the country show a higher percentage of susceptibles than in cities. 2. How is immunization or what might be termed vaccination against diphtheria brought about?

A. By the administration of toxoid. Toxoid is a colorless or white liquid which is placed under the skin by a needle in a small dose.

3. When does toxold make the child immune?

A. Ordinarily in three weeks to six months. It works slowly. It therefore gives no immeditae protection to a child who has just been exposed to diphtheria nor is it used for treatment when the child is sick. HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Gray Fanged Terror"

LIELLO EVERYBODY:

Dorothy Dublin of Brooklyn, N. Y., wins the place of honor today with the story of a terrible experience that once happened to her dad. That makes her dad, Jacob Dublin, the club's newest Distinguished Adventurer.

It happened in Russia, in the town of Ubtchark, near the city of Minsk, close by what is now the Polish border, and it happened forty-eight years ago, in the late fall of 1888, when Jacob Dublin was just a little nine-year-old boy. If a grown man had gone through the adventure that little Jake Dublin encountered on a lonely country road that chilly fall evening in 1888, it would still be a wow of a story. But when an adventure of that sort happens to a nine-year-old kid-well-then you have a new definition of the true meaning of the word "terror."

They had wolves in West Russia in those days. For that matter, you'll still find wolves in certain parts of Russia today. Then, there were plenty of them-and more than a few lurked in the forests around Ubtchark. Those wolves gave little Jake Dublin plenty to worry about, too. For it was his duty to drive his father's horses to the feeding ground every day, and that feeding ground was on the edge of the forest.

Wolves Harmless During Morning Hours.

It wasn't driving the horses TO the pasture so much as driving them home again in the evening that worried little Jake. In the mornings, the wolves never bothered anyone. But in the evening, emboldened by the darkness, they had been known to attack grown men. The result was that little Jake had to be mighty sure to bring those horses back from pasture while it was still light. And if it ever happened he was delayed until dusk began to fall-well-then his dad took over the job of bringing those horses home.

But one day things went wrong out at the pasture-and little Jake Dublin almost didn't get back.

He started early enough. If he had come back as promptly there wouldn't have been any danger. But trouble started when he reached the feeding ground and tried to bring the horses home. There was a beautiful filly in the herd, called Tara, which was as yet unbroken. A couple of times before she had been hard to manage, but this afternoon Jake couldn't do anything with her. For almost an hour he chased her about the pasture trying to get her under control.

It was almost dark by the time he got her quieted, and still he had the other horses to round up. It took him another 10 or 15 minutes to get all the beasts tethered together, one behind the other, the way his dad had taught him to bring them in, and by that time it was night. Little Jake Has Choice of Two Paths.

The forest, to one side of him, was ominously still. Dark treetops | note of interest. With the new backloomed over him, silent against an almost pitch black sky. Little Jake fullness the simple black dress that knew it was no hour for a nine-year-old boy to be out alone. He knew is heralded as a perfect autumn that the quicker he got home, the better. There were two paths he could take on his way home. One path turned into a road that ran along the edge of the forest. It was a roundabout way, but it was a little safer than the other.

The other ran part way through the forest. It was more dangerous than the first route, but it was shorter and it went straight toward his home. Faced with a choice between these two paths, little Jake chose the one that went through the forest. On either path there was danger from wolves. Jake picked the shorter way because-well-he wanted to get home just as fast as he could.

He started down the path leading his long string of horses. He hadn't gone very far when suddenly Tara, who was the second horse in the line, began to get unruly again. She bucked and reared. The rest of the horses became nervous and fidgety. Wondering what was the matter with Tara now, Jake moved down the line and tried to calm her. But the horse wouldn't be calmed. Something was frightening herand frightening her mighty badly, too.

Little Jake wasn't long in finding out what was frightening Tara. Suddenly, a lithe, gray form shot out of the brush alongside of the path and sank its teeth into the neck of the first horse! A wolf!

Forest Turns Into a Shrieking Bedlam.

Then, in an instant the stillness of the forest was rent by a shricking bedlam. The other horses screamed and struggled while the first horse, blood gushing from his throat, was pulled down by the wolf. So far the wolf had paid no attention to little Jake. He was too intent on making his kill. But now, other wolves were coming, attracted by the noise and the scent of blood. Jake could hear their weird howling coming nearer and nearer. When the rest of the pack arrived-well-then he'd be in for it. Then there would be a general slaughter of his poor animals, and he, too, would find how it felt to have a wolf's fangs tearing at his throat.

