U. S. Scorns Neutrality Policy In Sympathizing With Finland; Russia Moves Against Rumania

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

INTERNATIONAL: Tears for Finland

This month the Communist party's magazine in Moscow, Agitator's Companion, pointed out that "President Roosevelt is more and more siding with the incendiaries of war, that "American imperialists are dreaming of world mastery," and that American business is "sparing no effort . . . to save European capitalism."

This didn't jibe with the Republican party's ideas or with those of America's President, though each was fighting the other over an international red herring, namely, the correct U. S. attitude concerning Russia's invasion of Finland. The G. O. P. was obviously making a political issue of Mr. Roosevelt's refusal to recall Laurence Steinhardt, ambassador to Moscow. White House spokesmen argued plausibly that this wouldn't be neutral, but it made little difference: Everybody from the President down was already unneutral, siding with little Finland so boldly that what few isolationists remained were alarmed.

The President publicly condemned Russia's aggression, but indicated nothing would be gained by severing relations. He next talked about a joint Pan-American declaration rebuffing the Soviet, which was merely a political move to offset Republican criticism. Finally, he decided Finland's December 15 war debt payment of $234,693 ought to be turned over to RFC and expended through the American Red Cross to purchase U.S. surplus commodities for Finland.

How Other Lands Mark Christmas

A melting pot of the world, America has created its Christmas traditions from from foreign lands. In these far-away places the Yuletide symbols of bygone ages still endure. Here are a few of them:

ENGLAND: Christmas to rural Englishmen means not only the observance of Christ's birth, but also a parting of the ways between the old year and the new. Preparations are started for the next year's farm work, which begins right after Christmas. Throughout the island such trappings as the holly and mistletoe remain undying traditions, nor is any Christmas complete without the Yule log burning. On clear frosty nights the carol singers raise their voices over the countryside. To many Englishmen's despair, such American customs as the turkey dinner are gaining a foothold.

GERMANY: Two years ago storm troopers in Berlin lit bonfires in the public squares as a revival of the pagan custom of celebrating the winter solstice. But this distraction will not stop the Christmas-loving Germans from decorating their trees in every town and village, and joining in the famed Christmas hymn, "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

ITALY: Most Italian families celebrate Christmas eve and spend the following day quietly in their homes. Here it is a feast more for grown-ups you'll find a rhumthan for children, whose merrymaking day comes 12 days later, on January 6. On Christmas eve families gather around the "ceppo" or Christmas log blazes. At nine p. m.

begins the "cenone," or big supper, at which no meat may be served. Gifts for children, which come on Epiphany, are brought not by Santa Claus but by an ugly witch whose name is "Befana."

FRANCE:

Exchange of gifts comes not on Christmas but mostly on New Year's day, which in France is the big fee, regular grind, for each cup (1/2 family day for reunions of cousins, pint) of water. BELGIUM:

Neither Santa Claus nor Pere Noel visit children here-but St. Nicholas makes the rounds, surprisingly, on December 6! A quaint Belgian custom is the putting up the chimney of a few carrots for the little donkey on which St. Nicholas makes his

RUSSIA:

This anti-Christian nation forbids celebration of the Yuletide but no import their own Christmas trees. Making an about-face, the Soviet government uses this emblem of childhood for its New Year's celebrations when Dadja Moroz, or Uncle Frost, appears with gifts for good children.

POLAND:

HUNGARY:

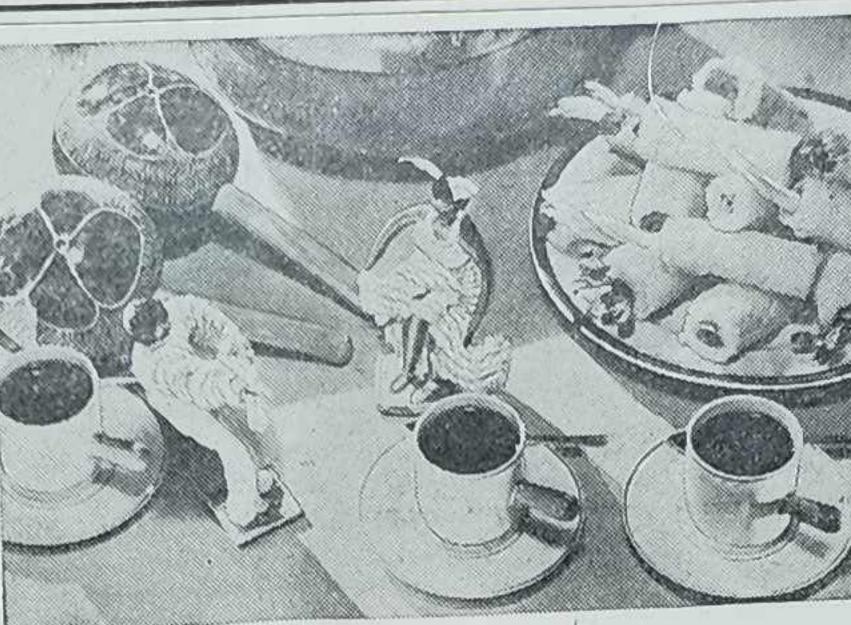

St. Nicholas leaves boxes of candy for children early in December, after which the youngsters must be on their good behavior. They write letters to the angels, who, they believe, bring the presents. If they find bits of tinsel on the floor, they claim this is angel's hair and proof that the angels are everywhere, observing which boys and girls are good.

