Chief Brandt urges that all motorists cooperate with this safety movement by having their cars checked for lighting defects, so that arrests will not be necessary in carrying on this campaign.

"State law requires a driver, when meeting another car at night, to dim tilt or depress his headlight beams," the local police chief pointed out. "It also is a good safety measure to dim ly behind another car.

Men Lose Lives When Plane Crashes, Burns

Wesley Otto, 29, and Robert Geib, 17, both of West Rend, were burned to death near that city at 4:20 p. m. on Wednesday, Nov. 23, when an airplane they were piloting with dual controls crashed from a low altitude and burst into flames. Both are amateur flyers.

Wesley Otto is a son of the Rev. A. H. Otto, pastor of the German Methodist church in West Bend. Geib is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Geib of West Bend. Otto resided in Milwaukee for several years, where he was employed by the Wisconsin Telephone company. er of the Symphonic Male chorus there.

Officials at the West Bend airport which was discontinued as a federally approved landing field several years ago, reported that Otto was part own. er of the plane and had gone aloft shortly before the crash with Geib, who took flying lessons at the airport for a short time in return for work performed as general utility man and mechanics' helper.

Atty. Lloyd H. Lobel of West Bend who is a licensed pilot, stated that as far as he knew neither Otto nor Geib had a pilot's license. However, Otto had had considerable experience as a student pilot.

The plane was a Gypsy Moth and had been seen flying at a low altitude about three miles southeast of West Bend when it seemed to go into a tailspin while negotiating a turn. The machine crashed or the farm of John Falk and immediately burst into flames.

By the time people residing in the area arrived on the scene the bodies of the two victims were charred so that they could not be recognized. The bodies were identified through wrist watch_ es worn by both young men. Otto was claimed to have been seated in the rear cockpit of the plane, where the instrument panel was located. Apparently he was directing the flight with Geib assisting by means of the dual controls. Geib attended the West Bend High school, from which institution he graduated last spring. He had been working nights as an usher at the Mermac theater in that city to obtain funds to pursue his ambition to become a full fledged pilot. He escap d injury in a crash at West Bend last Oct. 2 of an Round take last week for the opening airplane in which he was riding with were injured.

> Charred embers and twisted metal were all that remained of the plane which carried the youths to their deaths shortly after the wreck. The wreckage had been removed on Thursday.

Funeral services for the young men were held today, Friday in West Bend.

Cross-Stitch Design For Knitted Things

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THERE is an amusing story about the mittens and scarf shown here. They were not hand knitted. They were purchased rather hurriedly and sent to a young miss who was away at school. She had wanted something rather gay and a bit foreign looking to wear for skating and these were perfectly plain and pretty drab. She didn't take her disappointment lying down, but decided to brighten up that scarf and mitten set and make it speak a foreign language as well! She found the Swedish cross-stitch design shown here and copied it in all its gay colors on the ends of the scarf and backs of the mittens.

Hand knitted mittens and other knitted things in plain colors may also be decorated with this pert flower pattern. Start at the upper right corner of the large flower and make the cross stitches as at A and B. This flower is a brilliant red, the small flowers bright blue and the stems jade green.

Name Lloyd George Was Open Sesame,

While motoring through Wales, David Lloyd George was forced to stop in a very small village because of darkness. Seeking a hotel, he stopped in front of a big building, got out and rang the bell. "Sir," he said to the man who appeared, "I should like to find shelter for the night."

"Shelter? Here?" replied the astonished porter. "This is an insane asylum.

"But I must sleep somewhere. I'm Mr. Lloyd George."

"Lloyd George?" said the fellow with a smile. "We already have five Lloyd Georges among our inmates. There is always room for a sixth.'

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

The Beast at the Door

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Here's Oskar Baradinsky of Yonkers, N. Y., come to join the Adventurers' Club and to furnish us with still another illustration of how truth can be stranger than fiction.

