KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1940

Robert K. Rose, aged six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Rose of the town of Farmington, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose of near St. Michaels, was killed instantly at 5:30 p. m. last Sunday when struck by an automobile on Highway 141 in front of his home The Rose farm is located several miles southeast of Kewaskum.

The auto was driven by W. S. Feeney of Madison and occupying it with him were his wife and three-year-old daughter. According to the report of Les Burg, county sheriff, the Feeney from Cedar Grove where they had spent the day and were traveling south. Robert was crossing from the east to the west side of the highway when he was run down. He was struck by the left bumper, fender and headlight of the Feeney car just as he had reached the other side of the road.

Comstock, who was called "Old Pancake" because he lived mostly on flapjacks.

One day in the spring of 1859 "Old

Pancake" discovered two Irishmen, Peter O'Riley and Patrick McLaughlin, cleaning up the "rocker" they used in their placer mining. There was $200 worth of gold dust "You've struck it rich, boys!" he shouted. "But the H. T. P. Comstock trouble is you've struck it on my land. You know I bought this spring here from Old Man Caldwell and I took up 160 acres around it for a ranch." There was some truth in his statement but he had never recorded title to the water rights.

However, he made his bluff good and they "counted him in." When news of the rich strike spread there was a grand rush to the scene. Because the vein of gold had been found on land which was supposed to belong to "Old Pancake" it was named for him and not for the men who discovered it. Later, when quartz mining started there, more than $100,000,000 worth of silver and gold was taken from the place.

But "Old Pancake" didn't profit much from it. He sold out early. for $11,000, soon squandered all of his money, drifted to Montana and there, penniless and almost starving, committed suicide in Bozeman on September 27, 1870. . . .

Victorian

[ ] HEN you hear a woman say "Oh, she's so Victorian!" you know immediately what she means -or do you? For she may mean that her friend is hopelessly oldfashioned or out-of-date in her clothing or her taste in furnishing her house. Then again, she may mean that she is prudish and easily shocked by frankness in speech or any deviation from propriety or conventional behavior.

In either case she is helping perpetuate the spirit of the woman who ruled Great Britain longer than any other monarch-64 yearsuntil her death in 1901. When William IV died in Victoria 1837, his 18-yearold niece came to the throne and during the next half century Queen Victoria gave her name to an era which was "a strange gap between the enlightened Eighteenth century and our own period of progress."

It was an era of self-complacency and dignity maintained in spite of everything. Most of all it was an eminently "proper" period-when crinolined, sheltered "females" embroidered sofa-cushions, painted china, made fringed lampshades and gilded cockle-shells.

. . . Dun

R ACK in the days of King Henry D VII of England, a famous bailiff named John Dun, lived in the town of Lincoln. He was one of the earliest exponents of the "treat 'em rough" method of dealing with offenders against the law. He was also unusually proficient collecting rents, duties and general debts. He originated the idea of calling at debtors' houses, dressed in an odd and colorful costume, to attract the attention of the neighbors. Sometimes - he would walk up and down in front of the debtor's house broadcasting to the whole neighborhood the nature of the debt he was sent to collect.

John Dun

So successful was Dun at this work that when a person refused to pay his debts, friends of the creditor would say to him "Why don't you Dun him?" meaning, why don't you send John Dun after him? From this arose the eustom of calling a pressing request for the payment of money a "dun," A variation of John Dun's methods survives among collection agencies in England today. Demands for payment of debts are mailed in envelopes printed in red. If the debtor ignores three such mailings, he can expect a call from a collector dressed in a bright red uniform. And then is his face red!

Sure Signs Of Spring

80% Automatic...Only 20% Driver Effort!

Spring is here when motorists dig out the road maps and lay their plans for seeking the "open road," and sailors the country over begin their annual "firting-out" activities, preparing sleek water craft for the first jaunt of the season. Here Skipper Ted Skinner begins operations under the watchful eye of Miss Tony Clark, who motored down to the boatyard in her new 1940 Chevrolet.

THE WAR:

Norse Blitzkrieg

" . . . The Reich's government thereby assumes protection of the kingdom of Norway for the duration . . . The Reich's | blitzkrieg in Scandinavia brought government is convinced that it serves Norway's best interests by this action . . . All resistance would have to be and would be broken ..."

