SANTA TO ARRIVE BY PLANE

Will Arrive in Kewaskum Saturday, Dec. 10, by Plane and Make Parachute Jump Into Village at 10 A. M.

See next week's Statesman for more details regarding the pictures. SPONSORED BY BUSINESSMEN

The entire event is sponsored by the businessmen of Kewaskum, who will donate substantial sums toward the affair to show that they have the right Christmas spirit and are willing to do their best to give the people of Kewaskum and community a treat that many larger cities were reluctant to undertake. All they ask in return is that you remember Kewaskum merchants when doing your Christmas shopping and patronize local business houses which have everything for your needs at Christmas time and at attractive prices. Trade at home and benefit.

Never before has the village had such an event. The parachute jump alone is worth coming miles to see. No doubt many of you have never seen a jump from a plane before, especially not by Santa Claus, and now are able to see this right in the home town without traveling to one of our larger cities. Santa Claus has not and will not do this in any village or city anywhere near Kewaskum so take advantage of the opportunity.

A complete list of all the local merchants who are sponsoring the event will be found on the back page of this issue of the Statesman. Read the ad thoroughly and patronize these persons who are boosting for the benefit of the community. Your patronage will show them you appreciate their efforts.

Local merchants are making preparations for the ushering in of the holiday season with displays of seasonable merchandise, and prices this year have been made most attractive. While Santa is passing through the business section of Kewaskum, visitors are invited to inspect the wonderful and most attractive displays in the show windows of the stores. Remain in town for the evening for the beautiful spectacle as the colored lights are turned on along the streets.

Santa has paid visits to many cities and villages hereabouts before but never has he come in such a novel and different manner. He has been called upon for a greater supply of Christmas goods this year than in some years in the past. He has, therefore, been unusually busy, and he cannot devote much time in his visit. That is why he travels to Kewaskum by plane.

Santa advises that business throughout the entire country is unusually good, and Kewaskum business concerns are anticipating an equal share of this unusual business this year. In order to enjoy their full share of this year's business, local merchants have laid in a full supply of holiday merchandise, and the buying public who come to this village to select their Christmas gifts and other holiday merchandise, will find a wide variety.

Basketball Team to Play Opener Sunday

The Kewaskum basketball team will open its 1938-39 season in the northern division of the Land o' Lakes league Sunday evening, Dec. 4, in the local high school gymnasium against the strong Ozaukee Musics of Port Washington. This team is composed mainly of last year's Port Washington Maroons players. The game will start immediately following the preliminary between the Kewaskum B squad and the neighboring Wayne team. The preliminary will get under way promptly at 7:30.

The local team has been practicing hard during the past two weeks and is in fine condition for the opener. Kewaskum should be rated as a strong contender in the league again this season so plan to attend as many games as possible in Wisconsin's fastest stepping amateur circuit. The starting lineup will include an experienced front line in Stenschoke and Gibson at forwards and Marx at center. Likely guards will be W. Bartel and Miller. The alternating forwards are K. Honck and H. Bartel. Ready to relieve Marx at center will be Bath, with C. Werner the reserve guard. This lineup will provide a good contest and with the preliminary, two hot games are in store.

The northern division of the Lakes league, like last season, has nine teams. All of last year's teams are back except Alton, which is replaced by Campbellsport. Campbellsport was a member two years ago. The only other change is the Port Maroons' name to Ozaukee Musics. The nine teams are Grafton, Port Ozaukee Musics, Menomonee Falls, Hartford, Kewaskum, Mayville, Port Washington State Banks, Campbellsport and Cedarburg.

The Lakes season opened officially last Sunday with Grafton playing the Ozaukee Musics but Kewaskum, along with most other teams does not play until this coming Sunday. The schedule is arranged so that Kewaskum will play all its home games on Sunday evenings except the Campbellsport game on Tuesday, Feb. 10. All teams play each other twice, once at home and the other away. All teams will play 16 games according to the schedule adopted by League Director Martin C. Werner of Merton. Following is the schedule for the season. Save it for reference.

County Officers to Stop Cars With Faulty Lites

Washington county will cooperate with the state highway commission's campaign to reduce night accidents by an intensive campaign through December, according to Traffic Officer George Brugger of West Bend.

As a matter of fact, this county has been waging a war on after-dark accidents 365 days out of the year, but traffic safety officers welcome this opportunity to participate with the state in a widespread movement to improve night driving conditions.

During December, every motorist is urged by Officer Brugger to check his lighting system, to see that lenses are clean, reflectors polished, weakened headlight bulbs replaced, and tail or stop lights put in safe condition.

With the car's equipment in safe operating condition, every motorist then should remember to dim his headlights when meeting oncoming cars at night, dim when following closely behind another car, and always drive in lighted cities with the headlight beams dimmed, tilted or depressed.

COUNTY FARM MEETINGS SCHEDULED NEXT WEEK

Educational meetings to discuss the federal farm conservation program will be held in Washington county during the first week of December.

The purpose of these meetings is to explain more fully how the present farm program can benefit local farmers. The meetings will be carried on informally and all farmers attending may take part in the discussion and ask further questions as to how his particular farm can benefit most from the program. Many farmers are still uninformed as to the beneficial aspects of the program. Also, because such unfavorable publicity has been given it during past months, it will be the intent of these meetings to give farmers the actual facts about it and show them that the program can benefit farmers only when they unite in their participation in it.

Ideas for Making Christmas Presents

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
AN INTERESTING letter this morning says, "Our church bazaar is over and in winding up the last details and balancing my accounts I feel that I would be neglecting something if I did not express my appreciation for your Sewing Book No. 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery. We found many ideas in it that were real money makers. Our annual Christmas sale is now in course of preparation. Could you publish some new ideas for toys in the paper soon?"

bright red or blue ribbon is made from a stocking leg. The secret of giving toys of this type character is in making the stuffing firm and tight. Cotton or small pieces of clean, soft rags may be used. Push the stuffing firmly in place with a blunt stick.

Complete directions for cutting and making the body are given here. For the tail, cut a piece 6 inches long and 2 inches wide. Stitch the lengthwise edges together, tapering toward the end, then turn right side out, stuff and sew firmly in place. It is easy to draw the face. Notice in the sketch how the eyelids curve, the shape of the mouth and how the whiskers slant.

Either wool yarn or mercerized cotton embroidery thread may be used—black or brown for the eyes and whiskers and red for the mouth. Be sure to save the scraps of stocking material left from the kitten. We will make a doll out of them later. If you are not ready to make Christmas toys now, clip and save this lesson as it is not contained in either of the books offered below.

NOTE: Are you ready for Christmas? Birthdays? And the next church bazaar? Do you turn time into money with things to sell? Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2 has helped thousands of women. If your home is your hobby you will also want Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Order by number enclosing 25 cents for each book. If you order both books, quilt leaflet with 36 different stitches will be included free. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Begged $267,000,000

Probably the largest number of begging letters ever sent to one person on one occasion deluged Mrs. Edward H. Harriman after the death of her wealthy husband in 1909. These thousands of letters, an analysis of which was later compiled in a book, requested more than $267,000,000.—Collier's Weekly.

