Mrs. Christ. Schaefer, Jr. of Village Called

It is a sad duty to chronicle the death of one of the village of Kewaskum's finest and dearest ladies, Mrs. Wilhelmina Schaefer, widow of the late Christ. Schaefer, Jr., which occurred at 1:35 p. m. on Tuesday, Oct. 15, at her home. Mrs. Schaefer, who reached the age of 82 years, six months and 12 days, had been ill for the past six months following a stroke which she suffered last April 15. Bearing her suffering patiently, the elderly woman had been confined to bed with her illness the past month.

Mrs. Schaefer's death occurred exactly one week after that of her brother-in-law, Chas. Prost, of this village, who died on Tuesday, Oct. 8, and was buried last Saturday.

She was born in the town of Kewaskum on April 3, 1858, where she grew to womanhood. She was married to Christ. Schaefer, Jr. on Dec. 14, 1882, in the St. Lucas Lutheran church in Kewaskum. After their marriage the couple made their home on a farm in the town of Kewaskum for one year, following which they settled on a farm in the town of Barton. They operated the Schaefer homestead in that township, now occupied by Mrs. Schaefer's son, Elmer, for 33 years, and then came to this village, where the deceased made her home for the past 13 years.

Mr. Schaefer, who preceded his wife in death on Aug. 31, 1936, at the age of 87 years, served as supervisor and assessor of the town of Barton when a young man. Later he became president of The Farmers & Merchants bank in Kewaskum. He was a charter member of the Peace Evangelical church in this village. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1932.

Decased, was Wilhelmina Prost, was the mother of five children (two daughters and three sons), all of whom survive. They are Elizabeth (Mrs. Wm. A. Eckhaus) of the town of Auburn, William of the town of Barton, Edward of the town of Kewaskum, Ottilie (Mrs. John H. Techtman) of Milwaukee, and Elmer of the town of Barton. She also leaves one brother, William Prost, of this village, and nine grandchildren, namely Leslie Schaefer, Mrs. Elmer Abel of West Bend, Armond Schaefer of this village, Mrs. Oscar Albert of Horicon, Edna Schaefer of the town of Kewaskum, and Mildred, Myrtle, Eria and Allen Schaefer of the town of Barton.

The body is lying in state at her home in the village, located on Fond du Lac avenue, across from the Dr. Edwards property. Funeral services will be held Saturday, Oct. 19, at 1:30 p. m. from the home and at 2 p. m. at the St. Lucas E. Lutheran church. The Rev. Richard M. A. Gadow, pastor of the Peace Ev. church, (which is undergoing rebuilding) will officiate. Interment will be made in the Peace church cemetery. Mrs. Schaefer was a member of the Ladies' Aid of the Peace church for many years.

Palbearers will be Albert Prost, Carl Prost, Clarence Prost, Arnold Prost, Urban Prost and Wilmer Prost.

Mrs. Schaefer was a good and loving mother, a helping and cheering companion, and a sympathizing and consoling friend in the hour of suffering and despair. To the world at large she displayed those noble qualities of mind and heart which are the richest jewels of feminine nature. Although she is gone, her influence for good will still work on in those near and dear to her and who henceforth carry her sublimated picture as a priceless treasure in their memories. To them our sincere sympathy is extended.

Kewaskum's six-man football team played its best game of the season on Lomira's field last Friday and overwhelmed the Lomira gridders by a score of 42 to 6. It was the Highs' first victory and lifted them from a tie for the cellar into a tie for second place in the Tri-County conference. In other contests North Fondy and Campbellsport retained their unbeaten record by winning their third straight decisions. The Ralls defeated Brandon 26-6 and the Belles trampled over Oakfield 59-0.

At Lomira, playing alert football, Kewaskum went into a 14-6 lead at the half. Lacking reserves, Lomira weakened as the game progressed and was no match for the Highs in the final quarter when the locals, with reserves playing a large part of the period, ran up 20 points. Biggo, right end, was the "Big Bertha" in scoring with 18 points. He and "Cannonball" Krautkramer led the attack. The team suffered its first casualty of the season in the last quarter when Bremser, quarterback, sustained a chipped bone in his arm just above the wrist.

FIRST HALF

Lomira won the toss and chose to receive, taking the kickoff on their 20 yard line and returning 10 to their 30. They rolled off a first down on Kewaskum's 35. They were forced to punt on Kewaskum's 30, the ball going out of bounds on the 10. Kewaskum returned 10 yards in 3 plays on end sweeps by Krautkramer and punted out of bounds on Lomira's 20. ## Triple Anniversary Celebrated at Scott

On Sunday evening, Oct. 13, the members of Immanuel Lutheran church in the town of Scott pleasantly surprised Pastor and Mrs. Gustav Kanies, the occasion being the observance of a triple anniversary.

Rev. Kanies has been an ordained pastor in the Lutheran church for forty years. Thirty years of his pastorate he served at the Immanuel Lutheran church of Town Scott, marking another anniversary. The anniversary service was held in observance of these years of service in the church. This year also marks the fortieth wedding anniversary of Pastor and Mrs. Kanies.

Rev. Henry Helze of Waukegan, Ill., a classmate and friend of Pastor Kanies, delivered an inspiring anniversary sermon. The service was enhanced by a solo number, "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Mrs. W. Kaun, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Kanies. The choir and men's quartet, directed by R. L. Bauer, also sang appropriate numbers for the occasion; also the whole-hearted congregational singing lent festivity to the celebration.

At the close of the service the congregation, the bible class and the Ladies' Aid presented Pastor and Mrs. Kanies with a generous purse in appreciation of their long and faithful services.

After leaving the beautifully decorated church, friends and guests assembled in the school basement where a delicious chicken supper was served by the ladies of the congregation.

Pastor and Mrs. Kanies sincerely appreciate this festive celebration, arranged in their behalf. They will long remember and cherish the thrill of being completely surprised by a thoughtful and appreciative congregation.

Attending the bride as bridesmaid was her sister, Mrs. Gregory Fellenz, who was attired in a gown of aqua blue satin with a fingertip veil to match. Also wearing gold accessories, she had an arm bouquet consisting of yellow and white asters and ferns with matching bow.

Miss Ruth Reyson, cousin of the bridegroom, was assisting bridesmaid, wearing a gown of rose satin with a matching fingertip veil. Her arm bouquet, consisting of pink and white asters and ferns, was tied with a matching bow and she too, wore gold accessories.

Basement Fire Does $100,000 at County Late

Fire which started in the furnace room in the basement of the Mrs. Henry Driessel home on the corner of Main and West Water streets in the village Thursday morning of this week had gotten a good start and caused damage of close to $100,000 before the blaze was extinguished by the Kewaskum fire department. The firemen were called out at 11:25 a. m.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Al. Iunte, who with her husband and two daughters occupy the upper flat in the home. She smelled smoke and heard a cracking sound from the burning timbers in the basement. Upon investigating she discovered the fire. The rooms above the basement had just been re-papered and decorated.

When firemen arrived the furnace room was ablaze and smoke was pouring out through every opening. They removed a basement window and played a stream of water on the burning portion. As the flames were confined to the furnace room close to the window it took only a few minutes and the fire was stopped. Other basement windows were removed and doors opened and smoke poured out. Firemen had to wait until some of the smoke was out before they could reach the furnace room.

