. and will remain open until sunset on Dec. 1. Hours of shooting are from one-half hour after sunrise until sunset. On either gray or fox squirrels, the daily bag limit is five.

All indications point to a larger kill this year than last as pheasants apparently are plentiful. The large number of birds seen by the general public in rural sections may be accounted for somewhat by the fact that marshes and moist areas are flooded and the birds are forced to seek higher ground. Despite this condition, however, the supply is thought to be much larger than in previous years.

Following are three important points to be remembered by hunters in order to be assured of a successful season from all angles:

First, take care in ascertaining that the birds shot are males, thus lowering next year's normal increase by killing hens.

Second, do not fail to report the killing of banded birds to the state conservation department at Madison, to enable the scientists to glean valuable information as to the habits of the birds.

Third, improve relations between land owners and hunters by courtesy on the part of the hunter in asking permission before hunting on privately owned land. Most land owners appreciate this courtesy and are willing to grant permission providing they know the identity of the individuals and thus have some guarantee of protection to their property.

KANSAS STATE TEAM FACES MARQUETTE IN NIGHT GAME

Football fans will eye Milwaukee, Friday night, October 14, when Coach Paddy Driscoll's Marquette university eleven will face the Kansas State Wildcats of the Big Six conference in a floodlight tilt in the Hilltop stadium. The kickoff is billed for 8 o'clock.

Marquette and Kansas State battles have been thrillers since the Wildcats won 2-0 in a driving snowstorm in 1925. This year's game should be no exception for the Hilltoppers hope to avenge the 13-0 setback which they suffered at Manhattan last fall. Marquette holds a 5-2 edge in the series.

Featured on the Kansas State team is Elmer Hackney, 206-pound junior fullback and national collegiate shot put champion, who is hailed as a "one man gang." Coach Wesley Fry's aggregation will be rounded out by eight other veterans and two sophomores—Bernie Weiner, 200-pound guard, and Joe DeBord, 215-pound tackle.

The game will be the first one at home this season for the Hilltoppers as well as their only night appearance this fall in Milwaukee. It will be staged under the auspices of the Milwaukee county council of the American Legion.

Coach Driscoll expects to trot out several of his sophomore stars and may use as many as six of them in the opening lineup. Outstanding among the Hilltop varsity novices is Ray Apolski, 185-pound center and guard from Chicago.

Marquette will meet the mighty Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university in Milwaukee on Saturday afternoon, October 22. T. C. U. boasts two potential all-Americans this fall in Capt. I. B. Hale, 245-pound tackle, and little Davy O'Brien, quarterback and passer.

With the Franciscan Friars

Few visitors to the old mission in Santa Barbara, Calif., know that the friars who wear the cowled brown robes of the order of St. Francis of Assisi, are not merely part of the atmosphere, but actually perform numerous tasks for the Church. Here are teachers, students and artisans, like Brother Paphinus Schmitz (above), who is shown binding books.

Above is Brother Wendelin, the tailor, braiding cord for the robes of padres. At left is Brother Juniper, helping prepare a meal for the entire community of fathers and brothers.

Daily routine of life begins at 4:40 a. m. and lasts until 9:15 p. m., with but a half hour off for meals, during which absolute silence is maintained. This schedule is much the same as when the mission was founded. Above are students preparing for the ministry, attending an advanced theology class. Many lectures and class discussions are in Latin.

As in the outer world, Monday is washday at the old mission. Brother Seraphin Silva is shown hanging up the week's laundry. Hour periods of recreation are enjoyed by the student priests here.

Some of the work is very hard. Brother Aloysius, head farmer for the mission, plows in the ancient vineyard. Santa Barbara is one of three California missions still administered by Franciscans.

Clerics, advanced priesthood students, broadcast each week.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Roar of Death"

HELLO EVERYBODY: Here's a story I don't believe has ever been told before in English. It happened during the World war, and a country at war doesn't let news of its internal troubles leak out if it can help it. Strict censorship is clamped on the news and the mail. No disaster of any importance is allowed to be mentioned. That's why I don't think this yarn has ever been told over here. For it happened in Germany on July 19, 1918, and it is my guess that the event we're going to hear about was a serious blow to the German cause.

Worked in German Munitions Factory.

Margaret Loeschner, who lives in the Bronx, N. Y., is today's Distinguished Adventurer. Margaret was born and brought up in Germany. During the war she worked in the munitions factory at Plauen in Saxony, and her mother worked with her.

