Weekly News Analysis U. S. Survey Seeks Explanation For Small Business Ailments

By Joseph W. La Bine-

EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Business

Most of America's 4,000,000 small business men nowadays make little profit, can raise little capital, cannot widen their markets nor improve their competitive positions. Whatever the cause, the problem is so serious that an even half-dozen credit-loosening measures are now pending in congress. Realizing that unscientific action would be blind staggering, Harry Hopkins' revitalized commerce department recently asked amendment of one such measure to direct it "particularly to the vital needs of small business enterprises" and provide research facilities.

The earliest step in this direction started last fall when Wyoming's Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney began surveying U. S. business development with a $500,000 appropriation and his so-called "monopoly" committee. Thus far successful in finding business' pulse, the O'Mahoney committee has been given another $600,000 to find what's wrong with

While "Jaycees" got their survey underway, SEC was already working on a dozen special surveys. Among them: Omaha, to find problems of local industry in prairie states, where business has been affected by droughts; Birmingham, where southern industrial development possibilities will be studied: Fall River, Mass., a typical New England region where business has been lost via depression and increased competition from other sections; Denver, a typical mountainstate section; Detroit-Toledo, a typical area with high degree of business activity.

Quickly dismissed by Mr. Frank was the possibility that his SEC might be to blame, since registration requirements for small securities issues were liberalized a year ago with no resultant increase in securities borrowing by small business. Starting out without any "preconceived ideas," investigators will not try to pin responsibility on banks or anyone else until the eightweek probe is completed and findings tabulated.

Relief

Growing with other anti-administration congressional sentiment has been resentment against relief expenditures. President Roosevelt was warned last December that he might expect an investigation this session. Though economizing legislators agreed to vote deficiency funds (to last until July 1) before tearing WPA apart, they lopped $150,000,000 off the original $875,000,-000 deficiency request. When the White House asked that the cut be restored, rebellion had reached such heights that Mr. Roosevelt was lucky to get $100,000,000 of it.

Thus freed to tackle WPA itself, a 12-man relief sub-committee went to work under Virginia's economizing Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum. Favorite among suggested remedies offered the eight Democrats and four Republicans is a measure proposed by Mr. Woodrum himself, to turn relief administration over to states and municipalities, the U.S. to concern itself chiefly with allocating funds. Aimed partly to wipe out WPA's huge field organization, the bill would also knock $500,000,000 from President Roosevelt's budget estimate of $1,734,000,000 for relief during the 1939-40 fiscal year. rum's measure will get a warm welcome from the senate appropria- jecting union with Germany.

like Gen. Jose Miaja fled Spain after hoisting the white flag of surrender.

Two notable exceptions were Gen.

Segismundo Casado, war minister of the defense council, and Julian

Besteiro, a moderate Republican who took no active part in the war except to supervise feeding women

Finance. Before the war Spain's gold reserve of $740,000,000 was ex-hoards of silver. By April, 1938, the U. S. federal reserve bulletin reported Spanish gold had dropped to $525,000,000, and by this month as

General Franco entered Madrid, nobody apparently knew where any

Spanish gold might be. One vague hint was that Marino Gamboa, a rich

Loyalist-sympathizing Filipino, had moved most of it to Mexico and thereby insured the solvency of Loy-

Europe

Since Memel fell to Germany, Europe's four great powers have engaged in unprecedented diplomatic warfare. The French-British drive is to encircle Italy and Germany with arms, thus preventing further aggression. Italo-German countermove is to thwart encirclement. So highly perfected is this warfare that France and England have marked off their sectors of activity, London working with Poland and Russia in the north, Paris with Rumania, the Balkans and Turkey in the south.

North Europe. Poland is the key nation in Britain's campaign, though Russian adherence to a Stop Hitler bloc is far more vital to the British cause. But Poland will not allow Soviet troops to cross her soil, which means that Russia cannot aid the anti-aggression bloc until Hitler swallows more territory and reaches Russia's frontier.

