Heavy Vote Cast in Village, Town; Local Officers Retained; Many Close Races in Townships

P. Schaeffer New Village President

Spring election was held Tuesday with a heavy vote in the village of Kewaskum. A total of 310 votes were cast, a surprising number considering that only one village office had open position. The judicial and delegate balloting were responsible for bringing out the strong vote.

All of the village officials were re-elected to office except A. L. Rosenheimer, Jr., retiring president, who declined to run for the office after holding same for a number of terms. His place A. P. Schaeffer was elected. Mr. Schaeffer's name appeared unopposed on the ballot. Although not on the ticket President Rosenheimer received 90 votes by having his name written in. Forty-two voters left the place blank.

The only opposition on the ticket was for the office of supervisor, in which Norbert Becker opposed the incumbent, E. M. Romaine. Mr. Romaine was returned to the office by a margin of 127 votes. Jos. Sukowaty and Walter Belger received 13 and 15 scattered votes for trustees respectively by being written in.

New Voters to Hold County Convention

In order to make the Citizenship day program on the third Sunday in May a significant experience in the lives of the voting class of 1940, a county convention of new voters will be held in West Bend at 7:30 p. m. on Saturday, April 20, according to M. T. Buckley, executive secretary of the Washington county citizenship training program. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

The decision to hold a countywide gathering of the new voters was reached following a report by Dr. C. J. Colbert, head of the University of Wisconsin extension division's department of sociology and economics, to Mr. Buckley. The report indicated that the new voters of this county are ready for the county convention, the next step in their preparation for final induction as voting citizens on the third Sunday in May. Dr. Colbert is serving as instructor-counselor of the program in Washington county.

At the county convention a countywide organization of new voters will be perfected. This will be done because the state plan for citizenship training and induction of new voters considers the county as the unit of organization.

Organization plans include election of a county chairman and other necessary officers, provision for a clear and complete understanding of the program planned for Citizenship day and the part the new voters are to play in that event, and the presentation of an opportunity for the new voters to get better acquainted with each other.

In setting the date for this convention, the executive committee took into account other scheduled events of a countywide nature in order that a time could be picked to get the greatest co-operative effort for a successful convention.

The local precinct organizations will be responsible for as near a 100 per cent attendance of the new voters as possible, together with as many of their relatives and friends and scores of interested people from all parts of the county. The rules pertaining to the convention will be in the hands of local precinct instructors at an early date, Mr. Buckley advises.

The executive secretary feels that this countywide convention should prove to be the most colorful gathering of the new voters next to the actual Citizenship day program itself. He will announce the program of the county convention later.

Al. Harter Writes Letter From Alaska

Jac. Harter of the town of Auburn received an interesting letter the forepart of this week from his brother, Alfons Harter, of Polger, Alaska, which we have printed below, feeling that it will appeal to our readers and offer an opportunity to compare conditions in Alaska and here. Mr. Harter, who has been in Alaska the past 14 years, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Harter of Kewaskum, and also a brother of Gregor Harter of this village. The letter reads as follows:

Polger, Alaska
Mar. 7th, 1940

Dear Brother:
Here goes for another one of my long delayed letters. I've been in this neck of the woods about 18 months. This little settlement is on the Inoko River, a tributary of the lower Yukon. There are 8 outfits mining out of here—all placers. I did manage to get 2 months' work last fall—the first money I made in four years. Expect to work a full season this year, which is about 5 months. Wages are $10 per day, $3 a day for board, and there are lots of men too in spite of this out of the way place.

We are about 250 miles west of Fairbanks by air and about 1200 miles by river. Grub is quite high, but we have lots of moose and fish so that cuts down the grocery bill considerably. Well, we had a very nice winter so far except November, which was quite cold. It was down to 44 below and quite steady for that time of the year. Since then it was around zero most of the time. When it does get cold here it's real cold. A year ago this winter it registered 62 below on the coldest day and it has been 74 below here.

A person working in the placer mines sees some interesting sights, such as prehistoric animal bones, elephant or mammoth tusks. Next summer may send some home. I have a 12x14 ft. cabin—small but comfortable. The worst thing about batching is my own cooking which is awful but have to put up with it. Too darn old to get married. Besides, the girls around here are too dark complected.

We get our mail by dogteam in winter and boat in summer. Most passengers and travelers use the airways up here. This is a great country for fish. Wherever there is water there is some kind of fish. Haven't eaten fish since I got here, ran out of grub and took about 350 miles down river, and ate nothing but fish and ducks for two months then. Without salt, at that. Fish stay with me longer than with most people.

I heard some of Adeline's and Joe's boys were in Alaska. Don't know if they are still here as I haven't seen them. Well, I haven't asked any questions—have so many to ask I don't know where to start so won't ask any. You are about as good at writing or worse than me if that's possible. You make Maggie do it for you, which is O. K. by me, don't have to wait so long.

It doesn't seem possible but it will be 14 years next month since I came to Alaska, and some of you folks must be getting old. Don't feel any older myself and am still fat. Haven't any gray hair nor don't wear glasses. Well, it is getting late and the mail goes out in the morning so I will sign off for this time. With best wishes to all.

Yours,
Al. Harter, Polger, Alaska
care of John Vogtor

Death Claims Adolph Claus, Frank Ehnert

ADOLPH J. CLAUS
The people of Kewaskum and community mourn the loss of one of the village's oldest and most widely known citizens, Adolph J. Claus, 87, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Becker, with whom he resided in the village, at 7 a. m. on Sunday, Mar. 31. Mr. Claus had been ill for the past two years, resulting from the infirmities of old age.

A retired farmer and carpenter, Mr. Claus was born Feb. 19, 1853, in Ozaukee county. He settled in the town of Scott, Sheboygan county. His marriage to Miss Emilia Laverenz took place on Dec. 20, 1875 at Silver Creek. The couple made their home in the town of Scott until 1909 when they retired from the farm and moved to Beechwood. They remained in Beechwood until 1913 when they moved to Kewaskum. After the death of his wife, which occurred Jan. 9, 1927, he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Becker, and resided there since.

The venerable Mr. Claus was the father of two children, a daughter and a son, both of whom survive. They are Alma (Mrs. Henry Becker) of this village, and Henry Claus of West Bend. He also leaves two brothers, Oscar of Mattoon, Wis. and Moritz of Random Lake, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Joseph Schwind of Kewaskum.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, April 3, at 2 p. m. at the Peace Evangelical church, Kewaskum, the Rev. Richard M. A. Gadow officiating. Burial took place in the congregation's cemetery.

Mr. Claus belonged to a class of old settlers who had great influence on the community. His death marks the close of a life filled with honesty and efficiency. His family life was without compare and his proportions of duty and love showed effect in his family. He will long be remembered as a man who has not lived in vain but who helped preserve the ideals of life. Our sincere condolences are extended to the bereaved survivors.

FRANK EHNERT

Frank Ehnert, 61, well known resident of New Fane, Route 1, Kewaskum, was called in death at 8:10 a. m. on Thursday, April 4, as the result of a heart stroke. He suffered the heart attack on Wednesday and sank steadily until death came to relieve him the next day. Mr. Ehnert, whose demise came as a great shock to the community, would have observed his 62nd birthday on April 15.

Mr. Ehnert was a former board member of St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane and a past officer in the German Mutual Fire Insurance company of that place. Prior to being stricken, deceased had been in good health.

He was born April 18, 1878, in the town of Farmington and had been a resident of the town of Auburn for the past 37 years. He was married to Miss Emma Stage Mar. 2, 1901 at West Bend, who survives. Seven children were born to this union, one of whom died in infancy. Those surviving, along with the widow, are Harry of Milwaukee, Milton, Glenway and Lester of the town of Auburn, Sylvia (Mrs. Lorenz Keller) of the town of Auburn, and Irene (Mrs. Eddie Bruesewitz). He also leaves 10 grandchildren to mourn his loss.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, April 7, from the home and at 2 p. m. at St. John's Lutheran church, New Fane. The Rev. Walter Stroschein will officiate and interment will be in the parish cemetery.

Mr. Ehnert was a well liked man and a kind husband and father. His sturdy but righteous character and pleasant manners made friends for him wherever he became known. He enjoyed a wide acquaintanceship and in his death the community loses one of its best and most useful citizens. His sudden death proved to be a great blow of sorrow to those near and dear to him, to whom we express our heartfelt sympathy.

New Campbellsport School Has $4,000 Fire Loss Tuesday

Blaze Laid to Incendiary Who Used Kerosene to Kindle Fire; Rooms Entered, Lockers Emptied

The new $85,000 high and grade school at Campbellsport was entered by vandals Tuesday evening, who removed books and personal belongings from more than 100 lockers, piled them in a long heap in the hall and set them afire. The blaze threatened destruction of the building.

That the fire was of incendiary origin was evident from the painstaking manner in which the intruders had piled the books and equipment, doused part of it with kerosene and lit it, officials said. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear door.

Fond du Lac County Sheriff L. H. Thalheim made a preliminary investigation while the blaze was still smoldering and notified the state fire marshal's office. A deputy came to the village.

Damage to books, papers and school equipment was estimated at $3,000 to $4,000 by Principal D. J. Huenink. Much not burned was damaged by the kerosene or by water applied by the village fire department.

School officials believe the fire was set by somebody acquainted with the building who knew the habits of the teachers. The principal had gone to Slinger with a group of pupils for a forensic contest. Miss Florence Connors, teacher, accompanied the group. It was the first evening in weeks that she was not at the school doing editorial work on the annual publication of the school.

Miss Linda Goeres, music teacher, was in the building until 6 p. m. and shortly before the janitor, Henry Porlake, had left. He stated he was certain no one could have been hiding in the school.

Jerome Kibbel, farm youth, discovered the fire while driving by. When he saw the glow he left his car and went to look in the building and then called the firemen. Besides rifling almost all the lockers, piling the material up and sprinkling kerosene on the pile, the vandals also threw some of the lockers' contents down a stairway toward the boiler room.

When firemen arrived a portion of the pile about 60 feet long was smoldering and the building was filled with smoke. Except for paint blisters no damage was done to the fireproof building, the damage being limited to the equipment.

The school, a one-story brick building was constructed three years ago. There are about 200 pupils, including those in the grades and high school. The pupils had vacation Wednesday while the debris was cleared away. Many children will be without books and other equipment.

THE QUESTION THAT'S DRIVING US MAD

Problem Number One now facing all Americans is "How to Behave and What to Say" to the question, "Do you think Roosevelt wants a third term?"

The question is becoming irritating. It is driving many people mad to the point of violence. A survey by this department shows that more people go around asking "Do you think Roosevelt wants a third term?" than any other question, including "What time is it?" and "How is business?"

An Elmer Twitchell Poll shows the following interesting standing of leading questions as of the past week:

"Do you think Roosevelt w. a. t. t.?" 11,546,709
"Did you ever see a winter like this?" 6,785,432
"Do you think things are any better?" 5,935,824
"Do you think there is any chance of peace by spring over there?" 5,436,800
"Am I lifting my head or is it my grip on the club?" 1,456,233

The interrogation is becoming a menace. It is getting on the nerves of America. The Twitchell Poll showed that 550,634 persons interviewed last week favored bashing the head of the person asking the question; 134,588 favored throttling; 25,678 were for the use of firearms.

Mr. Twitchell thinks there will be wide bloodshed if something isn't done about the matter. Always against violence, he believes the thing to do when anybody asks the question is to stare at the person intently and make no reply at first. When the person repeats the question he would answer: "Oh, I don't know. You've got to remember that the Yanks are a terrific hitting club."

But this course has its drawbacks. It foils the questioner, but is a strain on the other party. This column has asked some leading citizens what they now say when anybody chirps, "Do you think Roosevelt, etc.?"
John Hamilton: "I just say, 'I'm all right; how are you feeling?'"
Al Smith: "My answer is always, 'It depends whether it's on white or rye bread.'"
Nicholas Murray Butler: "When anybody asks me 'Do you think Roosevelt will run again?' I just yawn and say, 'I don't know; I'm a stranger here myself.'"
Congressman Dies: "I just ask questions, I don't answer 'em."
Greta Garbo: "When anybody ask me if Roosevelt bane run again I always say, 'No; Jimmy no want it any more; he is satisfied to stay in Hollywood.'"

So there you are.
HOLLYWOOD CHATTER
"Whaddaya know about that! She looks just like Edna May Oliver."
"I hear M. G. M. is making a picture on 'The Life of the Bee.'"
"Yeah. But how are they going to work Tyrone Power into that one?"

Adolf, the dispatches say, has lost weight. That uniform he was never going to take off until Germany had won the war will present a serious problem. It's pretty hard to take in the slack of a pair of pants when they're still on the wearer.
When Hitler started the war he declared that he had put on his army uniform and would never remove it until Germany had won. It must be sticking to the skin a little now.

Mr. Chamberlain warns the British people that the war may start in earnest. We always had an idea this war might develop into a war.

THE REAL BLITZKRIEG
The United States has an airplane that will fly seven miles a minute and carries a cannon and four machine guns. If it only had a lady with an open umbrella it would terrorize the world.
A federal agency is investigating insurance companies. Insurance men must have slowed up a lot. If they were in old-time form they would have sold new policies to each investigator before the hearing had been under way a half hour.

It is now proposed to brand race-horses to stop the running of "ringers." Somehow it seems more desirable to brand the owners who run the ringers.
"Well, anyhow," philosophizes Martin Itagaway, "depression is better than oppression."

There are rumors of another peace move in Europe. The main drawback is that the countries involved can't agree on a peace that will be sufficiently disturbing.

Style-Right Outfits to Suit Fashion Wise Little Folks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MOST amusing, this thought of modern children growing to be regular fashion sophisticates, but nevertheless, it is literally true. They know and mother knows that they know more about style than their elders dared dream of in their childhood days. In this generation it is not so easy as it was in the past to satisfy little daughter or junior with made-overs and hand-me-downs. Anyway, what's the use of trying with ready-mades available that are amazingly practical and inexpensive and so altogether attractive little folks delight in them.

With play clothes for youngsters and pretty frocks for little daughters being sold "for a song" these days, the idea of making over loses much of its zest. However, what is being done in this modernized world of ours is that mothers of good judgment are entrusting the matter of outfitting their children to skilled designers who make a study of juvenile apparel needs not only from a style standpoint, but from a view to real economy and practicality.

In line with the thought that children's fashions be given as sincere and careful consideration as those of grownups, it is becoming a custom in leading style centers to hold fashion shows devoted exclusively to the little folks. The cunning spring styles here pictured were presented recently at a style clinic presented in the Merchandise Mart of Chicago, before an appreciative gathering of visiting merchants.

The handsome coat worn by the girl to the right in the picture is tailored of a Kenwood tweed in a charming berry-red tone. It is the smart new princess type that is an outstanding favorite this season. The white silk pique collar tells you that white accents on dark is a most important trend for spring. Here you see the ensemble idea carried out in a matching beret that comes with the coat, thus happily solving mother's problem of hating little daughter fashionably and becomingly. Her wee companion is in navy blue, with a bonnet matched to her cunning coat.

There's something about a soldier and about military-influenced clothes that lends smartness and proves alluring to young misses as well as to sentimental big sister. The little lady to the left in the group wears one of the new military-type cape suits such as promise widespread vogue this season. The suit is of alert blue wool with fitted jacket in bright red. The long cape theme is highly important. This ensemble is so completely matched up it includes a military looking hat with a red feather with a handbag worked out in the red and the blue.

