Date For New Voters' Convention Changed

Washington County Leads State in Citizenship Training Work

The date of the county convention of the new voters of Washington county has been changed to Friday, April 19, at 8 p. m., according to an announcement from M. T. Buckley, county superintendent of schools, who is the executive secretary of the citizenship training program in this county. The convention was originally scheduled for Saturday, April 20.

The decision to change the date to Friday, April 19, was made at a meeting of all committees connected with the citizenship program at the court house in West Bend last Wednesday evening. The change was made to avoid conflict with the Saturday night election period. The convention will be held in the new West Bend grade school, where there is a seating capacity of 1,400 and where convention space will be reserved for 400 new voters.

At the meeting last Wednesday evening a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the county convention. This group consists of Mr. Buckley, Goldo Schroeder, chairman of the county board, and Atty. C. J. Schaefer. West Bend's new mayor, the committee is arranging a program, the details of which will be announced next week.

BAND MUSIC, SINGING

In an effort to provide a real convention setting and spirit, Mr. Buckley says there will be a band on hand to furnish stirring music. There will also be community singing. This will be led by George T. Carlson, well known West Bend song leader.

Dr. R. J. Colbert of the University of Wisconsin extension division reports that Washington county is leading the state in its work on citizenship training. Known as "the father of the citizenship training movement in Wisconsin," Dr. Colbert was present at the meeting last Wednesday to give valuable advice on conducting the county convention. He is serving as instructor-counselor on the program in this county.

Because of the leading position of the county, local leaders are anxious to have the county convention a success. They feel that a 100 per cent attendance of new voters and a large adult attendance will attain this result.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The major reason for the convention will be the election of officers who will be responsible for the planning of the program for the new voting class of 1941 in conjunction with a citizenship committee. Officers to be elected are a chairman, two vice-chairmen, a secretary, and a treasurer.

Seniors To Present Annual Class Play

The time for Kewaskum High school's annual senior class play, "So This is Linda," is nearing and since many of you are planning to attend perhaps you would like to know what you will be likely to see.

The play, consisting of three acts, with two scenes, takes place in New York City, that place of hope of so many young actors and producers. Bert Moore, the producer, and one with his assistant, Homer Martin, hope to produce a hitherto unknown play, "So This is Linda," on the stage in New York. Complications arise when they mistake their author, whom they have never seen, for the backer of the show, since both gentlemen have the same last name. Both Moore and Martin are down to their last nickel and threatened with eviction from their rooming house, when they manage to get a little money from the house-boy, Dan. How they do it adds humor and laugh to the show.

Daver Davis, the author, is left in care of Sandra, Moore's stenographer, and passing the author off as the financier to Mrs. Forbes, the housekeeper, the boys try to stall off until J. Montague Davis, the backer, arrives. When he does Mrs. Forbes spoils his signing and backing the show by declaring that the two are crooks, and despite the pleadings of all he backs out. Moore, however, takes the money obtained from Dan and pays it down on the theatre as a lease payment hoping that something will turn up. Sandra, meanwhile, has persuaded the author to stick with them and she, herself, goes to Davis the financier, to see if he won't reconsider backing the show. He does and is about ready to sign when he thinks he has been tricked and again starts to walk out.

How the boys save the show, who wins Sandra, what happens to Davis, and all the other solutions to the problem can be found out by attending the play, which is to be given Thursday and Friday, April 25 and 26. Tickets are to be on sale next week. Don't miss it.

Albert Oppenorth, Herman Fick Called

ALBERT OPPENORTH
The sad news was received here this week of the death of Albert Oppenorth, 60, widely known native of this village and brother of William Oppenorth, Kewaskum, who was found dead at his place of employment as a mason in Milwaukee on Monday, April 8. Death was caused by a heart stroke with which Mr. Oppenorth was stricken while at work and he died with his tools in his hands.

Mr. Oppenorth, who lived at 2133 N. 38rd st., Milwaukee, had been ill in health for the past two years but continued his work as a mason contractor. He had been a resident of Milwaukee for the past 20 years. While in Kewaskum the Oppenorth family lived in the home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bassil on First street.

He was born May 28, 1878, in Kewaskum, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oppenorth, and followed in the footsteps of his father, also a prominent mason contractor. On Oct. 2, 1906 he was married to Miss Margaret Goring at Nabob and the couple made their home in this village. Here Mr. Oppenorth worked with his father in the mason trade until 1919 when the family moved to their present home in Milwaukee.

Ten children were born to the couple, one of whom died in infancy. Those surviving, along with the widow, are Marcellus, Harvey, Raymond, Sylvester, Dorothy Geiger, Mildred Winter, Margaret, Albert Jr., and Donald, all of Milwaukee. Two sons and two daughters are married. He also leaves two brothers, William of Kewaskum and Joseph of West Bend, two sisters, Theresa (Mrs. Jos. Enkel) of Shawano, and Alvina (Mrs. Jos. Reinartz) of Milwaukee, and three grandchildren. One sister, Nellie, preceded him in death many years ago.

The body lay in state at the funeral home of George L. Weland, 55th and Center streets, Milwaukee, until the time of the funeral services, which were held at 8:30 a. m. today, Friday, at St. Ann's church in that city. Interment took place in Holy Cross cemetery, Milwaukee.

Mr. Oppenorth was a member of the St. Francis Aid society of Holy Trinity church, Kewaskum, and of the Holy Name society of St. Thomas, Milwaukee.

Through his work with his father in Kewaskum, Mr. Oppenorth was well known and liked in this community as well as that in which he resided in Milwaukee. He enjoyed the acquaintance of numerous friends, all of whom held him in high esteem and will regret his sudden death as a great blow of sorrow. A Statesman subscriber for more than 30 years, and an old friend and former neighbor of the publishers, Mr. Oppenorth paid a visit to this office a short time ago when in town to attend the funeral of his friend, O. E. Las. At that time he seemingly was in good health. Albert was a man of fine character and a genuine friend, a Kewaskum boy who proved his worth in life. Of genial and upright manner, he had an excellent family and Christian life. To those he left behind our heartfelt sympathy is expressed.

Mr. Fick was born April 1, 1873, and his marriage to Mrs. Marie Wunder took place June 24, 1915. She predeceased him on Jan. 6, 1924. Surviving are three sons, William Wunder of the town of Auburn, Charles of Milwaukee and Joseph of Cascade; three daughters, Leona at home and Mrs. Elmer S. Ok and Mrs. Albert Butzke of the town of Auburn; four grandchildren; three brothers, Otto of the town of Auburn, Henry of Clintonville, and Theodore of Salem, Va., and two sisters, Mrs. Herman Geldel of Kimberly and Mrs. Wm. He took interest in civic matters for the good of the town in which he lived and was always active in any matter that was of benefit to the community. A true pioneer of Auburn, he was widely known. Our condolences are extended to the bereaved survivors.

Hausmann & Greeley Victorious in Sixth District Balloting

Local Doctor Will Attend National Convention at Philadelphia in June

Republicans maintained a majority in the sixth congressional district in the election last week Tuesday, complete unofficial returns for the district delegate race from the 239 precincts indicate. The district is comprised of six counties: Washington, Sheboygan, Calumet, Winnebago, Ozaukee and Fond du Lac. On the basis of the returns $2,858 voted in the Republican column in the district delegate contest, while 26,208 voted Democratic.

Delegates pledged to Dewey carried the district in the Republican vote, while in the Democratic race Roosevelt-Farley pledged delegates won.

Dr. N. E. Hausmann of Kewaskum, a Dewey instructed delegate, ran second highest in the district in the Republican column with 15,533 votes. His fellow-delegate, George Greeley of Oshkosh, polled the most votes, his total being 15,990. ## Bike Rider, 70, Trail Blazes Through Here 70-year-old Louis Pierron, who has been riding bicycles ever since he could toddle, set out from Milwaukee last Friday on his bike for the Forest Lake hotel near Kewaskum, from where he started out the next day to explore little known trails to Delafield after stopping off in this village.

Spry Mr. Pierron, who is more active at his age than most of our modern young men and women of 20, pedaled 66 miles from his home on Route 9, Milwaukee, Friday to the Forest Lake hotel, where he joined Victor T. Broome, Fond du Lac, secretary-treasurer of the Kettle Moraine Bike and Hike club. He had pedaled from his home to the lake. This office received a telegram from the Milwaukee Sentinel Friday afternoon asking that we wire information as soon as Pierron arrived in Kewaskum but we were unable to accommodate that paper because the man did not come by the route through here. Instead he took the trail through Fillmore and St. Michaels. Pierron left Milwaukee a short time before 4 p. m. and arrived at the lake soon after dark. Over the last part of the trip he was forced to hike much of the way due to the hazardous roads in the darkness. But as Broome said, "It takes a lot more than that to stop Louis."

After staying overnight at the Forest Lake hotel, Pierron and Broome started out Saturday morning for the Delafield hotel, exploring and charting side roads seldom used by cyclists. Their first stop was in Kewaskum. "The gateway to the Kettle Moraine." Here they paid a pleasant visit to the Statesman office as the publisher and Pierron divulged into the topic of old time cycling of nearly a half century ago and its thrilling memories. Pierron was going just as strong then as now, the only difference being a little gray where the black used to be. Pierron rewarded us with one of his autographed souvenir cards.

Before continuing on their tour, the two cyclists were met by A. P. Schaefer, Miss Virginia Lorenz and Curt Romaine out front of the office. All three are members and officers of the Forest Lake hotel here. Acquaintance were renewed and things were discussed and before long a group had congregated. Out of Kewaskum the pair began blazing the trail atop the hill on Highway 55 just south of the limits. They painted the hotel insignia on a pole there and continued on Highway H west toward their Delafield destination. In an interview with Vic Broome this week he informed us that they fixed 17 signs along their route to guide future hostellers along the trail, over rough roads and level, through woods and over hills. Most of the markers were painted on telephone poles. Quite a bit of the way they were forced to hike, which hostellers expect on the trails along with riding.