Traditionally a fence-straddler, Poland has signed a mutual defense treaty with England only after making important reservations. With a third of her border already facing Germany, Poland gains new hostile frontiers if the three Baltic states (Lithuania, Latvia and Esthonia) accept Hitler's "protection." Moreover, Poland's friendship with Hungary is threatened because that nation refuses to burn her fingers on a Stop Hitler drive. Rumania, the only remaining neighbor, has agreed to make the Polish-Rumanian military pact operative against Germany as well as Russia, but Rumania is too far away and too completely under Germany's economic thumb to offer much help. Thus Poland's fence-straddling can be appreciated, especially since the mild defensive gestures she has made thus far have been enough to make Germany threaten to denounce the 1934 Nazi-Polish friendship pact. Controlling the narrow Strait of Otranto (see map), Italy could block Yugoslavia's outlet to the Mediterranean, a threat which bid fair to explode France's plans. At the same time Italian and German troops moved steadily into African Libya in anticipation of a drive against Tunisia. When all was said and done, it was questionable whether France still controlled the Medi-

Take the old NRA, for example. Its glaring weaknesses and impossible prescriptions were discovered rather soon by the persons and busi- records available to me. I fail nesses who had to abide by the terms of that law. It was not so long, however, before most of us discovered that the artist who had conditions and buying power among sketched the original design of the the persons living in coal mining blue eagle had made a mistake. You areas have declined almost in direct will recall, of course, that the design had 13 feathers in one wing and 12 in the other. That was bound to make the bird fly in a circle, and how true it was of the law, itself! Even, then, there were many persons who believed the law was not given a sufficient trial before the Supreme court mowed it down.

Among those who held a conviction that NRA would work was Senator Guffey, the Pennsylvania New Dealer. It is the same Senator Guffey who attempted to destroy, politically, all Democrats who disagreed with President Roosevelt-tried to "read them out of the party" in a radio address.

Senator Guffey, with the aid of John L. Lewis and the C. I. O., pushed through congress the socalled Guffey-little NRA coal law. The coal industry was divided in sentiment about the bill, as I remember the legislative battle, but Senator Guffey won. There came about a national bituminous coal commission, with power to fix prices, with power to compel a lot of other things, including the right of punishment under other laws if a coal mine owner should commit the horrible crime of selling below cost in order to get rid of his coal.

Guffey Law Cost the Coal Industry Many Millions

The first law so enacted was mowed down by the Supreme court just the same as the original and big brother NRA. Senator Guffey tried again. And so for two years, or thereabouts, there has been a law in force that applied the same printime, according to official reports, the soft coal industry has lost money. It lost $37,000,000 in 1937, and it lost about $60,000,000 last year, the coal commission has reported.

Naturally, the coal mine owners are not taking this loss without a squawk. It is not a great deal more than a chirp, however, because the production of coal dropped from 442,000,000 tons in 1937 to 342,000,000 tons in 1938. That is pretty rapid reducing, even if the industry were really fat.

In consequence of this, and other conditions affecting labor and property, Representative Allen, a Pennsylvania Democrat, has introduced in the house a bill to reconstruct the Guffey law. His proposal would eliminate the price fixing; it would eliminate the special tax on the coal industry for upkeep of the high powered, but more or less futile, coal commission, and it would place the industry again on a basis where its individual mines would be competing for public patronage instead of inducing bootlegging of coal.

I mentioned above that the industry had lost money. Well, you and I, as buyers and consumers of coal, not to mention the thousands of great manufacturing plants using coal, also lost money because of the Guffey law. We lost money because of the price conditions. We would be penalized in a big way if the coal commission could ever have accomplished the almost insurmountable job of establishing a set of federally fixed prices. It would have cost us money because we would pay the price that was fixed, and that price would have to be high enough to allow a profit for the lowest grade and most inefficient mine operator.

tion, first as WPA director and later Another Tug of War Between out home roots, Mr. Hopkins began Coal Miners and Operators

One of the reasons the mine owners lost money was because many who supported the law were convinced it would mean increased wages for the workers. The United Mine Workers of America, headed when he announced his home adby Mr. Lewis, believed so, and two years ago they demanded and obtained an increase of 10 per cent. named a director of Grinnell col-During the debate on the bill in conlege. It figconditions of the people who make ures out at 22 per cent. That obviously means that, while labor obtained an increase of one-tenth in the rate of pay, it worked only fourfifths as much time according to the to see where labor gained from the law. Moreover, from the federal relief authorities I learn that living ratio to decline in production of coal.