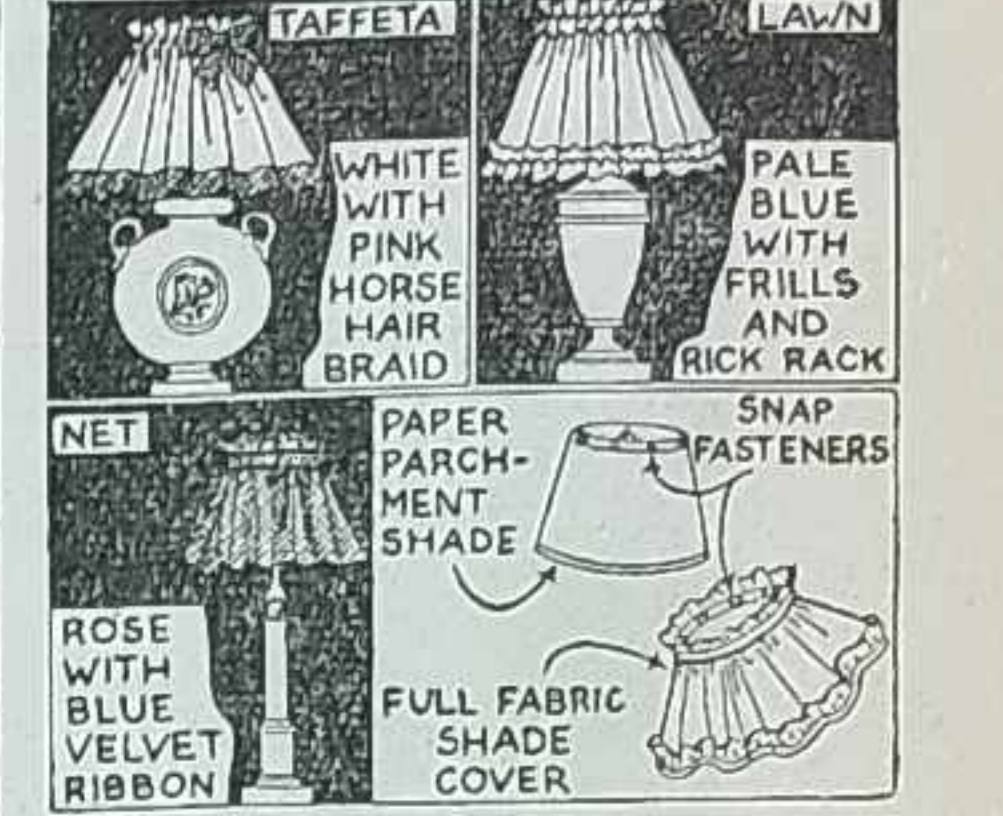

And now for cunning fashions for junior and his buddy for little boys take delight in smart attire every whit as much as does little sister. Whistle while you walk, if it's in coats like these, think these two young men whom you see pictured in the group. The whistler in the foreground wears a camel's hair man-tailored, double-breasted coat and his pal wears a green tweed double-breasted coat with slit pockets. Caps to match their wear. Too cunning for words!

Pretty Frocks for Your Lamp Shades

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A CHANGE of lamp shades gives any room a lift, and here is a smart, new transformation trick. You start with a plain parchment paper or bristol board shade, preferably white; then you make a full skirt of some exciting fabric to cover it. By sewing snaps inside and also to the top of the shade, it is easy to remove these for laundering or cleaning.

Taffeta, lawn, net, organdy, swiss, gingham—all are used and the imagination runs riot in trimmings. Frills or double ruchings at the top and bottom are favorites. Edges are pinked or machine stitched in heavy contrasting thread. Contrasting shirring holds the fullness at the top; and color is added by means of fancy braids, ribbons or bias tape, according to type. Sewing Book 1 and 4, contain directions for making a foundation frame, or you may use a shade that you already have.

NOTE: Each of the four booklets Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers contains an assortment of 32 pages of curtains; slip covers; rag rugs; toys; gifts and novelties for bazaars. Books are 10 cents each—please order by number—No. 1, 2, 3, and 4—With your order for four books, you will receive a FREE set of three Quilt Block Patterns of Mrs. Spears' Favorite Early American Quilts. Send your order to:

The Tonic

He had been suffering badly from nerves, and it was a friend who had suggested to him that he should go and see a certain famous specialist. The medical man eyed his patient critically. There were the usual signs of tiredness, of strain, of being out of harmony with everything. "What you want to do," he said, after the examination, "is to get taken out of yourself. You want a good laugh. So, I'm going to prescribe for you some doses of Grimaldi, the clown. The world and his wife are going to see that droll fellow. He's a real tonic." "I am Grimaldi," came the quiet answer.

PLANT FOOD STOCKS ARE GETTING LOW

That the soils of Washington county are being depleted of their available stocks of phosphorus and potash has been proved by more than three thousand soil tests made during the past year. Of the samples tested 99% were low in available phosphorus, 2% were acid, and 19% were below total supplies of these important plant foods but only small amounts are in compounds which plants can use. The availability of these plant foods might be compared with money invested in long term bonds or mortgages where

Uncle Sam Guards Canal Zone Against Sabotage by 'Enemy'

Guns shown at right are typical of the artillery weapons installed at Panama. Below, doughboys during maneuvers leap over a sea wall. Huge guns and large troop concentrations are capable of protecting the Canal Zone's secrets from enemy "invaders" and spies.

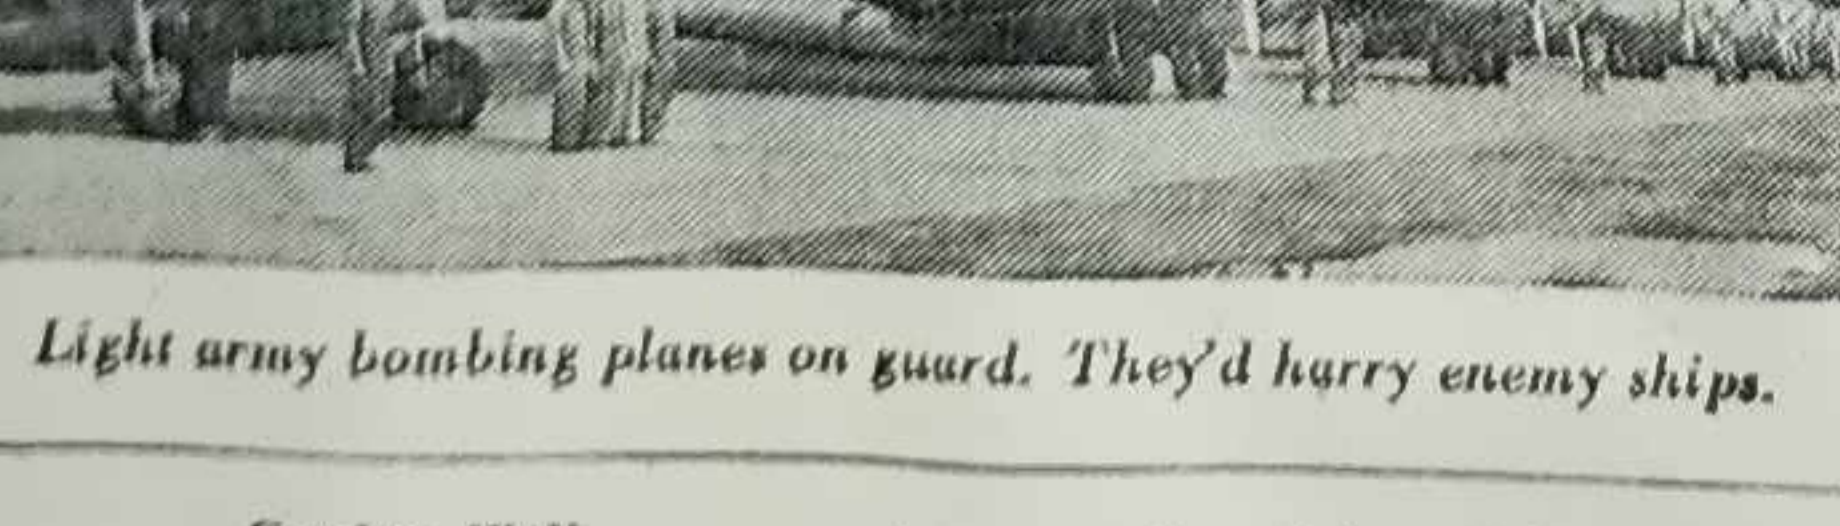

Merchant ships passing through the canal are guarded by army troops like the fellow above, on duty in the engine room. It is also reported that steel nets have been installed to protect the great locks from would-be saboteurs.

A view from atop Ancon hill just before the last lights were extinguished in Panama's first blackout. On the left are the lights of Miraflores locks. The outline of the canal can also be seen, a narrow thread of water which is Uncle Sam's "lifeline."

Light army bombing planes on guard. They'd harry enemy ships.

Garden Wall A garden without a wall is only half a garden. It need not be a brick wall or a stone or concrete wall, for a living wall of evergreens or some hedge shrub will serve admirably. But there should be something to shut out the world and form a background for flowers. If the garden is small, the wall can be kept low so as not to shade it too much, but even a low wall gives a feeling of privacy that is necessary for the real enjoyment of a garden.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—When young "Red" Phillips played guard on the University of Oklahoma football team, in 1916, he was scaled down to a mere 280 pounds, but in spite of that managed to root through the line like a high-powered snowshovel.

Game of Politics Is Another Story For Football Star

This, one of his many scrimmages, is part of his waxing battle for state rights against what he considers the illegal encroachment of the federal government. He is an apostate New Dealer, having defeated the similarly belligerent "Alfalfa Bill" Murray on the issue of New Deal adherence in the 1938 Democratic primary.

Now he has switched teams. With a big cigar protruding from his lips at a cocky angle, biting it to shreds when he gets steamed up, he says the New Deal is a social service outfit, and social workers are "sorority sisters." Like the "Fiery and Snuffy" of the Oklahoma cowboy song, he's "rarin' to go and he sends word to the war department that he won't let any invader set foot on Oklahoma soil."

He started to be a preacher, but switched to the law. Born 50 years ago in Grant county, Missouri, along the covered wagon trail, he was taken to Oklahoma at the age of two and grew up in the Cheyenne and Arapaho Indian country. He attended Epworth university one year, studying, presumably militant, Christianity, and then entered the law school of the University of Oklahoma. His fame as "Red" Phillips, the bone-crushing, man-eating football player, gave him a fast running start in politics, and he soon landed in the state legislature. He made his campaign for the governorship on an economy platform, sweeping the state. The citizens still know him as "Red," and the "Yea Red" yell of his college days serves for his political campaigns.

WHEN I knew Death Valley Scotty and his dog "Goldbug," around Goldfield, Rhyolite and Windy Gap, there was a story that the dog had made a great fuss over a stranger at Casey's hotel, and a theory that this stranger must have been Scotty's mysterious backer.

The visitor, however, was just passing through and was never identified, and Scotty, even in moments of abandon in Tex Rickard's place, continued to insist that he had a "chimney," or "blow-out" of gold nuggets, samples of which he carried in his overalls pocket. It was not until years later that the man who financed the Death Valley Scotty saga, just for his own amusement it would seem, was A. M. Johnson, the head of a big insurance firm in Chicago.

As Scotty and his backer round out 40 years of a beautiful friendship, Scotty informs the federal tax collectors that he has $100,000 in gold certificates buried somewhere in the Panamint mountains, and that the source of his mysterious wealth has unfaithfully been Mr. Johnson. From the same source came the $3,000,000 Spanish castle which Scotty built in the heart of Death valley several years ago, according to his previous admissions.

The unique partnership opened with a $2,500 grubstake. He not only wrote a check, but followed Scotty to Death valley. The first mine didn't pan out, but Mr. Johnson was having fun. They fought bandits, got clubby with the Piute Indians and roamed around in old prospect holes. The real treasure came Scotty's famous train ride and the deepening mystery of his treasure cache. They kept their secret until, along about 1930, the pooch, "Goldbug" and Scotty's extraordinarily intelligent white mule both died of old age. But the original partnership still goes on.

Mr. Johnson, now 68 years old, is cut somewhat on the same lines as Henry Ford, but with an Achilles' Heel of Romance. He was born and grew up in a small town in Ohio, went to Cornell university, did a jolt of railroading in Arkansas and engaged in mining lead and zinc near Joplin, Mo. In Chicago he augmented an inherited fortune in the insurance business. He belongs to a string of good clubs in Chicago, is a sagacious and conservative citizen, and, from all accounts, has bankrolled Scotty just for the fun of it.

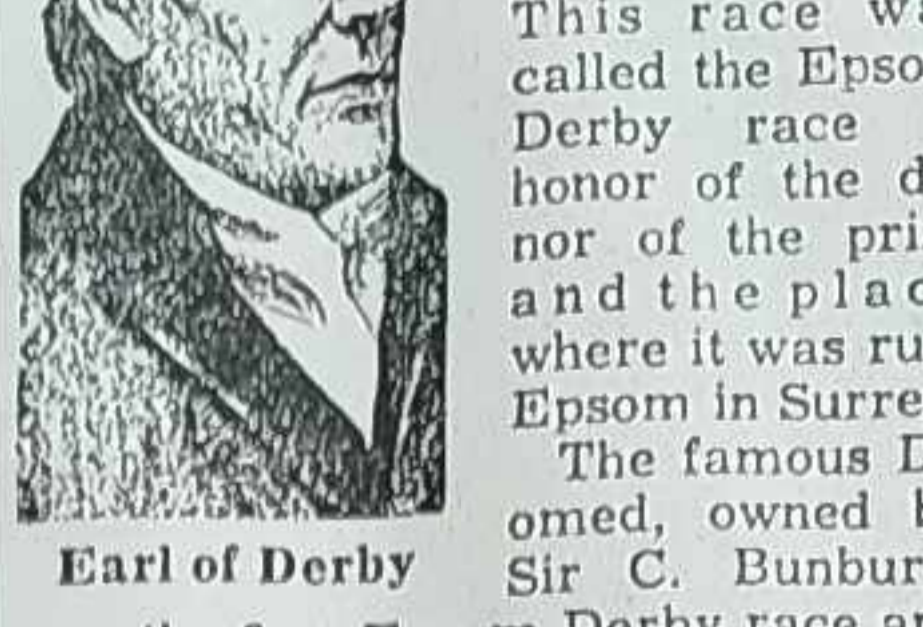

NOW that Huey Long is gone, the strongest voice in congress is that of Rep. John C. Schafer of Wisconsin, in the news parade today as latest types of airplanes. He is a militant contender in a congressional battle which is warming up daily—so far on the short end of the mounting argument. In 1923 he climbed down from an engine cab on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to go to congress and has been there ever since. His great peevish are toll-bridges and C. I. O.

"The Name Is Familiar"

By FELIX B. STREYCKMANS and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THE Derby you're referring to a race run at Epsom Downs in England or at Churchill Downs in Kentucky and whether you pronounce it "derby" or "darby" it adds up to the same thing, viz., every time you use that word you're perpetuating the name of a sporting English nobleman, the twelfth earl of Derby.

Away back in 1780 the earl offered a prize of 50 gold sovereigns in a sweepstakes race for three-year-old colts. This race was called the Epsom Derby race in honor of the donor of the prize and of the place where it was run, Epsom in Surrey.

The famous Diomed, owned by Sir C. Bunbury, won the first Epsom Derby race and it wasn't until 1797 that one of the earl's colts, Sir Peter Teazle, came in first. More than 130 years were to pass before another Derby family entry would win again. That was Sansovino in 1924.

In the meantime this race had become the most famous in English turf history. Gradually the British horsemen dropped two words from its name and it became THE Derby. Meanwhile, too, the idea had crossed the Atlantic and the Kentucky Derby, run annually near Louisville, Ky., and the American Derby at Washington park south of Chicago were the result.

