MAY 1 SET ASIDE AS CHILD HEALTH OBSERVANCE DAY

Back in 1928, Congress designated May 1 as an annual day of child health and welfare observance, and the movement has accomplished a good deal since then.

In the realization that a large element among our child population is born under conditions not conductive to health and happiness and has to struggle through childhood against odds that are downright cruel, our nation sets May 1 aside for having a ook at what we are doing about it. It would be comforting to believe that Wisconsin's great agricultural and dairy resources mean that no child in the state goes undernourished, but such is not the case. It would be great to feel that every expectant mother in the state is informed on the fundamentals of prenatal care and is receiving medical advice, but this is a long way from the truth. The state board of health has a series of nine monthly letters of instruction for the expectant mother, but needs further help from the people of the state in placing it in the hands of thousands of young matrons who need it most from year to

EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

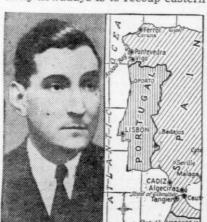

Without waiting for Adolf Hitler's speech on April 28, President Roosevelt knew what reply to expect from any belligerent could buy all the his peace appeal. Benito Mussolini had already given the Rome-Berlin axis' answer in a speech at Italy's 1942 world fair ground. Though Il | Thomas' sanctions plan whereby the Duce publicly spurned Mr. Roose-"Messiah-like message," he reminded listeners that Italy would not be sinking millions into a world fair if she planned war. This sounded hopeful, but each day brings less diplomatic leeway to an already Observers fear trouble because 40 German warships are now making unprecedented maneuvers in this area, also because Spanish Moroccan troops are massed nearby and thousands of fresh Italian troops are landing in Spain. Cruising nearby ed it would make the U.S. an ally are French and British warships, causing Europe to talk about the "greatest naval battle of all times" off Spain's coast.

Another possibility: Powerful Portuguese Fascists are rumored working for internal blowup of Dr. Oliviera de Salazar's regime, uniting the entire Spanish peninsula under Nazi-Fascist domination without risking any international repercussions from an invasion. Thus would Germany get Portuguese colonies in Africa and the East Indies.

Congress

Self defense is a more basic tenet of U. S. foreign policy than either President Roosevelt's internationalism or congress' isolationism. However it may be accomplished, John Public wants (1) to keep out of foreign wars, (2) to be prepared if he gets into one. Hence, despite optimism over the President's peace appeal to dictators, congressmen, defense chiefs and tradesmen find themselves sizing up America's political, economic and military preparedness for a European war:

Fashionable Silks Stress Plaids, Stripes and Checks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT are you doing about plaids, stripes, dots and checks in print silks for your spring and summer frocks, for your redingote or bolero costume suits and for the many blouses you will need to complete a smart wardrobe? If you have not already done so, you really should take steps in this matter, for one or the other of these types has practically become a "must" in the up-to-the-minute clothes collection.

Your choice is in no way limited, for every type from classic checks and stripes to color-glorified plaids are represented and it's ditto for dots. Quaint checks in conventional sizes and simple two-color treatment which return to vogue with the 'southern belle' fashions, inspired by the movie version of "Gone With the Wind," are at their best in stiff silks, such as taffeta or taffeta-ized as for day wear. Reminiscent of the right in the illustration. It is both front and back. Dainty white lingerie embroidery (most every costume carries a lingerie touch this season) outlines the squared neckline and trims the sprightly puff

Surah silk is big news. Paris about this silk, hailing its revival as one of the most significant fabric style trends this season. The new check surahs will delight you as l run the gamut into wide, wider, widest versions. To be had, are the prim and quaint Victorian stripes mostly just one color on white, or if you are style alert you'll want silks in the handsome wider directoire stripes, or if you have gone gypsy as is the way of fashion this spring you will insist on stripes in vivacious coloring for a full skirt to wear with your new sheer white blouse. With your navy or black suit you'll be right in style if you wear a hat of Spanish stripe silk and carry a bag to match.

Simple stripes, one color on white, are quite a featured theme in the latest fashions. See the dress centered in the group. It is made of black and white striped taffeta. It has the old-fashioned look that is so decidedly new-fashioned for spring and summer 1939.

You will not be able to resist the new plaid silks such as fashions the stunning daytime dress pictured to the left in the foreground. Solid blocks of color form the plaid in silk crepe. These checks are as this printed silk crepe dress. It's stylish for mother as they are for the last word in chic, is this strikdaughter, and as chic for evening ing and youthful dress with its swing Civil war days is the dress shown to about the hemline. The bodice is of black and white checked silk taf- knotted bow. The lingerie touch is draped and is detailed with a soft feta with deep square decolletage introduced by a band of white line and the sleeves.