You can depend on the special sales the merchants of our town announce in the columns of this paper. They mean money saving to our readers. It always pays to patronize the merchants who advertise. They are not afraid of their merchandise or their prices.

NATURE'S CHRISTMAS GIFT

Two million Christmas trees come annually from Washington state, where a ranger (above) tags trees for cutters (below) who leave the stump and lower branches from which a new tree will grow.

Picture Parade

Left: Loaded on sleds, the trees are hauled through the forests by horses to a concentration camp (right) where they are banded by size and grade. Butts are sawed even. Both tall and short trees are needed, the former for old-fashioned high-ceilinged homes, the latter for modern low-ceilinged houses.

Loaded into freight cars, Washington's Christmas trees are ready for shipment to three-quarters of the nation. The above load is destined for Atlanta, Ga.

In Washington, the tree that makes these youngsters happy on Christmas morning was not cut destructively. Instead it gave needed room for neighboring trees to grow faster and better.

NEW TOYS USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING

NEW YORK—Miniatures of practically every activity in American life will be carried in Santa Claus' $225,000,000 toy pack on Christmas eve, manufacturers have predicted. Among the new favorites will be movie cartoons of amazingly high quality, while old favorites will return in new model electric trains, bowling sets, miniature piano, a velocipede with a bicycle-like chain

Deserting for the Front
In 1918, French papers told of the desertion of American soldiers—for the front trenches! "We did not come 3,000 miles to dig," would say an American doughboy to a dumfounded French officer, who found him making his way forward, "but to fight."
Father of American Navy
John Barry (1745-1803) is usually referred to as the Father of the American Navy. Under the law of March 27, 1794, he was appointed senior captain of the U. S. navy by President Washington. From this fact probably came the title under which he is so well known.

CAP AND BELLS

LOOKED THAT WAY

"Now, how do you know that your friend Stiff is dead?" demanded Wiggs, counsel for the defense. "Well, I don't know. It's pretty difficult to prove," replied the witness. "Ah, there you are. Just as I suspected, you don't know whether he is dead or alive!" snapped Wiggs. "As I was saying," continued the witness, "I don't know whether Stiff is dead or not, but what I do know is that they buried him a month ago, on suspicion."—Stray Stories Magazine.

What, No Apples!

An old Scottish gardener accompanied his employer, an artist, to an exhibition of pictures in London. Among them was one called "The Fall." He stood studying this picture so intently that his employer was moved to ask him his opinion of it.

"I think no great things of it," he replied. "Why, sir, Eve is tempting Adam with an apple of a variety that wasn't known until 20 years ago."

UP WITH THE TIMES

"So at last you've reasoned yourself into the belief you must have a car?" "Yes; auto-suggestion's a powerful thing—when the family's helping it out."

No Fast Friend

The big city lad was showing his country friend the sights, and during the course of the tour visited a French restaurant. "These," he pointed out, as a dish arrived, "are snails." "Snails?" cried the country boy. "We don't eat those things in Arkansas!" "Of course you don't," said the city chap gently, "you couldn't catch 'em."—Washington Post.

Recluse

A friend called upon a guest at a hotel, knocked and asked him to open the door. "Can't, door's locked!" the voice within announced. "Well, unlock it!" the caller requested. "Can't, threw the key away!" "Great heavens, man! What will you do if there is a fire?" "I won't go!"

Unbalanced Budget

Jones—How do you spend your income? Smith—About 30 per cent for shelter, 30 per cent for clothing, 40 per cent for food and 20 per cent for amusement. Jones—But that adds up to 120 per cent. Smith—That's right.

Girls

Dick—How come you don't care for girls? Doc—Oh, they're too biased. "Biased?" "Yes, biased. It's bias this and bias that till I'm flat broke."

New Racket

Hollowyng — Frisby has a new racket now. Cryng—What? Is it something dishonest? Hollowyng—No, he plays tennis with it.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Danger Signal

"Rastus, I see you male has 'U. S.' branded on his hindquarters. Was he in the army?" "No, boss, dat 'U. S.' don't stand for Uncle Sam, it means Un-Safe!"

Blessed Silence

Doctor—You say your wife has dislocated her jaw, Mr. Peck? I'll be right over. Mr. Peck—Well, Doc, I 'phoned to say that you needn't hurry. If you're passing our way sometime next week or the week after, you might drop in and look her over.

Arithmetic and Grammar

Bill—I et five eggs for breakfast. Big Sister—You mean "ate." Bill—I guess you're right, Sis. I et eight eggs.

The Monster in the Box

HELLO EVERYBODY: It seems to me, boys and girls, that all the interesting characters in the world are flocking to this corner of ours to tell us the big experiences of their lives. Take, for instance, Moe Aarons of New York City. Moe has been a circus man for most of his life, and for a good part of that time he has held down one of the most intriguing jobs in the circus business.

And did Moe lead the band, or swing the flying trapeze, or written up his face and do a clown act in the big arena? Not on your life. Moe didn't even travel with the show. For 25 years he has toured the Far East looking for animals with which to stock the menagerie. In that time, Moe has seen plenty and had plenty of things happen to him. But none of his experiences can ever touch the one he had in October, 1931, with a 20-foot monster from the dark jungles of Burma.

Python Twenty-Six Feet Long. "I was taking a cargo of unhandled snakes," says Moe, "from Singapore to France on the passenger steamer Az Reveau. The snakes were pythons of extraordinary size, some of them as long as 26 feet, as big around as a stovepipe and capable of crushing horses to death in their coils. They were kept in wooden boxes four feet square, and I made regular rounds to see that they were all secure, for the steamer carried 800 people, crew included, and I realized my responsibility in safeguarding them from my reptiles."

But one day, to his consternation, Moe found one of his biggest pythons gone. To save his life he couldn't understand how that snake got out of his box—but at the moment that was the least of his worries. The thing to do was to find the reptile and get him back in the case again. Moe hurried to the captain, told him not to worry and asked for few sailors to help capture the snake. The captain assigned three sailors to help Moe. Moe searched the vessel for three hours before he found the python, on a shelf in a secluded corner of the deck. "There he lay," says Moe, "with his tongue going in and out of his mouth like lightning. There was something uncanny about his appearance. I was chilled at the sight. But the one thought in my mind was to get him back in his box as soon as possible. I got a stout stick about eight feet long, attached a rope-loop contrivance at one end, and instructed the sailors to pull the rope tight as soon as I got the loop over the reptile's head."

He managed to get the loop over the snake's head.

Moe advanced on the snake, stick extended. He was being careful not to get too close, lest the python strike and get him in its crushing coils. He got the loop over the reptile's head and yelled, "Pull!" While the sailors held the rope tight, Moe dragged the python down from the shelf, fell on him and grabbed his head. Then he turned to shout further orders to the sailors.