Day before, Britain had planted informing them that any attempt to mine fields along the Norwegian place themselves under British- POLITICS: coast, hoping thereby to block Nazi French protection would serve as trade lanes through Norway's territorial waters. Hopping mad, Oslo protested. More resolute, Germany took action. So fast, so secretly that it was over before the world knew, Nazi troop ships seized Copenhagen while the government ordered Danes to offer no resistance.

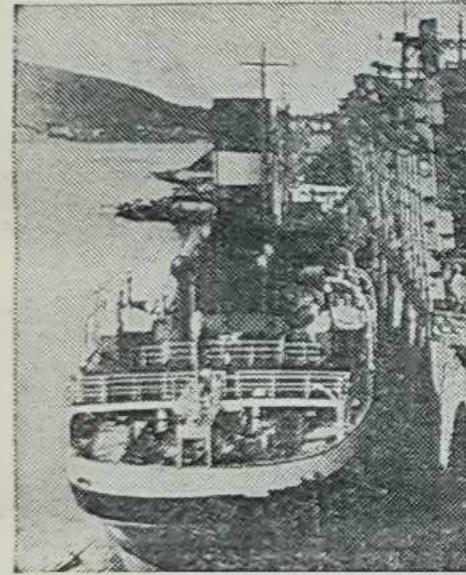

Up north along the Norwegian coast the Reich staged a modernized version of the old Trojan horse trick. At Bergen, Narvik, Trondheim and other ports peaceful looking merchant vessels suddenly bristled with guns. Crewmen turned into marines. While warships steamed up the Oslo fjord, 30 heavy tri-motored bombers landed troops at Oslo airport and sent them marching against the city. The government fled inward to Hamar, hurling a declaration of found Russian troops massing on war at the invader. After seven months, hostilities had finally started.

But such news was premature. Despite fierce fighting, every Norwegian port remained in Nazi hands. Though several troop transports were sunk in the Skagerrak battle, it was substantiated within a few hours that 20,000 Nazis had landed in Oslo alone.

In London, French Premier Paul Reynaud flew to London for conferences at No. 10 Downing street. A few hours later he left smiling, returning to tell an enthusiastic Paris: "I am sure the allied navies will live up to their glorious traditions." Meanwhile Britain's Neville Chamberlain told commons: 'This fresh and rash act of aggression will rebound to Germany's disadvantage ." Though men of both Britain

The two problems of January and February and March and April remain as the problems of May. Now, I believe it can be said that there will be an adjournment early in June without anything having been done beyond lip service and just plain demagoguery. In other words, the rather

Lest this look be characterized as too hurried, let me say that the house membership is not entirely guiltless. But credit must be given a two-point program: (1) complete | an effort to reduce the deluge of stream to voters. It made some cuts-not nearly enough, but somein spending. It did not do a thing, however, in the matter of laying new taxes to help reduce the $45,000,. 000,000 national debt. It dodged those taxes like they were poison. Taxes and appropriations, of course, must originate in the house under so the house must answer for at ernor, summoned the legislature in least a part of the sin of the session.

House Attempted Reduction In Federal Appropriations

To give the house the credit that was its share, however, it must be shown that the house appropriations committee thus far has reduced appropriations submitted by President Roosevelt in the sum of $350-odd million. The senators, sitting smugly at the north end of the nation's capitol building already have put back $209,000,000 of the amount, and there is more certain to come.

After the system and the manner of operations, I think it may be expected that there will be compromises between the senate and house on their differences, and so the net result of the bunk on economy for this session will be a huge "0. Even where the House has tried seriously to reduce spending, the senate has blocked it.

The condition provides a rather accurate reflection of the make-up of the two houses of congress. The house members have become nervwheat production, therefore, will be ous about the spending policies. 426,215,000, lowest since 1933. 'DO-NOTHING' CONGRESS? William Bruckart says that the current session of congress, which he predicts will adjourn early in June, has stamped itself as a "do-nothing" session. This is true according to Bruckart, because congress has avoided two vital issues confronting it when first convened last January. These issues were (1) curtailment of expenditures, and (2) a new tax program. Both are bombshells in an election year.

