Nazis Gain Ground in Norway As Allied Fleet Watches Italy; Balkan States Are Still Uneasy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union

THE WAR:

Shifting Scenes

Major stagehands in the theater of World War II are busy changing scenes for the next act in the current military drama.

Two important reasons for this shift in allied tactics seemed evident: (1) Britain and France figure on a swift German thrust into the Balkan countries and (2) to the allies the Italian question mark is looming larger than ever.

While Prime Minister Chamberlain was telling the house of commons that British forces were being removed from their central Norwegian base at Andalsnes, Germany was claiming that the allies were in "headlong flight" in that area.

German gains in central and southern Norway have been strengthened by the capture of the coast.

German coal for Italy is now shipped by railroad through Brenner pass.

ened but the battle is far from over. A long campaign is apparent and allied leaders are now attempting to cut off German supplies and troops from the homeland by intensifying attacks upon shipping and air bases.

Since the British sea blockade of Germany's coal shipments to Italy, Nazi officials have been transferring supplies of this important commodity by railroad, through historic Brenner pass. (See cut.) But transportation problems in the war areas are getting even more complicated.

But while this activity was taking place two counter moves were made which pointed toward continued Italian neutrality. William Phillips, U. S. ambassador to Italy, was reported to have learned from Premier Mussolini himself that Italy was not planning a war movement at present.

SIDELIGHTS

... of the war

In Canada the Department of National Defense issued posters which warned citizens to refrain from aimless or idle talk about military matters. Placed in conspicuous places throughout the country, the placards were released because the government fears the presence of enemy agents, according to the department.

In Paris the restaurant owners were beginning to wonder if the war would deprive them of their usual excellent evening trade next summer. It's an old Parisian custom to dine and drink out of doors in sidewalk cafes during the summer months.

A million dollar reward was offered by a group of Pittsburgh citizens for the capture of Adolf Hitler, alive and unhurt. Headed by president of Carnegie Institute, Samuel Harden Church, the group specified that Hitler must be brought before the League of Nations prior to the end of May to stand trial for "his crimes against the peace and dignity of the world."

POLITICS:

Came the Spring

Month of blossoms and green grass, May, this year is watching leaders of both major political parties scamper to the grass roots to pluck choice blossoms in the form of convention delegates.

Republicans will choose 477 of their 1,000 delegates this month, almost completing their total. Democrats, who have already chosen 374, of their 1,094, will select about 400 more in May.

While many of the lesser "buds" continued to hide their shy little heads at least one more Democrat blossomed out with the statement that he would make the race if the President didn't.

Republicans meanwhile gathered in Washington to do a little spading and cultivating with their convention and campaign problems.

Thousands of America's rural villages and towns regard May day as a time of traditional fun and frolic for U. S. children.

But in the major cities of the world the day takes on a varying hue. It is usually a day for the voice of labor to be heard.

Stockholm—Addressing a gathering of Swedish citizens, Premier Albin Hansson told the world that Sweden was determined to defend her neutrality "with all our power."

Despite restrictions placed upon it by the neutrality act, U. S. shipping has climbed to its highest point in 10 years.

While Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt was reporting that private industry was hiring about 18 per cent more persons last month than a year ago, another federal official, WPA Commissioner Harrington, was urging private employers to hire additional workers being released from WPA projects.

Meeting in Washington for its 28th annual session the United States Chamber of Commerce heard its president, W. Gibson Carey, blame the New Deal for the last seven years of "depression or near depression."

How the wind is blowing...

Car Design—From Detroit, world-center of the auto industry, comes word that 1941 models will present "changes... of a magnitude rarely before equaled in the automobile industry."

Construction—At Miami, 600 architects saw a display showing how structural glass, large windows and plate glass mirrors may make tomorrow's home a "house of glass."

Transportation—Railroad companies have put into effect a plan whereby travelers in at least 30 states can rent automobiles for use in a community after having made their long trip by rail.

LABOR: Ambitions

According to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, his arch-rival, John L. Lewis, desires to be President of the United States.

While, as I said, there always has been pressure of a tremendous sort from executive agencies, it reached a new peak lately. Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture headed the pack.

Congress Plans an Investigation Of Wallace's 'Must' Legislation

House Committee on Agriculture Will Check Secretary's Statement Regarding Loan Policies of Federal Land Banks.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON—Those folks who have been around Washington any length of time cannot fail to recognize the tremendous power exercised over congress, and throughout the country, by officials in the executive branch of the government.

Wm. Bruckart

While, as I said, there always has been pressure of a tremendous sort from executive agencies, it reached a new peak lately. Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture headed the pack.

But Mr. Wallace seems to have stuck out his neck. He was too anxious. The house committee on agriculture has decided to look into the matter.

agriculture interpretation, legislation that would solve the farm debt problem that has confronted the American farmer over a period of very many difficult and trying cropping seasons.

It seems, however, that there are differing views as to what the Jones-Wheeler bill would do. Opponents of the measure insist that it is just another theory to supplant other theories that have failed.

The secretary's action in sending the circular letters to 600,000 farmer-borrowers shows what can be done. Having been a farm boy myself, I think I can visualize the reaction of hundreds, if not thousands, of farmers to that letter.

Two Leading Farm Groups Are Opposed to Bill

The best proof that I have of the unsound character of the Jones-Wheeler bill lies in the fact that the National Grange and the Farm Bureau federation are opposed to it.

Colorful Rainy Day Outfits Are Stylized to Perfection

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MEMBER "way back when" a rainy day was the signal to don your most melancholy looking wearing apparel—gingiest hat that the rain couldn't spoil, a coat with but the single thought of protection regardless of looks, and "don't forget your rubbers," the good old-fashioned clumsy kind that gave you an inferiority complex every time you wore them?