HOLY LAND:

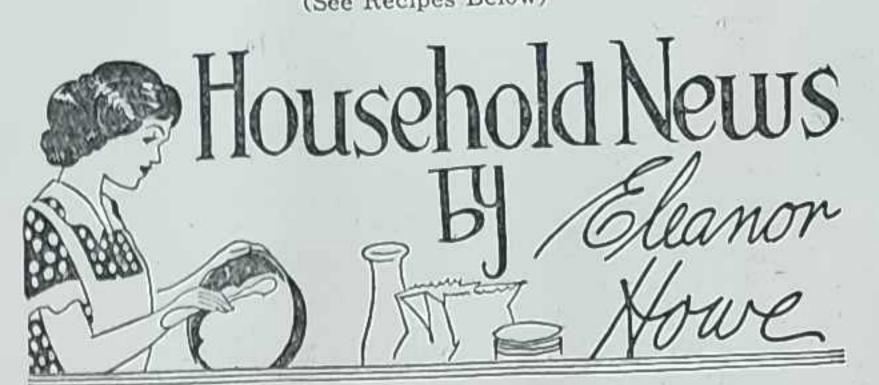

Where it all began nearly 20 centuries ago, worshipers reverently hail each Christmas at the church of Nativity which is built over Christ's traditional birthplace. It has remained unchanged more than 1,500 years. There pilgrims gather from all over the world to intone "Glory to the New-Born King."

sorts of amusing, inexpensive favors to give an authentic note to your rhumba party decorations-little pottery figures and tiny dolls dressed in Cuban costumes; and for noisemakers, a pair of maracas, those gourd-like rattles filled with seeds that rhumba orchestras shake to emphasize the beat of the music, and tiny wooden castanets that the dancers manipulate with their hands as an accompaniment to their steps. Refreshments, too, can be distinctly Cuban. A dish that has gained fame among visitors to Cuba is rice with chicken-"Arroz con pollo." With rolled sandwiches and plenty of coffee, you have a delicious, satisfying supper. The Cuban idea of coffee is small cups and plenty of them, filled with strong, black coffee. If you like, use decaffeinated coffee, so that your guests can drink many cups in the Cuban manner, without fear of sleepless hours later. Remember that decaffeinated coffee needs a little extra brewing to bring out the rich flavor.

Our Greed

The great error of our nature is, not to know where to stop, not to be satisfied with any reasonable acquirement; not to compound with our condition; but to lose all we have gained by an insatiable pursuit after more.-Burke.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal-Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek,

Greenery From N. C. Mountains Helps Spread Yuletide Cheer

"Galacking" is what they call this strange business up in the mountains of North Carolina, where the hill folks go hunting for galax leaves, sprays, hemlocks, holly, ivy and other greenery each autumn when the frost first strikes the pumpkin. Within a few weeks it's all been sorted, packed and delivered to communities throughout the country for decorating their streets, store windows, public buildings and homes during the Christmas week. Most likely there's some of it in your town today. The galackers don't get much money for their pains, but it doesn't cost much to live in the mountains, either. A few days' good harvest and they've added materially to the year's income.

Cords finished and ready for shipment along with ferns and othe ing taken this post in 1916, after 19 greenery. Give a thought to the North Carolina mountaineers thi years' previous residence here, Christmas . . . they've done their part.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

JEW YORK.—In the light of continuing difficulties in establisha safe and comfortable world order, it is interesting to recall Union of Europe, "coppered the Then of World, bet" after he had set up his Force Behind It "social contract" and his nicely behaved "natural man," When he considered his paragon in the light of international relations, he counseled for the world g quite a considerable qualification of all he had written before. Lord David Davies, president of the University of Wales, out for a federated Europe, makes a similar concession to eternal cussedness, having first given his heart to the hawks in his advocacy of a league of nations staked mainly on human brotherhood. Now he calls for the police. His views are relayed to this country in a letter to Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota. They are new only in that he is now narrowing them to a European federation rather than a world state. Now, as for several years past, he insists that the most urgently needed arrangement is for a world police force, in the form of an international navy, and land forces if necessary. The lack of power to enforce decrees is what he thinks killed the league. Last year, he formed the new commonwealth society, with Winston Churchill heading it in England. He says it is established and progressing in 14 countries. A federated Europe would be the first step toward a federated world. Lord Davies is not only a University president, but an industrialist, a director of the Great Western railway and the Midland bank and chairman of most of the great colliery enterprises of Great Britain. He was in parliament for more than 20 years. He was a leader in the early campaign for a league of nations union and is now a trustee.