If you were reading a story in a magazine and came on a passage that described how wolves killed a calf on a Pennsylvania farm, not more than sixty miles west of Philadelphia, and in the year 1926-well-what would you think of that story?

If you are like me, you'd probably say the author was crazy and turn to another story that sounded more true to life. A fiction writer just couldn't put an incident of that sort down on paper and get away with it. But Old Man Fact doesn't go by the rules that govern fiction writers. It's actually true that wolves have killed calves in eastern Pennsylvania-and that isn't the half of it, either, as Oskar Bradinsky is here to tell you.

In the fall of 1926, Oskar was taking a motor trip from Boston to Louisville, Ky., and stopped overnight at his uncle's farmhouse on the Lincoln highway, 10 miles northeast of Coatesville, Pa. It was Oskar's first visit to the farm in several years, and his aunt, who came to the door, was surprised to see him. And when, presently, his uncle came in from feeding the chickens he seemed to be not only surprised but worried about something as well.

Worried About Wolves.

They all sat down to supper, and during the course of the meal Oskar found out what was worrying his uncle. He told Oskar that the night before a young calf had been killed by wolves that came from the surrounding woods. It wasn't the first time that sort of thing had happened, either, he said. Time and again he had set traps for the beasts, but never had he been able to catch any of them. Now he was at his wits' end, for one by one the animals were killing off all his most valuable live stock.

After supper they went into the parlor. Oskar's uncle continued alking about the wolves. He had just about decided to sit up in the barn all night and see if he couldn't get some of them with a rifle.

He fired as one of the wolves sprang at the horses were all sitting around the stove," Oskar says, "for it had been cold all day and after dark the wind started to blow ominously. We could hear it whistling about the house and the warmth of the fire was comforting. About nine o'clock there was a knock at the door. Oskar's uncle got up to see who it was and Oskar could hear him say 'Hello Donald," to someone and invite him to come in. The visitor was one of the local Dutch-American farmers, and he said, "I ain't got much time. Just thought I'd drop in and find out if you were going into town tomorrow."

'Why, yes," Oskar's uncle answered. "I'm going over first thing in the morning. Are the missus and the kids with you?' "They're outside in the wagon," the farmer replied. And scarcely were the words out of his mouth when they heard a woman's scream accompanied by the terrified whining of the horses! Farmer Feared for His Children.

In an instant the little farmhouse parlor was a bedlam. Oskar's aunt started up from her chair. The visitor, rooted to his own chair, cried, "Good Lord, what's that?" Oskar's uncle was on his feet running across the room. "That's wolves!" he shouted over his shoulder as he reached behind a bureau for his rifle.

'Wolves!" In the light of the small electric bulb, Oskar could see the color leave the farmer's face. Outside the wind howled. The horses were still screaming, and now the cattle and the chickens joined in the terrible din. "Wolves," the farmer repeated. "Oh my God. My kids are out there!"

He was out of his chair and across the floor like a shot. He jerked open the door. "He and my uncle," says Oskar, "went through the doorway at the same time. But my uncle carried a rifle and the farmer was unarmed. Over the din of the animals and the howling of the wind I could hear their footsteps crossing the porch-clumping down the four wooden steps. Then I got up and followed."

The horses were still screaming dreadfully, but after that first woman's shriek, no sound had come from the occupants of the wagon. A lithe, dark form sprang at one of the horses and the horse reared. Oskar's uncle knelt down on the ground, raised his rifle and fired.

Wolves Scared Away by Shots.

The sky was almost pitch black, and the road was so far away from the house that it was impossible for the men to tell if the shot had been effective. Oskar's uncle fired again-then all three of them ran toward

As they ran they could see black forms scurrying away across the fields. The shots had frightened the wolves away. When they arrived at the wagon they found the farmer's wife slumped unconscious in the seat. The children, in the back of the wagon, were awake and crying. The horse, his skin torn and bleeding and his neck bitten in several places, was rearing and kicking and trying to break away.

