Events in the Lives of Little Men

Nodders
Deacon—Well, Dr. Jones, I hope by this time you are making many new friends in the church?
Reverend Jones—I think so, thanks, though as I was preaching last Sunday I thought I had more nodding acquaintances than friends.

OR BURNING WEEDS
"Gee, Wife, but the air in this apartment is dopey."
"Maybe it's due to the steam hitting the pipe."
Wise Deduction
"That old codger is still running after the girls."
"Well as long as he's still running after the girls it shows one thing."
"What's that?"
"They're still running away from him."
Big Capacity
"So you had dinner with your new girl last night. What's she like?"
"Everything on the menu."—Washington Post.

Among the Jacks
Friend—The jack of all trades is worth much.
Action—Worth more than the jack of most professions, I'll say!
Safety First
Maid—But I cleaned all the silverware only Wednesday last.
Mrs. Fussbody—Clean it again. There's an epidemic of burglary in your neighborhood and I'd hate to see you go out looking like it does.
Wrong Idea
How do you like the new filing cabinet?
Mrs. Jones—It does splendidly with her letters.
Wife—Well, just part your hair on the other side and it will never show.

A Few Little Smiles

SMUGGLER!
With a portfolio under his arm, a diplomat passing through the customs at Dover endeavored to walk past the official.
"Excuse me, sir," said the officer, respectfully, "but have you declared that case?"
"No," was the reply. "I'm traveling under diplomatic privileges, and these are important dispatches."
"Well," answered the customs officer, "the neck of one of your dispatches is sticking out of the case."
Has That Effect
"Some people thirst after fame, others after wealth, others after love," said the romantic young man, with a sigh.
The object of his affections was not in the same mood, however.
"And there is something all people thirst after," she said.
"Yes?" asked the lover, eagerly.
"Salt fish!" was the crushing reply.

MODERN VERSION
Actor—The next line is: "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"
Manager—But, my dear fellow, that will scarcely be understood in this day—make it an automobile!

Good Guess
"Did you go to the doctor the other day, John?"
"Yes, I did."
"And did he find out what you had?"
"Very nearly."
"What do you mean, very nearly?"
"Well, I had $5.00 and he charged me $4.50!"

Words of Action
"Which is the better," inquired the young patriot, "to be a silver-tongued orator or a practical politician?"
"It depends," answered Senator Sorghum, "on your personal ambitions. Some people desire the last word and others are concerned solely about the first ballot."

It Shouldn't Matter!
"Say, what do you call this?" demanded the petulant customer of the waitress. "Is it beef or mutton?"
"Can't you tell?" she asked.
"No, I can't!"
"Well, then," said the waitress, "why worry about it?"

Too Many Bites
Benevolent Old Man—Don't you think fishing is a cruel sport?
Angler—I certainly do. I've been sitting here five hours and never had a single bite, and I've got three wasp stings, I'm eaten up with flies, and the sun's taken all the skin off the back of my neck!

Co-operation
A parent recently had occasion to punish his six-year-old son. That night he overheard the youngster saying his prayers.
"Please, Lord, make me a good boy," pleaded the child. "I asked you yesterday, but I guess you overlooked it."
TEACH HIM A LESSON

"I don't know what to do with that boy of mine. He won't go to school, he won't work and he's always asking me for money?"
"Why don't you get him a job as collector for an installment house?"
The Little Less
Anxious Sportsman (who thinks he has backed a winner)—Did you send off that wire in time?
Village Postmistress—Yes, sir, but the money was a penny short so I left out the name of the horse.

Oxygen
The teacher of a chemistry class asked:
"For what purpose do automobile shops use oxygen?"
"For the carburetors to breathe," a pupil responded.

Poor Pa
Tommy—Mummy, if someone broke the flower vase, what would you do?
Mother—I would spank him and put him to bed.
Tommy—Well, roll up your sleeves. Father did it.

Just a Guessing Game
Jones—Well, how do you find married life?
Bones—Great fun! My wife cooks and I guess what the dish is!—Montreal Star.

Emphasis Is on Dainty Sheers For 1939 Graduation Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE story of fabrics for the gowns spring-summer graduates will wear, the word "sheer" is most important. Whether the material be one of the new exquisite cottons or whether it be a silk weave, the favor for sheers remains the same.