Again prompt and efficient work by the firemen held the loss down to a minimum. Had the flames gotten a few more minutes start the entire frame structure would have been threatened. The fire is believed to have started in paper and rubbish stored around the furnace. The interior of the furnace room and its contents were charred and burned, including the electric wiring. The basement ceiling near the room and one window frame were also charred.

Made-to-Order Miracles

The advent of television created quite a nifty set of headaches for that corps of geniuses known in the radio world as "special effects" men. In radio work, it was a simple matter to simulate the explosion of a pistol by dropping a book flat upon a table. But in television the "unseen audience" wants to SEE that pistol—SEE those galloping horses. These photos show how the "special effects" department tackles the job.

Production Increased
In the textile industry's five main branches, said Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers union, mechanization has reduced employment 20 per cent in the past 20 years, while production has increased 25 per cent. To illustrate his point, Mr. Rieve testified that since 1919 machinery has increased the productivity of each employee in the silk and rayon industries by 145 per cent; in knit goods, 86 per cent; in woollens, 77 per cent.

No Fiddle for Nero
Nero was not the monster that history portrays. His mother was not put to death by his order, nor did he play either the harp or the fiddle (the fiddle was not invented until hundreds of years later) while Rome burned. Neither did he sing "The Burning of Troy" on that occasion. The stories originated from Tacitus, who cordially hated Nero, and from Petronius Arbiter, who was put to death for a conspiracy against Nero.

Early Care of Great Aid in Mental Cases

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE of the great helps to health of today is the periodic examination given free to policyholders by insurance companies. Any defect is discovered early and whether it be serious or slight the knowledge that it is present enables the individual to have it corrected in most cases or enables him to live safely despite the defect.

The day is about at hand when insurance examiners and other physicians will take note of early mental symptoms just as they do of physical symptoms and many early mental patients will never need to enter a mental institution for treatment.

Today it is recognized that mental symptoms can be due to heredity, surrounding circumstances, infection and other conditions. Doctors Carney Landis, Columbia University, and James D. Page, University of Rochester, in their book, "Modern Society and Mental Disease" state that in the United States there are 60,000 patients undergoing treatment in mental institutions and their figures show that at least one person out of every 20 will become a mental patient at some time.

While the above are startling figures it is reassuring to remember that of every 10 patients entering a mental hospital at least six are cured and able to return to work. It has been found that whether the treatment given these mental patients is of the usual type—rest, some occupation and some straightening out of the tangled skein in their minds by careful questioning and answering—or whether of the new type of putting the patient under insulin or metrazol shock, the best results are obtained the earlier the treatment is given.

Another point in keeping with the apparent increase in heart disease, apoplexy and cancer is that the increase in mental disease is due to a considerable extent to the fact that more people are living longer today than in any previous period.

Fat Foods Good For Epileptics

I HAD a patient suffering with epilepsy whom I kept free of attacks by washing out his stomach twice each week. He did not have a single attack during the many months of this treatment. He was transferred to another city, stopped the treatment, and again had his epileptic attacks. Naturally I felt that the digestive apparatus—liver or stomach—had something to do with the cause of epilepsy, so was not surprised when research workers discovered that the ketogenic diet—poor in starch foods and rich in fat foods—was of help in preventing attacks of epilepsy.

Dr. H. M. Keith, Montreal, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal says that ketogenic diet, producing large amounts of diacetic acid in the urine, is a satisfactory method of treating epilepsies.

Dr. Keith has treated 160 patients satisfactorily over a period of from one to nine years. Of these, 36 per cent remained entirely free of attacks of any type so far as is known to themselves or to their parents; 21 per cent were improved, having only an occasional attack; 43 per cent were not benefited, although they carried out instructions fully. Therefore with the ketogenic diet alone, one-third of the epileptic children can be made free from attacks, and from 50 to 60 per cent can be improved.

Diet Control Necessary.
A ketogenic diet, to be effective, must be rigidly controlled and should be a weighed diet. It is necessary that in the diet the proportion of the fats to the starches should be three of fat foods (butter, cream, egg yolks) to one of starches (bread, potatoes, sugar) instead of the diet for "normal" individuals which is just the opposite, that is one of fat foods to three (or four) of starch foods.
Dr. Keith points out also the necessity for healthy outdoor exercise, and sufficient rest.

AN APPLE A DAY—SERVED IN A DIFFERENT WAY
(See Recipes Below)

Apples hold a place of well-deserved popularity today, for they have been widely used as food from the earliest times. What other fruit has such a long season, tastes so good, keeps so well, can be served in so many different ways, and yet is relatively inexpensive?

Do you want apples for cooking, or for baking? Or do you want them for eating apples or dessert? Apples should be selected according to the purpose for which you are to use them.

A good cooking apple should be tart, or at least medium acid, with a juicy, fine-grained flesh. A good eating apple, however, should have a distinct apple flavor. You are, no doubt, familiar with such names as Rome Beauty, Winesap, Black Twig, Grimes Golden and McIntosh.

Have you ever had the sad experience of baking apples only to find that they have remained hard and lack juiciness? Or did you use a variety that became so watery upon baking that you couldn't quite tell what it was? The Wealthy, McIntosh, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Rhode Island Greening or Northwestern Greening, the Rome Beauty, the Winesap and Black Twig are all varieties of apples which may be used for this purpose.

A good dessert apple should have a prominent and distinct apple flavor, mildly acid, and with a fine-flesh texture. Here again you may select the McIntosh, the Grimes Golden, the Jonathan, the Rome Beauty, the Black Twig, or the Delicious.

A bowl of shining apples will appeal to the children when they come home from school. There will be no need for them to say, "Mom, I'm hungry; what can I have to eat?" The Wealthy, the Delicious, and the Rome Beauty are all popular eating apples.

There is nothing more delicious than a baked apple, apple pie, or a raw apple salad, but have you ever tried apples in fritter batter, or combined them with green peppers for a salad?

Ancient Incas Were Skilled Weavers

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN

With our political interest focused upon South America at the same time that European sources of decorative arts are all but cut off, it is not surprising that our designers are turning their eyes toward Pan-America for both specific motifs as well as for general decorative inspiration. And here they find old and stimulating traditions in the arts.

For in ancient Peru the Incas developed a distinctive type of weaving startlingly similar to that perfected also by the ancient Copts, these native Egyptians of Christian faith who evolved what might be called the first real Christian art. The particular weaving in question has the design woven in with colored threads used only where needed for the pattern rather than being carried across the entire width. The effect was not unlike embroidery or brocade. Whether such widely separated peoples as the Copts and the Incas worked out similar weaving processes because there had been at some time intercommunication between the continents or because each group, striving for the same thing with similar handicaps and materials, quite naturally arrived at about the same conclusion is the question.

Highly perfected tapestry weaving was not the only type of weaving which the Incas developed, however. In fact, all their arts had achieved a high degree of excellence in early times. When Pizarro led the Spanish conquest in 1531, he found that the Incas of Peru were more highly developed in all the arts than the contemporary Spaniards. Besides tapestry weaving, they made a pile fabric somewhat like a knotted Persian rug. They likewise produced the type we now make on a Jacquard loom, hand-knotted net, and double cloth. They were skilled at weaving on intricate looms as far back as the third century.