Both of them were ambitious. They worked at piece work—were paid according to the number of finished articles they turned in at the end of the day. Now it's no sin to be ambitious. Ambition is a quality that has always been highly regarded in the civilized world. But this is one of those queer cases where Justice was caught asleep at the switch. Ambition might bring riches, and happiness, and contentment to everybody else, but to Margaret and her mother it brought only adventure—and tragedy.

Their work consisted of sewing together the powder blades that were used for gun charges. They worked at it steadily—industriously—except at such times when the alarm rang for a fire drill. Fire drills annoyed Margaret and her mother. It meant just so much valuable time taken away from their sewing, and one or two fewer powder blades to turn in at the end of the day.

Fire Was Sweeping Through the Plant!

On July 18, there was a fire drill, and the munitions workers all filed out of the factory. And the very next day the alarm rang again. It was too much for Margaret's patience to stand, and her mother felt the same way about it. For the first minute or two they remained at their work, trying to get in a few extra stitches. But this time it wasn't just a drill—it was the real thing. Somewhere in the big factory fire had started and was sweeping through the plant. And the precious minute mother and daughter had wasted made all the difference between life and death.

Clothes aflame, girls were jumping to the ground.

For a moment they sat at their benches—then a dull roar sounded somewhere at the end of the plant and the building began to quiver. They leaped to their feet then—started running toward the exit. But they couldn't run as fast as the destruction that was sweeping the factory. With the air filled with powder dust—with powder dust strewn over the floors and coating the benches and machinery, that fire shot through the whole area with a speed like that of a bullet. The two women were no sooner on their feet than a huge flame shot through their department.

Explosion Blew Her Through Window.

Margaret remembers a scream—a sharp, piercing shriek from the throats of the sixty or more girls who still remained in the room. It was a scream that Margaret joined in. The next thing she remembers is coming back to consciousness lying outside on the fire escape platform. The terrific power of the explosion had thrown her right through an open window.

Margaret is glad, now that they had so many fire drills in that plant. When she rose to her feet, she was dazed. But habit instilled in her in previous drills guided her. Instead of falling into a panic, she let her feet carry her down the fire escape stairs. If she had started when the alarm sounded she might have escaped from the building unharmed, but now it was too late. As she neared the lower floors she was stopped by burning girls, their clothing in flames, running madly to the stairways—jumping to the ground.

Great sheets of flame were shooting from the lower windows. It was impossible to get past them and reach the ground. Margaret looked back up the fire escape. Flame was coming out of the windows above her, too. She was trapped on the metal stairway—and already the railings and the iron treads were red hot, just a few feet above and below her!

Flames Were Closing In on Her.

Inch by inch the cherry-red glow of hot metal was closing in on her. Sooner or later it would reach the spot where she was standing. But she would never know about that. The overpowering heat would get her first. Already her head was spinning. She reeled and scorched her hands when she grasped the hot railing to hold herself up. The soles of her shoes were smoking. Another blast of hot air smote her body and she could feel herself going. Then, things went black before her eyes.

Margaret doesn't know what happened after that, and she was never able to find out. When she next awoke she was in the hospital, and the horrors she witnessed in her ward were worse than those of the fire. The big room was jammed with dying girls, fearfully mutilated and suffering the most terrible pain known to man. Twice during that stay in the hospital Margaret went to sleep at night and awoke in the morning to find that she was the only one of 36 girls still alive.

It was in the hospital, too, that she first learned of the death of her mother. She was one of the 400 or more victims who died in the fire and the explosion. And Margaret still carries scars on her body that serve as a terrible memento of the tragic adventure, and a grim reminder that all of the war's injured do not get their wounds on the battle front.

Varnish an Ancient Product
Linseed oil was used in varnish-making by monks as far back as the Twelfth century. Varnish-making, along the lines of the later day product, dates from the time of Theophilus, although protective finishes were manufactured as long ago as the days of the Pharaohs.

The Big Wind in Ireland
The Big Wind occurred in Ireland on the night of January 6, 1839. In Limerick, Galway and Athlone, hundreds of houses were blown down and hundreds more were burned by the spreading of fires.

Acquiring Freckles
Most people acquire freckles after exposure to strong sunlight—on other faces the spots just grow. Red-haired persons are generally endowed with very fair skins, tend to freckle most easily.

Strange 'Offering to Heaven'
Legend says Li-Shin-Min, a Chinese emperor, made a strange "offering to heaven" 1300 years ago. Praying that a plague would be stopped, he swallowed a live locust to prove he meant his prayer.