These plaid silks are just the thing for the blouse you will wear with your navy or black or the new navygreen suit that is causing such a dressmakers are making a big to-do lined with plaid silk are on the style furore in Paris. Capes and jackets program, too, as are also the new petticoats that are the style sensation of the moment.

Cloque Organdy

From now on through the spring and summer season the world of fashion is destined to see myriads of ruffles and flounces. The latest trend is toward the new tiered silhouette. You will see this treatment not only in summery sheers but likewise in light woolens and silk surahs and crepes, for afternoon wear. The model pictured interprets this new tier silhouette to a nicety in a party frock made of lovely colorfully printed cloque organdy. If you have not already done so be sure to acquaint yourself with this exquisite summer fabric. It makes the most adorable dresses one can

Late Styles Turn

To Tailored Suits In the suit brigade for spring are large groups of very strictly tailored suits which have slightly longer than hip-length jackets and skirts that usually are gored or plaited. Jackets bound around with braid are frequently shown with such suits. They come in smooth twills or hard woolens, and are rather masculine-looking, but go with blouses which are so sweet, feminine, and dainty that they become girlish in

Shirtwaist Frock

Latest for Evening The shirtwaist-and-skirt theme for evening has quite a following. Some gay spirits have concocted informal dinner gowns by adding a bishopsleeved shirtwaist blouse of white silk or dotted chiffon to the long dark skirts of their evening tailleurs. Sometime they link the two with a gay cummerbund.

Others dress for informal home dinners in a long dark skirt and a sheer short-sleeved white organdy

Detachable Skirt

Does Double Duty Buy your new print frock or make it yourself as you will, but if you want it to do double duty see to it that you add a detachable skirt of dark silk crepe that has a wide crush corselet girdle that buttons about the waist, the skirt open up front to show off the print to better advantage.

To Lend a Lacy Look The importance of silk lace, not only as a trimming but for entire dresses, is an interesting new note struck by outstanding designers.

What Women Want to Know About Fashions

Ribbons will be important in spring fashions. The starched white touch is very important this spring.

TERE is positively the super spreader of all times. The NEW IDEA Model 8 has the largest capacity of any axle drive spreader on the market, yet it weighs less than many a smaller machine. We will back it, not only to do a better job of spreading, but to load easier and pull lighter than any other spreader of the same size.

This machine is built to withstand the hardest kind of service. You can use it every day in the year and not wear it out in a normal lifetime. And as for repairs, you'll never need enough of them on this spreader to make any difference, either to you or to us.

Capacity, 65 to 70 bushels. Loading height only 401/4 inches. Five changes of feed rate. We'll be proud to have you come in and look over the many special features of this high grade spreader.

Visitors from Out of Town: George, Elizabeth Go Calling

At 9:30 a. m., eastern standard time on May 15, King George and Queen Elizabeth of England set foot on North American soil for the most widely heralded royal visit in modern history. In England, where the battleship Repulse was remodeled, in Canada and the United States elaborate preparations have been made for the comfort and enjoyment of Britain's monarchs. Until June 14, when the royal couple leaves Halifax on the return trip, American newspapers will be filled with accounts of their cross-continental tour. Every minute of their journey has been scheduled carefully.

Elaborate alterations were made on the HMS Repulse to insure the finest possible quarters. The above picture was taken in early January when workmen began refitting the main dining room.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

Elmo Scott Watson

The 'Old Pioneer' CENTURY ago newspapers in various parts of the country frequently printed contributions signed "By an Old Pioneer." The man who thus signed himself was one of the most interesting characters in the history of the West-John Mason Peck, preacher, writer, teacher and A Yankee by birth, Peck arrived in St. Louis in 1817 as a young and zealous preacher sent out by the Baptist church to Missouri territory. Except for two or three years, the remaining four decades of his life were spent in traveling thousands of miles on horseback, preaching, exhorting, establishing schools, churches and Bible societies, making friends and giving counsel to many a settler far removed from civilization.

Also during this time he was making an even greater contribu-tion to posterity. He was recording his observations and impressions of the people and the country through which he traveled. He interviewed many frontier notables, among them the venerable Daniel Boone and later wrote a biography of the great Kentucky pioneer.

By the time of Peck's death in 1857 his journals numbered some 53 manuscript volumes which he willed to a library. At the beginning of the Civil war, the librarian went away to fight and Peck's material was stored temporarily. When the library was moved to new quarters at the end of the war it was left behind and eventually was acquired by a paper mill and turned into cardboard. Thus much priceless historical information was lost.