It took Oskar's uncle a long time to quiet the frantic animal Meanwhile the farmer carried his wife into the house and gave her a few drops of whisky. When she came to she told a harrowing story of seeing three enormous wolves appear suddenly out of the darkness and jump at the horse's neck and flanks. At the sight of them she had screamed and fainted.

"My uncle loaned his friend another horse and a rifle to get home with," says Oskar, "and after the children were calmed and the mother felt better they started off again. They got home safely, and several weeks later my uncle wrote me that he'd shot one of the marauders-a little fellow weighing 145 pounds."

A Trade Mark Is an Honor Badge and Newspaper Advertising the Sentinel

Substitutes today are the illegitimate children of business. They are fatherless and unknown and they come to the consumer with a "Just as good" label on them which indicates clearly to the thinking buyer that she is buying something which is only "Jost as good." The unknown product, the substitute parasite, has in reputation at stake. It is merely advertised for sale on a price basis and if the consumer does not like the quality, the manufacturer has facturer has suffered no injury because he is unknown and because he rarely links his name with a product as a standard of quality and a measuring stick of buying. It merely competes on a

"take a chance" basis. The manufacturers of well-known quality merchandise today place their names upon it and advertise it as the best they can offer to the consumer. The name of a manufacturer on an addetised product says this: This is the best product I know how to make. It is make. It is pure, good and worthy of your purchase. I think so well of it that I well of it that I place my name upon it as a guarantee to you its goodness. It its goodness. If it does not fulfill your wants I will gladly make pervised, too often the adolescent is left to his own devices in this respect. That is a great mistake, as adolescents are sometimes careless in the care of their teeth. Mothers must see to it that there are two toothbrushes, one that it is never necessary to use a soggy brush. They must watch when the supply of tooth paste or powder runs low, and see that it is replaced. For it is surprising how few children can be persuaded to brush their teeth properly without an agreeable dentifrice! Mothers should take care to choose a dentifrice that will preserve or restore luster in the teeth. For adolescents are extremely sensitive about their appearance and they must not be allowed to permit dingy teeth to spoil their smiles. If mothers will feed their adolescents a correct diet and supervise their daily dental care, the coming generation will not only be more attractive to look at but enjoy more abundant

International

As proprietor of the world's greatest empire, Great Britain assumes a right and obligation to be ringmaster of international diplomacy. If such a duty is incumbent during peace, it becomes more pressing in time of stress. The year 1938 is one of stress, and in November of 1938 Great Britain is still the ringmaster but is jumping to the lash of her own whip. Caught in the backwash of her own fatal conservatism, she is desperately making an expensive peace with dictators and democracies alike. A roundup of these peace overtures, with cause and effect, with reverberations and repercussions that echo around the world, looks something like the fol-

GERMANY November has become an "international crisis" month of more import than September. Reason is that September's Czech-German-Sudeten crisis had immediate effect on only a comparative handful of central Europeans. But in November, Germany has begun terroristic persecution of Jews, has moreover shown downright hostility toward all Christian denominations in general and to the Catholic denomination in particular. This treatment has aroused resentment against Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his Italian friend, Premier Benito Mussolini, who uses similar tactics against world Jewry. It has also driven ghosts from the closet of Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, because he failed to get a German guarantee against Jewish persecution when he negotiated the "sellout" treaty at Munich

Though Christian Great Britain is horrified by Hitler's persecution, it dares not slap Germany's face. Not only are British banks planning but London must also exhibit sympathy with Germany's colonial demands in Africa. During the heat of Jewish persecution Berlin was visited by Oswald Pirow, minister of defense and industry for the Union of South Africa. Although Colonial Secretary Malcolm Mac-Donald has indicated Great Britain does not intend to surrender any colonies, Mr. Pirow's visit can only mean that the Union of South Africa fears Hitler and wishes to return Germany's war-lost colonies immediately.