At Delafield the two spent the night at the Nazawicka Kettle Moraine hotel. On Sunday they split up for more exploration and headed toward their homes. Pierron returned via the Waawatosa hotel. Broome returned to Fond du Lac in a steady downpour of rain but continued on his way despite being soaked to the bottom layer. The trip Saturday marked the anniversary of the North Side Cycling club of Milwaukee, which Pierron helped to organize in 1892.

"Isn't it a nice bright day?" Pierron asked Friday before starting on his week end tour. "The insurance companies wouldn't take a chance on a fellow my age, but I'll take one."

Fahnestock Expedition Leaves To Probe South Sea Mysteries

SPONSORED by the American Museum of Natural History, the Fahnestock expedition sets sail for the South sea islands to spend two years collecting scientific data on rare flora and fauna in the land of Somerset Maugham's "Moon and Sixpence." Above is the 137-foot motor-powered schooner, Disaster, in which the expedition is sailing from New York on its 40,000 mile voyage. Right: Twenty-three tons of foodstuffs, enough to make the expedition completely self-sustaining throughout its duration, were stored away before the schooner weighed anchor.

No detail was overlooked to insure the expedition's comfort. At left, members of the crew prepare for the hot nights they can expect in the tropics. They load air-cell mattresses, having ventilation holes and proof against mildew. The expedition is taking latest devices for charting the ocean floor.

Above: Sixty meals a day, or approximately 43,800 meals will be prepared in the ship's kitchen, equipped with electric ice boxes and modern cooking equipment. Left: The crew has a laugh over fan letters requesting all sorts of presents from the mysterious South seas.

Here is the primitive land of romance which the expedition will call home for the next two years while it explores tiny islands sentinelled with palm trees, bright with tropical vegetation and still blue waters in which swim strange and little known fish.

Now You Tell One
A deer story with all the earmarks of a fish story is told by Russell Morse of Sacramento, Calif. He let his three companions go ahead when he was seized with a stomach ache and sat down to rest. He fell asleep and was awakened when a lizard slithered across his face. Startled, Morse sat up and saw a four-point buck slowly walking toward him. Without even getting up, the hunter raised his rifle and one shot and a perfect hit.

Miracle of Glass
"How far that little candle throws his beams!" Yes, were it not for the impurities of our atmosphere it could be seen 40,000 miles by means of the giant 200-inch mirror being installed on Mount Palomar in southern California. And glass makes that mirror practicable. Thus glass in a telescope brings the distant world closer. In a microscope it makes the minute world larger. In a camera it makes the fleeting world permanent.

EASIEST ROAD

First Motorist—What road do you think is the easiest to travel in this town?
Second Ditto—The road to destruction, I'm quite sure.

Shut Him Up

The explorer was describing one of his narrow escapes to a crowd of people. He said: "I grabbed hold of the lion's neck, rolled over and over, and—" "And fell out of bed," cried a voice.

Going Down

Ruff—Speed? Why that old car of mine can't be stopped on the hills.
Tuff—Yes, I know; mine was that way before I had the brakes fixed.

Missouri Hospitality

A few of the boys in Kansas City were showing a Texas rancher the city. "What do you think of our stock yards?" they asked of him. "Oh, they're all right, but we have branding corrals in Texas that are bigger," he said. That night they put some snapping turtles in his bed. He said: "Missouri bed bugs," they said. He looked at them a moment and then said, "So they are. Young ones, aren't they?"

Mainly Advice

Bjones—What's the matter with you and your girl?
Skjold—We had a tiff. I told her I was going away forever, and she told me to go.
Bjones—Well, if you're any man at all you'll stay away at least a couple of evenings before going to see her again.

A Bright Boy

Professor—John, name a collective noun.
John—A vacuum cleaner.

GOT BURNT

"Is that the hat you got at the fire sale, dear?"
"Yes—Why?"
"Well, you got burnt."

Danger Ahead

On a recent Sunday, when Sonny, age four, reached home, his mother inquired, "And how was Sunday school this morning, dear?"
"Not so good," he said, and looked very sober. "Daniel's in the lions' den again."

Rotten Luck

Jimmie—If I were you, Percy, I would tell him just what I think of him.
Percy—How can I? The cad has no telephone.

ELMER SOUNDS A CALL
"I don't know no more than nobody else who will be the candidates for President this winter," declared Elmer Twitchell today, "but I would personally go for a sourpuss."

"A sourpuss?" the reporter asked, a little puzzled.

"Yes, sir," snapped Elmer, "a sourpuss. A deadpan candidate without a smile in his system. A fellow who can't photograph or screen well and who knows it. I am fed up with the old personality stuff in all public offices, and what is more I think a candidate with a severe mug and a what's-there-to-grin-over attitude might sweep the country."

"You don't mean that, Elmer," the reporter argued. "Everybody likes a radiant personality; everybody reacts to charm."

"Yeah," admitted Elmer, "and I'm for it, too, up to a point. But I think the personality theme has reached the point where the public is ripe for a swing the other way. This may be a sourpuss year."

Mr. Twitchell seemed quite serious about it. . . .

"I like a genial, warm personality as well as the next man," he continued. "I am a sucker for charm, like the rest of the American public. Ordinarily I will vote for a man who screens well over a candidate who has nothing but efficiency to recommend him. Nine times out of ten I will go for the candidate with an appealing radio voice over the fellow for whom nothing can be said except that he would make a good President. But I now want a sourpuss. And for once I can be spared by a candidate whose voice on the air sounds like somebody fling a saw."

"It's a very strange argument you are making, Mr. Twitchell," the reporter put in. "A smile and a radio voice are generally considered important assets in any campaign."

"That's what you think," barked Elmer. "I think there's a reaction. And it gives me a pain in the blouse to observe all the candidates on all sides grinning from ear to ear, trying to look like personality - plus boys on the screen and trying to register as the Voice of the Year on the radio. I tell you that if I was a candidate for public office today I would have my picture taken only when I looked like I was having an argument with a taxicab driver, and I would open all my radio speeches with, 'Well, folks, I am a punk on the radio; I don't intend to bother acquiring a technique. All I expect to do is to quote facts and figures in a dull voice.' This alone would make me a sensation."

"You wouldn't get to first base as a candidate for inspector of manhole covers," the reporter insisted.

"Maybe not," said Elmer. "But I still think otherwise. And I hope I am right, because no country can stand government by personality and microphone charm indefinitely. Ultimately a sourpuss is necessary medicine. In fact, I am busy on the idea. I have already started organizing the Sourpuss for President Clubs. No candidate with charm can even get close to us."

'I Could Kick Myself'

Have you ever said that, when you have missed an opportunity that stared you in the face, or done something against your better judgment?

If so, read on. A thoughtful mayor has provided an ingenious machine whereby you can kick yourself as often and as hard as you please. It's in a small town in South Carolina and was erected in 1937. You sit on a parallel bar and turn a handle. The handle rotates a windmill arrangement with four boots at the ends of it. As you turn, still full of annoyance with yourself, and believing that you thoroughly deserve it, the boots come round and administer a hearty kick in the pants.

You can then rise and go on your way, resolved that never again will you merit such self-punishment. Until next time!

ORCHARD SPRAYS

Washington county fruit growers who desire to apply a dormant spray on fruit trees or berry bushes, may do so at any convenient time in the near future before much leaf growth takes place. The dormant spray is chiefly a clean-up spray for the control of those insects who live during the winter under the bark of the trees or for oyster and San Jose scale.

A solution consisting of one part lime sulphur and ten parts water may be used. For safety and for convenience of application many fruit growers prefer to apply a three (3) percent solution of Sunoco oil which may be purchased from any chemical house.

Raspberries should be sprayed with the dormant lime sulphur solution for the control of anthracnose just as soon as the first leaf growth appears. Practically all farm orchards had considerable scab infection on the leaves of apple trees at the time of apple picking last fall. This means that the dead leaves on the ground are carrying the infection over and will with present weather conditions, (rainy and cool) result in much scab-iness of foliage and fruit before the summer is over.

HOW TO PREVENT SCAB INFECTION: Protection against heavy scab infection early in the season lies in frequent lime sulphur sprays during the early bud, leaf, and fruit development, using 2½ gallons of liquid lime sulphur to 100 gallons of water. THE FIRST SPRAY should be applied when the buds show a small green tip. Cover them thoroughly with the lime sulphur mixture and repeat with a SECOND SPRAY as soon as the first small leaflets make their appearance—this may be a week or more after the green tip spray was made.

THE THIRD SPRAY should be applied as soon as early blooming varieties such as Snow and Yellow Transparent are nearly in full pink and the application of this spray completed before the blossoms have opened. (If it happens that you must spray trees when in full bloom, be sure to omit the lead arsenate.)

County Agent

WHO AM I?

Seventy-Five Years Ago This Month The Whole World Was in Mourning for America's First Martyred President

"STOP THAT MAN!"—John Wilkes Booth flees across the stage of Ford's theater in Washington after firing the shot which ended the life of Abraham Lincoln. (From a drawing in Harper's Weekly, April 29, 1865.)

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IT IS the evening of April 14, 1865—Good Friday.

On the stage of Ford's theater in Washington the famous actress, Laura Keane, is playing in a delightful comedy, "Our American Cousin." Joining in the laughter that sweeps through the audience from time to time is a gaunt, sad-faced man sitting at ease in a high-backed, satin-upholstered rocking chair in an upper stage box. Abraham Lincoln is forgetting for a few minutes the crushing responsibilities which he, as Chief Executive of a nation torn asunder in civil war, has been bearing for four long years.

