on Town of Wayne Farmer Confess

A middle aged former WPA workr and a youth of 19 were brought from Milwaukee to West Bend Thurs. afternoon to answer charges owing out of the slugging of Carl Degnitz, 63, town of Wayne farmer, last week Wednesday, Mar. 29.

District Attorney M. L. Meister of Washington county notified this ofice early Friday that full confessions were made Thursday by Reinhold Fonslow, 51, of 1424 N. Eleventh st., Milwaukee, and George Joyce, 19, of 2714 W. Kilbourn av., that city. In a wield plot to clear the way for Fonslow to "marry money," they admitted, according to Dist. Atty. Meister,

They drove from Milwaukee to the of Wayne. On the way Fonslow bught a baseball bat which he gave to Joyce, promising him some money, Fonslow parked the car some distance from the Degnitz farm. Joyce valked to the tarn. He waited until Degnitz' sister, Miss Selma, 64, left he barn for the house. Then Joyce hit Degnitz over the head twice with

They hoped, they said, that with egnitz "out of the way," Fonslow ould marry Miss Degnitz, according authorities. Fonslow, who formery lived in Washington county, didn't now Degnitz or his sister but he was worth $60,000 to $70,000.

Car Stolen From E. E. Forensic Winners in Skaliskey Here, Found

NUMBER 27

The Ford automobile owned by E E. Skaliskey of this village, Washington county agent, stolen from his garage here at night Feb. 11. was recovered Monday by Fond du Lac officers. The authorities found the car in a field off County Trunk HH, near Calumetville. It was completely stripped of everything possible, including license plates, batteries, wheels and tires and other removable parts. The car was identified only by some literature, a badge and a plate bearing the name of E. Skaliskey on the rear license plate holder.

Fond du Lac authorities believe the car was used by two bandits who robbed a filling station last week that village early Monday to rob a second all-night service station. They are thought to have robbed a station in Fond du Lac also. A description of the car given to authorities answers that of Mr. Skaliskey's. ille the night Skaliskey's was abanin Mr. Skaliskey's car which had been ssued to G. J. Paap, Johnson Creek.

France Guards African Empire Against Aggression from Libya

Tunisia, key to French territorial power, is guarded against Italian conquest ambitions by native soldiers who pa-trol the Libyan border day and night.

When Italy first began unofficial clamoring for Tunisia, the Italian travel bureau in Tunis (above) was well smashed up during demonstrations. This happened early-last December following Count Ciano's remarks in the Italian chamber of deputies. In the intervening three months Paris has made Tunisia almost as impregnable as the famous Maginot line which guards France from Germany. Since the Tunisian frontier is largely mountainous, like the view shown at right, an invading army from Libya would have intense difficulty scaling peaks and fighting off artillery.

Tunisian natives watch modern fighting tanks on parade.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

Elmo Scott Watson

A Frontier Paul Revere AMES WATSON WEBB was the famous editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer who also had a career as a politician and diplomat. But he deserves more honor for a daring exploit which he performed as a young man on the Illinois frontier. The scion of an old New York family, Webb ran away from home at the age of 17 and went to Washington where he persuaded John C. Calhoun, secretary of war, to give him a commission in the

In October, 1821, young Lieutenant Webb was sent to join the garrison at Fort Dearborn. In the middle of the winter John Kinzie, the Indian agent at Chicago, reported to the commander that the Sioux and Foxe Indians were plotting to surprise and massacre the garrison at Fort Snelling the next spring. Colonel McNeil immediately called for volunteers to carry the news of the plot to Fort Armstrong (near Rock Island, Ill.) so that word could be sent up the river to Fort Snelling. Lieut. Webb offered to make the journey. Accompanied by a sergeant and a Pottawatomie guide, he set out early in February. He intended to go first to the post of a French trader on the Rock river and there secure a Winnebago guide. But when he reached the post he found the Winnebagoes holding war dances. So Webb and the sergeant cautiously circled around the camp and headed toward Fort Armstrong. The weather was bitterly cold and the two men faced the danger of perishing in the raging blizzard. But in spite of this they reached Fort Armstrong in safety. As a result of their trip, the commander at Fort Snelling so reinforced his post that the Indians did not dare attack and a possible massacre was averted.

