Represented Assures Entry; Bench Show Sun- Night; Prizes, Trophies and Ribbons to be Awarded

Members of the club and his beagles are consistent winners. His dogs have already won hundreds of cups and ribbons and no doubt his beagles will score again. The club is well satisfied with the location here because it is very suitable for trials of its kind. The club also appreciates the cooperation and generosity of the village and farmers hereabouts. That is why Kewaskum is the site of the annual event.

Results of the trials and show will appear in these columns next week.

Adell Defeats Waldo For Kettle Moraine Pennant

The Adell and Waldo baseball teams, which tied for first place in the second half of the split season in the Kettle Moraine league with 7 wins and 1 defeat apiece, played off for the second half title at Cascade Sunday and Adell was victor, 7 to 5. Adell also won the first half with a record of 8 wins and 6 losses and this playoff victory gives them the 1940 pennant, won by Green-bush last year. Second place goes to the team with the next best record for the entire season. Waldo and Kewaskum are tied for this honor with 11 victories and 5 defeats each. Although Waldo lost only 1 game this half they were set back 4 times the first half while Kewaskum lost 2 the first half and 3 the last for the tie. A league meeting is being held to-night, Friday, to decide on a way to settle the deadlock for second place.

She immigrated to the United States with her parents at the age of seven years, the family settling in Milwaukee where she was married to Casper Brandstetter in 1882. The couple made their home in Milwaukee until 1902, when they came to Kewaskum. Mrs. Brandstetter had been a resident of this village since that time, until about a year ago when she returned to Milwaukee to be near her daughters. Mr. Brandstetter preceded her in death here in 1914.

Surviving are three daughters, Marie, Laura and Rose of Milwaukee; four sons, Herman and George of Athens, Wis., Carl and William of West Bend; two brothers, William Mueller of Ellsworth, Wis., and Peter Mueller of Fond du Lac; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Wagner of Fond du Lac; seven grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Brandstetter was a member of St. Mary's sodality of Holy Trinity church many years, the members of which attended the funeral in a body.

Mrs. Brandstetter's death was a shocking blow to her family, relatives and many friends. She was an understanding, kind hearted and very likeable lady who possessed a sweet personality. These virtues made her beloved and she leaves dear memories to those close to her, to whom our heartfelt sympathy is extended.

Kewaskum High Squad Makes 6-Man Tackle Football Debut

Tri-County League Plays Regular Football First Time in History; Local Gridders Open at North Fondy, Brandon Here Thursday

Six-man football—the tackle variety—makes its debut in the Tri-County Athletic conference today, Friday, when six schools, North Fond du Lac, Lomira, Campbellsport, Kewaskum, Oakfield and Brandon swing into action for the 1940 season. This year is the first time that regular football has ever been played in the conference. As an experiment, touch six-man football was played last season. Rosevale, another league member, will not play this year.

Lomira, Brandon and North Fond du Lac are at home for the opening contests. Kewaskum, undefeated champion of the "touch" league last year, invades North Fond du Lac, Campbellsport plays at Brandon and Oakfield at Lomira.

The game of six-men football varies little from the regular eleven man game except in the number of team members. Other variations include: requirement of 15 yards for a first down instead of 10 as in eleven man, the requirement of a pass in the backfield before running plays, an 80 yard by 40 yard field instead of a 54 by 100 yard field as in eleven man, and all men on a team are eligible to receive passes whereas in eleven man only the backfield men and ends are eligible.

This game of football is much easier for an inexperienced fan to understand than the eleven man game because there is so much open field running and passing and the ball is not hidden as thoroughly with 12 men on the field as with 22.

There has been a group of 17 boys conditioning themselves and learning the fundamentals of the game for the past four weeks at the Kewaskum High school field. They are small but pretty tough and are loaded with the old fight. However, many of them have never seen a regulation football game and lack experience, which will prove a handicap until more of the fundamentals of the game can be learned with experience.

Although seven members of the Kewaskum team were out for football last year, only two of them, Ralph Krautkramer and Harold Bunkelman, were regulars. Coach Lyle E. Gibson lost five regulars through graduation. Krautkramer, Petermann, Bremser and Koehler are counted on heavily for duty this season. Members of the squad and their weights follow:

Ralph Krautkramer, 132; Harold Bunkelman, 128; James Strupp, 145; Roger Bilko, 157; Bob Brauchle, 134; Ray Vyvay, 154; Wayland Tessar, 134; Frank Bremser, 130; Lloyd Petermann, 135; Arnold Hawig, 158; Marlin Kocher, 140; George Petri, 157; Allan Tessar, 118; John Stelling, 150; Clayton Stautz, 124; Darwin Bruessel, 130; Donald Klenke, 124. Unlike the Green Bay Packers, the squad has no 250-pound linemen.

In the team's first game at North Fondy, an experienced group who have played regular 11 man tackle football for the last three years, North Fondy is expected to win by a large margin. However, the local team has been itching for a crack at that first game and looking forward to making it just as tough for Fondy as they possibly can. Coach Humphrey of North Fondy reported that 50 boys came out for the team there. Fondy beat Sheboygan Falls 31 to 26 last Friday.

The first tackle game at home in the history of the village will be played on the school field next Thursday against Brandon at 2:30 p. m. Coach Lewein of that team has three lettermen back from last year: Hess, 180-pound end; Frei, 155, defensive end and offensive fullback, and Born, 135, halfback.

