WINTERING IN FLORIDA

The Wisconsin farmers' interest in the foreign market is not that they expect to sell their products in these markets but rather that unless these markets are kept open, American farmers who have been selling in them will turn to the production of products that will be offered on domestic markets in competition with the products of the dairy areas.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE KEWASKUM STATESMAN.

Wife's Death From Burns Brings Suit

Fred Wollert of the town of Osceola, Fond du Lac county, a resident of Kewaskum several years ago, has brought suit against John Shanks, Dundee general storekeeper, and the Sinclair Refining company for $25,250. Illegal mixing of gasoline or some other explosive substance with kerosene he purchased is charged in the suit which was filed in circuit court at Fond du Lac and has been transferred to federal court at Milwaukee.

Wollert has been named special administrator of the estate of his wife, Teresa Wollert, who died on Nov. 24, 1937, from burns alleged to have been sustained when the fluid she was using to start a stove fire exploded. The complaint alleges that Mr. Wollert had bought two gallons of kerosene, supplied by the Sinclair firm from the Shanks store. Part of it was transferred to a gallon can, which exploded when Mrs. Wollert poured some on kindling to start a fire.

Judge C. F. Van Pelt, on petition of the Sinclair Co., approved removal of the case from circuit court at Fond du Lac to the United States district court for the eastern district. Shanks has filed a general denial to the counts in the complaint.

The explosion occurred at about 4:30 p. m. and Mrs. Wollert died at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, the same night, from burns to the arms, abdomen and limbs.

COUNTY PROGRESSIVES ATTEND MEET AT MADISON

Progressives from every corner of Wisconsin held an enthusiastic meeting at Madison Sunday afternoon and renewed their challenge to the reactionary forces of the state. The defeat of last Tuesday failed to dampen the hopes of the liberal forces, but rather, it seems to have revived in them the fighting spirit of the early progressive movement.

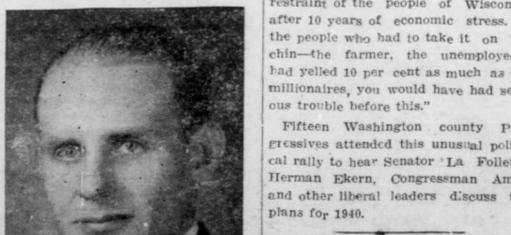

Governor La Follette brought the 600 persons present to their feet when he stated:

"I have profound admiration for the restraint of the people of Wisconsin after 10 years of economic stress. If the people who had to take it on the chin—the farmer, the unemployed—had yelled 10 per cent as much as the millionaires, you would have had serious trouble before this."

Fifteen Washington county Progressives attended this unusual political rally to hear Senator La Follette, Herman Ebern, Congressman Amlie and other liberal leaders discuss the plans for 1940.

Wayne Farmer Found Dead; Others Pass On

August Kell, 69, who resides on a farm five miles west of Wayne Center, in the town of Wayne, was found dead near the porch of his home at noon on Tuesday, Nov. 15, as the result of a stroke. The body was discovered by a Fond du Lac bakery deliveryman, who has a route in that neighborhood.

County Coroner H. Meyer Lynch of West Bend, who investigated the death, and relatives of Mr. Kell, believe that he died the preceding evening, Monday, Nov. 14, about 6 p. m. upon returning from Allenton with neighbors. The coroner decided to hold no inquest.

According to Coroner Lynch Mr. Kell apparently was walking from the car of the neighbors to his house as they drove away to their farm, and, when reaching the porch he suffered a stroke, collapsed as he stood on the porch, and fell off the same to the ground. The porch is about four feet above the ground. Mr. Kell was found lying on his face on the ground the next noon by the deliveryman.

Mr. Kell, who was engaged in farming for about 45 years, was born in Germany Oct. 21, 1869. When he came to this country he first settled in the town of Herman, Dodge county, where he remained until 1898. He then moved to the town of Wayne and came to his present home in that township in 1917.

Deceased was married to Miss Margaret Benedum of the town of Wayne. She predeceased him 12 years ago. Surviving are a son, Arnold J. Kell on the homestead; two brothers, Herman and Ferdinand Kell of the town of Wayne; a sister, Miss Alma Kell of the town of Wayne, and two grandchildren, Verma and Milan Kell.

Funeral services are being held at 1:30 p. m. today, Friday, Nov. 18, from the Ritger Funeral parlors in Allenton and at 2 p. m. at the Lutheran church in the town of Wayne. The Rev. Redlin is to officiate. Interment is to take place in the church cemetery.

Mr. Kell was a widely known and esteemed man whose memory will long be cherished by those near and dear to him. It is to them we extend our heartfelt condolences.

Local Team Getting Set For Land o' Lakes Opener

At an organization meeting of the Kewaskum basketball club held at Eberle's sports headquarters last Tuesday evening, 16 players were present, out of which number 12 signed up to join the team for the coming season.

Kewaskum has again entered the fastest home talent organization in the state, the Land o' Lakes league, and will compete in the northern division of this circuit, along with the following teams: Port Washington State, Okauchee, Muskego, Grafton, Hartford and Menomonee Falls. Campbellsport and Allenton are also seeking a berth in this division.

An election of officers was held and all of last season's officials of the local club were retained. They are Lloyd Hron, president; George Koerbie, secretary, and Paul Landmann, treasurer. Lyle Gibson, coach of the school team, was appointed to fulfill a similar position with the village team. Lyle will also play with the team.

Kewaskum will also have a B team to play the preliminary games. The first practice was held on Thursday evening in the school gym in preparation for the opening league game only two weeks off. The local team should be a strong contender in the Lakes circuit having all of last year's veterans back in the fold.

The Lakes league will begin the season with a record entry of teams. Besides the above mentioned teams there will be a southern division of the league, composed of Brookfield, Sussex, North Lake Stapletons, Pewaukee, Hartland, Watertown Wacketts and Waukesha C.Y.O. The Land o' Lakes circuit will also be divided into two divisions, six teams in each.

Both divisions of the Lakes league will play an 18 game schedule, starting Friday, Dec. 1. The schedule will be announced later. The Lakes winners in each division last season were Watertown and Mayville.

Doors of the garage were closed and the motor of the car was running when he was found. Despondency is believed to have prompted his act. After conducting an investigation, Dr. A. C. Florin, Fond du Lac county coroner, said that there would be no inquest.

Deceased was born in the town of Osceola May 21, 1910, son of the late Edwin and Olivia Pieper. Surviving are two brothers, Arnold and Erhardt of Fond du Lac and three sisters, Mrs. Leo Gatzke and Leona Pieper of Fond du Lac and Elsie Pieper of Campbellsport.