Sailors Left Him Holding the Python!

To his dismay, they had let go of the rope and fled! Moe knew fright then as he had never known it before in his life. "I had the snake by the neck," he says, "but he had both my hands busy keeping his mouth closed. Meanwhile, the snake had begun to wrap me in his folds. I thought: Lord, I will be crushed to death if I don't get some help. But no one lifted a finger except my wife, Minnie, who was standing by near the box we had brought down to put the reptile in. She seized the tail of the snake and unwound one of the folds. She tried to push it into the box, but it came out as fast as she could get it in."

Again and again Minnie thrust that tail back in the box, but each time it lashed out again to coil itself around Moe. Meanwhile, Moe was on the verge of exhaustion. The coils that were already around him were all but crushing the life out of him. "My strength was ebbing fast," he says. "I was wringing wet with perspiration. Blood was flowing from my nose and ears. The folds of the snake had encircled every part of my body from head to foot. Lord, how could people stand around and see me crushed to death?"

"But no one made a move to help me. By now the place was crowded with onlookers, but they stood as if hypnotized—rooted to the deck."

Snake Prepared for Final Squeeze.

Moe's wife alone stuck to him to the bitter end. And Moe claims that it was she who saved him. It seemed as if the snake were preparing for one last, final squeeze. He had his tail around Moe, and Minnie was working with all her might to pry it loose again. Moe was ready to give up, but hope dies hard. By that time he had worked himself close to the wooden box in his struggles, and with every ounce of strength he had left in his body, he threw the python's head and one or two of its coils into it.

At the same moment, Minnie succeeded in unwrapping the snake's tail. She threw that into the box, too. With his free hand, Moe slammed down the lid of the box and sat on it. That did the trick. Part of the snake was still outside the box, but when he felt the lid slam down on him he straightened out and began drawing the rest of him inside to keep company with his head.

"When it was over," says Moe, "I was all in—more completely exhausted than I thought a man could be and still remain conscious. I felt as though I didn't have strength to keep on living another minute. I couldn't open my fists and there was a vivid red line encircling every part of my body—marks of where the snake had entwined me. I had to lie in hot water for weeks before I was entirely recovered. And though, today, I am none the worse for my harrowing experience, the recollection of it never fails to send a shiver down my spine." Copyright—WNU Service.

Grooming Aid To Business Girl's Career

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

BEAUTY is as beauty does in the office as elsewhere. Gradually there is being formed unwritten laws for office behavior and the girl who is aware of them, and obeys them, has a better chance of promotion than the girl who ignores them.

Take for instance the small matters of grooming. Small but important. Tidy appearance, personal neatness, never obvious dress or make-up. Those you are familiar with, or should be if you are in business at all.

But just recently a personnel officer of an important company voiced

Long personal conversations and smoking during office hours are strictly taboo if you want to hold your job.

a few more office rules which she says are as essential as the golden rule:

Rules for Office Behavior

"Remember that good manners and courtesy mark a person's true character in a business office as truly as they do at a dinner party."

"Be sparing in the exercise of your charm. Most bosses prefer to pick their own charmers—after business hours."

"Don't strive for too striking color combinations in your office apparel. Unless you have a very extensive wardrobe your conferees will become all too familiar with the rotation of costumes."

"Don't be a telephone chatter. Personal conversation in an office should be kept brief and subdued. Bill collectors and beaux should get the same impersonal attention from nine until five."

"Smoking during working hours is usually indulged in only by executives."

"Don't take out your bad temper on the switchboard operator, she can't talk back, and may have had a bad night, too."

"The person who makes a phone call should end the conversation. She is also the one to call back if the telephone conversation is disconnected."

"All personal belongings such as make-up kits, compacts, etc., should be kept out of sight. Do your touching up in the powder room."

"If you are in a dignified office never appear without stockings. It is not only bad form but your legs look better when clad!"

"Don't keep other employees from doing their work by telling them about your personal doings. Night-before reminiscences are for lunchtime chatter."

"The top of your desk should contain only the essentials for one's immediate work. Cluttered desks speak of sloppy work."

C. Houston Goudiss Describes Some of the Functions of Vitamin B.—Reports Recent Discoveries of Its Relation to the Gastro-Intestinal Tract

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

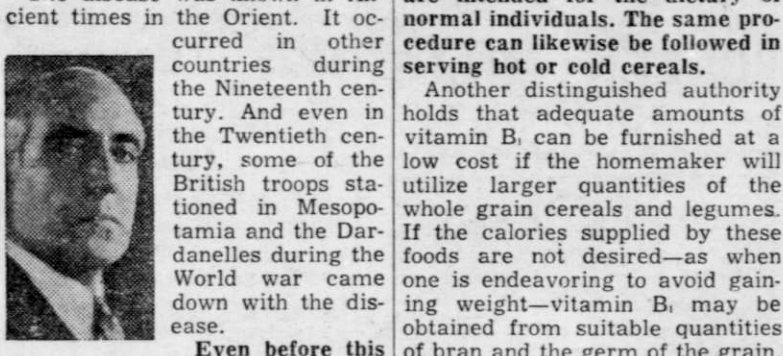

PERHAPS no more dramatic chapter has ever been written in the history of nutritional science than the discovery of the chemical structure of the vitamin now known as B, and its artificial synthesis.

Inasmuch as a deficiency of this vitamin may have extremely far-reaching effects upon human health and happiness, it is important that every homemaker should learn its characteristics and its sources.

The Anti-Neuritic Substance
Vitamin B is known to prevent and to cure a nerve disease called beriberi.

The disease was known in Ancient times in the Orient. It occurred in other countries during the Nineteenth century. And even in the Twentieth century, some of the British troops stationed in Mesopotamia and the Dardanelles during the World War came down with the disease.

Even before this vitamin was identified, a European investigator was seeking to determine why a small portion of milk added to a diet containing protein, fats, carbohydrates and minerals successfully nourished individuals who did not enjoy good health when the milk was omitted.

Chemical Identification
Many investigators sought for years to fathom the secret of this mysterious substance.

After long research by many distinguished investigators, two Americans reached a milestone in the history of nutritional science when they discovered the chemical structure of vitamin B, and learned how to synthesize it.

A Regulator of Body Processes
In the course of their work with vitamin B, nutritional scientists have discovered many other important functions of this vitamin.

It has been determined that this substance is essential to growth and that it is also necessary to promote normal appetite. Laboratory experiments with animals revealed that when fed upon a diet lacking vitamin B, the animals lost their desire for food and refused to eat until the vitamin was restored to their diet.

There is also some evidence that vitamin B is necessary for the maintenance of normal muscular tone of the large intestine.

Aids Gastro-Intestinal Tract
Chemical studies on 75 patients led one investigator to conclude that a continual slight shortage of vitamin B leads to definite changes in the motor and secretory mechanism of the gastro-intestinal tract.

There is also evidence that the vitamin B requirement increases with the rate of growth and with increased energy expenditure.