Thanks to the resourcefulness of present-day fashions no longer do figures of gloom clad in somber garb canopied with ponderous umbrellas that obscured the view and had an expiring way of colliding with every kindred umbrella it met, stolidly wend their way through wind, rain and weather. Today rain-in-the-air is the bugle call to us moderns to dress up in the most cheerful, colorful, pleasing-to-the-eye outfits creators of rainy day fashions have dared to devise.

Gay-with-color and smartly styled rainy day ensembles are absolutely essential in a properly appointed wardrobe, according to the progressive Twentieth century way of thinking. Utilitarian, of course, is the basic theme, but it is utility served with a smile in terms of cheer and eye-catching attractiveness. The dainty colorful transparent coats with protective headpieces to match that you can fold up in an envelope have a charm about them that adds witchery to any rainy day scene. Umbrellas are so lovely they nearly outrival parasols.

Then there are the practical types of rainy day ensembles made of materials that are reversible—gabazine on one side and tweed on the other—grand for intensive wear. Speaking of looking your prettiest on a rainy day, the young woman pictured to the left in the illustration goes stepping in a hooded coat

Dressmaker Suit Animals Pattern New French Prints

Balenciaga chooses flying ducks to pattern new spring prints. Bruyere shows elephants and Schiaparelli, more eclectic, takes the doves, the penguins, the deer and the fish.

Another series of prints uses modern objects such as garden tables and chairs, drawn in such a fashion that they look almost like lace patterns over a plain ground, woodens shoes, castles (chosen by Balenciaga), children's faces (on Ducharme fabrics), dancing figures. . . many of these in almost miniature sizes.

Fingertip Gloves
A quarter of an inch at the end of your nails starts a new style in gloves. They're designed with extra extensions to take care of those long glamorous nails. The gloves are three-dimensional, the fourchette in contrasting colors to match the shade of your fingertips. The glove is flattering to any hands—long finger nails or no—because it gives them such a long tapering line.

Curved Metal Heels
Hollow metal curved in graceful scrolls is used for heels on some of the spring shoes from Paris. The metal, of course, is flexible and allows you to walk with a springy movement.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

Among new millinery ideas are halo-like hats.

Short slacks are to have a fashionable place in sports.

Wide bands of black smocking take the place of jeweled trim.

As with a witch's hat is the crown of a new severe sailor of bright red.

Checked taffeta and plain black wool are smartly combined in a new spring ensemble.

Human Interest

By RAY FOLEY
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

AN INSPIRATION came to the city editor. He snapped his fingers triumphantly and swept his glance over the busy editorial rooms. His searching gaze lighted on Joe Ryan, dozing at a corner desk.

"Ryan!"

The fellow heaved Joe to his feet. "Coming, chief?"

"Listen, lug," the editor said when his reporter had perched himself upon a corner of his desk, "I'm sick and tired of dishing out the same old sawdust of politics, murder, breach-of-promise actions, and press-agent blarney. I want something real for a change, something close to the soil. A story that will touch the heart of every reader! A simple little tale of defeat or triumph that will get the same reaction from a banker or a bum. Do you follow me?"

Joe scratched his head.

"Sure. But where will I get it?"

The editor buried his face in his hands and groaned.

"Where will I get it?" he asked me! A million living, breathing people within a radius of a few miles and he asks me "Where will I get it?"

He drew a tremendous breath and bared his teeth but when he opened his eyes to deliver his withering blast Joe was wisely among the missing.

Five minutes later Joe Ryan sat within a roaring elevator train.

"The guy's got a screw loose," he muttered. "Something close to the soil" he tells me—and there ain't enough soil in this city to grow a geranium."

He bent a skeptical eye on the stream of people drifting below. "As alike as a basket of string-beans. All doing their usual jobs in the usual way; living, marrying, having children, celebrating anniversaries—Whe-e-e-e-e-e!"

He broke off his sullen musings with a startled whistle. His wandering scrutiny had encountered a long, ragged column of shuffling, beaten men that straggled the length of a cheerless street.

"A bread-line!"

In the depressing parade of hungry outcasts must be vivid tales of men who had cast dice with the gods and lost. There was a lead for the opening sentence. "The dice of the gods are loaded." No, too hackneyed! "He was asking for bread, this man who . . ."

With mind busily stringing words together that would grip the reader's attention, Joe hurried off the train.

It was a different Joe Ryan who faced his editor shortly afterward. "Just take a look at my peppers!" he commanded.

The editor lit a foul corn-cob and sneered. "To blazes with your peppers. Did you get the story?"

"I found a bread-line!"

"Great!"

"See you! I had visions of enough human interest stories to last a year. And what did I get? Take a look at these eyes!"

The editor repeated his opinion of Joe's swelling blue-black eyes and the reporter burst forth again: "I joined the line myself as though I were as broke as the rest of them."

"A perfect disguise."

"You're telling me. When I finally got my mug of coffee and vulcanized sandwich I spotted a group of four fellows sitting together. In a tactful way I seated myself near them and although they weren't very talkative I managed to get something out of them."

"Well?"

"One of the fellows was a short, fat Frenchman who said he used to be a cook for a millionaire stock speculator. The millionaire went broke and as the demand for fancy French cooking had vanished he hit the toboggan slide. The second fellow was a lanky Englishman who 'informed' me that he was formerly the butler for the same millionaire. The third guy, a husky Irishman, claimed that he had been the millionaire's chauffeur."

"They were kidding you!"

"Don't I know it? When I got around to the fourth geezer who was kind of short and slim and weary-looking, I says: 'I suppose you're the millionaire these birds used to work for.' And with that the big Irishman ups and bangs me twice, once in each eye."

"Serves you right. You ought to know that a man loses his sense of humor when he stops eating regularly."

"I know it now. But what about the little bunch of violets for your box on page one?"

"Well, let it go. I've got another idea. It's red hot. Listen—"

On a bench in the center of a small, bleak park sat four men. The short, slim, weary-looking one was speaking to the tall Irishman—

"You should not have lost your temper, Riley. If a policeman had appeared we might all have been arrested. It would have been most humiliating for me if I had been recognized by some reporter at the police station."