The 33rd annual convention and trade exhibition of the Wisconsin Implement Dealers' association terminated its 3-day convention in the Milwaukee auditorium with a banquet served to 500 dealers and their wives at the Hotel Pfister in that city on Thursday evening of last week. Arthur W. Koch, local member of the association for years, reported a successful convention.

L. P. Rosenheimer of Kewaskum, also a member since the association started, and an officer, acted as toastmaster at the banquet and had the honor of introducing governor-elect Julius P. Heil, who addressed those assembled. Jim Murphy of the Murphy Products company of Burlington, also gave an educational and interesting talk. A floor show and dance followed.

Approximately sixty manufacturers showed the latest improved farm machines and farm equipment. The show is recognized as one of the largest exhibitions of farm equipment in the United States. A COMPLIMENTARY LETTER FROM ONE OF OUR READERS

The following letter was received by the Statesman office from Atty. Clyde J. Schloemer of West Bend at the close of the recent political campaign, for which we are indeed grateful to Mr. Schloemer. We feel that the worthy letter well deserves to appear before the public and we hope you will excuse us for "tooting our own horn" a wee bit. The letter:

Kewaskum Statesman,
Kewaskum, Wis.
Gentlemen:

I want to take this opportunity of complimenting your paper on the generous space you have given to news of interest to the liberal people in your territory. I am certain that you are conducting your paper in the manner that people expect all papers to be conducted. People expect editors to state their opinions in their editorials, but they also expect that the editor will be impartial in his presentation of news items. Too many papers show their partisanship in the amount of space they give to news items affecting various interests.

I hope that I can in some way show my appreciation of your good newspaper work during this most important campaign.

Yours very sincerely,
C. J. Schloemer

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"At Terror's Door"

HELLO EVERYBODY: Another good way to find adventure is to go around ringing doorbells looking for it. And who rings more doorbells than a house-to-house canvasser? Olga McComie of Astoria, N. Y., can tell you all about that. On a day in April, 1936, when the wolf was howling around the door and there weren't any other jobs to be had, Olga tried her hand at canvassing, and for a week she went around pushing bell buttons, receiving some pleasant greetings, some scowls, some angry outbursts, and having a good many doors slammed in her face.

Monday was the toughest day of the whole bunch, she says. Well—Monday always seems to be a bad day. People are usually cross on the blue day after the week-end, and this morning was no exception. In two whole blocks, Olga hadn't taken a single order. Discouragement was taking hold of her. She walked into a block where only one house stood, shaded by rows of trees and surrounded by patches of growing vegetables.

Disregarded "Beware of Dog" Sign.

That house looked inviting. Olga was sure she'd get an order there. Disregarding a sign that said, "Beware of the dog," she opened the gate, went down a board walk, and finally came to the front door. There was no doorbell in sight. Olga knocked. No answer.

But canvassers know that "No answer" doesn't always mean no one is home. Olga knocked again—and when that didn't bring any reply she reached over and tapped lightly on the window pane. Suddenly a gruff voice came from within. "What do you want?" a man growled.

He looked more like a gorilla than a human.

At the same time Olga heard heavy footsteps walking toward the door. But before they reached it—before the door opened—she heard a low, throaty snarl behind her and felt something tugging at her skirt and coat.

Huge Beast Was Ready to Spring.

Olga turned—and almost let out a scream. At her side, pulling at her clothing, was a dog almost as big as herself. It bared its fangs and snapped at her and then crouched, as if getting ready to spring. That sign reading, "Beware of the dog," hadn't been the idle bluff Olga had taken it for.

Olga's eyes turned toward the door of the house in frantic appeal. Would it open? Would the owner come out before his dog had torn her to pieces. It seemed to Olga as though he'd never get there. The dog let out another growl and crouched lower. Then the door did open—and Olga didn't know which she was more afraid of, the man or the dog.

The man was big and frightful, with dark whiskers, a stubby growth of hair on his jowls and the dirtiest clothes Olga had ever seen in her life. Olga says he looked more like a gorilla than a human being, but he snapped at the dog and the dog slunk away to the rear of the house.

Olga looked down at her clothes. Her coat and dress were both torn. Her sample case was on the ground and samples of soap, lotions and perfumes were strewn right and left. With shaking hands she started to pick them up. The man glared at her and bellowed, "Well, what are you selling, anyway?"

Gave Her a Big Order.

Olga told him in a voice that trembled. Then she got her second big shock of the day. The man sat down and ordered four dollars' worth of her goods—the biggest order she had had yet.

Olga's coat and dress were torn and she'd had a terrible fright—but she had an order, too—and a good start for the day. She heaved a contented sigh and started down the wooden path toward the gate. She had just reached the gate when she met a woman, her arms loaded with bundles, coming in. The woman gave her a hard, hostile look. "Well, what do you want here?" she asked.

Olga did her best to smile. "Good morning, ma'am," she began. "I'm selling—"

"Never mind what you're selling," the woman snapped. "I don't want any of it." She brushed past Olga and started for the house, but half way up the walk she stopped and called back, "Say, were you at the door?"

Olga thought she'd better not mention the order the man had given her. The woman was apparently the old fellow's wife and she might change his mind about all that soap and perfume he had bought. So she said, "Yes, I was at the door—and that dog of yours almost scared me to death."

Man Was "Stark Crazy."

The woman sniffed. "Humph," she said. "It's a wonder you wouldn't pay some attention to that sign we've got posted. And not only the dog, but it's a wonder you didn't get killed by that madman. He's off his mind—stark crazy. I just called on the drug store telephone for an ambulance."

Olga could feel her legs getting weak under her. The dog had been the least of her troubles. She had been sitting and talking to a man who, if his mood had changed, might have murdered her. And what about the goods she had sold him? From the back of her memory came the thought that a contract signed by an insane person was void. Was her prize sale—her first sale of the day—going to turn out to be a dud? She looked at the woman. "But he just gave me an order," she stammered.

"Oh, he did, did he," snapped the woman. "Well, if you want to deliver that order you'll have to take it to Bellevue or the Island, because that's where he's going." And with that the woman turned and stamped into the house.

So, if you're looking for adventure, boys and girls, get a job as a canvasser. You might even make a bit of money at it, too. But you won't if all your customers are like the one Olga McComie ran into in the little tree-shaded house at the end of the board walk down the block.

THERE comes a letter from a reader ordering both of the sewing books offered below. She says, "I have to smile when people tell me it does not pay to sew. Recently I had a regular spree of doing over the living room. I spent $10.35 for materials. The sewing machine and I did the rest. Here is what the ten thirty-five bought. New slipcovers for the davenport and two chairs, chintz curtains for three windows, a new ottoman and a lamp shade. The slipcover for the davenport alone would have cost fifteen dollars if made outside."

