Three People Hurt in Auto Collision / South of Kewaskum

KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1939

Mrs. Ed. Dobke and son Roger. aged seven months of the town of Kewaskum, and Louis Martin of the town of Barton were injured in an automobile collision at 11:30 a. m. on last Sunday morning. June 11, about 11/2 miles south of Kewaskum on what is known as Bruessel's corner, located about a quarter mile west of Highway 55. Mr. Dobke, driver of one of the cars, and a Milwaukee man, whose name could not be learned. passenger in the other car, were also involved in the crash but were uninjured with the exception of minor scratches.

The Terraplane car, driven by Dobke, and occupied by his wife and son, approached the crossing from the south. The cars met at the crossing with the Dobke machine crashing into the right side of the one driven by Martin with terrific impact.

Mrs. Dobko and son, being the most seriously injured, were taken to St. Joseph's Community hospital, West cuts about one of her knees which required about a dozen stitches to close the wounds. She also received a badby cut lip and a number of teeth were knocked loose. The baby suffered contusion on the forehead which laleft the infant's condition quite serious. However, after the pressure was rapid improvement. Both, were allowed to return home from the hospital on Thursday.

Mr. Martin received a bad gash on the head and cuts on his nose, but his injuries did not necessitate going to the hospital. His Milwaukee passenger escaped injury but complained

Town of Farmington Farmers Victors in Flood Control Veto

A victory for the farmers in the town of Farmington was won at Madison last week when Governor Heil vetoed an appropriation of $7125 in vey on flood control of the Milwau-

A partial survey of the upper Milwaukee river has already been made by the state public service commission and the WPA. The appropriation

The project was sponsored largely by Ozaukee and Milwaukee county ington where approximately 6000 acres of fertile farm land would be flooded.

These farmers had held meetings and through their attorneys, Schloemer & Stoltz, contacted their assemtlyman and senator at Madison who successfully appealed to the governor for his veto of this item in the budget.

CLAIM FLOOD CONTROL

FACTS MISREPRESENTED The Tri-County Anti-Flood Control association, composed of farmers in Washington, Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties, is aroused over the statements made by Tony Sentz, chairman of the Lincoln Park Civic Advancement association's flood control committee, as reported in the Milwaukee newspapers. Wm. H. Gruhle, chairman of the Tri-County Anti-Flood Control association, reports that the land to be flooded by the proposed dam is almost entirely composed of average farm land, including some of the bestfarms in the locality; that many of the farms have very modern and upto-date buildings which have been in the families of the owners for over three generations, and that there are several hundred farmers living in Washington, Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties whose lands will be effected by the dam. Mr. Gruhle also points out that the statement of Mr. Sentz tpat 430,000 acres of land is being Jeopardized by halting of the flood control project is a wild misstatement. Mr. Gruhle points out that the entire acreage of Washington county is 277,000 acres and that all of the land in both Ozaukee and Washington counties would not total 430,000. Mr. Gruhle also points out that assuming all the land lying within a mile of each side of the river for a distance of 30 miles above the mouth of the river were flooded, the total acreage under water would be only 38,400 acres, but that it is general knowledge that in the worst flood only a very small fraction of this area has ever been inun-

The Tri-County association requested Governor Heil to veto this approrriation because this appropriation would be wasted unless Congress first authorized the Army engineers to take a survey of the project.

Lived to the Law

Up to recent times in Palestine, nearly every Christian farmer observed the Deuteronomic laws in the Old Testament, which require him to leave part of his crop for the poor. Olive-grove owners especially obeyed the regulation forbidding them to shake their trees more than once so some of the fruit would remain "for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow."-Collier's.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constination is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to aroud having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of