For this reason, active working men and women should be amply supplied with this vitamin, and growing children should also have generous quantities.

Further investigations are now in progress and it is quite possible that many significant new facts will be unearthed in the near future.

In the meantime, there is enough evidence to warrant the belief that the absence of vitamin B results in cellular alteration in the nervous system, intestine, pancreas, stomach, salivary glands, liver and other tissues.

The whole power of the body to resist infection appears to be decreased. This is especially true in the gastro-intestinal tract, probably owing to the action of the bacteria on its passage through the impaired alimentary tract.

Some Peculiarities of This Vitamin
Vitamin B is soluble in water. For this reason, a large percentage of it may be lost if the water in which a food is soaked or cooked is discarded. Other ways in which this precious vitamin is lost are through refining cereals too highly, or when the natural acidity of a food is lowered by the addition of an alkali.

Preventing Vitamin B Deficiency
It has been suggested that the health department of every village, town and city should not be content with protecting the local community against infectious diseases, but should be equally militant in endeavoring to safeguard its people against the dietary deficiency diseases which have been discovered through the recent advances in nutritional knowledge.

That is because many people who can easily afford the foods that furnish vitamin B, are consuming a diet deficient in this respect. This unfortunate situation may arise because they believe that their customary diet is adequate. Or, they conclude that appetite is a reliable guide to the meals that should be consumed.

Sources of Vitamin B
Investigation has established that foods yielding a good amount of vitamin B include bran, milk, eggs, bananas, orange juice, carrots, spinach and cabbage.

One of America's outstanding nutritional scientists has stated that foods can be made to provide the necessary daily requirement of vitamin B, if half of the needed calories are taken in the form of fruits, vegetables, milk and eggs, and if at least half of the breads and cereals consumed are taken in the whole grain form. This suggests the advisability of adding some bran to muffins, waffles, and other quick breads when they are intended for the dietary of normal individuals. The same procedure can likewise be followed in serving hot or cold cereals.

Another distinguished authority holds that adequate amounts of vitamin B can be furnished at a low cost if the homemaker will utilize larger quantities of the whole grain cereals and legumes. If the calories supplied by these foods are not desired—as when one is endeavoring to avoid gaining weight—vitamin B may be obtained from suitable quantities of bran and the germ of the grain.

Some foods are richer than others in cellulose or bulk. Good sources of this substance being notably bran, whole grain cereals, most raw fruits; dried fruits, such as prunes, figs and raisins; raw vegetables; such cooked vegetables as onions and leafy greens; and legumes, that is, dried beans and peas.

These foods, therefore, have a definite place in the diet of normal individuals. The homemaker should see to it that they are included regularly in her daily menus.

If that task is performed faithfully, it should help to develop a healthier and more vigorous race.

Questions Answered

Mrs. S. T. L.—Yes, you are correct. All kinds of flesh food furnish protein, and usually they also contain fat. The amount of fat, however, varies with the cut and with the kind of animal from which it was obtained. Many flesh foods have more fat than full cream.

Mrs. T. A.—If a year-old infant receives a quart of milk daily, he should obtain sufficient protein, calcium, phosphorus and vitamin A to meet his requirements. He will likewise receive substantial amounts of vitamins B and G, but he needs a supplementary source of vitamin C.

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

To Keep Eyes Sparkling
Eyes—the windows of the soul—are the most important feature of the face. To keep the eyes clear and bright requires constant attention, especially if you are outdoors much during the day, or work in an office under artificial light.

An eye wash is as important as a soap and water cleansing for your face. Make it a habit to cleanse the eyes in the morning, as regularly as you cleanse your skin.

An excellent eye bath is a herbal compound that soothes and cleanses the eyes in a magical way. There is an eye cup attached to the top of the bottle.

Another phase of eye health and beauty has to do with your eyelids. Crepey eyelids detract from your beauty and can be prevented. There is a cream especially blended for the eyelids which really does the work. You simply smooth it on the lids and leave it there over night. It helps replenish the oils which have dried out and restores the natural, youthful skin texture.

Most Northern State
Minnesota is farther north than any other state. The northern part of Lake of the Woods county, formed in 1922 from the northern portion of Beltrami county, is farther north than any place in any other state in the Union. This part of the United States cannot be reached by land without passing over Canadian territory.

Use of Term Tuberculosis
Consumption, phthisis, T. B., and tuberculosis are one and the same disease. The first three terms are used when speaking of tuberculosis of the lungs only. The general term tuberculosis has to be qualified by mentioning the part of the body affected.

SOIL TESTING PROGRAM

Twelve thousand paper bags with full directions for taking soil samples have been sent to Washington county farmers during the past two weeks. Many farmers, because of the coming of the cold weather, may have to wait until next spring before taking samples of the soil from their farms for testing. If, however, it is possible to still obtain soil samples this autumn, farmers are urged to do so. Frozen samples are acceptable as long as they are brought to us in that condition.

Samples may either be brought to the basement of the court house in West Bend or to any of the various nearest community committees.

SLEEPING SICKNESS VACCINATION

According to reports from veterinarians throughout Wisconsin it is estimated that about eleven percent of the Badger state's one-half million horses were vaccinated this year against sleeping sickness.

During the outbreak of the disease which ran its course between July 1 and October 1, there were more than eight thousand cases. The disease proved fatal to only 135 of the vaccinated horses as compared to 1,556 deaths among unvaccinated ones. The results of vaccination indicate, according to Dr. V. S. Larson, state veterinarian, that when properly done, are reasonably effective.

OUR WORLD OF INVENTIONS
The history of America has been the history of inventions. This nation was launched just as the steam engine had been invented. That was the beginning of the Age of Power, and of what economists refer to as the Industrial Revolution.
In an enormous new country, the small population along the Atlantic Coast had to find means to conquer the wilderness and develop the vast wealth of the land. No new nation ever grew so rapidly from poverty to riches, and it was the inventiveness and practical ingenuity of Americans which enabled our pioneers to do the job.
The cotton gin, the steamboat, the railroad, the telegraph, the telephone, the electric light, the automobile, the airplane and the radio are only a few of the inventions of which their application to human needs has made America the greatest and wealthiest nation in the world. Hardly a year has passed in our national history without witnessing the introduction of some radically new invention of which the ultimate effect was to make living easier and to provide more jobs for everybody.
To imagine a world without typewriters, sewing machines, movies, harvesters, typesetting machines and a hundred other things which we now regard as commonplace of everyday life would be difficult indeed.
The process of invention is still going on. Within half a dozen years new inventions as revolutionary as any of earlier days have been developed and put to human use.
Those who know about such matters tell us that there are literally thousands of new inventions, already patented, in the hands of industry ready to be developed and marketed as soon as the owners of capital feel safe in embarking upon new ventures. Thousands of technically-trained men and women are working in great industrial laboratories on still more inventions to make life easier and richer for everybody.
It is foolish to oppose the march of invention merely because someone makes a lot of money out of it. The man or institution who finds a way to simplify living, to make it more comfortable or beautiful is entitled to the greatest reward that society is able to give him.

