Guard Your Children's Health Over the Holidays

Close attention to the health and safety of Washington county children during the Christmas vacation is asked of their parents by Miss Gertrude P. Lorber, R. N., county nurse.

During the school terms the public health nurse and the teacher can help the community through group health inspections in the schools, but during vacations the prevention of outbreaks of communicable diseases rests more heavily than usual upon the parents.

This does not mean much extra effort, Miss Lorber points out, but if care is taken to put to bed or segregate children who catch colds, that ailment and other more serious ones of which the cold is an early symptom may be kept under good control with the aid of the family physician.

"The holidays offer a good opportunity to increase a child's natural resistance to disease through regular outdoor play (don't let them over do it), regular meal hours, and 9 or 10 hours of sleep in unheated, well-ventilated bedrooms.

"The holiday celebration is inclined to throw old and young off their regular diet. The sensible family will stick to plain food and regular hours, and will eat sparingly of holiday sweets," Miss Lorber's message reads.

B TEAM BEATS BOLTONVILLE

In a thrilling preliminary game that was tight from start to finish the Kewaskum B or second team defeated Boltonville by a score of 25 to 21. Outstanding in the contest for Kewaskum was C. Werner who scored 23 points alone, nearly three-fourths of his team's total 35. Boltonville held a very slight advantage in the first half, leading 10 to 6 at the end of the quarter, and 19 to 17 at the intermission. In the second half Kewaskum turned on the steam and the same went exactly the opposite with the locals taking the lead by the same margin at the end of both the third and fourth quarters as Boltonville did in the first two quarters. The score at the end of the third period was 23 to 27, Kewaskum, and the final result, 35 to 31.

The lineups for the two teams and number of points scored are as follows:

BOLTONVILLE—Riley, rf, 2; Koth, rf, 2; W. Schultz, rf, 0; Weiss, lf, 2; E. Frohman, rf, 11; L. Schultz, rg, 0; Wierman, lg, 2; Donath, lg, 0; Enright,

Strong Cedarburg Team Beats Locals

The high scoring Cedarburg Turners retained their hold on first place in the Land of Lakes league by defeating a game Kewaskum team in the local gym last Sunday, the final result being Cedarburg 23, Kewaskum 26. The locals gave the visitors a battle all through the contest until near the end when the opponents' height and accuracy for the hoop proved to be a little too much to handle.

Cedarburg used two teams in the game and by changing their lineup often were able to set a fast pace that was difficult to contend with by a five or six man team. Leading the visitors' quint were the two right guards, who scored 17 of the team's total 39 points. Hennings filled this position during the first half and came through with 7 points to lead his team in the period. In the second half it was speedy Monty Kafehl, who blasted Kewaskum's hopes by keeping his team ahead as he netted 10 points.

The Turners gave evidence of being the team to beat in the Lakes circuit this season. It was everything—speed, height, good shooting, smooth teamwork, and fight to the last drop. The team has Ritter, Kurtz, Blank, Fick, and Hennings, all veterans, who stand well over six feet. Where it is lacking in height it has speed aplenty in Kafehl, Sattler, Hoffmann, Herziger and Rix. These, too, are all veterans on the team and together the squad plays a steady, accurate game with a large amount of scoring nunch.

Although losing, Kewaskum must be complimented on the game it played against the odds. Lacking in height, the boys had the spirit and fight that they always have and gave Cedarburg all the battle it could stand to stay on top. Marx, Stenschke and Honeck played best for the losers. They scored 10, 9 and 4 points respectively and played standout floor games.

In the first quarter, before the opponents' reserve strength and ability with one handed push shots took effect, the teams put up an even battle. Cedarburg emerged with a slim one point lead at the end of the period, the score being 8 to 7. They held the lead from there on and increased it as the game progressed. The first signs of a let-up were noticeable on the local team in the second period as the visitors turned their height to advantage in building up a 23 to 15 lead at the intermission.