The Eyes Have It

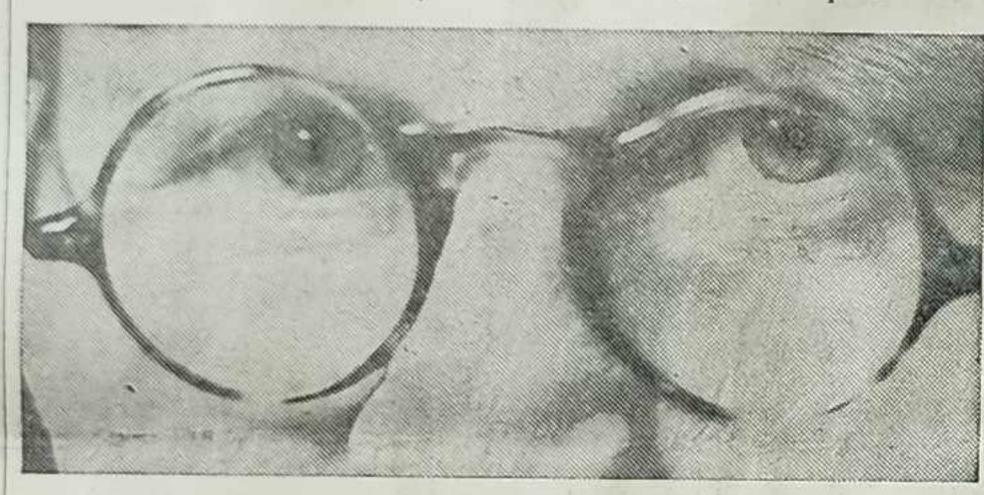

How's your memory for eyes? They impress most people more than do noses or any other feature, yet removed from related parts of the face they sometimes seem singularly lost. Here are six famous pair of eyes. They're identified at the bottom of the column, but don't peek yet!

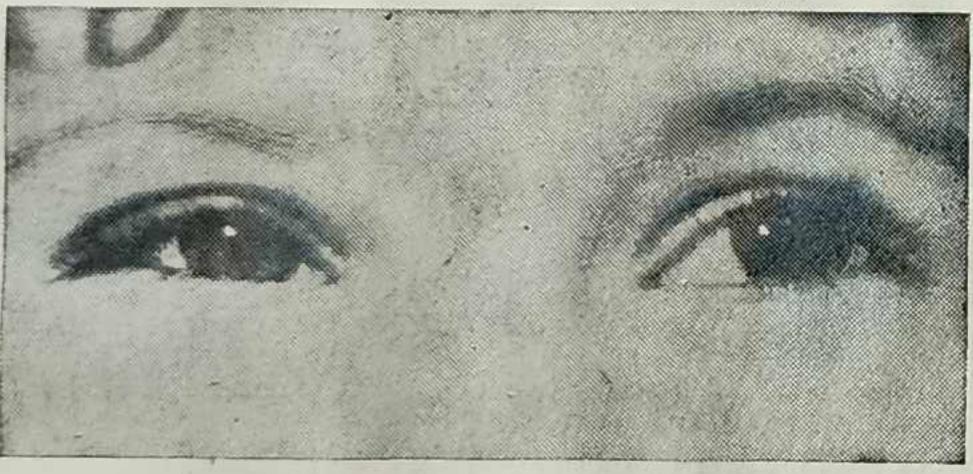

This is the head of a nation. Might be President Cardenas of Mex-- ico, Spain's Francisco Franco or Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain. Only it isn't any of those. Aufully easy!

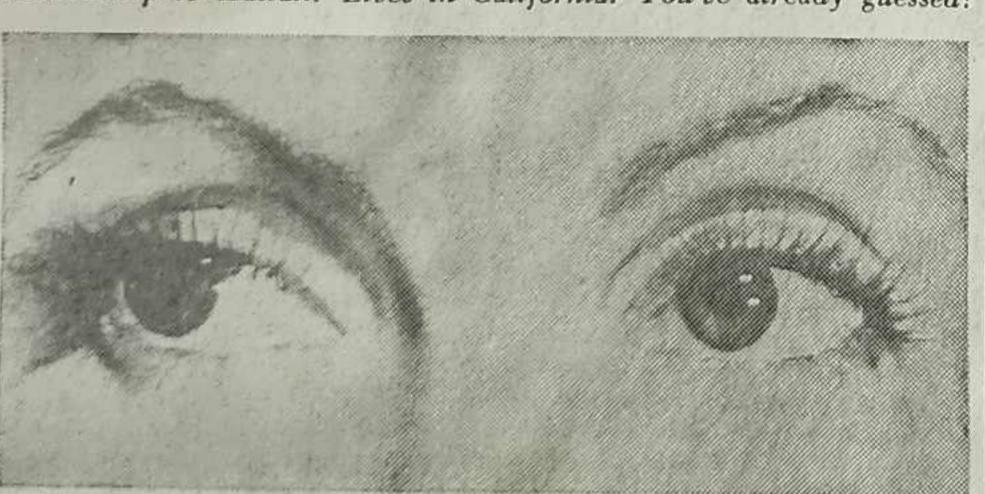

2 This fellow isn't very old as his eyes indicate. We won't tell you anything about him except that he's a juvenile film player. Let's see . . . could that be Freddy Bartholomew or Jackie Cooper?

1 This fellow has a lot of children, which isn't much of a help. He's still a minute, he is buoyant and a member of Uncle Sam's diplomatic corps, wears glasses (how did you guess it?) and is a very successful business man.