Cotton and wool were their main fabric fibers, while silk and linen were unknown to them.

HOW to SEW

RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ONE day there came a letter with a rough sketch of the old rocker at the upper right. The last line of the letter said, "I will remove the rockers if you say so. Mrs. Spears, but I would like to keep them." Well, why not? There is nothing smarter now than things Victorian. Old oil lamps with flowered globes are being wired for electricity so, why not redesign this rocker along simple lines? Cover it with plain rep in a nice shade of blue perhaps, and give it a matching foot stool and a hem stitched linen chair set all tricked out in tassels?

Here is the result of that idea and the diagram shows all the steps that led up to it. Almost any old chair may be transformed with a slip cover if a little work is done first to build out or to saw off projections. Padding is also important, and open spaces under arms may be covered by stretching the padding tightly and tacking, as shown here.

NOTE: Directions for making the foot stool are in Sewing Book 3. The hemstitched chair set is in Book 4. All the steps in fitting and making slip covers are illustrated in Book 1. ### SYNOPSIS

Don Alfredo, wealthy, Spanish owner of a Southern California rancho, refuses to heed several warnings of a raid by a band of outlaws, Sierra Indians. One day after he has finally decided to seek the protection of the nearby mission for his wife and family, the Indians strike. Don Alfredo is killed by his two young daughters are torn from him and the family's faithful maid, the arms of the family are carried away to the hills. Padre Pasqual, missionary friend of the family, arrives at the rancho and tries to lead a party of the Indians to the hills and mountains from Texas to California, youthful Henry Bowie, a Texas adventurer, with his friends, Ben Pardaloe and Simmie, an Indian scout, sight the party of Indians who have carried off the two little girls. The three Texans attack the war party of fifty odd Indians. The girls are saved. The group makes its way out of the hills and meets the distraught Monica, the children's maid. The girls are left with Monica and the friendly Padre at a mission, and the Texans proceed to Monterey. Here Bowie completes his business for Gen. San Houston in Texas, who has commissioned him to deliver an important message. Bowie decides to have a look at the wild and untamed California. Bowie disappears but returns eight years later and makes the acquaintance of a friendly Spanish family at the Rancho Guadalupe. He is attracted by the lovely Carmen, daughter of Don Ramon, the rancho's owner. Bowie saves Don Ramon's life in a fierce fight with a huge grizzly bear. Don Francisco, youthful heir to the rancho's acres, is captured in a battle with Indian raiders. Bowie sets out to help his friends.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

It was a bootless search with no signs of the Indians. Daylight was well advanced by the time the four had covered the canyon and Pedro had signaled for the horses.

Riding back, the quartette found the vaqueros riding in circles over the scene of the fight of the day before. They had counted, when Bowie rejoined them, the bodies of eleven dead Indians, but there was no sign of Don Francisco. Once more Bowie ordered the party up the canyon to pick up the trail. He himself was riding slowly ahead, alone and under a driving rain, across a field of loose rock and shale when his eye was drawn from the trail by an object lying near to a clump of stunted trees. He reined toward it, looked again, hesitated, then sprang from his horse. It might be the naked body of a dead Indian. But a closer look brought a shock; it was the rain-soaked body of Don Francisco.

A saddle blanket was stretched on the ground. The dead lad was wrapped in it and slung across the back of a horse, and with every precaution against ambush the sober horsemen made their way back to open country and the rancho. At Bowie's insistence Pedro rode ahead to break the news; he himself did not feel equal to it.

Loud wails greeted the little cavalcade as it approached the rancho. Servants and children made no effort to restrain their grief. At the rancho house door Don Ramon, stern faced and bitter, stood with Dona Maria, who was supported by Carmen, the two women in tears. They suppressed their sobs as best they could while Don Francisco was awkwardly but tenderly carried in by the tall Texan and laid on the young Don's own bed and in his darkened room.

Don Ramon summoned Dr. Doane from Monterey, and under his skillful hands the features of Don Francisco, as he lay in the candlelight next night in his rough coffin, were less terrible, more neatly natural and, in some measure, more consoling to those who gathered around him to recite the prayers of the dead. Indeed the whole night heard their voices raised to heaven in intercession for a dear one. Hour by hour groups of the household, from master and mistress to the lowliest of the servants, relieved one another in vigil beside the rude bier.

Next day, lying before the mission altar while Padre Martinez and his Franciscan assistant intoned the Mass of Requiem, the youthful victim seemed in his repose almost to speak words of consolation to those who still mourned him with unceasing sobs. Bowie had never seen just such a Catholic funeral. The solemn ritual, the marked reverence, the uplifted hands of the suppliant at the altar, joined by those uplifted at times at the altar rail—moved him beyond any spectacle he had ever witnessed.

Dr. Doane spent the night at Guadalupe and sat late with Bowie and Don Ramon. Again the master of the rancho talked with the Texan about taking over the management of the great domain.

"Now more than ever I need you, Senor Bowie," said Don Ramon quietly. "My nephew was my right arm; without him, I am helpless. And without him, well-nigh defenseless. He has handled the vaqueros, managed the matanzas, arranged the sale of the hides and tallow. These marauding Indians— from now on they will be bolder, encouraged by this partial victory."

"Give me tonight to think it over, Don Ramon," said Bowie at last. "Tomorrow I will decide. In any event, I thank you. Good night."

Don Ramon's face lighted. The details were worked out. The two scouts, Pardaloe and Simmie, were offered, and later accepted, work as vaqueros. But with the understanding that when the wanderlust seized them they were free to head for the mountains, where, in fact, they had spent most of their time in California.

After the difficulties had been ironed out Don Ramon ordered horses. Bowie was introduced to Pedro and his vaqueros as major-domo. Taking Pedro, Pancho, Pardaloe and the Creek with them, Don Ramon and Bowie spent hours riding over the valley and through the hills granted by the king of Spain to his favored retainer, Don Ramon Estrada, grandfather to the present Don Ramon.

Dona Maria had been told of the new arrangement. She was so pleased that she hastened to Carmen to tell her of the coming of Bowie. Carmen looked up with a face almost as black as a thundercloud.

"Why, Carmen," protested her mother, "don't you like it?" "Like it?" exclaimed the impetuous girl. "An Americano to come to Guadalupe? Could not Father have picked anybody but an Americano to take poor Francisco's place?"

But Carmen was at least mistress of her feelings and she kept them to herself. At dinner that night there was present a new member of the household, and he was received by the family with the perfect courtesy of their training and traditions. Bowie, in spite of himself, was a bit self-conscious. Perhaps that was why he talked more than was his wont. He was likewise conscious of choosing his words carefully in the new tongue because of listening ears at the lower end of the table.