It was still anybody's game at the end of the third quarter, in which the Turners tallied 8 points to Kewaskum's 5. The score at this stage of the game was 31 to 20. Cedarburg, Kewaskum was a tired team in the fourth quarter but never gave up and outscored their opponents, 8 points to their 6, to lose finally, 39 to 26. Cedarburg's uncanny accuracy with one handed push shots from outside the free throw circle was the deciding factor in the battle.

Christmas Around the World

Picture Parade

Each land has its own Yuletide customs. Above, at New York's Rockefeller Center, carolers sing nightly before Christmas. In the Italian Alps, right, children pray before a wayside shrine.

Above, dressed in fancy costumes, Polish children stage scenes from biblical lore and sing religious songs, serenading the homes of villagers.

At tropical Cairo, in Egypt, European visitors erect their Christmas tree in the shadow of the pyramids. Left: Stockholm, Sweden, street decorations.

Few ceremonies are more colorful than those of Rumania, where villagers portray the three wise men, shepherds and an angel.

At Tromso, Norway, most northern part of Europe boasting a radio station, residents listen to the story of Christ's birth.

The Little Fir Tree

By Henry Harding

THERE was very little sunlight in the forest. The trees were so big, all the grown up trees. The little fir tree stretched himself, and tried to imagine himself as full grown. Looking up at the sky and the stars and the moon, he listened to the big trees talk. "Isn't the moon bright tonight," one would say; and there would be a gentle rustling of their leaves as the trees would shake their heads in agreement.

"I'm afraid you're going to be stunted, because there is so much shade here," a little squirrel said to the fir one day as he jumped into its branches and brushed the top limbs with his bushy tail. "It takes sunlight to make anything grow strong and tall."

So the little fir tree stretched himself up, and kept his head pointed up toward the spot of sunlight he saw clear up through the maze of heavy tree growth. He could be straight and upstanding, even if he hadn't grown tall.

Today the ground was all covered with the snow which stayed white in the forest. All but a few birds had gone south. Every once in a while there was the sound of steel striking against wood, and infrequently a crashing sound of falling trees.

The tall trees began to tremble. "The woodcutters are out. But this is a funny time of year," one murmured to the others. Then one of the little snow birds spoke. "Have you forgotten that every year they come to cut Christmas trees?"

"What are Christmas trees?" the little fir asked.

"Oh, they cut down the trees and take them in the house, and put candles on them so they look like stars, and spangles that look like snow shining in the moonlight. And the people sing songs and give each other gifts, and it is a time of being glad," the little snow bird twittered.

"Oh, I wish they would take me," the little tree cried in excitement. "I'd love to see it all. I'd love to make people happy. But I'm too little," and he sighed unhappily.

"Sh! Let's all be quiet," one of the tall trees exclaimed. "The woodsmen are coming near us. We must be quiet so they won't notice us. Then we won't be cut down and left to die."

But in spite of their silence, the men drew near. They looked at the trees, and one of them said: "Oh, these are all too tall. No house or church could hold them. Let's get on."

Just then a little lad who was riding in the sled, called to his father: "Dad, can we find a little tree for sister? Couldn't we find a cute little tree to put in her very own room?"

"Ho! Ho!" laughed a big rough man. "In her own room? No little girl will stay in her room on Christmas day!"

The lad's father answered, sadly: "Yes, my little girl will. She had infantile paralysis last summer, and hasn't been able to walk since. Surely, son, we'll find a little tree for her."

"Here I am, here I am! come and get me," the little fir tree called out lustily. And the little boy turned and saw the branches trembling, and the little snow bird flying away.

"Why, dad, there is a cute little tree over there. Such a beautiful straight tree. Wouldn't that do?" he called.

The man got out from the sled. He walked to the tree and fondled it gently. "I never saw a more beautiful tree. It seems to glow. Molly will love it," he said with a smile.

The little tree was so happy that he didn't feel the blows from the ax that cut him to the ground. And when they put him into the sled, he was still happy. The little boy called to his father: "It sounds as if the little tree was singing when the wind blows through its branches." And the little tree laughed delightedly.