A Safety-Minded Adventurer

THE Colorado river was referred to as a "mysterious monster" until Maj. J. W. Powell made the first authentic survey of its canyons in 1869. It lured many daring adventurers to their death both before and after his first expedition. Strangely enough, Powell was a scholar and not an adventurer by purpose. Even when he made his successful journey down the river, it was his methodical preciseness rather than engineering or navigatng ability that brought success. The Colorado descends an average of more than eight feet each mile and makes this drop by a series of rapids. It rages th with perpendicular walls that often tower several thousand feet.

Powell never ran into anything dangerous when he could avoid it. Being a geologist and not a navigator, he beached his boat and sent men along the cataract walls to reconnoiter the rapids ahead before he attempted to descend them. Powell's methods were so successful that he is one of only a few who ever made expeditions down the Colorado without losing a single life.

He traveled the Colorado from the Green river in Wyoming to Virgin canyon below the Grand canyon, bringing back the first authentic information about that natural wonder.

Although he was a professor of geology at Illinois Wesleyan university and had had no navigating experience before his first venture, he designed boats that became models for Colorado river work.

Major Powell was a paradox-a cautious man whose motto was "safety first" and yet he was one of America's greatest adventurers.

'King' Strang

N 1847 James Jesse Strang-and the first two names are in the proper order!-led a colony from Voree, near LaCrosse, Wis., to the Beaver islands just west of Traverse bay in Lower Michigan. There he set up a "kingdom" over which he ruled with an iron hand. He was a picturesque figure with his flaming whiskers almost as red as the kingly robe he wore.

Not only aid he dispense his own cruel brand of justice to the people in his colony but he constantly made war on the Irish fishermen on the mainland and often pillaged their homes. Finally he became so bold that President Fillmore issued a warrant for his arrest on a charge of treason for setting up an independent government within the Unit ed States. For some unknown reason he was not found guilty and returned to his "kingdom."

But his downfall was not long in coming. He made a law that al! women were to wear short skirts with baggy bloomers. When Mrs Thomas Bedford refused, her husband was flogged for upholding her refusal. This was a fatal mistake For Bedford and another man who had been flogged at the same time waylaid their hated monarch and shot him. He was taken back to die of his wounds at Voree and the people of his "kingdom" were driven away from their island by the in habitants of the Michigan mainland

"Murder Machine"

HELLO, EVERYBODY:
George H. Dowd of the Bronx, N. Y., sends me a letter that starts out, "This is the first time I have ever tried to put an experience of mine down on paper. Shall I stop?" Well, the answer to that is: For Pete's sake, no, George. Because George has turned in one hum-dinger of a yarn. It's the story of a barrage of flying steel that was set off, not by powder or any other sort of explosive, but by actual horsepower -28 horses, galloping hell-bent for election, drawing behind them too, was blamed on circuma machine that spued death-dealing projectiles right, left, front stances that had nothing to breadstuffs, macaron and center.

It's the only case I ever heard of where projectiles were thrown by horses. Maybe some of those sword-rattling dictators of Europe will pick up this idea and use horses when their supply powder runs low. I haven't done any experimenting with this idea and I don't know how well it would work. But I'll tell you George Dowd's story and you can figure it out for yourself. It happened along about the middle of July, 1913, on the Idaho Falls Development company dry farm, a few miles northwest of Idaho Falls, Idaho. That farm was a seven-thousand acre wheat ranch. Out in that section they harvest their wheat in July, and George, who was just a young fellow then, had a job working on one of the big combine harvesters, sewing up sacks of grain.

There were three of those harvesters in the field-one drawn by mules, a second drawn by a steam engine or tractor, and the third, on which George was working, drawn by 28 head of horses. Those combine harvesters have a group of cylinders in them, hitched to the wheels and geared up to revolve at great speed when the horses are walking. George was working on a wooden platform on that harvester, directly over those revolving cylinders. But the cylinders weren't revolving at the moment, for man was putting a draper belt into the header, and the driver and the header man got down to help him, leaving George alone

Steam Pressure Explodes Safety Valve.