The Irishman gestured vaguely with his hand.

"I'm sorry, sir," he answered.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—We heard that Wendell L. Willkie had 300 invitations to make public addresses. Across his big desk, which in its mounting makes a newspaper man feel at home, we asked Mr. Willkie about it. The report was all wrong. The number is something over 2,000. Also in the rack were enough pleas for magazine and syndicate articles to give Mr. Willkie writer's cramp for the rest of his life, if he took on even one-tenth of them.

Mr. Willkie, built like a guard, works like an end or a halfback. The range and agility of his mind is such that he might be a swing man, either in the line or the backfield. On his desk was a new book, the life of the Elder Pitt, about which he is writing a review; also a litter of papers having to do with pretty nearly everything from kant to kilowatts.

An hour's conversation covered a similar range. He talked rapidly and vehemently, waving and hammering with his extended palm, when he told how the Commonwealth & Southern forced down rates, or challenged what he terms the unfair TVA bookkeeping; making hesitant or groping gestures when he touched on the intangibles of social origins and inducements. He is like that—assured and vehement on what he knows and thoughtful and explorative on what he merely thinks.

He doesn't want to kill the Securities and Exchange commission. He would merely put it under sound democratic controls.

Mr. Willkie has tremendous gusto and live, intellectual curiosity. He says all this talk of nominating him for President is incidental to the fact that he made a rock-and-sock battle on something he knew about—something which happened to be important and which perhaps helped to clarify certain basic issues. He says he never spent a dime on a personal build-up and never will. Almost his strongest aversion is reserved for his observation that the run-of-the-mill citizen is a lot brighter than he's supposed to be, and that therein lies the hope for our continuing democracy. Out of its context, that might sound like the old homespun Indiana political hokum, but that's the last thing you could tag Mr. Willkie with.

FOR A SHOWER PARTY FOR SPRING BRIDE (See Recipes Below)

Household News By Eleanor Howe

And so they are married—and after the ceremony there is to be a wedding reception at the home of the bride's mother.

It takes a bit of planning to carry through a lovely wedding so that every detail is correct. And the reception which follows must be as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it. Plan a menu that's simple and easy to serve, yet appetizing and delicious to eat. Set the table for buffet service—using your loveliest linen, silver and china. Since the prevalent color scheme for the bride's table is green and white, plan to use white flowers for the centerpiece; if candles are used, they may be white or green.

A party for the bride calls for something very special in the way of food. Here's a menu for a wedding reception, with tested recipes to enable you to use it as it is given.

Assorted Hors d'Oeuvres
Grapefruit-Lobster or Crabmeat Salad
Butter Radishes
Celery Olives
Pistachio Ice Cream
Bride's Cake
Punch
Coffee
Assorted Salted Nuts
You'll find other recipes for special party cakes and desserts in my cook book "Better Baking." There's a recipe for wedding cakes, as well.

Groom's Cake.
1 cup butter
1 cup light brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups general purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice
3/4 cup sour milk
1/2 cup citron, cut
1 cup raisins
1 cup nut meats, broken
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Cream butter, add sugar, and beat thoroughly. Add eggs (well beaten). Mix and sift together all dry ingredients, reserving 1/4 cup of flour. Add flour mixture and sour milk alternately—beginning with the flour mixture. Flour, citron, raisins, and nuts with the 1/4 cup of flour which was reserved and add to the cake mixture. Add vanilla extract. Place in well-greased, small tube pan. Bake 40 to 50 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

Buttermilk Rolls.
(Makes 2 1/2 dozen)
1 cake yeast
2 cups lukewarm water
2 cups buttermilk (at room temperature)
6 1/2 cups of flour (approximately)
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Combine with buttermilk and mix well. Add about 2 cups of flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until the batter is light and bubbly. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add to raised batter and beat well. Sift together the remaining flour, the salt, soda and baking powder. Add to batter in 3 or 4 portions and mix well. Pinch off small bits of the dough, shape into balls and place in small, greased muffin cups. Cover and allow to rise until the rolls are very light. Brush with melted shortening. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 15 minutes.

Pistachio Ice Cream.
1 pint coffee cream
1 cup top milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
3 to 4 drops green pure food color
1/2 cup pistachio nut meats (cut fine)
Mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Pour mixture into freezing container of modern ice cream freezer. (To allow for expansion fill not more than 3/4 full.) Assemble and cover. Then pack mixture of cracked ice and rock salt (use 3

Assorted Canapes.
Place chilled shrimp on a bed of shaved ice; serve cocktail sauce with it as an accompaniment. Stuff celery stalks with cream cheese which has been mixed with chopped stuffed olives. Cut crusts from slices of very fresh bread and cut loaf in long lengthwise slices. Spread with cream cheese. Roll as for jelly roll and slice in very thin slices. Brush with melted butter, place on broiler and toast lightly. Serve hot.

Now is the time for each foresighted homemaker to add to her own collection of favorite recipes, some new and unusual ones which are sure to please her family. Next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her own tested recipes—some for meats, for vegetables and for desserts—and a choice recipe for rhubarb conserve.

Jefferson Introduced the Dumb Waiter

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN

Thomas Jefferson, that versatile and talented American, was not above an interest in furniture; in fact he took great personal pains with every detail of his home, Monticello, from the original plans to its furnishing. It was his knowledge and genius that we must thank for this matchless shrine of Federal American architecture.

Among the little elegancies of today's scene, for which we may thank Jefferson, is the tiered table, often called the dumb-waiter. Jefferson saw this type of table first in England in a Belgrave square mansion and forthwith introduced one into the New World. It appealed to him because it permitted a gracious service of informal refreshments without listening servants in attendance, and during his tenure at the White House he often relied on these dumb waiters (and deaf) to serve his guests informally as uninhibited conversation buzzed among the great of the day.