The flare for crisp thin cottons of exquisite weave and texture foretells a banner year for the lovely swiss organdies that are shown in versatile types and which make up into ideal graduation frocks. Among the choicest of mousseline de soie in a delectable shade of pale pink, the simplicity of its styling adds infinitely to its "young" charm. It is made ankle length, with the new square neckline. Of course there should be frills, for everything is frilled and frilled this year. The frilling for this pretty frock extends across the neckline giving the effect of a yoke.

In the charming gown worn by the girl graduate standing, the claim of high-style prestige for cottons is verified. Here we see a most lovely youthful frock which after graduation will become her favorite gown for summer party wear. It is interesting to know that the exquisite organdy that fashions it is in an entrancing cool-looking pale green, with a formal wallpaper floral motif in delicate shadowprint. Note the brief pique mess jacket which speaks an added triumph for cottons worn in a formal way.

The importance of pique in the evening mode is recognized by leading designers. Some of the smartest party dresses are made of pique with full skirts that are topped with cunning basque bodices that have low-cut square décolletage and sprightly short puffed sleeves. Speaking of the dress pictured the addition of the jacket makes this a very practical costume. For greater formality, the bodice underneath tunes in with a flattering deep-cut décolletage.

Youthful Fixings Give Pretty Touch

Pile on all the devastatingly pretty furbelows you crave to wear, indulge in all the utterly frivolous and adorable style idiosyncrasies that you can find in the store displays, for the decree has gone forth from fashion headquarters that the fair sex must be deliberately pretty and young looking this season. The "teens" will fill this big order wearing "little girl" dresses that have short swing skirts that audaciously flaunt glimpses of petticoat trills. They will wear demure bonnets tied under the chin or wide-brimmed breton sailors that abruptly dash upward in conspicuous off-the-face manner.

Those older in years, but not in spirit, will drink of fashion's fountain of youth, satisfying their thirst with billowy masses of gay-colored veils that do away, as if by magic, with telltale signs of approaching age. They will wear flowers on their hats and their costumes. Skirts will be pleated to slenderize at the hip-line, yet give ample swing movement to the hemline. Silk prints will flatter and flatter. Gloves will add color to the picture. Yes, indeed, it is a "young" season throughout every phase of fashion planned for spring and summer, whether we be "sweet sixteen" or at the "life begins at forty" period.

Elegant Old-Time Fabrics Are Back

There is a notable use of bengaline being made by designers, who are creating many of their smartest suits and coats of this handsome silk such as was the proud boast of ladies of fashion in the long ago. Along with this revival of handsome bengaline comes the return to favor of crisp rustling taffeta, also heavy quality-kind faille silk.

Latest Hints from the Studios of Designers

As usual, whites will dominate the summer shoes. The 1939 fashion picture harks back to 70 years or more. Bright and unusual colors seem to have the spotlight this spring. Grays are chiefly noticed among the tweeds and woollens this year. In evening modes striped materials adopt a picturesque guise that gives them the colorful gypsy charm so characteristic of spring.

Adds Style Touch

To browse about in neckwear sections this season gives one a sort of Alice-in-Wonderland feeling, for there's a thrill of new and fascinating discovery at every turn of the eye. The interesting thing about modern neckwear departments is that they include so much more than just neck "fixings" and furbelows. One of the charming, likewise smart and practical items to be found in current neckwear showings is the striped "backet" as pictured. It may be worn as a plastron as you here see or simply by reversing (the back to the front) and you have a topper with an ascot, perfect over a plain wool dress or ideal to wear under your jacket with the new suit.

From Wild Sources

An invasion into the animal kingdom, has developed a new feature in accessories of zebra-striped suede.

Congressional Misuse

One of the outstanding misuses of the Congressional Record took place in the spring of 1932 when five congressmen took five days to read into it a full-length book, "Protection or Free Trade?" by Henry George, and then, at a cost of five-eighths of a cent a copy, had 1,200,000 of the sections reprinted, bound and mailed, without cost to themselves, to their constituents.—Collier's.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist in relieving jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Dominion of Reason

Temperance is the firm and moderate dominion of reason over passion and other unrighteous impulses of the mind.—Cicero.

Too Great a Price

A laugh costs too much when bought at the expense of virtue.—Quintilian.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor! DOAN'S PILLS

U. S. Colleges Revive Traditions As Alumni Return to Campus

May and June are commencement months on every U. S. college campus, a period when alumni return to their former stamping ground and en-dured traditions are re-visited. One typical tradi-tion is illustrated at the right, where Helen Deer and Maxine Laughlin smoke the "pipe of peace" at the University of Kan-sas commencement. Every member of the graduating class does it, sending up in smoke all grievances students may have nured during their col-lege careers. Thus they all leave on friendly terms—supposedly.