The third act of the play begins. The President leans over to whisper something to Mrs. Lincoln who sits beside him. Neither the Lincolns nor Maj. Harry R. Rathbone and a Miss Harris, who accompanied them to the theater, notice that a dark-moustached young man has slipped through the door at the rear of the box and is now standing behind the President.

The next moment there is the muffled sound of a shot. It is unnoticed by the players on the stage or the audience, still chucking over the last funny line they have heard. But the President's head drops forward on his breast.

Startled, Major Rathbone looks around. Through the smoke he sees the dark young man with a pistol in his hand and hears him mutter something which sounds like "Freedom!" The major leaps to his feet and grepples with the intruder, who slashes at him with a knife, tears loose from the officer's grasp and springs to the front of the box.

As he vaults over the railing, his spur catches in an American flag which drapes the front of the box. He drops heavily to the stage with one leg doubled under him, then scrambles to his feet. With blood streaming from his wounded arms, Rathbone rushes to the front of the box.

"Stop that man! Stop him!" he shouts. "The President has been shot!"

But everyone is too stunned to move for a moment. The young man, waving aloft the bloody knife, drags himself across the stage and disappears in the wings. But before he does so, the startled actors recognize in the white face and the black eyes blazing with fanatical hatred the familiar features of one of their own profession—John Wilkes Booth.

All this has taken place in less time than it takes to tell it. The next moment Ford's theater is a pandemonium of screaming women and shouting men, showing, pushing, breaking chairs, crashing through railings and trampling upon each other as they surge toward the stage or try to climb up to the box where the moaning Mrs. Lincoln is supporting her stricken husband and Major Rathbone is trying vainly to open the door which the assassin had barred from the inside.

Now the soldiers of the President's guard come bursting into the theater and with fixed bayonets and drawn pistols they charge the milling crowd. Their hoarse shouts of "Clear out! Clear out, you sons of hell!" rise above the tumult as they drive the half-crazed audience out of the theater. Meanwhile Rathbone has succeeded in unbaring the door to the box and several people, among them a surgeon, rush in. They see the tall form of the President slumped forward in his chair, his sad eyes closed, never to open again. Someone brings a shutter, torn from a building near by, and they lay his gaunt form upon it. They carry him out of the theater to the house of Charles Peterson across the street.

Ford's theater is empty, deserted now. Its curtain has been rung down upon the comedy, "Our American Cousin"—and upon one of the greatest tragedies in American history.

Death at 7:22 A. M. The next morning Washington newspapers carried this story: "The body of President Lincoln, who died from an assassin's bullet at 7:22 o'clock this morning, was removed from the Peterson residence opposite Ford's theater to the executive mansion in a hearse and wrapped in the American flag. It was escorted by a small squad of cavalry and by Gen. Augur and other military officials on foot. A dense crowd accompanied the remains to the White House, where a military guard excluded the people, allowing none but persons of the household and personal friends of the deceased to enter. Gen. Grant arrived here at 2 o'clock in a special train from Philadelphia. His presence tends somewhat to allay the excitement. The last lines penned by Mr. Lincoln were written on a card about 8:15 p. m., while seated in his carriage in front of the White House just before he started for the theater. They were addressed to the Hon. George Ashmun and were as follows: 'Allow Mr. Sherman and friends to come to me at 9 a. m. tomorrow.' 'A. Lincoln.'

Leaf through the pages of James G. Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress," published in 1886, and read there this description of the events which followed: "The remains of the late President lay in state at the executive mansion for four days. The entire city seemed as a house of mourning. The martial music which had been resounding in glad celebration of the national triumph had ceased; public edifices and private mansions were alike draped with the insignia of grief.

"Funeral services, conducted by the leading clergymen of the city, were held in the east room on Wednesday, the 19th of April. Amid the solemn tolling of church bells, and the still more solemn thundering of minute guns from the vast line of fortifications which had protected Washington, the body, escorted by an imposing military and civic procession, was transferred to the rotunda of the Capitol.

"The day was observed throughout the Union as one of fasting and prayer. Services in the churches throughout the land were held in unison with the services at the executive mansion, and were everywhere attended with exhibition of profound personal grief.

"Throughout the Confederate states, where war had ceased but peace had not yet come, the people joined in significant expressions of sorrow over the death of him whose very name they had been taught to execrate.

"Early in the morning of the 21st the body was removed from the capitol and placed on the funeral car which was to transport it to its final resting place in Illinois. The remains of a little son who had died three years before were taken from their burial place in Georgetown and borne with those of his father for final sepulture in the stately mausoleum which the public mind had already decreed to the illustrious martyr. The train which moved from the national capital was attended on its course by extraordinary manifestations of grief on the part of the people.

As for the story of that sorrowful journey westward, no one has ever told it better than Carl Sandburg, poet and Lincoln biographer. The closing words of his masterpiece "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years," (published this year by Harcourt, Brace and Company)—words whose stark simplicity remind one of such writings as the Gettysburg Address—are these:

"There was a funeral. "It took long to pass its many given points. "Many millions of people saw it. "The line of march ran seventeen hundred miles. "Yes, there was a funeral. "From his White House in Washington—where it began—they carried his coffin, and followed it nights and days for twelve days. "Bells tolling, bells sobbing the requiem, the salute guns, cannon rumbling their inarticulate thunder. "To Springfield, Illinois, the old home town, the Sangamon nearby, the New Salem hilltop nearby, for the final rest of the cherished dust. "And the night came with great quiet. "And there was rest. "The prairie years, the war years, were over."

When Mr. and Mrs. Clem Farenkamm, Loma Rica, Calif., went deer hunting they took with them their son, Stanley, age 12. Stanley was left to guard the car while they delved into the tall timber. While Stanley was waiting, a big buck came by, so he shot it with a .22 rifle. The parents returned later—sans buck.

"The Name Is Familiar"

By FELIX B. STREYCKMANS and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A Garrison Finish THEY said you couldn't possibly do it, that you hadn't a ghost of a chance to win. But in the last moment you "came through" and won—and that was a "garrison finish." It's called that because it's the way Edward H. ("Snapper") Garrison, one of the most famous jockeys in American turf history, won a race in 1866 when he came from nowhere with an outsider, to take the Great Eastern handicap at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y.

E. H. Garrison

The term stuck to "Snapper," who never liked "front runners." He held 'em back until they reached the stretch where, as he was accustomed to remark, "the money is." Garrison's most famous race was his victory on Boundless in the World's Fair Derby in Chicago in 1893. On one pretext or another, such as fixing his straps and his saddle, he delayed the start for an hour and 42 minutes. He spent most of this time on the ground, thus keeping the weight off his horse, while the other jockeys fumed and their horses wore themselves down prancing and plunging.

"Snapper" was fined $1,000 for delaying the race but he didn't care. He looked Boundless, a 15 to 1 shot, home in first place and that "garrison finish" was worth just $60,000 to his owner!

Silhouette

THE silhouette got its name from Etienne de Silhouette, who was not an artist but the French minister of finance in 1759.

By sheer economy, he tried to remedy the evils of war that had just ended, leaving the country financially exhausted. He enforced so many rules that only very plain living was possible for even those who had money.

Clothes were made without folds or frills, snuff boxes were of plain wood and table plate had to be melted down to provide money.

So it was that everything came to be a la Silhouette, which meant very plain and in its simplest form. And about this same time there originated the fad for having portraits done merely in outline—no colors, no details—in other words, just in their plainest and simplest form. They were known as pictures a la Silhouette.

Etienne de Silhouette's rules were too strict and the people rebelled. After only nine months Finance Minister Silhouette was forced to resign and the people went back to their customary ornate ways of life. But the outline pictures remained in vogue and they were called silhouettes in memory of the man who tried to take away all the color and glamour from the French people.

Morris Chair

THE next time you sink back into the comfort of that old morris chair, you might remember gratefully the man who made it possible for you. He was an Englishman named William Morris. Born in 1834, he was successively—and successfully—a poet, an architect and a painter. He built a house in which furniture, wall paper, drapes and household utensils were all specially designed.

That suggested a new occupation—interior decorator. With several others, Morris organized a firm which did all sorts of interior decorating. Out of the work of this firm, devoted to the "revival of sounder ideas of construction and workmanship" and to winning the English "back to the massive simplicity of plain oak furniture" came the chair which bears the name of this "painter, designer, scribe, illuminator, wood engraver, dyer, weaver and finally printer and papermaker."

Oh, yes! He was also interested in politics, first as a Liberal and then as a Socialist, for whom he wrote a rallying song, "Chants for Socialists." But when they drifted toward anarchism, he lost confidence in the movement and went back to his first love, the arts, to which he devoted himself until his death in 1896.

National Park Visitors

Travelers from 22 foreign countries, five United States possessions, the 48 states and the District of Columbia were among the 361,787 visitors to Mount Rainier National park last year. It was the second largest number of visitors in history.

When Mr. and Mrs. Clem Farenkamm, Loma Rica, Calif., went deer hunting they took with them their son, Stanley, age 12. Stanley was left to guard the car while they delved into the tall timber. While Stanley was waiting, a big buck came by, so he shot it with a .22 rifle. The parents returned later—sans buck.

Peace Is Restored

By JANE FIELDING (McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

TED SANDERS had come to this little mountain town in California for peace and atmosphere essential to the brain worker, and he sential to escape the distracted alone to wamankind. For company tions of wamankind, he he kept only an alreale dog, and he by way of unhappy diversion, he cooked his own meals.

Flo Donegan lived in a cozy cottage next door, and her screened-in living room was directly opposite his study windows. For companionship she kept a cat. It was sickening to see the way she pampered the thing—letting it sleep on a cushion, and all that sort of thing.

