Co. Tavern League Picnic in Local Park Sunday, Rain or Shine

The Washington County Tavern League will hold their postponed first annual picnic in the beautiful Kewaskum park this Sunday afternoon and evening, Sept. 1st, rain or shine. Rain prevented the event from being held on the original date, Aug. 18, The program scheduled for that date will be held in its entirety Sunday and arrangements have been completed to entertain a large crowd. There'll be plenty of entertainment of all kinds and all are invited to come and have the time of their lives at this grand event.

Arrangements have also been mad by members of the league to hold the plenic indoors in case of rain. Should it rain the amusement and concession stands will be moved to the Kewaskum Opera House, the Wm. Schaefer and Ollie Staehler garages, which will provide ample space to house most of the stands.

About 80 tavernkeepers of the county are members of the league and nearly all will be here Sunday to see that both old and young will be entertained. There will be rides, games and amuse. ments of all sorts as well as ice cream lunches and refreshments. Be sure to bring the kiddies for the special rides. In the evening a dance will be held in the Kewaskum Opera House, featuring the modern and old time music of Ray's Wisconsin Aces. Admission 30c, including tax. Be sure to stay and celebrate with the tavernkeepers at the dance.

Lemonade.

Follow these three rules if you want to make perfect lemonade: Use fresh lemon juice and plenty of it; sweeten to the taste of each-not too much sweetening for folks who like it sour-sweeter for those with a sweet tooth; use ice and more ice. For each person served, allow: 1 lemon

1 to 2 tablespoons sugar or honey 1 cup cold water

Extract lemon juice. Add sugar or honey to taste. Stir to dissolve. Add water. Serve over ice in large glasses. Garnish with lemon slice on rim of glass. To make lemon fizz, make lemonade with carbonated water.

The question put by the French court to all those former leaders will be obviously, "Do you plead guilty or guilty?"

It was only gradually that she mercame this fear. But the sunsine and the peace of her immedate surroundings, the care she demeted to her children and the always affectionate solicitude of her hisband, were powerful sedatives fer her peace of mind.

It was thus that the years of moththood passed for Dona Juana. Her our maid was an alert mission Incan named Monica. Monica, like her mistress, was of an apprehensize temperament; she had even less confidence in the Sierra Indians than Dona Juana herself.

The older of the two girls had grown to be eight when her mother made ready for a little house party, a valecito casero. On the day before the invitations were sent out by messenger, Monica came to her mistress with disquieting news. Dome Juana was seated in the patio facing the garden. The two children

Done Juana started. "Where did you hear this?" she asked. From Manuelo, the cook. You now, senora, he has a boy, Yosco.

I do not trust that boy. Manuelo is monest-he has warned us before. Think Yosco gets his news secretly from a renegade mission Indian and tells his father."

He gave a loud cry. The door was houses; others, mounting, made barred from the inside. He raised ready to run off the horses from the boy in broken sentences of the his voice in a mighty shout, his companions joining in. With only seconds left before the yelling horsemen should be upon them the three back at the complete ruin of what, desperate men threw themselves with all their force against the barred door-in vain. It had been the boast of the Rancho Los Alamos that no foe, however powerful, could break through that door.

Only a moment of life was left to the distracted Don to wonder, amazed, at why his own door had been thus barred against him. The next moment he and his men lay on the porch, shot through and through with arrows. The foremost of their pursuers, springing from ponies, were already astride their victims, hacking their bodies with knives as they glutted their fury and grunted at each stab into the bodies of their dying victims.

In less time than the telling, it was over. The brown tile of the portico was a shambles. The savages, frenzied with triumph, dragged the bodies from the door, and the chief, his hands dripping with the blood of Don Alfredo, pounded on the door and shouted in his Indian tongue.

The door was promptly flung open. The savages, rushing into the house, ran to the bedrooms. There were four. The Indian houseboy, Yosco, who had barred the door to his master, opened it to the murderers and pointed with eager, cunning eyes to the room of Don Alfredo.

CHAPTER II

The morning sun was high, but the padre in his brown woolen habit plodded steadily on, sustained by the thought that Rancho Los Alamos could now be only a little way ahead. There, he promised himself, he would find rest, a little refreshment and some pleasant conversation with Don Alfredo and his lovely wife, Dona Juana, before he continued his southward journey with the patient Indian neophyte now trudging by his side.

Hardly had the pleasurable thought crossed his mind when the neophyte halted and, cupping his left hand above his eyes, looked toward the hills beyond the river.

Padre Vicente Pasqual paused. "What do you see, Diego?" "Smoke, Padre."