With respect to the added taxation placed upon the owners of the mines, the surface indications and the original declarations of supporters of the law have proven to be quite misleading. The law required the industry to pay a tax of one cent ton and to meet assessments to cover the expenses of boards that were set up in the various regional areas. It is easy to calculate that the one cent tax raised $3,420,000 on 342,000,000 tons, produced last year. But that figure does not show the extra assessments that were paid to the regional boards, nor does it reveal that every mine owner had to hire extra clerks in the company offices to take care of all of the various and sundry reports that the national commission and the regional boards saw fit to require.

Simply Became an Added Expense Borne by Industry

Again, it was expected that these costs and taxes would be absorbeda nice word for concealing the facts from the consumers-in the selling price that was to be fixed. But, as I reported earlier, the commission never quite got around to fixing the prices under the current law. Hence, the hundreds of thousands of dollars which the law's sponsors said would be passed on simply became an added expense borne by the industry.

The law has another feature which you and I, as individuals, do not feel directly. It is another one of those concealed things. The law specifies that no contract can be signed beciples of regimentation as NRA to tween operator and consumer to last the coal industry, and during that for more than 30 days. That is to say, no price can more than 30 days in advance. That may not appear important, but it is highly important.

The practice of large users of coal is to enter into a contract for a supply of coal to last, for example, for a whole year's operation. Having such contract, the owner of the manufacturing establishment, for instance, will be able to know what his fuel costs are when calculating the price of the goods he manufactures and sells. Fuel costs are important, and it therefore becomes plain that large users of fuel have an unknown factor in their expense item for a year's plans. What do they do? They have to estimate that item, and they take the maximum that they can expect to pay for coaland users of their product have to pay that added amount whether in breakfast food or harvesting machinery or railroad freight rates. That one feature of the law alone has completely disorganized 'he coal industry.

Coal Operators Are Left With Supply in Sizes Not Needed

The 30-day limit also has had another effect. When a mine owner could make a year's contract or a number of such contracts, he knew whether it was lump coal or stove coal or slack that his customers needed. Without a contract, the big buyers naturally shop around to get the lowest price. A mine operator, therefore, may sell to one firm one month and the next month, some other mine will supply the coal. The result is that one mine may find itself with hundreds of tons, or even thousands of tons, of lump coal when all that can be sold in a given month is slack or stove coal.

Well, it is the ordinary practice in business that if too large a stock is on hand, prices are reduced to induce someone to buy. But not so in the soft coal industry under the Guffey law. If the price is reduced below the actual cost of mining, costs approved by a bunch of accountants sitting here in Washington, the law steps in-not the Guffey law, but two other laws. They are the federal trade commission act and the Robinson-Patman act. Under either one of these laws, the mine operator who cuts prices below costs becomes tagged as a very bad boy who must be punished by fine or imprisonment. So, the unwanted coal lies in piles beside the mine, crumbling and becoming of less value daily as the weather takes its toll.

from theaters where those three particular smart girls grew up. But along came the picture, and there has been dancing in the streets. The picture is swell, and Deanna isn't "glamorous," she's just herself. It's a picture that everybody ought to see.

Our hero this time is Leo McCarey, director-producer, who also did a turn as writer for "Love Affair." The picture is one of the best that has come out of Hollywood in a long, long time. When you see it, you might pause and think of how very bad it might have been, were it not so expertly done. With a couple of not very good actors in the roles played by Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer, with a run-of-the-mill director, it could easily have been a B

Several bouquets should go to Mc-Carey for his work on the writing end also. His movie career began with writing, you know. Hal Roach suggested that he become an actor, and he replied that he'd rather become a writer. Within six months he was a studio executive; then he gilt "croquet wickets." directed Laurel and Hardy and Charlie Chase comedies for five years, and in 1936 he directed "Ruggles of Red Gap" for Paramount and was all set for big things.

"Love Affair" was developed out of an idea of his, with Miss Dunne and Boyer in mind for the picture. Don't miss it!

If you liked "The Citadel" you'll be glad to know that "Vigil in the Night," by the same author, has been bought as a starring vehicle for Carole Lombard. A romantic drama, it tells of the love and sacrifices of a young woman who wants to save her sister, a student nurse, from the results of a moment of carelessness which leads to the death of a hospital patient.

Jack Berch, one of NBC's handsome young baritones, recently discovered that clothes are more important than he thought. With summer just ahead, he bought a yachting outfit, and liked it so much that he wore it right out of the tailor's and back to Radio City.