Today the host or hostess chooses the dumb-waiter table to assist in informal serving for an equally practical, if different, reason. We're not troubled with servants that eavesdrop so much as with servants that have vanished altogether. But with this genial table, our guests don't miss the personal service after all . . . in fact we of today enjoy the privacy just as did Jefferson and his circle.

For serving in the living room the dumb-waiter table is most useful beside the chair at which the hostess sits to pour tea or coffee. For serving in the dining room, place this table at the hostess' left elbow and she will be able to serve a dinner almost as smoothly as if she had a butler and a footman on deck making everybody nervous.

Strange Facts

Marked Nails
Cents to Millions
Bibles in Braille

Every batch of 10,000 American-made nails carries an identifying mark and therefore, in case of a crime, can be traced to the manufacturer, thence to dealers and purchasers. In 1936, a Pennsylvania criminal, whose bombs had killed three persons, was captured and convicted through a single nail found at the scene of one explosion.

The loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in the past eight years have varied in size from $150, which was lent to a barber to pay for equipment for his shop, to $208,500,000, which was lent to the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California to pay for the construction of a 240-mile aqueduct.

When a person endangers his own life in saving, or attempting to save, the lives of others in a wreck or any other grave disaster on an American railroad, the President of the United States presents the hero with the Medal of Honor of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Among the 19,000 different editions of the Bible in the library of the British and Foreign Bible society in London, are Braille copies in 41 languages.—Collier's.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's Pills under laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read. The objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, pain, nervousness, and other signs of kidney trouble.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DRUDGERY DRAWS THE WRINKLES

Don't let those age lines come too soon—

EVERY year thousands of young country housewives discover that the creeping lines of age have come too soon—simply because of senseless, useless kitchen drudgery. How foolish to let this happen! For now Shellane Gas Service costs no more than the usual city gas rate! This pure, natural gas banishes dirt and drudgery, makes it possible for the country housewife to have an automatic gas range, automatic hot water, automatic refrigeration—just as cheaply as in the city! Why wait another minute? Come in today!

NOW JUST AS CHEAP AS CITY GAS RATES!

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do. Why not be smart—do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys—cut down your caloric intake—eat wisely and satisfyingly—there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. If not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Don't Become an Air Hostess If You're Afraid of Hard Work

Being an airline stewardess is romantic, but it isn't peaches and cream. Katherine Wilson, below, TWA hostess, was chosen "Miss American Aviation" last year. Prerequisites for a stewardess job: Candidates must be registered nurses between 21 and 25 years old; not under 5 feet 2 inches nor more than 5 feet 5 inches; weight, between 100 and 125 pounds; cheerful disposition; attractive; unmarried. Training course lasts from six to twelve weeks, and it must be intensive because the stewardess' duties are legion.

Picture Parade

She must know how to handle tickets; how to serve hot meals; to make berths; to control heating and ventilating; to answer passengers' questions (foolish and otherwise) about airplanes and engines. During training she is paid $2.50 a day. Her starting salary on the run is $100 a month, gradually increasing to $125 a month plus $4 daily for expenses.

Hostesses cannot work more than 110 hours a month, work days being interspersed with days off. From time of takeoff to arrival at the plane's destinations she is busy preparing delicious meals, answering questions and making conversation. Favorite topic of most travelers is themselves. Subject may range from literature to sports and religion, so the stewardess must keep herself posted. At right: American airline hostesses learn about a motor.

Alone is a typical stewardess classroom scene. At New York's North Beach airport, 23 girls from 18 cities, representing nine different states, learn flying technique as demonstrated in a Link trainer.

Some of them fly, too. Above: Stewardess Agnes Hermansen.

Ornamental Snow Guards
Snow guards, small irons that are secured to the roof, often serve the double duty of being ornamental as well as preventing property damage from falling snow. Most snow guards are easily applied and can be used on either metal or slate roofs. On metal roofs the irons are riveted to the sheathing. Those used on slate roofs are riveted on iron plates which go under the slate. Installation of snow guards is one of many small improvements which protect the home during the winter months.

Oranges Came From Spain
Orange trees were introduced into Florida by Spanish explorers about the beginning of the Seventeenth century. Spanish missions introduced orange trees as well as olive, fig and other fruit trees. Into California at the end of the Eighteenth century. Now California and Florida produce approximately 97 per cent of American oranges. Grapefruit cultivation began in Florida, but has had its greatest development in the last 20 years in Texas, chiefly in the Rio Grande valley.

THE CAUTIOUS SALESMAN

"The automobile industry is asked by the Federal Trade Commission to adopt a code. Under it there must be no exaggeration of gasoline mileage. And in selling a second hand car strict truth as to its history is demanded."—News Item.

Customer (interested in a new car)—This looks like a wonderful car for the money?
Salesman—Well, I wouldn't want to go that far.

Customer—It's by far the best looking job on the market today.
Salesman (ever mindful of the code)—Suppose we just say one of the best, and avoid all chance of trouble.

Customer (still elated)—What is the horse power?
Salesman (hesitatingly)—I understand direct from headquarters that it is ninety horse, but I would rather not say so on my own responsibility.

Customer—Has it four-wheel brakes, shock absorbers and the new magnetic shift?
Salesman—The catalogue, which I have every reason to believe is correct, says so. It is my belief that this one I will crawl under and check up to make certain. In fact, I would feel it my duty to do so.

Customer—How many miles does it give to the gallon?
Salesman (who has been dreading this one)—I was afraid of that. And you will have to accept what I say as being my best opinion.

The factory says it will do twenty to the gallon, our sales manager has been heard to claim twenty-four and we have customers who claim they only get eighteen. Washington thinks nineteen is a better estimate. I would be inclined to string along with the government and avoid criticism.

Customer (now a little less enthusiastic)—Have you any good used cars?
Salesman—That is a question we have to be very careful about answering these days. Here is one that came in yesterday.