He stood in the midst of his rearing, plunging horses, too stiff with fright to move a step. What good would it do him to run anyway? Those wolves could pick up a scent and follow it faster than he could run. And then little Jake saw it-a light. Far down the path, half obscured by trees, a torch was flaring. Then he saw another-and another! He could hear voices now-men's voices, shouting to him to stay where he was. The wolf heard those voices, too. He slunk off into the forest and the howls of the advancing pack were stilled. In a few moments a band of villagers came running up the trail. They had started combing the forest when little Jake didn't get home by nightfall-and they (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

New Look Is Given to Autumn Styles by Bustle Silhouette

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

VV ty, judging from the consternation and furore the mention of "bustle" in connection with the new fashions for fall and winter has caused. Immediately, at the mere suggestion of bustles being revived in modern styling, came visions of the amusing monstrosities we of this day have come to associate with the "has been" fashions of the long ago.

As a matter of fact the bustle motif that has succeeded in giving to contemporary fashions such a decidedly new look is far and away from the antiquated bustle of our ancestresses. A more accurate way of expressing the bustle theme as is today, is to speak of it as tive manner.

The emphasis given to back-fullness in current styling has opened avenues of thought to designers, in consequence of which the dresses and coats and jackets shown in the season's collections have taken on an entirely different and refreshing "first" becomes a model of highstyle distinction.

The various treatments of the back-fullness theme as demonstrated in the illustration conveys the message that there are backalike.

The bustle is ducing clever drapes, bows, and detachable, to be worn at will. Stiff, peplum effects done in a conserva- crisp silk taffeta yields beautifully.

This matter of back-fullness is not confined to dress design. The new coats have had to be tuned to the bustle-like fullness of the gowns over which they must be worn. In consequence many of the smartest coats of the season are styled with that thought in mind. Some take on fullness at the waistline; others are made with lines that flare from neckline to hem at the back. Unfurred dressmaker coats of this type, made of fine broadcloth or velvety surfaced woolens, rank at the height of fashion. With them a separate fur piece is inevitable which is met fullnesses and back-fullnesses being stoles that recall quaint fashions interpreted throughout the mode, such as our revered grandmothers

Reaction to the new bustle vogue is seen in the revival of stiff, handsome silks as they so successfully yield to bouffant drapes and bows. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Tope said slowly: "Rab's hurtgot a bad crack on the head. Doctor Cabler's working on him." He added: "And Asa's out in the car with a broken neck."

"Broken neck?" Heale echoed. His voice was husky. "Is he dead?" "Just as dead as if he'd been hanged," Tope assented. He said it with something like contentment in his tones, as though he perceived a seemliness and order in the world: "They don't hang in this State any more; but I always said it was the thing-for murderers, I mean." Heale ejaculated: "Murderers?"

And Tope told him briefly: "Yes. He and Rab had an argument tonight, in the garage. He hit Rab with a monkey-wrench, propped him against that pine tree by the corner of the drive, got out his car. around and came back again. He meant to run into Rab, finish him.

"But I was there. Before Asa got back, I'd dragged Rab away from the tree. Asa saw me. Seeing me must have startled him so that he stepped on the gas. Anyway, he rammed into the tree so hard it snapped his own neck."

Heale stood in an incredulous amazement, and Tope concluded: "Didn't kill him right off. He came to. He thought he'd hit Rab, and he told us it was an accident, that "Heale's coming," he reported. Rab dodged in front of the car. When I told him he hadn't hit Rab,

Left to his own devices, many a man would choose a diet of meat, potatoes, and pie. They're not particularly fond of vegetables-these men of ours-and when it comes to salads, it's a sheer waste of energy to serve them anything fancy. So a little judicious planning is neces-

GREEN and white kitchen is as fresh and crisp as a lettuce leaf. I stepped into one the other day with white walls, green floor and green organdy curtains. Everything was green and white, and bright green and white tiles. All of us love old quilt patterns. For those who do not have time to make quilts, here is a modern use for your favorite designs. Perhaps you were put to bed as a child under this eight-pointed star? The sketch gives the dimensions for the patterns for the two triangles used in making it for the pot holder. Piece eight small squares of two triangles; then eight oblong blocks of three triangles. A layer of sheet wadding is used for padding. The backing for the holder is white. The three layers are quilted together by sew-

Conservative Trend Apparent In FDR's Crisis Appointments; 'Permanent' Congress Likely

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

A WEEK OF WAR IN MODERN EUROPE The neutrals were also busy.