Since then we've had a variety of derbies. Can't you just imagine the twelfth earl coming back as a ghost and exclaiming: "Eh, what? ... a unibon derby? ... and a soap box derby? My word! You Americans ARE a queer lot!"

Prince Albert QUEEN VICTORIA of England left her name on history as the synonym for propriety and respectability but her royal consort is remembered, if at all, by the name of a coat. Yet that is not inappropriate, for what man does not take on dignity and character as a "prominent citizen" when he dons a prince Albert?

On February 10, 1840, the youthful queen of England was married to her cousin, Albert, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, second son of the then reigning duke and "not the least of the distinctions of her long reign is the exalted confidence and concord that marked her relations with her husband."

As prince consort of the monarch of the greatest empire in the world Prince Albert "shunned ostentation and sank his own existence in that of his wife, and yet all the time he was a positive and recognized influence, not only in the family circle, but in the state." For it was he who was chiefly responsible for the Great Exhibition held in the Crystal Palace in London in 1851. Thus, in addition to being remembered for the style of coat which he made popular, he might be written down in history as the "father of the World's Fair."

Comstockery FOR two years (1863-65) 19-year-old Anthony Comstock, a soldier in the Union army, fought to save the Union. For nearly 50 years thereafter (until his death in 1915) as one of the founders and permanent secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice he fought to save New York city—and the whole country, for that matter—from the forces of evil.

Sometimes his zeal had queer results. There was the case of the famous picture, "September Morn." A New York art dealer had 2,000 copies of the picture which he couldn't sell. Harry Reichman, a famous press agent, tricked Comstock into denouncing the picture as one which would undermine the morals of the youth of the land and starting court action to stop its sale. Due to the free advertising that the picture thus received, more than 7,000 copies were sold at $1 each!

Look in the dictionary and you will find the virtuous Anthony's "comstockery" which is defined as "zealous prosecution of immorality hence, in a derogatory sense, prudery." (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Potato Treatment A method of boiler-water treatment used at an Oakdale, La., saw mill to keep scale from sticking is the dumping of a bucketful of Irish potatoes into the drum after washing out the boiler, about once a month, according to Power Magazine.

Unlawful Land Possession In most states, land that has been in the unlawful possession of one individual for a period of 20 years automatically becomes his property.

Dawn of Desire

By FRANK PEARSON (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

TO BE ushered by an office boy who was a model of decorum into DeWitt Wright's private sanctum high above Wall Street was to be immediately conscious of the severe setting that served only to emphasize the austerity of the great financier's expression, so frequently displayed on front pages and rotogravures. There was not a single soft or rounded line in the great, square office room, as there were none in the harshly angled features of DeWitt Wright.

The financier's stenographer-secretary was one of those young women who craved all the things of life that are both beautiful and secure. She wanted marriage; a home of her own—and children to love and herd. Her name was Jane Warden, and there was something angelic about her.

DeWitt Wright was one of the most eligible and desirable bachelors in New York. Jane Warden was his secretary by reason of her skill and intelligence. How could she surmount this business barrier, and influence him to see her now and then through eyes that a woman reveal her desirability as a woman and a companion rather than a keen, efficient tool?

One day when Jane was particularly blue over the prospect of drab servitude that stretched before her, she chanced on the formal card of a well-known astrologer in one of the magazines. In one corner of the card appeared this simple line: "Let me help you."

Jane took fifteen dollars from her slim bank account and sought the sacred, incense clouded ante-room of society's pet astrologer. Jane was nothing if not direct.

"I don't want a signed, figured horoscope with all my likes and dislikes. I just want to know one thing—how can I win the man I love?"

Madame Francisco's reputation was not without foundation. She had helped many. She liked this girl's directness.

"Miss—Warden? Sit here in front of me. Tell me the date of your birth, and the hour as nearly as possible—then let me look at you a little while ... two ... three minutes."

Jane did as she was bid and the ceremony proceeded. Mme. Francisco's great dark eyes seemed to hold the girl spellbound; her magnetism enfolded Jane in a wealth of sure appraisal.

"You are not human enough," the woman said softly. "Stop being the cold angel your name suggests. Do some little human thing like—oh, anything that will show this man without words that he is always in your thoughts."

DeWitt Wright loved flowers. Aside from his pleasure in it he was vaguely aware that the rose in a slender vase on his desk, every morning fresh and fragrant as dew itself, was in some strange sense a message or an emblem.

But the financier was a busy man, not fashioned for the subtleties of romance, so morning after morning he remained in his state of passivity regarding the rose until the day when he chanced to arrive extraordinarily early. His office door was flung wide and his rubber soled golf oxfords were noiseless on the wide cement approach.

What he saw from his threshold gave him pause. Jane Warden bending over his desk, with the early sunlight from a tall window unsealing gold glints within her trim blonde bob. She was arranging his rose in its receptacle with delicate fingers that, now he thought of it, seemed moulded for caressing. With graceful movements, utterly unaware of the hungry eyes that covered her, Jane stooped and patted pillow she had but lately installed in the financier's rigorous desk.

Something far alien to his being, something queer and warm stirred in the heart of DeWitt Wright. He pictured this girl in his bachelor palace—arranging flowers, patting pillows, using the wand of youth to turn a solitary domain into an intimate home. Dawn of desire! He retraced his steps far down from the door as quietly as any cat—then wheeled and entered his office with his accustomed authoritative tread. Jane was sitting ready for dictation—poised at her desk as usual. They exchanged the customary negligent "good morning."

At closing that evening, DeWitt Wright watched Jane Warden straighten her desk, Jane Warden writer, sharpen a pencil for the next day, and don a smart hat and tailored jacket. Ideas clashed in his brain. Oh, to say something to her. For the first time in his powerful life words failed him. Sudden terror seized him as she spoke her bright "good night" and approached the door!

She must not go. She could not go. He must unloose the words from his lips; unroot his feet from the floor. DeWitt Wright actually lurched and stumbled as Jane's hand clasped the doorknob. "JANE!" Brilliant achievement from DeWitt Wright. But he could not have said more.

WHO'S WHO
For a freshman he is the quietest and the most studious of the lot. He's not very big, but the best surprises come in small packages—such as the only boy on the honor roll and playing basketball. He is always working. He has blond hair and blue eyes which he generally compliments with a striped blue sweater. All in all he's a real likeable fellow.

Safety Council Meets; Hears State Director

General traffic safety measures were discussed at a meeting of the Washington County Safety Council in the Hartford city hall Monday evening. R. C. Salisbury, the new director of the safety division of the state motor vehicle department, and his assistant, William F. Steuber, were present and gave valuable suggestions.
Among future activities for the council, Mr. Salisbury recommended organization of a vigilante committee to check errand drivers, still more contact with the driving public than has been shown to date, larger membership in the county, with the original organizers and officers acting as an executive group, and united effort by safety councils in the state to get a driver's license law "with teeth in it."
Mr. Steuber recited statistics showing that Washington county's safety record has been steadily improving during recent years and that it now is on a par with the state accident average. The state has generally experienced a decline in the number of accidents and fatalities since 1937, which was the worst year it ever experienced in that respect.
Since the manufacture of the 1940 safety emblems for motorists has already begun in the state's traditional safety colors of green and white, the council voted to go on record with a suggestion that the emblems, beginning in 1941, be made to conform with the colors of the automobile license plates.

Work of Farmington New Voters Observed

Committee members and visitors from West Bend and Germantown observed the meritorious work being done by the new voters in the town of Farmington, at the third Citizenship Training meeting held at the Fillmore school Saturday evening, March 21.
The meeting was opened by Willard Gerber, new voter chairman, and was followed with group singing, "Faith of Our Fathers," under the direction of Irene Jaehrig. Two musical numbers were rendered—an accordion solo, "Sharpshooters' March," by Patricia Weineich, and "The Anthem Glorious," sung by a quartet from Boltonville, consisting of Mrs. John Donath, Jr., Edwin, Veryl and Orville Frohman. They were accompanied on the piano by Mildred Woog.
In preparation for the county convention the chairman led a cheer for Farmington.

The topic for the meeting, "The School District—An Educational Unit," was aptly presented by Melvin Riley, general chairman. Jeanette Wilkens, a new voter, presented the following speakers:

Jerold Buckley, supervising teacher of Washington county, who spoke on the duties, qualifications, and problems of a county supervising teacher.
Orrin Voigt, principal of the Boltonville school, who spoke on the place of the principal in the school district.
Mr. D. E. McLane, principal of the West Bend High school, who discussed "How it is possible for township students to attend a neighboring high school."
G. A. Wickman, director of the School of Vocational and Adult Education, West Bend, who spoke on "Vocational School Opportunities for Township Citizens."
Mildred Woog, primary teacher of the Fillmore State Graded school, who spoke on "What the Elementary School is doing in Citizenship Training."

Elmer Plaum, clerk of the Boltonville school board, Phillip Erber, director of the Fillmore school board, and Hugo Bratz, treasurer of the Cheesville school board, who discussed the duties, obligations, and problems of school board members. New voters led an interesting discussion.

Harvey Dettman, chairman of the town of Farmington, reminded the new voters of the election April 2nd, and urged all those who are 21 years of age to exercise their new power.

The next meeting will be held at the Old Brick school (Hanke school) Saturday, April 13, at 7:45 p. m. The topic to be discussed will be "County Government." The members on the program committee for that meeting are: Leola Muehchke, Donald Grass, Stanley Schoedel.

Club Sponsors Essay Contest For Students

As its contribution to the Citizenship day activity in Washington county the Kiwanis club of West Bend, through its committee on public affairs, is sponsoring an essay contest among all high school juniors and seniors who are residents of Washington county. Official notice has gone out to all high schools, and students who are already at work on their manuscripts.
The title of the essay is to be "Citizenship Responsibility—the Price of Liberty." This is the theme of Kiwanis International for 1940. Length of the essays must be kept between 800 and 1,000 words, and the contest is open to all high school juniors and seniors who live in Washington county, even though attending schools outside the county.
First prize will be $10 in cash, and second prize $5. The author of the first prize essay will have the added honor of reading it at the Citizenship day program on the third Sunday in May. Each school is to judge its own essays, selecting the one or two best ones and sending these to County Supt. M. T. Buckley, West Bend, who

FRANK B. KEEFFE

STORM OF PROTEST OVER CCC APPROPRIATION CUT

The Congress is working at top speed. Tuesday, April 2, the House passed the Labor and Social Security Appropriation bill, amounting to a little over $1,000,000,000. Among the items in this bill was the appropriation for the Civilian Conservation Corps. The President's budget cut the estimate for the next fiscal year $50,000,000 below the amount authorized to be spent in the present fiscal year. This would have meant the closing of 274 existing CCC camps in the nation, and a storm of protest swept the House.

It is conceded on all hands that the object and purpose of the Civilian Conservation Corps are laudable and that much splendid work has been done. The appropriations subcommittee having this appropriation in charge, of which I am honored to be a member, spent the last two months in intensive study in an effort to provide for carrying on the CCC activities and at the same time not exceed the budget estimates. These studies revealed the fact that in the present fiscal year that department is spending $1050 or $87.50 per month for each enrollee in the corps. Under the law each enrollee is paid $30 per month and sustenance and must send back $22 per month to his parents. This leaves the net cost for each enrollee, excluding the amount that is returned to the families, $66.50 per month.

TREMENDOUS OVERHEAD

To me these figures were simply astonishing, because the cost of maintaining each boy in the CCC organization is more than is being paid to the workers on WPA throughout the country who are expected to support a family on their earnings. With $65.50 per month the government could take each of the boys enrolled in the CCC organization and send them to some public or private school and save a tremendous amount of money. This extravagant cost is the result of the tremendous overhead for salaries of executives of one kind and another to be found in every camp throughout the nation. The figures disclose that out of every $13 appropriated by Congress for the purpose of aiding the youth of this nation, only $8 goes to the youth and their families and $5 goes to pay overhead.

The committee faithfully tried to earmark the funds of CCC so as to cut this tremendous overhead and allocate the funds to the youth so as to provide opportunities for more young people and not have such a tremendous amount used in paying great salaries to executives and administrative personnel in the organization. The House, however, inspired by demagogic speeches on the necessity of preserving the morals of the youth of the nation, paid little attention to the efforts of its subcommittee on appropriations and blindly added $50,000,000 to the amount recommended by the committee.

CCC FUNDS WASTED

I am a firm believer in the theory of the CCC organization, but with knowledge of what is being done and the way the funds are being administered and wasted, I could not in good conscience vote an additional $50,000,000 to be blindly used in the same manner that the funds are now being expended. Many members of Congress were astounded to learn that over and above the $22 a month sent home by each enrollee to maintain this program, I am wondering what the men and women with families who are compelled to live on $50 a month or less think of such extravagance.

In the NYA program, on the other hand, the evidence is that the cost for each youth aided in this program averaged about $9 per month throughout the nation, and it is my firm conviction that the NYA funds are being used to splendid advantage with a very minimum of administrative overhead. The question has occurred why it is not possible to take these two agencies and combine them and thus save tremendous sums in administrative costs. Your representative is engaged in a study toward this end at the present time.

MANY BILLS REMAIN

Many proposed laws, highly controversial in character, remain to be considered by the Congress: Laws providing for federal pensions for the aged; Patman Anti-Chain Store bill; amendments to the National Labor Relations act; proposed amendments to the Wage and Hour law; the Walter-Logan bill to prescribe uniform procedure in the bureau and boards and commissions; farm legislation, and many other bills that require constant study. As your representative, I am endeavoring to give serious consideration to all of those proposals and despite all of the pressure that is being brought, will unhesitatingly vote in accordance with honest convictions based upon the evidence and the facts in relation to each bill as they develop upon the hearings.

will select a committee to do the final judging.
All entries must be in the hands of Mr. Buckley on or before May 1.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Dr. B. O. Bendixen of Dundee, whose new home, together with all furniture and fixtures, was destroyed by fire recently after he had received a threatening letter that he would be burned out if he did not leave the village, received another "black hand" letter telling him to leave immediately or he would be a victim of a dynamite plot. The doctor took the first letter as a joke and as a result nearly lost his life in the fire as he was carried out of his burning home in an unconscious condition. Dr. Bendixen is not frightened in the least but has turned the letters, mailed from Cascade, over to postal authorities, who believe the home was set afire.
Mrs. Herman Grubbe, nee Petzold, mother of Mrs. John Klessig of this village, passed away recently at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Klessig at Waubesa.

The high school girls' basketball team added another victory to their list when they played at Beaver Dam, the score being 24 to 1. The lineup included Olive Opgenorth, center; Lazetta Schaefer and Irene Opgenorth, forwards; Lydia Guth and Malinda Raether, guards. Olive Opgenorth was easily the star. Her work as a player for a girl cannot be overestimated. The Kewaskum girls are aspirants to the state championship and we believe they have a good claim for same as they won every game this year.
At a special meeting of the Ev. Peace congregation it was decided not to build an addition to the church this year. However, it was acted upon that a new altar be purchased.

Papers have been drawn whereby Chas. Groeschel sold his saloon property, better known as Groeschel's Opera House and the South Side park to Adolph Backhaus of the town of Kewaskum. Possession will be given Mr. Backhaus April 1.

