A PRELUDE TO THE BIG GAME

Few of the 40,000,000 people who watch this autumn's gridiron games know of the months spent by skilled workmen turning pigskin and rubber into footballs. Long before the triple-threat halfback began training, football manufacturers began their preparation. Each fall has received as much attention as the glamorous players themselves. First step, illustrated at left, is cutting and selecting leather for the football.

Picture Parade

A check for precision: Each "panel" of pigskin used in the football is weighed to check on the skiving. Regulation footballs must be of standard weight.

LEFT—Panels are examined still more before a skilled craftsman matches them, guaranteeing that the finished football will have uniform color and quality. RIGHT—The assembly job begins when panels are stitched on a hot wax machine.

LEFT—Ends are stitched by hands, not an easy job when you consider the toughness of this pigskin. RIGHT—An important part of football manufacture is the cementing and preparation of linings and panels, thus insuring firmness.

The finished product, ready for booting and passing by a bone-crushing fullback. But first the ball must be checked and its diameter measured after inflation. To pass tests this diameter must be 21 inches.

Preparation of Leathers
Undressed kid is a skin dressed only on one side. Vici kid is a chrome tanned, glazed kid. Wax calf is a heavy calf skin with a wax finish. Suede (calf or kid skin) is finished by buffing on an emery wheel. Box calf is calf leather on which an irregular finish is stamped.

Oxygen Required by Fish
Fish need less oxygen in cold water than warm. They breathe less in cold weather.

Christmas on January 5
Christmas comes to the residents of Rodanthe, on North Carolina's Hatteras island, on January 5. Inhabitants observe the holiday on Twelfth Night, following the old calendar.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—To administer the wages and hours law, which recently went into effect, Elmer F. Andrews left a job which gave him shorter hours and more wages.

E. F. Andrews Has Taken on Full-Time Job
As New York state industrial commissioner, his salary was $12,000, and he could get by nicely with a seven or eight-hour day. This job pays $10,000, and, considering its volume of detail, its complications, its novelty and its controversial entanglements, it looks like a 24-hour shift for Mr. Andrews.

He is a professional engineer, born in New York, earnest and diligent, a glutton for detail, living moderately in Flushing with his wife and three children until his removal to Washington. In addition to his five years as state industrial commissioner, having succeeded his former chief, Miss Frances Perkins, in that office, his experience in wage and hour adjustments has been with industrial concerns and chambers of commerce.

After his graduation from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, he was pilot in the U. S. army air service in the World war. He built railroads and factories in Cuba and engaged in construction work in New York City, planning civic improvements for the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, among other large-scale enterprises. In these years he engaged in compensation studies for various industrial groups. He was labor adviser for the National Labor board in the coal mining regions of Kentucky, Alabama and Pennsylvania.

Never belligerent, Mr. Andrews has been more of an arbitrator than a fighter, although he did take on certain employment agencies for a battle when he was industrial commissioner. He swings no nightstick, and tells the employers this isn't going to hurt them in the least. He is a New Dealer, but goes to Washington with perhaps more political detachment than any similarly placed official down there. Mr. Andrews is 48 years old.

The late Newton D. Baker liked to discourse on the importance of "keeping intellectually liquid," and free from embarrassing alliances and commitments.

J. H. Amen Distinguished Non-Joiner
John Harlan Amen, runner-up for Thomas E. Dewey in the national racket-busting tournament, is that way, too. Assigned to the sensational crime and graft clean-up in Brooklyn, he allows the reporters to drag out of him the admission that he "never belonged to anything."

As an assistant United States attorney, he has been netting racketeers steadily since the United States put teeth in the Sherman act in 1934. In view of J. Edgar Hoover's revelations as to the overlapping of crime and venal politics, Mr. Amen's political detachment is interesting. It is also interesting in our new realization that federalization of our government has been in part due to the failure of the states really to govern. Mr. Amen, like Mr. Dewey, has made his name in this overlapping zone of state and federal authority.