Poinsettias for Christmas
Poinsettias have come to be accepted as the ideal Christmas plant. Their colors reflect correctly the Yuletide atmosphere and a little care and attention will preserve them for many years to come. Although native to Mexico and Central America, these members of the Euphorbia family grow readily in southern states, also in hothouses. The plant's colors, red and green, are responsible for its Yuletide popularity. Holly and mistletoe are other favorite plants.

Largest Tuned Bell
The largest tuned bell in the world, weighing 18 1/4 tons, is in the great 72-bell carillon in the Riverside church, New York city. Incidentally, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, such a bell can never get out of tune except, of course, when it is cracked.

Inhabitants of Argentina
The inhabitants of Argentina are mostly of European blood. Only about 2 per cent show traces of non-Caucasian stock.

Speed of Raindrops
When the watery vapor in the atmosphere is condensed into drops, these fall to the earth by their own weight. The very small drops which fall slowly are called fog, mist or cloud. The large raindrops fall from 15 to 25 feet a second; smaller ones fall about 5 feet a second.

Shakespeare's School Hours
Shakespeare's school hours in summer were from 6 in the morning until 6 at night and in winter from daybreak until dusk.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

Murder Ship

HELLO EVERYBODY: You know, boys and girls, there are two kinds of adventures—the kind that hits you like a ton of bricks and is all over in about five seconds, and the kind that sneaks up on you slowly and subtly and sticks with you until you're worn down to the point of exhaustion. And it's the latter sort of tale you're going to hear today—the story of how Charles Mahler of Brooklyn, N. Y., stepped onto a boat weighing a hundred and forty-five pounds on a bright day in the winter of 1921, to stagger off it five days later weighing a scant one hundred and ten. Not many reducing addicts would want to follow Charley Mahler's formula for growing thin, though, for it was sheer, unadulterated terror that took the pounds off his body. Five days and nights of the most helpless fear he had ever experienced in his life.

The story starts in the Dominican Republic, down in the West Indies. Charley had been working there for a sugar concern in La Romana; for about six months. He was off on a week's vacation in Santo Domingo City when orders came transferring him to Barahona, in the same country, where a new project was being started.

Books Passage on Sailing Vessel.

At about that time a strike in the steamship industry had tied up all the boats. Charley was told that there wouldn't be a steamer sailing for Barahona for three weeks. There are darned few railroads or motor roads in the Dominican Republic, and none of them went where Charley wanted to go. It was a boat or nothing. So Charley did the only other thing he could do. He strolled down to the waterfront and booked a passage on a sailing vessel which was leaving port that night.

It was supposed to be an overnight trip. Charley had heard strange tales about these sailing packets, so he left his belongings behind to be shipped by freight. With two guns in his pockets and a round of ammunition under his shirt he walked aboard the vessel. It was pitch dark. His bed—the only accommodation the boat afforded—was a common wooden box placed on deck. Charley sat down on the box and watched the boat glide out of the harbor. They had barely reached the ocean when a storm blew up. Dark shadows began rising from the deck. There were 40 Haitian natives, also bound for Barahona.

It was then that Charley discovered he was the only white man on the boat—and the natives of those parts have been known to kill a white man for his shoes. The storm was now knocking the little sailing craft around with all the fury of a tropic cyclone. "Scared?" asked Charley. "I was ossified." The captain himself was jet black, but I slipped him ten dollars for protection. He offered me the hospitality of his cabin. The odor of it damned near killed me. It was crawling with bedbugs and roaches and alive with rats and mice. When I awoke next morning I was really sick from sleeping there, but it was a safer bet than sleeping outside."

That morning there wasn't a breath of air stirring. The captain had bad news for Charley when he awoke. The ship had been blown ten miles off its course and the steering gear was out of commission. The captain was depending entirely on the wind. If they waited long enough it would eventually blow them to Barahona.

"That whole day," says Charley, "I sat staring at the natives and they sat looking at me. There was no food on the boat and the water had turned hot in the tropic heat. Toward evening I noticed several natives holding a conference and I felt trouble brewing. The blacks were getting hungry, and they'd take it out on me."