He was on his way through the first-floor corridors to the elevators when an elderly lady stopped him. "Young man," said she, "I stopped to look at one of the murals here, and the touring group I was with has gone on. Please continue my Berch used to be a small-town boy, and learned to be polite to elderly ladies. So, cursing his yachting cap, he escorted her to the front door, industriously describing the murals they passed on the way. There she discovered her group, and he fled to the studios, his cap in his hand.

Paul Whiteman's replacing Burns and Allen on the air for the summer could be listed as "Turn about is fair play." They once replaced Paul Whiteman.

exciting blouse season known for

The main reason for this stampede in the blouse direction is that suits rank ace-high in importance this spring and as every woman and her sisters and her cousins and her aunts well know, the proper upkeep of a suit calls for one chic blouse after another. However, the fact that suits are "tops" this season is not the only reason for the mad rush blouseward that is going on. It's the blouses themselves that are the magnet that draws, from the standpoint of "style" color and material they are simply not to be resisted.

The interest displayed in sterling pure silk weaves for the blouse this season is especially significant. Simply tailored blouses like the one shown below to the right in the illustration are indispensable with your tweeds. This model, a Lelong creation, is tailored of a heavy exhas a tucked shirt front fastened with leather thongs that clasp into Collarless jacket suits frequently have the jacket lined in the same silk print (jacket is often reversible) as fashions the blouse. Dotted silks are the rage for this sort of styling. If it is something out of the ordinary you are wanting to fit into the scheme of things take note of the stunning "bib blouse" pictured to the left below. It classifies under ingenue or schoolgirl type, which does not mean that it is restricted to teen-age wear, for it's the fashion to wear young look-

Cottons have new roles in the creation of spring fashions. Pique and linen, for example, are used for white toques and sailors to wear with navy blue suits. These fabrics also are important for collar and cuff sets that are attached to dark evening dresses. Gloves also are being made of these washable materials.

Gingham accents are equally as popular and unusual in their application to newest costumes. Plaid gingham pipings appear as trimming on navy blue reefer suits and also make matching blouses.

New Hairdress Is Becoming Popular

A new hairdress covers the entire head in flat curls that remind of a boyish bob. It is very youthful and is referred to as the "little girl" hairdress. The high-do for hair is seen less in the daytime but still persists for formal occasion. At the immediate moment hair worn pageboy fashion is popular. A pleasing compromise is the arrangement that brings curls or puffs to the front in somewhat of a pompadour effect, with the almost shoulder-length end-curl bob at the back.

A Town Bag for You One of the new handbags in rough straw braid is a navy town bag in plain rectangular shape with thick base, having a heavy gold chain around it near the top to simulate drawstrings.

PREPONDERANT SENTIMENT

A FTER one hundred and fifty years, notwithstanding expansion of territory, enormous increase in population and profound economic changes; de-spite direct attack and subversive influences; there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved."—Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States.

Hail Those Depressed, Yet Optimistic Souls!

DO YOU ever think as you pass folks that they are thinking much as you are. They have much the same hopes and fears, the same joys and sorrows, the same defeats and victories-and also about the same problems to worry about. There is the perpetual struggle to make a living, to get food, clothing and shelter for ourselves and for our own.

Some seem to have more of shadow than sunshine, but most of these meet life with a smile instead of a whine. We owe more than we think to such optimistic souls-and they would also enjoy a smile from us instead of whine.-Ohio Farmer.

Clever Men Clever men are good, but they are not the best.—Carlyle.

What Better Course?

Year in and year out, it is our observation that the people who build up their savings accounts regularly make out a little better than those who handle their money in other ways. Changing interest rates, depressions and recoveries, rising or falling security values, and similar factors of the moment may give a slight temporary advantage to one financial plan or another. But by and large, America has done well by its savers. Of this much you can be sure: banks like this will continue to do their best to see that over the "long pull" savings depositors are properly rewarded, as well as safeguarded, for their foresight and persistence.

Gardeners

Fertilizer Usage

GARDENS can't go on producing excellent flowers and vegetables year after year without an application of fertilizer now and then. Because stable manure is difficult to obtain, a complete commercial fertilizer recommended by your dealer will prove most satisfactory. Before applying fertilizer, however, give consideration to a few simple, practical

First, be cautious! Never apply fertilizer recklessly or over-abundantly. Don't be like the man who saw a neighbor get good results from a sparing use of fertilizer. He proceeded to apply 10 times as much, but expecting 10 times as good results-but his garden proved worthless.