Derived From Archery
The term "God save the mark" is derived from archery, and is an expression meaning to avert evil. When a man hit the mark he prayed that another archer might not hit it and thus disturb his arrow.

Birthingplace of Washington's Mother
George Washington's mother, Mary Ball, was not born in England. She was born on her father's estate in Lancaster county, Virginia, in 1708. Her father, Joseph Ball, had four children, Joseph Jr., Susie, Mary, and the name of the fourth one is unknown.

Art of Making Honey
A bee pushes its tongue into a cosmos for nectar. It converts this into honey by buzzing its wings over the fluid to evaporate the water. It takes 80,000 bees to bring in enough nectar for one pound of honey.

Transportation on Snow
The first book to mention transportation on the snow was Xenophon's "Anabasis," which tells of Armenians who put enlarged shoes on their horses while traveling in the mountain passes.

Removing Glasses Mark of Respect
For countless centuries, many peoples of the Orient, particularly the Chinese, have removed their spectacles, as a mark of respect, when talking to another person, says Collier's Weekly.

Pocahontas' Real Name
Pocahontas' real name was Matoaka. Pocahontas is a verbal adjective meaning he or she is playful. The nickname was used by her father in speaking with the Virginia colonists.

What Is a Consumer?

IF YOU like slogans, you may accept this one: "The consumer is king." Not clever, perhaps, but very true—and important. As a motto, it figuratively hangs over the door of every store and every factory in the land. Yes, and over the doorways of farmers who raise our foodstuffs, too.

It is literally true that consumers have the power of life or death over every business enterprise. They decide exactly what products shall be made and who shall be permitted to make them. They decide what form of distribution they want and which storekeepers shall remain in business. Consumers decide what kind of advertising there is to be, for in making their choice of brands they reward certain advertisers and punish others.

Who are these all-powerful consumers who daily write the destinies of business? They are the man and the woman with the buying dollar—the voting dollar. They go to the business polls every day of the year, casting their vote-dollars with the butcher, the baker, the automobile maker. They vote here in our town for the products they like and for the merchants they approve.

Some advertisers succeed and others fail. They lay their claims before consumers, and the consumer dollars decide. There is no recourse and no appeal. No amount of fancy theory can change the simple fact that the consumer is the boss, and always will be, so long as we safeguard our system of free private enterprise.

Consumers are not a special class of people. You cannot classify our population under the divisions of capital, labor, and consumers. Each of us is a bit of all three. Everyone who has any savings, property, or insurance belongs to the capital class. Everyone who works for pay belongs to the labor class. And everyone who buys things belongs to the consumer class. Practically everybody is a consumer.

This makes it clear why there is no such thing as all business being on one side of the fence and all consumers on the other. But for each individual business the consumers are well defined. They are the customers and potential customers. There are a million separate businesses, and their many groups of consumers criss-cross and overlap. But in every individual case, consumers control the fate of the business that depends on their patronage.

This fact is the very essence of economic freedom in America. In several other countries the governments determine what products shall be made available to consumers and which business concerns shall survive. Under such conditions the people lose essential liberties and normal progress must stop.

The American way is the better way. Here it is up to every merchant to please consumers by his own efforts; to sell the best goods he can, and to advertise them to the public. This is the way of progress, the way to higher standards of life. So long as the consumer is king, America will always be free.

Most anyone will agree that it is wise to use only the very best motor oil in an expensive car. Buy it does not follow that cheap oil should be used in lower priced cars. The experience of millions of owners of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth cars proves that Acid-Free Quaker State Motor Oils makes their cars run better, last longer.—Adv.

EDITORIAL

THIS WEEK, OCTOBER 9-15, IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Today the great Chicago fire of 1871 is only a memory, and Mrs. O'Leary's cow and lantern episode is but a legend. Fire catastrophes involving our thousands of homes, factories, and forests are still realities. Our interests have not been continuous enough and sufficiently concentrated to eliminate thousands of fire causes.

Let us not forget that the fire departments, both paid and volunteer, in the state of Wisconsin have been doing splendid work in the cause of fire prevention. Among the finest safety departments in our communities are our fire departments made up of men who on all too many occasions risk their lives and limbs to prevent the spread of fires and help to extinguish fires caused by carelessness and ignorance on the part of so many of our citizens. Fire departments alone cannot solve the problem. All of us must help.

Unfortunately, fire prevention week is understood by many as being just one week a year when people make an attempt to eliminate fire hazards and after the week is gone gradually forget about it. Fire prevention week ought to be perpetuated from one week to the next. All education, to be effective, must be continuous.