It now seems that there is a need for more color in the newly decorated living room. The curtains are very gay but the new slipcovers rather neutral. Why not repeat some of the curtain colors with bright cushions? A clever girl I know saves the good parts of old silk dresses and blouses and buys remnants of bright silks and ribbons for this purpose. Her pillows are always most professional looking. If contrasting pieces are joined, she uses covered cords in the seams and contrasting cordings and neat little frills around the edges to repeat the strongest tones in the room. In this way many different kinds of material may be brought into harmony. I have sketched for you here some of the smart tricks that help to give cushions a well-tailored look.

George May Not See Practical Way to Sew

"George, go find me a clothes prop," ordered the good wife, busy with her washing.

The husband found one he thought suitable, but it had no fork at the top for holding the line, so he asked his neighbor, a Scotsman, to lend him a step-ladder.

"I want to get to the top of the prop to cut a 'V' in it," he explained.

His friend looked at him with disdain.

"Ye are th' kind o' mon that gets some folks a name for being daft," he grumbled. "What ye want a step-ladder for to cut a 'V' in th' prop? Haven't ye th' sense to lean it against the side of the house an' cut it w' a pair o' th' bedroom window?"

Ideal Woman Is Matter of Man's Taste

By PATRICIA LINDSAY
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

EVERY man cherishes in his heart a vision of an Ideal Woman. Naturally this woman is beautiful! Beautiful according to his individual estimate of feminine loveliness. She is usually a vision of perfect contour, lovely stature. Her skin is fresh and radiant and her hair is lustrous. Her hands are soft and capable while her eyes sparkle with vitality and silent wisdom!

Yes, Man's Ideal Woman is a composite of all beauty and all the feminine graces. Not only does her physical beauty satisfy his eye, but her voice is music to his ears. The quality of her mind intrigues him, and her soul—that intangible something every person possesses—is his inspiration.

Men currently are favoring the more feminine type of Olivia de Havilland. Her physical beauty and gracious personality make her alluringly charming in the eyes of the modern man. She comes close to being his ideal woman.

Through life, Man seeks this creature of divine loveliness. For her he lives, works and plans. This Ideal Woman is the animating power behind progress and activity, and the closer you resemble her the more joyous and abundant will be your life!

If you wish for love, admiration, success, happiness—Be beautiful! Delight in the joy of feminine power which comes from the knowledge that you are a creature of charm and that your personality is compelling!

Analyze Your Beauty Assets

Success in whatever you desire from life lies in your determination to make the most of yourself—to glorify your birthright!

So many women give up too easily. Just because they were not born with permanent waves in their hair, or with legs like the famous Dietrich's, they let themselves grow discouraged. They don't take time to analyze their own beauty assets.

Perhaps a woman has a crooked nose which causes her no end of dismay. But her voice might be so beautifully pitched that by concentrating on it she could so fascinate others that they wouldn't be aware of the crooked nose! Impossible? Not at all!

Every woman is born with some physical beauty and a few compelling characteristics. The Perfect Woman does not exist. Each woman should strive to accent her good points and to dim her less glamorous ones. She who does that successfully comes near to being one man's Ideal Woman. The art of keeping the external you beautiful, and the inner you lovely at the same time, is worth striving for. Look around you. Isn't the woman who has mastered that art getting pretty much what she wants from life?

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

Most of us have some opportunity for getting out-of-doors and being active one way or the other—playing games, being interested in a sport for exercise, gardening, or bicycling. There are numerous ways to work off that excess poundage and bring your measurements down to appealing lines.

If you are not active out-of-doors in games or sports, then you must do daily calisthenics, preferably in the open air, simple corrective ones planned for the particular parts of your body which you wish to proportion nicely.

Stretching Man's Lifetime

A French anthropologist credits civilization with stretching man's lifetime far beyond that nature allowed under wild conditions. The average man can expect to live about sixty years. For women the average lifetime is sixty-four. In other words, the average person lives longer than the longest-lived humans in the good old Stone age.

Growth of Norway Pine

A Norway pine tree 35 years old will average about 7 inches in diameter at breast height; under average conditions such a tree will be about 40 feet high.

Origin of Term 'Poet Laureate'

The laurel tree in ancient Greece was considered sacred to Apollo, patron of poets. It was the custom to crown poets who had won distinction with a wreath of laurel and thus the word laureate came to mean honored or eminent.

C. Houston Goudiss Describes the Body's Vital Need for Vitamin C; Names Most Significant Sources of This Substance

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

OF ALL the vitamins that should be included in the diet every day, none, perhaps, is more important, nor more frequently provided inadequately, than vitamin C.

There are, I believe, two reasons for this. First, unlike some of the other vitamins, vitamin C is not stored by the body, so that it is impossible to build up a reserve supply.

In order to maintain top health, it therefore must be furnished in the diet every day. Second, the C vitamin is more easily destroyed than some of the others, for it is oxidized upon exposure to the air, and is usually partially destroyed in cooking. That accounts for the well-known rule that it is usually desirable to include in the daily diet some raw foods, such as cabbage or citrus fruits. The rule may be waived, however, when tomato juice or cranberry sauce are included in the menu. For careful experiments have determined that, because of their high acid content, these two foods retain their vitamin C to a remarkable degree, when commercially canned or when cooked quickly in the home.

until today we know that the substance which prevents the disease is vitamin C.

May Retard Growth in Children

It has also been noted that many cases of latent scurvy can be found among children and adults in all walks of life. It has been determined, for example, that many children who are restless, irritable, or retarded in growth are in reality suffering from a deficiency of vitamin C.

When deprived of this vitamin, experimental animals develop swollen, tender joints, sore jaws and spongy, bleeding gums, while the teeth become loosened and assume irregular positions. Hemorrhages may occur almost anywhere in the body, due to capillary weakness, and are particularly common in the kidneys, intestines, bone marrow, under the skin, in the muscles and adrenal glands. Indeed, one of the most interesting of all the discoveries concerning vitamin C was made with guinea pigs. It was observed that in a healthy animal, the adrenal glands are rich in vitamin C, while in a scorbutic animal, they contain practically none.

Pyorrhea and Vitamin C
Many investigators have discovered that a deficiency of vitamin C causes profound changes, not only in the gums, but also in the enamel and dentine of the teeth. It has been suggested that pyorrhea may be associated directly with a vitamin C deficiency.

Sources of This Body Regulator
Vitamin C is produced by plants during their growth. It is found in juicy stems, bulbs, roots, tubers and fruits.

Outstanding among the fruits are the citrus family, including oranges, lemons and grapefruit; tomatoes and cranberries. Raw cabbage is a good source, as is watercress.