That woman, Ted judged, must be the usual cat-loving old maid. Terrence (the dog), and Pom-Pom (the cat), were not quiet and self-effacing neighbors; they found life monotonous without a daily scrap; and they did their best to relieve that monotony. During their encounters the air was punctuated with barks and howls and caterwauls.

Not infrequently Ted and Flo became involved in the scrimmages. With the first weapon ready at hand Flo would fly to the rescue of the furry would demand of Ted that he "call off his brute." Ted, with equal energy, anathemized that "demon" of hers. Altogether the four of them failed to live in restful harmony.

How could a man concentrate under such conditions? Back into his study he would stamp, and try to settle down to the task upon which he was engaged. A look across to that screened room where she could be seen sitting sewing or reading peacefully revealed to him the shallowness of the feminine mind—and yet, confounded it! She looked so deucedly comfortable—and so did the cat.

One day things came to a climax. An unusually vigorous and vociferous row had been staged by Terrence and Pom-Pom—and, in consequence, an equally vigorous row in battle between the humans. Flo, in the course of her frantic lunges at the "big brute" tripped and fell. There was nothing else to do so Ted picked her up and carried her into her house. This, however, only aggravated matters, and the battle still raged. "See here, Miss Donegan, why in thunder do you make such a fool of yourself over a cat? Why don't you get rid of it? What are you going to do about it anyway, for this sort of bedlam can't continue?"

A quick glance around revealed to him a mighty pretty room, with books, books galore. Flo, between breaths, had thought that he might even be interesting. This thought was immediately swallowed up in fury at his suggestion concerning her Pom-Pom. She fairly choked at the audacity of the man. "Oh! Oh! Do you mean kill my cat and let your beastly dog live—not if I!"

Suddenly they became conscious of cessation of hostilities without, and silence that could be felt. There stood the "big brute" on Pom-Pom's side of the lot, with an idiotic daggish grin spreading over his ugly mug, looking down upon his feline foe, who was—contentedly rubbing herself against his legs, and purring her supreme satisfaction.

Flo and Ted took it all in at a glance, then their eyes met in mutual understanding of the situation. By George! but she was pretty when she smiled, with that lurking humor in her eyes! Intelligent, too! Anyone could see that.

Scraps? Yes! to relieve the intolerable boredom of a too civilized life. Had the humans been at all aware of animal psychology they might have known by the noisiness of the encounters, that the cause was not deep-rooted. Animals (including the human) when in earnest, fight grimly and silently to a finish. These scrimmages were like the quarrels of children at play, that pass away with—in fact are part of—the game. At heart the friendship was secure.

A whiff from the kitchen broke the spell. They dined together that night, while Terrence and Pom-Pom, at peace with the world and with each other, waited expectantly.

In fact, on many more evenings the four of them dined together, and there were long talks, not alone upon scientific subjects, but upon the more intimate personal inter-while, with stomachs well filled, the other two slept the sleep of perfect peace.

It is wonderful, the satisfying effect of a good meal, especially if the material meal be accompanied by its intellectual counterpart.

To say that Ted and Flo were happy ever after would be begging the subject, for such a state of perfect unchangeable felicity would tend to degeneracy. A good, healthy, occasional scrap helps to clear the atmosphere, and, like an electric storm, its effects are purifying.

But Ted and Flo lived to enjoy and respect each other's mental contributions to their general store of knowledge, and were perfectly satisfied with life as they found it.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK. — Paul Reynaud, who was asked to form a new French cabinet, and successor to Premier Daladier, put through the French-British monetary and economic accord of last December, and even before the start of the war was an advocate of a close financial union between the two countries as the first bulwark of their joint defense. For several years, he has been studying English finance and history, insisting that both nations must abandon their old plan of remaining apart in the matter of monetary and economic relationships.

Premier Desires British-French Monetary Union

He is a lawyer, financier and economist, minister of finance since October, 1938. In the chamber of deputies, he represents a "big business" section of Paris and has contended vigorously against "governmental meddling in business." In 1935 and 1936 he made a courageous fight for the devaluation of the franc, an issue which is always loaded in France and always sidestepped by more cautious politicians. His business sagacity was demonstrated in the summy of 1929, when he warned all and sundry that a big smash was coming, and withdrew all of his securities from the market.

He is as direct, decisive and fiery as Daladier is ponderous and meditative, and for many years has been making prophecies more gloomy than cassandra's foredoom of Troy, as he urged France to prepare for the worst. He parts his hair in the middle, strings with the Alliance Democratique, a center group, and has never been classified as either right or left. He is said to be "too intelligent to be liked," and does not seem to mind. He is small and alert, only slightly gray at 60, carefully groomed and the master of a verbal short jab which seldom invites a return engagement for anyone inclined to mix with him.

He was a holdout on Laval's deal to give Mussolini a green light in Ethiopia and in this connection warned France that it had better be looking to its empire. In politics since 1919, in the chamber since 1928, he was previously minister of finance in Tardieu's cabinet. He comes of a family high in the mountains of Barcelonnette, of a clan which has extensive holdings in several foreign countries, including Mexico.

BUILDING more stately mansions for his soul, Fritz Mandl, the Austrian munitioneer, runner-up for Zaharoff, was interrupted by Adolf Hitler. In a New York municipal court, an Austrian architect sues Mr. Mandl for payment for designs for a new wing on his Alpine castle, when he was married to Hedy Lamarr, the screen star, now the wife of Gene Markey, Hollywood producer. The castle and the plans were a war casualty, but Mr. Mandl is sitting pretty in Argentina, the Hidalgo of a great estate, and getting a fast running start with new steel and munitions plants in the land of the pampas.

He fooled Hitler. His great arms plants, including the Hirtenberg plant, were supposed to be worth about $60,000,000. That was a nice, fat grouse for the Nazi nimrod, but when Der Fuehrer moved in, he found the great plants just a hollow shell, the securities long since liquidated and Mr. Mandl at a safe nose-thumbing distance with his former fortune remaining more or less intact.

Now 40 years old, round-faced and merry, he was a playboy in his youth, but stayed on the job in his later years. The munitions works were a family holding, founded by his grandfather, Sigmund, and expanded by his father, Alexander. He was an associate of the fallen Prince Ernst Ruediger von Star-herberg in the Vienna putsch of 1934—not at all interested in political ideologies, and smarter than the prince in both making a get-away from Hitler and from Germany as well as being able to save his fortune.

NOT a refugee fortune, but the in makings of a new one appears Nazi, who also found a hole in the canized Arnold Bernstein shipping burned and his newly recruited ships are running cargoes to Europe here last October, from a Nazi jail, blocked marks had landed him. At gets a new start.

WILLIAM L. AUSTIN, director of the census, was born on "Hurricane farm" in Mississippi. He is an easy-going citizen, in the yet headed for a cyclone cellar as sus heads into a low barometer. He about census data. In 1936, he re- that the law did not allow the release of census information, "even to the justice department."

CHAPTER VII—Continued

"It's not talk Turkish politics, but I bear nothing else all day," said Banbury, "to a cafe chantant," suggested to get my mind off my troubles," replied Jebb.

"The admission was only two piastres, or ten cents apiece. The price of the small till the musicians began to play, then it seemed excessive. Banbury chose a table and the waiter brought them coffee. Banbury rejected it with horror and begged to be excused from drinking it. Jebb, who was sitting in front of him, Jebb looked at a fat neck and short, bristly hair of distinctly French extraction. He looked at Jebb, stared, turned away, turned back, looked uneasy, angry, suspicious, puzzled.

"What was that all the while the waiter was doing?" Jebb wondered what all the while the waiter was doing. He was sure he had never seen him before. At length the waiter rose and left the hall, and Jebb gave his soul to the Miserere of "Il Trovatore."

But having found his alias, how was he to retrace his route? Long after midnight he sat in his room, pondering his forehead with his fist to beat out an idea, and finally one came like a spark from a smitten anvil.

"The tasker!"

He could hardly endure the delay till morning, and he was waiting at the station when the fat recorder of passports waddled in and squeezed into his chair.

And so he set forth on his 24-hour journey to Constantinople.

And at length after much delay he unearthed the document.

"Yes, effendi, here is the permission for V. Pierpont Effendi to travel from Constantinople into the interior. It carries the visa of Salonica in the writing of my assistant. I was absent that day."

"May I ask the date, and the name of the man who issued the tasker?"

The recorder held it out for him to see, and Jebb wrote down the name of the official and his address in Constantinople. He could hardly control his excitement as he said:

"One more question, effendi, when is the next train to Constantinople? Shall I have time to go back to my hotel before it leaves?"

"I think so, effendi," smiled the Turk, shaking like a vat of jelly; "the train to Constantinople runs three times every week, and the next train leaves tomorrow."

Another twenty-four hours of inaction! It seemed that he could not tolerate the delay. He was finished with Salonica, so impatient to be quit of it that he was tempted to set out for Constantinople on foot. He actually climbed the steep hillside, through the Turkish quarter.

Young girls hung about the fountains filling their jugs, and a dozen times Jebb saw some profile, some little form that suggested Cynthia. But he was all too well assured that she was not in Salonica.

He kept walking and late in the afternoon he reached the southern limits of the city, where houses were few and fields broad. In the distance he saw a splendid palace in a great garden surrounded by a high wall. He skirted the edges and continued on his way till it began to grow dark. Seeing that the sunset was purpling Mt. Olympus and that night would soon be upon him, he turned back.

He was startled by distant cries. He saw people running here and there. Suddenly a little veiled figure came out of the twilight and the shrubbery close to him. Jebb thought that some poor Turkish wife was fleeing from murder or persecution. He determined to offer her his protection. He ran towards her shouting in English. As he came up the little veiled figure drew two revolvers and fired at him.