Within a short time the rancho routine had already become so established that the presence of Bowie seemed a part of the considerable domain. Pedro, a full-blooded Mariposa Indian, took to Bowie from the start. Simmie told him of one fairly stiff brush in company with the Texan and how he had taken stock of his bearing when baptized by a cloud of arrows. In the estimation of an Indian one characteristic ranks above all others—steadiness under fire. Every day Pedro and his fellow Indian vaquero, Pancho, rode the valley and foothills of Guadalupe with Bowie, who gradually applied to his better management the experience and practice of a Texas orning work came to the rancho that the Indians had raided the mission. Two hundred horses were missing and fifteen women and girls taken. The storeroom was robbed and emptied.

"Senor Bowie, what do you think of this raid?" Don Ramon asked the Texan at breakfast.

"Pedro thinks this is another of Yosco's jobs. Pedro knows these mountain Indians pretty well. But there's one thing certain: every time Indians make a successful raid they are bolder for the next. They need a lesson."

He spoke slowly. "What shall we do?" asked Don Ramon, interrupting him.

"I know of but one thing," continued Bowie; "that is to go after them. Anyway, that's what we used to do down on the Staked Plain when they got too troublesome. There's another angle in this for me, Don Ramon. This Yosco led the raid that resulted in the death of Don Francisco—murder I call it, for the boy was killed after he was wounded. He was my friend, I'd travel from here to hell-fire to punish his murderer."

His speech and manner were still deliberate, almost cold, but his tone carried conviction of deadly intent. Again he was cut short. Pedro, who had had run hurriedly to the doorway, "Vaquero from the mission!" he exclaimed.

The Don with Bowie, followed closely by Dona Maria and Carmen, hastened to the portico. The messenger was bareheaded and his senger was foam flecked and restive. He spoke fast. "Padre Martinez has sent me. The Indians were led by Yosco. He has carried away twenty-five girls and women and three hundred horses. Padre Martinez begs you will send help today. He fears they will be back tonight to carry off more of the women."

Don Ramon raised his hand. "Tell Padre Martinez we will send help." The horseman, touching his forehead, whirled away. A clatter of hoofs and a trail of dust marked his way across the valley to the southern ranchos. The group on the porch watched him.

Don Ramon looked to Bowie. "We must act," he said. "The mission must be protected."

"What about their soldiers?" demanded Bowie of Pedro. "Hasn't this worthless government enough regard for the property to supply guards for it?" He did not wait for an answer. "Pedro," he said sharply, "fetch Pardaloe and Simmie. . . . Who is this?" he asked. A second unobtrusive vaquero had stood at Pedro's elbow, listening to every word.

"This is Sanchez, my right-hand man," answered Pedro. "He is a frant. Among the girls Yosco has stolen is his sweetheart, Amelita."

"He knows the mountains?" asked Bowie. "Born and lived there. He is down here only two years."

"And Yosco has stolen his girl?" mused Pedro. "They were to be married soon."

"You should have some idea of where this Yosco hides," said Bowie, eying Sanchez closely. "He is no doubt the same wretch that killed Don Francisco. We must get him. Where does Yosco hide?"

"Senor," muttered the stolid Mariposa, "he has three places."

"Which is the closest?" "If he is in the closest he cannot be taken. You must wait till he goes farther up in the mountains."

Bowie was impatient. "Tell me, talk faster: where is this closest place?" he asked curly.

"In a canyon of the Santa Maria River, high up in a cave—"

Pedro interrupted. "I know that big cave, senor. It opens on a canyon wall five hundred feet high. The cave is halfway up, reached by a ledge not three feet wide. You see, there is no chance to attack while Yosco hides there. You must wait."

"This cave—it opens out on a canyon wall. Is the opening narrow or wide?"

"Wide, senor."

"We will try for the cave, Pedro."

"But, senor!" Bowie shook his head. "We will start tonight. What say, Sanchez?"

The Mariposa did not speak. He looked at the ground, thinking. Don Ramon, Dona Maria, Carmen, waited in suspense.

"Sanchez," asked Bowie casually, "are you afraid?"

The taunt stung the Indian into words. "For himself, Sanchez fears nothing. Yosco has stolen his Amelita. Sometime," Sanchez spoke slowly on, "sometime Sanchez will kill him."

"You speak like a man, Sanchez. But help us now to get back the horses and the mission women. Can you take us to the cave?"

Again the Mariposa paused. "I can take you to the cave, senor. But the only chance would be to surprise them. If they discover you first every man you take along will be killed. Do you want to take that chance?"

"Why not? And we must start tonight," Sanchez nodded assent. "We must get to the cave before daybreak." The Indian nodded again. "We shall need you for a guide."

A small cloud of dust could be seen on the northern horizon. "Those are rancheros," said Bowie. "They will be here soon."

The rancheros rode up in twos and threes. Felipe and Jose Martinez from Pinole; Antonio Bernal from Santa Teresa, Francisco Soto from El Molino; Pedro Arguello from San Miguel; Sebastian Pacheco and Ignacio Alviso from Vicenti.

The sun was hot. Francisco Soto, who was pugnacious but fat, suggested moving to the shade of the portico. Bowie vetoed the suggestion. "Let us keep away from the servants' ears," he suggested. "These Indians are not all to be trusted. If we don't surprise Yosco, he will surprise us; that Indian must be a smart hombre."

The conference moved, as a compromise, to the shade of a spreading oak. Two hours went to impressing on the group the details of the plan of attack. "And I don't want anyone to ride into this without warning him of the danger," said Bowie as the meeting broke up. "It is a dash into enemy country. If our attack falls some of us will not come back, and if anyone wishes to drop out now there will be no hard feelings. We meet at eight o'clock at the mission."

That night the Spanish blood was up. Every don who had been summoned was on hand at the evening rendezvous.

Their numbers had been handsomely supplemented by rancheros from the south—in all, twenty-eight men rode from the mission that night for the stronghold of the outlaw Indians in Santa Maria Canyon. It was only a handful of men for an invasion, but they were twenty-eight men, each capable of giving an account of himself.

He spoke fast. "Padre Martinez

CHAPTER IX

At Don Ramon's suggestion Bowie was made captain of the company, and it was agreed to obey his orders. "You all understand, I suppose, that we must depend on Sanchez to take us to the canyon?" explained Bowie. "If we fail to find the Indians in the cave our work is lost because we can't follow them into the mountains with a skeleton company. We are taking the chance of finding them. I think, a good chance. Sanchez, we are ready to start when you give word."

"A few moments, senor. When the big star shows in the east we start," said the Indian in a very low voice.

"And when the column moves, not a word is to be spoken by anyone," added Bowie to the company. "Not a whisper nor a cough nor a laugh nor a sneeze. This is no holiday ride—some of us may not come back. You are going against a chief with the reputation of being the wildest of the mountain outlaws. Sanchez says we need every precaution. Are you all in agreement? If not, provide yourselves here. Look to your rifles, carbines, knives and your ammunition. If there is a fight there will be no time to correct our mistakes. Yosco will do that for us."

At midnight the ghostlike column had penetrated the higher mountains. Sanchez halted the party in a small grassy glade. Here they dismounted. Three men, Don Ramon and two vaqueros, were detailed to guard the horses—above the glade the trail could be followed only on foot. The advance was begun single file, and like a writhing black serpent the column of armed men wound its way, at times faintly visible in the light of the stars, and at times disappearing into the eclipse of a mountain shoulder. Not a word was spoken—the Texan knew the tricks of Indians and left nothing to chance.