Weekly News Review
France Deserts Great Britain
To Find Safety With Germany

By Joseph W. La Bine

International

Appreciating the potency of a strong Rome-Berlin axis, Great Britain and France have long sought to keep Germany and Italy divided.

Until a few weeks ago Great Britain and Germany were comparatively close friends, while Italy busied herself hurling insults in the general direction of London.

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN
France no longer needed him.

Adolf Hitler has found it convenient to abandon his British friends and turn to France. Thus it was not entirely unexpected when France announced conclusion of a pact with Germany to outlaw war between the two nations and recognize the permanent integrity of present Franco-German boundary lines.

On the surface this appears to complement the Anglo-German "no war" treaty signed secretly by Hitler and Chamberlain at Munich. A more likely result is that it will cause bickering between France and Britain; by making peace with Berlin, Paris has figuratively abandoned the protectorship of British aristocrats and financiers.

All these things point to a continued French and British policy of appeasing Hitler and Mussolini, even in the face of rising world resentment against the current German Jewish persecution.

The only new development which does not fit into this appeasement program is the Anglo-French decision to pool air forces and construct a fleet of 10,000 fighting planes by 1940.

Defense

Though much talk has been heard of a multi-billion defense program in which the U. S. would place a steel ring around the entire Western hemisphere, President Roosevelt's armament requests are not expected to be that big.

Not only does the war department want to lay plans for mobilizing an army of 1,200,000 men within a few weeks, but it also wants to start storing away equipment for this army.

Peace organizations are expected to rally against increased armaments within the next few weeks, arguing that great defense precautions might lead to offense.

Much more pertinent to the average U. S. citizen is the problem of paying for increased armaments. Though Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau admits that new tax proposals are being held up pending completion of defense plans, it is expected the total budget submitted to congress next January will run over $8,000,000,000. On this basis, and with anticipated revenues approximating those of the fiscal year ending last June, a deficit of about $1,500,000,000 may be expected during the government year starting next July.

Armsmen's share of the new budget must be paid with new taxes, and many congressmen advocate a two-year emergency income tax. This would place a 10 per cent levy on top of the present income tax and provide $260,000,000 a year.

Labor

Throughout the U. S. are about 2,500 manufacturing firms who share profits or managerial responsibility with employees. Proctor & Gamble workers contribute 3 per cent of their wages against a 5 to 15 per cent contribution by the management (based on seniority) and from this fund employees buy stock.

Such firms, whose number is increasing yearly, generally have little labor trouble. Example: the American Rolling Mill company of Middletown, Ohio, has never experienced a labor disagreement in its 38 years of operation.

If profit-sharing could be extended, most U. S. industrialists believe employees would be better satisfied, employment would become less fluctuant, and our national financial picture would be improved.

Members of this committee are Michigan's Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Iowa's Sen. Clyde Herring. Their purpose is to unearth facts about profit-sharing merits and find methods of expanding it.

But an expansion of profit-sharing must come either voluntarily or through government insistence, and voluntary adoption of the plan by industry would be a long, discouraging battle of coaxing and education.

WALTER D. FULLER
For depreciation, profit-sharing.

member yet advocates it, both Senators Vandenberg and Herring have been feeling out sentiment on an "incentive taxation" plan. Under it the government would give tax credits to profit-sharing concerns, meanwhile penalizing non-conforming firms.

Most of the committee's witnesses have gone on record opposing the "incentive tax" because it would impose either reward or penalty for an employer's decision on a matter which should be entirely voluntary.

Labor's opinion has been expressed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who naturally favors profit-sharing provided it does not tend to replace collective bargaining.

Animals have tangled for the right to rule, and twice they were separated by police officers, attracted to the battle arena by the snorting of the enraged beasts and the fierce pounding of hoofs.

The third time they met there was no separating them until Rex was so badly battered that he couldn't continue. Not until he declared the fight was over was Rex led away to have his wounds attended to.

Politics

Since last summer the public has cringed under a barrage of insults and name-calling hurled back and forth between Rep. Martin Dies of the house un-Americanism committee and members of the Roosevelt administration.

Alice Lee Jemison, a Yosemite Indian, told Mr. Dies' committee that Mr. Ickes was a member of the Civil Liberties Union. She said that Roger Baldwin, head of the group, should hold another congressional committee that the organization upheld the rights of aliens to advocate murder, assassination and the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

This charge started the ball rolling. Admitting membership in the union, Mr. Ickes called Mr. Dies "the outstanding zany in our political history." Answered Mr. Dies: "The secretary's most recent fit of uncontrollable rage only emphasizes his unfitness for the high position he holds."

As Mr. Dies prepared to release his selection for the "1938 all un-American team," the average U. S. citizen was beginning to wonder if the committee's real purpose, to uncover evidence of subversive activities, was not being overlooked.

Potential 1940 presidential nominees will be well mullied over before the nominating conventions roll around, but a few straws are already in the wind. First: Missouri's new Sen. Bennett Champ Clark, a middle-of-the-road Democrat whom many of his partisans would like to see nominated for 1940, has inferred that his ambitions reach no higher than the senate, and that he will not run for the presidency.

It is one thing to render aid. It is quite another thing to inject into our own bloodstream of national life additional elements without knowing what those elements are. After all, the damage is something that we did not cause; the injured are a people who have no knowledge of our way of doing things and may never co-operate with us, and we must prevent being dragged into the other fellow's fist fight.

I suppose there are very few persons in the United States who do not believe that Hitler's "purge" of German Jews constitutes a blot upon modern civilization. I know that leading Germans in the United States wish there were ways and means to stop the action.

The resignation of Premier Bela Imredy's Hungarian cabinet is a direct result of his failure to obtain the entire eastern half of Czechoslovakia, an aim which was opposed first by Germany and Italy as well as well. Since Adolf Hitler has delivered flat representations opposing any Hungarian ambitions in the Slovakian or Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) districts, the new cabinet is expected to be more closely allied to the German viewpoint.

Miscellany

Since last congress' $1,500,000,000 WPA appropriation was specified to last until March 1, 1939, Administrator Harry Hopkins plans to drop thousands of "borderline" relief clients in the hope that revived private industry will find jobs for them.

Bombing Barcelona eight times in 22 hours, rebel planes killed 51 civilians and wounded an additional 153.

Those causes, however, do not help us in the solution of the Jewish problem. The unwanted race is simply the victim and a knowledge of how its members have had the sufferings brought upon them adds little or nothing to the search for a method to protect their lives.

The whole situation is one which may contain "a Jewish problem" for the United States. It is one out of which a political issue may grow. It is to be remembered that religion became an issue in a presidential election not so many years ago. That shows that such things can sprout even in the United States.

Pointing the thigh bone of a turkey, topped with beeswax, at Major, an aborigine, near Brisbane, Australia, a medicine man caused his death. After the autopsy, the government medical officer reported that Major had died of "obedience and persecution complex."