But despite this loss, Peck's life had not been lived in vain. His writings, published in the newspapers, had a great deal to do with bringing settlers into Illinois and Missouri and in establishing those two commonwealths.

Under Five Flags

WALPOLE ROLAND is believed to have been present at more historic events and known personally more historic characters than any other American who is not famous in his own right.

He served under five flags, with the British, as a major in the Turkish army during the Crimean war, a colonel of cavalry in the Mexican army, a general in the Chinese army under Li Hung Chang, a scout for Custer in the Civil war. During royal marine band has the Crimean war he was an eyewitness to the famous Charge of the ereigns abroad. Left, Light Brigade and in India he was

He knew the Duke of Welli Napoleon III, Sultan Mejdid VI of Turkey, who decorated him, and Abraham Lincoln, who expressed his gratitude for Roland's leaving the Chinese army to volunteer in the Union army. Roland went 20 miles into Confederate territory and returned with the topographical maps upon which the famous battle of Gettysburg was fought.

At the age of 71, he volunteered for service in the Spanish-American war and was rejected as being physically unfit. But 13 years later, at the age of 84, he was lost in the Canadian woods for 21 days without food-and came out of it without any injury to his health. In fact, he lived to be more than 100 years old, but this war-worn adventurer spent his last days in a poorhouse in Detroit.

'The American Traveler'

JOHN LEDYARD, Dartmouth sophomore, paddled home in a canoe down the Connecticut river to Hartford in 1772. This was not only the first recorded trip of its kindit started Ledyard on his career as 'The American Traveler," who saw more of the world, as it was then known, than any other man.

He went to sea and landed in London at the time the great navigator. Captain Cook, was preparing for his third South Sea voyage. He won a berth on Cook's vessel as a corporal of marines. Returning, he went to Paris and hobnobbed with Thomas Jefferson, Lafayette and John Paul Jones. Then back in America. he accepted Jefferson's suggestion that he explore the western part of North America by crossing it on foot eastward to Virginia. This meant going first to London, crossing Europe and Asia and taking a Russian ship to the Vancouver is

He started from London in December, 1786, and reached Stockholm uneventfully. He learned there that he was to cross the Gulf of Bothnia by sled but the ice route to Russia was not frozen over. HELLO, EVERYBODY:

Adventure just happens to most people, but Jim Burnett of East Rutherford, N. J., goes out and hunts for his thrills. You know, I've always felt that you'll have just as many adventures if you stay right at home and let them hunt you up. But Jim seems to have had pretty good success with his system, too. In the last 20 years or so, Jim has adventured in 54 countries. But the biggest scare he ever got in his life was that time, way back fads and fancies which there in the interior of Brazil, when he ran into the Adventure of the

In December, 1922, Jim and his pal Jay McKay were on their way up the Amazon on an errand of vengeance. A Portuguese half breed had killed McKay's father and fled upstream to hide in the wilderness. Jim and Jay had a hunch that they would find him in the Geral Indian country, and they had started off

For two weeks they traveled up-river in a molloca, a type of canoe used on the Amazon, turned south to ascend the River Purus and, after a week's paddling, picked up the murderer's trail from an Indian who said that a half-breed was hiding with a certain Geral tribe on a stream that branched off the Purus a few miles farther on. Voyagers Reach End of Their Trail.

They had paddled all that night, and dawn found them at the mouth the unnamed tributary of the Purus that the Indian had described.

Then both of them turned and started to run back to their canoe.

Up that little stream they went. In a couple more hours they were at spot to which the Indian had directed them-the end of their trail. They ran their boat ashore on a narrow, sandy beach, and started ashore. Back in the jungle they could see an Indian village, and a group of half a dozen natives coming forward to meet them. "The Geral Indians were once considered the most savage on the South American continent," says Jim, "but we advanced boldly toward the handful before us.

It was a tense situation, and Jim and Jay knew it. The Indians might be peaceably disposed-and then again they might not. And even though they might be inclined to be peaceable, they certainly wouldn't feel any too friendly to the two white men when they learned their errand was to take away the fugitive they had been sheltering. Yes-it was a tense situation all right-but nothing Jim or Jay had yet imagined was as bad as what actually happened.

The Indians were about twenty paces away when Jim saw them-the gray spots. The skins of every one of those Indians were gray and blotchy and spotted-spotted with the most dreadful disease known to the world. Leprosy!