Making preparations for equipping a team, preparing a team to play and making an infinite number of other arrangements is a big task but it is hoped that football in the local high school will be rewarded by the support of the village and may take its place in Kewaskum as in larger cities as the thrilling necessary part of the autumn entertainment. However, the writer believes it will be difficult to draw at games on Thursday or Friday afternoons because of people working. It would be fine if games were played on Saturday afternoons or at night as in larger cities.

The Kewaskum team will be equipped with uniforms of a three-color combination. They will wear green jerseys, gold pants and black helmets.

SCHEDULE

The league schedule for the season appears below. It does not include a practice game which Kewaskum expects to play at a later date. The five-game schedule:

Sept. 27—Oakfield at Lomira, Campbellsport at Brandon, Kewaskum at North Fond du Lac, Oct. 3—Brandon at Kewaskum, Oct. 4—N. Fondy at

County Late Fair and Apple Show Oct. 11-13

The Washington County Late Fair and Apple show will be held in the Hartford City hall, Hartford, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 11, 12 and 13. Plans for the late fair and apple show were completed at a meeting of county fruit growers held in the agricultural agent's office on Wednesday evening of this week. Apples are not as plentiful this year as they were last year. However, the quality of Washington county grown fruit is exceptionally good. Fruit growers expressed a desire to stress quality products in their 1940 show and only the best quality apples will be shown. Last year about 1,000 trays and plates of apples were exhibited.

The late fair and apple show is free to visitors. The late fair is merely a continuation of the county fair and gives 4-H club members and others an opportunity for showing corn, late potatoes and fruit. The county fair held during the middle of August comes too early to permit the showing of the above mentioned products.

The apple show is sponsored by the fruit growers of Washington county and gives the public an opportunity to see the high quality fruit that county orchards are producing. The show is purely a good will venture on the part of the fruit growers of the county in order to acquaint the consumer with the superior quality of home grown orchard products.

The fruit growers' apple show will award ribbons only whereas regular county fair premiums will be paid on all late fair exhibits.

Premium lists for the late fair may be obtained from the county agricultural agent's office. If you are interested, kindly write or phone and a copy will be sent you.

Who's a Copycat? Everybody!

Man is, under the skin, and sometimes on top of it, remarkably akin to the lower animals. His sense of self-preservation is just as acute. So are his appetites and a great many of his emotions. The following series of photos is not intended to poke fun at anyone, but is designed merely to draw a few parallels. In some of the cases portrayed the subjects have deliberately copied denizens of the lower animal kingdom. In others the similarity is purely accidental. We could have drawn more deadly parallels, but our aim is a pleasing series and nothing would be gained by introducing unpleasantness. There is too much of that in the headlines.

VAMPIRE... In the upper picture we have a giant fruit bat, popularly called the vampire bat through a belief that it sucks human blood. It is not pretty. The maid in the lower picture suggests a bat in flight—making a pretty picture. Her cloak is designed to act as a sail on a ski run. Her name, Madeline O'Reilly, of New York. She was photographed at North Conway, New Hampshire.

NOSY... This monkey gets his name from his extraordinary proboscis. Nature gave it to him for a reason—and the reason was not to make people laugh.

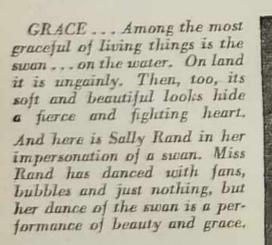

SCHNOZZOLA... Jimmy Durante, famed stage and screen comedian, found that his nose is his fortune. He is grinning here from a garland of Hawaiian leis.

If we don't pay too much attention to the grizzly bear's terrible claws we manage to feel sorry for him, with his nose pressed pathetically against the bars of his cage pining for the woods and freedom.

COUNTERPART... But we cannot pity this human counterpart of the bear, glaring through the bars of his cell after his arrest on the charge of killing a four-year-old girl through criminal attack.

GRACE... Among the most graceful of living things is the swan... on the water. On land it is ungainly. Then, too, its soft and beautiful looks hide a fierce and fighting heart. And here is Sally Rand in her impersonation of a swan. Miss Rand has danced with fans, bubbles and just nothing, but her dance of the swan is a performance of beauty and grace.

This baby lion is pleasant... but just wait! And so with the boy. Will that grand smile hold out through life, or become a snarl?

Getting It Straight
Some folks call burro weed "aplopapus coronopifolius" or "bigelovia hartwegii." They, too, are likely to call blue palo verde "cercidium torreyanum." But Lyman Benson of the University of Arizona studied burro weed and examined a photograph of the palo verde in the herbarium of Trinity college, Dublin, Ireland. He found that burro weed actually was "haplopappus tenuisectus" and the blue palo verde "cercidium floridum."

Cross-word Puzzles
Puzzles similar to the cross-word puzzles were known to the ancients. What is believed by some authorities to be the oldest cross-word puzzle was made by a Cretan about 2,000 years ago, a copy of which now lies in the archeological museum at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore. This puzzle is called the Phaestus disk, and was found on the Island of Crete by an expedition many years ago.

A party of British soldiers, billeted in a French village, met a Frenchman who was known to one of them. This soldier stopped and, desirous of displaying his command of the language, said very audibly: "Oo ay lee Casino, Monshoo?"

'SCHOOL DAZE, SCHOOL DAZE!
The public schools have opened and millions of children give again and outdoors and start fooling up playing outdoors and start fooling in the schoolroom.

They had a lot of fun during the vacation, but weren't anywhere near as idle as they will be when they get back to their studies.