Customer (looking it over)—Has it been driven much?
Salesman—It depends on what is meant by "much." I try to avoid the word as having too many shades of meaning.

Customer (pretty tired of it all by this time)—What I mean is how old is it?
Salesman—The serial number is 678456, and, according to the records, this makes it a car manufactured in 1938.

Customer—How many miles has it gone?
Salesman (wincing)—The speedometer says 11,000 miles. The owner has given an affidavit swearing that the speedometer has not been tampered with. Our office manager certifies that it has not been changed or fooled with here. I can say nothing more. Washington is very strict on this point.

Customer—Has it—
Salesman (with an air of finality)—Now, I'll tell you what to do. Take it out. Run it for a month or so. Make your own decision. Then make us an offer. THEN I'LL PUT THE WHOLE PROPOSITION BEFORE THE PROPER FEDERAL OFFICIALS AND WE'LL SEE IF WE CAN ALL CONCLUDE THE DEAL WITH CLEAR CONSCIENCES!

HO HUM!
When people grow lyric about the spring, And gush over bluebirds and daffodils; Wrens building nests out of grasses and string; Only taxes I see, and overdue bills.

Blue of the jay is the hue of my mood. Chirp of a robin brings curse on his head; Give me a crow, though his manners are rude; He is always in black—I am tired of red.

The estate of John D. Rockefeller has succeeded in getting Lakewood, N. J., to accept, free of charge, the 550-acre showplace of the late oil king down there. Some people have all the luck.

SPRING
Sniffy colds, forsythia, Daffodils and men with picks, Pussywillows, funny hats, Love, hand organs, baby chicks.

Fishing pamphlets, grass seed ads, Paint and varnish, spring-lamb stew, Robins, fleas and liver pads—Doc, I can't shake off this flut!

The home builder's last words: "Now, then, let's take up the extras, if any."

Elmer Twitchell says he is trying to arrange a fight in Madison Square Garden between Joe Louis and Mickey Mouse, and he feels confident it will strike the lile as a great battle.

This department's fight expert has poor showing of Paychek against a convoy," he declares.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Jebb's whisper reached her. She started, turned, saw him, checked a cry with a swift hand to her mouth. Then she rose—as she alone could rise, like a lark—came to him fleetly, lithely, oblivious of her unwonted costume. Their hands met in a fierce clutch and she dropped at his side.

"I didn't know you at first in those clothes."

He could have cursed himself for such sublime inanity, but her greeting was small improvement on his: "Did you know me? I knew you the feirst meenute I heard you weesper."

They stared at each other and she flushed a little deeper as she asked: "But you didn't call me hanim effendi or madame like that you used to—what it was the word you call me joost now?"

"Miruma!"

She closed her eyes and breathed deep as if the sound were perfume. Of all Fate's practical jokes this seemed to Jebb the meanest, that he should meet Miruma like this in a crowded hotel parlor—and that another woman should be coming for him at any moment.

"Ich komm' sofort!"

The boy went his way, and Jebb turned to find a troubled curiosity on Miruma's face.

"Miss Ludlam is—or you remember that ring I had?"

"Yes."

"It belonged to her."

"But you did say you buyed it in Cologne."

"Did I?"

"You said it had no associations."

"And I find you here; you wait for her: the beautiful Mees Ludlam?"

She rose and crushed the jealousy, the disillusionment, the shattered trust back in her breast. Jebb rose to her side whispering:

"Hanim effendi!—madame!—Miruma!—I beg you!—I can explain if you—"

"Please!—if you would not have me—shame myself here—please speak nothing—let me—go—"

She hurried away as fast as she dared, slipping through the crowd with a lithe panther-like grace that impressed him even then. He stood fast and saw her vanish.

And then he heard a voice back of him—a sweet and womanly voice: "Is this Dr. Jebb?"

He was brought sharply to book, by a gasp of surprise.

"Why, it's Mr. Pierpont. The card said it was Dr. Jebb."

His worst fears seemed realized by the swift change from the formal greeting for Dr. Jebb to the gush of stock in the—oh, that awful investment you let me in for."

"Rock Island, you mean."

"That's it. You told me to hold for a rise."

"Well, I see by the paper that it's up twenty-nine points."

"Yes, but at that time somebody attacked it and the bottom fell out for a few days. I had word one afternoon from my brokers in Munich that if I didn't cover the drop by morning I'd be wiped out."

"Is that so! Somebody was hammering her, I suppose."

"Well, whoever hammered it, it hit the toboggan and I stood to lose all I had put up. That very evening the cablegrams announced that my bank in New York had been looted by its president, and had closed its doors. I found where the cashier of my Munich bank lived and telephoned his house. He said that my letter of credit was good for nothing unless the bank opened again. I was simply in despair."

"At that moment who should come along but Mr. Pierpont here. I didn't know him and he didn't know me, but he heard me crying, and said, 'Pardon me, madame, is there anything I can do for you?' It sounded so good to hear an American voice and he spoke so gently and I was so weak that I just up and told him the story."

"Well, what do you suppose this agent of a Mr. Pierpont did? I can hear him now—'There, there, my poor child—' she laughed moistly; 'he called me his poor child when I'm old enough to be his mother!'"

But Charlie was impatient: "Go on. What did he say?"

"He said, 'There, there, my poor child; if you'll stop crying, I'll give you the money.' I said, 'You'll lend me—twenty thousand marks—me!—a total stranger!' 'Certainly,' he said, 'I have an American,' and I said, 'But I have no security,' and he said, 'You're an American'—as if that proved anything!

"He wouldn't listen to any argument or scruples, he just asked me to excuse him while he went to his room and got at his money-belt; and when he came back he handed me the sum in English bank notes. Then he said:

"You must have something to get along on till you hear from your brother or till your bank reopens, and he actually wanted to give me a thousand dollars more. But I compromised on five hundred. The next morning I had the money at the brokers' bright and early and I made a solemn resolve that I'd never speculate on margins again."