So important is vitamin C that one or more generous portions of a vitamin C-rich food should be consumed daily, preferably at every meal.

Orange and tomato juice have been used interchangeably for quite some time as a convenient and easily available source of vitamin C. In recent years, some experiments performed at a leading university have given a high ranking to cranberries on this score, so that they, too, may be ranked as a significant source of vitamin C.

These brilliant little red berries come into market in the fall—the very time when it is important to eat generously of fruits to fortify the body against fall and winter

Scurvy a Controllable Disease
Scurvy was thus prevented or cured in both children and adults, long before scientists learned that precious vitamin C is the controlling factor in this disease. And shortly after the turn of the century a systematic study was begun by scientists in both Europe and America to discover all the foods that possessed the almost magical power to prevent and cure this former scourge of mankind.

In the course of many painstaking investigations and brilliant discoveries, we have gradually increased our knowledge of scurvy ills. Their tart flavor helps to stimulate appetite and their fruit acids promote intestinal tone.

Neither the maturity nor variety of the fruit appears to have any influence on the vitamin content, and even when cooked, as whole fruit sauce, they retain from 75 to 80 per cent of the original vitamin C content of the fruit. Cranberries are also a fair source of vitamin A which is not impaired by cooking, and they contain iodine, iron, copper and manganese.

Because they are such a versatile fruit, cranberries can be utilized throughout the menu and at any meal. Thus orange and tomato juice may be varied at breakfast by serving a cranberry conserve, jelly or sauce, or a cranberry juice cocktail. For lunch or dinner, this same fruit may be served as an appetizer; with the meat course; or used to make a variety of attractive desserts.

If vitamin C-containing foods are included generously in the daily diet, the homemaker may well feel that she has provided her family with an important form of health insurance.

Questions Answered

A. F. G. Jr.—Green salads do play several important roles in the diet. They furnish bulk or cellulose, minerals, vitamins and water, and therefore help to balance a meal.

Mrs. F. C. L.—Most authorities now advise giving semi-solid foods to infants before the end of the first year. Usually the cereals, vegetables, and fruit pulps are carefully strained so that they are finely divided and free from harsh particles which would irritate a baby's delicate digestive tract.

How to Stretch Soap.—To make your laundry soap last longer, unwrap it as soon as you buy it and pile the cakes loosely in a dry place so they'll dry. Hard soap goes farther than soft.

For Soiled Suede Shoes and Belts.—Clean with sawdust or bran, slightly warmed in the oven. Rub it over the surface with a clean, soft rag, and to raise the pile, rub gently afterwards with fine emery paper.

Choosing Poultry.—When you choose poultry see that the beak and claws of a fowl are soft, not stiff and horny. The bones of all young birds are soft.

Washing Chamois.—Wash chamois in tepid soapsuds. Use one or two changes of suds until the chamois is perfectly clean. Rinse in tepid water. Squeeze (do not wring) and hang in the sun. Snap it and pull it frequently until it is perfectly dry.

Watch Young Toes.—It's dangerous, especially for children, to have the feet of stockings too short; it may lead to foot deformities. Stockings should not be too large, either; they may form ridges that will cause painful blisters.

County Agent Notes

SOIL CONSERVATION MEETINGS
Local educational meetings to discuss the federal farm program will be held the first week in December. Further announcements concerning the meetings will be made in these news notes next week. Farmers interested in learning more about the principles of the farm program will be benefited by attending these meetings.

FREE TREES FOR REFORESTATION
The farmer who wishes to plant trees on a half acre or acre of ground can obtain 500 to 1000 two-year old evergreen seedlings free from the Wisconsin Conservation department. Applications are to be made with E. E. Skalsky, county agricultural agent. Applications for a limited number of three-year old transplants for wind break plantings are also being received now.

HOLSTEIN FIELDMAN TO VISIT COUNTY
Mr. E. M. Clark, fieldman for the National Holstein-Friesian association, is spending several days in the county visiting Holstein breeders and helping further the county's better sire plan. Are you familiar with this plan? If interested, write the county agricultural agent's office.

INTERNATIONAL LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION
Stockmen from 30 states and 4 Canadian provinces have sent entries for the 1938 International Live Stock Exposition. This largest annual showing of purebred and market stock will be held November 26 to December 3, in the new International Amphitheatre at the Chicago stock yards. This is an event well worthwhile seeing as more than 14,000 head of the finest live stock in the western hemisphere will be on parade.

FREE SOIL TESTING PROGRAM
Farmers wishing to have samples of soil from their farm fields tested for the necessary plant food elements may have this done for them by a WPA soil testing project set-up in the county agricultural agent's office. Ten thousand paper bags for collecting soil samples are being sent to the farmers of the county this week. Full directions for collecting the soil samples and labeling are printed on each bag. The soil samples may be taken to the court house or to a soil conservation committee member who will bring them to the extension office for testing.

POTATO MEETING FRIDAY
Today, Friday, Nov. 18, is the day when southeastern Wisconsin farmers are meeting to talk over potato problems. The meeting is being held in the community hall at Menomonee Falls. The program gives special attention to problems of the 1938 season and includes a full report on potato extension projects conducted in Wisconsin potato growing areas. The program began promptly at 10 o'clock this morning. The principal speakers are: J. G. Millward and J. W. Braun, potato specialists for the college of agriculture; C. J. Chapman, state soil specialist; E. L. Peterson, chief of the potato inspection service, and August Winkler, president of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association.

HOG CHOLERA ON INCREASE
Bearing down in an effort to curb the most serious hog cholera situation that has confronted Wisconsin hog handlers in more than a decade the state department of agriculture and markets has issued an important amendment to its regulations. "All hogs sold through sales barns must be immunized against hog cholera before sale," declares Dr. V. S. Larson, state veterinarian. "This regulation will protect buyers of feeder hogs from purchasing animals that have been exposed and might later develop the disease."

The practice of top dressing pastures with phosphates is receiving more and more attention today as it is realized that this element is just as important for pasture plants as for crop plants. Legumes especially need an ample supply.

The kind of milk which is used for pasteurization is more important than the changes which may occur during the process of pasteurization. The important problem is that of producing a milk of high nutritive quality the year around.

A WORD TO ALL MOTORISTS

Shorter daylight hours and poorer visibility due to rain, snow and fog demand increased care in fall and winter driving.

Poor vision at night during a heavy rain was blamed for the death of a 11-year-old boy in eastern Wisconsin the first week in November. The boy was struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle.

Power cars are on the roads at night, yet fatal accidents are more tragic and more numerous; night time than during the day. The effect of glaring headlights can be lessened if the windshield is kept clean. Pedestrians can be seen better also.