Whether the children have been getting the right sort of education is now a question agitating many nations. That many of the weaknesses in social systems are due to emphasis on the wrong things in education is widely charged. France declares, through Marshal Petain, that its public school system was "a lie," and says that from now on the schools will teach "respect of the human individual, the family, society and the nation."

France has blamed about everything else for its defeat, and it may be stretching a point to blame the schools, but this department thinks a little shaking up of the American public school system wouldn't do us any harm.

If Uncle Sam's schools are teaching American boys and girls respect for the family, society and the nation, a lot of the kids are not listening. (There we go preaching again.)

How about getting back to the old-fashioned days when school was opened with prayer and the national anthem, with teacher supplying the inspiration?

The schools are instructing the kids in dates that don't matter, historical episodes that they will never remember and various subjects which will be of little use to 'em. The only exam they pass quickly is the one which asks, "What was Jimmy Cagney's last picture?" "Name four night clubs most often mentioned in the press." "What six movie stars were divorced in the last 10 days?" and "Has mommer developed a system to beat bingo yet?"

The three Rs would seem to be Robinson, Rooney and Romero.

Of course, the schools may not be entirely to blame for the fact that little boys grow up into men who yawn as a veterans' parade passes, give a sloppy salute to Old Glory and say "So what!" when told that democracy is in danger.

The old folks at home have something to do with it. Pop never read the Declaration of Independence, and thinks Magna Charta is a new screen actress.

CARMEN OF THE RANCHO

SYNOPSIS

Alfredo, wealthy, Spanish owner of a California rancho, refuses to heed warnings of a raid by a band of Sierran Indians. One day after he has decided to seek the protection of the military mission for his wife and family, Don Alfredo is killed by the Indians. His two young daughters are torn from the family's faithful maid, and are carried away to the hills. Pasqual, missionary friend of the rancho, arrives at the ruins of the rancho, trying to find a way to California and mountains from Texas to California. He is followed by a Texas scout, Simmie, who has carried off the two girls. The three Texans attack the party of fifty odd Indians and through a series of events the girls are saved. The group makes its way out of the hills and meets the distraught father, the children's maid. The girls are with Monica and the friendly Padre at a mission.

"And a brief word to the mission on the way, so that if you are sick you shall be cared for. If you are hungry you shall be fed, and for your repose you shall have a place to sleep," continued the padre. Bowie felt overcome. "It is too much," was all he could urge. "Far from enough for what you have done. Since you have done it for these, His little ones, my son, you have done it for Him. What religion have you?" "Padre, I started right. But how could I have any left after living all my life on the frontier, far from all religion? As a boy I slept on the plains and fought Indians and rode with cattle..."

in their California living rooms. Or perhaps the aversion was born of sad experience with Yankee-dyed fabrics, their colors too perishable for the honest sunshine of the Pacific slope.

When Larkin entered the room Bowie introduced himself and his companions. "Mr. Larkin, you know General Sam Houston?" suggested the Texan.

"By reputation, yes. Do you come from him?" "I come from him. Mr. Larkin, we've broken away from the greasers down our way. We're flying our own flag in Texas. I'm here just to learn what I can and report back to the man that sent me."

Larkin studied his visitor closely. "What are your credentials, Mr. Bowie?" he asked. "All in my head. I was directed to speak to you and make no move without your sanction. Had I brought any writing with me and been caught by the greasers it would have gone hard. By pulling together, Mr. Larkin, Texans and Californians can establish an empire that will reach from the Gulf of Mexico to the Gulf of California. That's what some of our people have got in their heads. That's the reason I'm in California."

He waited for Larkin's response. The latter hesitated some moments. When he spoke his attitude was not unfriendly but plainly it was not enthusiastic.

"Things are very different with us here in California from what they were in Texas when you started your fight. Most of our white men are not greasers, as you call them. They are of Spanish blood, just as white as you and I. These big land grants near here—anyway, in several cases that I know of—come direct from the king of Spain. When you talk about changing the flag you've got to deal with Californians of that kind of blood—and let me tell you, they hate the Yankees like poison. They are the kindest-hearted, most generous people in the world, but they don't want to get mixed up with Russians or English or Yankees. They are proud, and they are gentlemen, and they are very independent. So you see what little there is in any situation here, just at present, to interest General Houston."

"At the same time you will see, if you stay a while, as I strongly advise you to do, that things are kind of well, say—unsettled here, just as they are down your way. There's no denying that. What's going to come out of it no man can tell much better than you can. Bowie offered a few of his own thoughts. "I'm beginning to like this country. I'm going to stay a while, anyway. I'd like to live among the kind of people you describe. But I'll admit right off, I'm death on greasers and Indians."

Bowie was nettled. "Far from it. He needed an ambassador, as you call it, who could cut through half a dozen Indian tribes a third for ambassadors' scalps, who could negotiate a thousand miles of hell's deserts and climb half a dozen Sierra ranges and swim forty or fifty rivers with a mule, just for exercise; who could get fat on lizards, frogs, bugs and leather belts, and drink blue sky for water."

Dr. Doane listened without betraying all he felt at Bowie's impatient outburst. "You've seen service," blurted out Doane one day. He was examining some scars on his patient's torso. "For a boy of nineteen you've been busy. Where did you do your fighting, son?"

"Well, we've had several little brushes with the greasers. You've heard of our troubles along the Rio Grande. Santa Ana kept us on the run a while. But for every Texan he slaughtered at the Alamo, and for every Texan murdered at Goliad, we've taken toll. I followed Sam ing their horses, walked them up the hill toward the Texans. From the appearance and apparel of the two, Bowie judged them to be master and servant, the servant riding somewhat behind.