He is a grave, aloof aristocrat, with an academic background of Phillips-Exeter, Princeton and Harvard. He is a son-in-law of President Cleveland, with a residence in Park avenue, great intellectual and social reserve.

This writer happened to be in Italy when the fascist regime was emerging and saw underprivileged youth joyously engaged in beating up hold-outs and lag-guards and slashing up the library of an old professor who had indiscreetly affirmed his faith in democracy.

Jas. Marshall Alarmed Over Jobless Youth
James Marshall, president of the New York board of education, is alarmed about our jobless youth, aged from 18 to 24. He says it was this condition which made fascism in other countries and we had better watch our step. He proposes a drastic national solution.

Mr. Marshall is a lawyer by profession, the son of the late Louis Marshall, one of the most eminent lawyers in New York's history. He was appointed to the board of education in 1935 and became president of the board last June. He is a genial, philosophical pipe-smoker, an alumnus of the Columbia school of journalism, and the author of a novel, "Ordeal by Glory."

The Name Roswell
The name Roswell, of Teutonic origin, is a form of Roswald and means "mighty steed," or "power of a horse." It is one of the horse names derived from the national emblem of the ancient Saxons and thus supposed to be lucky.

The Ordeal by Fire
When we speak of going through fire for someone or putting the hand into the fire for something, we little suspect the pagan origin of the expression; the ordeal by fire.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Off Kinsale Head"

HELLO EVERYBODY:
If you go to see Patrick J. Hanley at his home at Richmond Hill, N. Y., he might show you an old life preserver that he acquired at sea, on the afternoon of Friday, May 7, 1915, off the Old Head of Kinsale on the coast of Ireland. And maybe Pat will even tell you the story of that life preserver and how he got it, and that's a moving tale. Pat wouldn't part with that old contraption of cork and canvas for half the wealth of the Indies, for it carried him safely through his life's greatest adventure. And how great a danger it was you will easily realize when I tell you that although Pat lived, eleven hundred and ninety-eight others lost their lives before it was over.

Maybe you've already got a hunch what this story is going to be about. Maybe that mention of Kinsale Head has struck a responsive chord in your memory. Then again, maybe it hasn't. It's been more than 20 years now, and few people remember that the Old Head of Kinsale was the scene of that greatest of marine disasters, the sinking of the Lusitania.

Was Passenger on the Lusitania.

Yes—Pat Hanley was on the Lusitania when a German submarine shot a torpedo into its innards and sent it plunging to the bottom. The big ship had successfully dodged the U-boats all the way across the Atlantic. She was racing down the home stretch, and the passengers had forgotten their fears and were beginning to have a good time when suddenly, at two o'clock in the afternoon there came a loud report.

Pat Hanley had shaved and come up on deck about 15 minutes before, and he saw it all, right from the first. A panic started immediately. People ran wildly about the ship searching for their friends and children. Then—in less than a minute—the ship began to list. "Right there," says Pat, "was where people started drowning. They got on the incline and started sliding. The deck rail was broken away to starboard and they fell wholesale into the water. An officer bellowed through a megaphone that everyone must get on a life preserver, but two-thirds of the passengers were in such a state of collapse that you couldn't get them to stand still to get a life preserver on them."

Pat found a life preserver and started stripping off his outer clothing. A woman ran into him, and down he went on the slippery deck. With difficulty he managed to keep from sliding overboard like many others had done. But he got to his feet again and began working his way aft.

Only five life-boats got clear of the ship with passengers. A sixth got fouled in the davit and the people in it were dumped into the water. "They fell like a load of sand," says Pat, "and I noticed that not one of them seemed to survive that upset. I saw two more boats hurriedly pushed off so that people in the water could cling to them. After that there was no chance to launch any more on either side as the ship was under water to the second deck on the starboard side."