Never drive faster than your eyes can see. Light rays from your headlights cannot bend around curves or over hills. Avoid looking into approach, long headlights, dim your own, keep well to the right and watch your side of the road. Even though your headlights are excellent, at times you won't be able to see clearly more than 100 feet ahead.

When visibility is poor, drive slowly. To avoid hitting a pedestrian or colliding with another vehicle at night, be intelligently afraid of the dark.

If less than 86 persons lose their lives in traffic accidents during November this year, Wisconsin will have a record of decreasing automobile deaths every month for 12 months straight.

During the first 10 months this year 233 lives have been saved. From January through October last year 729 persons were killed, compared to 496 during the same period this year.

Persons walking on the streets and highways are adding more to traffic fatalities this year than other single class. Blame cannot be thrown upon the motorist alone. Investigations have revealed that often a person has met death by walking out from behind a parked car, by crossing an intersection diagonally or by not walking on the proper side of the highway, facing oncoming traffic.

The pedestrian in many cases is hit while crossing the street or highway near his own home. It's not unusual to find that failure to exercise ordinary care brought death to a mother "as she walked home from a neighborhood store," to an aged man "while enjoying his customary evening walk," to a woman "as she walked across the highway to a mailbox to secure her copy of the evening paper."

Youngsters often meet with disaster because they run into moving cars while trying to cross the street at the wrong place. Last year 56 children were killed outside cars. Drivers must look out for them, because they easily may forget to be careful in their excitement at play.

Wisconsin News Briefly Told

Cannot Regulate Hunting—Attorney General Loomis has advised the state conservation department that town boards do not have the power to prohibit or regulate hunting.

Pine Trees Stolen—Authorities are seeking trace of thieves who stole 50 Norway pine trees from the Solon Springs forest in Douglas county. The trees were seven to eight years old.

Demanded Holiday—More than 600 of the 1,300 pupils of William Horlick high school in Racine staged a brief strike in protest of classes on Armistice day. They returned to their studies after a plea by the principal.

Former Badger Wins—C. A. Bottolfsen, who was elected governor of Idaho on the Republican ticket, is a former resident of Superior. He left Wisconsin 23 years ago, shortly after his graduation from high school.

Drills 815-foot Well—Edward Pamperin, a farmer near Allenton, Waukesha county, is now drawing water from an 815-foot well, which took seven months to drill. It was necessary to cut through 250 feet of rock and drilling cost was $2,500.

Plan College Remodeling—Historic "Old Middle" building at Beloit college is to be completely remodeled in the near future, according to plans of college officials. The cornerstone of the structure, which now houses administrative offices, was laid in 1847.

Cheesemakers Elect—Earl G. Whiting of Gillett was reelected president of the Wisconsin Cheesemakers' association at the annual convention in Milwaukee. Others reelected were L. E. Kopitzke, Marion, vice president; C. J. Ebert, Gresham, secretary, and W. R. Schmidt, Sheboygan Falls, treasurer.

Connor Strike Settled—Eight months of bitter labor strife at the Connor lumber plant in Laona came to an end as the Connor Lumber and Land company and the AFL and CIO unions signed a settlement agreement. It is stipulated that 80 CIO strikers are to be restored to their jobs. The Laona mill is now operating at full force with approximately 350 men employed.

$858,875 for State Farmers—The state agricultural conservation committee has announced that Wisconsin farmers are to receive $858,875 for cooperating with the AAA in the 1938 conservation program. A total of 8,050 had been distributed up to Nov. 10 and an additional 9,050 signed applications have been certified for payment by the state office. The payments will average $47 per farm.

Phil to Julius—In a telegram to Governor-elect Julius P. Heil, Gov. Phil F. La Follette, who was defeated in his fourth term aspirations, said: "The voters of this state have indicated clearly their desire for a change in administration. The identical, vital differences on issues and policies that separated us during the campaign remain the same today. But I wish you personally good health and happiness. I assure you that if I can be of assistance to you in assuming your new responsibilities, you have only to call on me."

Slaying Ends Old Quarrel—John L. Pettigill, 40, member of a pioneer family of Bayfield county, was shot to death in his home at Iron River by Albin Burquist, 61, of Ashland, who claimed that he had been swindled out of a $100 Liberty bond. Burquist, who confessed the shooting to the Bayfield county sheriff, called at the Pettigill home and demanded money for the bond, which had been held in the defunct Iron River bank operated by the Pettigill family until about 15 years ago. When told that he had no money coming, Burquist shot Pettigill in the head eleven times with a revolver.

State GOP in Saddle—When Governor-elect Julius P. Heil takes over the reins of Wisconsin government on Jan. 7, he will have advantages over the other Republican governor has enjoyed in recent years. The Republican victory at the polls gives that party 54 of the 100 seats in the state assembly and 16 of the 33 senate seats, which will be a working majority in both houses of the legislature. The new administration will have the further advantage of being able to function with Republicans dominating Wisconsin's representation in congress for the first time in many years. During the terms of Emanuel L. Phillip and Walter J. Kohler, those Republican governors were surrounded with supporters of the La Follette wing of their party, but in addition to having legislative control, Heil can work in thorough harmony with other elected state officials, all of whom are Republicans except John E. Martin, a Democrat, who was nominated for attorney general as a Coalitionist and elected on the Republican ticket. Heil soon will participate in the biennial budget hearing at Madison to help in deciding how much money the state government shall spend during the forthcoming two years. Under the budget law, the incoming governor conducts the hearings upon which he will base his budget recommendations to the legislature and it is required that these hearings be held between elections and the beginning of the new year. Heil also plans a tour of state institutions before he takes office.

Honey Tests Made in Hungary—Crossed flower honey gathered from the most fragrant flowers is found to have an extremely high sugar content. This was determined by experiments conducted in Hungary.

Highest East of Mississippi—Mount Mitchell, in the Black mountains of Yancey county, North Carolina, 6,884 feet above sea level, is the highest point of land in the United States east of the Mississippi river.

Tides Cut Earth's Rotary Speed—The tides traveling from east to west act as brakes on the earth's speed to east revolutions. It is estimated that they provide a braking power equivalent to 20,000,000 horsepower.

Comb Honey Best Known—Comb honey is probably the best known type since it was used before methods for extraction were invented. It is, as the name indicates, honey in the comb as stored by the bees.

Prisoners Stage Robbery—Two "trusty" prisoners in the Manitowish county jail have been identified as the robbers of a Two Rivers tavern keeper, who was badly beaten and relieved of $28. It is charged that the men slipped away from the jail yard, staged the robbery and returned to be locked up before the crime was reported.