And what was Charley going to do for sleep that night? He knew darned well he could never stand another night in the filthy, stuffy cabin. He spoke to the captain again and made another bargain. The captain stood the night watch at the wheel, and he agreed to watch over Charley while he slept near him on deck, his body lashed to the rail of the vessel.

The Natives Become More Restless.

But you don't get much sleep lashed to a railing. All night long Charley lay awake listening to the snores of the natives around him and thinking of the comforts of home. The next day was hot and humid. Hunger gnawed at his innards, but he had to make the best of it. The natives were getting more and more restless. They eyed Charley's clothes with covetous looks that became more and more insolent and apparent. And still there was no sign of the wind that would blow them into Barahona.

That night, worn out by two days and nights of wakefulness, Charley fell asleep. Sometime in the dark hours he woke up suddenly, by sheer instinct. In the dim light of a tropic moon he saw two dark figures creeping along the deck toward him—two natives—great, husky blacks with machetes in their mouths!

"They didn't know my eyes were open," he says, "if they had known I wouldn't be alive today. But their ignorance gave me an opportunity to draw my guns."

Charley got those guns out just as the natives were taking their machetes from their mouths. He whipped up one gun and fired twice. In an instant, two men were dead on the deck and the whole ship was in an uproar. Dark figures came swarming toward him. The captain was a big, powerful fellow. Charley says he was built on the style of Harry Wills in his prime. He picked Charley up with one hand, threw him into his cabin head first, and then, with the aid of a revolver and his powerful physique, held that furious mob at bay.

Captain Threatens to Sink the Ship.

The next morning the captain held an inquiry, announced that Charley had shot in self-defense, and threatened to sink the ship if any more attempts were made on his life. "Calm was restored at last," says Charley. "And in the meantime, for four solid days and nights we had nothing to eat and little to drink."

On the fifth day they sighted land—but when they tied the boat up to shore later on that day, Charley was too weak to walk the gangplank. They carried him up it, weighing a hundred and ten pounds—all that was left of the hundred and forty-five pounds of good solid flesh he had carried when he got aboard that lugger at the waterfront of Santo Domingo City.

Did Not Like Buttons

Once, a gentleman would rather have been shot than have any buttons on his coat. In England, about 700 years ago, the fasteners were only "scandalous ornament on men of low degree. A bit later whole sleeves might be buttoned, from wrist to above the elbow. Buttons have not always been used as fasteners, says the Washington Post. The rank of a Chinese mandarin was distinguished by the color button he wore on his hat.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Make a bag on a hanger.

THIS bag has been a great success. Several others can be made for different purposes. They are good to hang in the closet or the sewing room for patterns or small equipment. When traveling I find a little bigger one perfect for laundry. The size shown here requires 3/4 yard of bright ticking. You will notice in the sketch that French seams are used. This makes the first stitching of the seams on the right side. Trim close to this stitching, turn the bag inside out and stitch the seams again so that the raw edges are covered. Punch a small hole in the center top for the hanger hook. Clip today's lesson and add it to the many gift suggestions contained in the books offered below.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Book 5—Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, has helped thousands of women and their spare time to make things to sell and to use. Book 1—Sewing, for the Home Decorator, is full of inspiration for every homemaker. These books make the most delightful gifts Mrs. Spears will autograph them on request. Books are 25 cents each. Crazypatch quilt leaflet is included free with every order for both books. Address: Mrs. Spears, 113 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

We Must Eat He arrived hung to find his young wife weeping bitterly. "What's the trouble, my dear?" he asked.

"Boo-hoo," she wept, "the cooked meat shop is moving from the corner."

"Never mind," he said, gently. "we can move too, you know!"

Brisk Business "Yeah," said the Westerner, "we're sure plenty tough out here, stranger. Why, every time I kill a man I carve a notch on my revolver butt."

"Well," replied the stranger, "you can't scare me, for you haven't done much killing, I see. That revolver butt of yours hasn't a single notch on it."

"Yeah, I know it, stranger. I have to put a new butt on every week."