At many colleges returning alumni turn youngsters once more to participate in class fights or engage students in athletic contests. Typical is the above scene at the University of Pennsylvania, where graduates of the class of 1923 last year had a pants fight as part of the alumni day observance.

At Annapolis, graduates of the U. S. naval academy toss away their midshipmen's hats after receiving diplomas, symbolic of embarkation on a new life.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

By
Elmo Scott Watson

Long-Haired Sheriff

COMMODORE PERRY OWENS, born in Tennessee in 1852, went to Texas in the early seventies and spent 11 years there as a cowboy before becoming foreman of a cow outfit in New Mexico. He wore his hair long—almost to his waist—and carried his six-shooter on his left side, the butt pointing forward. Old timers in the Southwest were doubtful whether such a "show-off" had "real sand."

They found out he did have when, singlehanded, he killed three Navajo Indian cattle thieves. Then the people of northern Arizona decided he was the man to clean up the outlaws in their section and elected him sheriff of Apache county in 1887. He broke up a band of 16 cattle rustlers after killing like Clanton of Tombstone fame and two others and capturing his brother, Finn Clanton, leader of the gang.

But his greatest feat was his single-handed fight with four members of the Ebevans gang, one of the factions in the famous Pleasant Valley war. In this fight, which took place in Holbrook, Perry killed three of the four, including Andy Cooper, one of Arizona's most dangerous gun-fighters. It was one of the most desperate encounters at close quarters in the history of the state, not even excepting the famous fight at the O. K. corral in Tombstone.

Refusing re-election as sheriff, Perry became a special agent for the Santa Fe railroad, later express messenger for Wells-Fargo and then a United States marshal. He gave up his man-hunting work in 1900 and became a business man in Seligman where he died in 1919.

First in Yellowstone Park
WHAT an adventure it must have been for the first person who saw the Yellowstone! John Colter, who for three years had served in the famous Lewis and Clark expedition, was the lucky man. He had just left the party and established himself with the expedition of Manuel Lisa from St. Louis who traveled up the Missouri river to trade with the Indians.

A fort was established at the Big Horn and John Colter was sent ahead to notify the red men. With courage typical of that period, he began his lone expedition into territory never before trod by even the most courageous trappers and pioneers of the time.

Informed by the Indians that ahead lay a territory that was bewitched and that they would not penetrate it, his curiosity and his adventurous spirit impelled him to explore it. He was well rewarded for records show that, in 1808, he went through and then completely encircled what is now Yellowstone national park.

Alone, he saw before any other person, the boiling springs, towering geysers and strange mineral deposits. Not only was he a pioneer among white men, but more adventurous than even the red men, being years ahead of them in risking existence in a land where the earth trembled and groaned, spouted fire and hissed steam.

When Colter returned, he told such an amazing story of smoking pits and the smell of brimstone that the men of the fort laughed at him and told others what they thought were ridiculous stories of "Colter's Hell." It was several years before anyone else had the courage to verify his discovery.

"Two Wanted Men"

HELLO EVERYBODY:
You know, boys and girls, in some of these adventure yarns I've been telling you, everything seems to happen all in a split second. Just one—two—three and it's all over, with action every doggone minute.

Then there are other yarns in which there's darned little action, and the suspense of the story lies in the fact that some poor devil has to stand still while death comes creeping up on him. That sort of adventure drags out for a long time.

But the yarn I'm going to tell you today is like both of those above-mentioned types of adventures. It went on for a long time, and every doggone minute of that time was packed with danger and suspense. And at the same time, it was so full of action that you'd have a hard time packing another single movement into it.

It's one of the most thrilling tales I've come across in quite a while, and the honors today go to a Chicago policeman—Albert Rickert of Chicago.

It was a cool September afternoon in 1927. Al was off duty, and with time on his hands, he went over to the home of his pal, Emmett Hartnett, for a visit. After he'd been there awhile, they decided it would be a good idea to go for a ride. Emmett got a car and they drove around for about two hours.

They were on their way to a restaurant when things began to happen. As they drove along a small sedan passed them. There were two men in the car, and Al recognized them both as automobile thieves!

Thieves Recognize Al as Policeman.
Al told Emmett to turn around and follow that car. They were catching up to it when the thieves spotted the auto behind them and recognized Al as a policeman. They stepped on the gas—and the chase was on!