Jim yelled: "Stop, McKay-stop!" McKay uttered just one word. "Lepers!" Then both of them turned and started to run back to their cance.

They reached the river bank together, leaped over it and landed on the beach-right on top of a couple of Indian boys who had circled around them to see what they could steal from the boat. "They turned on us and fought us fiercely," says Jim, "no doubt resenting our catching them at it. They scratched and bit and kicked us before, finally we heaved them bodily out onto the sand and pushed our molloca into the river amid a bedlam of shouts from the advancing Indians.

Fear of Leprosy Haunts the Two Men.

"For the moment we had just one single thought in our minds-to get away from the immediate neighborhood. It wasn't until after a quarter of an hour of hard paddling, when we were a mile away down stream, that we realized, with a strange, sinking sensation in the pits of our stomachs that we had handled the leprous wretches-that they had bitten and scratched us."

Jim says that worrying about their exposure to leprosy was bad enough, but the real horror of the business didn't hit them until a week later. Then, tiny, round gray spots began to appear on his and Jay McKay's wrists and arms. "The shock," says Jim, "was terrific. In fact, McKay's hair turned snow white-at the age of thirty. I wished that I were dead then and there, and I guess McKay did, too. Have you ever seen the Louisiana leper colony, or been in the Ladrones? I had always pitied those poor gray-skinned victims of a living death-and now I was becoming one myself."

They pushed on down the river. In another two weeks the spots had spread over their entire bodies. Life, then, was like a nightmare. For there they were, thousands of miles away from civilization, coming down with the world's most dreaded disease. And even getting back to civilization would be scant comfort. Not even modern medicine can cure that hateful, wasting malady of which those spots were the first awful

Horror Grows Worse as Time Passes.

"The ghastly horror," says Jim, "grew on us day by day. We paddled along mechanically, like a couple of automatons, wishing to heaven we'd die-trying to get up the courage to end our mental agony. As we paddled, we prayed. We knew that no prayer could cure us, but I believe today that they saved us from a worse fate-madness!'

And then, one day as they were rounding a turn near the mouth of the Maderia river, they came upon another white man-a doctor from the English hospital at Porto Velho, and Jim says that if there ever was a messenger from heaven come in answer to a prayer, Doctor King was that messenger. There in the jungle he gave them a brief examination, and then he told them the news.

"Boys," he said, "I know you've been suffering the tortures of the damned, but you can stop worrying. Your cases are a rare form of false leprosy-a disease that looks a lot like the real thing, but which a good rest and a little medical attention will take care of. It won't be long before you're as fit as ever."

That ended those two lads' mission of vengeance. They never did eatch the killer. But Jim hopes that if Jay McKay is in this country he reads this yarn. After all these years, he'd like to see him again.

C. Houston Goudiss Explodes Some False Notions About Food; Warns Homemakers Against Fallacies and Superstitions

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

T T HAS been well said that a little knowledge is a danger. ous thing. This is particularly true of dietary facts, for half-truths can be more misleading than lies.

There should be no place for half-truths, misinformation or superstition in a matter so vital as the choice of food, ye judging from the letters that come to my desk, thousands homemakers are being influ-

There is no evidence to support the belief that some meats are less desirable than others because they are less completely digested. Tests show that the length of time meat remains in the stomach varies with such factors as the quantity of fat present, the method of cooking, and the amount of chewing it receives. But there is no marked difference in the thoroughness with which the different kinds of meats are digested.

Erroneous Ideas About Cheese Other fallacies that continually crop up in my mail are the ideas that cheese is constipating, and that this good food is not completely digestible. Neither belief is in accordance with the facts. Numerous tests have shown that when cheese is given a proper place in the diet, it is usually well digested. Moreover, it has been demonstrated that there is practically no difference between ideal. cheese and meat with respect to ease of digestion.

As for the completeness with which this food is utilized by the body, studies made by investigators for the United States department of agriculture, demonstrated that on the average, about 95 per cent of the protein and over 95 per cent of the fat of cheese were digested and absorbed!

Some few persons may have an allergy to cheese just as they are sensitive to a variety of other protein foods. But that is an abnormal reaction and has no bearing on the use of cheese by persons in fiormal health.

and all restraint be at an end. My fingers were free. If I could contrive to thread the blade of the screw driver over the frame of the buckle and under the prong .