Broadcast the complete fertilizer over the soil 10 days before planting, using about three pounds per square rod. Three or four weeks after planting, if the garden seems a bit backward, apply a side dressing. Sprinkle fertilizer six inches from the plants; then wheel. cultivate. Apply only from one to two pounds per square rod of

TIPS to 25 Million Drivers Seek Safety But Jimmy Thrives on Thrills

Among attractions at New York's World fair opening April 30 will be Jimmie Lynch, who flirts with cars, tires and fate to thrill thousands of motorists who go home thankful they can drive safely. From new year's to new year's Jimmie roars up ramps into thrills lightly alongside the rows, about like that above, cheating injury with a firm grip on the steering Above two action photos illustrate one of Jimmie's favorite tricks. Catapulting off a ramp, the running board bites the ground. Thrilled throngs gasp with one voice but timing and iron nerve bring Jimmie safely back to earth while the timid souls watch pop-eyed. He's been doing such tricks ever since the World war, where he rode a motorcycle in equally tricky fashion.

"Terror in a Tent"

FLLO, EVERYBODY: You know, there's always a lot of hard luck on camping trips. Somebody is sure to get sunburned, and somebody else always steps on a rusty nail or clips himself with the hatchet while chopping wood for the fire. The bird who is doing the cooking burns half the food, and just when you're comfortably settled and getting along fine, Farmer Jones comes along and orders you to move on. Camping trips just breed hard luck, but the one Syd Rapoport went on was the champion hoodoo camping trip of them all. It started dealing out tough breaks before Syd and his pals even Syd lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. It was in the summer of 1935 that he and half a dozen other lads began planning that camping trip. They had picked a spot upstate, in the neighborhood of Poughkeepsie, and were all ready to go. Then, two days before they were due to leave, there was a terrific rainstorm in New York, and, after inquiring about the weather, they learned that it was the same upstate.

The gang decided to go anyway-at least, some of them did. When the day of the big trip rolled around one fellow had the mumps. Another was laid up with an infected foot, and two other fellows had mothers who said they couldn't go camping in such weather because they'd catch their death of pneumonia sleeping on damp ground. The trouble had started early, but it was nothing to what Syd was to get into before that trip was many days older.

The Hikers Find a Camping Site.

"There were only two brothers and myself left," says Syd, but we went anyway." The brothers were Harold and Jerry Leff. The three of them took a boat to Bear Mountain and then started to hike, with two tents and blankets and equipment on their backs. After a day on the road-and Syd doesn't say whether they walked or thumbed rides-they reached the spot they had chosen and picked a camping site. The ground was wet, and the earth was loose. They had a little trouble putting up their two small tents. But finally everything was Finally he had a horrible dream.

shipshape. They got a fire going, cooked a meal, and when they had eaten it they were ready to turn in. Jerry and Harold occupied one tent, and Syd slept alone in the other.

Syd dropped off to sleep, but he didn't sleep very well. Finally, he had a horrible dream-a dream that something cold and slimy was crawling over his arm. The dream woke him up, and as he came slowly to his senses he realized that that dream was a cold, hard reality. Something cold and slimy was resting against his arm.

In an instant Syd was wide awake. A full moon was shining and its bright light streamed in through the open flap of the pup tent. In that light Syd saw something that made his blood run cold. His arm was lying outside the blanket and a snake had crawled up and nestled against it. And Syd recognized that snake for a poisonous copperhead!

Frozen With Fear, He Cannot Move.

Says he: "My first impulse was to jump and scream. But I couldn't have moved to save my life. I was frozen stiff with fear. The moon bathed the head of the snake with light, and as I lay there stiff and trembling it crawled up to my shoulder. A cold sweat broke out on my forehead. Now I began to realize that I didn't dare move, even if I could. One move would cause the reptile to strike."

But it seemed to Syd that he could hardly keep himself from moving. Somehow he managed to lie there stiff and still. The hours rolled on. Syd doesn't know how many of them went by. Each minute seemed like a year and each second was like a week of torture. "I wanted to scream," he says. "I felt as if I could control myself no longer. At last the sky began getting gray, and off in the distance I could hear some farmer's rooster crowing. Then, again, the snake shifted its position. This time it came to rest with its head across my gullet."