The bullets whirred past his ears. He would have been glad to retreat but his impetus carried him forward, and it was momentum rather than any foolhardy bravery that led him to leap at the murderer and wrestle with her for her revolvers, which continued to spit fire in a very feminine way and fortunately with feminine aim.

In the highly indecorous wrestle for life, the fugitive's thick yashmak was torn loose, and Jebb saw that his infinite amazement that the little lady wore a heavy beard, and was a little old man.

The captive kept uttering violent threats in a violent way; then he began to plead shrilly. But Jebb had lost his Turkish along with his breath and his patience; and he simply held his prisoner fast, till the pursuers arrived. They gazed with awe at the scene, pouring forth horrified sentences in which Jebb caught the word "Padishah!"

He nearly swooned as it came over him that the little old gentleman in the disheveled ferije and veil was no less—and no more—than Abdul Hamid I.

Each of the breathless pursuers laid hold on the royal captive, till he looked as many-limbed as the spider he had been always called. Turning to Jebb, the Turks, with such hands as were free, lifted the imaginary dust of homage to their breasts and brows.

Then in a cloud of real dust a mounted officer thundered up. He insisted that he was the dust under Jebb's feet, and introduced himself as Raouf Bey, a cavalry colonel or Miralay detailed as the guardian of the Sultan.

When the Allatini villa was reached and the Sultan snugly restored to his nest, Raouf invited Jebb to enter the carriage with him, and returned him to his hotel in state.

That night he was the guest at dinner of a group of Young Turkish leaders. The dinner was given in the home, the selamlik, of the wealthy Chekub Pasha. It was a stately affair—a procession of luxuries.

At Jebb's request Cranford Banbury was asked to attend as interpreter, though there was little need of him in this respect, since all of the Young Turks spoke French and German and some of them English.

After a long and flowery speech by a white-bearded Young Turk, who had spent part of his years in prison and part in exile, Jebb turned to Banbury with an anxious whisper:

"I didn't quite understand what he said last."

Banbury whispered back: "They want you to name some reward for your wonderful deed, cetera, et cetera. What would you like most, my boy?—the diamond star of the order of Nishani Osmanee, or a silver medal for saving life?—or will you have it in cash?"

Jebb did not hesitate about his answer:

"Tell them about the lost child and ask them if they can give me any help." Banbury drew forth a long story, which seemed to touch the guests deeply, for when he finished they all spoke at once, and Cranford explained:

"They promise you the aid of the whole nation, and say that nobody in Turkey shall feel himself too high or too busy to join in the search."

At the station, the next day, the Young Turk leaders gathered to wave him good luck, and as the train pulled out he heard them crying:

"Jebb Effendi, chok yasha! Jebb Effendi chok yasha!" And some who knew he understood French cried: "Vive le Monsieur Jebb!"

And so he set forth on his 24-hour journey to Constantinople and puffed at his cigar with his first genuine contentment, for he shuffled in his hands a sheaf of byurulus, letters of commendation to some of the chief personages of the empire.

CHAPTER VIII

The train was only six hours late, so that instead of arriving in the early morning light Jebb came in the full glow of the afternoon.

What chiefly overwhelmed Jebb as he rode through the streets in an araba, was the hugeness of the city—as large as ten Salonicas or fifty Uskubs—as large as if Boston, San Francisco, and St. Louis faced each other in one mass.

There were European hats enough in the crowd, but they were worn by foreigners. Some of the hats were so American that Jebb looked under them, counting on finding a face he knew. It seemed impossible that such a melee should not include some acquaintance of his.

A derby hat unmistakably American caught his eye and he turned to stare at it. At the same instant he heard a voice behind him, almost at his elbow.

"Hello, old man!—how's electricity?"

Jebb whirled so quickly that he nearly sprained his neck. He caught an over-the-shoulder grin and heard a Yankee chuckle. He could not recall the face or the voice, but the race was plainly his own.

The fellow-countryman moved on through the crowd. Jebb stood up to identify him, but saw only a glimpse of red hair. He was tempted to leap out and go in search. But a hamal carrying two huge barrels on his shoulders drifted between him and the wayfarer from sight. Jebb sank back in the araba, cudgeling his memory.

Why did he mention electricity? The next morning Jebb visited the American Consulate. But when he reached the consulate it was deserted. He was tempted to forswear his allegiance and become another Man Without a Country. But there was a gorgeous kavass at the door, who explained that the whole staff was away for a holiday.

With splendid condescension the kavass observed:

"These afternoon comes back one of the officers, Meester Rosen Effendi. He has some work to be did. If you are here again three-four o'clock you find him I think."

To kill time Jebb went on along the Grande Rue de Pera to Janni's restaurant, dawdled through his luncheon, and strolled about its gardens.

Dismissing before the consulate at three o'clock, Jebb was greeted by the kavass with the deference of expectancy and with palm open for baksheesh. Mr. Rosen was at his desk, preparing some trade reports, but he consented to see Jebb.

LAMB CHOPS EN CASSEROLE MAKE A "BUSY-DAY DINNER"

(See Recipes Below)

Busy-Day Meals

There's something about the first warm, sunny days of spring that makes a woman do her working clothes, roll up her sleeves and get started on house cleaning.

In spite of all the work involved, spring cleaning does give your spirits a lift. And it's very apt to spur you on to such heights that unless you've planned your cleaning campaign with all the finesse of an army general, the end of house cleaning is likely to find you with a shining, immaculate house, but an exceedingly weary body and a very disordered family! But with a definite plan of action to guide you, even your meals can be served on schedule, and they can be good meals; a simple meal with a hot main dish that can be partly prepared the day before, is one solution to the problem of how to keep your family well fed and happy even at house cleaning time.

Plan a meal that requires little watching, one that is easy to serve and one that won't be spoiled if it isn't eaten on the stroke of 12:00. Serve the meal "help-yourself-style," using paper plates and napkins, because these are the things that make hot meals practical even in the thick clean-up by flying brooms and dust mops.

You'll find worthwhile suggestions for busy-day meals, below.

Lamb Chops en Casserole.
(Serves 6)

8 lamb chops
1/4 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
15 small new potatoes
2 lbs. fresh peas, (2 cups shelled)
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter

Cut fat from the chops, sprinkle them with 1/4 teaspoon salt and few grains pepper and brown slightly on both sides. Arrange the chops around the sides of a shallow casserole, 2 quart size. In the center, place the scraped new potatoes and shelled peas. Add water, sprinkle with salt and put bits of butter over the top. Cover the dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) about 1 1/2 hours, or until the vegetables are tender.

Apple Crisp
(Serves 6)

6 tart apples (peeled and sliced)
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup general purpose flour
1/2 cup white sugar
3 tablespoons butter

Pare, core, and slice apples. Put in a greased baking dish. Mix together the brown sugar and the cinnamon, and sprinkle over apples. Pour water over all. Mix together the flour and the sugar, and cut in the butter. Sprinkle this crumbly mixture over the apples. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 to 55 minutes, or until apples are tender and top brown.

Busy-Day Cake.
(Makes one 8-inch cake)

1/4 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon flavoring extract
1 1/2 cups flour (cake flour preferred)
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt

Soften the butter by creaming. Then add sugar, unbeaten eggs, milk, flavoring extract, and the dry ingredients which have been sifted

Pa's Lima Beans and Sausage.

1 pound country sausage
2 medium sized onions (sliced)
1 can lima beans
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder

Shape sausage into flat cakes and pan fry, with the onions, until the sausage is done. Drain off all but 1/2 cup of the fat, add remaining ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes.

All in One Dinner.
(Serves 5-6)

3 cups raw potatoes (sliced)
2 teaspoons salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
6 loin pork chops
3 cups spanish onions (sliced)
1 tablespoon butter
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 1/4 cups sweet milk

In a greased casserole arrange a layer of the sliced potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Then add a layer of pork chops and season these with salt and pepper. Cover with a layer of onions. Dot with butter and season. Add additional layers of potatoes, chops and onions, as needed. Combine the tomato soup and the milk and pour into the casserole. Cover, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 1 1/2 hours.

Lowly Maggot an Aid To Flower Breeders

USE of the loathsome maggot in the development of more lovely flowers for the gardeners of the world constitutes a little-known phase of the science of flower breeding.

Often in his work the flower breeder obtains outstanding, single-plant specimens which give promise of becoming sensational, new flower creations. This remarkable plant individual must be protected from contamination (cross-pollination) by neighbor flowers. So the breeder encloses it, as it grows, in a muslin cage.

If the plant is to mature properly and produce seed, however, its flowers must be pollinated, but only with the pollen grains of that plant itself. Scientists call this "selfing."

Pollination by hand of all the caged plants on a flower breeding plot would be long, tedious work, so Gordon Morrison, Ferry-Morse Seed Station hybridist, enlists the aid of the maggot. It is the maggot of the objectionable blowfly, moreover. Blowfly maggots in the pupae stage are placed in the flower cage, subsequently maturing into flies. The insects are extremely active and they fly from flower to flower on the caged plant, doing an excellent job of spreading pollen from one blossom to another. The plant then proceeds to produce its prized crop of seed.

Thus the long-despised maggots do their part to help make the world more beautiful. Even so, let's hope flower breeders find a way to put them out of existence after they have done their pollination chore.

Oneness of Spirit

What attracts men to one another is not a common point of view but a consanguinity of spirit.—Marcel Proust.