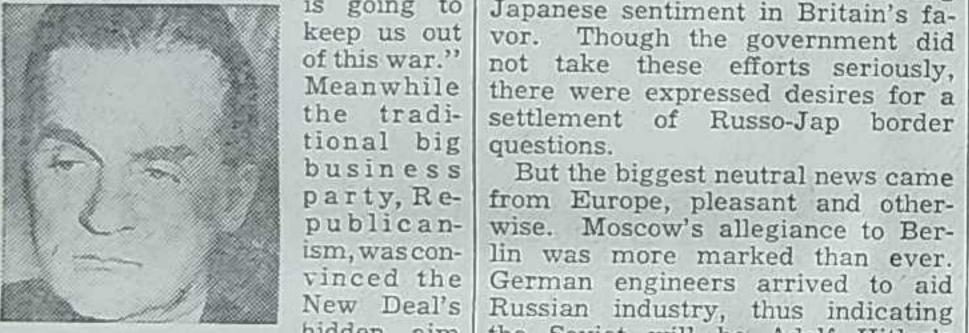

CONGRESS:

Emergency? Open for inspection this month is a choice collection of political anomalies. Whether Franklin Roosevelt made third term capital out of Europe's woes was only a guess, but the emergency of war caused quite a spell, strange things to happen. "Junked," in Secretary Steve Early's words," was the "imaginary The Neutrals brain trust." Solidly whacked under presidential orders were Communists and Fascists. Brought into $1-a-year emergency posts were more anti-New Dealers than Washington has seen since Herbert Hoover left town.

Gerald P. ("Neutral- | Mediterranean region. ity") Nye, with Idaho's lionish Sen. William E. Borah, or with Missouri's Democratic Sen. Bennett Champ Clark. As the call went out for special congressional session, voices like these were raised in protest and warning. Isolationism again reached the fore.

Far from stubborn, Senator Borah merely wanted assurance of adequate debate on neutrality. He hadno desire to "kill time," but was sure cash-and-carry "will inevitably bring us into war."

More alarming was Senator Nye, author of the present neutrality law; "Americans had better talk now before the gags of a declared emergency are placed. I expect that from here on the administration will be contending that every voice raised in opposition . . . is at once a pro-Hitler voice. Be that as it may . . . there will be . . . a complete demonstration to the American people of what the President's wishes will lead America into."

What gags he had in mind, Mr. Nye did not say. But there was every indication cash-and-carry neutrality, without gags, had a chance of getting through congress. Under proposed amendments any goods could be sold to a belligerent who bought it, paid for it and carted it away in his own ships. American ships would be prohibited from entering combat areas.

THE WAR: Behind Scenes

"What kind of a war is this? The nation is puzzled. It expected war to mean an immediate clash of arms . . . Instead, there is little news . . . Nineteen out of twenty persons ask therefore this question: Are we making as decisive an attack . . . as our strength allows?"

Day after printing this editorial, Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard had more news, not from the front but of carryings-on behind scenes. Secretly, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Lord Chatfield avoided one of the mistakes those nations made in their last war against Germany.

Next day Mr. Chamberlain, safely back home, told parliament he left the French meeting "fortified and encouraged." Not only would the allies trounce Germany, but they would rescue Poland and liberate the Czechs.

After waiting two weeks, Poland's Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz finally got his bald pate wet. The famous autumn rains started and German advance was slackened while the efficient Polish artillery went into action. Warsaw was variously reported falling and standing. Probably it still stood, but it was evident the Poles were taking losses elsewhere on the frontier to keep their major city intact. On the propaganda front, Poles (and even U. S. Ambassador Anthony Drexel Biddle) reported Germans were bombing everything in sight.

AGRICULTURE:

Corn Woes

From 1928 to 1937 the 10-year corn production average was 2,310,-000,000 bushels. Last year it was 2,542,000,000 bushels. With 255,000,-000 bushels already sealed on farms under government loans, the department of agriculture last month estimated this year's production at 2,450,000,000 bushels. But this month Secretary Henry A. Wallace had to confess: Later figures boosted the estimate to 2,523,000,000 bushels, smaller than last year, to be sure, but presenting a greater problem thanks to the big carryover. With a carryover of some 450,000,000 bushels, the U.S. will have 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn on

Hoarding and High Prices Due to Greed, Crookedness

I have interviewed a lot of people in the field of business in the last few days in an effort to ascertain where the cheating is going on. Moreover, I have investigated a number of business practices with the thought that these would provide a clue to some of the price increases, and reasons for them, with the results mentioned in the paragraph above. There must be added. however, one additional conviction: hundreds of thousands of consumers have become frightened and have started hoarding - buying excess supplies because of fright. I still can not believe, however, that these hoarding tactics are completely responsible for the kiting of prices that has taken place. Ruthlessness and greed, faithlessness and the ordinary, garden variety of crookedness among certain elements of business must accept responsibility; or wholesaler and jobber or retailer. for, from these things together with the campaign of misrepresentation which those elements have engi- have not arrived and when anyone neered come the fright of the average consumer. Mrs. Gracie smiled. "Gladys? Oh, "Maybe I can collect the money he she and I take turns in choosing special undertakings now. I used to insist that she work out certain proj-"You're an optimist," she said. ects. When she was 12 years old-"If my husband had any money he | that was two years ago-I decided that the time had come to teach her all sorts of things. She had learned to sew a little and loved to make doll's clothes, but I wanted her to make something useful. I bought some fine white cloth and started her on a slip."