"Buenas noches, amigos," said the leading horseman in salute. Bowie held up his hand deprecatingly. "No habla espanol," he exclaimed, rising and realizing at once that he had a gentleman to deal with.

"Ah! Rusos?" asked the Californian pleasantly. Bowie understood that much. He shook his head. "No?" Questioned the horseman again. "Then Yanquis?" Again Bowie comprehended but denied more vigorously.

"Que mas?" asked the puzzled stranger, though still politely. Still shaking his head, Bowie tried to explain. "Sorry, but I can't speak Spanish."

"Ho! Americanos!" "Texans!" exclaimed Bowie with emphasis. "Not Yankees." "Ah, I understand!" "You speak English?"

"A little, senior. I have heard of your Texans. Brave fellows even though they do not get on with their Mexican brothers." Again Bowie dissented vigorously. "No brothers, senior!"

"The don was not to be ruffled. "Neighbors, then, if you like," he suggested good-naturedly. "Neighbors, senior. But for Texans, bad neighbors."

The visitor shrugged his shoulders. "Have it as you will, amigo! A Mexican, of course, might tell another story. But you are, besides Texans, travelers and evidently preparing to spend the night al fresco. This gives me some concern because it is certain to rain before morning, and rain will find you much exposed. And when it rains here it is likely to rain—what do they say in Texas?—pitchforks."

While the Californian spoke he sat his horse with the ease of one seasoned to the high-peaked Spanish saddle. His trappings were elaborate; the eyes of the two scouts were glued on them. Saddle and bridle were richly chased in silver.

Bowie, without overlooking these things of interest, paid closer attention to the horseman himself. He was young and dandified—it was just his unaffected good nature that checked in the rough-and-ready Bowie any feeling of resentment at his highly particular rig.

His hat, with its low crown and broad, straight severe brim, seemed in keeping with the dignity of the wearer. His aspect was dark, but his mustachios, the most commanding of his rather small features, were of contrasting lighter color and lent something agreeable to the frank, open expression of his eyes. His voice, as he chatted, was pleasant.

The youth wore a short dark bo-lero jacket heavily embroidered in silver and knee breeches edged below with silver lace. His soft buckskin leggings were highly but pleasingly stamped with the fanciful devices of a Mexican artisan. From head to foot he presented a picture of distinction and detail, yet he was quite simple in manner.

"I see," said the Californian presently. "You are hunters." "That's why we are heading for the hills," explained Bowie, "to bring in some game—and," he added jokingly, "among other things, to buy some salt."

"I love to hunt," returned the don. "And nothing I like better than the hunter's supper out in the open, like this. In fact, I confess it was envy that turned me up this way when I saw the fire and the party, though I was far from being in hunter's rig myself."

"Where," asked Bowie, "did you learn so much English?" "I have a sister married to a Boston man, a ship-owner. I had two years at Georgetown University."

"Georgetown! I had one year there myself," said Bowie. "May I ask your name?" "Francisco Estradillo; and yours, senior?"

"Henry Bowie. I'm a long way from Texas. This is Ben Pardaloe, and this is Simmie."

Francisco nodded. "My uncle, Don Ramon Estrada, lives not far from here—about ten miles. I am visiting him. You are on his ranch. You tell me you are hunting. Day after tomorrow we are to have a hunt at the rancho. You should join us. Come! Why sleep out tonight? Come with me to Don Ramon's."

The Estrada rancho, a royal grant, embraced a tract eleven leagues by eleven leagues. The two-story rancho house crowned the brow of a gentle rise in the fertile Santa Clara Valley and looked toward the distant heights of Santa Ysabel. To the north of the rancho house a group of buildings sheltered the Indian servants and the vaqueros. Don Francisco did not escape a wetting. It was raining hard when he rode with his three Texans up to the rancho house, and first of all, despite the downpour, looked up quarters for his guests. Pardaloe and Simmie he lodged with the vaqueros. Bowie he took with him to his own room in the rancho house.

Gall Bladder Often Cause Of 'The Blues'

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A MAN of thirty-five, after doing excellent work at one branch of his organization, was notified that he was being transferred to a larger branch with an increase of salary.

To make sure that everything would be in the best of order for the man taking over his present situation, he worked day and night, regardless of any regularity of eating or sleeping. As the day approached he found himself worrying about his fitness for the promotion. He became blue and discouraged and was about to turn down the promotion. In desperation, he consulted his physician.

The physician found that there was nothing abnormal except a slight yellowness of the skin. He learned from the patient that he had been working hard to get things in order, had been irregular in his meals, eating much pastry at a neighboring restaurant as he hadn't time to go home for lunch or dinner. He was afraid the new position would be too much for him.

Tension a Prime Cause. The physician explained that keeping his mind tensed kept his body tensed and interfered with the proper working of stomach, liver, gall bladder and intestinal movement or action, and that bile, instead of flowing freely into the intestine, was backing up into the stomach and into the blood. Also, the gall bladder was not emptying its thick bile often enough. Accordingly, what is known as the dye test was made and it was found that the liver was not filtering its poisons out promptly and that the gall bladder took about twice as long to empty (after a fat meal) as it should normally.

Some bending exercises, the use of bile, a course of Epsom salts, an enema every week, together with four small meals daily, restored the liver to normal, which, together with a more rapid emptying of the gall bladder, removed the patient's dread and fear. He entered into his new work with enthusiasm.

Do not blame your blues, your lack of courage, your fear of work, upon any mental overwork or disturbance. Very often if you get your liver and gall bladder working properly, these symptoms will disappear.