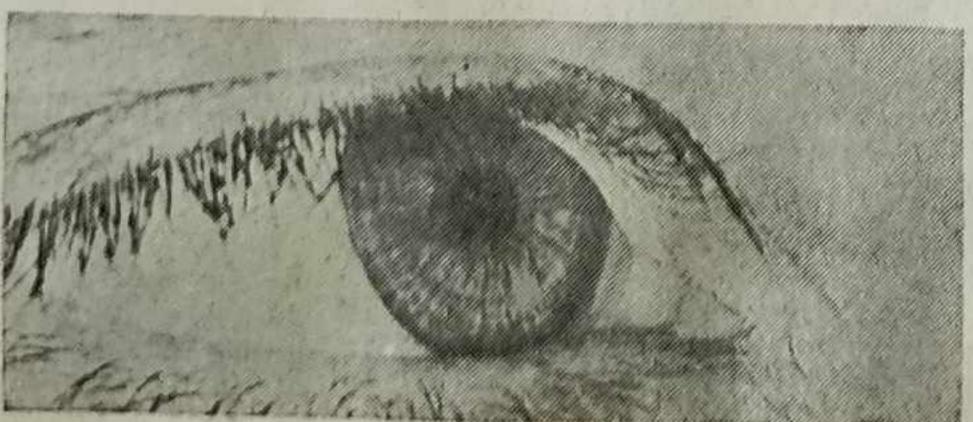

A very famous young lady and we don't mean one of the Dionne quintuplets. She sets a lot of fashions for the younger crowd. Just took a trip to Hawaii. Lives in California. You've already guessed!

6 This lady also lives in California when not back home in a northern European country. Don't see why anyone would want to be alone when she has big eyes like these. Or is that a dead give-away?

-all down the chute in the federal to be one up on the "good earth" as an arcanum of security. Modern times are like that.

In the basement of a New York hospital, where he ran the elevator, he had a grand time taking an old hot-tube gas engine to pieces and putting it together again. He was 17, not long from Chicago, where he had been a telegraph messenger boy. An old one-eyed swamper around the place, who understood machinery, had instructed him in the working of the power plant and had encouraged his laboratory work. There was a close working alliance between faculty and student body.

Two years later, the lad got a job as a typist in a law office, baffled at first because he couldn't use a monkey wrench on the typewriter, but exploring it satisfactorily with a screw-driver and pliers.

But a law office hadn't any wheels, and he did better with the Lackawanna railroad, which had plenty, although he was in the traffic department. In his spare time, he worked out improvements on a bicycle chain and sprocket. That brought him in touch with bicycle manufacturers and at last he was on the main line-and it wasn't the Lackawanna. It was a wide, paved highway to millions in the invention of automobile and aviation devices whose only deadend was real estate.

Of Swedish ancestry, son of a Moline, Ill., Methodist minister, he packed a copy of Schopenhauer in his pocket when he was a messenger boy. In those days, he wolfed Huxley, Darwin, Marx, Tyndall, Wallace and Spencer, calling himself a Socialist in his earlier years. Never resilient at 57, and his friends shrug off this bankruptcy business as just a short detour from the main highway. They say they wouldn't be surprised if he should bob up with something as exciting as perpetual motion, one of these days.

such a hand from students and faculty. Somewhat in the picture of Stringfellow Barr of St. John's, and Maynard Hutchins of Chicago, he has put over education on its merits. He has been first a scholar and secondly an administrator, but has fired so much enthusiasm that administration has pretty much taken care of itself.

The University of Edinburgh and Harvard passed on to him the flame of the great Elizabethans. Merry eyes-little white beard-resonant laugh-with a surgically incisive mind—he has been to the Smith undergraduates a blend of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Erasmus-although said immortals didn't smoke big eigars. He takes a bow from all the groves of academe.

If you're ever motoring to Niagara Falls at night, don't go by the River road. That comes from Jim McDermott of New York City.

Buffalo. That's how he found out about River road. River road was dangerous because of the way cars sped along it at are rolling along nicely. They seem night. But speeding cars weren't the only danger, folks said. It was the duty of Jim and another lad-Roscoe Doane-to patrol that road in a car. Their duty was to prevent the smuggling of aliens and of contraband goods, the principal contraband in that pre-repeal day being liquor. "Before I took the job," says Jim, "people advised me against it. They claimed the bootleggers were desperate and would shoot on sight. I found this to be untrue. But I did face death in three violent forms, in about as many minutes on one particular night of my service."