THE MORAL

The local minister and his wife were discussing two ex-parishioners who were in the news. "I knew them both as boys. One was a clever, handsome fellow; the other was a steady, hard worker. The clever lad was left behind in the race of life, but the hard worker—well, he died and left sixty thousand dollars to his widow. It's a great moral."

Few of His Size

The fat man was trying to find some tropical clothes in the Far South resort. He tried most every store in town, and patient clerks had politely made a pretence of looking over their stock and advising him they were just out of his size. Finally he ran across a clerk more truthful than diplomatic, who, after looking him over, said: "Frankly, mister, we carry nothing in stock that would fit you except collar buttons and handkerchiefs."

FOILED AGAIN

Bug—Oh shucks, this glacier is so cold and slippery we'll never reach the top.

WELL, WELL!

Absolutely desperate, Jones went to see his doctor. "Doctor," he said, "I simply don't know what to do. I can't get any sleep." "What's the trouble?" asked the doctor briskly. "Snoring," said Jones. "I snore so loudly that I even wake myself." The doctor suspected a leg-pull. "There is only one thing to be done," he replied. "Change your room so that you will not hear yourself."—London Answers magazine.

Just Askin'!

The funeral procession was moving along the village street when Uncle Abe stepped out of a store. He hadn't heard the news. "Who they buryin' today?" he asked. "Poor old Tite Harrison," said the storekeeper. "Tite Harrison, eh? Is Tite dead?" "You don't think we're rehearsing with him, do you?" snapped the storekeeper.

No Risk

A man took his little girl up to his golf club, and she accompanied him around the course. After some time, a player addressing the father of the child, said: "Don't you think it's rather risky for your little girl around here?" "Oh, no," was the reply. "You see, she's had measles, and it's left her rather deaf."—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

Wisdom Lingers

"Papa, I want to get married." "No, my boy, you are not wise enough." "When will I be wise enough?" "When you get over the idea that you want to get married."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HER FAMILY TIES

Mrs. Homebody—There goes Mrs. Gadd. She seems to take more pride in her Scotty than in her own children. Mrs. Knosit—But, my dear, her dog's sire is a blue ribbon winner. And you just ought to see her husband!

Estimating Approval

"Do you favor votes for women?" "What's the use of asking a question like that?" exclaimed Farmer Cortnessel, "I don't exactly favor thunder and lightning, but I've got to admire the impartial accuracy with which they sometimes perform."

Wrong One

"Were you presented in court when you were in England?" "Yes, and had to pay a $10 fine."—Pathfinder magazine.

Just Noticed

"The office boys at our place had a sitdown strike for three weeks last month." "A sitdown strike for three weeks? Goodness, why didn't you settle it sooner?" "Because it was that long before we realized they were striking!"

Days Are Days

Wanda—Do you think it unlucky to marry on Friday? Sally—Why should Friday be an exception.—Pathfinder magazine.

Horse Sense About Winter Oil Change

Cold weather creates new problems in lubrication. To overcome damaging wear, the motor oil must possess three essential characteristics: (1) low cold test to assure quick easy starts (2) ability to lubricate at all driving speeds (3) durability to stand up for reasonable mileage. Curiously enough these requirements are contradictory in that to assure one factor it is very easy to unbalance another.

The only safe rule to follow in preparing your car for Winter is to buy the very best motor oil, Acid-Free Quaker State.

The refiners of Quaker State were pioneers in developing motor oils for Winter use. Today in four great modern refineries the most modern equipment and methods transform the finest Pennsylvania grade crude into motor oils which make automobiles, trucks and tractors run better, last longer, and save money.

The low cold test of Quaker State Winter Oil assures smooth easy starts. Its purity frees you of worry about sludge, carbon and corrosion. Its ability to stand up is unequalled... you go farther before you need to add a quart.

It is merely commonsense to practice economy. And the accumulated experience of car manufacturers, engineers, and motor car owners proves that the use of high quality motor oil is genuine economy. It is conservatively estimated by authorities that 80 to 90 per cent of all repairs to an automobile are caused by faulty or incorrect lubrication.

A wise man once said: "It takes 12 months and sometimes longer to correct a mistake on a farm." Just so, five minutes running with the wrong oil in the engine of your car the first cold morning this Winter can cause more wear and damage than all the miles you drove this past Summer.

Play safe with your motor investment. Ask your dealer to prepare your car for Winter with Acid-Free Quaker State Winter Oil of the proper grade for your community.—Adv.

I suggested that you might like to discuss it with him—if you haven't anything else in mind for the summer.

"Indeed I would!" "Oh, yes," Kelsey came out of his reverie with a start. "Here is the section I've been talking about to the doctor." Kelsey shifted a large map so that Dale might observe it more easily.

In terse sentences he explained that he and several associates were interested in a group of claims. Kelsey and two of the others had made a trip into the country shortly before the snow fell.

"We were coming out along the Missinabi shed—about here. While I was cruising a bit on my own," the engineer continued, "I picked up some pieces of float that interested me. They didn't come from any outcropping that I could locate. But I would give a good deal to know exactly where they did come from. Doctor Payne has just verified one of my guesses. What do you think of this?"

Kelsey took a fragment of quartz from his vest pocket and laid it on the map. Dale examined it closely with the aid of a glass that lay near his hand.

"My guess would be that it isn't metallic sulphide." Kelsey sent a quick glance at Payne.

"You've taught him to be cagey. I see. You're right, young man. That's no pyrites you're looking at. It's the real thing. If you can show me where it came from originally, probably be hearing from me. Payne has my address. He might even give me a recommendation."

"I wish I could tell you how much I appreciate this, Mr. Kelsey."

"That's all right. I wouldn't be surprised if you and I might hit it off pretty well. We'll see."

CHAPTER XII

Some three days later, Pinckney Mulgrew was interrupted during the washing of his luncheon dishes by an insistent ringing of the parsonage doorbell. Muttering dark threats, in case the caller proved to be a book agent, the house man wriggled into his jacket and patterned to answer the summons.

Dale stood before him, suitcase in hand and smiling broadly. "For the love of Mike!" Pink shrieked unbelievably. "Kid! Where'd you blow from?"

"Phillie and points west," the traveler laughed, seizing the little man's hand with a crushing grip. "Is father here?"

"Sure. Sure. He's upstairs. Got a funeral or somethin' on. You'd'a missed him in a minute. Didn't get thrown out, did you?"

"Not a chance." Dale already was bounding up the stairs. "Tell you later," he called back over his shoulder.

Jonathan Farwell had heard the voices and was in the upper hall, one of his arms thrust into the sleeve of his long black coat.

"Dale! This is a surprise!" His

"You see, I've never had a real job," Dale explained modestly to Kelsey when the subject came up.

it will do me a lot of good. You, too."