C. Houston Goudiss Asks How Do You Get Your Vitamin D? Relates Need for and Sources Of This Necessary Vitamin

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

THERE is scarcely a mother of a young baby today who has not at one time or another been told to give her child cod-liver oil. Perhaps she does not know this substance must be given to the baby for the vitamin D that it contains. But she has heard that there is something in cod-liver oil which makes it valuable to the baby's health.

A generation ago, cod-liver oil was given to children in the winter time, "to build them up" after colds or various other respiratory illnesses. It was not until 1921, however, that a long series of painstaking investigations, terminating in the discovery of vitamin D, made it clear that cod-liver oil is valuable as a source of vitamin D, and also why this vitamin is essential in the diet of growing children, as well as adults.

Discovery of Vitamin D

After years of patient work and many thrilling and dramatic experiments, seven forms of vitamin D have been revealed by science. And scientists have also solved the mystery of how such widely separated factors as cod-liver oil, sunlight; a diet that is rich in, and carefully balanced with calcium and phosphorus; and ultraviolet light, all can perform the same service for the body.

Readers of this column may have observed that the discovery of a number of the vitamins came about chiefly through the efforts of investigators to discover a method of treating or curing obscure nutritional diseases. In most instances, however, carefully controlled laboratory experiments played their part in reaching the ultimate goal after some clue had been found as to what the mysterious substance might be that helped to control a baffling nutritional disease. The discovery of vitamin D was no exception!

Vitamin D and Rickets

Vitamin D is associated intimately with the prevention and cure of rickets, the most devastating nutritional disease of children in temperate climates. Indeed, it is the moderate, and in some cases the small amount of sunshine in the temperate zone that accounts partially for the presence of rickets. Historians have given us reason to believe that this disease may have existed in England even before the Roman conquest. Certainly it appeared in a serious form, both in England and in other North European countries, in the Seventeenth century. In fact, early literature refers to it as the English disease, and the early attempts to fathom its causes were written in Latin by English and Dutch doctors during the 1600's.

In rickets, the child's head grows large and out of proportion to the body, while the leg and arm bones, and in severe cases even the ribs, are bent and twisted out of their normal shape.

Need for Calcium and Phosphorus

The two principal minerals required for constructing the bones and teeth are calcium, obtained chiefly from milk, cheese and green leafy vegetables, and phosphorus, found in generous amounts in eggs, whole grain cereals and dried legumes. But one of the things that made it so difficult for scientists to determine the cause of rickets was the fact that apparently well fed children, who had plenty of calcium and phosphorus, frequently developed the disease.

Mystery of Cod-Liver Oil

Cod-liver oil had been used for many years because of its supposedly "tonic" or "building" properties, when it was observed that regular doses of cod-liver oil not only cured rickets in children, but also cured the corresponding disease in adults, called osteomalacia, in which the bones become soft as the calcium and phosphorus already deposited in them are withdrawn and excreted.

Fat and Vitamin D

One of the strangest paradoxes to the scientists in their early investigations was the fact that while cod-liver oil appeared to cure rickets, another substance high in fat—butter fat, did not. More research work was necessary before it was discovered that while butter was rich in vitamin A, cod-liver oil contained two vitamins, one of which was later named vitamin D.

Effect of Sunlight

More work was necessary and it took years of patient effort before science unraveled the mystery of how sunlight could have the same apparent effect in preventing rickets as cod-liver oil.

Once nutritionists understood how sunlight acting on a fatty substance in the skin could produce vitamin D, however, it was not difficult to carry the process a step further and learn how to fortify foods with a satisfactory content of vitamin D.

Today we have at our disposal irradiated milk, or milk to which a vitamin D concentrate has been added. Margarine, too, has been enriched not only with vitamin D, but with vitamin A so that this moderate-priced spread for bread has been made an effective vitamin carrier.