Now Syd was afraid to swallow for fear of disturbing the snake. He felt his spine begin to creep and his hair felt as if it were standing up on his head. It was getting lighter now, and Syd was able to distinguish objects around him that he had lost sight of when the moon went down. Still it was a long time before dawn, and his only hope was to lie still until his pals awoke.

The Snakes Smelled of Rotten Cucumbers.

He could see the snake clearly now. And then, out of the corner of his eye, he saw another-and another. There were a bunch of them in the tent. And two of them were over four feet long. "I couldn't see the others very clearly," he says, "for I didn't dare turn my head and it strained my eyes to look at them from my position. I was beginning to shiver. My muscles were cramped and saliva dripped from my mouth. The snakes smelled of rotten cucumbers and the odor sickened me. But the sun was coming up, and I could hear movements in the other tent. That renewed my courage." Harold and Jerry were up. A couple of times they walked past Syd's tent, but they didn't look in. Then Jerry glanced through the open flap and his eyes froze on the terrifying sight. Syd says he owes his life to those two brothers. He thought Jerry was going to scream, but he didn't. He remained cool and so did Harold. The pair of them stole up behind Syd's tent, gathered some damp hay from a field and set it afire. Huge billows of smoke poured through the tent.

"I began choking," says Syd, "but so did the snakes. They moved, and I lay back and breathed a sigh of relief. After a few minutes I went outside, picked a spot in the sun and dozed off. It was seven hours before I woke up again. And if you want to know what a nightmare is like, just ask me. I've had dozens of them since that night.' Copyright-WNU Service.

story was heard by every soul in that room, for the Duchess had taken her spoon, yet did not begin to eat; and while we, at table, sat waiting for her to begin, the servants had nothing to do, because the course had been served.)

"There was once an English vicar, a very forgetful man. Now all of us sometimes forget. I forgot my pistol on Friday afternoon. But he was much worse than that. He would set forth to keep an engagement and, while he was on his way, forget why he had gone out. He would frequently enter a shop and, ere he was served, forget what he came in to buy. And sometimes in winter, when the heaven was dark and he was rising early, as parsons do, he forgot he was getting up, but supposed he was going to bed, took off the clothes which he had that moment put on and then retired, as | bedroom the week before: but now though it were night and not day. it was changed.) As though upon air, he roamed for got all else: and of such was his communion that he forgot all time, In fact, it was past two o'clock, and he had covered the best part of 15 miles, when he climbed a stile in a hedgerow, to find a man in the road, with a watch in his hand. And the man was watching a chauffeur changing a tire-or, rather, trying to change it, for the car had detachable rims, and, because of the heat of the day, the metal had expanded and the rim had seized on to the wheel. "At once the Vicar perceived the state of the case. The man, who was wearing full dress, was clearly due at some function, for which he feared to be late: the chauffeur was needing assistance to pull off the rim: but the other dared not give it, because of his clothes.

"Without so much as a word, the Vicar went down on his knees in the dusty road-not to pray, but to add his strength to that of a fellow man. And after a moment or two, before their united endeavors, the rim gave way . . . The rest, of course, was easy, but the Vicar continued to help till the work was done. Then at last he straightened his back, to find the other beside him, silk hat in hand.

"'Sir,' said the man, 'I never can thank you enough. And since you have done me a service which I can never repay, I beg you will do me the honor to be my guest. I am to be married this day at halfpast two, and I should not now be happy if you were not there.'

There was a little silence. It was clear that we had won the first round, and won it well. It was also clear that Old Harry was going for a knockout, because the pace she had set could not possibly lastfor one thing only, her threat to produce poor Gering was one which she could not fulfill. ### 'Father' of the Santa Fe Trail

N 1821 Capt. William Becknell set out from Franklin, Mo., with four companions to trade with the Comanche Indians. Near the mountains they met a party of Mexicans who told them of Mexico's successful revolt against Spain and invited them to come to Santa Fe to trade. Although Becknell had only a small amount of merchandise, he disposed of it at a great profit. So when he returned to Missouri, he had no difficulty in getting Franklin citizens to invest more than $5,000 in another trading venture.

Accompanied by a party of 30 men, Becknell set out for Santa Fe | believes in fairies. the next spring. When the caravan reached the Caches on the tous decision. Instead of continu-

Near the Cimarron river they discovered an old buffalo bull. They killed him and drank the water from his stomach. By this time Becknell had enough of the "short cut."