Infection Is Chief Cause of Arthritis. IF AN attack of rheumatism or arthritis follows exposure to cold or a fall or other injury, rest in bed is the usual treatment, with heat in various forms applied to the joint.

Now, the fact that there has been exposure to coldness and dampness or that there has been some injury does not mean that the coldness and dampness or the injury is the cause of the arthritis. What it usually does mean is that there is already trouble—infection—present in the system, and the cold or injury brings the infection to the one spot—muscles or joints. Thus the cold or injury locates or makes local the condition. The tissues in these particular places that have been exposed to cold or injury—muscles and joints—appear to lose some of their power to resist infections, and so the pain, stiffness, swelling and other symptoms occur.

Cases Usually of Long Standing. The first thing to remember is that the infection causing the arthritis has been in the system for a long time—likely for years—but the resistance to it has been strong enough to prevent symptoms until the cold or injury (or perhaps emotional disturbance) has lowered the resistance of these tissues and the infection gets the upper hand.

With this thought in mind a search should be first made for the infection and if found it should, whenever possible, be removed so that further damage to joint and surrounding tissues will be prevented. While the search for and removal of infection is being made treatment in the form of rest, heat (and later massage) and reduction of starch goods should be given.

QUESTION BOX Q.—Sometimes my hearing leaves me for a few minutes and then returns. What could be the cause? A.—This may be due to a head cold which closes, or partly closes, the eustachian tube which carries air from the throat to the inner side of the middle ear.

Q.—Is Whitfield's ointment, used in severe cases of ringworm of the feet, a proprietary medicine? A.—No. It is a prescription of a British skin specialist.

Q.—How often can a blood donor give blood and keep safe himself? A.—It depends upon the donor. If he eats good food and gets plenty of rest he can give blood at least once a month.

Q.—Please tell me what causes hardening of liver? A.—Cirrhosis or hardening of liver was formerly thought to be due to alcohol, but it is now believed that more cases are due to infection or to poisons from the bowel. Vomiting is a very common symptom. May be jaundice, swelling of feet, occasional pain in right upper abdomen.

County Agent Notes

POTATO BLIGHT AFFECTS LOCAL CROP

Late potato blight is infecting many local potato fields and causing considerable loss to potato growers. However, the loss will not be as great locally as in some of the other Wisconsin counties.

Potato blight is caused by a virus and spreads rapidly in cool moist weather. Spraying generously with Bordeaux mixture will prevent blight earlier in the season. It is too late now to help potatoes by applying a spray.

Growers may detect the presence of blight by the condition of the foliage. If this is brown and dry it may be taken as an indication of the presence of blight. The digging of fields thus affected should be prolonged as late as the weather will permit.

Digging such fields at the present time would cause the blight to spread rapidly among the potato tubers. Later in the season the skin of the tuber becomes tougher and less subject to infection. Besides late digging makes possible a quicker and more thorough detection of infected tubers.

CORN BORER INFECTS MANY CORN FIELDS

The European corn borer has infected many Washington county corn fields during the past summer. No commercial damage, however, has been caused. During the past season the borer has been found in 26 southeastern Wisconsin counties with the heaviest infection in Racine, Kenosha and Green Lake counties.

LIFE CYCLE OF THE CORN BORER—Like many other insects, the corn borer passes through four distinct stages namely, the egg, the larva, the pupa and the adult stages. These larvae pass the winter in the stalks and during the early spring transforms into the pupae stage. After spending a couple of weeks in this inactive pupal stage, adult moths emerge ready to deposit their eggs on the growing corn during the latter part of June and throughout July. The eggs hatch in four to six days and the young larvae which feed at first on the leaves as very small worms less than one-sixteenth of an inch in length, soon enter the stalks, where they complete their larval growth and remain for the next ten or eleven months.

We can check the losses from this pest and keep them at such a minimum that there need be no commercial damage if we will practice careful cultural followed up by other corn going practices. The bulk of our corn going into the silo and being shredded, which destroys the borer, it is only necessary that we concentrate on an effective utilization of the remaining stubble and stalks to complete the task. Since the corn borer is now hibernating in the stalks, stubble and thick stemmed weeds in the infested areas, it is essential to shred, burn, or bury remnants of the corn crop, or burn or plow under all weeds with stems thick enough to contain this borer, before June 1st when the moths begin emerging to lay their eggs for the future generation.

Where a clean plowing job has been accomplished with the aid of a new specially designed 16-inch bottom plow now on the market for this purpose, or where by the use of chains or wires attached to the plow the trash has been dragged under cleanly, the debris in the fields now can be taken care of quite satisfactorily. Where such measures have not been taken, all pieces of stalk large enough to contain a borer should be picked up and either burned or buried, after the small grain or other crops have been planted this spring.

FARMALLS Go to Town with McCORMICK-DEERING TRACTOR-TRAILERS

Hauling jobs on the farm are never finished. Winter, summer, spring or fall, there are always loads to haul. For work around the farm or for those farm-to-market trips, a fast-stepping new Farmall Tractor and a McCormick-Deering Tractor-Trailer with a Weber, Monarch, or Buckeye box is an ideal combination. The box shown above is the Weber large-capacity, flare-type grain-tank type. It holds 65 bushels of ear corn or 100 bushels of grain. You'll like it on the highway or in the field. Many farmers use this type box with the corn picker, combine, and ensilage harvester. You won't realize how handy it is until you start using it. Stop in and see us the next time you're in town. We can help you save time and money on your hauling.