Pat arrived safely at the stern of the ship and, with about 40 other men, made ready to jump. "We couldn't take a chance jumping from the side," he says, "if it looked as though the ship might turn over on top of us if we did. Already the water was full of bobbing heads. Suddenly a shower of water and soot shot up from the second and third funnels of the ship, drenching the after-deck and turning us all black as ink spots. The ship was going down steadily now, and we all realized that if we didn't jump soon the suction would carry us down when she went under. Overboard we went."

Fishing Trawler Came to Rescue.

By that time an Irish fishing trawler—the first craft to come to the rescue—was just arriving at the scene of disaster. Pat, held up by his life preserver, began swimming toward it. Says he: "It was a sailing vessel equipped with four big oars which the crew pulled like Trojans. Already they were picking people out of the water by the dozen. Lifeboats were rowing out to it, unloading their passengers and going back to pick up more. The small boats made several trips back and forth, but they only picked up those who showed signs of life. By the time we reached the trawler there were 500 others already on it."

The time Pat spent on that trawler was an adventure all in itself. The cockpit—the deck—the hold—all of them were literally jammed with people. Up on deck the passengers had to stand close together and hang onto one another, for they were packed right to the edge of the deck and there was no railing to keep them from going overboard. When the last bit of available space was occupied with the task of saving a human life, the little craft took in tow three lifeboats filled with more of the rescued, and started away from the scene.

Less Than 800 Were Saved.

Pat clung for his life to the man next to him. Now the waters were full of other craft steaming—rowing—sailing to the rescue. A large boat hove to and took the crowd off the trawler. While the trawler went back to pick up more survivors, the big boat, with Pat aboard it, steamed toward Queenstown harbor.

But the trawler didn't pick up another load like her first, for the records show that less than 800 people were saved out of a total of nearly 2,000. Pat says they met several patrol boats coming to the rescue, but they were too late to do anything but pick up the dead.

The boat Pat was on landed him in Queenstown at about nine o'clock that night. The next morning he was asked to go down to the Cunard pier, which had been converted into a temporary morgue, to see if he could identify any of the poor souls who had lost their lives.

Pat still has the life preserver he wore when he jumped over the stern of the ill-fated Lusitania—a souvenir of a remarkable adventure. He'll get it out and show it to you and tell you the story of it when you drop over there of an evening. But for the sake of the people who don't know Pat well enough to be dropping in on him, I'm glad he's given us a chance to spin that yarn here in this column.

Here is another free-hand embroidery design that should be as much fun as those in the book. This attractive border is suggested here for a bed jacket. You will have no difficulty in finding a pattern for a jacket as they are quite the thing to wear over hand border will dress it up for a Christmas gift.

If the jacket is pale pink, the rows of running stitches might be in several tones of rose. The cross stitches could be in deep rose and turquoise blue to simulate flowers. The long and short stitches, shown at A and B, should then be done in apple green. Lines may be drawn with a ruler as a guide to keep the rows straight, and evenly spaced dots may be made to indicate the cross stitches beginning the spacing at the corners of the design.

Are you ready for Christmas; birthdays; and the next church

WHAT to EAT and WHY

Are Your Children Eating Clean Food? Asks C. Houston Goudiss—Points Out Hazards of Neglected Hand-Washing

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

"I DO feed my Johnny correctly," a young mother said to me not long ago. "I give him milk and eggs and vegetables and fruits. And still he has colds! Would you mind telling me just how you reconcile that with all this talk about our newer knowledge of nutrition—and how it helps children to have better health?"

"I don't know," I answered. "But I wonder if it would be convenient for me to meet Johnny?"

"Certainly," she replied. "He'll be home from school in a few moments. He usually stops at the school playground for an hour or two, to play dodge ball with the other boys."

A moment or two later Johnny appeared. And a more grimy little lad I had seldom seen, certainly not outside of a neighborhood such as we sometimes describe as underprivileged!

Johnny's hands were dirty. His face was dirty. His knees and legs were streaked with mud. There was a lollipop in his mouth, though he quickly pulled it out when his mother made the introduction.

I could not refuse his hand when he put it forth in a gentlemanly gesture, though I noted that some of its visible soil, and doubtless some unseen germs, were transferred to my own hand during the greeting.