Also, these statements attack business as "not doing its part," which is a theme that sounds strangely familiar. I think we have heard it at least a dozen times. #### Debt and Tax Problems Have Been Avoided

Now, as to the matter of taxes. It will be recalled that President Roosevelt told the house early in the session that there had to be new taxes or a raising of the debt limit if congress spent more money than the budget estimates. He suggested that the taxes must offset any spending that he had not recommended. Well, the house ways and means committee looked over the situation. There were half a dozen of the committee members who wanted to start laying new taxes to cut down the national debt. They argued that the interest on the debt being well over a billion dollars a year would be reduced as a burden if the debt, itself, were reduced. But something happened. There was nothing more heard about laying new taxes, either from President Roosevelt or from the leaders of the ways and means committee. In consequence of this policy, or rather lack of decision to act in obtaining new revenue, there is just as much chance for a start to a

Uncle Samuel in Stew 153 Years—Hamilton Wanted Presidents 'During Good Behavior'—One-Term Bills Pop Up Frequently.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Between now and Ephoner day when the Democratic nominates its candidate for Presithe third term issue will be one of most discussed questions of the 1940 That discussion may continue November 4, increasing in intensity dection day draws near. To help our der judge for themselves the merits the arguments for or against a Presidentish third term, this necespaper preherewith the first in a series of three atticles which give some of the background of that issue. It is wither FOR nor AGAINST a third term; a simply scans the past and gives an imnemal report of its findings.

LTRE FOUNDING FATHERS AND CONGRESS

CHALL the President of these S United States be elected for certain term of years and thereafter be ineligible? What shall that term be? Six rears? Seven years? Twenty

Or shall he be permitted to gerre "during good behavior"? Those were some of the questions which the Founding Fathers, meetin Philadelphia 153 years ago, tried to answer as they struggled with their gigantic task of devising trame of government for the new Considered Seven-Year Term.

On May 29 Gov. Edmund Randolph of Virginia and Charles Pinckper of South Carolina both presentsi resolutions providing for an execnive "to be chosen by the national legislature for a term of . . . years ent to be ineligible a second time." Three days later a vote was taken a seven-year term for this exective. Five states voted for it and for against it.

The next day a motion to make the executive ineligible after seven were also was carried, by a vote of twl Apparently that matter was settled. But two weeks later it was tought up again and Alexander Esmilton proposed that the supreme excutive authority be vested in a "Covernour" to be elected to serve time good behavior. The delegates turned thumbs dura on this idea and on June 19 wied for a seven-year term for the President who should be ineligible ir reelection. A month later, howere, they changed their minds and struck out the ineligibility clause. The followed a long debate.

During Good Behavior.' Once more the "during good beheror" clause bobbed up but again t tailed to pass. There was a sugpestion that the Chief Executive be tected for 20 years and another that he be chosen by the legislature with the provision that no person be eltake for more than six years in ET 12 years. Both of these plans were rejected and eventually they went back to the seven-year term its ineligibility-a-second-time POVISO. This was in July and for the next months the presidential term repeatedly debated. On Sepsember 4 it was brought up again the suggestion that the Presiterm be made four years. I motion to change this back to sever years and another to six years were defeated and on September 15

I was finally agreed that the Presitent should be chosen by an elecwell college for four years, no limit whis re-eligibility being fixed. Problem Bobbed up Again.

Although the adoption of the Continution on September 17, 1787, apparently settled this question of Presidential tenure satisfactorily, it Was a question that was destined to come up again and again in future years especially in the legislative branch of our government. After the contested election of 1800, resolution was presented in the tenste "that no person who has teen twice successively elected President shall be eligible as Presitent until four years elapse, when it may be eligible to office for four Yters and no longer." But the senate rejected this by a vote of 25 to 4. Twenty years later, however, the tenate passed a joint resolution by a vote of 36 to 3, providing that no men should be chosen President for more than two terms. But the house falled to act on this resolution so nothing more was done about presidential tenure until the contested thection of 1824 brought it up again. Then no less than 10 amendments to the Constitution, intended to limit the President to one term were de-were introduced but failed to pass. For the next 30 years the thirdterm issue was dormant, mainly because there was a succession of oneterm Presidents. But during the administration of Andrew Johnson there were 12 joint resolutions recommending single presidential terms without any action being taken upon them. But in 1875, when it seemed likely that Grant would be a candidate for a third term, William M. Springer of Illinois introduced a resolution in the house.

That in the opinion of this House, the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States, in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this timehonored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institu-

The third-term issue remained in the background until 1892, when Grover Cleveland, who had been first elected in 1884 and defeated in 1888, was again elected. Then no less than 13 amendments were introduced in congress to limit the presidential term in various until 1912 when the house committee on the judiciary submitted a favorable report on a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment limiting the President to a single six-year term but no further action was taken. During this year some 21 such amendments were introduced in the house and in 1913 the senate passed a joint resolution, by a vote of 47 to 23, proposing a similar amendment but the house refused to act upon it.