In flag-bedecked Elwood, Ind. Wendell Lewis Willkie accepted the Republican presidential nomination and gave "an outline of the political philosophy that is in my heart."

Mr. Willkie stated his belief in labor's right of collective bargaining. old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, regulation of security markets, banking and interstate utilities, rural electrification, minimum wages and maximum hours, and the existing farm program.

Of his foreign policy he said: "I would do everything to defend American democracy and I would refrain from doing anything that injured it . . . I trust I have made it plain that in defense of America and our liberties, I would not hesitate to stand for war. Our way of life is in competition with Hitler's way of life."

Of defense, he said: "Some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to assure the trained and competent manpower we need. The first task of our country . . . is to become strong at home."

He challenged the President to meet him in face-to-face debate.

Wild Harold

In what was declared before delivery to be the administration answer to the Willkie speech, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, original third termer, said the President could not adjourn the battle of Britain, on which American traditions may depend, to ride the circuit with Mr. Willkie.

Said "Wild Harold": "If Mr. Willkie is so eager for a debate, I suggest he challenge his running mate, Senator McNary, with whom he is at greater variance on domestic and foreign issues than his speech of acceptance shows him to be with President Roosevelt."

Congressional Attention Focused On National Preparedness Plan

Suggest Investigation of Progress Made; Roosevelt Takes Personal Charge of Defense Program; Army Leaders Prepare for Draft.

By G. F.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) WASHINGTON,-Congress is annoved by slow motion in the national defense program.

The war department recently reported to a joint committee of the house and senate that although approximately $400,000,000 had been appropriated in June for army airplanes, engines and accessories, actual contracts had been signed for

The appropriation bills provided funds for 4,000 planes, but seven weeks later only 33 planes actually were under contract-and those will not be delivered before January or

In the same hearing, the national defense commission reported that the army would not have full equipment for 750,000 men before 1942.

Inasmuch as congress has appropriated and authorized $14,000,000. 000 for national defense since January, 1940, members of the house and senate are pressing for a thorough investigation of the preparedness slow-down.

Some leaders favor establishment of a joint committee of the house and senate to conduct a continuing "audit" of the defense contracts. Such an arrangement would keep congress fully abreast of new orders. Capitol Hill has been grumbling sotto voce for several weeks over reports of confusion and conflict in the military departments. Whatever the cause, heavy defense equipment is not yet being produced in any considerable quantity. This applies particularly to long-range guns for the coast artillery, heavy naval guns, land tanks, and long-range bombing planes. Congress is determined to find the bottleneck.

One course of friction has been located in the procurement division of the treasury department, which long has been the general purchasing agency for the government. Secretary Morgenthau feels his department should continue to place the contracts. On the other hand, should place their own orders for ed publicly. highly specialized equipment. Third, by the government.

In this scramble many orders are falling between the three contending authorities, or being delayed by departmental red-tape.

Secretary Morgenthau has informed congress that out of the $14,000,000,000 now available for defense, not more than $5,000,000,000 could be spent by July 1, 1941, under the present schedule of buying.

American industry has made every effort to get the preparedness wheels turning. Thousands of manufacturers have come to Washington at their own expense to offer their plants to the government. sought. Confusion prevails in the purchasing agencies, due to conflicts of authority under the hastily written emergency legislation. The defense commission is now appealing to Washington, but to wait until they receive inquiries by mail.

President Roosevelt has taken direct personal charge of the entire defense program. Although heavily burdened by acute problems in foreign relations, and a multitude of pressing domestic issues, Mr. Roosevelt wants to give personal approval of every major contract for defense equipment. His long experience as assistant secretary of the navy equipped him with special technical knowledge of fighting seacraft. He is not equally familiar military aviation in the modern SPEEDY preparedness on the part sense, has developed since Mr. Roosevelt left the navy department | right to explain to the country, in 1921. ## DEFENSE PROGRAM

Members of congress are greatly interested in the progress made toward increasing preparedness for national defense. They have appropriated $14,000,000,000 for this purpose since January, 1940. President Roosevelt takes direct personal charge of the defense program in an effort to speed up work. The value and need for compulsory military training raises vital questions.

Many critics insist that voluntary enlistments should be given a trial, at least to the point at which surplus military equipment will be available over and above that needed for the present standing army and National Guard.