No sooner had we unclasped hands than a tremendous sneeze all but engulfed Johnny. And in spite of his almost adult manner at meeting a stranger, he had not learned to cover his nose and mouth during a sneeze. The lollipop was sprayed with moisture, and germs. Two seconds later, the child put the lollipop back in his mouth and continued sucking it!

And yet his mother could not understand why he had colds!

Contaminated Food

I have pointed out many times that in my opinion, a mother's foremost responsibility is to feed her children a diet that takes into account all the recent amazing discoveries of nutritional science. Only by so doing can she hope to give them a sturdy body with straight bones, strong responsive muscles, a good circulation and sound, healthy nerves.

But the parent who permits her offspring to eat with unwashed hands and thus take countless germs into his body with every mouthful of food is secretly giving that food a chance to build the kind of body and brain every mother desires for her child. On the contrary, she is risking the danger of grave illness. For the micro-organisms which cause 92 out of every 100 deaths from communicable diseases enter or leave the body through the mouth or nose.

Health Linked to Cleanliness

All of us have heard the expression: "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," though to observe some of our school children eating their lunches, one might have reason to believe that both mothers and school boards have forgotten this old copy-book maxim! But it bears remembering: every day and all day. For the writer who said that soap and civilization go hand in hand was not far from the truth. Certainly, soap-and-water cleanliness and good health are inseparably linked, and habits of personal cleanliness are a vital factor in safeguarding children against infections and disease.

We often compare a correct diet to the bricks with which a well-constructed building is erected. But if food represents the bricks with which the edifice of health is built, surely cleanliness is the mortar!

Keeping Everlastingly at It

Most babies are kept clean by their mothers because mothers know that they cannot keep their babies well if they do not keep them clean. If the same careful policy were followed in later childhood, it is almost certain that there would be less illness among children.

Unfortunately, many mothers relax their vigilance the moment their child is ready for school. In some cases, they believe that the child has had sufficient training and can be relied upon; in other instances, they believe, or hope, that further training will be supplied by the school!

But the mere fact that a child is old enough to go to school does not make him less of a child. Nor does it make his mother less of a teacher and guardian. On the contrary, it multiplies her responsibilities!

More than ever the child needs careful supervision of his health habits. For now he is in daily contact with countless other youngsters, from many types of homes. More chances to pick up germs! More chances to disseminate germs should he be permitted to go to school with the sniffles!

Mothers must increase, not decrease their vigilance. They must assume responsibility for the observance of all the habits that safeguard health. These include the daily bath; the daily change into clean clothing; the frequent washing of the hands; and always before eating; the twice-daily brushing of the teeth; regular elimination; regular hours for meals; and the necessary hours for outdoor play and for sleep.

What About the School?

Mothers must remember—and must emphasize to their children—that diseases may often be traced to unclean hands, and to germs sprayed in the air by persons having coughs and colds.

Teach your children to muffle every cough and sneeze in a handkerchief. And be sure they have a handkerchief handy for the purpose. Teach them to keep their fingers out of their mouths, likewise pencils and other objects. Teach them to wash the hands and face frequently.

If they are to carry out this last instruction, it is imperative that soap and towels be available in school washrooms, as well as at home. Investigate conditions at the school your child attends. If facilities are not adequate, do something about it. Either arouse other mothers to help rectify the omissions, or failing that—have your child carry soap and paper towels from home!

By teaching cleanliness to your children, by making it a regular part of their training, you will help to safeguard their health and the health of every other child with whom they come in contact in their daily lives.

Questions Answered

Mrs. C. M. L.—Yes, there is some advantage in eating whole oranges, as opposed to merely drinking the juice. Both orange and orange juice are rich in vitamin C. But the pulp possesses additional laxative values that are not obtained when only the juice is consumed.

Miss F. C. V.—Experiments by three distinguished investigators reveal that beef liver contains 20 times as much copper as beef-steak.