BALKANS (RUMANIA)

Among such southeastern European nations as Rumania, Jugoslavia, Greece and Turkey lies Great Britain's last chance to resist German political and economic expansion, and also to maintain a vestige of international prestige. Although social-minded London once shunned Rumania's King Carol for his love affair with Magda Lupescu, daughter of a Jewish junk dealer, his recent visit to London (with Crown Prince Michael) found English royalty only too glad to court his favor. This is because his friendship for Great Britain can stop Hitler's southeastward-bound steamroller. If Carol gets British export credit of about $50,000,000, if Great Britain agrees to buy Rumanian oil and give Carol a large loan, Rumania will close its doors on Ger-

Following this same policy, London must increase her sway in other Balkan states, also encouraging Jugoslavia, Turkey and Rumania to return war-won lands to Bulgaria. which stands alone outside the Balkan entente and is easy prey for German economic expansion.

 Even while King Carol's visit was marking an effort to stop dictators, smartly dressed Lord Perth visited the Italian foreign office in Rome and presented his credentials-to "the king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia." This constituted formal British recognition of Italy's Ethiopian conquest, which is now denied by only Russia and the U.S. among great powers. Such recognition was a British capitulation, and a few hours later Lord Perth returned to the foreign office to initial the Angloister Chamberlain promised he ain and other democracies.

would not invoke the pact until Spain's civil war had reached a "settlement." With a new rebel offensive just starting on the Ebro. that "settlement" has hardly been reached.

FRANCE

Though friendly with Great Britain, France has lost much because its foreign policy has been following that of London. What is worse, French finance could not bear the unprecedented expense of last Sep- tempting to appease C. I. O.-hating tember's military preparations. Therefore the government has been crawling into its shell, concerning itself more with domestic problems following its defeat at the treaty of Munich. Its most pointed foreign gesture has been a recognition of Italy's Ethiopian victory. But new troubles are looming from Italy's direction, following but a few hours on the heels of the Anglo-Italian friendship accord. Having won British acceptance of its foreign policy, Italy has turned to Britain's onetime closest ally (France) for colonial demands. The demands: That France cede to Italy the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad and the Port of Djibouti, in French Somaliland, and share with Italy the control of the Suez canal and administration of Tunisia. Not only are such demands inacceptable to France, but she now sees the fallacy of trying to appease the insatiable hunger of either Germany or Italy. RUSSIA

Though the Soviet paper, Investia, has urged closer Russian cooperation with the U.S. for preservation of world peace, and though Dictator Josef Stalin is more interested in his domestic development than in world-wide expansion of Communism, no democracy can tation was issued simultaneously by afford to disregard the fact that Russia's political sympathies are more closely akin to those of Germany and Italy. Strengthened by the Munich pact, Germany must eventually fight Russia or make peace with her. It has been au- tle will not only be one of organizathoritatively reported that Chancellor Hitler has sent three peace of- tail the future status of 22,000,000 fers to Dictator Stalin, the latest of which suggests a division of Russian-German spheres of interest. This possibility carries dynamite, for once Moscow and Berlin make peace there is nothing to prevent each of these tremendous powers from expanding at will.

developments have brought three pertinent results.

(1) Great Britain has rushed to consummation her reciprocal trade agreement with the U.S., in which Canada is also involved. Constituting a climax to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program, the agreement is an important effort to loosen and swell the flow of U. S.-Canadian-British trade. Not voiced, but tremendously evident, is the fact that this treaty marks a new solidarity among democracies as opposed to dictatorial nations.