The car in front of them leaped ahead. Emmett stepped on it and followed. The faster they went, the faster the smaller car ahead traveled. Al pulled out his gun and fired one shot. But the car ahead didn't stop.

Both those gas bugs were tearing along down the street at close to top speed. The scenery was fairly whizzing past, and people along the way stopped to stare at a race they had never seen the like of outside of a race track.

Gun in hand, Al opened the door and climbed out on the

And then he was being dragged along behind the fleeing car. running board to get a better shot at his quarry. As Emmett drove and the car careened along the wide street he fired again and again. Still the car ahead sped on!

Now, Al could see that they were gaining on the crooks. The small car didn't have speed enough to outdistance the big one in which they were riding. Al continued to fire until his revolver was empty.

Al's Car Nosed Alongside the Thieves.
The big car had almost caught up to the little one now. Bit by bit they gained until at last Al's car was nosing up beside the one in which the two thieves were riding. They were running almost hood to hood now, and Al could have reached out and touched the other auto, when suddenly the front car turned sharply.

Al saw the crooks' car swerving toward them, but before he had a chance to do anything about it, there was a crash. The crooks sid-swiped them, knocking them over to the side of the street.

There was another crash as the car lurched into a telephone pole, but Al wasn't inside the car when it hit. As the two cars came together he was caught between them and knocked down on the running board.

Then, as the smaller car veered away again, his right leg was pinched between its rear fender and the bumper. He felt a tug at that leg—felt himself falling to the pavement—and then he was being dragged along behind the fleeing car.

The car was out of control now. The crook at the wheel was trying to keep it going straight, but it shot up over the curb on the other side of the street. It crossed the sidewalk and plunged on over a stretch of bare, water-soaked prairie.

Dragged along behind it, Al felt a terrific bump as his body was pulled over the curb. There was a terrible pain in his im-prisoned leg where the tire was scraping the flesh away. His back and sides were being bruised and lacerated.

The car traveled a hundred feet through the prairie and by that time Al was numb from pain and shock. Then the car bogged down in the mud and came to a stop. Al's clothes had been literally torn from his body by then, but he still had his gun clutched tightly in his hand.

He Struggled to Get His Leg Out of the Trap.
"There was no chance to use it," he says, "but as soon as the car came to a halt, I began struggling to get my leg out of its trap. The driver jumped out and ran north across the prairie.

"At last I got my leg loose and crawled out from under the car. I raised my gun and pulled the trigger, but all I got was a click of the hammer. In the excitement I had forgotten that I emptied the gun during the chase."

As the gun clicked, the second man leaped from the car and started to run. And then Al made the pinch of his life. Helpless and unable to walk, much less run after the fleeing crook, he got up on his feet and threw the empty gun after him.

That gun went straight to the mark. It caught the crook on the back of the head and he fell forward on his face—out cold. At the same moment Emmett extricated himself from his wrecked car and came running across the street. He grabbed the crook.

Emmett took them both to a restaurant a block away and there he stayed there for three months, getting over the injury to his leg. The rear tire had ground a ridge right into the flesh as the car dragged the him across the prairie.

The crook he caught drew a 14-year sentence. The other one was shot down by an Englewood policeman three days later—in another stolen car.

What to Eat and Why

With Approach of Warm Weather, C. Houston Goudiss
Advises Extra Care in Storing Foods in the Home

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT IS the proud distinction of America's food industries which are constantly available, and regardless of distances they have been transported, even the most delicate foods are delivered to the consumer in a fresh, wholesome condition, with all their fine flavor unimpaired.

The secret of this modern miracle is refrigeration. Thousands of sums of money have been invested in long trains of refrigerated cars, thousands upon thousands of refrigerated trucks, refrigerated warehouses and refrigeration equipment in stores. All this has been done for a single purpose: to keep food fresh and at its best until it reaches the home.

At this point the responsibility shifts to the homemaker. And if she falls down on her job, then all previous efforts to keep food free from spoilage have been in vain.

Homemaker's Responsibility
As guardian of her family's health, one of the homemaker's most important tasks is to see to it that all food is safeguarded against contamination until it reaches her table. This means that perishable foods must continue to be refrigerated properly in the home. For only in this way can they be protected from the ravages of micro-organisms which are always ready to attack foods when conditions are favorable for their growth.

Two essentials are necessary for satisfactory food preservation in the home. First, perishable foods must be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit—never at a temperature higher than 50 degrees. Second, the right degree of humidity must be maintained. Too much moisture will encourage the growth of bacteria; too little will dehydrate fruits and vegetables and make them unfit for consumption.