Brought up in 1912. Again there was a lull of 20 years

In 1927 when talk was started about the possibility of Calvin Coolidge seeking re-election, the antithird term resolutions began to come thick and fast. The first one, offered by Rep. Beck of Wisconsin, a Republican, was practically the same as the Springer resolution of 1875, suggesting a constitutional amendment against a third term. Then Senator LaFollette introduced a similar resolution in the senate.

Resolutions Not Acted Upon. In the meantime, Representative Fairchild of New York, a Republican, had offered a constitutional amendment that "No person shall be eligible to the office of President who has previously served two terms, whether by election or by succession due to the removal, death, resignation or inability of the President where the term by succession shall have continued for a period of two years or more." No action was taken on any of these proposals by the Sixty-ninth congress but they came up again in the Seventieth culminating in La-Follette's resolution being reintroduced on January 27, 1928, amended and passed by the senate on February 10 by a vote of 56 to 26. It

Tanks Replace Horse Troops On Battlefield

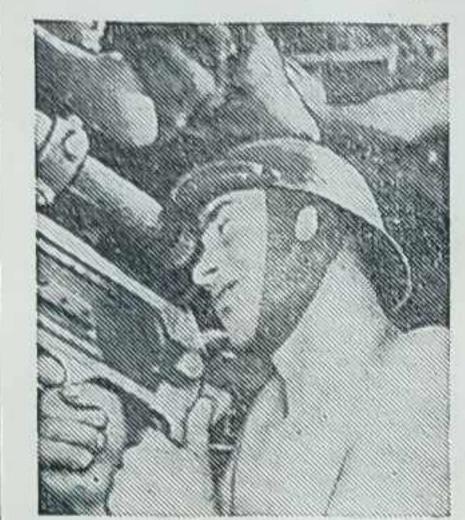

DARIS.—The strange and "impractical" weapon of war invented by British and French officers in 1915-16 has grown into one of the most effective offensive weapons in World War II.

First used in the battle of the Somme almost a quarter century ago, the armored tank is now considered a monster of Mars, capable of spitting death into enemy positions where troops cannot go.

This weapon had its first real test in Germany's "blitzkrieg" against Poland, where massed tanks were sent against enemy emplacements with excellent results.

Modern tanks, looking like armored bugs scuttling across hills, fields and trenches, may vary in size from one to one hundred tons. sion, but in eager working partner-For heavy offensive work they are ship in the theater. Producers, protected by armor plate two inches or more in thickness. Other tanks may have only quarter-inch plate. Some Carry 30 Men.

Their armament runs from machine guns to 105 mm, cannon and they can speed along up to 60 miles an hour on their endless-chain tracks. Crews of the earliest tanks numbered not more than two; today, France's giant tanks sometimes carry 30 men. Each has a specific duty as gunner, mechanic, navigator, control operator or radio man. Such monsters are practically a battleship on land.

Tanks may be used either as mechanized cavalry for "opportunitheir own bridges. Still others carry trailers and lay down smoke screens to shield advancing troops. One of their most effective weapons is a tongue of searing flame which can be thrown up to 50 feet and penetrates inside the gun slits and portholes of pillboxes.

Flank Movements Used. When used as cavalry the tanks employ wide, swinging movements around the enemy's flanks. These take the form of excursions into his rear areas, attacks and ripostes. For this work light or medium light tanks are needed, organized in small and compact "armored" divisions. Each has its own supporting mechanized artillery and motorized in-

Heavy tanks are used for the frontal attack where troops are attempting to break through the enemy's lines. It is in this type of warfare that most furious fighting develops. Large numbers of tanks are needed for such attacks; German experts believe they need 50 to 100 tanks per kilometer of front. Light tanks fol-

The tankman's job is one of war's toughest and most dangerous. Proagainst the steel sides. Behind them come the soldiers to mop up.

When a tank gets stuck atop a barrier it's time to move on, for soon an anti-tank gun will come along. While bullets whine all around, the crew must scramble out and retreat as best it can; a few seconds later an anti-tank bullet will find the fuel tanks and man's metal monster will explode. Thus each tank ends its career; though lives have been lost and a costly armored weapon has been blown to smithereens, armies at war consider both tank and crew have served their purpose if enough pillboxes were blown out.