The going grew rougher than that of the sierra they had crossed. Bowie halted at times to give the column a chance to close up; and an occasional cautious "Hist!" checked the movement while Sanchez felt out the rocks for further ascent. He was following a trail along which each man was cautioned in the lowest whisper to hug the face of the precipice they were mounting—where a misstep would have plunged a man hundreds of feet into the canyon below.

At long last the struggling rancheros, who had they not been men of spirit, would have sunk under the exhaustion of their long and dangerous climb, were led in the darkness to a rock chimney in the sheer face of the precipice. Within the walls of this they could stand in a group.

"We are two hundred feet from the cave," whispered Bowie to those nearest him. The splashing of a small waterfall in the canyon made it possible to speak in whispers; the news was cautiously relayed to the whole company.

"Take a last look at your carbines and rifles. Have your knives handy if we're rushed. The trail splits here. Sanchez wants six volunteers to follow him up another hundred feet. He will post them high above the cave where they can fire down at the raiders or roll boulders on their heads—who wants to go? But," he added truthfully, "you should know that if we're licked there's no possible salvation for these six."

Every man of the twenty-eight volunteered. Three rancheros and three vaqueros were chosen. Like men chosen for death, the six with their guide crept and crawled to the last difficult post. Even Bowie, with keen ears, awaiting with the main body the return of Sanchez, could hear nothing of the volunteers after they had gone fifty feet.

"Now," whispered Sanchez on his return, "you have kept quiet. Keep quiet. Try not to start a single chip of rock under your feet, for it will rattle all the way down the canyon wall. They are in the cave—that much I know now. Get on your hands and knees this time for the last climb. I think we've got them."

Strange Facts

Roving Banks Prison Board Bill Odd Sugar Sources

About a century ago when some states allowed banks to move from town to town at will, many went into hiding so their notes could not be presented for redemption in gold. One of them, the Bank of Morocco, was found by detectives, after a year's search, in a cabin in a dense Indiana forest.

Although Michigan enacted a law in 1935 requiring prisoners who are financially able to pay for their maintenance (about a dollar a day) the state has only been able to collect this payment from two of the approximate 20,000 persons who have passed in and out of its prisons during this time.

One of the strangest cases of human albinism occurred in Africa some years ago. A Negro couple had three white and three black children, born in the following order—two consecutive black boys, two consecutive white girls, one black girl and one white boy.

Of the hundreds of different kinds of sugars, some of which are bitter and poisonous, many are made from such odd substances as seaweed, cottonmeal, chicory, dahlias, artichokes and ivory nuts.—Collier's.

Mount Fujiyama

In Japanese legend, Mt. Fujiyama, recently renamed Huzi by official decree, came into being as a result of a quarrel between the mountain goddess, Fuji-San, and the other Nipponese deities. The goddess, in one night, set up this mighty peak, 12,300 feet high, where she could live in peace and solitude. Despite its regular eruptions, its height caused it to become a sacred symbol in Japanese life of all that is lofty and beautiful. It is also regarded as a source of good luck.—Pathfinder.

What Is a Gentleman?

The question: "What is a gentleman?" has no doubt been asked thousands of times and answered in scores of ways. To describe anybody as a gentleman seems to mean anything and nothing.

On reference forms of various kinds a man's occupation is often defined as "gentleman," meaning that he is in no business and is retired. Which, of course, is ridiculous. The curious part of it is that to speak of a man as being "no gentleman" usually means something quite definite! Perhaps the best definition of a gentleman ever propounded is: "A person in whose company no one is uncomfortable."

Try this way once and you'll know almost instantly why people everywhere praise it. It has rapidly replaced expensive "pain remedies" in thousands of cases.

Candidates for county offices are expected by the voters to run on one of the major party tickets, either progressive, democratic or republican. U. S.-Japan Relationship Is Strained; Americans in Far East Ordered Home; Naval Reserves Called Into Service As Army Makes Way for Conscripts

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

CRISIS: War Ahead?

Since Japan joined the Fascist Axis, attacks on America and Americans by the government-controlled Tokyo press have been exceeded only by the belittling mouthings of the Mussolini-controlled newspapers of Italy.

When Japan signed the treaty of Berlin, Washington was inclined at first to make little of it, even though it was openly stated to be aimed at the United States because of aid given to Britain.

Culmination was a state department order to all Americans in the Near East to return home.

And in Shanghai, Japanese officials had another problem to worry them. For despite a heavy military guard placed around Fu Siao-en, their puppet ruler of that Chinese city, he was slashed to death by some unknown assailant.

Enraged Japanese authorities declared that the assassination was an "inside job." Shanghai police reported that they had been asked by the Japanese to aid in a search for the slain man's personal servant, one Zang Tsu-en, who was absent from his master's house after the killing.

Price of Peace

Several unofficial offers have been made to the United States. All aim at involving this nation with Japan or so crippling U. S. armed forces so as to make the nation ineffective.

In Rome, Mussolini's newspaper held out another scheme. In polite terms it suggested that if America would stop giving help to England, the Axis powers would reward America by giving her Canada.

Object is, of course, to so involve the U. S. that it will stop sending supplies to Britain.

DEFENSE: Navy Called

Comparable to the army's mobilization of the National Guard, the navy called out all men and officers and the naval reserve, boosting its Navy Secretary Knox said the men were called to equip new fighting and auxiliary craft which were being launched six months ahead of schedule.

Meanwhile the army was preparing at reception centers for 700,000 of 16,500,000 men who were marching to their voting places to register for the draft.

POLITICS: All Out

In the last month before election day, all candidates in the Presidential sweepstakes were out on the stump and dated to stay out until a few days before November 5.

Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican candidate, after a swing through the East and a week devoted to New England, headed back toward the Midwest, covering New York state, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri.

Defense and labor were the theme of his addresses in the East. He charged the New Deal had bungled America's defense during the seven years of Hitler's rise in Europe and cited speeches of the President to show that he was acquainted with the danger but did not press for a stronger army and navy.

President Roosevelt swung through western Pennsylvania and Ohio, inspecting steel plants and making the dedication address at Pittsburgh's Terrace Village, where the U. S. Housing authority's 100,000th unit was opened.

Before leaving the White House, the President cited a Rome dispatch in that day's newspaper as proving the contention that the Axis powers were seeking his defeat.

"The Axis is out to defeat President Roosevelt not as a measure of interference in the internal policies of the United States but because of the President's foreign policy, and because of everything he stands for in the eyes of the Italians and Germans.

The vice presidential candidates also were on the stump. One day in Minnesota Henry A. Wallace's car was attached to the same train on which Charles A. McNary rode.

FREEDOM: At Columbia U.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, 78-year-old president of Columbia university, whose politics seldom have been free from criticism, stirred up another hornet's nest when he spoke to the school's faculty on "The World Crisis." Discussing academic freedom—freedom of speech for teachers—he said that in this emergency the right should be confined to "accomplished scholars."

Some Columbia professors praised the stands, some were noncommittal and others considered a formal protest. The student newspaper voiced objection. In congress Sen. Rush Holt (D., W. Va.) and Sen. Bennett Clark (D., Mo.) denounced the statement.