"You mean, sir, that you are going to try and locate the outcropping if there is one?" "I am not. But I'm thinking very seriously of turning somebody out on a still hunt. And somebody who has a reputation for not talking, I think I would prefer a man who doesn't know the territory and who isn't known there. The doctor here thinks you might fill the bill. Would you care to consider it?"

"I'd be glad to." "Then I think you and I had better talk it over a little more. If you are not busy after dinner, drop over to my hotel. You'll find me at the Hawkeye. About nine, say."

"I'll be glad to, Mr. Kelsey. And thank you very much."

"What do you think of him, Wade?" Payne inquired as the door closed behind Dale.

"He might be the chap I'm looking for," Kelsey mused, still staring at the door. "John, do you know his background?"

"I can't say that I do. His father is a minister, I believe. Lives somewhere in the East."

"How much should I offer him?" "I shall be rather surprised if he doesn't leave that to you."

"This surmise of Payne proved correct."

"You see, I've never had a real job," Dale explained modestly to Kelsey when the subject came up during their talk at the hotel. "If you think I can handle the work, I'd much rather let you decide what it is worth. Whatever it is, I'll try to earn it."

"And I think I'll take the chance," Kelsey decided swiftly. "We can thrash out the details when the time comes. There are a few things, however, we'd better go into. I suppose you don't want to leave here until your work is finished."

"I would rather not."

"When will that be?" "About the first week in June, I think."

"We ought to make it earlier. However, let's figure on that. You should plan to come direct to Minneapolis to see me. Start from there. Just where do you live?"

"In New Jersey. Locust Hill."

"Then you'll have to come straight up, I think. We'll outfit you and all that. You'll go in by way of Fort William and lose very little time. Can you do that?"

hand came out. "I trust nothing is wrong."

"No, sir! Everything's as right as can be. Father, I was going to wire you, then I thought I'd surprise you instead. I've got a job!" he announced exultantly.

"You mean that you have left the university?"

"Oh, no. But I have to report as soon as school's over and I won't have a chance to get back here. So I thought I would run out for a few days and tell you."

"That is news. Where are you going?" Farwell glanced at his watch.

"Hudson Bay—or not far from there. Pink said something about your going out."

"Yes, I have a funeral this afternoon. I am afraid I must leave now."

"Who's dead? Anybody I know?" "Miss Emmons. The burial is to take place in the country and I will be away most of the afternoon. Perhaps you will go with me."

Dale's face fell. His father must know that he had to see Lee the first minute he could.

"I don't believe I can manage this," he began hesitatingly. "You see..."

"Quite," Farwell answered shortly. "Perhaps you will arrange to be here for dinner with me."

"Why, of course I will, Father. I'm anxious to tell you all about it."

Dale followed his father down to the door feeling a trifle conscious-stricken at this turn of events. Too bad. But to spend the afternoon at a funeral—Lee didn't even know he was in town. He must call her at once and arrange to see her.

"Can you stick around here long enough to let a guy in on the excitement?" Pink demanded from the rear of the hall, as soon as he heard the receiver click in its bracket.

"Sure! I'm not going out for an hour. You don't happen to have a slab of cake that I could worry with before I clean up, do you?"

"Cake? How do you get that way? A cake lasts two weeks instead of two days when you're gone. I'll rattle one together this afternoon, if I haven't forgot how. How'd a piece of rhubarb pie hit you?"

"Try me."

"There you are," the chief announced, as he produced a plate bearing a generous wedge of pastry. "Tell me what it's all about while you're wolfing."

"I've got a job, Pink."

"Yeah? Not around here, I hope."

"No. It's up in Canada. I'm going there as soon as school's over. And that's some swell pie."

"Shucks! I hope that job's a long ways off and tough going."

"Why so?"

"Cause it might knock some of the foolishness outa you. Wild country, maybe?"

"So they tell me. All woods, Indian guides, and that sort of thing. I'll be going in a canoe a lot of times, making portages and carrying wherever I can."

AROUND THE CLASSES
The freshman General Business class has finished a chapter in which we learned how to send telegrams, when telegrams are delivered, and the special services concerning them. We are now starting a new chapter in which we will learn the different classes of mail.

The great suspense was ended this week when the freshman English class completed "The Lady of the Lake" and found out what happened to all the characters in the poem. The freshmen found that this piece of narrative poetry was very interesting.

The sophomors Biology class has been very busy studying turtles, lizards, snakes, and other reptiles. This is a crawling world we live in.

Two sophomore boys, James Strupp and Donald Seil, have completed their fill top tables in their Manual Training class.

The United States History class has just completed the "Jeffersonian Democracy" and is now beginning the chapter on "How the United States Wins Her Commercial Independence."

The characters for the Christmas play are being chosen. Rehearsals are going to start Monday evening. Most of the characters are being taken from the junior class.

The juniors are expecting their class rings in the near future.

The senior English class is still studying poetry. They hope that before the year is over, they will understand and enjoy real poetry. Now they will soon begin their hours of study for the six weeks final test.

The seniors in Chemistry are learning about electrons, protons, neutrons, etc. They are so afraid of the six weeks coming to an end because that means another quiz. Woe be to them if they don't pass.

ATHLETIC NEWS
"KEWASKUM WINS, 41-37"
In a battle that kept the spectators in an uproar during all the second half, Kewaskum High school's 1938-39 basketball team defeated Fond du Lac Commercial college, 41-37, here last Tuesday evening.

Kewaskum's team flashed a strong offense for such an early season's game and many of the defensive and offensive errors can be overlooked because of this.

With a 24-15 lead at the half, the local team seemed to have things nicely in hand. However, a strong comeback by the Commercial college put them ahead, when, with but three minutes to go, Dreher scored four free throws and B. Bunkelman made a short field goal to bring a VICTORY to our team. Karl led the scoring for Kewaskum with 16 points, followed by Dreher with 11. While everybody made mistakes every one of the players deserves credit for the win.

Help us win our first conference game against North Fond du Lac next Tuesday, November 22. We are going to win it, but it is much easier with good support.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM
Tuesday afternoon of this week a very interesting and spirit-arousing program was presented by some members of the student council and the cheer leaders.

The student council members gave a summarized report of their attendance at the Student Council convention at Madison. The members, Annette Beilke, Lucille Pfennig, Byron Bunkelman, and Curtis Romaine, gave a short report of the sectional meetings they attended. It is their wish to arouse the interest of the student body in the student council and make it a great success. Let's give them some help.