He led his party north until they struck the Arkansas and, following that stream, arrived at last at Taos. Despite their failure, the route which Becknell had tried later became a favorite one for many trading parties and he is remembered as the "father" of the Santa Fe

The First Land Agent

A FTER the Revolution, New York, disregarding the right of the Iroquois Indians to the land south of Lake Ontario, ceded 6,000,-000 acres to Massachusetts who promptly disposed of these lands to Oliver Phelps and Nathaniel Gorham, for a million dollars.

In 1786 Phelps left Massachusetts with a party to explore the vast tera 130-mile trip through what was shores of Canandaigua lake where ne called the Iroquois to a council.

For two days the negotiations proceeded smoothly. Then the great Seneca orator, Red Jacket, arose. after, Bertram the Steward comes | He recalled the sufferings of his people during the Revolution, and stirred his auditors up to such a fury that the little group of white

Fortunately for them, another chief named Farmer's Brother halted the council until their passions died down and the next day a satisfactory treaty was concluded. Then Phelps began surveying his land into tracts, called ranges, and subdividing these into townships, six miles square. Thus he became the pioneer in the system of land surveying used in this country. In 1789 he achieved another distinction. He opened a land office in Canandaigua, said to have been the first in this country for the sale of forest lands to settlers, and thus helped settle western New York.

Adventure After Death

VICTOR TREVITT was a native of New Hampshire, who at the age of 14 ran away from home and became a printer in Chillicothe, Ohio. By the time he was 20 he had been in the army and had many close calls in the Mexican war.

He emigrated to Oregon City, Ore., in 1854, became territorial printer, newspaper man and clerk in the house of representatives. Next he took to exploring up the Columbia river, after which he returned to Dalles City and opened a tavern that catered to prospectors. As the town grew, he opened two more tayerns. Soon he was one of its leading citizens and was sent to the state capital to serve as senator.

When he returned to Dalles City, he found that the free spending era was over and his taverns were no longer profitable. This led him to gambling at which he made a considerable fortune. He died on January 23, 1883, but this was only the start of another adventure. He had made arrangements to be buried on Memaloose island, the burying ground for one of the neighboring Indian tribes. Burial in the same ground with a white man was considered "bad medicine" by the Indians. The day after Trevitt was buried there, all who had relatives in the Memaloose graveyard dug them up and buried them on the mainland. Today, amid the scattered bones of Indians who have no descendants to remove them, the body of Victor Trevitt, adventurer, still rests.

C. Houston Goudiss Explains How Food Can Make You Fat or Thin; Offers Tips on Gaining Weight

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

TO NEARLY every adult, weight is a matter of great con-I cern. Thin people step on the scales in the hope of finding that they have gained a pound or two. Fat people sometimes weigh themselves several times a day, trusting each time that the arrow will point to a slightly lower figure. In many cases, the reason for this absorbing interest is vanity-a desire to look better. But the real objective should be to attain the weight at which one ...

Influence of Body Build

Nutritionists have observed that many people who find it difficult to gain have a tall, slender type of body build. It has been determined that in people of this type, the digestive tract is usually shorter than in those having a stocky build. Moreover, they tend to be more tense, more active and of a more nervous temperament. As a result, the passage of food through the digestive tract may be so rapid that it leaves the body before all the available nutrients can be utilized. At the same time, these

There comes to mind a story about W. S. Gilbert-he of the biting wit. A certain actor was very fond of prefacing his remarks with: "When I was at Oxford." This affectation annoyed Gilbert, and one night at the supper table of the Garrick club, the actor at last got what was coming to him:

Who knows most about Building cars?

HERE are more Ford cars in use today than any other make. And there are more Ford V-8s than any other 8-cylinder car.

The 1939 Ford V-8 represents the broadest experience in building cars any manufacturer ever had. You will find values in it far beyond what any other maker can put into a car at the low Ford price.

Ford performance, traditional for a generation, has reached new heights in the 1939 V-8. And now Ford style leadership is equally outstanding. "The smartest cars on the road" is the way owners describe their new Fords. Smartest in action. Smartest in appearance. Leaders, as they deserve to be.

APRIL IS FORD INVITATION MONTH! Your Ford dealer invites you to drive America's most modern low-priced car. Make a date for a new experience.