MISCELLANY:

Not all the funniest things happen in Washington. But in one week: The Federal Works administration distributed an official's speech with a memorandum attached saying, "This speech was not delivered"; the navy submitted plans for a temporary building designed to be so ugly it would be replaced soon; congress amended a law which gave the king of England jurisdiction in the District of Columbia; the government reported officially that the Germans were not undermining the thumb tack industry, and a mother-in-law wrote the draft board asking that her son be sent "far, far away."

Steve Vasilakos, who has sold peanuts at a stand in front of the White House during the terms of five Presidents, received citizenship papers after failing on three previous occasions to pass educational tests. The following day he posted a sign announcing he would give to the Red Cross the receipts of two days' sales.

Julius Krause, 28, wore prison stripes for 10 years and never protested a life sentence. Then he escaped from the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus. Returning 44 days later he had in custody Curtis Kumerle, 26, who prison authorities said, confessed to the holdup slaying for which Krause had been convicted.

The Wage-Hour administration called attention of employers to a 40-hour week after October 23. The present maximum work week is 42 hours. Present minimum pay of 30 cents an hour remains unchanged.

Government Armament Program Presages Huge Business Boom

Federal Spending Is on Scale Unprecedented in History; Senator Johnson May Swing California Vote From Roosevelt to Willkie.

By CARTER FIELD (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON. — A tremendous boom in all lines of business is expected by many far-sighted manufacturers. One of the best statements of the situation as viewed by some economists, as a result of the tremendous government spending only partially under way, is set forth in the following letter Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, has sent to all his dealers.

"Never in history from Caesar to the present day has any nation prepared a program of armament and spending equal to that which exists right here in the United States today.

"Every dollar goes to labor and profit. Do not pass this statement off lightly. Iron ore, lumber, cotton, etc., is nothing but labor with a minor part to profit.

"Please keep this fundamental in mind: our government armament spending—over 90 per cent will go to labor and less than 10 per cent to profit.

Half Billion Dollars To Be Spent Monthly

"From July, 1940, to July, 1941, the government will spend 5,000,000,000 defense dollars in the United States.

"In August the government spent only $180,000,000 on this program, which means the program must rise from now on to $500,000,000 per month to meet the year's total.

HIRAM W. JOHNSON

"Figure out what 500,000,000 ADDITIONAL dollars each month means to business. Business spurred ahead and looked upon the spending of the soldiers' bonus as a godsend at the time. Yet, this soldiers' bonus represented only two monthly installments of $500,000,000 each and from now on that amount will be spent each month.

"The WPA in its heyday injected barely $140,000,000 a month into business. The AAA put in less than $75,000,000 a month on an average.

"The farmers' income, independent of all the above this year, will be the second largest since 1930.

Chain Stores Show Increased Retail Sales

"The present defense program anticipates over $36,000,000,000 expenditure up to and including 1946, of which the $5,000,000,000 to be spent this year is only a small part. In August this year, when only $180,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 for this year was spent, the 30 leading store chains of the United States increased their business from 3.1 per cent to 33.3 per cent over August, 1939. Not one of these store chains showed a decrease. Every one of these 30 leading chains showed an increase in the eight months of 1940 over 1939 up to August, and mind you, the spending had hardly started then.

"In other words, all these defense billions that are to be spent this year are plus expenditures which come on top of the already splendid increasing business.

"The draft will increase business. The majority of men drafted will be single and certainly these men have not averaged $30 per month, net, to spend in civilian life after they have paid for lodging, board, and clothing. The soldiers and the sailors spend their money."

Johnson May Swing California to Willkie

One of the most important personalities in this presidential campaign may turn out to be Hiram W.

BUSINESS BOOM

Huge government contracts for war materials will cause a tremendous boom throughout the United States, according to Carter Field, Washington correspondent. Although California seems to be safely Democratic, Field believes that active campaigning by Sen. Hiram Johnson could swing the state to support Willkie in the election next month.

U. S. to 'Borrow' Motors for New Flying Fortresses

WASHINGTON. — A temporary shortage of engines for the army's latest-type Boeing Flying Fortress bombers has created such a critical situation that several of the four-motored air dreadnoughts recently have been stripped of their power plants immediately after delivery to air corps fields and the engines flown back to the Boeing factory in cargo planes for installation in successive ships as they come off the produc-

Johnson, U. S. senator from California for these many years. California has 22 electoral votes. When she had only 13, she decided the presidential election of 1916.

Most of the figuring on electoral votes this campaign—on the assumption that the election may be fairly close—has given California unquestionably to Roosevelt.

Folks began wondering about California when President Roosevelt went out of his way to slap Hiram Johnson, just on the eve of the California primaries. Everybody who knew anything about politics in the state was writing to friends in Washington that Johnson was almost certain to capture both the Republican and the Democratic nominations for re-election as senator.

Yet the President was so annoyed with Johnson for various reasons that he permitted himself to be quoted by the newspaper correspondents to the broad general effect that Johnson could no longer be considered a "liberal."

Johnson didn't like that a bit. He regards himself as having been an outstanding liberal since long before Roosevelt knew his way around in politics.

Most commentators on this slap of Roosevelt at Johnson have based it on Johnson's opposition to helping Britain. This is NOT the real reason.

Roosevelt's dislike of Johnson goes back to the time Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme court. Johnson was one of the little group that fought this so bitterly that it was eventually defeated. Just as he was one of the group that fought President Wilson on the League of Nations and other features of the Versailles treaty.

It was not the failure of Johnson to change his policy on international questions that brought forth Roosevelt's ire. It was his battle against enlarging the Supreme court.

Defeat of Johnson Is Now Impossible

Every man who fought the President on that issue has been marked in the White House black book ever since. That of course was admittedly the chief motive in the unsuccessful attempt to "purge" Democratic senators in 1933. This year the attempt to purge was renewed, and with more success. As a part of it, Sen. Edward R. Burke was defeated for renomination in Nebraska as a part of it.

Defeat of Johnson is now impossible. It was impossible when the President slapped him, but the feeling was so strong that the President would not be politic.

Several observers believe that if Johnson is mad enough to denounce F. D. R. and support Willkie in a few speeches before election, Willkie will carry the state.

But that does not mean that Johnson, though a Republican, is going to support Wendell Willkie. Nobody knows what he is going to do. All we know is that he is very bitter against Roosevelt.

Senator Johnson has been one of the outstanding isolationists in the senate. It is the act which bears his name that forbids any country in default to the United States on previous debts to borrow any more money in this country.

An interesting sidelight on the demoralizing bombardment of London has developed in Washington. Reports from Britain indicate that this constant bombing has tended to stiffen the resistance of the English people. British sympathizers here are presenting another plan by which material aid can be extended to the defenders. This group has organized itself into the American Committee for Defense of British Homes. This committee was formed by a group of well-known sportsmen and explorers who, hearing of the British people's need for small arms, ammunition and binoculars, decided to do something about it. The decision has resulted in a nationwide drive for sporting rifles, shotguns, and pistols, ammunition and binoculars.

New York headquarters of the group report that the public has responded to their plea by sending in a considerable selection of their favorite guns. Although shotguns predominate, old Springfield rifles used by the U. S. army a decade before the war, 1917 Springfields, and many pistols of varied calibers have been received.