Natural Food Sources of Vitamin D

The richest natural sources of vitamin D are the fish-liver oils, including the liver-oil of the tuna, swordfish, rock fish, salmon, halibut, mackerel, cod and haddock. The body oils of many fish also furnish substantial amounts. That accounts for the fact that canned salmon has been regarded as such a splendid food in the diet of children and adults. It is not only a good source of protein and of energy values, but it contains substantial amounts of the minerals, calcium, phosphorus and iodine, and has been found to be an unusually good food source of vitamin D.

Egg yolk contains small amounts of vitamin D, and when eaten regularly, the quantity is enough to have a significant effect in the diet of children.

Vitamin D Requirements

So important is vitamin D considered, that the United States Children's Bureau advises that cod-liver oil or some other form of this vitamin be supplied to all babies, beginning at the age of two or three weeks.

Mothers should be guided by the advice of their physician in determining when to start the use of a vitamin D preparation and what quantities to give. But if they want to give their babies the blessing bestowed on them by the scientists who discovered vitamin D, they must not overlook this important substance.

As guardians of the health of both children and adults, mothers should see to it that vitamin D is supplied regularly through the use of eggs and salmon; irradiated foods and those fortified with vitamin D; and if necessary, fish-liver oils or concentrates.

Questions Answered

Miss G. M. L.—Yes, it is true that sweet potatoes contain a small amount of protein. In fact, their protein is composed of four amino acids known to be essential to nutrition. Some of the protein may be lost if the potato is boiled, but it is entirely preserved when the potato is cooked by dry heat.

Mrs. M. B.—Both cooked lentils and baked kidney beans contain over 20 per cent of carbohydrate. Low carbohydrate vegetables include cabbage, celery, cauliflower, kale, lettuce and spinach.

Charles Haesly, residing about four miles west of Campbellsport, lost a thumb while operating a circle saw on his brother's farm recently. The injury was a very painful one and the young man was very lucky that his entire hand was not severed.

The sixteenth annual ball of the Old Settlers' club of this village, given in Groeschel's hall, was very well attended. Seventy-eight dance tickets were sold. The Kewaskum Quintette furnished the music.

Judge A. C. Backus began his new six year term on the municipal court bench at Milwaukee.

Reports were circulated on Tuesday that Jacob Honeck of the town of Kewaskum had been found unconscious on the road near Allenton that morning and that his team of horses had run away and were not found. Mr. Honeck, together with his son Kilian, delivered some grain with two teams to Allenton. Upon returning home Kilian went in advance and did not pay any attention to his father in the rear, and arrived home unaware of the accident. When about three and one-half miles northeast of Allenton, the tugs on the harness of the team, which the senior Mr. Honeck was driving, in some manner became unhooked and the wagon tongue dropped out of the rockyoke, frightening the horses, who became unmanageable and ran away, throwing Mr. Honeck off the wagon forcibly to the ground near a wire fence. With special effort he was able to crawl to a nearby farm, where Peter Moritz assisted him into the house and at once summoned medical aid. Mr. Honeck sustained two broken ribs and other internal injuries.

MEETINGS TO PLAN THE FUTURE OF WISCONSIN DAIRYING

Speakers from the Department of Agriculture and Markets were heard at two Washington county meetings this week to discuss the future of Wisconsin dairying. Similar meetings will be held throughout the state. The speakers gave illustrations to show the story of dairy production and consumption, of competition that exists in the dairy industry, and also outlined methods that can be used to increase the Wisconsin farmers' income. "Planning the future of Wisconsin Dairying" says Ralph E. Annon, director of the Department of Agriculture and Markets might be considered a suitable title for these meetings.

The Washington county meetings were as follows: Wednesday, December 21 court house, West Bend, 1:30 p. m.; Thursday, December 22, city hall, Hartford, 1:30 p. m.

BEST BUYS IN PROTEIN SUPPLEMENTS

Washington county dairymen who are asking what protein supplements will give most for their money, these days, will likely find the answer in corn gluten meal and soybean oil meal. These are the protein foods which Gus Bohstedt, animal nutritionist at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture has found most economical to buy right now when costed meal is somewhat higher priced and linseed meal relatively expensive.