Home Care of Foods
Both requirements are met by a good household refrigerator; and the homemaker who appreciates the importance of keeping foods sound and wholesome will regard an efficient refrigerator as an investment in good health. It is especially necessary that the food supply be properly refrigerated during the warmer weather of spring and summer, in order to prevent the consumption of dishes that may have become contaminated without any marked alteration in appearance, taste or odor.

Highly Perishable Foods
Milk is often regarded as the most perishable of all foods, because it is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. It is, therefore, essential that this splendid food be kept at low temperatures at all times. It should be put into

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYERS SPEARS

DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Your books have shown me how to do so many things that I am turning to you for help. I want to make slipcovers for the living room furniture because with three young ones the upholstery is soon going to be ruined. The job completely baffles me. I am enclosing a rough sketch of one of the chairs. Can you suggest any way that a removable cover can be made for it? B. A.

If you are prepared to make many neatly fitted openings almost any type of chair may be slipcovered. Either bindings or facings may be used to finish edges where seat and back covers are cut around arms and supports. Where there are so many openings of different lengths, snap fasteners are generally more satisfactory than zippers. If snap fastener tape is obtainable it saves time to whip it to the long edges. The narrow frill for this chair covers a curved line across the front and

Getting It Right
During its whole life, a naturalist says, a bee only makes about one-tenth of a pound of honey. Will moralists please note. Especially as we take the honey, being a busy bee hardly seems worth while.

A stuffed fish is prominently displayed in a hall in New York used for lectures and public meetings. It bears the legend: "Take a lesson from me—I wouldn't be here if I had kept my mouth shut." Neither would the lecturers.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch? Dinner? White bread, maybe some potatoes? It's difficult for you to get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount of food you eat. It's the kind of food that makes a soft "bulky" mass in the bowels. This is your trouble. Why? Well, this is your trouble. You want a great crunchy taste. You want a soft "bulky" mass in the bowels. All-Bran is a natural food. It's a medicine—but it's pleasant to eat. It's a natural food. It's a medicine—but it's pleasant to eat. It's a natural food. It's a medicine—but it's pleasant to eat.

Give a Thought to MAIN STREET

For in our town—where everyone is so close to the main street—going on, changes are being made and food prices are being lowered. This is good news. The fact is, the fall of food prices is affecting our living—our budget. It's a relief. It's a relief. It's a relief.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON NEW YORK. — Radio, automobiles, airplanes, moving pictures and virtually all the other technical ten-strikes of the modern world came in between the first and second Chicago world's fairs.

Unlike Britain's garret inventor, John Logie Baird, Allen B. Du Mont, putting his by-line on the new television set, came along through the "channels" in which promising young technicians are grooved these days.

In 1937, Mr. Du Mont rounded up some capital and built a sizable two-story laboratory at Montclair, N. J., employing 42 men. By 1938, Paramount pictures had declared itself in a big way, and, at last accounts, Mr. Du Mont's enterprise was virtually a subsidiary of this corporation.

COL. EDWARD STARLING, who confers with Albert Canning, chief constable of Scotland Yard, about guarding the British king and queen on their visit here, is an American of the "Deadwood Dick" tradition which the British like to think is typical of this country—a long, lean, reserved, tight-lipped Kentuckian, with a sombrero, the guardian of five Presidents, camera-eyed and a crack pistol shot.

He saved Clemenceau's life during the Paris peace conference. Guarding Woodrow Wilson, he rode in an automobile immediately behind the "Tiger's" car. He saw an assassin level a gun. Shooting from the hip in a lightning draw, he cracked the killer's wrist.

He is the one man the President has to obey, an advance man who interviews police, maitres d'hotel, transportation officials and chefs, even editing menus, and, on occasion, speeches, if they indicate too much of a tax on the President's receptive energies.

At 17, he was a deputy sheriff of Hopkinsville, Ky. As a special agent for the railroads, he touched off his first national headlines by trapping the "California Kid," a desperate marauder who had long eluded capture. President Theodore Roosevelt gave him special assignments which routed him into the White House secret service detail in 1913.

He is six feet tall, gaunt and serious, graying now, the better to fade into the crowd. JOHN R. STEELMAN, the government's special mediator in the Appalachian soft coal dispute, was once a "blanket stiff," riding the rods with the hobbos to get down from Arkansas to the western wheat fields.