"Gladys never wore the slip," said Mrs. Gracie ruefully, "at least not until I had made it over. She disliked working on it. This started a kind of struggle between us."

"But she sews now, doesn't she?" "Yes, she sews beautifully," said Mrs. Gracie. "When the slip was finally finished, I said nothing more about sewing. I didn't want to fix the dislike that I had started. Then the next summer she begged me for a pink tennis dress. It was early in the season and the ones she liked were too expensive. Then she said, 'Mother, I think I could make one, if you'd help me with the binding around the neck.' I tried not to show goods and she made the dress with very little help from me; you see she wanted it. She read the directions and made it carefully." "But that implies that mothers shouldn't try to direct their children," objected Mrs. Mitchell.

Imposing Their Own Views. "I wondered about that," said Mrs. Gracie, "and I talked it over with Tom. He had been trying to improve her reading, but when he brought books home from the library she never seemed to care for them. Then we concluded that we weren't accomplishing our purpose "Maybe you are right," said Mrs. Mitchell. "Tell me what you did."

"We decided to stop imposing our tastes upon Gladys and let her develop her own. We had kept her too busy. As I thought about it, I remembered my own early summer vacations. I had regular work to do. but I was allowed to create most of my own pleasures. I remembered long hours of reading-discovering books that I learned to love, hours of play, and gardening in the back yard. Whenever I got bored, I began to look around for something new and interesting to do. "I told this to Tom and he remembered the same conditions with regard to his own childhood. We decided that we had been supervising Gladys too much. So we planned to be ready to share experiences with her part of the time, but to leave her many hours each week when she would be entirely free. "Gladys had to do some housework, of course, and that kept her busy in the mornings. During the first week she seemed a little bored in the afternoons. Then one day she asked me to teach her to knit a sweater! The next week she began voluntarily looking for something to read and before long she was interested of her own accord in some of the very subjects her father had hoped she'd like!" "But wasn't she ever idle?" asked

Mrs. Mitchell. "Yes, she used to lie in the hammock on the porch sometimes for 'Mother, I love to lie and look up at the sky in the summertime. In the winter I'm too busy to think and get things straightened out in my mind.' "

★ Screen Cinderella * Athlete Gets Lead

★ To Have—Not to Hold

— By Virginia Vale — II/ANT a Cinderella story? VV It concerns Kathryn Adams, who didn't win a "Gateway to Hollywood" contest. She did get first place in the eliminations for her part of the country (Minnesota), however, and got to Hollywood.

But she lost out there, and was all set to go home. The story goes that Gregory La Cava, the ace producer-director, saw her walking across the RKO-Radio lot, and asked her to take a screen test. She did, so sure that nothing would come of it that she even told him that she didn't like the script provided for her, and he let her write her own. And—she was given the second may go farther than the girl who was an also-ran.

my delight! We found a remnant of applicants increased. They lay it to the New York World's fair-it seemed as if most of the people who went to New York for the fair didn't care so much about seeing it as they did about trying to land on the "Original Amateur Hour."

The arrival of cooler weather hasn't lessened the number of applicants-and auditions continue, at the rate of 600 per week.

It's Clayton Moore who's to have the lead in "South of Pago Pago," after all. He's a newcomer to the screen, but has the athletic background which seems to be the main requirement for the role. Moore hails from Chicago, where he was inter-city swimmer, pole vaulter, basketball player, boxer, and practically everything but a ping pong champion, apparently.

Paul Laval, the orchestra leader, collects batons used by celebrated conductors. He has 71, formerly the property of such famous leaders as Toscanini, Bruno Walter and Mascagni. But they're to have, not to hold-when he's conducting an orchestra he doesn't bother with a baton, just uses his hands.

There seems to be something about being on the radio that makes a man want to drive the oldest car

Here it is the third week of school the changes in the place.

First of all, we have two new teachsponsored by the school. These will in- ers-one brunette and one blond. They clude baseball, basketball, football, are very nice. One of them has had her payment of 1939 real estate taxes.

By the way did you know football It is expected that this system will has come to old K. High. Believe it or CLASSIFIED ADS tring a larger crowd to our athletic not we're so excited about our first contests, for the system is used by game we can hardly wait. You'll just I'll tell you, old dear, my news is so scarce that it isn't worth writing, but prosperity is just around the corner for gossip, and next week I'll really have something. I just wanted you to know that I was still alive. So-long.