Establishment of the limit, Wallace said, is intended to avoid a cumulation of crop surpluses. The allotted acreage, he said, would supply domestic requirements, export needs, and an adequate reserve of the principal crops.

Danger of 'Jewish Problem' for United States in German 'Purge'

Resentment of American People Aroused by Hitler's Harshness; Opening of Gates to Refugees Might Introduce Disturbing Influence.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Press service wires and cables and radio from abroad have been clogged for several weeks with hundreds of thousands of words about the plight of the Jews in Germany; about the abuses visited upon the Jewish race by the European madman, Hitler, and his camp followers; about the humanitarian pleas of our own President, Mr. Roosevelt, for appeasement of the conditions.

Mr. Roosevelt has proposed removal of some of the immigration restrictions as a means of bringing into this country more German Jews than our immigration laws now permit. In so doing, he verged on politics himself. Any one familiar with the debates on immigration policies in the early 1920s must recall the severity of that battle.

Only Congress Can Let Down Immigration Bars

Behind the scenes of the immigration restriction also was a determination on the part of Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, then a senate power, to prevent introduction into the United States of all kinds of "isms."

'Purge' of German Jews an Exposition of Mad Power

It was a basic reason, however, and it is too bad that it was not given more public consideration. Fortunately, there can be no change in the number of foreigners admitted from any nation without action by congress.

Believe Mr. Roosevelt is eminently correct when he says that there must be a "homeland" established for the Palestine that sort of a base, it will be remembered, they failed because Arabs don't like Jews. This experience then would seem to point to the necessity for the Jews being colonized quite alone.

In consideration of whether we ought to let a deluge of refugees enter, I spread help thinking of a possible siphon of trouble. For example, if our definite national position of protest against Hitler's policy should bring retaliation, every Jewish refugee allowed in this country would be clamoring for the United States to take revenge on Germany and Hitler.

Refugees Likely to Create A Disturbing Influence

As far as relations between Germany and the United States are concerned at the moment, all that can be said is that the United States has let the world know of its disapproval. When Ambassador Wilton was recalled, it was just the same as saying to the world of nations that Uncle Sam hasn't any respect for Hitler.

'Jewish Problem' for United States Might Be Result

The whole situation is one which may contain "a Jewish problem" for the United States. It is one out of which a political issue may grow. It is to be remembered that religion became an issue in a presidential election not so many years ago.

Secretary Wallace Orders Slash in 1939 Farm Crops

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has ordered a reduction in the acreage of major farm crops for 1939. He set 275,000,000 acres as the maximum to be seeded next year in cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, rice, and other "soil depleting crops."

Farwell rose to his feet with seeming difficulty and moved to the table where he stood supporting his weight on his hands.

"When I returned from France I knew that my only salvation was in a life devoted once more to the church. I sought out ...

"Not!" There was a ring of desperation in Dale's voice. He left the bed in his turn, to stand at Farwell's back. "Let's get this done. Where—where did you find me?"

"Your grandmother was caring for you."

"My mother ..."

"Had found rest, Dale. She left you to me. Kelsey brought her home." Jonathan Farwell faced about with an effort. His head came up as he met Dale's gaze unflinchingly. "Say what you will. We are men."

"I am trying to make myself think of you," Dale said slowly. "I want to remember all that you have done for me. Everything is gone now."

"Don't say that. I do not wish you to think of me. I killed the one great love of my life. Lived in the hell from which I have warned others. There was but one possible atonement. Can't you see that? You are all that I have left of Elaine. Your life is all ahead of you."

"Yes. A nobody," Dale choked on the word. "And you've let me go on and on."

"I thought perhaps God was giving me a chance. I always was fearful of this day. But years passed. Nothing came out of the void. I might have known. God never forgets."

"But you would have!" Dale exclaimed harshly. "Can't you see what you've let me do to—somebody? I can take it. But Lee?" He made an effort to control himself. "I think there is only one thing I would ever like to know from you."

Dale's voice was curiously calm. "You have let me live a lie. Why did you try so hard to make me believe that my mother ...?" He could not finish it.

"Because your mother was good, Dale. The sin was mine. Never hers. Wait—where are you going?"

"I don't know."

Dale flung himself out of the study. The door closed behind him with a crash. A few strides took him into his own room where he paused, looking about with a vacant stare as if he had found himself in a strange place.

His eyes fell upon the picture of his mother hanging in the chimney niche. Very slowly he approached the one-time shrine, detached the photograph from the wall, held it clenched in his two hands. A sudden wrench and the frame was pulled apart. Its glass fell and shattered on the bare floor boards.

Dale took one lingering look at the portrait, lifted it and held it for an instant against his cheek. Very gently he laid it on the shelf. He left the room, walking quietly. This time, he sought the rear stairway.

"Kid! Wait a minute."

There was Pink, barring the outer door of the kitchen with his small frame. Deep shadows filled the room.

"Get out of the way."

"Don't be like that, kid. I know. Where you goin'?"

"Anywhere."

Pink followed Dale as far as the back porch and watched him hurry swiftly through the dusk. He made his way back into the darkened house with a heavy heart. Then he stepped into the parlor and listened attentively. From overhead came the sound of footfalls pacing back and forth.

An hour later Pink was in the kitchen adjusting his tie before a small mirror. He had changed into his checked suit and the ceremonial derby was on the back of his head.

"I ain't a-goin' to get thanked none for this, either," he muttered to his reflection.

Lee Brady sat alone in the swing that hung in a shadowy corner of the front porch. When her vigil was rewarded by the sound of approaching steps from the street, she hurried forward with a low word of greeting—halted in confusion. A small man stood below her, hat in hand.

"Oh ... Mr. Mulgrew. Won't you come up? I was expecting Dale. Is—did he send me a message?"

"No'm, he didn't," Pink ascended

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In Europe, a few years ago, this writer met a friend who had just interviewed Gen. Ismet Inonu, who is today Turkey's new dictator, succeeding Kemal Ataturk, who died recently.

"He's the smartest hombre I ever met," said my friend. "He talked to me for two hours, frank and honest, looking me right in the eye and never holding out on anything. He was charming and brilliant and he didn't ask me not to print anything. I thought I had a great story. But, when I started to write it, there was just nothing there. I saw him several times after that, and realized that he was a master in heart-to-heart talk which left no commitments whatsoever. I saw caged diplomats kissed off just as I had been. The man is a marvel of brains and ingenuity."

The small, fragile, deaf, ingratiating General Inonu is the hero of the Turkish army, premier until a year ago, when he was mysteriously benched by Kemal Ataturk. There were rumors that he was engaged in international negotiations of such subtlety that he found it necessary to keep out of office and off-stage.

It was in 1920 that young Colonel Ismet joined Mustafa Kemal in Anatolia. By 1922, he had driven the Greeks out of Anatolia and Smyrna and in this period and thereafter he was Kemal Ataturk's chief military aide. He added to his laurels, when, at the 1923 Lausanne conference, he ran rings around British and Italian diplomats and won for Turkey virtually all its demands.