SHADOWS TELL A STORY

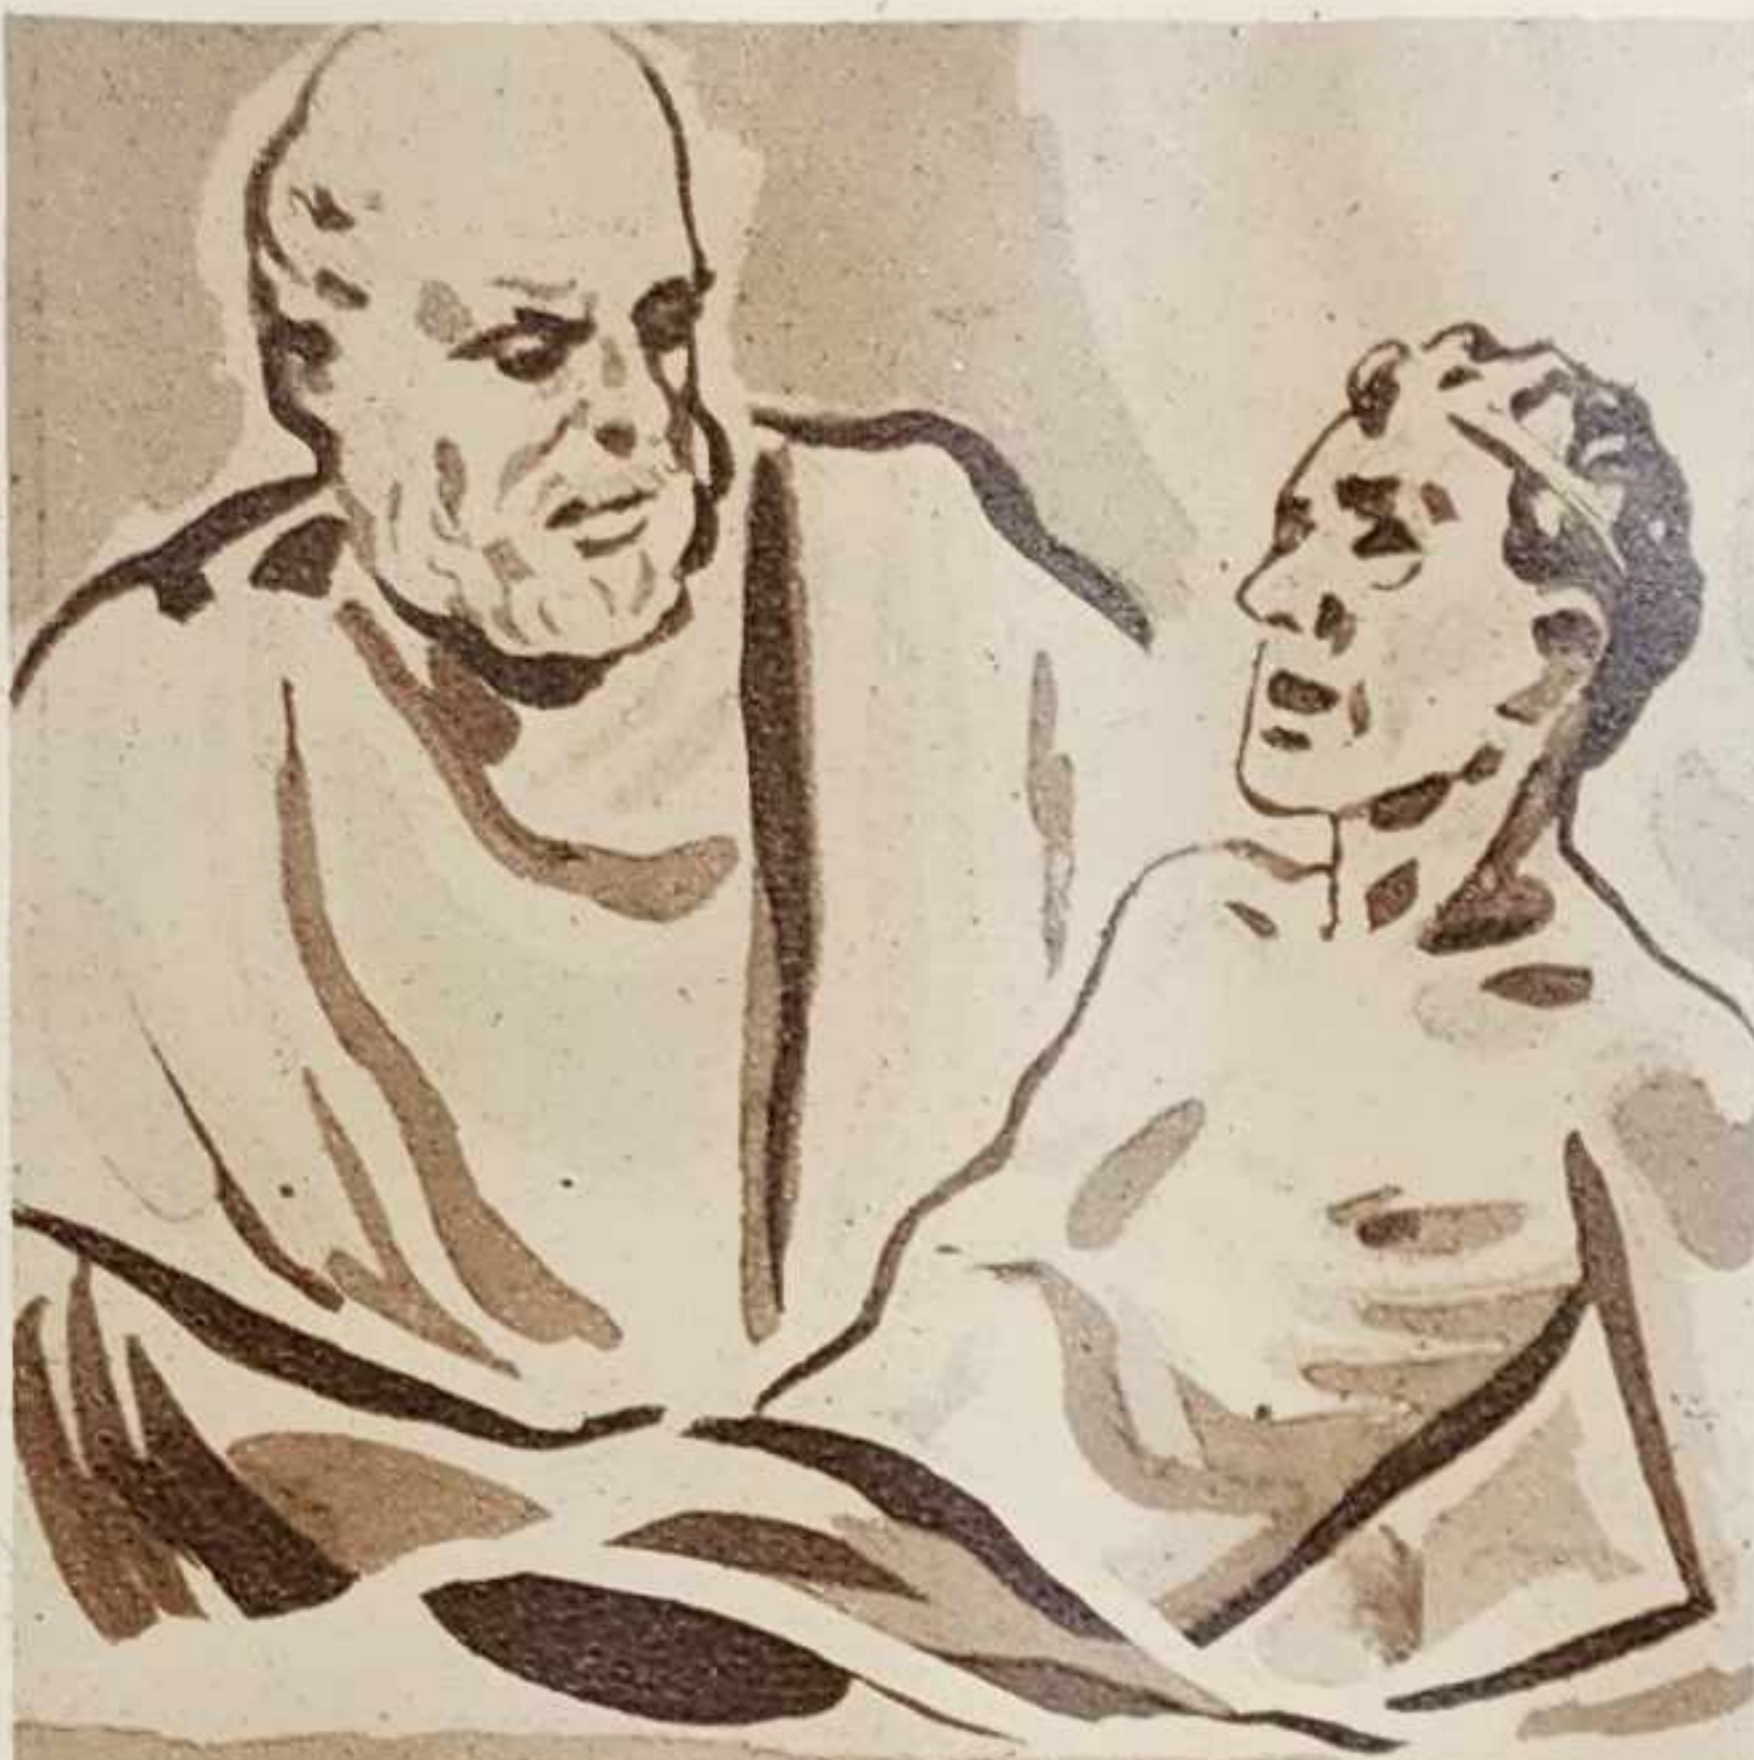

THE X-RAY REVEALS

CAN YOU TELL WHAT THESE SHADOWS ARE?

Early Diagnosis NOW POSSIBLE BECAUSE OF 2000 YEARS OF EFFORT AND EXPERIENCE

HIPPOCRATES

400 B.C. The Greek physician, Hippocrates, describes correctly the signs and symptoms of consumption. Modern doctors no longer wait for signs and symptoms to appear before suspecting tuberculosis because usually there are no signs and symptoms when tuberculosis begins.

KOCH

1882 The German physician, Robert Koch, discovers the tuberculosis germ. For 2,000 years doctors have been in the dark as to the cause of the disease, until Koch was able to see with a microscope that tuberculosis germs which you see in your sputum, are a spreader of the disease.

AUENBRUGGER

1761 An Austrian army physician, Dr. Leopold Auenbrugger, discovers that by gentle tapping with the fingers on the chest sounds are revealed which indicate changes in the lung caused by tuberculosis and other diseases. Napoleon's physician, Dr. Corvissart, made "tapping" (percussion) popular in 1808 and ever since all physicians use it.

PIRQUET

1907 A Viennese physician, Clemens von Pirquet, discovers that the presence of tuberculosis germs hidden in the body can be detected by a skin test. As the tuberculin test, the physician, Dr. Mantoux, proved Pirquet's method the test more reliable than a million tuberculin tests given by physicians.

LAENNEC

1819 The French physician, Dr. René Theophile Hyacinthe Laennec, invents the stethoscope, the instrument doctors use for listening to the sounds which air makes when rushing in and out of the lung. The stethoscope is still one of our important diagnostic aids, but physicians today no longer rely on the stethoscope alone in diagnosing early tuberculosis.

ROENTGEN

1895 The German physicist, Wilhelm Konrad von Roentgen, discovers the X-ray. No other penetrating ray to disclose hidden tuberculosis. Twenty years had to pass before X-ray diagnosis was developed. It enables physicians to see the faintest shadows on the chest. The X-ray is our most reliable diagnostic aid.

PHYSICIANS DEPEND ON THE X-RAY FOR MAKING DIAGNOSIS EARLY

The most important recent discovery is that some people may have tuberculosis that cannot be diagnosed by any other method except by the X-ray. Tuberculosis in its early stages is often without signs and symptoms. "Tapping" and "listening," even the sputum test, may reveal nothing while attempting to discover early tuberculosis. However, a positive tuberculin test means infection and the X-ray may reveal the sick spot in the lung before slowly appearing symptoms such as fatigue, loss of weight, indigestion or a cough arouse any suspicion. The X-ray has become an essential part of a lung examination. No chest examination for tuberculosis is complete without the X-ray.

The X-Ray reveals Tuberculosis

X RAY TUBE

A TRUE STORY

Tuberculosis still is the leading cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45