Chinese Accents of Universal Appeal

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

Chinese decorative accents are probably the only motifs we have that literally go anywhere—with period or modern furniture, with brilliant or subtle colorings. The reason for the adaptability of Chinese ornaments is that the decorations brought into Europe by early traders from the Sixteenth century on were the inspiration for much of the work of European craftsmen then and later. For centuries it was impossible to supply the demand for Chinese ornaments though all the ships were beating a steady path to China's ports and coming back laden with beautiful porcelains, brocades and metal wares. It is less easy to explain the successful combination of Chinese ornament with modern design unless one simply puts it down to the unquestioned universality of Chinese ornaments.

The use of Chinese details in decoration is doubly interesting when one knows the symbolic meanings of the more familiar motifs. The horse, for instance, represents one of the eight horses that carried an ancient emperor to the gods, the horse thereby becoming immortal. The growling little Foo dog is regarded as the guardian of the family wealth, and with him on duty the spirits are said to leave the household safely alone. The bat is the symbol for good luck, while the phoenix signifies immortality, the peacock wealth and honor. The Yin and Yang symbols symbolize the male and female or the Adam and Eve balance in nature and are interpreted by a circle divided by a curved line. The butterfly and the familiar pair of fishes signify love and marital bliss. The duck also stands for love, while the cock symbolizes domestic harmony.

The strange little pots and pans of curious shape are taken from the classic hundred household treasures. The peach design symbolizes long life. The god of longevity, often used in decorative design, may be easily recognized by his high forehead.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

MOTHER writes: "I have enjoyed using the embroidery stitches in SEWING Book 2. I find a great deal of pleasure in handwork for the dresses of my little five-year-old, and am particularly interested in smocking."

Here is a trick that is useful for making honeycomb smocking in points without a special pattern. The fullness of any dress may be basted into tucks of graduated length, as at A. Even a little fullness in the center front or at the neckline may be smocked in one or two points. Always baste the center front tuck first and then work each way from it. The smocking starts at the left and is done with colored thread. Begin at the top of the second tuck. Catch it to the tuck at the left with three stitches. Work from the top down along each tuck as shown. The stitch at B is made by sliding the needle along inside the tuck.

NOTE: If you like to do handwork you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' Book 2. It contains directions for making 42 embroidery stitches with their authentic names. Also illustrations of five processes of mending fabrics;

Making Amends Was Bit Out of Paperhanger's Line

Whitley was having some decorating done, including the re-papering of the dining-room and the bath-room. His wife was away, so he left the men on the job when he went to business.

When he returned they were just finishing. But there had been some mistake. The dining-room paper was in the bath-room, while the dining-room showed an elegant design in green tiles and purple water-lilies.

"What are you going to do about it?" demanded the householder.

"I dunno," said the paperhanger, scratching his head. "I'd willingly move the bath—but it's a plumber's job."

SHE'S not a Ph.D. or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she will deserve the title of "Research Professor of Economy." She discovers them after them, as the years roll on, combining high quality with low.

It is clear to you at once that you . . . and all who make and keep a home . . . have the same opportunity. With the help of newspaper advertising you, too, can graduate from the school of indiscriminate buying into the faculty of fastidious purchases!

SPRING SPORTS

With spring officially and yet unofficially here, the boys have been practicing up for the baseball season.
Coach Gibson says that about 27 of the school fellows have reported for spring practice and that despite the bad weather, they hope to get going before long on some real practice. Another record season is what we want, fellows.

—KHS— WHO'S WHO

This sophomore boy is liked by all who know him. Witty, clever, and full of fun, he doesn't have to look for friends, they look for him. He is of medium height and has dark brown hair and gray eyes. One of his biggest problems seems to be to get his algebra done in third hour study hall.
He finds talking to the senior girls great fun, and we understand that he enjoys a good baseball game any day.
Last week—Bob Schmidt.

—KHS— HOBBY SHOW

In the Hobby show held in the high school Thursday evening, the junior class entered an exhibit on Wisconsin which was made in conjunction with their study on the history and outstanding features of this state. Among the interesting exhibits were several on state parks, cheese, dairying and lumbering. Miniature buildings and industrial products served to illustrate the wealth and charm of our state. Students who worked on it seemed to enjoy setting it up as well as studying for the project.

—KHS— CHIEFTAIN STARTED

Gathering together material for this year's annual has been the task of the senior class for the past few weeks.
The pictures which were taken last fall will be used for it and various groups have been assigned to write up the activities of the school. The completed publication will be sold sometime during the last week in May.

—KHS— LIBRARY RECEIVED ADDITIONS

At the suggestion of the librarian,
Miss Lorenz, and several other faculty members, a number of new books have been secured for the K. H. S. library. The selections were made to offset some books which it has been seen fit to discard since they have been declared out of date and are, therefore, worthless. Included in the collection of new books are: Jaffe's
"The Great Chemists," Lambert and Goodwin's "Minute Men of Life," and a collection of the famous Will Rogers stories. Several bright new fiction books are also to be seen on our shelves.

—KHS— BAND GIVES CONCERT

Thursday afternoon during the last hour, the entire school was entertained by the high school band, which gave its first concert of the year before the student body. The band has appeared a number of times at the various high school games, but this was the first stage appearance. Included among the numbers on the program were: "Iron Count Overture,"

"Organ Melody," and "Kentucky Dream."

—KHS— MISSION HOUSE CONCERT

Friday afternoon the high school and invited outsiders were entertained in the auditorium by the Mission House Troubadours, under the direction of Theophil Voecks. The program, which was the one used by the group for their annual concert tour, was made up entirely of sacred numbers with everything from Palestrina and Bach to Gounod and Wagner included.
The entire program was a great treat for those who heard it and especially so when the encore numbers proved to be selections from the college show which were in a decidedly lighter vein.
The latter were conducted by a student director and one of the program numbers was accompanied by Mr.
Voecks himself. All hope that we may be privileged to hear the choir another year.

—KHS— DID YOU KNOW

1. That we hope spring is here—
we've seen robins?
2. That the Juniors have the worst problem of getting trees to grow on card tables?
3. That Lloyd Petermann likes to have his hair combed?
4. That we know several of the supposedly secret dates for the prom?
5. That the senior class play is April 25 and 26—not much time left?
6. That some people seem to be reading the new books?
7. That the girls are all flutter about the style show?
8. That the senior class poem certainly hits some things well?
9. That Frank and Beulah have the note-writing habit?
10. That "Down by the Old Mill Stream" was well appreciated the other day?
11. That somebody brought Mr. Gibson a peace offering of candy not very long ago?
12. That some seniors don't know why they have to study Dickens?
13. That just to be different we are going to end on number 13

Twenty-five Years Ago

(Saturday, April 10, 1915)
Mrs. Barbara Smass, 83, died recently at the asylum in West Bend.
She was a former resident of Wayne, Ashford and St. Killian. The remains were shipped to Kewaskum by train and transported by team to St. Killian where the funeral and burial took place.

The West Bend Brewers were vic-

the sophomore water basketball team, which won from the freshmen by a score of 4 to 2.

A deal was made whereby Jacob Mueckelherde became the owner of the Peter Kohn farm of 60 acres in the town of Kewaskum.

Word was received of the death of Carl Gunther of Port Washington. Mr.
Gunther was well known here, having made his home in this village with the N. J. Mertos family occasionally every year. He was a veteran of the Civil war.

The following were confirmed: Ev.

Tuberculin Test To Be Given School Children

The Washington county board, through the office of the county nurse, is giving the parents an opportunity of finding out if their children are free from tuberculosis by offering to the children the tuberculin test without charge.

The tuberculin test will be given in cities and villages throughout the county. According to the schedule released by the county nurse the place and time for the local tests will be the Kewaskum High school from 8:30 to 9 a. m. on Monday, Apr. 15. The reading of the tests is scheduled for 1 to 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday, Apr. 17 at the local school.

The following questionnaire will explain a few of the questions frequently asked:

What is the tuberculin test?
The tuberculin test is a harmless skin test that tells whether or not the germs that cause tuberculosis have entered the body.

If I do not react to the tuberculin test, what does it mean and what should I do?

No reaction to the test usually shows that the germs are not present in the body. But because there is danger that at any time in your life you may be exposed unknowingly to the germs causing tuberculosis, you should be retested annually.

If I react to the test, what does it mean and what should I do?

If you react to the test, it shows that the living germs that cause tuberculosis are present in the body. In order for you to know whether these germs are causing any harm, or whether you may have tuberculosis of the lungs you should have an X-ray examination of your chest.

What is an X-ray?

The X-ray is a scientific electric ray which penetrates certain solid materials, such as the chest wall, thus enabling the doctor to study the lungs and heart. The X-ray machine, like a camera, uses a film and takes a picture of the chest area.

If, after an X-ray examination, the doctor says I am all right, can I feel safe from tuberculosis?

When the doctor says you are all right, he means that at the time he examines you or at the time that the X-ray film is studied, there is no evidence of tuberculosis that the doctor can see. But no one at any time can feel safe from tuberculosis, because there is constant danger that you may have intimate contact with an unknown case of the disease, or that the germs already in your body may spread to and involve new areas and cause you to become sick. Therefore, even though you may be perfectly healthy at the time the doctor examines you, you must guard your health by being re-examined every 3 to 12 months, according to the doctor's recommendation.

"No home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe."

MEMORIAL
In sad and loving remembrance of our dear husband and loving father,
Frank Ehnert, who died April 4, 1940:
Day by day we saw you fade and gently pass away,
Yet in our hearts we always hoped that you would longer stay;
If love and care could death prevent,
Your days would not so soon be spent;
Although life was desired, it could not be.
Eternal rest was meant for thee.
But forget you, no we never will,
We loved you here and we love you still;
It was a bitter pain, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear;
Oft we think of you dear husband and loving father,
And our hearts are sad with pain.
All this world would be a heaven,
Could we have you home again;
Just one week ago you left us,
How we miss your loving face;
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Frank Ehnert and family.