(2) U. S. indignation over Germany's Jewish persecution has found expression in the plan put forth by Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to Great Britain. Its essence: World-wide co-operation for removal of Germany's 600,000 Jews to North and South America and parts of the British, French and Netherlands empires. Great Britain would arrange land for new settlements, while U. S. Jewish and private groups would provide money. (3) Rather than accept French and Russian bids for leadership in world peace movements, President Roosevelt has invited 20 sister republics in the Western Hemisphere to unite in a defense against European or Asiatic aggression. This new U.S. foreign policy is evidenced by: (1) the President's outspoken denunciation of Germany's Jewish persecution; (2) his recall of Hugh R. Wilson, U. S. ambassador to Germany; (3) his announcement of a multi-billion dollar defense program to protect not only the U.S. but all Western Hemisphere nations; (4) U. S interest in the Pan-American conference opening December 8 at Lima, Peru; and (5) an apparent effort in Washington to steer away Italian "friendship" pact. Develop Films Long in Sea

Five films which went down when a French exploring ship was wrecked in a storm off the coast of Iceland have produced photographs, according to a Paris report. They were found recently buried in sand three miles from the scene of the wreck and were developed by a disabled soldier, who found the red protecting paper, the films and the spools one solid block spotted with sand and salt. They showed a view of the coast and of the crew.

The 1938 farm program was not put into effect until many U. S. pro-

the hope of reducing surpluses. Biggest slash of all will come in wheat, which was harvested this year from 71,000,000 acres, and which would be restricted to 60,000,000 acres next big business.

WASHINGTON. - The period of | power which Mr. Roosevelt so often distorted claims by the winners and attributed to a few whom he has the equally distorted alibis of the losers seems to be about over. We have heard all of the tumult and the shouting of an election time. The total vote has been tabulated, and it shows a greater number-83 new ones-of Republicans in the house of representatives and eight new Republican senators. Some 14 more states have Republican governors ready to take over from the Democrats they have displaced. There were what may be called important numerical gains for the Republican party label But while the total vote has been tabulated and served as the basis for the claims of the winners and the alibis of the losers, those figures will be forgotten soon. The thing that is important is the result. We will be measuring the results for months to come.

It is quite unimportant, in my mind, to appraise what the swing of a few votes may have meant. It is, however, mighty important to note that there were hard and close fights for scores of candidates, in this 1938 election. There were hard and close fights in the whole of New England; there were bitter struggles in New York, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and elsewhere. They were fought out largely on major issues because, generally speaking, local questions did not provide the fundamental issue in the states that are so important politically as those mentioned.

What does it mean? What is the portent? Other writers and analysts have given and are giving their views. I guess there is no prohibition against mine. I firmly believe the votes cast in the 1938 election were the expression of an opposition to further experimentation by government in the field of unsound theories; the exbression was against further use of the American people as guinea pigs, and it was definitely for a middle-ofthe-road national policy. It was, therefore, a showing, a proof, of the necessity for our traditional twoparty system of government, and surely, to that extent, the nation and national life benefited by the poll taken on November 8, 1938.

More Thinking and Less

Emotion Seems to Be Rule Looking over the whole picture, as the colors and the outlines now exhibit themselves, one who favors good government of a sound and type could send the old line Demo- mash and grains. The dry mash asting character cannot help havcrats over to the aid of the Repubing his faith renewed. Of course, the political pendulum swings back and forth. That is to be expected. But, to me, there has appeared on the horizon a new level of political thought. Perhaps, I should not say that it is entirely new; I should say that it has been restored to its place In American life. And that observation should be amplified with the further statement that more thinking and less emotion appears to be the rule throughout the land. Ab sence of hysteria, or reduction of the scope of hysteria, always makes for sounder and more constructive conclusions. That is why there is so little use for an analysis of mibute returns this year. The aspect is too broad to hinge upon such de-

Probably, it can be said that the vote was an expression against waste and extravagance, against corruption of the electorate by use of public moneys, such as went on among relief workers and for which we ought always to be ashamed: it probably can be said that it was a vote against blank check appropriations, or against government messing into every phase of human endeavor, or against many another item of policy in the New Deal, and if it were so said, it would be true to a degree, everywhere. But we are concerned with the sum into which these several things have been added.