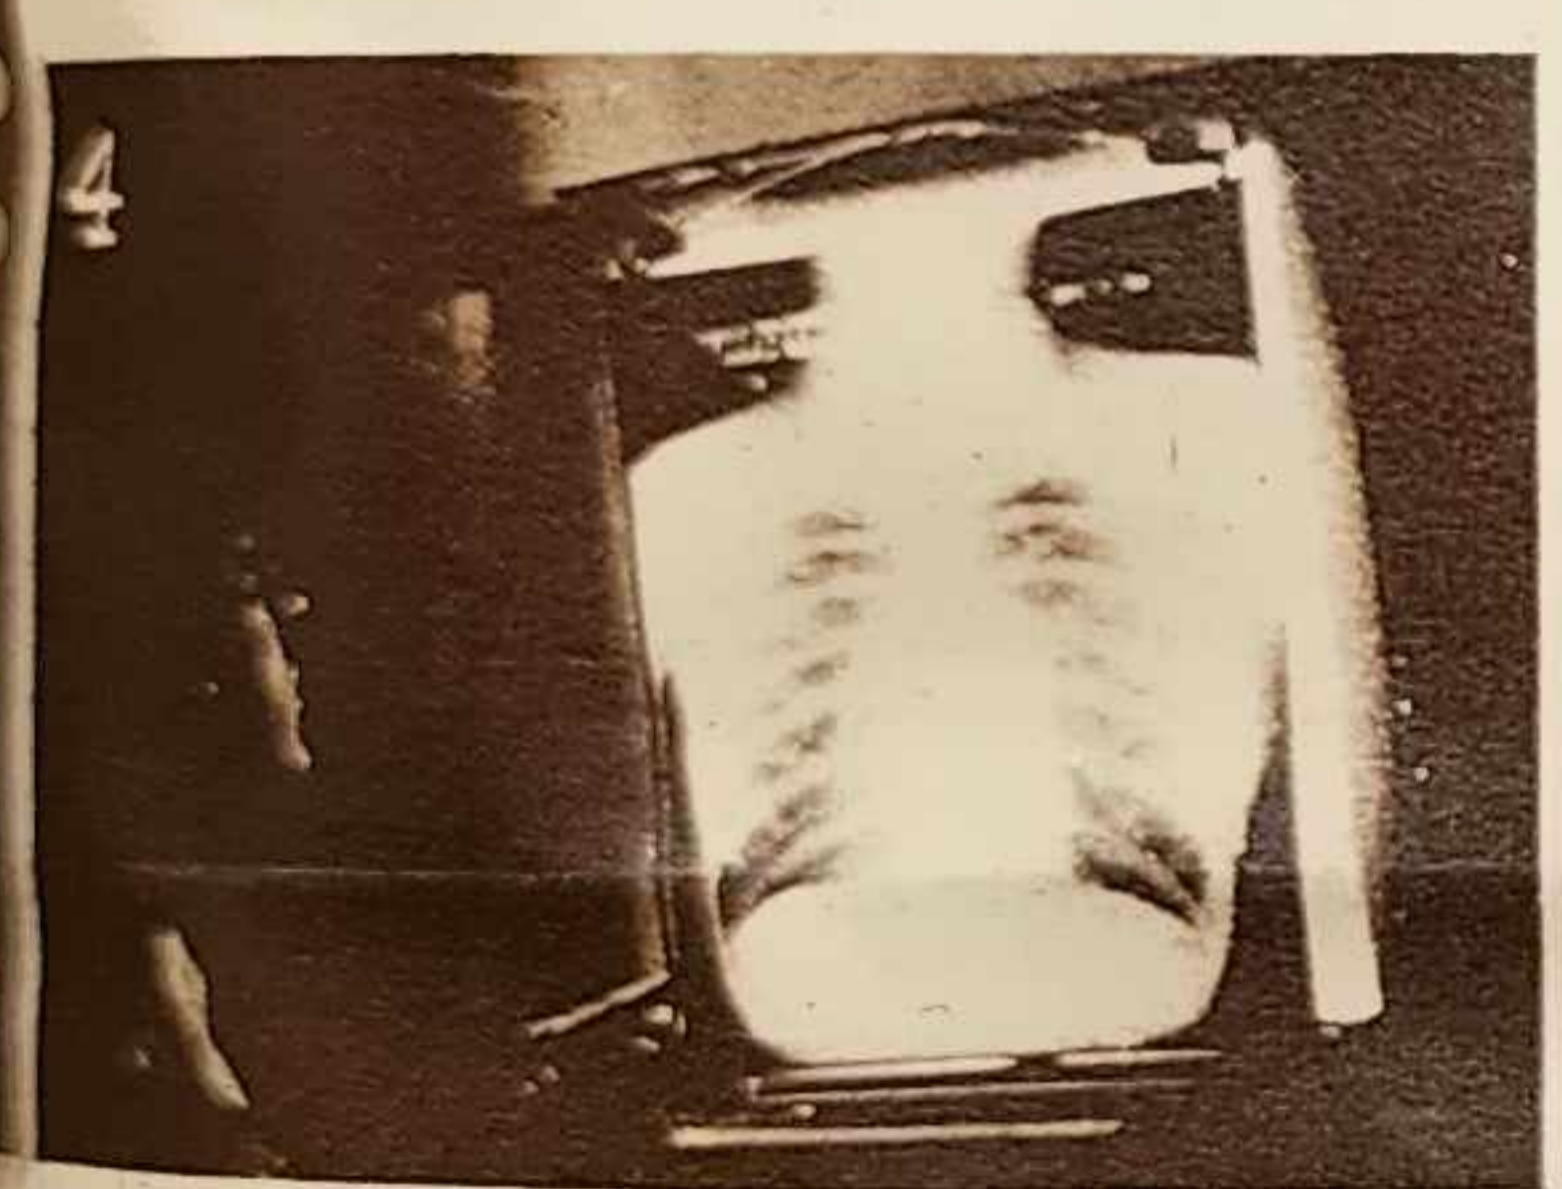

John is on the school team

The school offers the tuberculin test

Having a positive reaction, his chest is X-rayed

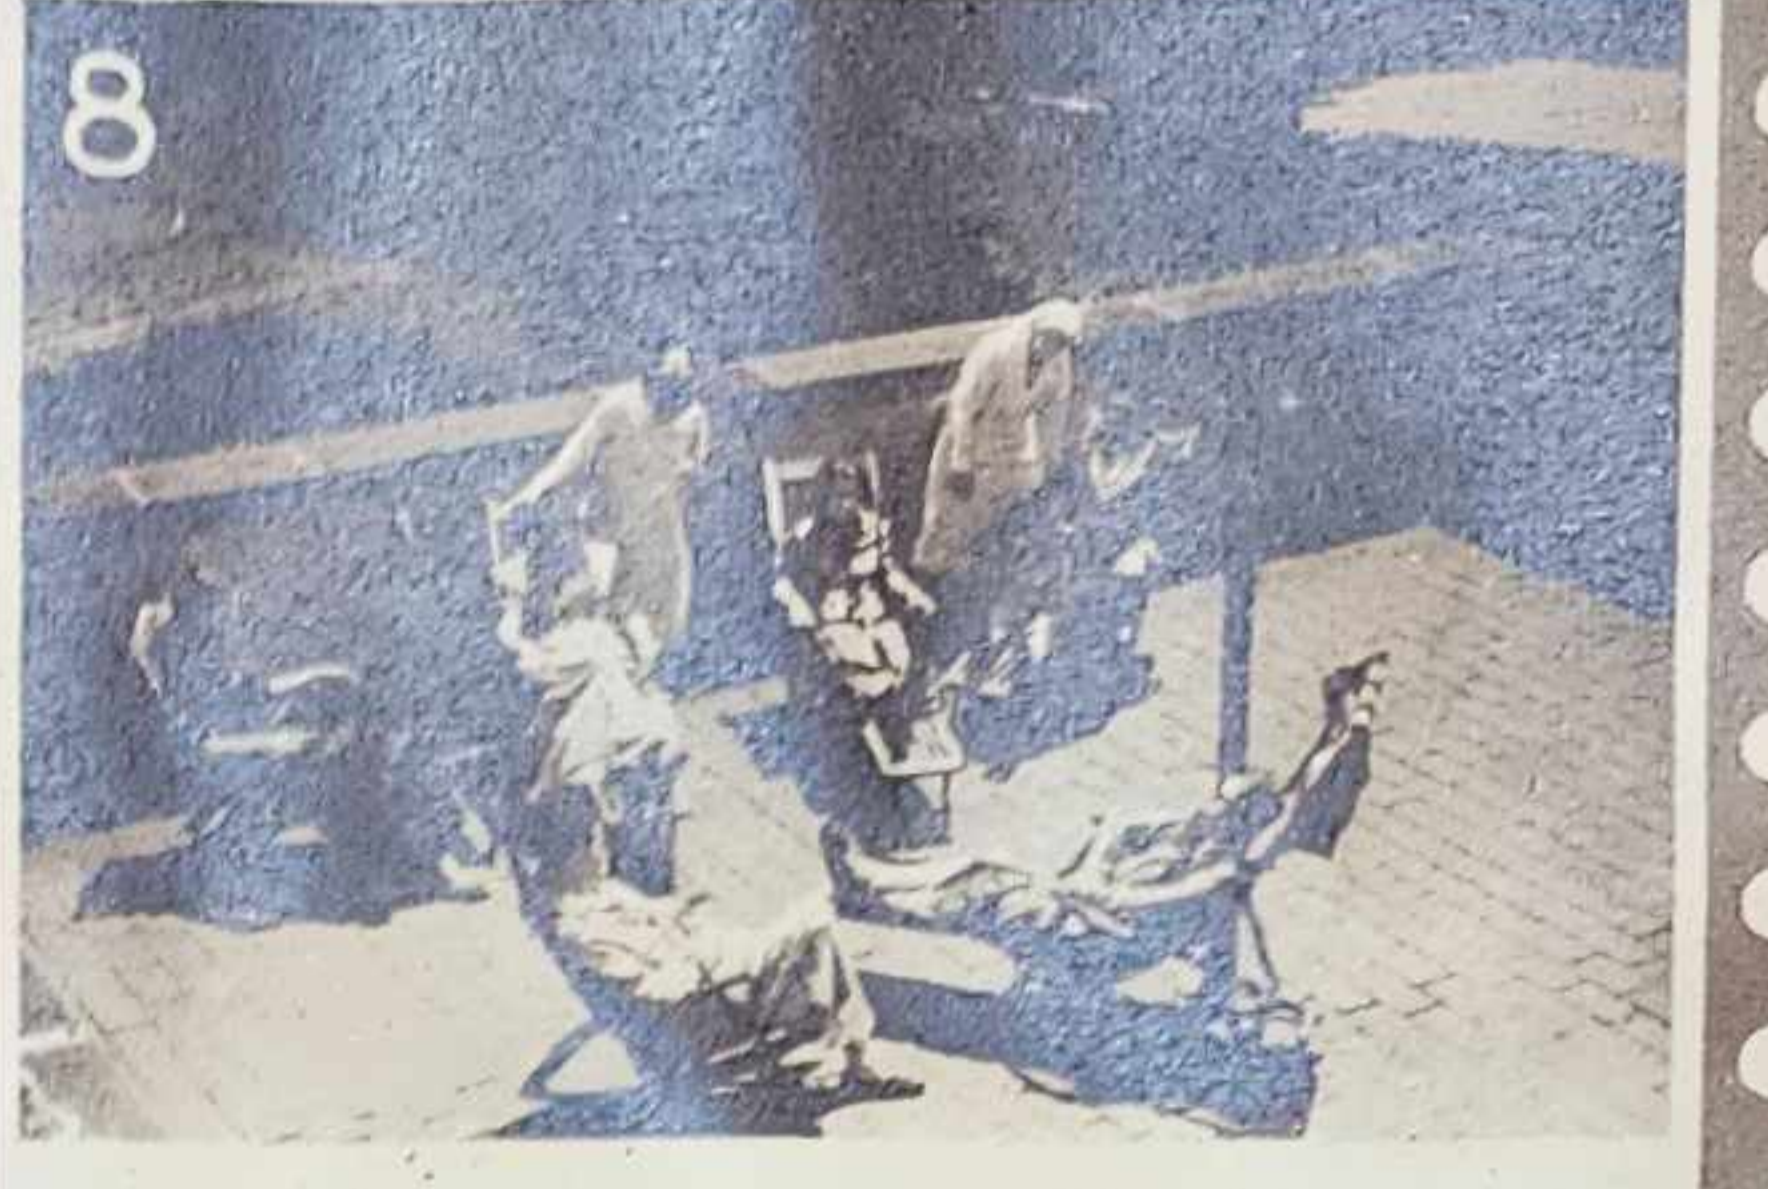

The shadows of tuberculosis can be seen

No one in John's family has tuberculosis

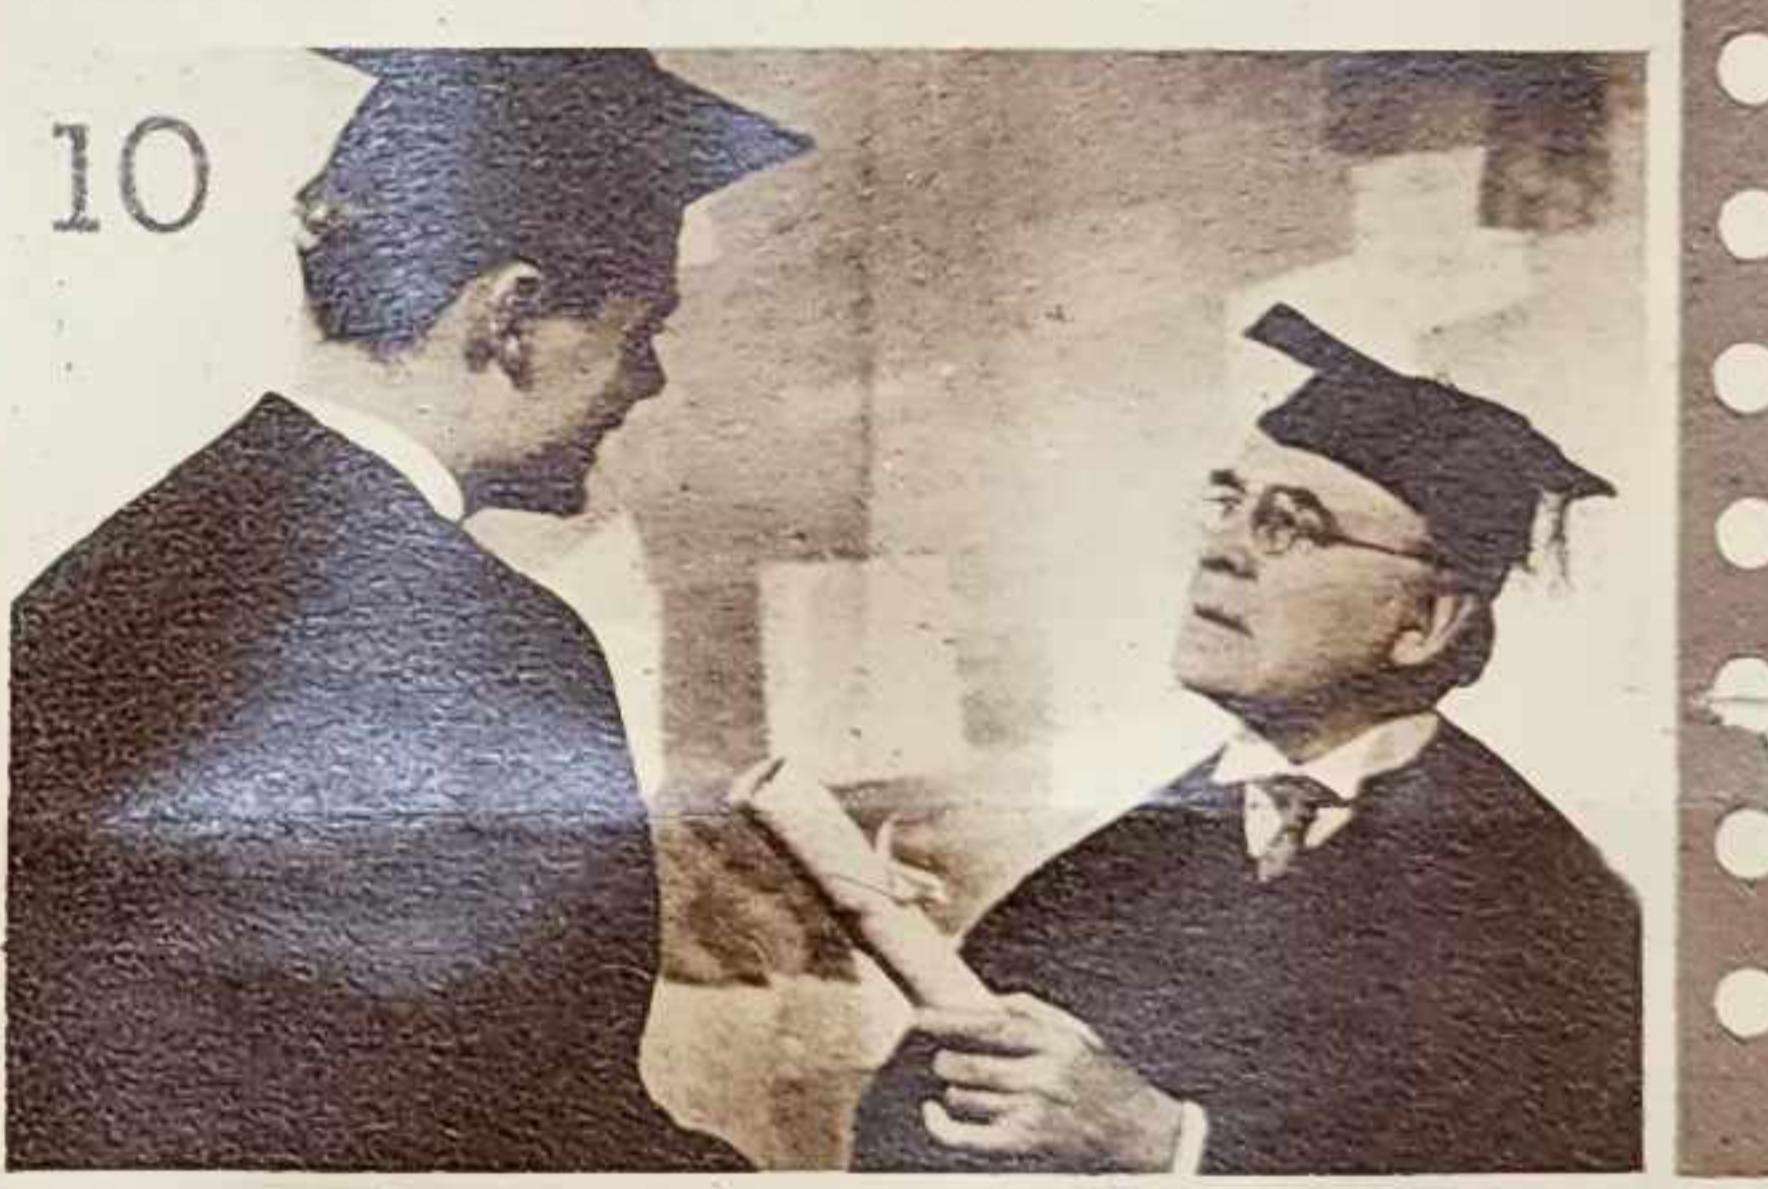

But when a child he had a sick aunt

Now John is a patient in a sanatorium

Modern treatment makes him well

John returns to school and is graduated

In thousands of high schools and colleges throughout the country, students are being tuberculin-tested and X-rayed when necessary. Stories like this one happen every day. Modern parents request that their children be tested because the information the test and the X-ray give may help to prevent future disease. Forewarned is forearmed.