His proposal, like the several other plans for continental unity, is sharply at variance with Clarence Streit's "Union now." In Lord Davies' plan, the state, backed by force, would be the unit in the cooperative endeavor; in Mr. Streit's plan, the individual is the unit and force is repudiated.

mountaineer has brought A from the prevailing European Nucleus of New bert of Italy. Power in Italy sharply aloof from the Fascist political regime, and there are persistent reports from many observers, journalistic and others, that he and the king are taking the play away from Mussolini.

With the powerful Marshal Badoglio, also a hold-out against the Fascists, he has been somewhat less than lukewarm about the axis and overtly opposed to joining Germany in the war. He is 35 years old, personable and popular, the master of five languages, trained in the army since he was nine years old, with a strong army following behind him. His wife was Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. They have a small son and daughter.

"Temple of Death"

CTRIKE up the band, here comes a sailor—and let that band tletoe was excluded from D play soft, mysterious music to fit the scene, for that sailor is going to tell us a tale about India, the land where strange things happen.

William Mutch is the sailor's name and he lives in New York before the time of Jesus City. It was in July, 1925, that Bill stepped off his ship, the S. S. Steel Trader, at Bombay and started out to see the sights of the town. And Bill says he saw the town from all anglesthe funny side and the deadly, serious, too.

Right off the bat he had a brush with a native corn doctorand Bill says the joke was on him. Early that morning when the ship docked dozens of native peddlers swarmed aboard. Among them was a corn doctor, who wanted six rupees to take a corn off Bill's foot. Bill offered him three, but the corn doctor the last two significant words imply- shook his head. Finally they compromised. Bill paid him three rupees and promised to pay him three more that afternoon.

When Bill stepped off the boat there was the corn doctor. He wanted his three rupees, but Bill told him he'd pay him the next day, and he and his buddy got into a gharry to drive away. But he wasn't fooling the corn doctor any. That little Hindu trotted right along behind the carriage yelling, "The Sahib owes me three rupees," until finally Bill stopped him and paid him the dough.

Bill Manages to Square Accounts.

"He smiled and said, 'Thank you, Sahib,' " says Bill. "But I didn't smile because quite a crowd had gathered to see me hand over those coins." So Mother India had her joke on Bill-but she also had another surprise waiting for him. The gharry moved on, with a crowd behind it all laughing at Bill's expense, and it didn't stop until Bill saw a curious building and asked his driver what it was. The driver said it was the Pydhoni temple-at least that's what the name sounded like to Bill. Bill had a camera along and he wanted to take some pictures of that temple, so he paid off the driver and he and his buddy alighted and went up to the building. Bill's eye fell on the curious carvings on the pillars of that temple, but his pal was impatient. "I don't like the looks of this place," he said. "Let's go to some place that's lively and where we can get a drink." But Bill wanted to get some photographs first. He noticed an open door and sauntered over near it to take a look through it. "No one was about," he says, "so I decided to go inside-against the advice of my friend, who refused to go with me."

So Bill went in alone. He took off his hat and passed through that door and up at the far end he saw a large image with a few smaller ones grouped around it. With his hat in one hand and his camera in the other, he moved toward that idol. Then, just as he had reached it, he heard a scream of rage on the other side of the big room.

Bill Is Frightened by Scream of Rage.

Bill dropped his hat and camera. Wheeling around he saw a door open. A short Hindu dressed in white stood in the doorway waving his cannon's makes long power complex appears in a cannon's makes long parent political drift of handsome doorway. "My friend at the door shouted to me to hurry," says he. "But there was no need for him to yell. I was running as fast as I could then. I had just remembered my hat and my camera on the floor behind me when I saw four more Hindus coming out of the side door. They were trying to head me off by reaching the front door before I did. They didn't mean to let me get out as easily as I had gone in.

"Just by the door one Hindu tried to get me by the throat. But my friend, like a good shipmate, stepped in and started to help me out. He hit the Hindu on the side of the head, knocking him down. But by that time the others were on us and the

Those white-clad Hindus fell on Bill and his pal, hitting, kicking, biting and even spitting, Bill says. "It didn't take us long," he writes, "to find out they meant business. And we were sure of it when we saw a knife in the hand of one of them. He tried to stab me in the chest, and the only reason he didn't is that he couldn't reach me. Two of his friends were busy right then trying to kick me to pieces and they

The Temple Warriors Fight Their Way to Safety.