Firms known to operate in violation of federal labor laws are going to be out of luck as far as U. S. defense orders from the army and navy are concerned. That word was forthcoming from the Washington office of Sidney Hillman, the defense commission's labor member. Hillman's announcement regarding the award of defense contracts was based on a statement of principles outlined by the defense commission and approved by the President. He believes labor should not suffer because of the present emergency.

Badger State 'Happenings'

Paralysis Worst Since 1931—Wisconsin this year had its most severe outbreak of infantile paralysis since 1931, with an aggregate of 314 cases reported to Oct. 10, the state board of health announced.

Ex-Senator Moran Dies—Former State Senator Bernard N. Moran, 71, died at his home in Rhineland. Moran served as Republican representative in the state legislature from the 30th district.

Madison Pastor Moderator—The Rev. Edward O. Kennedy, pastor of Christ Presbyterian church, Madison, was elected moderator of the Wisconsin synod of the Presbyterian church at the annual convention at Ashland.

Names Confuse Fireman—The Watertown fire department answered an alarm at Clyman, 10 miles from Watertown but found no fire. When they returned they learned that the fire at the Kleeman tavern, two blocks from their headquarters, was out.

State Police Radio Asked—A statewide police radio system was urged by Police Chief Kluchesky of Milwaukee as a necessity for efficient police operations throughout Wisconsin. He spoke to the Wisconsin Police Chiefs association in convention at Madison.

Start Enlarging Shipyards—Work has been started enlarging facilities at the Manitowoc shipyards preparatory to building submarines. The United States navy is partly financing the work. By next spring construction work will be in progress on five subs simultaneously.

Woman Gets $2,143 Verdict—Mrs. Gladys Page, Green Bay, won a $2,143 judgment granted in Brown County circuit court against the city court decision. She sued the city for $5,000 after falling into a ditch concealed by grass and weeds close to the edge of a city street.

Turkey Crop Smaller—Wisconsin's turkey crop this year is not quite as large as the one in 1939. Approximately 335,000 turkeys were raised on Wisconsin farms this year compared with 342,000 raised last year. Turkey production in the state, while two per cent below that of last year, is about five per cent larger than the ten year average.

Finds Son Dead in Car—Edwin Schultz, Token Creek, Dane county farmer, answered his neighbor's call for help at an automobile accident near his home. On arriving at the scene he recognized the car as his own and the man killed to be his son. The son, David, 21, former University of Wisconsin student, had died of a broken neck.

Dr. Robinson Out of Race—Dr. James K. Robinson, Milwaukee dentist who had announced that he would run for governor of Wisconsin as an independent Progressive Republican, failed to file nomination papers with the secretary of state before the deadline. Dr. Robinson polled 117,000 votes against Gov. Heil in the Republican primary.

Unemployment Payments Down—Unemployment compensation payments in Wisconsin during September totaled $320,800, or $163,991 less than in August, the industrial commission announced. Benefit payments totaled over $3,852,000 for the year, and for the period since August, 1936, when benefits started, more than $19,289,000, the commission said.

Henry Given State Bank Job—Gov. Heil appointed Robert K. Henry, Jefferson banker, a member of the state banking commission to fill the unexpired term of Herbert F. Bach, Madison, chairman of the commission, who has resigned to take a job with the federal reserve bank of Chicago. Henry, 50, served two terms as Democratic state treasurer from 1933 to 1936.

Night Class to Train Workers—To develop skilled workers in the metal trades who will be needed when the Manitowoc shipyards swing into the construction of 10 submarines for the United States navy, classes at the vocational school will be conducted until 1 a. m. Classes in the late night hours have been organized for machinists, patternmakers and welders, who are expected to receive first call at the shipyards.

Former Lieut. Governor Dies—Henry A. Gunderson, 62, former lieutenant governor and unsuccessful Progressive candidate for governor in the September primary, was found dead in his home in Portage. Gunderson resigned as lieutenant governor in October, 1937, to accept appointment as a state tax commissioner, lost that office in a legislative reorganization of the commission in 1939. He ran last in the race of five Progressives seeking their party's nomination for governor last month.

Dykstra Appointed Director—President Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin accepted the position of federal director of conscription, offered him by President Roosevelt, after he had been granted a leave of absence by the university board of regents. As director of conscription the university president will have general supervision of the registration of men 21 through 35, and also the procedure men will be called for a year's military service.

Leave for Defense Granted—The Kenosha city council voted to grant leaves of absence to all city employees who join the armed forces of the nation under the defense program. Those leaving will be granted one month leave with pay and 11 months without pay. The leaves will be extended if found necessary.

Start Swimming Pool—Ground has been broken at Appleton for a new municipal swimming pool, a project which has been the subject of arguments in the council for about ten years.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Wash sieves with water in which a little bicarbonate of soda has been added. Wives wash when washing sieves.

Apples that are to be used before being placed in the oven, you do this you will find they do not break while cooking.

Any flaked ready-to-serve cereal may be used instead of whole bread crumbs in a recipe that calls for bread crumbs.

Do not move bread dough when it begins to rise, or it is likely to fall. Select a spot, out of the way for the bowl, cover with a cloth and then let the dough alone.

Never water house plants with other than water from the tap. Florists never use heated water and, as you know, they have much money invested in plants that they must meet with success.

A piece of chamois that has been dampened makes an excellent duster. It makes furniture look like new.

When making baked custards pour boiling milk onto the beaten eggs. It will then bake very firm.

If you do much deep fat frying you will save time by using a frying basket. Immerse it in the hot fat, bringing it up, add the food and quickly drop it back into the fat. Fry until done then remove the basket and let the food drip dry. Doughnuts, fritters and croquettes can be easily fried in a basket.

To get the best decorative effects with house plants, it is a good plan to set aside some sunny part of the house, such as a large kitchen window, as a culture room. Here the plants can be grown and rejuvenated under ideal conditions and moved at various times to other parts of the house where they will serve their dual purpose.

FIRE A DESTRUCTIVE SERVANT

If people were careful there would be millions of acres more forest land than there are today. Every day careless hunters and campers roam the forests throwing burning objects on the dry grass and leaves. These burning objects may destroy many acres of timberland. These fires do not only destroy the forests, but many animals have to suffer from the fire. Some baby animals are probably separated from their mothers. When forests burn down in the autumn the animals have to look for new homes and different food to replace that which has been burned by the fire. When we build campfires we should be careful that every spark has been extinguished before we leave camp.

In the home, matches should be kept out of reach of small children, who might strike them and start a fire. When we want to start a fire in a stove we should never use kerosene for it might explode and burn us. When we burn brush we should be careful that the wind comes from the right direction so that the sparks are not blown toward any woods or buildings. We should never leave oily rags lay in closets. If we leave matches lay in the attic, they might burn slowly until the house would be set on fire.

A lighter stove should never be kept in a shed where gasoline is kept. Some sparks from the stove might reach the gasoline and then there would be an explosion. No motor or engine of any kind should be kept in the barn for a spark from the motor might fall into straw or hay and start a fire. If you want your buildings and forests to burn down, just be careless with fire.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

GRAMMAR ROOM

The eighth graders are planning an initiation party for the sixth graders on Friday evening, Oct. 25.