Tuberculosis BEFORE Symptoms appear

EASILY TIRED LOSS OF WEIGHT INDIGESTION COUGH THAT HANGS ON

Reading X-Ray Films Requires Experience

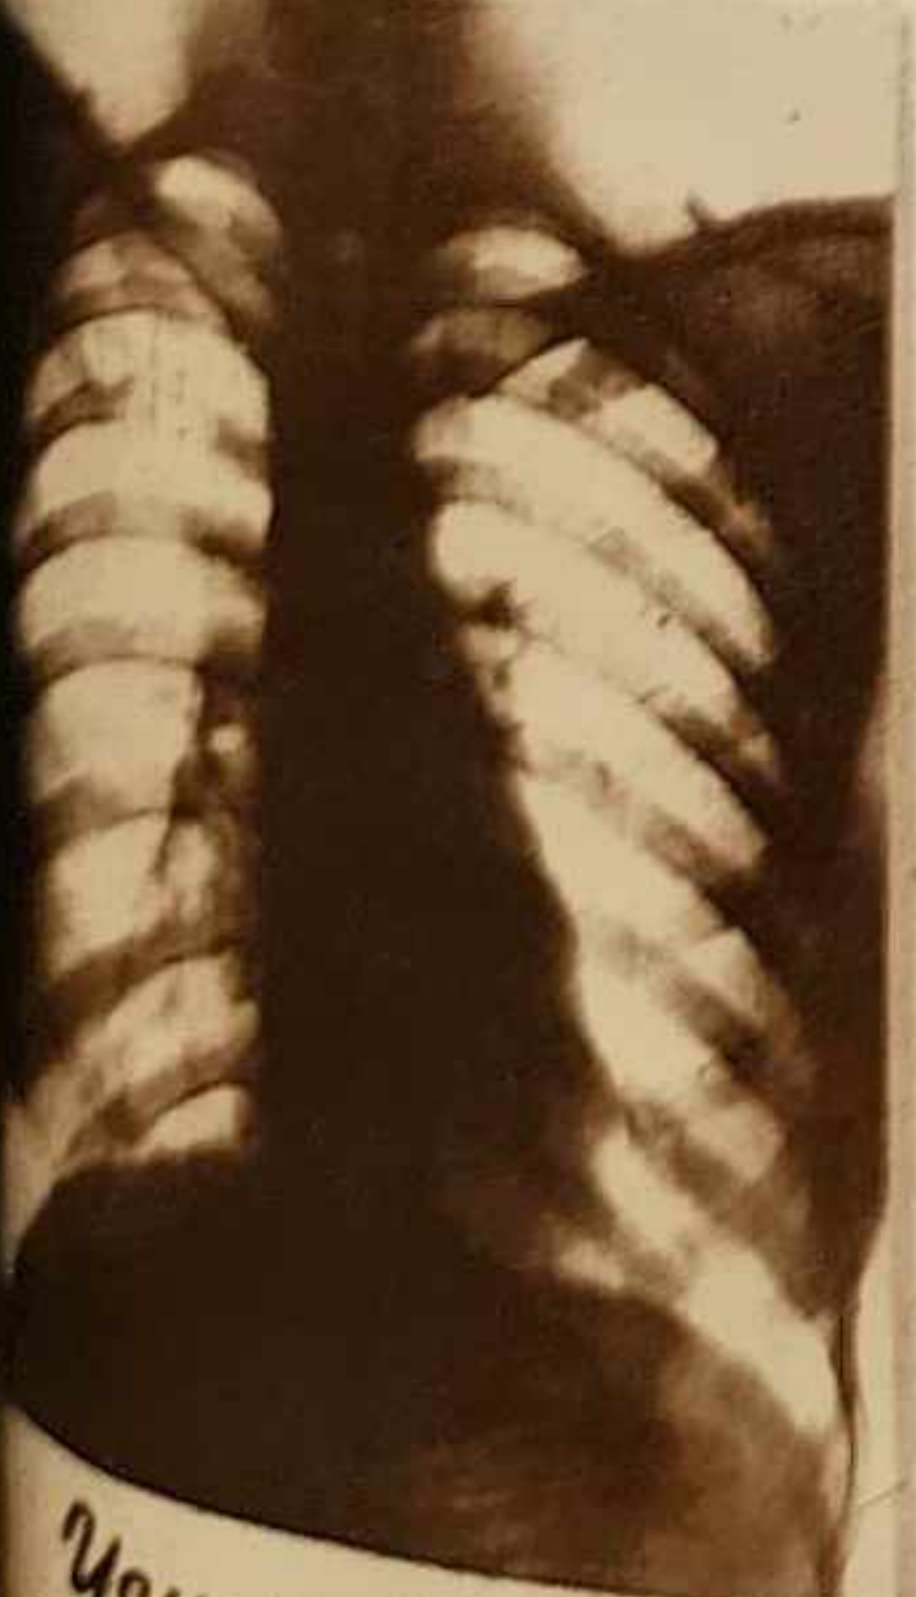

Taking X-ray pictures is easily learned but reading them requires the judgment of an experienced physician. It took many years of research before the meaning of the faint shadows on the X-ray film became fully understood. Now the trained eye can tell from these shadows in what condition the lungs are and where the trouble is located.

The X-Ray Doesn't Cure Tuberculosis

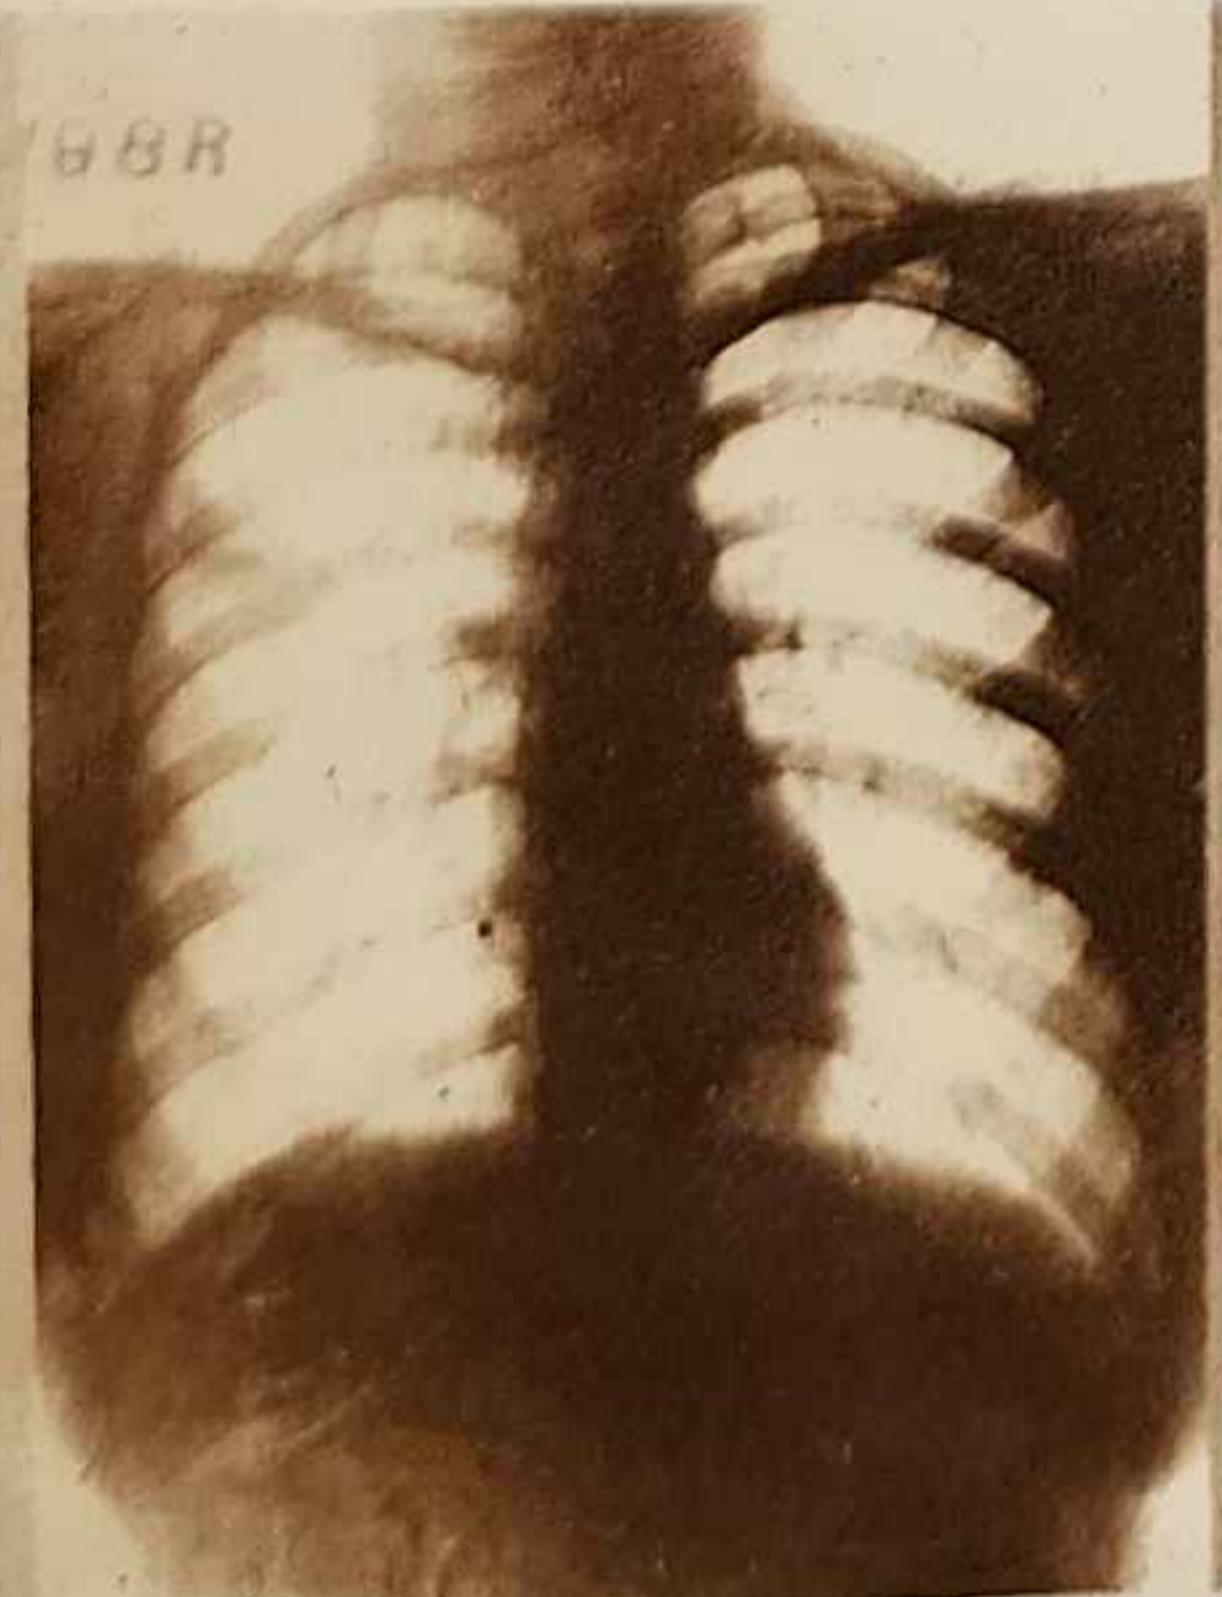

It shows only the extent of the disease. One X-ray picture alone does not show, even to the expert, whether the disease gets worse or better. But a series of X-ray pictures, taken periodically, will disclose whether the disease is making headway, remaining stationary, or whether healing is taking place. A single negative examination gives no assurance that tuberculosis may not develop later.