Mother Nature was good to Washington County. And, as the cash pours in from the harvest, may we make a suggestion?

Instead of spending this money immediately, wouldn't it be good business to take care of outstanding debts and place the balance in reserve.

Germany Continues Pounding at Britain As Autumn Storm, Fog Season Arrives; Italy Reports Deep Drives Into Egypt; Oct. 16 Set as Draft Registration Day

THE WAR: Britain Waits

While self-propelled barges were poised at French channel ports, waiting to carry German soldiers on an invasion of England, Prime Minister Churchill called a secret session of parliament.

Tides were favorable for the attempt by sea, London was being bombed day and night almost without letup, and reports said Big Bertha guns were shelling the British capital from the French coast.

Buckingham palace, home of the king, was bombed three times in five days.

LONDON, ENGLAND—That classic crack by former Premier Chamberlain that the Nazis had "missed the bus" (meaning they had failed in their conquest attempts) is recalled to mind by this one in a London street. It was uttered by a German bomb in one of the raids on the British capital.

Craters appeared along the Strand, in Fleet and Bond streets, in Leicester and Berkeley Squares, houses in fashionable Piccadilly and the slums of Cheapside were demolished, the bank of England was hit by splinters, the house of parliament did not go untouched, subways and railroad yards were damaged.

Berlin radios warned that London could choose between the fate of pulverized Warsaw or surrendered Paris. The British replied that the Germans' hope was to force king and government to leave the city, thus gaining a moral victory.

The Germans faced handicaps, however. While their flying was not stopped by heavy fogs, gales in the channel made shipping perilous. And British fighters were not forced out of the air.

In Nazi Territory The Germans faced handicaps, however. While their flying was not stopped by heavy fogs, gales in the channel made shipping perilous. And British fighters were not forced out of the air.

By that time the British had revealed the strategy of their campaign. With only 250,000 troops, 500 planes and 1,000 armored cars they were hopelessly outnumbered.

Names in the news Birthdays—Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F., at 80 had no special message for the United States.

Taxes—Lester P. Barlow, inventor of the liquid oxygen-carbon bomb failed to kill any goals recently in an official test, won a patent claim of $502,719 from the government.

Swan Song—Senator Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona's senator since it was admitted to the Union as a Democratic primary by Judge Ernest W. McFarland. The senator proposed conscription and laid his defeat to this cause. His opponent favored the draft.

Utilities—Howard C. Hopsan, tubby head of the Associated Gas and Electric System whose empire fell afoul of the SEC, is feeble-minded, according to his own physicians. He has been made a ward of the federal court.

In the Headlines

Bankrupt—Perry county, in eastern Kentucky, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court. It is believed the first county in the nation to take such action.

Steel—Trot production in August amounted to 6,033,037 tons. It was the third largest in industrial history.

Wheat—Grain experts in Chicago predicted the Canadian spring wheat surplus at 508,000,000 bushels, second largest on record.

Education—Fear that defense jobs and conscription would cut into college enrollments was dispelled when fall enrollments showed a normal figure.

Living Costs—Government survey, aided by private commodity experts, indicates cost of food is not likely to rise much for the balance of this year.

Politics: Democratic President Roosevelt made the first official speech of the campaign when he appeared before the Teamsters' union convention in the D. A. R.'s Constitution hall in Washington.

Wendell Willkie grew hoarse in a single day of receptions in Chicago, reported unrequited since Lindbergh rode through the Loop.

Willkie's speeches raised the issue of the dictatorship of a third term. He said Roosevelt was the godfather of the unhappy Munich conference, and declared if President Roosevelt should be re-elected "you will be serving under an American totalitarian government before the third term is over."

Deaths: The Speaker William B. Bankhead, third speaker of the house under the New Deal to die in office, was the victim of overwork. The speaker exerted himself in active days and tedious nights in the extended congressional session.

Willkie Advised To Stress 'Peace' While "vacationing" at Colorado Springs, after the Republican convention and before his acceptance speech, Willkie was approached by any number of men and women who appreciated this racial group situation keenly.

Willkie's War Stand Jeopardizes Election Chances in Middle West

Political Observers Believe a Strong Non-Intervention Stand Would Have Been Popular; Politicians Grumble About Hatch Act.

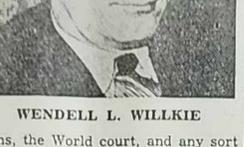

By CARTER FIELD (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—There is a very strong feeling, among newspaper men and other political observers in the Middle West, that Wendell L. Willkie may have thrown away the certainty of being elected President of the United States by his stubborn refusal to take issue with President Roosevelt on the war issue.

This is not an attempt to estimate the accuracy of this belief. It is merely the recording of the obvious so far as this section of the country is concerned.

Illinois is one of the great German states of the country. Its German population is huge in proportion. The same is true to an even greater extent of the neighboring state of Wisconsin, while Minnesota has more Germans than either Sweden or Norway, though not as many as all the Scandinavians put together.

It is also true that this whole neck of the woods has been undergoing newspaper bombardment for the last 21 years against the League of Nations.

tions, the World court, and any sort of European entanglement. In Chicago the Tribune and the Hearst papers have been particularly vicious in their propaganda along this line.

Willkie Advised To Stress 'Peace' While "vacationing" at Colorado Springs, after the Republican convention and before his acceptance speech, Willkie was approached by any number of men and women who appreciated this racial group situation keenly.

German Votes Important In Middle West States The tremendous importance of the German and pacifist votes in this Middle-West country is not underestimated in the slightest degree by Wendell L. Willkie.