Just Do What You See In These Pictures To Relieve Pain Quickly

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water the moment you feel either a rheumatic or neuritic pain coming on.

Just Be Sure To Use Genuine Bayer Aspirin

To relieve pain of rheumatism or neuritis quickly, try the Bayer Aspirin way—shown above.

People everywhere say results are remarkable. Yet Bayer Aspirin costs only about one cent a tablet, which makes the use of expensive "pain remedies" unnecessary.

If this way fails, see your doctor. He will find the cause and correct it. While there, ask him about taking Bayer Aspirin to relieve these pains. We believe he will tell you there is no more effective, more dependable way normal persons may use.

When you buy, make sure you get genuine BAYER Aspirin.

County Agent Notes

SIRE CALF PROJECT
4-H club members and farmers who desire to obtain without any cost a purebred and registered sire calf from the good herds of Washington county may obtain the information for doing so from the county agricultural agent's office.

FALL MULCHING OF APPLE TREES
Washington county fruit growers who feel that they must mulch their apple trees this fall should not overlook it.

When apple trees are mulched to heavily with straw, grass, or barnyard manure, there is more danger of fire blight, a bacterial disease which attacks the newer twigs and branches.

While mulching is a recognized orchard practice, it causes a more rapid growth of new wood, which is undesirable. Too much cultivation or heavy applications of nitrogen fertilizer likewise cause too rapid growth.

New growth is easily attacked by fire blight infection, and the resulting damage far outweighs the gain from mulching. It is better to leave the orchard in grass.

Once fire blight gets started, the only treatment is to destroy the hold over cankers and water sprouts. Otherwise, the disease lives over winter and is spread by the wind to healthy wood. Although the branches may be trimmed at any time before growth starts in the spring, they are best found and removed early in the fall before the leaves have dropped.

NOTICE TO POTATO GROWERS

A district potato meeting for potato growers in southeastern Wisconsin will be held on Friday, November 18, in the Community hall at Menomonee Falls at 10:00 a. m. and continuing until about 4:00 p. m.

The program to be presented is the following:

I. Variety and Seed Potato Performance Records (Attention will be called to the important potato disease factors of the 1938 season). By J. W. Brann, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

II. Regional Soil Improvement Projects in Relation to Potato Production (Farm films shown in this connection) by C. J. Chapman, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

III. Potato grades—The Potato Inspection Service—by E. L. Peterson, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets.

IV. Summarizing Potato Extension Projects in Five Wisconsin Potato Districts with Special Relation to Seed Potato Certification and Seed Potato Distribution—by J. G. Milward, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

V. Potato Growing Methods—A question box conducted by August Winkler, Clearwater Lake, president of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association.

EXHIBITS AND DEMONSTRATIONS: The above program will be supplemented by exhibits of Potato, Varieties, Seed Potato Stocks, Potato Disease Specimens, Illustrative Material Relative to Fertilizers, Soil Improvement, Disease and Insect Control, and Potato Grading.

FARMERS MAY SECURE FREE TREES FOR REFORESTATION

The Wisconsin Conservation Department will give free to farmers 500 or 1000 seedling hard wood, pine or spruce trees for reforestation. To be eligible to receive these trees it is necessary that either a quarter acre or a half acre of ground, depending upon the number of trees wanted be set aside for planting the seedlings. This area must be fenced and grazing animals not allowed upon it.

Only a limited number of farmers in any one county can receive such free allotment of trees. Those who wish them should send in their orders at once. The old saying, "First come, first served," will necessarily have to be the rule for allotting the seedlings. Farmers in Washington county should send requests to the county agricultural agent's office at the court house, West Bend.

FREE SOIL TESTING FOR COUNTY FARMERS

A free soil testing program for the farmers of Washington county is being started by the county agricultural agent's office.

Briefly the program is as follows: A WPA project has been set up to do the soil testing. Farmers are to provide the soil samples and either take them to the court house at West Bend or to the nearest community conservation committee member who will take them to the court house.