In Wisconsin during 1937, scores of persons were killed and hundreds of others were horribly scarred and disfigured for life by fire. In Wisconsin, there were 12,538 fires last year. Approximately 8,000 of this number involved homes, and the property loss was over $2,000,000. In our industrial field, 686 store fires showed a loss of $914,328. There were 414 barn fires representing a loss of $772,831.

The 12,538 fires caused a grand total loss of $6,022,964. The greatest number of fires occurred in Milwaukee county, 2,085 fires and a property loss of $772,962. Dane county was next with 621 fires and a property loss of $173,631, and Brown county followed with 423 fires and a loss of $203,805.

"Smokers and carelessness" caused 2,063 fires and a total loss of $265,801. The next greatest number of fires were caused by "lightning—not rodDED," showing 1,288 fires and a cost of $273,759. The third greatest number of fires were caused by "chimney sparks," 1,094 fires and a loss of $427,936. "Faulty electric wiring" was next with 1,060 fires and a loss of $968,139.

Newspapers and radio stations, always great teachers and molders of public opinion, schools and various organizations, can be of great assistance throughout the year in teaching correct methods of fire prevention.

TESTS AND MORE TESTS

This week brings the closing of the first six-weeks period, and of course everyone knows what that means. Tests! The students of every class can be seen cramming over the material they have covered and reviewing it very studiously. The teachers are reviewing with the students during class period also, so the general routine is reviewing and writing tests.

Tests are given to see if the student has really concentrated and studied on the material the teachers have tried to hard to impress on their minds. Woo to the student who fails!

JUNIOR NEWS

The junior English class has in the past six weeks completed its study of the American short stories and American biographies. The junior history class has completed the Revolutionary War and is now beginning the Reconstruction After the War.

FRESHMEN KEYNOTES

The first six weeks of school are nearly at an end, and all the freshmen feel very much at home, thanks to the faculty and the upper classmen.

The freshmen science class is completing the first unit in their workbooks. Now they will be honored with a test.

The freshmen English class has just finished studying the short story. We had our six-weeks' test Thursday. We are now beginning the study of "The Lady of the Lake," an example of narrative poetry.

The boys in the freshmen manual training class are varnishing the flower stands which they have made. The boys find that varnish is rather sticky when they get it on their clothes and hands.

Our citizenship class receives an "Every Week" booklet weekly. In this booklet are important things about the world. On Friday of every week we report on these items. Our last magazine dealt mainly on the following subjects: "High Court Begins New Session," "Big Crop Brings Farmer Less Money," and "Streamlining the News." Bits of humor and cartoons are also found in the booklet.

DRAMATIC NEWS

Last Wednesday, at the weekly meeting of the Dramatic club, Miss Busch, our former teacher, visited the class. Everyone was pleased to have her speak to us for a few minutes. We are sure all enjoyed her short visit with us.

The members of the club have been giving pantomimes. The object of this club is to make better actors of our future performers.

INTERMEDIATE NEWS

The intermediate room has published a paper. The paper will cost one cent. The name of the paper is "Intermediate Flashes."

The third grade is going to have a library corner. They are going to visit the public library to see how to care for a library from Mrs. Schelf.

The fourth grade has decided to build an aquarium at school. They have appointed committees to find information about the life in an aquarium. Eileen Backus has brought the aquarium.

MELODY ROUND-UPS

No, it's not the fire siren, it's just another student trying out for the operetta. The ease with which they slide up and down the scale is indeed remarkable. That soprano on high "e" sounds as if she opened her mouth and can't get it closed. That bass on low "c" has all the rumblings of the Flamin' Heaton. I imagine it is better to be a part of that Cacophony than up here listening to it. Maybe I'll try.

Seriously, too, there are many students interested in the operetta and after hearing most of the voices, Miss Dachenbach is quite pleased with the material she has to work with.

BOYS' CHORUS

The music sheets for the boys' chorus have been sent back because the parts for the tenors were too high. These selections were reordered in two parts.

"SO THEY SAY"

Probably many of you have heard about the operetta that will be presented soon—next month probably. The principle characters have not yet been selected, but we'll soon let you know whom they are.

KEWASKUM WINS, 6 TO 2

Kewaskum closed their season by winning four and losing two.

The results of the season were as follows:

Campbelsport 1, Kewaskum 6.
Cedar Grove 0, Kewaskum 2.