He was one of few men who retained the confidence of Ataturk to the end. He was a firm and exacting and, at times, ruthless ruler of the army, and is said to lack none of the traditional specifications of the iron man.

It is apparent that Ismet Inonu is intent on keeping Turkey diplomatically liquid, that he fully realizes the bargaining power of Turkey's hegemony over the Moslem bloc, and that he probably will use this and other strategic assets in making some shrewd bargains.

TALL, austere Sumner Welles, a deft precisionist in career diplomacy, is merely undersecretary of state, but off-stage he's the key-man of a critical international encounter and a S. A. Relations policy draughtsman, whose hands a chart of our South American procedure is taking shape. He helped initiate and has diligently fostered the "good neighbor" policy in Latin-America, and his radio address urging a get-together in the Western hemisphere received a good press in those countries. But a bad press in Germany.

His plea for joint defense against "any threat of attack" is in interesting contrast to his speeches of a year ago, when he appealed to the "nations of the world for a new world order, based on justice and law." He weighs the actualities of trade, finance and the collective safety and solvency of the Western world.

Something like a picture of a western league of nations began to emerge as the great imperialisms turn toward the vast raw material storehouse of South America.

After his graduation from Harvard in 1914, Franklin D. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy, helped him enter career diplomacy. In his early thirties, he was high commissioner to the Dominican Republic, the author of "Naboth's Vineyard," a two-volume study of that country. He was made ambassador to Cuba by President Roosevelt in 1933. He became undersecretary of state last year.

ROBERT DONAT, the English actor on the up-take in "The Citadel" and other films, made so many unsuccessful tries at the screen seven years ago that they called him "Screen Test" Donat. A competent actor, he met hard luck and was all but desperate, as something always went wrong. One day, in what he was sure would be his last try, the director told him to register despair. The irony of his merely imitating despair sent him into demonic laughter. Alexander Korda, in another room, heard him.

"Sign that man up, whoever he is," said Korda. "That's a great performance." He had what it took, and they routed him right through to fame and riches. He won by challenging a homily—"Do not despair."

CHAPTER XIV

Dale pushed on. His torturing reflections did not drive him as far afield as Pink suspected. He made his way out over a road that passed a woodland patch not far from the town limit. It was dark among the trees. Gratefully dark. There was nearness of rain in the unseasonable warmth.

Dale vaulted a fence and stumbled heedless of briars that caught and tore at his knees in passing. When he found himself in a small clearing, safe from the prying gleam of hurrying car lamps, he flung himself to the ground under a tree.

Alone at last with his seething thoughts.

So far, there had been only the wild urge to escape. From everything. Everybody. A vague realization that he must give battle to life, reach a decision of sort. But life, refused to function. He crouched alone in a mad upside-down world. Hands clenched in anguish. Host to a stormy panorama of distorted images.

Embroidery Is Lavished on Gowns of Rich Silk Weaves

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE elegance of the past is being revived in fashions of today. Fabrics as sumptuous as looms can produce, luxurious furs, resplendent jewelry, glamorous accessories, plus a lavishness of glittering embroidery, designful applique, cunning quilted motif and other ornate handiwork declare fashion to be in the "dress-up" mood of "a lady." Yes, and the term "lady" has been revived along with other elegancies of the past.

Fabrics especially bespeak a new era of elegance. There is that stately something, that "stand-alone" quality about the new silks that reflect the glories of the romantic past.

Again our gowns and our wraps are being made of stiff "stand-alone" moires and heavy silk ottomans and failles. Again the sweet music of rustling taffeta is heard, and again rich brocades and scintillating metal cloths are fashioning the stunning new jacket boues so beloved this season. Velvets of grand and glorious texture, tailored for daytime suits and for night, sweeping through ballroom with queenly grace are a present fabric highlight.

Commensurate with the beauty of these handsome materials is the lavish embellishment of embroidery and other ornamentation that adorns this season's modes. The trio of high-style fashions pictured expresses admirably the new feeling for decoration that now prevails. The dress of green silk canton crepe centered in the foreground foretells of dinner parties and theater engagements such as a winter season is sure to bring forth. The sleeves are the new three-quarter length. Note also the fashionable high shoulder line. The gold embroidery that enhances this costume is typical of the new trimming trends. And the ostrich muffs! A muff is inevitable this season. You'll be carrying a muff with your tailored suit or coat by day and by night. Matching ostrich feathers in the hair of the young socialite pictured adds to her endearing charms.

Smart for dinner and theater wear is the black silk crepe dress with a fitted long-sleeve jacket heavily bead-embroidered as illustrated to the right in the group. Note the pert squared shoulders. The simple dress underneath is unbelted and is worn with a large gold pin at the neckline.

The afternoon dress shown to the left is of rust uncut silk velvet with triangle shirring at the waistline. Gold leaf embroidery extends across the flattering bateau neckline with particular accent on shoulder interest. A persian velvet turban and a velvet bag add beguiling finesses.

One of the most pleasing fashions promoted this season is the afternoon dress styled in fine quality-kind silk crepe on whatever material you may choose, the sleeves of which are entirely and elaborately "allover embroidered. With a touch of embroidery at the waistline and wearing clips or other costume jewelry at the simple untrimmed neckline, you'll be groomed most becomingly.

Gay Campus Knits

Get busy knitting these cunning sweater and cap sets. Very inexpensive if you make them yourself. The classic skating sweater at the top goes fancy and gets itself ornamented with gay bits of colorful embroidery, with a trick little calot hat to match. Here it is done in brightest red knitting worsted, warm and durable. The little cap is "different" and notable for its practical earflaps that will defy the coldest breezes. The campus cardigan jacket below is also knit of warm germantown wool. It features bold horizontal stripes in two contrasting colors.

Indian Beadwork Popular in Paris

Beadwork is once again poking itself into the fashion foreground. Old Indian Joe himself would grunt with surprise if he happened along the Avenue Victor Hugo and saw a certain beaded belt, wide, supple and fringed and tasseled at its ends. Only non-Indian feature of the belt is the fact that its beaded design is more like an old French tapestry than a Navajo rug!

Another bit of beadwork seen on the boulevards is a beaded bolero jacket with solid turquoise background and a geometric pattern of gay colors made more brilliant by the addition of a few violet sequins.

Hoods Will Keep Your Ears Warm

Hoods to wear with sports clothes will be leading accessories this season, so there's no reason to freeze your ears. Molyneux makes big beaver and nutria hoods to go with cloth sports coats. Schiaparelli makes closely fitted ones of bushy fur that tie under the chin.

Alix has her own way, which is to combine sidecurtain ties with a pillbox hat. One model is a black pillbox hat with combined tawny ocelot fur and black wool jersey making the curtains that tie under the chin and keep the ears steam-heated even in the worst cold snap.

For Evening Clothes

The new beaded and paillette trimming which Schiaparelli indorses for evening clothes is reflected in evening bags that shimmer and are brilliantly colored. The bags are covered with bugle beads, iridescent paillettes, enameled paillettes.