Vote Discloses Revolt by So-Called 'Middle Class'

The United States has been governed by an expression of the will of the majority. It is sound. It is the basis of a republic. There has been much criticism of President Roosevelt on the basis of his domination of government. It has been said that he is the government because he has had such complete control that even congress moved this way or that at his drection, in the manner of puppets.

If those characterizations be true, then it appears to me logical to conclude that the late election was something of a vote for government by law and not by an individual or group of individuals. By the same reasoning, it is a logical assumption that the vote disclosed a revolt by the great middle class of the American people-the group which lives neither by the power of organization and the strike threat, nor by the

FARM STOCK MUST HAVE AMPLE FARE

Figures Are Given on Feed Demand of Animals.

Supplied by the Department of Agricultural Economics, University of Illinois, WNU Service,

To weigh 225 pounds next summer, each pig farrowed on farms this winter will consume about 16 bushels of corn, three bushels of oats, 90 pounds of protein concentrates and 40 pounds of alfalfa hay. These figures are based on approximate feed requirements for ive stock under reasonably good management and care prepared from farm account records and records of feeding experiments.

Spring and summer pigs to weigh 225 pounds require 15 bushels of corn, two bushels of oats, 70 pounds of protein concentrates, four pounds spoke when campaigning in 1932. It of alfalfa and one-twelfth of an acre is quite clear that the middle classes have grown tired of government One hundred hens in one year need 64 bushels of corn, 56 bushels of oats, 32 bushels of wheat and 800 pounds of protein concentrates. From the time they are hatched until they are ready for the dinner table, turkeys, 100 of them, require 25 bushels of corn, 28 bushels of oats, 13 bushels of wheat, 1,000 pounds of protein concentrate and 400 pounds of alfalfa meal. To pull plows and other farming equipment throughout the year, each horse needs 20 bushels of corn, 35 bushels of oats, 11/2 tons of hay, one ton of other roughage and 160 days of pasture. The horse at medium work needs one pound of grain and one pound of hay a day for each 100 pounds of weight. For heavy work the grain should be increased to 11/4 pounds and reduced at least one-half on idle days.

Development of Broilers

Aided by Use of Lights The care and feeding of cockerels destined for sale as broilers is similar to that of chickens raised for layers with special attention to room afforded and sanitary conditions of the enclosures in which they are kept. The fact that they are to be sold as broilers does not alter their requirements unless a special feeding ration for fattening purposes is given during the last 10 days or two weeks, observes an authority in the Rural New Yorker.

A ration somewhat higher in protein, however, will stimulate to more rapid growth. A good chick growing ration should be used and one mailed fist or "must" orders. In- of the commercial chick rations of recognized standing may, perhaps in the senate and Majority Leader | be chosen to advantage by one not well acquainted with chick feeding their programs through, there must and care. An all-mash chick rabe moderation. All night lights may also be used to stimulate early and rapid growth.

Farm Home Equipment The farm home, as well as the farm itself, should be considered when planning for labor-saving machinery and equipment. In too many cases we find modern, up-to-date machinery being used on the farm, while the farm women continue to do the housework just as their mothers and grandmothers did 50 or 100 years ago, notes a writer in Hoard's Dairyman. A water system is suggested as one of the useful pieces of equipment that can be installed in the farm home as it lessens the drudgery of housekeeping and adds to the health and happiness of all members of the farm family.

Rough Shells Are Weak

Usually rough shelled eggs are the sign of weak shells and indicate a deficiency of shell building material in the feed given the laying flock, points out the Montana Agricultural college. The cure is to add vitamin D to the feed, either through cod liver oil or green feed. The latter is especially good if the grower is not concerned about the color of egg yolks.