The sixth, seventh and eighth graders made outline maps of Wisconsin this week to use when they listen to the radio program, "Our Wisconsin" to locate the physical regions, cities, lakes, rivers and counties talked about during each broadcast.

Thursday our room played the intermediate room in football.

In arithmetic the eighth graders are solving equations, the seventh graders decimals, and the sixth graders fractions.

PRIMARY ROOM

We are studying about the way seeds travel and how they are scattered and are making seed charts.

If any child has to miss school he may listen to the radio program at home. The program comes from Madison WHA at nine-thirty.

WHAT'S MY NAME?

Last week: Wayland Tassar. This little freshman girl has very black hair and sparkling brown eyes. She is popular with the boys, especially with a certain senior boy. She has a brother, too, who is a senior. This little freshman is very studious and is one of the girls who belongs to the chorus and operetta cast. Red goes very well with her hair and eyes. What's her name?

EXCHANGE CLASSES

Just for variety, the boys in manual training and the girls in home economics are exchanging classes for a period of six weeks. The new classes began on Monday morning.

In manual training the girls are learning the use of the most common tools like planes, squares and saws. In the next few weeks the girls will probably be nursing bruised thumbs and cut fingers, not mentioning stiff arms.

The boys in home economics are starting by learning the use of different pots and pans. The first morning in home economics Miss Yerke held a peeling knife and asked what kind it was. Harold Bunkelmann told her that it was stainless steel.

DRAMATIC CLUB

We had our dramatic club meeting at Miss Dachenbach's apartment. Rehearsals are being held for a play which is being sponsored by our club. Parts were given to students who didn't partake in many other activities, so that it would not interfere with their school work. A very good time was had and we hope that we receive another invitation soon.

FOOTBALL

We heartily retract everything we said last week about Kewaskum losing a game for K. H. S. The boys over-whelmed Lomira by a score of 42 to 6 Friday. There was noticeable improvement in rushing, blocking and tackling. Despite the overwhelming advantage in height and weight on the part of Lomira, Kewaskum proved its "stick-to-it-ness" and won the game. Special mention should be given to Bilgo and Strupp. Bilgo scored 18 points. The first serious casualty of the season resulted in a chipped wrist bone to Frank Bremser.

CLASS NEWS

The seniors are busy planning their trip to Madison on November 2 to attend the homecoming and to inspect the Mendota Mental Institution. A visit to the state institution is due to the study of social problems, which includes the study of mental defects.

The sophomores are working hard on salt maps which bring out their artistic abilities and their knowledge of the world map and its changes.

The freshmen and sophomores are recovering from a strenuous dancing party which was held in the gym last Friday evening. Some very timid freshmen found out that they could dance.

Better cooks and carpenters will be turned out in K. H. S. in the future for the boys are taking home economics for six weeks and the girls are taking manual training for the same period of time. The home economics department had never witnessed such delicious meals as those turned out by the boys.

PEP MEETING

The junior girls put on a pep meeting last Friday morning. For once the pep meeting really helped some because the football team won the game. The pep meeting consisted of three parts. The first part showed how to obtain money to purchase a student activity ticket; the second part was the Kitchen Kettle band directed by Helen Kirchner, and the third part consisted of cheering in which the cheerleaders led the entire student body in cheering the team on to victory.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Henry, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Rosenheimer, accidentally broke his leg. Little Henry was around in his usual lively and manly way while visiting his neighbor, Dr. E. L. Morgenroth, when he fell in the latter's barn and suffered the break in both bones of his right leg. Henry is suffering much pain and is said to have remarked to his father "Papa, now I can't walk on the sidewalk any more."

He served four successive terms as district attorney of Washington county, has been appointed United States district attorney.

The marriage of Miss Annie Meyer of here to Arthur Moritz was solemnized by Rev. Cautlos of Wayne—Kohlville Correspondent.

Lightning struck the barn of John Ruppinger. He at once went out to the barn and found the hay burning in several places. The entire family formed a bucket brigade and in an hour had the fire under control with little damage done.—St. Kilian Correspondent.

Highs Crush Lomira For First Loop Win

off 2 first downs but were stopped by the locals' 15. Kewaskum gained 12 yards in 3 plays and Bilgo punted to Lomira's 25.

Lomira was passing on 2 out of 3 plays and completing a good share of them, which were delayed passes to a man on the line of scrimmage, who was open when the secondary was sucked back to cover receivers on long passes. Vyvyan replaced Bilgo, playing center on defense, and Koerber went to end. Vyvyan succeeded in stopping many short passes but line blocking functioned for Lomira and they ran 2 first downs before the boys took the ball on their own 20. The team began running plays through the center of the line, Krautkramer and Bunkelmann blocking. They drove to a touchdown in 6 plays, Kraut going over from the side and Bilgo converting two points, 8-0.

Kewaskum kicked off, the ball hitting the Lomira center on the latter's 35, Kewaskum recovering. They gained 8 yards on 2 passes and a line buck before punting on the opponents' 15. Lomira drove up the field on 4 long passes to a touchdown. The try for point failed—8-6, Kewaskum. Tassar replaced Bremser, Brauchle for Krautkramer and Hawig for Koerber. Kewaskum received on their 10, fumbled, recovered, and kicked on first down to the center of the field. Lomira drove to Kewaskum's 15 where they lost the ball on downs. On 5 plays, straight backs and reverses, the locals had another touchdown, Bunkelmann going over from the 15 through center. On a bad pass from center, Bilgo failed to convert—14-6, Kewaskum. On the kick Lomira returned to their 30 when the half ended.

SECOND HALF
Kewaskum received, was stopped cold on 2 line bucks, and then Bremser ran 30 yards to a touchdown on a down. reverse which completely baffled Lomira. Bilgo converted on a kick from placement—22-6, Kewaskum. Lomira was deep in local territory the rest of the quarter but good defensive work by the backs, Brauchle, Bremser and Tassar, stopped them short of the goal 3 times.

In the 4th quarter Lomira's six, who played the whole game, began to wilt and the winners got stronger. Opening the quarter Peterman took a 20-yard pass from Brauchle at midfield on fine blocking by Krautkramer, and ran for a touchdown, Bilgo placekicking 2 more points—30-6, Kewaskum. The boys intercepted a Lomira pass and Tassar ran to the 8, where a pass, Brauchle to Bilgo, netted a touchdown. Bilgo's try for placement was blocked.

Kewaskum got the ball on another interception by Brauchle. A 30-yard pass, Brauchle to Bilgo, and a 25-yard run gave the team another touchdown. The try for point was good on a pass but was declared no good when Bunkelmann's knee touched the ground before the ball was passed. Strupp played most of this quarter at center and showed up well, knocking down short passes and stopping up the center of the line.

This week the loop lead and possibly the championship is at stake when the unbeaten leaders, N. Fondy and Campbellsport, clash. In other games today Lomira goes to Brandon and Kewaskum is host to Sheboygan Falls in an exhibition game. Kewaskum was originally scheduled to tackle Oakfield but the game has been pushed back to Nov. 1 (homecoming here). The team's next conference battle is at Campbellsport Saturday, Oct. 26.
