EUROPE: Rumors

While the western front remained quiet, and while Finland continued making a shambles out of Russia's vaunted armies, two diametrically opposed offensives were taking shape-one for war, the other for peace:

Peace Drive. Berlin denied it, but reports persisted that Nazidom would offer the allies a settlement via the League of Nations' economic committee at The Hague. Terms: (1) no reparations; (2) return of ex-German colonies; (3) Nazi retention of Sudetenland and the Polish corridor; (4) an Austrian plebiscite, neutrally managed; (5) restoration of Czech, Polish and Slovak states. If the Reich's denials were sincere, observers wondered why Herr Hitler tried so hard to minimize his relations with Moscow, arch-foe of the democracies. No military pact exists, said the Reich, nor will Germany help Russia fight the Finns. Peace gossip only increased when Berlin called home its envoys to Finland and Russia. Would Germany try to settle this war? If so, was it a prelude to peace in the west? War Drive. Overnight the Balkan states mobilized their armies to full strength, members of the Little Entente backing Rumania against the territorial demands of Hungary. Italy was seen joining them. Across

(The senate did adopt 65 to 3 a resolution asking the securities and exchange commission to expedite registration of any government bonds which Finland may try to sell private U. S. investors. Prompting factor was Secretary of State Cordell Hull's revelation that Russia had violated two pledges of its recognition agreement with the U. S.: (1) Permitting Communist interference with U.S. affairs; (2) failing to safeguard U. S. citizens' rights in Russia.

Just as the Democrats, last month failed to convince very many people that Jackson would do as the New Dealers have done, so the Republican orators failed to prove they are sticking to Lincoln's traditional philosophy. The tragedy is that each major party is attempting to streamline a national figure, and the result obviously is that neither Jackson nor Lincoln has been presented to the newer voters in the light of the genuine services which they rendered their country.

Collect $50,000 for Finns - The Wisconsin Finnish relief committee has collected more than $50,000 since it began functioning a few weeks ago, according to a statement issued to the Milwaukee unit by Committee Chairman Walter J. Kohler. Milwaukee county alone contributed $25,000 of the sum.

Cow Good Calf Producer-With no family tree to speak of, a Guernsey cow in the James Torrey herd in Kenosha county has produced five calves in less than three years and 1,500 pounds of butterfat in two years and three months. Her record butterfat production is 734.9 pounds in 365 days, made as a 4-year-old.

Aluminum Workers Get Raise-The Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Co., which operates plants at Two Rivers and Manitowoc, notified its 8,000 employes that the company will increase wages three per cent, effective Feb. 12. The company's business for 1939 was favorable, which accounts for the decision to increase wages. Three Killed in Explosion-Alvin Janz, Wausau, fireman on the Milwaukee road freight engine which blew up near New Lisbon, died in a Mauston hospital, third victim of the explosion. Engineer Richard Goerick, Babcock, and brakeman Otto Winters, Merrill, were killed outright by the blowing up of the engine's boiler.

Enthronement Date Changed-The chancery office announced that Bishop Moses E. Kiley of Trenton, N. J., will be enthroned as archbishop of Milwaukee on Mar. 28 instead of Apr. 2 as originally planned. Bishop Kiley succeeds Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch who has been transferred to the Catholic archepiscopal see of Chicago. Officials Voted Pay Raise—Annual salaries of Algoma city officials were boosted for two years by the city council, effective after the April election. The mayor's salary was raised from $150 to $300; clerk, $690 to $840; treasurer, attorney and assesthe investigation has had very little sor, each $275 to $350. ly. News stories chalk up another "dismal failure," in the general's Wise Men of latest assault on the Mannerheim line.

In the late summer of 1919, when the cables brought the news that the Bolsheviks were whipped and in flight, and that the White Russian Denikin held all of southern Russia, Budenny galloped through the steppes, recruiting his army of wild horsemen. He was a Cossack, from the Don region, gaudily appareled, and with a huge blow-torch moustache that flared magnificently in the wind. His little bands of free-booters grew into a huge cavalry army. It swept back, not only Denikin, but his ally, Wrangel and stopped the Poles until the French came to their aid.

The general was enshrined in legend. He became the hero of folk tales and songs throughout the land-his wife, too, who rode and fought with him. Lenin later put him in command of all the Russian cavalry. He is a man of extraordinary energy. "Proletarians, to horse!" was his rallying cry, as he became one of the country's main inciters of patriotic enthusiasm. He had all Russia thinking or at any rate feeling that the answer to all its troubles was in getting everybody on horseback.

He was a peasant, without schooling. And there is no available record of his having had any training or experience in mechanized warfare. He was a private in the Russo-Japanese war and a petty officer in the early stages of the World war. His wife, said to have been the best rifle shot in Russia, killed herself accidentally while cleaning a gun, in original Seven Solon Greece and was born in Athens about 640 B. C.

He wrote or rewrote practically all the laws that were in existence during his time and was the first lawmaker to devise a code that gave people rights instead of merely prohibiting them from doing this or saying that they must do that. Besides regulating private and public life, his code reformed the calendar, the system of weights and measures, the monetary system. It relieved the burdens of debtors without curtailing the rights of creditors. (He could be elected on either ticket today!)

His laws were crudely written on wooden cylinders and set up in public places for everybody to read. This must have been just a matter of form, because in his day about the only ones who could read were the ones who wrote the cylinders.

Satisfying Soups

Soup, like the front door, gives a first impression, good or bad, that is difficult to overcome, whatever follows.

It's the cook's fault if this first course at dinner isn't good, for a great many wholesome ingredients can be made into delicious soups if they are knowingly handled.

Beginning with good ingredients and finishing off with skillful seasoning, there's no reason why you can't produce a soup that is tempting, delicious and wholly satisfying.

Soup is more than just a means of using up left-overs and remnants of meat and vegetables, but left-overs may be the starting point for a cream soup that's a masterpiece: season it with discrimination, thicken it smoothly, serve it hot and nicely garnished, and you have evolved the perfect beginning for a dinner, or a satisfying mainstay dish for lunch.

Finely chopped parsley, paprika and croutons are familiar garnishes for soups; newer, and just as attractive are these: a few grains of popped corn; minced chives; toasted and lightly buttered puffed cereals; a spoonful of unsweetened whipped cream, salted and sprinkled with minced parsley, chives, or finely chopped salted peanuts; very fine strips of thin, well browned pan- the peanut butter mixture. Add oncakes; thin slices of frankfurters. Quick cooking tapioca is a new thickener for soups; it's quick and easy to use, and it adds unusual texture and taste as well.

thoughts as she saw him charge straight past Maurice, heading for the table beyond. Then the towheaded giant pulled a man out of a chair, sent him down again with a right to the chin-and the withheld little shriek burst from Irene. Incredibly, the man Drake had punched was Reynold!

The next second or so she never recalled. She only knew that at last her bodyguard was standing before her again; that one enormous hand inexorably grasped the wrist of a tearful little thing with auburn hair.

"Sorry, Mrs. Rand," he said in a voice like avenging thunder, "but I'll have to leave you now, and I won't be coming back. It seems this stuff should begin at home, so from now on I'll be shadowing my wife."

Ancient Roman Encampment Campo Marzio, one of the military encampment grounds of an cient Rome, will be restored. Recent excavations disclosed many plaques bearing likenesses of Emperor Vespasiano and other military figures.

In these days people are buying wisely. They study values more closely than ever before, they compare prices. The buyer today studies advertising carefully, and the seller can use advertising and obtain better results than when money is more carelessly spent. Advertising nowadays pays-both buyer and seller.