Cows Are "Trample Proof" Designed to prevent cows from trampling each other, a folding guardrail partition forms an individual stall for each animal in the dairy barn: While the cows are being milked all the bars are raised out of the way. Then the bars are lowered by one movement, giving each cow the protection of a stall .-Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Good Feed for Geese

Good feed for geese in the laying season is a mixture of cracked corn, wheat and oats with ordinary laying mash as used for hens fed moist each noon, according to a writer in the Montreal Herald. Green food is essential and the best green food is well cured clover and alfalfa hay which has been cut green. Mangels, turnips and carrots can be used with fair success although the birds prefer alfalfa. Oats and barley can be used mixed with other grains.

Rambouillets From Africa Rambouillets are one of the most popular types of Merino sheep, finest of all wool bearers. So thick are their coats only their noses and hoofs can be seen. Originating in Africa, the breed was brought to Spain hundreds of years ago by the Moors. Hardy, good grazers, these sheep are comparatively easy to raise. Only wool growers want them, however, as their meat isn't nearly as good as that of other breeds.

Sudden silence stilled their lively flow of talk when Dale parked the car on the summit of Allen's Hill and the two sat watching the landscape unrolled at their feet. Woods and farm lands basking in the early afternoon sunlight. Locust Hill among its trees, two miles to the east. The slender spire of Old Whit thrust above a sea of green.

"What are you so busy thinking about, Dale?" Lee asked it gently. For some minutes she had been watching his contemplative eyes looking into the distance.

"Oh-things," he admitted, without shifting his gaze. "I suppose it sounds queer. But just now it was about the funeral over there.' He nodded in the direction of the church. "That's where father went this afternoon."

"I know. It's Helen Emmons. You remember her, don't you?" "Of course. She was one of those three sisters. Always together and always dressed in black. I sat in the pew with them the first Sunday I was here."

"I know." She mustered a smile. You see, I love you so much. It

"I don't believe it could. It seems to me that I have known and loved you always. And it's really been but a few months, hasn't it? After you went away I used to find myself wishing that I had told you about it sooner. But I couldn't have very well. Just the same, I feel

Today he is concerned about "world law and order" in trade intercourse, and says, "We ought to be prepared to protect our interests wherever they may be attacked." German barter activities, particularly in South America, seem to be worrying the traders. Widely experienced and minutely informed in foreign trade, Mr. Messersmith has been an evangel of Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade policies. His zeal in this is not lessened, but he reveals deep concern over the subordination of the rights of business and property "to the will of individual leaders or nations for expansion and domina-

This writer has just obtained from a friend, an economist returning from Germany, his first close-up of what Dr. Walther Funk, German minister of economics, and his shrewd hunch - man, Hjalmar Schacht, are doing with their new militarized economics. My informant, who wrote books about the old. mellow, beery, bassoony Germany, had many old friends there and was steered right into the wheelhouse. According to him, the new German formula is as revolutionary as communism. Every atom of surplus wealth is sluiced into the "dynamics" of expansion, and the Reich outreach is based on jug-handled trade relations which mean commercial subjugation for any short-enders who try to do business with it.

In this connection, the British government has good reason to give him a medal. An inventor was demonstrating his death ray to British war office representatives at Dawn. He focused the ray on a cow in a meadow 200 yards away and threw a switch. The cow flopped, dead as a mackerel. The inventor collected and departed. Then they found the cow's feet wired to an underground circuit, connect-going to be glamorous she has to be seen about town. And her earnest effort to acquire the reputation the studio had ordered got her nothing but a scolding.

Now we're to have an opera cycle in pictures. The San Francisco Grand Opera company has been selling out at all performances, so the motion picture companies got an inspiration and leaped right in. Metro starts the ball rolling with "Madame Pompadour," with a European importation, Meliza Korjus, starred. Two other studios will fol-

Tom Brown's supposed to break his neck in "The Duke of West Point," and had to wear one of those braces around his neck for eight hours. (Eric von Stroheim wears one in "Grand Illusion," a foreign picture that goes down as one of the best of the year.) Afterward Brown's neck was so stiff that he thought he'd never be able to move it naturally again.