As he put it, he did not HAVE to be President, but he did have to live with himself for the rest of his life.

It is argued by some that Willkie was wrong even in his estimate that to take the isolationist side would help him. Those holding this view say that he would have lost more votes in the East than he would have gained in the Central West by a pacifist stand, had he been willing to go isolationist in order to win the election.

This may be true, but the evidence seems to be against it. It is more probable that Willkie elected easily if he had taken the isolationist side.

This estimate of the situation is not pleasing to the writer, for with a good many others he shares the view that to aid Britain is postponing the day of our own trouble—that every day Britain is able to fight is one more day before we are in trouble—that if Britain is able to survive, our danger for the present will have passed.

Four Central States Necessary for Victory The real point is that, if it is conceded as a basis for argument that this is a fairly close election—and otherwise no political argument is of any value because NOTHING would make any difference—then there are certain states which are utterly vital to Willkie. First and foremost among these is New York.

Willkie MUST carry every one of these four states to have a CHANCE to be elected.

Roosevelt could lose any three of them, assuming the election is fairly close, and be safe.

Sentiment is these three states, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, is very heavily AGAINST aid to Britain, if normally reliable observers are accurate this time.

Hatch Act Hampers Politicians of Both Parties Politicians in both parties are grumbling no end about the operations of the Hatch act in limiting campaign expenditures.

One of the restrictions against which the Republicans are most bitter is that every cent spent since January 1 counts against the $3,000,000 limitation.

This is really academic, however, in view of Willkie's own decision that the campaign should not cost more than $2,500,000.

All of which brings up the question of the money spent for campaign purposes in the last half dozen presidential battles.

But Willkie, like most intelligent observers, believes that a big fraction of the money spent for campaigns is wasted.

Do buttons change votes? That is a question which would take a lot of skillful investigation to determine.

THE SCHOOL LUNCH
(See Recipes Below)

Whether the children carry their lunch to school or dash home at a hurried meal, autumn brings a major problem for the menu planner. For the middle class must give plenty of nourishment in a form that can be quickly and easily eaten—and, in the case of carry-away lunches, easily packed as well.

and filling spread way out to the edges. The butter is easier to spread if creamed first; and the sandwiches should be cut into convenient sizes for eating. Vary the kinds of breads that you use for sandwiches: plain or white, whole wheat, rye, brown bread, peanut butter bread, orange bread, nut bread, cornbread, raisin bread, and rolls.

College Girl Fashions Stress Contrasting, Versatile 'Tops'

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FASHION is playing a game. It's contrast "tops." Here's how. You buy one or two or more smart skirts. Follow this up with a wardrobe of contrasting "tops" and you win a clothes collection that will carry you through with a smashing style record as you travel in campus environs and at all the football games you have dated in advance on your fall program.

Nice thing about this contrast-top vogue is that it goes easy on the clothes budget. You can collect a whole vogue of "tops" without spending a fortune, and with judicious interchanging you can dress up or down to any occasion. One of the newest tricks brought out in way of contrast tops is the new waist-length pinafore top that you slip jumper-fashion over a simple blouse. It has wide shoulder straps that are brought down to the back where they fit at the waist in a pert bow exactly as a little girl's pinafore ties.

Roaming Chair.
QUESTION: In removing rockers from a chair should they be knocked off or sawed off? Should the legs be all the same length from the bottom of the seat at the corners? Would the chair then be too low for a "slipper" chair?

Smart Black Felt.
Here you see a smart fall felt hat in all its glory. Huge cartwheels of this type are worn with chic afternoon tailcoats as well as with dress-up frocks and they are especially good-looking coats. No matter how many small hats you may be acquiring, your fall headgear wardrobe simply must include a wide-brimmed black felt. Cartwheel types shown here vie with the pompadour-flare types that you wear as far back on the head as possible to reveal and give accent to the new off-the-head hair-do.

Novelty Jewelry Is Made of 'Anything'
The fashion for gold accents on black costumes persists. The jewelry wrought in gold this season is exquisitely detailed. The emphasis is on good taste rather than bangles and effects.

Mannish Influence In New Fashions
And now what! It's men's coats for women. For fashion declares that suits must take on a mannish look and the edict has been accepted as literally by members of the younger smart set. Debutantes and sub-debs, college girls and career girls are actually going into men's stores to purchase socks and blouse shirts, and to look up details as to man-tailored coats, so as to give orders to their tailor to borrow ideas from their brothers' and father's tweed suits.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers
Some of the most important items in any college girl's wardrobe are her classic sweaters. She buys them in all colors and styles and wears them for everything.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The urgency of the times is such that perhaps this country needs a good alchemist more than a good five-cent cigar.

Good Alchemist Might Be Our Greatest Need
Possibly we have one in Dr. Samuel Colville Lind, who offers what appears to this department to be the first soundly conservative sanction for the possible availability of atomic power—power in our time.

At the Detroit meeting of the American Chemical society, starting its national defense inventory of chemical skills and resources, Dr. Lind reports a startling advance toward the power riches of the metal uranium 235. Hit a few atoms of U-235 with 50 electron volts and you draw off 200,000,000 electron volts. It looks like a power millenium, which this country could use just now.

Dr. Lind has been an ace atom-nucleus bomber for many years. His field of radioactivity has been a zone of wizardry in chemistry and he has turned in much basic research, including his ionization theory of the chemical effect of radium rays. He has written extensively on subjects in his field.