"Did you keep the vow?" grinned Charlie. She pouted meekly: "Well, I might have kept it if the stock hadn't gone skyrocketing up again. It never rains but it pours, you know, and in two days that awful bank was reorganized and reopened, and my letter of credit was all right. But when I came to look for Mr. Pierpont he had paid his bill and disappeared, taking his little niece along with him."

"But the ring—the ring," said brother Charlie, voicing a curiosity that was aching in Jebb's breast, "how did you come to give him the ring I gave you?"

"Such a silly question, Charlie. Can't you see I felt so ashamed of taking his money with no security, that I forced it on him. He didn't want to take it, but I made him. When he learned it was worth only about half what he lent me he consented."

Charlie rounded on Jebb: "Well, why in thunder didn't you tell me all this on the train when I accused you of stealing the ring?"

"That was his delicacy. Can't you see, Charlie? He didn't want to involve me."

Charlie could understand that he owed Jebb a handsome apology, and he put it in his own terms. "I guess the drinks are on me, old man. I've made a jackass of myself, and I admit it. What'll it be?"

But Jebb declined to liquidate the account.

And then sister Jennie said she must run up to her room and write him a check for twenty-two thousand marks.

"Would you mind making the check payable to David Jebb?"

"David Jebb?"

"That's the name you gave me on the train," her brother put in.

"That's my real name," said Jebb.

Now Charlie was off again: "But why did you call yourself Pierpont to my sister?"

"Hush, Charlie, don't make another exhibition of yourself. He was traveling incog. Very rich people often do that."

Brother Charles and Jebb were such mutually discomfiting companions that when they were left together Ludlam grew restive: "Come on into the cafe and have something."

"No, thanks."

"Well, will you excuse me if I do? I've just got in from Munich and I'm horribly thirsty."

"Don't let me keep you."

Left alone, Jebb was overcome by this new turn of the wheel. The money meant so much to him just now; it meant power, salvation from infinite humiliations; it meant funds for the pursuit of Cynthia.

Then the luxury of being a minor Croesus faded before a keen anxiety for Miruma. He must find her. She must be told the news, the news that solved everything. He would go to the desk and send her his card, imploring her to grant him a hearing.

He paused—what was her name? Miruma was her first name—what was her last? Had she registered as hanim effendi? or madame hanim? or Mme. Fehmi Pasha—or what?

"But I compromised on five hundred."

cordiality for Mr. Pierpont. And his uneasiness was increased by the sight of what Mr. Pierpont had affianced him to. For he saw before him a short lady whom even a flatterer would call plump.

So this was sister Jennie! As she stared at her in a daze, she smiled tenderly and said as she pressed his hand and kept it:

"Was this one of your jokes—sending up a strange name and asking for my brother? Was it just to surprise me?"

"Is— isn't your brother here?"

"Why, no, he's in Servia—somewhere in the mountains hunting big game. Don't you remember my telling you in Munich? Do you suppose that if he had been where I could reach him I should have accepted all that money from you?"

"No, I suppose not."

"I'm awfully glad to see you," she pattered on. "Do sit down," and she dropped into Miruma's place on the divan. "It was awfully embarrassing to me that you should disappear so completely, and leave no trace." Knowing nothing else to do, he just shrugged his shoulders and smiled.

Meanwhile, sister Jennie sat and purred over him, like an amiable tabby with a disabled mouse between her paws. As his eyes rolled distressfully he saw brother Charlie steam into the hotel and push to the desk like a liner crowding up to a pier.

"There's your brother now," Jebb exclaimed.

"No! Impossible! So it is!" and she left him and made an almost un-olderly haste, catching her brother just as he was asking for her at the desk. His eye fell on Jebb. He stopped short, snorted like a bull, and charged.

"So here you are, eh? I never expected to see you again."

"Again?" cried Jennie, "you've seen him?"

"Have I seen him! Didn't he give me the slip in Munich?"

"You've met Mr. Pierpont before! Isn't that funny?"

"Pierpont?—That's Dr. Jebb."

"Dr. Jebb!—why?"—she turned to Jebb.

"That's the name," said Jebb.

"And I got your ring away from him, Jennie. See, here it is." And he fished it out. "He wouldn't tell me how he came by it, though."

"Wasn't that delicate of him?" And she beamed on Jebb till she frightened him.

"Delicate! Then you really did give it to him? Then it is true that you—"

"Sit down, you old dear, and I'll tell you." She toppled the mountain on to the walling divan.

"It's an old story to you, Mr. Pierpont," she said, "but you won't mind hearing it again. Well, to begin at the beginning, you see, Charlie, you wrote me that you were going into the mountains for a month or so of hunting. Just after you disappeared, Charlie, I had a call for five thousand dollars more margin on my

Wistaria

WISTARIA, the beautiful light blue or purple flower which makes your front porch so attractive, is a perennial memorial to Caspar Wistar, a Philadelphia physician who was born in 1761. He went to medical school at the University of Pennsylvania, was graduated in 1782 and then went to England and Scotland, where he served as president of the Royal Medical Society of Edinburgh and also as president of a society for the further investigation of natural history.

After his return to America, he became almost as famous a naturalist as he was a physician and anatomist and his home was a meeting place for students, citizens, scientists and travelers who met there to discuss subjects of common interest. In fact such assemblies, called "Wistar parties," continued long after his death in 1818.

When Thomas Nuttall, the English-American naturalist, discovered a new woody vine in the forests of the western and southern states, he wanted to honor the famous Philadelphia scientist by naming it after him. But he spelled it "wisteria" and if you spell it that way, too, you're helping Nuttall perpetuate an error instead of helping perpetuate the fame of Dr. Caspar Wistar.