It was a difficult business. I was working blind and my fingers had not fair play, and though I soon found the buckle, I could not reach this with my fingers and so could not guide the blade, while the movement of the car was distracting the aim which I tried to make. Again and again I was on the edge of success, and then the car would lurch and I would lose prong and buckle and sometimes my balance, too. And once the blade was in place, but, before I could drive it home, a wheel dropped into a pothole and shook it out. I could have screamed with the rage of a thwart-

Now my impulse was to do murder, and do it at once: break Elgar's neck and then choke Virgil to you." death: and but for Elizabeth's presence, I think that I should have done that-and as like as not lost my own life, when the car, which was traveling fast, crashed into a tree. But Elizabeth had to be saved. And so I did nothing at all but shake the strap from my wrists and keep my hands behind me and use my brain.

At once I saw that the first thing for me to do was to free myself from the cord which put my lady in peril whenever I moved.

With my eyes upon Virgil and Elgar, I felt for the knot at my waist. This I found and untied. Then I made a bow-knot in its stead, which I could undo in a flash whenever pleased. Then I saw that, for better or worse, I must not launch my attack until the car was at rest, for if, in the struggle, the car were to leave the road, Elizabeth, bound hand and foot, might fare very ill.

And then I remembered that Percy Virgil was armed. This showed me that, come what might, I must deal with him first: else, whilst I was dealing with Elgar, he might very well put me out.

And there, without any warning, our lights were "dipped" and Virgil reduced his speed . . . Till now I had been too much engaged to observe our way, and now I could see next to nothing from where I sat: but the road was rough and winding, and though there were trees on the right, there were none on the left. Wheresoever we might be bound for, I I did not judged we were nearly there, and I Percy Virgil heard it—and found it held myself all ready to strike the was upon the back | instant we stopped.

Not that I saw him-the darkness was far too dense. And so, at least, I knew that I had not been seen. But I knew where he was, for I heard him using my name.

I was on the cobbles now and was stealing the way we had come. I never found it so hard to turn my back on a man: but Elizabeth had to be saved before anything else.

"And so, you see, Mr. Exon . . And there I saw Elgar approaching, against the dusk prevailing without the court.

For a second I hesitated. Then I laid Elizabeth down and twitched the cord from my waist.

And then I went to meet Elgar, who could not see me . . . And, as I went, I ripped the gag from my mouth. He must have found the case heavy, for when I was almost upon him, he laid it down for a moment, to rest his arm. As he straightened his back, I took the man by the throat . . It was a curious business and seemed to belong to the stage or the cinema's screen, for whilst we two stood silent, Virgil, a little way off, was addressing the empty car. I could not hear all he said, but his tone was as careless as ever and once he laughed. But Elgar could not laugh. He never struck me. From first to last his hands were tearing at mine. They might as well have torn at the cobbles beneath our feet. So for, perhaps, a full minute . . . Then his knees sagged, and his arms fell down by his sides. Still gripping his throat, I lowered his weight to the ground. Then I cracked his skull on the cobbles and Brazil, getting on Uncle Sam's cuff for $120,000,000, breaks precedent among debtor nations by immediately getting busy in a longrange effort to set up a favorable trade balance and get square with the export-import bank. She thinks Mr. Swingle can show her how to grow many things which we urgently need. Furthermore, she intends to become entirely independent of aggressor nations, not by ersatz or by a strong-arm economy, but by scientific utilization of her natural resources in soil and climate. Brazil thinks that, with some expert coaching by Mr. Swingle, she can bring all these through as negotiable assets in interest or amortization day. It looks to this observer like a sunny break in the blizzard of screwball economics which has been sweeping over the world. The above will be just a starter. Mr. Swingle's research will cover virtually the entire range of Brazilian agriculture and forestry.

After First Encounter

An Englishman visiting a friend in Nevada, where the air is rare and distances deceptive, started on a stroll with his host to a mountain which seemed but a few miles distant. After walking for several hours, he was amazed to find the mountain was apparently no nearer and to have his friend explain that it was still 30 miles away.

Returning home by a different route, they came upon an irrigation ditch. The Englishman sat down and began removing his shoes. "What on earth are you going to do?" asked his host.

The Englishman, gravely contemplating the ditch, replied, 'Swim this river!"

XXXX OLD FASHIONED CONFIDENCE -I agree with the chairman of Wessaid: "The extent of dissatisfaction with our times surpasses anything known to history. Everywhere we see the phenomenon of free American trading their individual indepenive security. Millions out of work, other millions who feel they may scon be walking the streets, have been fed on all sorts of false doctrines. We find the government re. stricting agricultural products and spending large sums to bring more land under cultivation. We are told one minute there will be no increase in taxes, the next they are increasirg, or that the budget is about to be balanced, the next minute it is further out of balance.