Not All Tuberculosis is in the Lungs

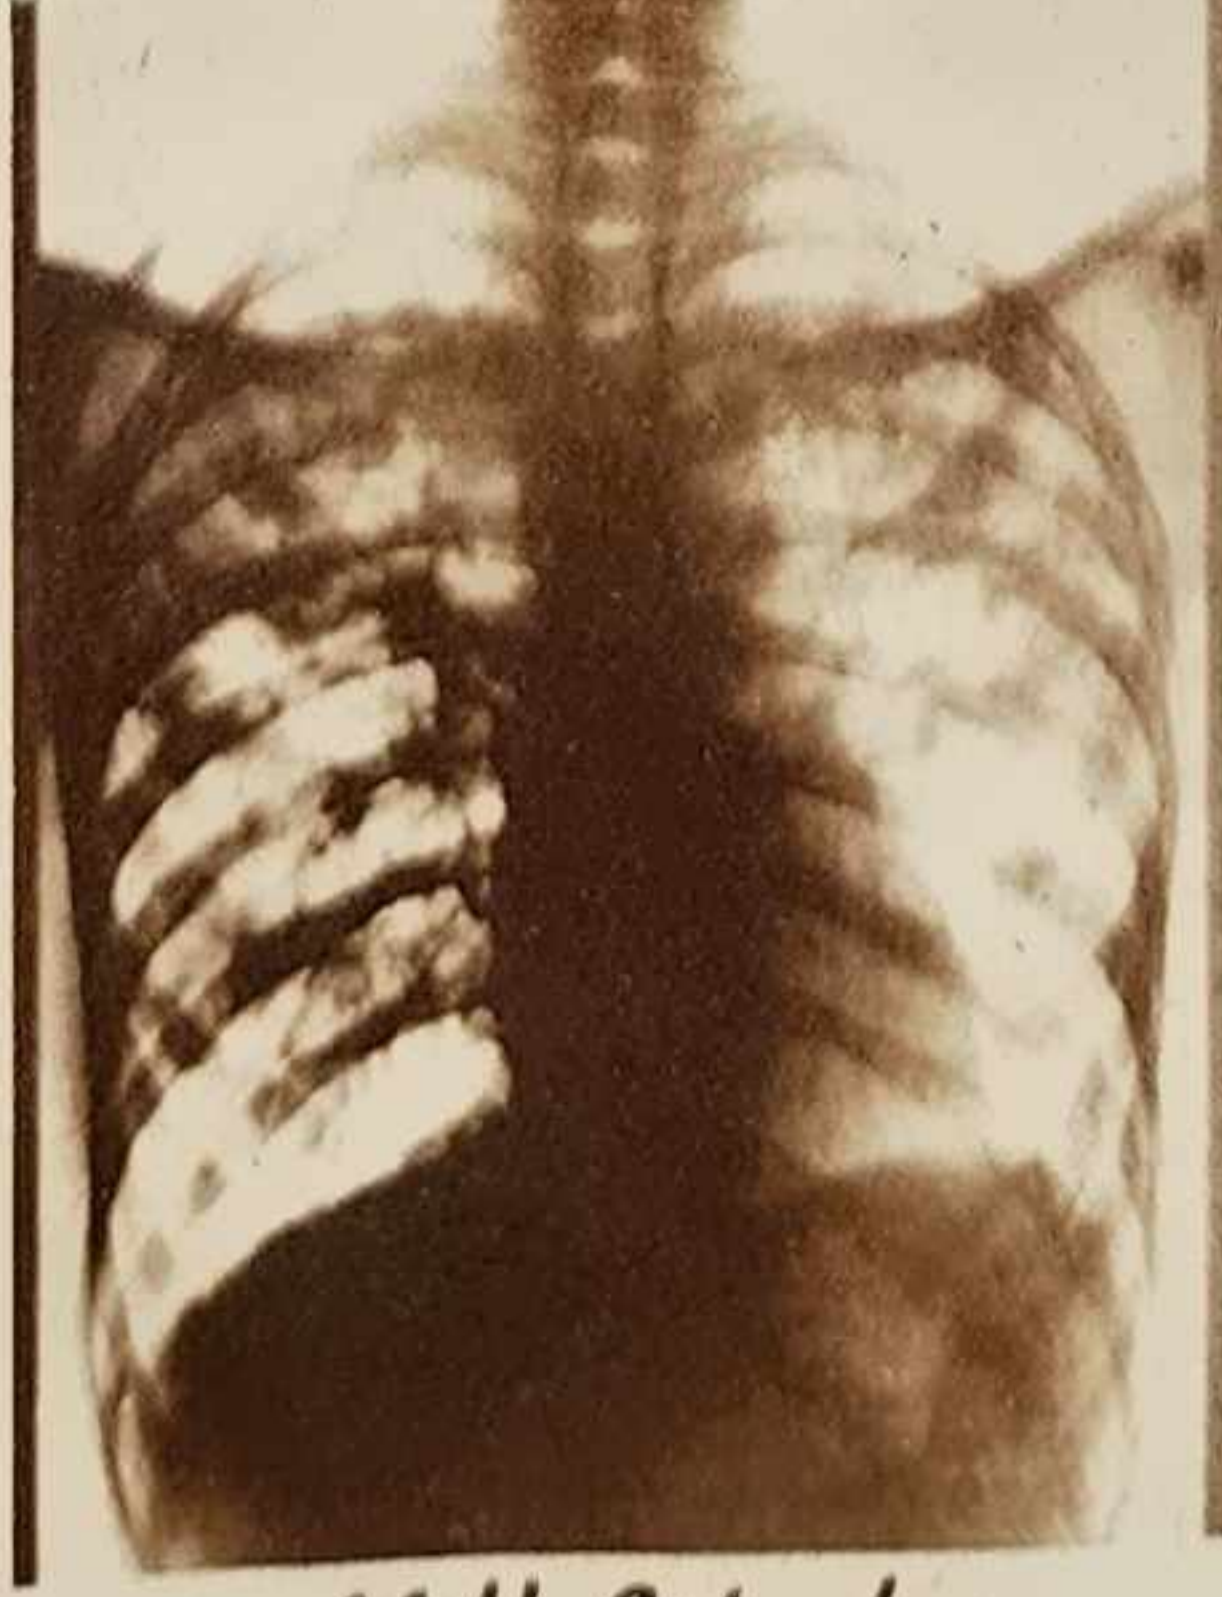

It may be anywhere, but 9 times out of 10 the lungs are affected. Hence chest X-rays tell the story in most cases. No two cases of tuberculosis are exactly alike. Therefore, each chest X-ray represents its own problem, requiring expert judgment of an experienced physician to interpret it.

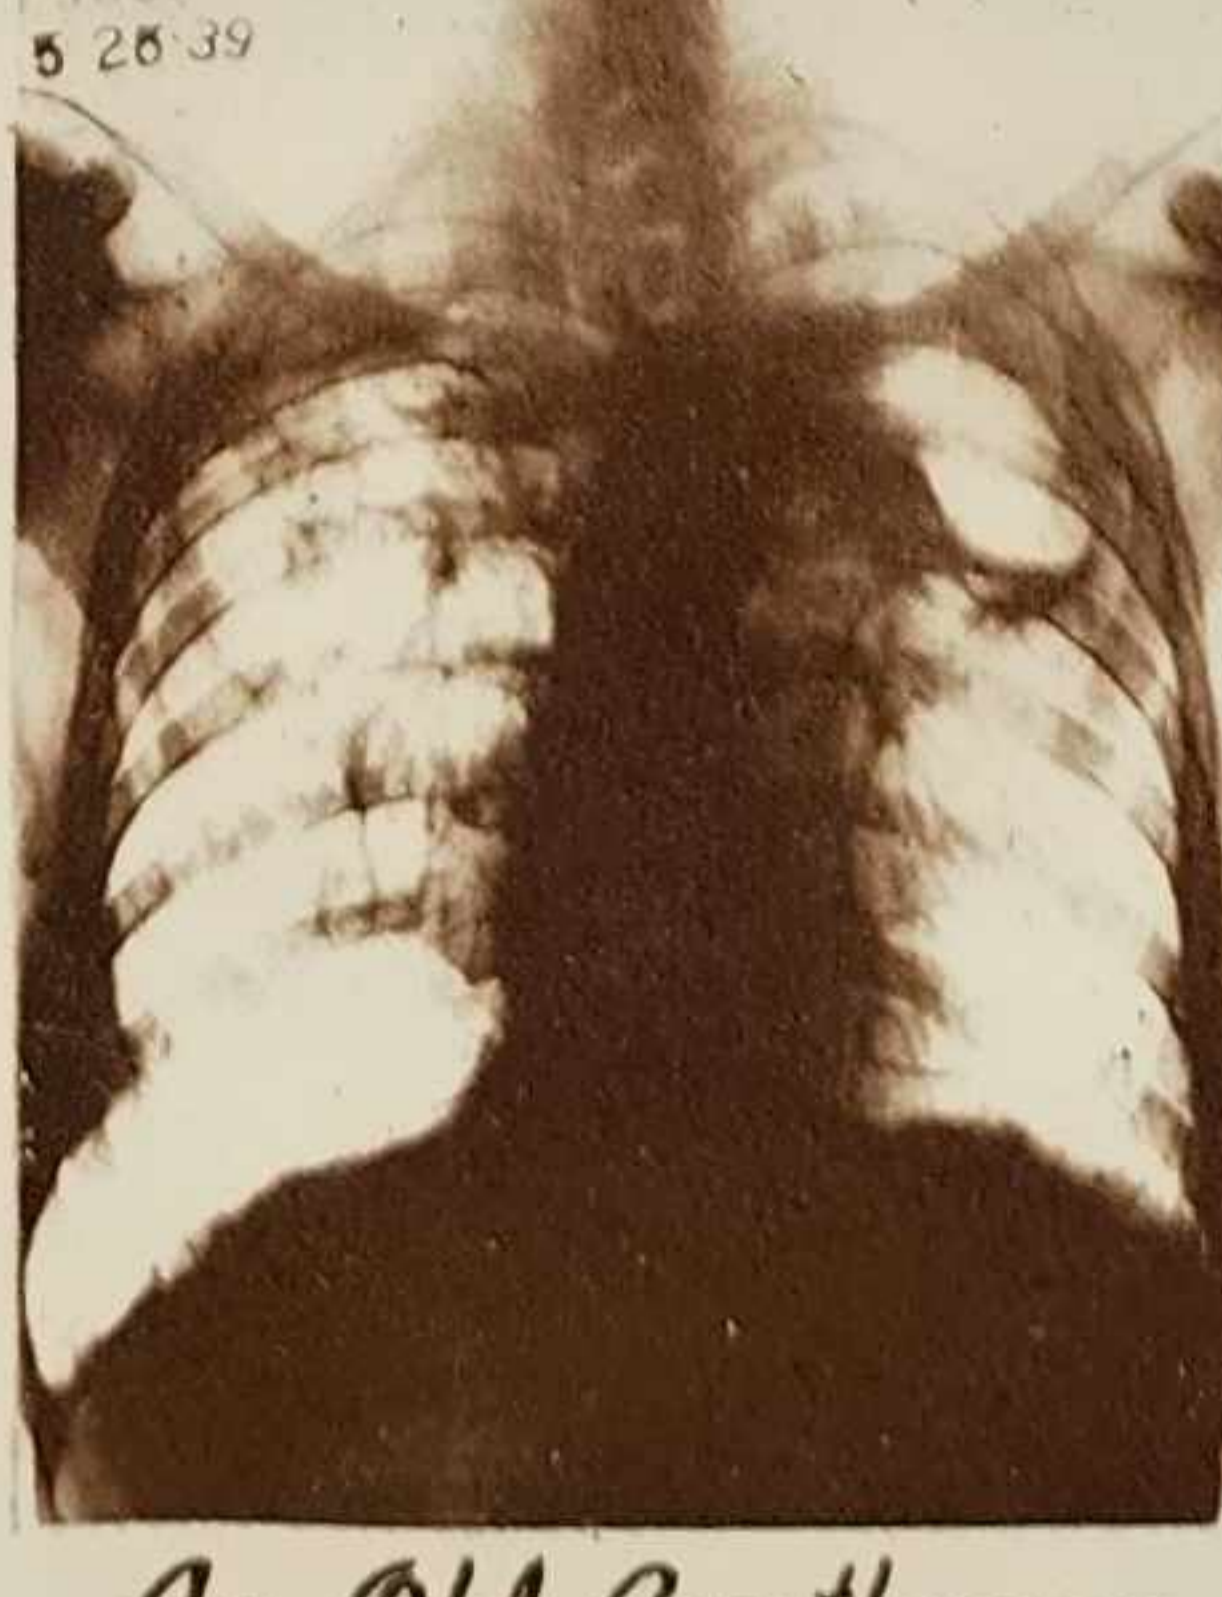

Young Mother
Age 19, did not feel sick until a slight hemorrhage occurred. An X-ray of the chest was taken. Tuberculosis was discovered. Treatment was begun at once, and the young woman recovered. Modern physicians now include the X-ray as a routine practice in prenatal examinations. Tuberculosis is often found in young

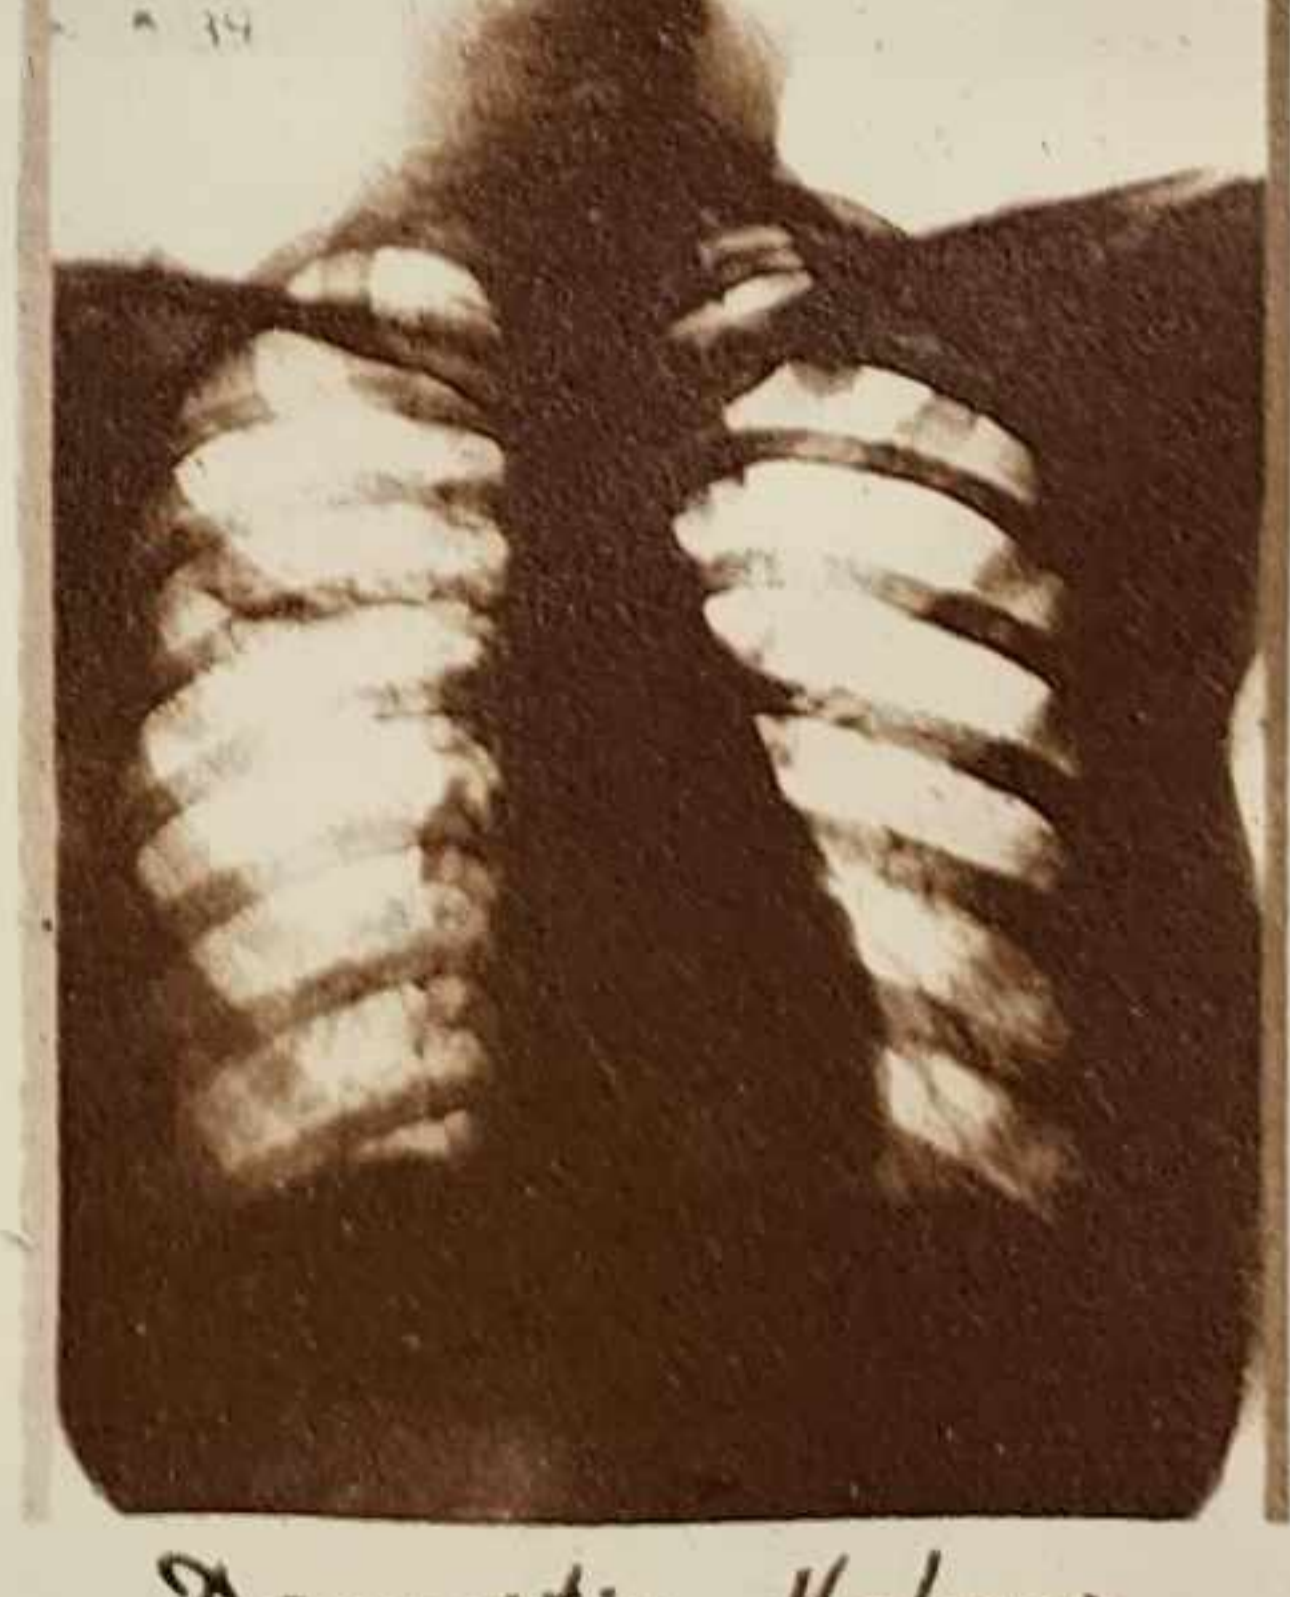

High School Senior
She had a positive tuberculin test. An X-ray of the chest was taken. Early tuberculosis was found. This is a typical example of how searching for tuberculosis among apparently healthy people reveals the disease before symptoms appear. When found in the early stage the disease is usually curable in a short time.