Zeppelin

TECHNICALLY, an airship is a dirigible but it is popularly called a zeppelin and probably all ways will be. And so the name of Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, its inventor, will live on.

This ought to please the count no end, as he was just a little conceited. As a military observer in this country during the Civil war, he wrote copiously for his German readers but told as much about how popular he was with the American officers as he did about military activities.

Immediately after the Civil war he stayed in America for a short time to "enjoy his popularity," and while in

Von Zeppelin

St. Paul, Minn., he made his first ascent in a balloon.

He returned to Germany and continued to serve in the army until 1891 when he retired with the rank of general and studied aeronautics. In 1900 he made the first ship that rose from the ground. It stayed in the air for 20 minutes but it was wrecked in landing.

In 1906 he made two successful flights with another ship of his and traveled 30 miles an hour. The next year his ship made 36 miles an hour and progress was steady from then on. The count died in 1917 during the World war when his zeppelins were at their peak of military usefulness.

Morse Code

IN A small glass case in a museum at Harvard university is a little ribbon of paper on which is printed a series of dots and dashes. If you know your "Morse code," you can spell out the message which these dots and dashes tell. "What hath God wrought," it says.

S. F. B. Morse

For this is the first message ever sent over the "electric telegraph." It was clicked off on May 24, 1844, in Washington by Samuel Finley Morse, former daguerreotypist and portrait painter, who became the inventor of the telegraph, to his partner, Alfred Vail, in Baltimore. Its wording was suggested by Miss Anne Ellsworth, daughter of the commissioner of patents, who had brought him the joyful news that congress had passed an appropriation with which to carry on his experiments with his invention.

As the use of the telegraph spread, men who were skilled in sending messages in the "Morse code" were called "Morse operators" quite as frequently as they were "telegraphers." Later they became known as "boomers" or "lightning-snatchers" but due to the increasing use of modern teletypewriters "Morse men" are rapidly becoming "vanishing Americans."

Football Without Ball

The only place in the world where football is played seriously without a ball is the Caroline group of the South Pacific Islands. There are 11 men on a side, and they assume the orthodox positions. As there is no ball, the players merely hop on one leg until they come up against their opposite numbers. Then each player places the sole of his free foot against the sole of an opponent's foot, and pushes. The man who falls is out of the game.

Though one would imagine that such matches would be over in a few minutes, they last for hours, for the players are remarkably skillful in keeping their balance.

When all the players of one side have been eliminated, the other is recognized as the winning one.

There are no drawn games and no referee, but large crowds turn out to watch.

Highs Beat N. Fondy 1-0
 on Kral's 2-Hit Hurling

The Kewaskum High school baseball team gained its 4th consecutive win by shutting out North Fond du Lac at the latter place Tuesday afternoon, 1 to 0.

It was a well played game with Kral and Duples hooking up in a pitcher's duel. Kral allowed two hits and Duples allowed three. Kral struck out 15 men and gave up four walks while Duples struck out 10 Kewaskum batters and gave up only one pass.

Kewaskum's lone run came in the 6th inning when Dreher got a double and Kral drove him in with a single.

County's New Voters
 All Busy on Floats
 For Citizenship Day

The second division under the federal government will also be handled in part by city of Hartford new voters, and it will depict national suffrage. The Hartford city new voters will show property owners being allowed suffrage under British class influence.

Those from the town of Hartford will prepare a float on the freeing of the colored man and the granting of suffrage to all men, with prejudice running high at the polls when the colored men vote. Town of Erin new voters will show the granting of women's suffrage, which is laughed at by men but which allows all citizens to vote.

The first division under state government is education. New citizens of the town of Addison will depict parochial or private school education. Slinger new voters will have a float on the free school or the pauper school. The town of Polk will portray the modern activated school.

The second division under state jurisdiction includes the common people's (crude) court, depicted by the town of Kewaskum; the circuit court, including a formal jury of 12 members by Kewaskum village, and the state supreme court, including seven gowned justices, portrayed by the town of Wayne.

Roads is the first division shown under county jurisdiction. With the assistance of the county highway department, town of Trenton new voters will show blazing the trails, those from the town of West Bend will depict mud roads for wagon wheels, and those from Jackson will have a float on the modern concrete road.

The West Bend Woman's club will be in charge of the second division under county jurisdiction, namely health. The floats will show a pioneer, with no medical assistance, including a scene at the bedside of the ill or dead; country doctors, and county nurses and clinics.

Fire control forms the first division under the town or municipal unit. A float from Germantown will show a burning barn, with attempts being made to extinguish the flames by means of a bucket brigade. Richfield will produce an old fashioned fire engine. New voters of the city of West Bend will show the modern fire department, with the assistance of the West Bend fire department.

The second division under the town or municipal unit will be composed of floats on lighting. Farmington will have a float on persons carrying their own lanterns. The town of Barton float will show gas street lights and lamp lights. The village of Barton float will present modern street lights and stop and go traffic signals.

The grand finale will show the Liberty Bell talking, announcing free speech, free assembly, free press, and free religion.

Each Brownie received nigella and marigold seeds to plant in her flower garden.

Barbara Schaefer, Pack Leader

Holstein Breeders of County Hold Banquet

Trinity Lutheran church, George Carbon of West Bend led the audience in a number of favorite songs. Piano accompaniment was by Mrs. Walter Buss. This was followed by a beautiful rendition of the song poem "Trenors" by Miss Charlotte Romaine, soprano soloist of Kewaskum; as an encore she sang "Comin' Through the Rye." Her mother, Mrs. Elwyn Romaine, played the piano accompaniment.

At this point Herbert Lepien of the town of Hartford took over the reins of the meeting and called upon Herbert F. Schroeder, town of Trenton dairyman, to introduce the principal speaker of the evening. In his remarks Mr. Schroeder, who is a member of the extension committee of the National Holstein-Friesian association, stressed the need for alertness in uncovering favorable markets for purebred Holstein cattle in order that competitors do not get the upper hand. He presented A. C. Oosterhaus of Oconomowoc, president of the national association.