The man with the knife turned, then, and made a vicious slash at Bill's face. Bill's pal threw up his arm and the knife ripped through the sleeve of his jacket. "The Hindu lost his balance," says Bill, "and fell to the floor, giving us a much needed break. The others gave way a little when he fell-not much, but enough to give us a chance. We smashed our way through them, dashed through the door and out into the street."

Bill left half of his coat behind him in the hands of two of those Hindus. A small crowd, attracted by the noise, had gathered in the street outside, but for some reason they didn't try to stop Bill and his pal as they ran past them and down the street. They had only gone about half a block, though, when the whole mob was after them, yelling

"But luck was with us," says Bill, "for just then a vacant taxi came along. We told the driver to take us to the docks as fast as he could. He looked at us curiously—and, no wonder, for we were a sight and a great crowd was after us—but he nodded

The driver was a Mohammedan, or he wouldn't have been so willing to help them out. He took them to the docks and Bill and his pal went aboard their ship. The ship didn't leave Bombay for four days, but neither one of those lads went ashore again. "We stayed on ship," Bill says, "expecting a visit from the English police or a Hindu knife between our ribs while we slept. But neither one of those things happened and we were glad when the ship sailed for Karachi." (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

It was late that evening when Bruce drew up to the curb and got from his car before a gray, weathered building that had served as a trading post in the old days. Jarvis' look sharpened. "We have something to say on what brought it about," he said. "In my day a young woman's name-if she was a lady-wasn't mentioned in such a place."

"I have no doubt young Landor feels much the same about it-even in these days."

"That's not the point, sir. In my day a young woman gave no reason for having her name bandied. about over a poker table." "The times have changed, it seems," Hector murmured.

"It's our own fault, then. We've let these youngsters get out of hand with their racing about the country in automobiles and their abominable cocktails and the like. Where is it going to stop?"

Hector sighed, half-amused, and yet thoroughly aware of what was troubling the Laird's mind.

"They'll probably all marry and settle down and have children of their own to plague them in their turn," he said lightly. Jarvis leaned forward in his chair and looked fixedly at his guest. "I want your opinion about that girl of mine," he said frankly. "What's she like?"

Hector smiled. "She's your own daughter, sir," he replied. "You ought to know her better than I.' "I don't. She was never anything but a child to me-until now. Since she came back, she's been a stranger in the house. More than half the time she's not here at all. She'll be back here tonight from the Parr Lodge-not alone, either, I'll warrant-and the place will be like bedlam until she goes again."

Hector got up and tossed his cigarette into the empty maw of the fireplace. He walked to the French windows and looked out upon the garden that glowed palely under summer starlight.

"I have been wondering about the with her, too. She is not happy." "Happy?" Jarvis grunted. "What does she want that she cannot "Any time, Curly," Bruce replied, have?" But his eyes were half closed in self-concealment.

Cod Liver Oil Lauded

Praised, condemned and finally lauded is the history of cod liver oil, says the American Chemical society. First thought to have curative value in wasting diseases and then pronounced as no more nutritious than vegetable oils, while much less pleasant, it is now recognized as the principal source of our two most important vitamins, A and D, George D. Beal of the Mellon institute, Pittsburgh, points out. Pharmaceutical industry has improved methods of production, preserved the oils against deterioration in potency and flavor, discovered other natural sources of its vitamins, and produced concentrates of high potency and great utility.

A PEEK AT THE GRADES Quite a transformation has taken Kewaskum Hi Beats N. place in the primary room since we were there last. The house has received a coat of paint, a red chimney, a fireplace, davenport and some chairs. The entire roof is covered with cotton snow and even Santa Claus resides there too. With candles in the windows, which beast new drapes, the house is eally very nice.

In the intermediate room an airport and plane base is nearing completion Checkerboard hangers, field lights, gas 1 jumps, all sizes of planes and even L palm trees go to make it a minature reproduction of Curtis Wright field at Pensacola. For the project, Darwin Bruessel of the grammar room has made a gigantic transport miniatury which is the proud possession of 8r1 grader Bobby Dreher.

The grammar room itself has been lusy making Christmas cards and they ere gally decorating the bulletin board now. Original verses and drawings make them doubly interesting. -KHS-

-KHS-KEWASKUM BEATS NORTH FOND DU LAC 18 TO 17

In an exciting overtime game Friday right, Kewaskum beat North Fond du Lac on the North Fondy floor by the narrow margin of 18 to 17. The teams were evenly matched and played a hard-fought game.

The score stood 15 to 15 at the close on the regular game time. After a five minute intermission; the game was resumed for three minutes. North Fond; cank a basket and Kewaskum made an extra point on a free throw, then made the decisive basket in the last 15 secends of play.

The second team game ended in a decided victory for North Fondy, for no other reason than that the opposing com was taller and heavier. The final score was $1 to 9. -KHS-