And then the fun started-but it wasn't any fun for George Dowd! It was the steam tractor hauling one of the other harvesters that started all the trouble. There was too much steam in the boiler and all of a sudden the safety valve popped off with a bang. "And within the same second," says George, "off went the 28 horses with the machine I was on in what you would call a real runaway!' Well, sir, a 28 horse runaway is something to write home about, but that was only the beginning. The men who were putting in the draper belt were knocked clear of the machine at the first jump the horses made. Then those animals were off down the field at a full gallop with the great unwieldy machine careening along behind them! And as they dashed along, the cylinders of the harvester, which revolved at high speed when the horses were just walking, began revolving at a speed greater than even steel can stand!

The horses hadn't gone a dozen feet when steel cylinders began bursting from centrifugal force and shooting out of the machine in all directions. The first one ripped up through the boards on which George was standing-ripped up with a deafening crack like the report of a cannon and shot past George's nose, straight up in the air. Another one followed-and another. Cylinders, gears and bits of broken metal came flying out of that machine in a veritable barrage.

He Clung to the Harvester's Reeling Platform,

"I was on the U. S. S. Leviathan for 22 months during the war," George says, "and I have heard her guns bark a good many times. And I would say that the reports these gears and hunks of metal made when leaving the machine were about as loud as those made by a sixinch cannon.

And George, standing right in the midst of that hail of flying steel, couldn't do anything about it. He was having all he could do to cling to the swaying, reeling platform of that harvester while the horses galloped along at breakneck speed. Piece by piece and board by board, the fir flooring of the platform was shot away until it was even with the heels

If he'd thought of it, he might have jumped, but for the first few moments he was too bewildered. He could feel the wind of those deadly metal projectiles as they whizzed by him. One of them hit him in the calf of the leg. Others ripped great holes in the canvas awning over his head. "There were pieces of steel weighing three or four pounds shot from that harvester," he says, "that were picked up later more than a mile away."

Help Was Already on the Way.

But meanwhile, help was already on the way. The repair man had a good saddle horse tied nearby and in less than half a minute he was in the saddle, riding hard. The runaways had almost a quarter of a mile head start, but gradually he closed up that distance. The barrage of steel had stopped by then, and George was safe as long as he could cling to his perch on the shattered platform.

He did cling to that platform. He clung to it for a full mile, while the harvester reeled and swayed and threatened to tip over. But at the end of that mile the repairman caught up with the lead horses and brought them to a stop.

George says that harvester was nearly new when it started, but it was a total wreck when it stopped. George, on the other hand, was lucky. His only injury was where that one piece of flying steel had hit his right leg. "And that," he says, "wasn't serious." Copyright-WNU Service.

Planning Meals Scientifically Today we know that a definite relationship exists between food consumption and bodily activity, and that normal individuals can usually control body weight by regulating the amount of fuel foods in the diet. We know that minerals and vitamins play a powerful part in building and maintaining sound teeth as well as healthy nerves; and that we can build resistance to disease, defer old age, and even lengthen the span of life by choosing our food, not merely for its appetite appeal, but for the qualities that contribute toward what nutritionists term

Every modern homemaker therefore owes it to her family not to plan meals at random, but to take into consideration the seven factors that science has determined to be essential for top health. These include: protein for building and repairing body tissue; carbohydrates to produce quick heat and energy; fats, a more compact form of fuel; minerals, which serve both as builders, and as regulators of body processes; vitamins A, B, C, D, E and G, which act as regulators, and help to prevent the various deficiency diseases; water, which serves as a vehicle by which food is carried to the tissues, and cellulose or bulk, required for the normal functioning of the intestinal

"I'll never do that," said I. But I did not say that, as both of us very well knew, fence we never so wisely, I must be disqualified. Instead, I stooped and kissed her exquisite mouth, and then drew herup to her feet and into my arms . . .

As though inspired by the Count of Brief's evil genius, Old Harry saw fit that evening to wear such a mask as made the blood run cold. Her right hand and her mirror, between them, had taught her terrible things. She had so painted her face might as well say to Elsa 'I don't two monstrous, pear-shaped diamonds that dangled as lusters do, and shuddered brilliance with every movement she made.