On dairy farms where oats and barley make up the greater part of the dairy ration, he finds that corn gluten meal fits in well as a protein supplement. But if corn or corn-and-cob meal are used to a great extent in the dairy ration, it is better to use soybean oil meal rather than corn gluten meal as a protein supplement. Corn proteins have certain deficiencies which can be pretty well overcome only if the corn or corn by-product is fed along with other grains such as barley, oats, or bran. Corn gluten meal, however, is not desirable for hogs because it is not very palatable and does not balance the protein in the corn which ordinarily makes up a large part of the hog ration.

Some farming systems are inherently soil conserving; others are not unless special practices are followed. Moreover, this country is so diverse in soil, climate, and other ways that it can be divided into at least 500 type-of-farming areas.
The U. S. Forest Products Laboratory, at Madison, Wisconsin, reports that average green-cut cord wood should be seasoned from 9 to 12 months. However, the wood begins to deteriorate, if left to slay for more than two or three years.

Doans Pills Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

Doans Pills You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to get rid of excess poisonous body waste. They are antiseptic to the urinary tract and tend to relieve irritation and the pain it causes. Many grateful people recommend Doan's. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your neighbor!

CHRISTMAS
Another year is gradually drawing to an end, and with it comes Christmas.
The very word causes one to become intensely excited, peaceful and happy.
It is a holiday celebrated in every part of the world with great magnificence and festivity. Colorful ornaments and picturesque decorations adorn the show windows of the stores, helping to create the real Christmas spirit in the hearts of children and adults.
Beautiful greeting cards are sent to relatives and friends. Expensive and inexpensive presents are distributed among relatives and friends, with sincere appreciation of their love and joyalty during the year. The children live in anxiety for weeks before, wondering what good old Santa will bring them.

Let's make this Christmas the happiest we have ever known. Forget your sorrows and disappointments, and greet everyone with a hearty "Merry Christmas." Say it as though you really meant it! Put your whole heart into it! Accompany your greeting with a warm, sincere smile. Enjoy yourself to your heart's content with the material things of Christmas, but do not forget the spiritual side.
Start the day with attending the solemn, stirring, and ceremonious service in your church. Here, meditate on the real joy of Christmas—the birth of the Christ Child.

—Lucille Theisen
DEBATES
Two non-decision debates were held Monday night after school. One affirmative team composed of Marlin Teschendorf and Curtis Romaine, debated with a negative team from Random Lake High school. A negative team composed of Lucille Pfennig and Dolores Backhaus debated with an affirmative team from Random Lake.
Each constructive speech lasted seven minutes and the rebuttal speeches lasted three minutes. Our debate teams expect to return a debate at Random Lake some time after Christmas.
We hope that more students will become interested in debates so that more debate teams can be organized.

MESSAGE OF THE STAR
The star shone bright, that blessed night,
Upon the bed where Jesus lay.
The wise men followed that bright star,
And found the Babe upon the hay.

They gave Him gifts of frankincense,
And gifts of myrrh and gold
They knelt and worshipped that dear child,
Of which the star had told
—By Virginia Steele
POEM ABOUT CHRISTMAS
On the hills the shepherds keep,
Careful watch o'er their sheep,
Every heart is quiet and still
All is calm upon the hill.

Then during the peaceful night
They saw a circle of heavenly light,
Then hark—an angel of the Lord,
Spoke to them this glorious word.
Good tidings to you I bring
In Bethlehem is born a king,
His name is Christ, so long foretold,
By prophets' song of old.

Hasten now the king to find,
Christ, the Savior of mankind,
Every shepherd hurried then,
To the inn at Bethlehem.
Mother and Child there they found
With God's glory shining round,
There the little baby lay
On a manger bed of hay.

Sewing set for little Mae,
Hobby horse for John and Jay,
Baby doll for Mary Lou,
And a train for many too.
Santa always likes to leave
To make his rounds on Christmas eve,
Hurriedly he says good-bye
And reindeers pull him to the sky.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY
The Shepherds heard the angels sing
So many years ago,
To make Christ known to all the earth,
His birth to greet and love.