They Started Out in a Small Roadster. That night came in the spring of 1926. Jim and Roscoe started out in a small roadster, with the top down. Roscoe was driving, for Jim, at that time didn't know how to operate a car. Fix's Ferry was their starting point. They hung around there until about 11:15, and then started to drive toward Tonawanda. They had gone about two miles when they came to a point where the road narrowed down and the Erie canal ran alongside it for a coming straight down the center of the road and it was coming plenty fast. Jim yelled to Roscoe, "Give this fellow all the room you can, or he'll hit us." Roscoe was already turning over on the grass at the side of the road. But the headlights came rushing on.

Then-BANG! The car hit them! Says Jim: "Our car seemed to soar in the air for a moment or two. As we were hit, Roscoe jumped to get out, and landed in my lap. The left front wheel of the big sedan had caught our front wheel. It lifted our light car completely off the road and swung it around. At the same time, it turned over and landed bottom up, diagonally across the narrow roadway."

Jim says that, during the brief moment while they were turning over, just one question presented itself to his mind. That was: "Will I be dead when we hit?" But down there, trapped under the overturned car, Jim found to his surprise that he wasn't dead.

The Weight of the Car Seemed to Increase Momentarily.

"Roscoe was on top of me," he says, "with his back on my face, and he was doing some struggling. I couldn't move. My shoulders and the back of my neck were on the road, and I was still on the seat, albeit upside down. My back ached and the weight of the car, crushing down on me, was increasing momentarily."

He was in that position when suddenly he heard Roscoe let out an oath. "Here's a guy doing 50 and no lights," he cried. "He'll hit us sure as hell." Jim couldn't see a thing, but it was true, he knew. Their car was lying right across the road. A man going at that speed, with no lights, could hardly help but hit them.

Says Jim: "For the second time, I thought the end had come. I could see only a few feet ahead through the wreckage, but I could hear the roar of the approaching car. I gritted my teeth and struggled to get out, but I couldn't move. Roscoe was making my position more uncomfortable every second. I shouted out, 'Where is he?' At the same time I heard the roar of the motor diminish and Roscoe yelled back, 'He's gone.' "

Two narrow escapes. And a third still to come. As the night grew quiet again, Jim discovered that their headlights were still burning and the motor was still running.

Suddenly He Felt Something Drip Down on His Face. And then, suddenly, he felt something drip down on his face. "My first thought was that it was blood," he says, "but that couldn't be. This fluid was cold. I struggled to get my hand to my face, but before I got it there, I knew it was gasoline. It was coming from the tank just outside the dashboard, over the engine. I had faced death twice before—and now I was facing it again in a more dreadful form. Our engine was still running.

At any moment the car might burst into flames!" It didn't occur to Jim to shut off the switch. He didn't know how to drive a car. Momentarily he expected an explosion-fire-agony and death. And then, all at once, he heard voices. Someone was saying, "All on this side, now." The car was lifted off them, and half a dozen men were pulling him out. A bunch of army officers, returning from Buffalo to Fort Niagara, had come along and found them.

The car that hit them had run through a ditch and crashed into a tree. It contained a suitcase full of counterfeit liquor labels, but the driver was gone. He had walked down the road and telephoned ahead for help. The second car had just managed to get by them because a farmer's wife, who had seen the crash, ran to the road with a lantern. That second car got by with barely two inches to spare. But it didn't stop. Cars without lights along that road never did.

Jim was laid up three weeks with a wrenched back, but Roscoe Doane got off with a few bruises. But even so, Jim doesn't think it's particularly safe at night on that River road. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

With a McCormick-Deering Cylinder-Rake Hay Loader

An efficient having job is the answer when you use this loader, built to pick up hay from either swath or windrow. One-man loading is possible, reducing labor

The three-bar cylinder is adjustable for different hay conditions. The three-throw crankshaft minimizes jerkiness and elevates the hay steadily and gently, thereby reducing leaf loss.

The sturdy workmanship found in this loader is found in all McCormick-Deering Hay Tools, including the No. 7 enclosed-gear mower, side rakes and tedders, self-dump rakes, sweep rakes, hay stackers, and hay presses. You can see them all at our store now.

crisis, though he has been chief of the army general staff since 1931. Now 66, he entered the World war as a captain and emerged as a major general. His latest honor: Commandership of the combined move to unify the government's defense. The move had been expected, however, since General Gamelin was in 1938 named chief of the general staff of national defense, directly under Edouard Daladier, premier and minister of national defense and war. The new task is one of co-ordinating all French forces. Retaining generalship of French land forces, the new commander will have as air chief Gen. J. Vuillemin. Commander-in-chief of the navy will be Admiral Jean Darlin, advanced from vice-admiral. Both are under Gamelin's supervision.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

Elmo Scott Watson

Saved by Chance

THOMAS PAINE, with his stir-I ring, "These are the times that try men's souls," read to the men in Washington's army, did much to relieve the despair of 1776. After serving as aide to Gen. Nathanael Greene, he became secretary to the congressional committee of foreign affairs and helped get loans from France and Holland.