NATIONAL PRES. SPEAKS

The topic of the president's address might well be stated as "What a breeder of purebreds ought to mean to a community," and the points he brought out in his well organized talk urged that:

1. He ought to set high ideals in that type of work.
2. He ought to feed his animals better than does the breeder of grades.
3. He should be specially interested in seeing that his cattle are cleaner than the ordinary herds of the community. The resultant high class of dairy cattle and the increased demand for them would to a very large extent solve our surplus problem. "We must show progress," he emphasized, "much the same as automobile and radio manufacturers improve their products from year to year."
4. He should show leadership in the eradication of disease among purebred Holstein cattle, if any exists.
5. He should observe a high standard of ethics in doing business; practice higher integrity to build a solid business.
6. He should interest the boys of his community in the purebred cattle industry, for to them we must look for future leadership.

Mr. Oosterhaus' speech was interspersed with amusing illustrations which served to better drive home the points of his message.

HONOR OLDEST BREEDER

E. E. Skalsky, Washington county agricultural agent, with the honor and respect due the occasion, presented C. A. Schroeder of the town of Trenton as the oldest active breeder of purebred Holstein cattle in America. "Mr. Schroeder," he said, "who is nearing the 83rd milestone in life, purchased his first purebred Holsteins 59 years ago upon the advice of his father. He has been honored by the University of Wisconsin and by the Holstein-Friesian associations for his outstanding work in developing the breed. We can truthfully say he is the father of the purebred Holstein industry in Wisconsin." Mr. Schroeder modestly acknowledged the honor with a gracious bow.

OFFICERS ON PROGRAM

Ernest Clark of Wheaton, Ill., another member of the extension division of the national association, was called upon to tell the gathering something about the program of the extension service. "A definite program," he said, "which is presented to the state association which in turn puts it up to the county organizations, includes Plans for better breeding to keep purebreds at the head of the parade, and a definite program of showing of purebreds in order to keep this class in the limelight." In this connection he suggested that a county herd be sent to the state fair for exhibition and competition.

Arthur Collettine of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, secretary-treasurer of the state association and editor of the Holstein-Friesian News, expressed concern over the present inferiority of purebred Holstein herds in Wisconsin as compared with those of some years ago, and suggested that it might be possible through our 4-H club boys to arouse in our younger generation the thought that the bull's still half the herd. The association has a program in mind which involves the project of furnishing teams of two boys with bull calves to be raised, put through the routine of the show ring, and to enter competition in demonstrations, the winners to be offered substantial prizes.

WOMAN CHALLENGES MEN

Toastmaster Lepien called upon Mrs. Charlotte Muth of the town of Trenton, daughter of C. A. Schroeder, for a few remarks, but the men in the audience were scarcely prepared for the challenge which she threw out to them. "This afternoon," she began, "I attended a cooking school which was sponsored by the West Bend News. In it the lecturer went to some length to promote this appliance and that appliance for the business men; much was said about the excellence of various food products including Spry (a vegetable shortening), but I heard nothing about milk and cream used in the menu although I could see that some was being used. Where are you, men? Why don't you put on a demonstration of that kind with our milk and cream and butter and lard to boost the wider use of these products of your farms?" Her explosive challenge was met with ringing applause from the ladies of the audience, and with "is my face red!" on the part of the men.

KRESSIN WINS PRIZE

Before the interesting meeting closed Mr. Skalsky complimented the committee of eight men whose preliminary work made the gathering a big success. He named Reinhold Kressin, town of Jackson; William Pampfer, town of Wayne; William Meuschke, town of Farmington; Herbert Lepien, town of Hartford; Ed. Held, town of Hartford; Paul Horlamus, town of West Bend, and Christ Meyer, town of Polk.

Mr. Kressin was awarded the prize for having given the best answer to the question: "Why does a black cow give white milk which makes yellow butter?" His reply was: "For the same reason that a blackberry is red when it is green."

Herbert Schroeder, chairman, asked the pointed question, "Is it worth while that we meet again and reorganize Washington county," and in a few spirited words injected new enthusiasm into the hearts of the people which may result in concerted activity in the local association.

Each place at the banquet tables was furnished with a bottle of Holstein milk through the liberality of the Schroeder dairy.

SAFETY COUNCIL MEETS;
Asks County Board Aid

A resolution was approved at a meeting of the Washington County Safety Council in West Bend Monday evening to ask for an appropriation of $200 from the county board. The resolution is to be presented to the board in the present May session by the county highway committee.

If the appropriation is granted, the money will be expended by the county highway committee as needed for the purpose of safety council activities, including a salary of $50 a year for the secretary, the purchase of cameras to be used for advertising the activities of the council and to keep better accident records, and the defraying of some of the expense for postage, educational materials, stenographic work and other incidental expense to a successful program of safety work.

The safety council decided to approve of such a resolution after it was pointed out that an original appropriation of $100 by the county board on Nov. 22, 1935, has been exhausted. The original appropriation was made at the time the council was organized under the county highway department.

It was also pointed out at the meeting that the council is unable to derive sufficient income from the annual sale of safety emblems for automobiles to properly conduct a safety program.

If the appropriation is granted, two cameras will be purchased for use by the county traffic officers and the sheriff's department for the main purpose of taking pictures of bad accidents. These pictures will then be circulated in the various communities and schools of the county as part of the council's educational program and they will also be placed on file with accident reports.

The council again recommended the installation of reflecting stop signs at the intersection of County Trunk P. with Highway 45-55 at Dheinsville. It was pointed out that Highway 144 has not been properly marked along Highways 45-55 and west on 33 from Barton through the city of West Bend to the new extension of the highway on the west Cedar lake road. It was advised that the state highway commission will have those signs installed shortly.

The council voted to hold the next meeting at Slinger at 8 p. m. on Monday, June 3.