He came to save the world of sin,
A babe to us was born,
So many hundred years ago
On that great Christmas morn.
—By Edna Schaefer

AROUND THE CLASSES
The senior Social Problems class has just begun a new chapter on war. War is a grave thing to talk about especially a few days before such a joyous festivity, Christmas. Many students protested, and convinced Miss Dachen-bach to read an interesting story to them.

The chemistry class is now busy working out formulas for sulphides and sulphates.
The bookkeeping class is quite busy writing out checks, receipts, bills, etc.
In the senior English we may sooner or later find what you call, "a poet."
This is probably one of the most sincere poems that was written:

I'M NOT A POET
My teacher dear, I just can't write
Any kind of poem to-night,
I've thought and thought and thought,
Some more
Until my brain is really sore,
I'm not a Poe or Whit-
I'm just an un-
I'd really like to write a poem
That you'd be proud to show at home.
But now I guess I'll have to say
I'm going upstairs and hit the hay.
Good night.

The sophomore Biology class is studying, "Foods, Stimulants, and Narcotics."

In History the sophomore girls are studying India and China and their people.
The freshman English class is studying the essay, which is a short prose composition expressing the author's opinion on any subject.

In their Science class they are taking up the water supply and its purification.
And in their citizenship class they have had quite a time discussing political parties and elections.

WHO'S WHO
Well, have you guessed who last week's popular girl was? Here's the answer, Annette Beilke.

For Pete's sake, Oh! It's you, I might've known, you're always on the run when your girl friend comes.

I'm sorry, folks, for the uncalled for interruption, but now that it occurred, you all, no doubt, would like to know who the offender was. Well here are a few clues. It's a studious young senior romero. He may be described as tall, dark and handsome. He is interested in the newly organized Stamp club.
His scholastic average is ranked with the highest. He is usually seen with a group of senior boys in Werner Hoerig's car, especially during the lunch hour and after school.

I can't give you any more clues or I'll be solving the case myself. Come on fellow-detectives, dust the cob-webs of your thinking-caps and solve this little mystery story. It's so easy that it may seem hard.
Have you got the answer? Well, now let's see if you're right. The answer is —in our next school news.

CHRISTMAS PARTY
On Friday afternoon the Christmas party will be held in the high school gym. The Christmas tree will be situated in the center of the gym, around which the students will march, singing Christmas carols. After the singing of carols, the presents will be distributed and refreshments will be served.

PEP-MEETING
On Friday of last week, the junior class gave an assembly pep-meeting.
The pep-meeting was a little skit entitled "Defeat of Campbellsport." The program was one of great comedy. After the skit, the cheer leaders came forth and led us in a round of cheers.
The next pep-meeting will be given by the sophomore class Friday, January 18th, when we play Lomira in our gym.

OFFICE NEWS
Tuesday, December 20th, Mr. Larson, a field man and representative of the N. Y. A. office at Kenosha, visited our school. He was interested in seeing what types of work the N. Y. A. students were doing, and offered suggestions to that effect. Mr. Larson reported that the N. Y. A. assistance in manufacturing towns of his district, was not in as great a demand as in the past, indicating the economic conditions are improving.

KEWASKUM HIGH 36, CAMPBELLSPORT 19
The Green and White of K. H. S. showed its power to a heretofore invincible Campbellsport team last Friday night.
The game's outcome was never in doubt as the cool, smooth-working Kewaskum team took things in hand, and pulled away from their rivals.
The distinct superiority of K. H. S. over Campbellsport was a surprise to many local people, as well as to the Campbellsport rooters. The 10-3 lead which Kewaskum had at the end of the first quarter, looked large, but not invincible, however, the third quarter ended 29-13. A wa-give-up attitude was evident on the faces of the opponent rooters. The last quarter was a rough affair, but there were no casualties, so the game was a total success for Kewaskum.

By virtue of this win and Oakfield's defeat at the hands of North Fond du Lac last Tuesday, Kewaskum is tied for first place with Campbellsport and Oakfield. Let's stay on top!

most of the rural families which