The United States Supreme court awards to Mr. Sheldon and his collaborator, Margaret Ayres Barnes, 20 per cent of the $587,605 profits from the film "Letty Lynton," sustaining their contention that the film infringed the copyright of their play "Dishonored Lady." The decision, the culmination of eight years of litigation, marks the Supreme court's biggest Broadway hit since Kaufman and Connelly put it in "Of Thee I Sing."

NOVEL BUT GOOD IS THIS ORANGE VEAL ALMOND SALAD (See Recipes Below)

Spring Salads for Spring Tonics

Time was when we needed sul phur and molasses, or its equivalent, as a spring tonic to repair the damages of a winter diet which was quite likely to be lacking in fresh fruit and vegetables. Nowadays spring tonics are unnecessary nuisances, for most of us, because even through the long winter months, a gifted and handsome, Harvard '07, plentiful supply of fruits and vege-

But somehow this season creates fresh fruits and vegetables as refreshing as the first spring breeze. Serving a salad is such a simple means of making sure that the day's quota of fresh vegetables or fruits is included in the diet.

Salads look so cool and inviting, and properly prepared they do such a lot toward perking up one's appetite. But they must be inviting to look at, cool and crisp, and well seasoned. Wash salad greens carefully, then soak in cold water to make them | Slice rings of very crisp. Remove all brown or green wilted spots. Dry carefully on a j about 1/4 inch towel or place cleaned salad greens in a clean sugar sack and shake or twirl vigorously to remove the drops of moisture that cling to the greens.

Chill thoroughly. Simple salads, in general, are the smartest-and if they're to serve their purpose as spring tonics, they're the best. Salads which are too rich, too elaborately garnished, or decked out with whipped cream, defeat their own purpose, and I have a feeling that it's one reason most men dislike salads, because too often they've had served to them in the name of salad, some queer, sticky concoction, with so many ingredients, so badly mangled, and so much garnish, that there's scarcely a salad green to be seen or recognized. Men do like good salads, though, and you'll find recipes for the kind they enjoy, in my booklet, "Feeding Father." When you're planning your spring tonic salads, don't overlook the raw vegetables-shreds of pared, raw beets, slivers of carrot, and the tender young leaves of spinach, raw cauliflower, broken into flowerettes -is an excellent addition to a vegetable salad, and don't forget that just a suspicion of garlic in a vegetable salad is as important as the dressing! A FEW days ago I saw a newspaper cartoon showing an old hen labeled "the public" looking with question at a china doorknob, labeled Bocial Security, in her nest. The caption line read "Fooled-The Egg That Will Never Hatch!

We were fooled from the start on Social Security. And now, just as we are beginning to awaken to the humbug, the Social Security Board announces it will begin paying pensions to those who have reached 65 since the Act became law. So that we are not fooled again it would be well to analyze how so much can be paid out to people who have paid in so little. It can be done only because the Treasury is drawing on the reserve fund. How long can the re-I serve last under this manipulation?

Elect Officers at County Convention of New Voters

torium of the new elementary public before starting the 1940 season; school building at West Bend tonight, Friday, beginning at 8:00 o'clock, is to have all the color of a real political convention. A song leader is to be in charge while the voters are being counted, and a brass band with special music will help to create a convention spirit. Nominating speeches, seconding speeches, banners and insignia wil add more political realism.

Under the guidance of former assemblyman H. O. Schowalter, who will deliver the address of the temporary chairman, the 21-ers will elect their officers. A lively pre-convention campaign has been conducted by candidates for the various offices. Two or more nominating petitions for each office are now on file in the office of M. T. Buckley, executive secretary of the citizenship committee. An address by Guido Schroeder, chairman of the county board, an address by Dr. R. J Colbert on the significance of citizenship day, and an inspirational address by Circuit Judge-elect, Edward J. Gehl will be the extent of addresses by those outside the convention. George Carbon as song leader and Barney Inkman at the piano will make things go while votes are counted by the election clerks. In addition to this feature of the program, a brass band will make its contribution while the delegates and their friends are assem-

Every effort has been made to make the convention a rollicking demonstra. tion of the democratic process. Previous to Judge-elect Gehl's address, the temporary chairman will install the newly elected officers. Since one of the benefits to be derived from such a gathering is the opportunity it provides for getting acquainted, a postconvention reception or mixer is planned.