The wave of anti-conscription mail is making a deep impression upon congressional sentiment. What purpose will be served by registering 12,000,000 young men for compulsory military service when there is no field equipment available for even 750,000 men? So runs the cloakroom discussion on Capitol Hill. Much opposition to conscription is based upon the fact that compulsory military service has been a favored device of the European dictators. In ordinary times this hardly would be a valid argument against conscription in the United States. But these are not ordinary times. During the last seven years vast discretionary powers have been delegated to the President by congress. For the most part these powers are all dormant for the time being. But they may be called to active use by a mere presidential proclama-

Cleaning Pewter. OUESTION: How is pewter cleaned and polished? Answer-Immerse the pewter in a solution of one-third cup of lye in two quarts of water. After three hours the dinginess will begin to loosen, and can be rubbed off. In very bad cases, much longer immersion is necessary, but in that event a fresh solution should be used every six or eight hours. The pewter should be watched and kept in the solution no longer than necessary. The immersion should be complete. Any part out of the solution will form a line, which cannot be eradicated. Wood handles should be taken off or kept out of the soluclear water. To brighten the metal use a good quality metal polish as wear rubber gloves and avoid spattering the solution.

Cod Liver Oil Stains. Question: How can cod liver oil stains be removed from cotton Answer: When fresh, cod liver oil stains can be taken out with carbon tetrachloride. Place the stained part over a thick pad of cloth and apply carbon tetrachloride liberally. The pad will absorb the oil as it is dissolved. With the carbon tetrachloride still in the cloth, wash with soap and water. Another remedy is to rub the stain with a mixture of 1 tablespoon soap flakes and 2 tablespoons of boiling water, with 2 tablespoons anyl acetate added after the soap and water mixture begins to thicken. Rub well, and after the stain has been rubbed away, wash with warm suds. When cod liver oil stains have been laundered, they become set, and the brown stain is almost impossible to remove.

Cracked Wallpaper. Question: A chimney goes up the wall of a bedroom, and wallpaper always cracks in the corners. In repapering the rooms, how can we prevent this? Answer: That cracking may be due either to the settling of the chimney or to expansion and contraction with changes of temperature. One cure is to put quarterround moulding in the corners, nailed to the wall only, these mouldings to be painted with the trim in the room. Another idea is to bring the wallpaper on the wall only up to the chimney, while wallpaper on | more new drugs to produce sleep the chimney is brought only to the | and relieve pain placed on the marwall; in other words, the paper does | ket in the last few years than nearnot go across the corners.

Some Pointers For Those Who Sleep Lightly

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE story has been told for I many years about a member of a household who complained of her inability to sleep.

She said she was a very light sleep- TODAY'S er, the slightest noise would HEALTH awaken her, and, COLUMN once awake, it would be hours before she got off to sleep again. It happened one night that there was a large fire directly across the street, so large, indeed, that a "gention, rinse the article with plenty of eral" alarm was sounded and States, almost 90 per cent of its color scheme. The dearest wish with it, the usual noises of soon as possible after cleaning. Be- sirens and shouting. Everybody cause of the corrosive effect of lye, in the house was awakened and watched the proceedings for hours; everybody except the nonsleeper and she had taken no drugs to make her sleep.

The point is that most of us get more sleep than we think we do. The minutes that we are awake during the night seem like hours and the hours we sleep seem like minutes. In searching for the cause of insomnia or sleeplessness, there are certain allments,

such as a brain tumor and high blood pressure that should be considered. There Dr. Barton are also cases of disturbed rest due to poor mattresses or springs, too much light, unusual noises, worries or problems, pain, temperature of room too high or too low, the wrong kind or too much food at evening meal or before retiring.

Most insomnia patients respond well to a hot bath before retiring if they will go to bed in the darkness immediately after the bath. In mental hospitals where there are both the depressed and the excitable types, the hot bath for some minutes is often used to induce and prolong sleep.

The Question of Drugs.

What about drugs? It would be safe to say that there have been ly all other new drugs for other conditions combined. In cases where there has been severe emotional disturbance causing sleeplessdrink, hot water bag to stomach, light exercise before retiring, should also be tried before the use of the sleeping tablet should be permitted.

Injections of Pollen Extract. The treatment now generally used is to try to make the patient less sensitive or allergic to the substance -ragweed pollen in most cases-to which he is sensitive. This is done by injecting small quantities of pollen extract under the skin once or twice a week for six to eight weeks before the hay fever symptoms usually appear. Most physicians prefer to start the injections not less than three to four months before the hay fever season as it allows much more pollen extract to be given and thus a better chance to get the system desensitized to the ragweed pollen.

With the arrival of the hay fever season, the injections are continued but the dose is reduced to one-half. If you are subject to hay fever you should consult your physician at once about the use of the pollen extract. Most family physicians Question: I am told that shellac now give these injections regularly.