CARD OF THANKS
To those who expressed their sympathy in so many beautiful and practical ways during our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Frank Ehnert, we extend our heartfelt thanks. We also wish to thank the Rev. Walter Stroschein, the who loaned cars, for the floral offerings, those who attended the funeral and all who assisted in any way.

Report No. 11

WASHINGTON COUNTY PARK COMMISSION ANNUAL REPORT - 1939

The idea of county planning has been in the minds of many people for several years and this idea crystallized early in 1939 after a few conferences with the State Planning Board.

On August 14 Mr. Guido Schroeder, Chairman of the County Board, appointed the following members to serve the following terms on the Washington County Park Commission:

- B. C. Ziegler, West Bend, Wis., 7 years
Paul Horlamus, West Bend, Wis., R. 5, 6 years
George Sell, Hartford, Wis., 5 years
Otto Lay, Kewaskum, Wis., 4 years
Dr. C. M. Herman, Allenton, Wis., 3 years
Walter Boettcher, Richfield, Wis., 2 years
Dr. Herman Weber, Newburg, Wis., 1 year

In compliance with the Wisconsin Statutes, an organization meeting was promptly held at the Court House on August 21, 1939. Besides the members of the board, the following were in attendance:

- Mr. Guido Schroeder, County Board Chairman
Mr. H. J. Riley, County Highway Commissioner
Mr. M. W. Torkelson and Mr. J. M. Albers of the Wisconsin State Planning Board

The following were elected officers: B. C. Ziegler, Chairman, West Bend, Wis. George Sell, Vice-Chairman, Hartford, Wis. Dr. C. M. Herman, Secretary, Allenton, Wis.

Considerable time was spent in discussing the job before the Park Commission, and a general objective was stated as follows:

General objective of park commission: To suggest a plan for the economic and orderly development of Washington County; for the safe and economic development of the Highway System; for the preservation of property values through the elimination of uses executed in improper places; for the protection of health and sanitation. This plan will consider such subjects as the following:

- 1. Set-back lines on various types of highways.
2. Zoning for uses by commercial, agricultural, forestation, recreation, and residential uses.
3. Width and character of future highways.
4. Size of lots and uses in land subdivisions.
5. Automobile graveyards.
6. Dump grounds and incinerators.
7. Reforestation.
8. Protection of capital invested in rural homes.
9. Acquisition of land for county purposes.
10. Program of education.

The State Planning Board has prepared or is preparing the following studies of Washington County:

- 1. A topographical map.
2. A map showing the forest-covered lands.
3. A generalized soils map which will distinguish the land as being good, fair, or poor agricultural land.
4. A map showing the present location and use of all rural buildings in the county.
5. A map showing the presently owned public property within the county.

The State Planning Board has also begun a preliminary study of district boundaries, which will define the various uses districts which may be established under the county zoning ordinance. These various studies will be used by the State Board in making a tentative comprehensive plan for Washington County, which plan will be presented to your local commission in the near future. It will be the job of the Park Commission to review and revise this tentative plan and then to present it to the County Board with the suggestion that the Board pass it as an ordinance. The Wisconsin statutes provide that this ordinance will be effective in only those towns which approve it, but not in incorporated areas.

While the state board is at work on the tentative comprehensive plan, the County Park Commission has attended to publicity of its organization meeting; has helped to arrange a program before the local Chamber of Commerce, at which Mr. Torkelson and Mr. Albers of the State Planning Board were speakers; and has gathered material on county planning from many sources. It has also participated in advisory activities consistent with its stated objective. The Commission has had opportunities to give advice to a few persons who were contemplating building, and it has attended to correspondence relative to our County's plans.

It is the plan of the Commission to continue its advisory activity during the coming year and to complete a comprehensive plan for Washington County as quickly as is conformable to sound procedure. It is the ambition of the Commission to present and execute the best possible plan for Washington County so that mistakes can be avoided and money saved for the taxpayers.

This report is dated November 21, 1939, and presented to the Washington County Board for its information.

Poultry Department (Club Only) table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

In this department the number of exhibitors during the year was well above the number of exhibitors of 1938. In 1937 there were however, a few more exhibitors than in 1939. Poultry club work is its peak in 1937.

Garden Department table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

From the premium money paid out as shown in the above table would appear that the number of exhibits in the vegetable department had more than doubled. The fact is that during the past year the number of exhibits had increased about 50%. The reason for the big increase in premium money over past years is because the vegetable exhibits have been divided into a junior and senior class. Exhibitors under 14 years of age exhibit in the junior division, while those over 14 years of age exhibit in the senior division. Two additional premiums for each entry in both divisions have also been added to the premium list.

Handicraft Department table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

A healthy growth is evidenced in this department. This is due to increased interest in handicraft work. One new club, the Boltonville Club, of which Karl Dettmann is leader, is showing its major interest toward handicraft activities.

Forestry Club table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The growth of forestry club activities is evidenced when we compare the amount of premium money paid out in 1937 with that paid out in 1939. This is due to more forestry projects carried on in 1939.

Canning Department (Open Class) table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

A large increase in the open class canning exhibits took place in 1939. The entries in this department are apt to fluctuate from year to year due to changes in weather conditions from one year to the next. Good and good fruit years mean that the canning entries at the fair are increased.

Canning Department (4-H Club) table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The 4-H Club canning exhibits like the exhibits in most of the departments of the fair show an increase in number of exhibits as premium money paid them.

Culinary Department (Open Class) table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

In the open class culinary department a healthy growth was evidenced in 1939. This was due to the fact that adults as well as 4-H club members are taking renewed interest in the fair.

Clothing Department table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The growth in number of exhibitors in the clothing project is largely due to the fact that an emphasis was placed on this project in 1939. More girls were enrolled in clothing. More teaching in the home was done with the girls directly and also to the leaders by the agent. This additional teaching had an effect in that more girls completed their projects and were able to exhibit.

Foods and Nutrition (4-H Club) table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The revised premium list introduced a system of ranking of exhibits in the first three years of the home economics project. This system permitted several garments to receive blue ribbons if they deserved. Several more received red or good ribbons, a few more white or fair ribbons. The cash awards were smaller than in the old first, second and third prize system of awards but more girls were satisfied when their year's work received recognition.

Educational Booths table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The number of educational booth exhibits has increased in the same proportions during the past three years. These booth exhibits prepared by and entered in the name of the exhibitor. A club may have more than one booth, but in the name of the club as a whole. Such money is usually used by the club to pay expenses during the active club year.

Late Fair table showing Entries and Paid Out for 1937, 1938, 1939.

The Late Fair usually held during the first week in October shows of corn, late potatoes and green fruits which includes apples, similar fruit has, like the other departments, made a good showing which is largely an open class show, is due to the Apple Show in connection with it.

I feel safe in saying that your County Fair has had an active year. We have almost reached the time when added funds will be used to run the fair on the same basis as upon which it was run during the past year.

The Fair is a free fair and as such is dependent on voluntary contributions, and from state and county aid. Our state aid is not sum not to exceed $1,400.00. And since this year more than your honorable money must be paid from local sources, it may be in the not too far distant future.

The County Board Fair Committee extends to the Board of Supervisors its cordial appreciation of the three new barns and the erected during the past year under the able supervision of the Fair Committee. When these buildings were planned it was thought that they would be adequate for the housing of all livestock exhibits entered at the fair during the past year. It is now evident that additional barn is much needed to provide the necessary housing for livestock entries. The Fair Committee suggests that consideration be given to this need during this session of the County Board of Supervisors.

Signed: E. E. SKALISKEY, County Agricultural Agent

Report No. 15 To The Honorable Board of Supervisors Washington County, Wisconsin Gentlemen:

This report to your honorable body is intended to be a partial summary of the activities carried out by the county agricultural agent's office during the past year. For the purpose of this report I have selected only a few of the more important projects which were carried out during the past year.

I. Orchard and Small Fruit Projects Farm orchard spray rings and improved bush and small fruit practices received during the past year thirty working days of the county agricultural agent's time. A total of 28 meetings were held. This does not include the many visits to orchards, spray rings and small fruit projects which were made in the number of farm visits it is second high on the list.

shepherd dog was upon him, his beauty and symmetry caught the fancy of both boys and girls. The binding and the picture sold the book. "Shall this book be left here" was answered by an enthusiastic "Sure."

At the conclusion of the demonstration it was indicated that one of the books left in this school according to critics of dog stories was the best dog story ever written. "Will you be able to find it?" was the last question. Then the children were asked to grant the demonstrator a favor. They readily agreed to do so. This request was left "If you like any of these books write me telling me anything you want to about them."

The letters were illuminating. A boy made this comment: "I liked 'Stickeen' because he was so happy when he got over the crevasse. 'I didn't think he would act that way.' A little girl wrote, 'I had to cry when Protasche and Nello died in each others arms.' She knew something of the devotion of a dog for a friend. Another reported his dislike for 'Friendly Village' by Zona Gale in no uncertain terms. 'I hated the thing.' He was a boy who read widely. Of course, these letters were answered personally. Then an avalanche of letters. All were carefully written and while it adds much to the postage bill of the office all letters were answered. It is money well spent. Many of the animal reading enthusiasts have read more than ten of the best dog stories.

There was no coercion to guide children into certain fields of interest. Some girls just don't like animal stories. "Heldi," "Caddie Woodlawn," "Nanette," "Little Women," "Little Men," "Gill of the Limebloss," and "Ramona" were read by them and those who had high reading scores read "Treasure Island," "The Spy," "Roland," "The White Stag," etc. Children became saturated in one field and of their own volition moved on to other fields. Many of the early animal story readers read two or three of the best Christmas stories.