"Fly-Away Hats"

Tiny hats with "fly-away" effects are the newest and most striking fashions.

Tips From Studios of Famous Designers

New suits have three-quarter jackets flaring sharply from a fitted waist.

Worth is showing trailing night-gowns completed by straight-hanging coats, ankle-length, in the same fabric.

Perhaps the most startling change in the fashionable world, aside from the lavish use of jewelry, is the return of all the primary colors.

The sky's the limit, fashionably speaking.

Pastel tints reign supreme in the lingerie world.

Pillbox hats, so popular this last season, have survived the stylists.

Red, green and black all jump to an early lead in the fall color race.

A Persian influence was noted in metal brocades and embroideries shown at Paris fall openings.

PRACTICE GUNSMITHING AT HOME

Make extra money by learning to repair or remodel the neighborhood's rifles, shotguns and revolvers. Most American communities can use the services of a qualified gunsmith if one is available, as the old-time gunsmiths are scarce.

Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First

Never give your children unknown "Bargain" remedies to take unless you ask your doctor.

A mother may save a few pennies giving her children unknown preparations. But a child's life is precious beyond pennies. So—ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about.

And when giving the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation—marvelously gentle for youngsters.

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermint-flavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips' 25¢ for a big box.

A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

"OUR BEST FRIENDS"
 Perhaps you have never thought of a book as a pal; but just the same there are millions who think just as much of a good book as of a good friend. That's the way it should be.
 How do you treat your friends? Do you tear off their skin as you do the pages in a book? Do you bruise them as you dirty the books? Do you drop them in muddy water on the side walk? If you do, I'm certainly glad I'm not your pal!
 Books are like friends. New books are like early friendships, so why don't we all acquire the habit of "handling books with care, and also appreciation?"

THE MAGAZINE SALE
 The students are very enthusiastic and excited this week due to the magazine campaign which is being conducted. It started Tuesday and will end next Tuesday.
 The campaign is divided into two sections, namely, the Americans and the Nationals. The boys are called the Nationals and the girls are called the Americans.
 The money which the school receives will be used to pay for the new mimeograph machine which has already been purchased.
 Miss Ohlroggs and Miss Daehnbach are the coaches for the Americans, and Mr. Gibson is the coach for the Nationals.

INTERMEDIATE ROOM
 We have named our reading groups after our favorite books. The titles are "The Ten Little Millers," "Pinocchio," "Salt and Pepper," and "The Pickaninny Twins."
 We are working on our second edition of our newspaper. We expect to have it ready by the end of next week. The price is one cent.
 The third graders are listening to a new radio program called "The Adventures of Peggy and Paul."

SICK IN BED
 It's no fun to be sick in bed. With an ice pack at your head. To take medicine and such junk. It isn't fair, it's just the bunk.

Mother comes with eggs and toast. She says it's good, but I wouldn't boast.
 With an ice pack at your head.

DRAMATIC NEWS
 Because of the conflict in dates of church and school activities the dramatic club will not meet on Wednesday evening until after the Christmas holidays.
 Although our regular meetings have been canceled the group is still active. We have begun rehearsals on our one-act Christmas play. The play chosen is "Christmas at Skagge Skule." Members of the cast were selected from the entire student body and the play promises to be a success.
 In addition to the high school play the grade teachers are planning a most interesting program for that evening. Apparently this year it is to be something different. We'll tell you more next week.

AROUND THE CLASSES
 "Hi! 'em high, hi! 'em low, come on class teams, let's go!"
 The first stop is in the senior English class room. Here we see a group of light hearted carefree seniors, because lo and behold, they have finally taken a liking to poetry. Now they are studying the works of Lord Byron, Keats and Shelley.
 The next stop leaves us with Mr. Furlong's Chemistry class. My, my, how interesting! They're studying about "Molecular Composition." Whew! That's about gases and their characteristics, the laws of Boyle, Charles, and Avogadro. Not so bad if you're really interested. That's what the seniors were doing. Now let's look into the sophomores Bio'ogy class. They are telling us that mammals are the rulers of the earth, and that they are characterized by their hair.

 Well, my goodness, here's still another class from this science room. The freshman General Science class, as I live. Mmmmmmm—they are studying about "foods." The sources of our food supply and such.
 Here, here, our team seems to be getting tired of the science room. Well, we'll go over to Mr. Gibson's room and see what his classes are doing. Several students of his Geography class have written to government agencies for information on various subjects for special topics they are to give. Too bad we can't hear those topics, eh?
 Come on Silver, let's have a look in the manual training room. Why, here's two lovely table lamps made by James Strupp and Reuben Harter. We also see a nice table. I guess it's made by Robert Smith and over there is a sewing stand. Roger Bilgo made it for his mother. And here's something else, a foot stool made by Henry Backhaus. Those boys down there certainly are accomplishing a lot.
 Guess that's all folks. We'll be back with more next week. HI HO! SILVER! LET'S GO!

K. H. S. 19; WEST BEND 17
 In a nip and tuck battle, K. H. S. extended an unbeaten season by winning their third straight game when they traveled to West Bend last Tuesday night.

Our team showed a never-say-die spirit again by coming out on the long end of a close score. However, the ball handling, general coolness, and assurance shown in previous games, were lacking.
 Consider this group of Kewaskum boys out of a school of 125 students, defeating a school of about 600 students and on their home floor. It's a tribute to the fight and spirit of these boys.
 Let's have a worthy turnout for an unbeaten team at the Rosendale game here Friday.

NOTES FROM THE "SNOOP"
 Now that the basketball season has begun, let's all show up for as many games as we can, and exhibit a most outstanding spirit. Don't you all think that would be a good idea?
 Next Tuesday night, Dec. 6, the entire operetta cast is having their party. This is to be the final round-up of the operetta and everything that goes with it.
 I wonder just how long it will be before every girl in high school is wearing that certain popular type of shoe? Rosenheimers will have to get an entire new stock pretty soon.
 Boy, do those boys on the basketball team feel proud after giving West Bend that show-down last Tuesday night. Yes, we remember, well the fact that Kewaskum was told to "sit down," at the student council convention a few weeks ago by a West Bend, because our school was so small. But—I guess we showed them that Kewaskum High school does not have to take a back seat at any time.
 Regardless of all the ribbing we got up at Campbellsport last Tuesday, the operetta seemed to go over pretty well. No, no, not over their heads!
 It won't be long now before the debate team is in full swing. There are five students who have expressed their desire to debate. We hope that there will be many more who will become interested in debating.
 In the magazine sales campaign this week, the National League (boys) seem to be making more hits than the American (girls). But you just wait, boys, those girls can show you up any time.

MATINEE DANCE
 The matinee dance held Wednesday, Nov. 23, was a success. The receipts amounted to $3.37. Part of the money will be given to the student orchestra. The rest of the money will be used to purchase games to be played during the noon hour.
 The dance party was well conducted and everyone had a good time.