Here let me say that the game which she played was so cunning that I was soon out of my depth: add to which that she spoke in German which I could not understand. But, since I later knew all, I will set down directly what happened, because my own reactions have nothing to do with the tale.

Old Harry had had Herrick's note. She, therefore, laid herself out to entice the Count on to the ground "I wish I'd been there, with you which Virgil had said was forbidboth," she replied. "And all the den, three hours before. In a word, time I was here, being waited on she set out to make him put a rope

"I suppose you do," said I, "but it's not worth talking about."

"Well, I'm not going to pay it back. I'm proud to be in your debt. I'd like everyone to know it. What I really owe you can't be reduced to pounds: if it could, I could never pay it-and you know that as well as I. But this I can pay: but I won't. I asked you to lend me money, and now I won't pay you back. You've piled such mountains between us that let this lift up its head—a sordid little mole-hill of 40 her face and burst into tears. I would like to be shown the man that would not have gathered her weeping into his arms-and have done his poor best to comfort such beauty in such distress. And for me her hairs were numbered . . .

What d'you think my father would say, if he were alive?" "I know what he'd say," said I, if he were the Count of Brief."

Even at a literary luncheon, the question, so suddenly put, might well have disconcerted a wiser man: as it was, its striking irrelevance hit the Count over the heart.

He stared upon the Duchess, who had coolly returned to her plate, as though she had asked him whether his soul was saved: then he lifted his eyes to Virgil's-to read an interpretation which brought the sweat on to his face.

This is not, however, to hint that the undersecretary is any-thing less than 100 per cent American. He was born in New York City 46 years or so ago. Mary Ann's mother started the project with a rather large piece of blue gingham; a pair of embroidery hoops and some odds and ends of bright six strand mercerized embroidery thread. Split Stone With Water An unusual sight for visitors to Egypt is the Mokattam stone quarry where slabs of stone weighing several tons each are cut without the use of metal instruments. Employing the method used by the architects of Egypt's pyramids, modern workmen insert small wooden pegs in holes cut in the stone. These are swollen with water until they split the stone along its grain in the shape de-

-Weekly News Analysis Congress Speeds U. S. Defense: Okay Army Bill, Plan Big Ships

By Joseph W. La Bine-

President's original budget, but tossed in anyway, was a $250,000,000 grant for parity payments. But no financing was provided, and the house seemed economy bent. Rather than resort to unpopular processing taxes the house voted against parity, winning disfavor of the potent farm bloc and a victory for the President, who insists extra-budgetary needs must be met with definite taxation. Agriculture leaders hoped the senate would restore parity; even so, an embarrassing situation apparently lay ahead. With no money, glum dirt farmers saw only one way to pay off the govern-ment loans on which they have pledged 81,000,000 bushels of wheat.

The way: To default, making the now and August 1 by paying producers $1.25 a bale (on 8,000,000 bales) for releasing their government-held loan cotton for sale on the world market. Though the 1939 crop will otherwise swell government-held surpluses to 13,000,000 bales, congressional economy apparently won. Said Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum: "We might as well

Defense

On January 1, 1936, Japan scrapped her 5-5-3 naval treaty with the U.S. and Britain. Subsequently an arms race started on both land and sea, precipitated each time Der Fuehrer or Il Duce made an aggressive step. In the U.S., even loud-mouthed congressmen were loathe to think of defense in terms of actual invasion until self-righteous Germany swiped Czecho-Slovakia and Memel. Two weeks later congress got down to talking cases, passing an unprecedented $513,188,-000 army appropriations bill in jig time after war talk like this in the Having boosted army funds $52,-987,000 over the current year's appropriation, congress had next to consider navy news from the White House. Admitting Japan's secret naval program was one reason. President Roosevelt approved two 45,000-ton super super-battleships to cost $95,000,000 each, bigger than any yet conceived and capable of squeezing through the Panama canal with two feet to spare on either side. One good reason: By showing that the U.S. is able to out-arm any other nation, Japan might be forced back into a limitation treaty.