Mill Worker
Age 25. This man felt well but for a cough which he thought was due to smoking. X-ray shows advanced tuberculosis in both lungs. His tuberculosis was found by a routine X-ray survey of the employees of the mill where he had worked for many years. He is now in a state tuberculosis sanatorium making a good recovery.

An Old Gentleman
Well-to-do man, age 67. By his own statement was never sick a day in his life. The X-ray shows chronic tuberculosis of many years standing. Sputum full of germs. Tuberculosis was discovered in this man after the tuberculin test had disclosed that his grandchildren had "caught" the germs from someone.

Domestic Helper
Negro woman, age 27. Did not complain of any sickness but had frequent head colds. X-ray shows advanced tuberculosis. This woman was found by tracing the contacts of a tuberculin-positive child. She is now in a county sanatorium, receiving the best of care and making good progress towards recovery.

Who IS IN DANGER? How TO AVOID IT

TUBERCULOSIS IS NOT INHERITED

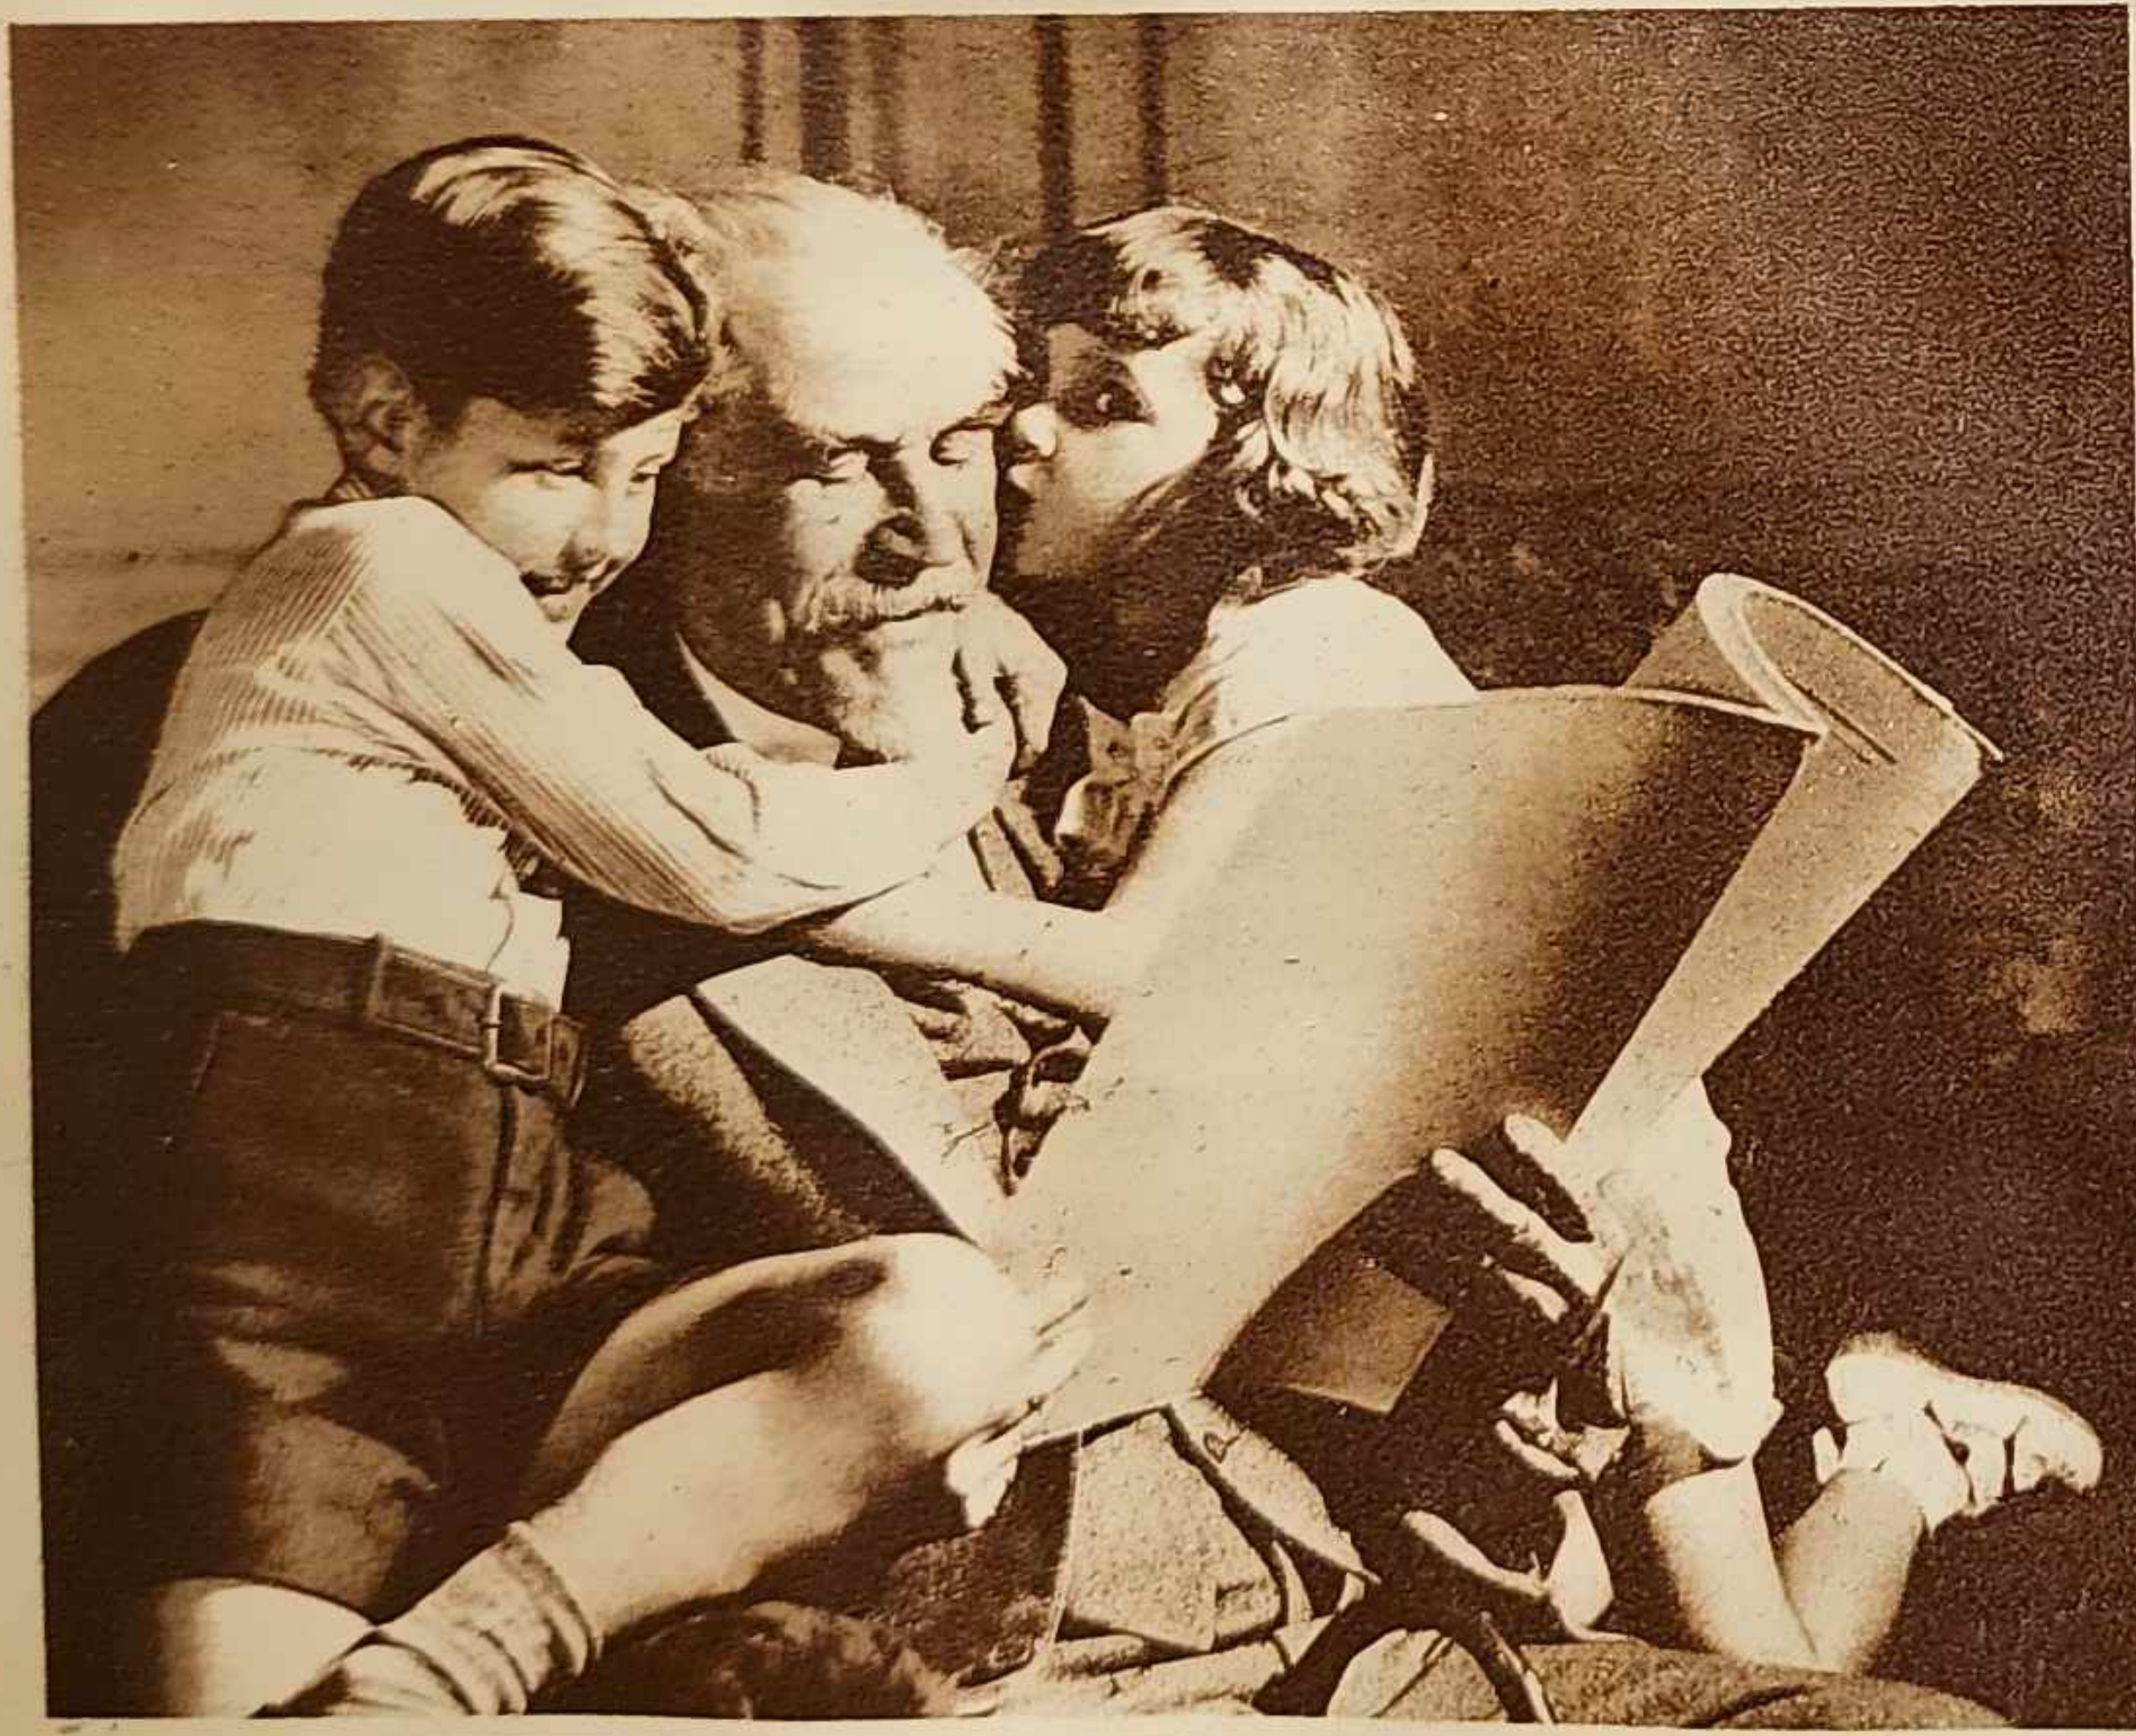

Tuberculosis is not passed on from mother to child at birth. But if there is a sick person in the household and no safeguards are provided, chances are that the baby will get the germs of tuberculosis into his young life. Tuberculin-testing of babies and children leads to finding babies and children who are unsuspected spreaders of tuberculosis in the family circle.

Our boys and girls

Having lived through babyhood and early infancy, children are comparatively safe from tuberculosis until they reach high school and college age. Adolescence is a period that is filled with danger. Many up-to-date high schools and colleges now offer the tuberculin test which can be given by the family doctor or the school physician. It is simple and harmless. Wise parents welcome the information the tuberculin test gives and feel that the price of X-rays, if needed, is money well spent for safeguarding health and life. Unwillingness to learn the truth has caused many children to die.

Grandpa always had a cough

Every case of tuberculosis comes from another case. Among the worst, and yet unsuspecting spreaders of the disease are old people. Many an old man or woman who thinks that nothing is wrong but a cold, sinus, bronchitis, asthma or heart trouble, may have tuberculosis unknown to him and the rest of his family.

Sometimes the family physician does not even suspect tuberculosis in such a case because he has known the person for many years and aside from some symptoms that are blamed on old age, he seems to be in fair health. Why not find out and make sure? The X-ray will tell.

BREADWINNERS • RACIAL GROUPS

Young women in industry, middle-aged men and the unskilled labor groups furnish more victims of tuberculosis than all other age or occupational groups. Pressed by the need for making a living, the wage earner usually pays little attention to the subtle warnings of forthcoming disease. A few weeks or months of loss of wages often means poverty. Some of the largest industrial and commercial employers have found X-raying of employees to be a sound business investment. Some unions have X-rayed their members.

While tuberculosis is prevalent in some groups than in others, it respects no boundary lines of race, creed or social status. The disease can spread from the poor to the rich, from the illiterate to the educated, and vice versa. It must be fought on a broad front. The government cannot help themselves unless special attention is given to the groups in greatest need. Progress is being made in fighting tuberculosis among, and providing for, people with low incomes.