Be sure the soil samples are clearly marked. You must keep a record of the field and part of the field the soil samples were taken from.

The samples will be tested for acidity and for phosphorus and potassium content. The results of the test, with commercial fertilizer recommendations, will be mailed you during the winter.

Soil samples should be taken for every two or three acres of crop land. About one-half acre of soil is plenty. Take it from the upper eight inches of land. Have the soil as dry as possible.

This is an unusual opportunity for all farmers to have the soil from all of the fields on the farm tested. We want to collect several thousand soil samples before it freezes up.

Collect the soil samples at once. Then at your convenience bring them to the court house or take them to your nearest community committee.

THIS UNSAFE WORLD

Today the nation is celebrating Armistice Day, November 11th, the twentieth anniversary of the ending of the war which was to end all wars, and make the world safe for democracy.

The ablest political minds of the time drafted a treaty of peace, which, they believed, would effectively safeguard the nations of the world against future aggression. To make assurance doubly sure, they set up an institution for collective security, the League of Nations, which was to "police" the world and by virtue of the moral pressure which its combined membership would exert, aggressive nations out of unjustifiable war.

And to further put an end to the causes of war, they divided Europe up into a lot of little nations having like racial and language ties, and took away the colonies of Germany.

Many people thought at the time that the scheme for permanent peace would not work. The United States declined to be a party to it. Time has proved that the efforts of the statesmen who met at Versailles were impractical. The League has been unable to preserve the peace of the world.

Few competent observers believe that the recent meeting between Germany, Italy, France and England has had any more effect on the outlook for permanent peace than to give the democracies, England and France, a breathing spell in which to bring their armaments up to the point where they can hold their own against the dictator powers.

Most students of the situation believe that the aggressor nations have their eyes on America as well as on the democracies of Europe. A realistic view of the outlook leads to the conclusion that our own safety lies in equipping ourselves to meet force with force, if need be.

The time to enlarge our navy, strengthen our coast defenses, increase our fighting air force and equip our army is now, before the fighting starts.

Motorists! Thinking about one thing while doing another causes accidents.

HOW the RED CROSS SERVES the NATION

FLOOD HAVOC—Unprecedented rains brought dry river beds to flood stage in Southern California, and Red Cross aided thousands of persons whose homes were swept away, as shown here.

STAND BY FOR RESCUE—A trained First Aider in Red Cross Highway First Aid Station prepared to aid injured.

A DAY BRIGHTENED—Red Cross nurse's visit to a shut-in brings healing touch.

A YEAR'S RECORD

July 1, 1937—June 30, 1938

Minor disasters were unusually frequent; 102 tornadoes, floods, and other catastrophes brought the Red Cross into action to feed, clothe, give medical care and rehabilitate 93,000 people.

War veterans and their dependents, numbering 220,000, aided during the year.

Men in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, numbering 35,000, helped in personal and family problems.

Safety in water sports, and first aid in accidents extended through training 82,000 Life Savers and 276,000 First Aiders. Fight against deaths from motor accidents extended through 2,265 Highway First Aid Stations.

Public Health Nurses visited a million sick persons; examined 610,000 children.

How to care for the sick in the home and guard the family's health taught 55,000 persons, through Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick courses.

Volunteers made 520,000 garments for disaster victims and the needy; brailled and printed 720,000 pages for the blind.

School children, numbering 9,000,000, enrolled in Junior Red Cross for service.

Your membership in the Red Cross supports the work. Join during the annual Roll Call.

CHEERING THE SICK—Class in instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick shows simple ways to ease the pain of the invalid.

HELPING HANDS—Thousands of women volunteers make possible Red Cross services; Norman H. Davis, new Chairman of Red Cross, thanks a group of loyal workers.

LIFE SAVING—Girls in Red Cross life saving class learn how life can be saved to drown persons.

YOUTH SERVES—Junior Red Cross boys and girls view nations on world map where children cooperate for good will.

HOME—Red Cross for safe falls support group.