Present U. S. strength includes 15 capital ships (one nearing obsolescence) ranging from 27,000 to 33,000 tons. Six more are authorized. Britain has 15 capital ships in the same category, plus the 42,-000-ton Hood and nine other boats underway. Last Japanese report (in 1936) showed 10 capital ships, none over 33,000 tons, and three under construction. Vague rumors since then indicate about five new super dreadnaughts of excessive tonnage. Treaty or not, both Britain and the U.S. feel obligated to maintain a 5-5-3 ratio even though the world's third largest sea power sets

Find Joker in Department of Agriculture Appropriation Bill

It's the Soon-to-Be-Famous Food Stamps and Here's How Advanced Thinkers Think It Will Work; Billion Dollars Is All They Want.

The groceryman will department of agriculture to the take them and he will be paid hontaxpayers of the country amounted to something like $40,000,000. There ey for them. Thus will the surplus was some talk even in those days about the drain upon the federal treasury resulting from department of agriculture operations. The totals were questioned; many persons wondered whether the politicians were justified in voting that much money to the department because there was little to show in the way of results. That is, congressmen could show very little except the packages of seeds sent out to their

It was in those days, however, that the department of agriculture was seeking to operate effectively. Farming was not regarded by the folks who used to run the department as a subject for politics. The departmental officials were going about their business, rendering assistance in the form of advice and promoting better farming—when the farmers asked for it.

I was reminded of those days recently when the house appropriations committee brought out for consideration the appropriations bill for the department of agriculture for the fiscal year that begins next July 1. A Rip Van Winkle who could have slept through the last 10 years would have believed, truly, that he was in another world. The new money bill for the department contains a total of more than $1,000,-000,000. The measure, indeed, ranks as the third largest appropriations bill of this year when altogether there is likely to be almost $10,000,-000,000 appropriated

What Is Planned to Do

With a Billion Dollars It is extremely difficult to realize what a billion dollars is. That is, it is difficult for me to understand what it is. I can write the figures glibly enough. But to comprehend that sum of money, or a billion of anything, is something almost outside the pale of human knowledge. Yet that is what the department of agriculture seeks this year, and here is how that money is supposed to be divided:

$429,560,000 for soil conservation payments. $250,000,000 for parity payments.

$191,000,000 for road building. $21,462,000 for soil and moisture conservation and operations. $24,984,000 for the farm ten posals: Curtail the national labor $300,000 for co-operative farm forrelations board's power to invalidate union contracts; require NLRB elec-$250,000 for the water facilities tions by craft rather than by in-program. There were some other odds and ends embracing items of 20 or 40 or 90 thousand dollars, amounts so small that men almost smirk because they have forgotten how to speak in such limited numbers. Then, and here is the joker which is hidden away. I really should not say "hidden" because no reference is made in the agriculture bill language. The joker is that there are almost countless millions of other dollars with which the department can play around, including approximately $100,000,000 of money for use in getting rid of farm surpluses. That is the money from which Secthinkers will draw funds for the soon-to-be-famous food stamps. The country got it's belly full of blue eagles before the NRA was plowed under. But the undistinguished, yet befitting, end that came to the NRA blue eagle has not deterred the advanced thinkers from attempting something else that is blue—a blue stamp for relief food. Yes, relief workers will have the same wages as before, but they will receive free blue stamps with which to buy surplus products for foods.

workers under the Wagner act to processors and packers of farm How Wallace's Men Think Blue Food Stamp Will Work

I must write a little bit about that blue food stamp, about how the advanced thinkers think it will work, before I report on the main department of agriculture appropriation

It seems to be Secretary Wallace's idea of a more abundant life to designate certain farm products each week as being "surplus" and to help get them off of the glutted market by making them available for relief workers' kitchens. The first trial of the scheme will be limited to six cities. In those areas, the relief supervisors will be supplied with books of blue stamps. They are rather pretty stamps, too. Each WPA worker will get a book of stamps of a specified value. He can take those stamps to his gro-

the extreme discrimination that will result. It is easy to see. Take any man who is trying to hold down a private job. It may be paying him only $50 a month, or about the same as the relief worker gets. Naturally, he would like to be making more money. Who wouldn't? But he sticks on his job and stays off of relief. Then, when he gets paid he goes to the grocery store to buy some food. He pays cash, and gets his food.