From his native McMinnville, Tenn., where he was born in 1879, he went to Washington and Lee university and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with an education chaser at the University of Leipzig and later at the University of Paris. He taught at the University of Michigan, served as chief chemist of the U. S. bureau of mines and is now dean of the institute of technology of the University of Minnesota.

MILLIONS by the hundreds are just about an irresistible target, and perhaps Sunday supplement writers can be forgiven for trying to chase a "hit" in an occasionally Field Humps at to make a Keeping English playboy out of Marshall Field, although in his heyday his chief sins have been no more than an understandable interest in hunting and horses, and dogs, mainly retrievers.

Now, however, even these trot into the background as he gears up the National Child Refugee committee of which he is chairman. His job is to keep well oiled the wheels that roll English children by the thousands out of the reach of Nazi dive bombers. It must keep him whacking away long after the latest fox has taken cover.

Just the same the supplementers were right on one point. He really has hundreds of millions. They pour down from the original Marshall Fields of Chicago.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise when neglected. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Wall Maps Can Add Dignity to Rooms

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN
The hobby of map collecting has been graduated suddenly from an amusing diversion of armchair travelers to a real and poignant concern to all of us interested in the world we live in. And so these days, with world maps tacked up to update decorative schemes, the lady of the house might as well think of ways to fit them into the picture, knowing to the fact that geography will be the focal point in most homes during the coming months.

Most rooms with plain walls are pleasant with maps for wall decorations. Beware of maps on flowered walls though, or with too much flowery chintz about. And don't just thumb tack your maps up and expect them to look like much. Either mount them (on compo board or plywood) and shellac them; or else frame them with a moulding and glass.

STUDENT COUNCIL
At the regular meeting of the student council held on Thursday afternoon it was suggested that the Oakfield football game, which will be held in Kewaskum, be our homecoming game this year. A snake dance and bonfire will be held the evening before the game and a dance will be sponsored by the Dramatic club the evening of the homecoming game.

The council members planned to present a skit, "Anchors Aweigh," and a pep meeting on Friday, Sept. 27, the day of the first football game. It was suggested that Mr. Zell be engaged to appear before the student body and give his talk on "Furs."

Other topics discussed were possibilities of purchasing new uniforms for the cheer leaders, a new flag for the school, and making a trophy case, which is badly needed to take care of the numerous trophies acquired in the last few years.

LIBRARY
Some very interesting and valuable books have been added to our library. They have proved to be very popular among the students. Students seem to be very much interested in the facts on narcotics, which is the subject in three of the new books. These are some of the new books:
Furniture for the Amateur Craftsman—Earl Harmes.
Across the Ages—Louise Capen.
On the Trail of Marijuana—Rowell.
Plain Facts for Young Women—Wood-Cumstock.

SPORTS
Today, Sept. 27, is the big day for Kewaskum football players for they play one of their toughest games of the season with North Fond du Lac on the latter's field. Complete box scores will be published next week. The fellows and Mr. Gibson have worked hard and win or lose, they deserve a great deal of credit for their fine fighting and spirited team.

HOT DOG SALE
A mad scramble at 8:10 was made Thursday afternoon to see what the barking was about in the lower corridor. The barking was a signal of a sale of pop and hot dogs. It certainly was a good signal because it was such a scramble that there was a shortage of both hot dogs and pop.

The program will be presented in Hartford, from West Park, 9 to 10:30 p. m. CDST (8 to 9:30 CST). The last half hour, 10:00 to 10:30 (9 to 9:30 CST) will be broadcast by WLS, Chicago.

The hour and a half program in West Park will be free, with the public invited.

The Hartford Chamber of Commerce and county farm organizations are co-operating in arranging the event. Chairman of the local committee is John Shinnars, president of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce and publisher of the Hartford Times-Press. He is being assisted by Theodore A. Steinmetz, director of the Hartford high school band.

The cream of Washington county talent will participate in the program, as well as several headline acts from WLS. Local talent will include the 75-piece high school band, directed by Mr. Steinmetz and playing his own composition, "Thirty-Second Division March."

Judge Edward J. Gehl, of the first judicial circuit court, will represent Washington county on the broadcast, telling the radio audience about the farming, civic and business advantages of the county.

George Menard will announce the program, with Dan Hosmer in charge of production. Art Page, associate editor of Prairie Farmer, will deliver the "salute" to the county. The WLS entertainment acts for the Hartford show were not announced as yet at this writing.

All engineering facilities will be under the supervision of T. L. Rowe, chief engineer of WLS. There will be a public address system installed in the park so everyone can hear, and the WLS mobile transmitter truck will be used.

THANKS A MILLION!
I want my friends and supporters, who so generously endorsed my candidacy for district attorney of Washington county, to know that I am indeed grateful for their support.

MEMORIAL

In fond memory of our dear husband and father, Frank Klockenbusch, who passed away 10 years ago, Sept. 25, 1930:

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him, who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
Sadly missed by his widow, Mrs. Olive Klockenbusch, and daughters.

BROWNIE NEWS

The Brownie Scouts met on Wednesday with all members present. Our meetings will be held on Tuesdays beginning next week.

We continued our poem study of Edith's Guest poems. Audrey Bruesel brought the story of salt for the geography lesson. Next week each member is to bring a few facts about some important man who is living.

We made marshmallow-nut sandwiches, which we enjoyed very much.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal, not because they do not know what to do. Why not be smart—do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat? Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently stimulate your bowels and kidneys—eat down satisfyingly—there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all, a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. If you're joyfully satisfied—money back.

Announcing the big NEW FORD 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skillful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.