William Powell is going back to work in January, under a new contract recently signed with Metro. His first picture will be "The Return of the Thin Man." with Myrna Loy, of course. That "Thin Man" series threatens to become as lengthy as the Charlie Chan one.

If anyone were to offer a medal for "The Grand Old Man of Radio" Rudy Vallee would probably get it. Not that he's old, but he's done so much to develop good programs and has discovered so much talent that he deserves the title. If you heard his tenth anniversary program you've already checked up on that. If you didn't, you can probably remember that the list of people he's developed as stars of the air includes a lot of famous folk. from Alice Faye to Charlie McCar-

But you may not have known that he is responsible for the modern type of guest program. Irene Bordoni was his first guest star. In 1922 his program developed into its present form. The salary list was low, and still is far below the sums paid for some similar programs which are outdistanced by his in the popularity ratings.

It takes the listeners-in to make Tommy Riggs appreciate his talents. First they made him what he is today with his "Betty Lou" voice, and now they've been writing to him to praise his very pleasant baritone voice and urge him to do more singing as himself on his program.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Jimmy Walker, ex-mayor of New York, certainly started something when he began those weekly broadcasts from the city's hospitals; his many friends in the entertainment field clamor to work for him for nothing, he gives his own services, and the programs are swell . . . Fear of Ghosts

The belief that a widow who remarries will be haunted by the spirit of her late husband is widespread in both primitive and civilized countries, says a writer in Collier's Weekly. As late as 1912 a man in Macon Ga., was quickly granted a divorce when he explained that the ghost of his wife's first husband bothered them so much they could no longer live together.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving had its origin in the time of the Pilgrims. They set this day aside as a holiday because they wished were thankful pecause they had had a good crop that summer. When they had finished harvesting their crops they found they had enough food to last through the winter.

In order to show their appreciation shot wild turkeys in order to provide meat for the feast. The women and girls prepared the dinner. They boiled potatoes, of which there had been a large crop. They also made cranberry sauce because cranberries were found in abundance in the marshes of the Plymouth Colony. Of course, they baked pumpkin pies, as they had grown many pumpkins during the summer. These ere only a few of the things that they prepared.

The Pilgrims also invited the Indians o attend their feast, because the Insummer. They had taught the Pilgrims how to plant corn and how to do many

When the Indians arrived they animals which they had killed. They also brought some fish for the feast, They said that they had brought these things because they wanted to be friends with the white men. The Pilgrims appreciated this very much. These Indians were of Chief Massa.

At the feast the leader of the Pilgrims gave a short speech. He thanked God for the good crops that they had had, and that the Indians had been so triendly. Then the people decided that year, whether their harvest was plentiful or not.

This first Thanksgiving was not held on the last Thursday in November, but on the sixteenth of October in the year 1636. Later this date was changed to December the eighteenth. In 1789 George Washington changed the date once more. He clanged it to the twenty-sixth of November. But later, in 1864, Abraham Lincoln appointed the last Thursday in November for Thanksgiving It has been celebrated on that day ever since then. Thanksgiving is now a legal holiday.

The turkey is now considered the em. blem of Thanksgiving. Of course, no Thanksgiving dinner is complete with. cut cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie.

Play Rosendale Here Dec. 2 By the greatest margin ever made against North Fond du Lac, K. H. S. rolled on to their second straight win here last Tuesday night by 28-12.

In new white jerseys with green let. ters trimmed in black, the starting line. up of Dreher and Hafemann at forwards, Kral at center and Byron and Harold Bunkelman at guards, took the game in hand right away and never left the outcome in doubt a minute.

Leading 17-0 at the half, the second team, playing on better than even terms with the opponents, played most of the econd half. It looks like a ten-man first team for Kewaskum because with a little more experience there will be ten men of about equal ability on the quad.

The B squad, leading 11-9 with but two minutes to go, barely eked out a 15-14 win in the preliminary.