est-to-goodness United States mon-one of Mr. Wallace's publicity staff,

About the same moment a relief worker walks in, orders the same list of groceries, perhaps, and pays for them out of a stamp book. It appears to me that the hard bitten private worker is going to find little solace in remaining on his job. It strikes me he-and millions of others-are going to be resentful of

See Possibility of Creating A Lot of Bootleggers

There is another phase of the picture which was mentioned to me by Representative Hope of Kansas, one of the ranking members of the house committee on agriculture. He suggested that the blue stamps are going to create a lot of bootleggers. For example: the relief workers are not permitted to buy liquor with the stamps. They won't be redeemed if they are used to buy anything but food. However, Mr. Hope could see no reason why a relief worker couldn't use the stamps to buy liquor from a liquor store and the liquor store owner might possibly be a crook. It is possible, you know. He might own a food store, too, or he might have an understanding with a food store owner who would take the stamps at a few pennies discount. What is to stop such procedure? It's your guess.

The whole thing strikes me as beng so silly as to defy one's powers of imagination. It is dealt with here at such length only because I regard it as typical of a great many hibit parity payments until 1930 things that are going on within the prices on dairy products had been department of agriculture for which more than $1,000,000,000 is soon to be appropriated for a year's operations. The blue stamp scheme is destined to fail, even as the plowing under of crops and the slaughtering of 6,000,000 pigs was doomed a-bornin' and as the limitation of crop production was certain to flare back on those who were sucked into the maelstrom of nit wit plans.

Now, lest I be misunderstood, let me restate with emphasis that there is good work that the department can do, and has been doing. Road building appropriations, for in-Where would this country stance. be had there been no attempt to build usable roads? Who can say that eradication of tuberculosis and Bang's disease among live stock is not a valuable aid to farmers?

Learn Beautiful Phrases But at Rather High Cost

I am not prepared to say that the wild life restoration program is wholly bad. It seems probable that the country ought to rebuild the wild life stocks that have been wantonly destroyed in the days when retary Wallace and his advanced people could go out and shoot ducks or deer or what have you without thought of the morrow. It is a program for which considerable justification can be advanced.

But it is to be noted that most of these items are small. Neither the department of agriculture administration nor the members of the house and the senate have seen fit to do more than maintain them. I have seen the inmates of the capitol squirm and fuss and scowl about some of them, while swallowing the items reaching into hundreds of millions with the greatest of glee.

As I said, it was not so long ago that department of agriculture appropriations were regarded as huge if they totalled 40 millions. As far as I can see, agriculture is no better off today than it was in those years. Of course, a very great number of farmers have learned that the beautiful phrases like "the more abundant life" and such, are meaningless. But I venture the assertion that the education has been rather expensive.

From all of these things it is surely made to appear that there are some large Ethiopian gentlemen in the wood pile. When the politicians and the advanced thinkers joined hands to manage agriculture, just then federal expenses for the department of agriculture began zooming upward.

Eye Federal Pay Tax-With indications that state income tax collections for this year will be down about $3,000,000, or 25 per cent, state tax officials are casting speculative glances at the recent U. S. supreme court decision permitting taxation of federal incomes. It is estimated that a tax on current federal incomes of Wisconsin residents would produce $350,000 to $500,000.

Stays Foreclosures - One day before expiration of the state farm and home mortgage moratorium law on April 1, the assembly suspended rules and concurred in the senate bill extending the law for two years. The assembly vote on final passage was 78 to 11. An amendment to wipe out the emergency clause of the existing law and set up a permanent mortgage moratorium act was de-