The cheer leaders, Annabelle Grotenhuis, Anna Schoofs and Violet Eberle, strutted upon the stage wearing their new costumes. They displayed in a very dignified way, their cheers and actions, which they have been working on during the last week. They were very successful in arousing the spirits of the students for the game in the evening.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL AT

MADISON
At seven o'clock Friday morning Miss Browne, Annette Beilke, Lucille Pfennig, Curtis Romaine and Byron Bunkelman left for Madison to attend a student council convention.

After arriving in Madison they went to the Memorial Union building to register and receive their meal tickets and lodging assignments.

When most of the delegates had arrived a mixer was held in the Great Hall in the Memorial Union building. The purpose of the mixer, which was a chocolate hour, was to get the students acquainted with one another.

The mixer was followed by a general business meeting, at which Dean F. O. Holt, of the university extension division spoke about "Inter-relationship of Recreation and Extra-curricular Activity."

Lunch was served at Tripp Commons. Leon Epstein, chairman of the Student Public Relations committee, introduced deans and student leaders. A radio broadcast followed these introductions. The students who made up the executive council of the W. H. S. S. C. A. talked over the air. Monroe Smith, the national director of the American Youth Hostel association spoke to us.

At two-thirty sectional meetings were held. The delegations broke up and went to these meetings. The sectional meetings were followed by a tour around the campus. This tour lasted about an hour and a half.

A banquet was given in their honor at which an address was given by Mr. R. F. Lewis, superintendent of schools at Waukesha.

Following the banquet there were movies about college life. After the movies a dance was held for the students. At about ten-thirty the students were taken up to the Great Hall to watch a floor show which was a part of the Sigma Delta Chi home-coming dance.

After the floor show the students went to their rooms. The girls stayed at Chadbourne Hall and the boys stayed at Tripp Hall.

Saturday morning breakfast was served at the Union cafeteria, just before more sectional meetings were held. These meetings were followed by a final business meeting in the Great Hall. At this meeting the constitution of the W. H. S. S. C. A. was ratified and new officers were elected. Then lunch was served and Mr. Luberg, the principal of West Junior High school at Madison, gave an address on "Correlating High School and Community Recreational Programs."

The entire convention was adjourned, and the delegations returned home. About one hundred seventy students, representing thirty-five to forty schools attended the convention.

CANDY SALE
On Wednesday of last week a candy sale was sponsored by the high school students. Many students volunteered to bring candy for the sale.

The proceeds of $7.55 went to the cheer leaders, who purchased new uniforms and megaphones to be used at the basketball games this season.

FOREIGN ACQUAINTANCES
Some of our high school students are going to correspond with students in foreign countries. Those countries selected were, Canada, Hawaii, Syria, India, Australia, Austria, South Africa, British Isles, France, Germany, Holland, and Italy.

The names of the boys and girls of foreign countries were obtained from the Student Letter Exchange and were purchased at a price of 10c each or 3 for 25c. In all fifty-five foreign students will receive letters from Kewaskum High school students.

THANKSGIVING RECESS
Pupils of the Kewaskum High school have received notice from Mr. Rose, that school will be dismissed on Nov. 24 and Nov. 25.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL SPONSORS THANKSGIVING MATINEE DANCE
Next Wednesday afternoon, before the Thanksgiving recess, the newly organized senior orchestra will play for a high school matinee dance to be held the last two hours of the afternoon. Carl Mayer has created enthusiasm among the seniors, so they brought their music, violins, guitars, saxophones, clarinets, cornets and a piano player into the music room for practices.

The orchestra members are as follows: Carl Mayer, director; Earla Probst piano; Lucille Pfennig and Annabelle Grotenhuis, clarinets; Betty Jane Petri, cornet; Russell Belger, saxophone; Wesley Kuehl, violin, and Harold Schlosser, drums.

This orchestra plays nothing but popular dance music. Each student will be asked to pay a dime if he cares to dance. The proceeds will go towards new music for the orchestra.

Each student who cares to, may, for a penny, buy a back turkey, cut out of construction paper, which can wear to make him eligible to dance with anyone he cares to. This includes cutting-in as well. The person that he asks will have to dance whether he wants to or not. This should avoid "cliches" and make the school parties more interesting.

Twenty-five Years Ago

November, 1913
Dr. E. L. Morgenroth on Wednesday, Nov. 19th, moved his household goods and veterinary equipment from Boltonville to his residence and place of business on South Fond du Lac avenue, in this village, where he and his family will reside in the future. He also intends to erect a new residence on his premises next year.

In Wisconsin, rural zoning has been applied mainly to prevent the settlement of remote non-agricultural areas. It might be extended to good farming areas to keep agricultural communities compact, minimize school and road costs, postpone the use of second-grade land, prevent the resettlement of abandoned land, and protect streams and lakes against silting or pollution.

The students have decided to conduct matinee dances, with the aid of the student council who suggested the idea, throughout the entire year.

HEAR YE!
The operetta, "Windmills of Holland" will be given this week Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19.

The Dutch mill and the home of Myrner Hertzogenbosch, make the scenery very effective. The pinks, yellows, blues, orchids, and greens of the chorus girls harmonize beautifully with the dark blue trousers of the boys.

The clattering of the wooden shoes the strut of the farm daughters, the effective costumes, the beautiful scenery and the fine voices of the singers, all help to make the operetta a success. "DON'T MISS IT!"

HAVE YOU HEARD?
1. About that sophomore girl who has a West Bend friend who seems to enjoy our operetta practices? (Isn't that right, Ruth?)
2. That a male lead in the operetta has a crush on a certain blond freshman chorus girl? (How about it Patti?)
3. That a certain junior boy who spent the week-end in Madison, found "something" quite cute with a green dress and blond hair? (Come on Curtis, what's her name?)
4. That our cheer leaders finally succeeded in getting new "outfits"?
5. That Reuben (Harter) has been thinking what a grand world this would be if a certain blond, sweet freshman would have a smile for him to see? (Come on, Evelyn, smile.)
6. That one of our freshman girls is wearing a class ring with the initials "Plymouth High"?

7. That our prom king, Harold Krueger, is looking them over?
8. That next Wednesday afternoon we're having a matinee dance where cutting-in is allowed?
9. That Beulah Hirsig is wearing a class ring belonging to one of the present seniors?

When you slip into the seat of a new 1939 Oldsmobile you will find that driving is almost effortless. You marvel at the smoothness in operating this fine car.

The new Oldsmobiles is the choice not only because they are so moderately priced for such fine cars, but because of their durability, easy riding, advanced engineering and beautiful finish. They offer more for every dollar invested.

If you have not seen and driven these wonderful cars, you should drop in and have a demonstration. Mr. Klinka or one of his salesmen will be pleased to show you them, whether you desire to purchase or only because they are so moderately priced at this time of a little later.