Boys like the "Bird's Christmas Carol." They love little Carol and revel in the humor of Mrs. Ruggles. To date, four areas of interest have been experienced—animal stories, Christmas stories, adventure and travel. New fields are being explored and children are reading with a zest and understanding that is encouraging.

To further motivate their readings, Book Clubs were organized manywheres and it is a supervisory inspiration to sit in at a meeting of those clubs to hear informal discussion of books read. Many activities engage the attention of those clubs. A brief character sketch will be made, a dog story is told, a talk on the book like best, the most humorous book I read, a dramatization of a chapter of "Caddie Woodlawn," the sale of a book by a pupil to other pupils. All reactions of pupils to their readings must be kept on the level of the child's maturity. It would be a senseless waste of time to ask an eighth grade child to write a character sketch of Scrooge. It is a bid for insincerity and unfound judgment. Such an activity will not lead the children into a vital and personal love for reading. The 600 letters received from elementary children evidence the fact that if adults set the table the children are only too willing to refresh themselves.

While objective evidence is limited, to date some trends are discernible. First, instead of just reading anything children are beginning to read in specific areas.

Second, free reading is promoted by the reading of books about one year below the grade level of the child.

Third, children are not able to give a good reason for their likes or dislikes of books.

Fourth, children's reading interest is increased when they are called upon to give reactions to it.

The purpose of this intensive supervisory program was to reveal to teachers the need for definite guidance on the part of the children's free reading. During the year little assistance was asked of the teachers. However, the supervisory program continued for only two or three months when teachers began to take over much of the work and in many cases, toward the end of the year, teachers were functioning very definitely in the field of free reading. Evidence that this leisure eventuated is found in the number of books read by our one and two room children.

The total number as reported by the teachers at the end of the year was 35,000 by 1,500 children in the one and two room schools. This was an average of twenty-two books per child. This year the responsibility of this program rests entirely upon the teachers and commendable progress is made in this department of teaching.

Mr. Paul L. Justman, County Treasurer, gave his report to the county board. The motion was made by Mr. Koller and seconded by Mr. Hilt that the report be adopted and filed. Motion carried.

REPORT OF COUNTY HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT 1939

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors Washington County, Wisconsin Gentlemen:

A better picture of the 4-H and home demonstration program in Washington County during the past year can be given by studying the following brief summary of the activities of the home agent.

Summary of Activities

Table with 3 columns: Days, No., Attendance. Lists activities like Training meeting, Meetings held by local leaders, etc.

PROGRAM SUMMARY

Table with 5 columns: Days devoted to project, No. of Meetings held by agent & Specialist, No. of home visits made. Lists projects like Administration, Food and Nutrition, etc.

ADMINISTRATION

- 1. All 4-H clubs were met early in the year to help reorganize and to plan local club activities for the year with them. 2. Perhaps one of the biggest tasks of organization has been to secure and maintain adult and junior leaders and to give them help. The success of the club program depends upon interested and enthusiastic leaders.

Other Activities

- 1. Four county 4-H leaders meetings were held during the past year. 2. One home demonstration and two 4-H achievement programs were given. 3. Four judging schools were held this summer to teach good standards in foods, clothing, and canning. 4. Assistance was given to thirty-four girls who gave demonstrations at the county fair. 5. Nine girls who were county winners at the 4-H fair were given additional training before going to the state fair. 6. Five 4-H clubs held a joint gathering to recognize the "State 4-H Go to Church Sunday." 7. Five adult and junior leaders accompanied the home agent to the State 4-H Leaders Training Camp held in Madison. 8. Programs for the new year have been planned both for 4-H and home demonstration work. The program in home demonstration work was formed by sending out questionnaires to all women who had been enrolled in clubs. They checked their needs and interests. The chairman and secretary of each club then met at a county meeting and selected the program for the year using the questionnaires as a basis for their choice. The following demonstrations were selected:

- Dressing With A Plan (Make Overs) Achieving The Made To Order Effect (How to tailor garments made at home) Meat Cutting and Canning Upholstering (Two Meetings) Arranging the Family Living Room

The 4-H fair is perhaps the best measure of the activity of the 4-H clubs in the county. A large number of club members. Good exhibitors mean months of work for 4-H boys and girls. Because the home agent came to the county in the summer of 1937 the following table has been prepared which gives a comparison of the number of exhibits made at her first fair and the fair this year.

Table with 3 columns: Year, 4-H Classes, Increase. Shows 1937 (1127) and 1939 (1783) with an increase of 663.

ENTRIES AT THE 1937 AND 1939 FAIRS

Clothing has been a major project in both 4-H and home demonstration work this year. The 108 girls enrolled in clothing were given help at their project meetings by the home agent who met with most groups at least three times.

The following clothing meetings were given by the local leaders and the home agent to the home demonstration groups. Dry cleaning Safely at Home. Understanding the Commercial Pattern. The Attractive House Dress. The Paper Dress Form. Dressing With A Plan (Make Overs).

Foods and Nutrition

4-H girls in most of the clubs met regularly with local leaders for foods project meetings this year. Much interest was shown in foods demonstrations and judging. The following meetings were given to home makers clubs. Bread Making. Meat In Our Meals.

Child Training and Parent Education

The following open meetings were held in four sections of the county. They were given by two specialists in this field. Play and Play Materials. Emotions the Motive Power of Daily Life. Understanding How Children Develop Self Control.

After the meetings many fathers and mothers were very eager to discuss their child training problems with the psychologist.

Community Activities

Nine clubs participated in the county 4-H drama and music festival this year. All who attended agreed that the local leaders had done a fine piece of work training the boys and girls. An attempt has been made this year to have all clubs do more music work. Two music specialists met with leaders and club members on two occasions to get them started. At a program given for the West Bend Kiwanis Club one of the plays was given and a music group sang.

The 4-H clubs in the county were rewarded this fall when the Kiwanis club interested other business organizations in furnishing funds to send five leaders to a Recreation Training School. These leaders will act as a committee to train other men and women in recreational leadership.

Unclassified

Farm and Home Week, State Club Camp, Extension Conference, State Fair were attended. The knowledge gained at these meetings is most helpful when working with the 4-H and adult extension programs in the county.

Respectfully submitted, HELENA MUEHLMEIER, Home Agent

SECTION THREE

John Gehl presented the report of the Board of Trustees of the Oak Sanatorium to the board.
The motion was made by Mr. Koller and seconded by Mr. Muckerheide that the matter of the proposed relocation of the road at the Oak Sanatorium be referred to the District Attorney for an investigation and report. Motion carried.
The motion was made by Mr. Muckerheide and seconded by Mr. Snyder to adopt and file the report of Mr. John Gehl on the Oak Sanatorium.

Report No. 31

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:
We respectfully submit the report of the Superintendent and Medical Director of the Oak Sanatorium, and we report as follows. Inasmuch as the report of the Superintendent gives details concerning the work of the institution, we do not deem it necessary to make repetition of those statements.

We are entirely in accord with the Superintendent in that the care of the patient must be given the fullest consideration. The patient must have all the advantages of the modern treatment of tuberculosis in which the hope is that he may be returned to his home and society without being a menace to others by his presence. The further hope is that he may be returned to society economically. Knowing how these individuals must be removed from their homes and families for long periods of time, we appreciate that their return to their homes as early as possible is a justifiable procedure.

The work of the sanatorium in cooperation with the public health nurses and physicians in seeking all tuberculous individuals is commendable. Every effort should be made to detect or rule out the presence of tuberculosis in all persons who have been in contact with a known tuberculous individual.

We are in favor of the adoption of stringent rules concerning the tuberculin testing of all school teachers. The factor of spreading tuberculous infection from teacher to pupil should be absolutely eliminated.

Wherever tuberculous patients should be maintained at our institution rather than other county or state institutions. Running the institution at capacity, automatically lowers the per capita cost.

It would seem at this time that the operation costs for the entire year will be about the same as last year. We will need an additional $100,000.00 for repair of the boiler in the sanatorium building and painting of the walls and ceilings in the wards and halls in the institution. We do not surmise the need for any great capital outlay.

We believe that the Superintendent is doing commendable work in as administrative capacity, and in giving adequate medical care to the patients.

The entrance road to the Sanatorium which is three-tenths of a mile long is in need of much improvement. The first portion of the road which comes off the highway should be widened or rerouted. During the dry season, the road and driveways become very dusty causing a nuisance; therefore we recommend that the road and driveways be treated to eliminate the dust.

We wish to thank the members of both County Boards, and particularly the members of the institutional committees for their continued interest in our problems, and for granting appropriations which we have deemed necessary.

We wish to invite all members of both County Boards to visit the institution so that you may know and appreciate the work that is being done.

Respectfully Submitted,

The supplementary report by the county clerk on additional income in his office was given and made a part of his original report by a motion of Mr. Goring and Mr. Snyder. The report of the W. P. A. Committee on action taken in connection with the barns on the Slinger property was given. The motion was made by Mr. Koller and seconded by Mr. Ritger to adopt and file said report.

At the May session of the County Board the W. P. A. Committee was charged with the task of supervising the construction of the barns at the Slinger Fair Grounds. The nature of the work and the many unexpected obstacles encountered made it necessary for the committee to meet oftener than they at first thought necessary to take care of problems which could not be anticipated. Some of the minor details of this work was delegated to the Chairman, Mr. Bartelt, such as giving gas to the workers and taking orders from W. P. A. for changes. Although the original appropriation was slightly overdrawn the completed result of the program apparently justified the judgment of the committee. Under the new regulations of our last Congress all old projects were discontinued and therefore it became necessary to provide new projects if our unemployed people were to be provided with work. At the present, two projects have been prepared. First, the new Farm to Market Project, which, as far as your committee is informed, will be approved in the very near future. Second, the additional barns at the fair grounds, which of course, requires the approval of the County Board.