Lose Dairy Battle - Wisconsin members of congress have waged a losing fight to have congress write into the $1,067,000,000 agriculture bill provisions to help the dairy industry of this state. Research Division Wins-The bill creating a research division in the executive department of state government has passed both houses of the legislature and gone to Gov. Heil for his approval. Under its provisions, the research division will have power to investigate state departments, boards and commissions and to recommend rearrangements for the sake of economy. It will be given an appropriation of $15,000 a year. The director is to be appointed by the governor to an indeterminate term at $5,000 a year and investigators, clerks and stenographers are to be exempt from civil Service Codes Expire - The state fair trade practices act, which provided codes for barbers, beauty parlors, cleaners and dyers and shoe repairers and regulated prices, wages and hours of labor for those service industries, went out of existence April 1 by statute limitation. Prospects for a new code law appeared faint when the legislature adjourned from March 31 to April 10, after the assembly had made the code bill a special order of business for April 1, when it would not be in session. The new code bill bears little resemblance to its original form, amendments having struck out all price fixing provisions and removed restrictions as to the hours that shops might be operated. Stranger Picketing Outlawed

The Catlin bill prohibiting secondary picketing by labor unions became a Wisconsin law when signed by Gov. Heil less than 24 hours after the state senate had voted concurrence, 20 to 12. The measure amends the state labor code of 1931 to re-define a labor dispute as one between an employer and a majority of his employes. The law originally provided that a dispute could exist through action of two or more employes. The Catlin bill is designed to solve the labor controversy of the Carpenter Baking company, Milwaukee, and similar disputes. The baking plant closed Jan. 23, its owners asserting that the plant was being picketed because employes, who belong to an independent union, did not choose to join the AFL truck drivers' union. Although labor union representatives voiced defiance at legislative hearings on the bill, its enactment into law was followed by immediate withdrawal of union pickets at the Carpenter baking plant, which is expected to resume operations in a few days. Few Midwives Work - It is estimated that 25 per cent of Wisconsin births in 1910 were attended by midwives, but there was a drop to less than 1 per cent in 1937, according to a recent state board of health report.

Store Sales Down-A federal commerce department report shows that February sales of Wisconsin retailers were 4.1 per cent below the same month of last year. Hardware stores reported a gain of 5.9 per cent for the month, while women's specialty shops were low with a loss of 14.6

Suits of Glamorous Wools Are Top Fashion for Spring DEPARTMENT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A N UP-TO-DATE wardrobe without a chic new suit? It just isn't being done nowadays. All fashiondom has gone wildly, deliriously suit-mad this spring—which is your cue as to "what to wear" at this immediate moment.

The fact that fashion is in a mood to suit you as you have never been suited before should count a lot in your planning this spring. thing that plays big in the glorification of the new suits is the superbly colorful and intriguingly textured wool fabrics that challenge designers to turn out a pageantry of suits that in the matter of variety and chic and charm outrivals all previous showings so far as we of the present generation are concerned.

Suits of checked, striped or plaided woolens have revolutionized the mode in that they are a far departure from the classic navy or black monotones of yore. The fact that the plaid skirts are pleated also gives them the spring "look." See the nifty plaid suit to the right in the illustration. It typifies the new trend perfectly. It is of imported tweed in soft yellow with crossbar of brown (smart color combination this season). The pleated skirt stamps this suit with unmistakable chic. The pleats are stitched down around the hips for smooth slenderizing line. The single-breasted jacket observes every rule of the game in matter of swank detail. Brown suede sports hat with a wide scoop brim and brown alligator bag be speak utmost chic.

As to the fetching little dressmaker jacket suit it is with us in such numbers it would take an alert mind to keep tally of the number that pass a given moment at a given point, for the jacket suit is omnipresent in the style parade. The new jacket twosomes play up color combinations in amazing variations. Black wool crepe for the skirt topped with jacket in pale yellow with black piping describes the goodlooking model centered in the group. New details are the softly rolled collar, high pockets and outside tucks around the waist. A wide brimmed Breton sailor with a quill across the crown is jaunty and very

Only Newspapers bring the news of vital interest to you Headlines may scream of death and disaster without causing you to raise an eyebrow. But if your son gets his name in the paper — that's real news!

It isn't by accident that this paper prints so many stories which vitally interest you and your neighbors. News of remote places is stated briefly and interpreted. Local news is covered fully, because all good editors know that the news which interests the readers most is news about themselves.

Now is a good time to learn more about this newspaper which is made especially for you. Just for fun ask yourself this question: How could we get along without newspapers?