But aiding the fight for human liberty of only one people was not enough for him. Instead of settling down to enjoy life in the nation he helped found, he went to England and, in 1791, published his famous "Rights of Man" for which he was outlawed by the king's court. Then he went to France where he was elected to the national convention. But when he opposed the execution of King Louis XVI, the Jacobins expelled him from the convention. When Robespierre came into power, Paine was thrown into prison and condemned to the guillotine. He was saved by the merest chance.

The prison keeper went along the corridor placing chalk marks on the doors of those to be executed the next morning. In the prison gloom, he did not notice that Paine's cell door was temporarily wide open it was closed.

Finally he led a victorious force into Acapulco and those who had been so cruel to him begged for mercy. In true American fashion, he showed no bitterness-no desire for revenge. "Go away and don't bother me," were the only words he had for those who had given him 10 years of torture.

'Dictator' of Skagway

H IS name was Jefferson Ran-dolph Smith and he was born in Georgia in 1860, all of which sounds like wonderful background for the story of a Southern gentleman. But he was a gambler and a crook who wound up in Alaskaand they called him "Soapy" Smith. He got his name in Leadville, Colo., where he sold suckers bars of soap supposedly wrapped in $20 bills. He was a gambler and confidence man in Denver and Creede, Colo., where he became "dictator" of the camp, succeeding Bob Ford, slayer of Jesse James. When the Alaskan gold rush began, he went up to Skagway and found the town wide open and waiting for a man of his talents. He soon became leader of a gang that used his saloon as headquarters for fraud, robbery and even murder.

His disrespect for law was so flagrant that it soon became too much even for that lawless community. A citizens' committee held a closed meeting to decide what to do about it. No decision was really necessary, as "Soapy" tried to "crash" the meeting with a Winchester rifle but was fatally shot by an armed

Thursday, June 15th. THE FARM QUESTION is being asked more frequently than eny other is: "What is the Congress and the administration going to do to the market for cheese and butter and relieve the intolerable condition of the farmer? As I have repeatedly stated volving these plans are pending before in this column and in public address- the committees of Congress, but due es devoted to the subject, I can see no relief in sight for the Wisconsin ever the Congress and its committees, dairy farmers under the present New none of them have been reported out Deal Agricultural program, As I bave repeatedly stated also, the Democrata consideration, I confess to my consti- picture long to be remembered. ie majority in Congress still is able tuents that the whole agricultural to control and direct all legislation and it seems committed to a continuyears ago, under which the agricultural population of America have gradually seen their markets des troyed and prices reduced to a poin where the purchasing power of the farmer is practically destroyed. La ils briefly analyze what has taker place. The present administration concluded that the low prices of 1982 when the country was at the very depth of the world depression, were occasioned by an over-production, and so they began a program designed to take land out of production, plowing under cotton and killing off pigs, in the hope that by reducing production, commodity prices would rise. This was the program designated as "Economic Scarcity." Huge appropriations of money were made to pay the farmers for taking land out of production and at the same time various departments of the department of agriculture, were attempting to aid the farmer in instructing him how to grow more and bigger crops of less acreage. Being unable to control the elements, nature responded bountifully and despite the efforts to reduce production, so-called surpluses continued to mount, and instead of getting better, conditions began, to get worse. After taking thousands of thousands of acres of good land out of production the government spent have to worry about a general sales

Danger Lurks In "THREE"

SHUTTERED HOUSES"

BY BEN AMES WILLIAMS

CTANDING by themselves on Kene-Saw Hill, three dilapidated mansions cast an evil shadow of gloom over the surrounding countryside. Sprawling old houses, they were sinister and darkly foreboding.

Inside one of them lived pretty June Leaford, surrounded by taciturn, closemouthed relatives, one of whom was a maniacal murderer, cleverly striking at those who stood in the way.

The ultimate solving of the mystery by two of fiction's best known characters, Inspector Tope and Miss Moss, is one of Ben Ames Williams' most thrilling stories. How they are helped in the solution of the crime by Clint Jervies. in love with June, is one of the heartwarming features of the detective tale.
