Good Falls Team Wins Local Rivers Opener

The Land O' Rivers basketball league has the strongest six team circuit in in the local gym Sunday night, in upset a pretty fair Kewaskum five, 37 to 29. A good sized crowd witnessed the affair and was thrilled all the way.

Falls had a really smooth team on the floor. In fact we don't believe Kewaskum will be called upon all season to face a faster, trickier, and more accurately passing and shooting quint. On the other hand, Kewaskum showed strength and with more practice should win a lot of games. All the boys need is to collect some speed and sharpen their eyes for the hoop and they'll be hard to take. Paul Kral and Dreher, members of last year's high school champs, made their debut and did right well. The two were high scorers for the locals. Kral dumped in 11 points, although quite closely guarded in the second half, and Dreher was next with six. Schaick, classy Falls forward, paced both quints with 12 points.

Kewaskum fell behind in the first half and was unable to catch up, although playing the visitors on even terms the second half. The first quarter score was 12-6, Falls, and their lead increased to 20-10 at the intermission. The locals outscored Falls in the third quarter but only by one point and trailed, 33-24, going into the last frame. They gained another point in this period but still were 8 points short of vic-Through an error by the referee eight minute quarters were played instead of 10 minutes, which the league requires. Because of this eight full minutes of playing time were omitted. Kewaskum might have won with this extra time as they improved as the game went along. Practically the same Falls team last year was in the Land O' Lakes league, a stronger circuit. Considering this the locals gave them a real battle. Falls has a veteran team, including two former university stars. MENO. FALLS FG FT PF TP Limbach, rf ..... 4 0 1 8 Matheck, rf ..... ## Italian Army's Chief of Staff Resigns As Greeks Drive Further Into Albania; Nazi Pour Into Rumania Amid Chaos; U. S. Aid Held Vital to British Victory

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DUCE'S GAMBLE: Stakes Are Raised

legation staff are knitting for Greek soldiers fighting Italy, Berlin's Axis partner. There were other indications Germany was in no hurry to come to Mussolini's rescue in Albania. It was said Hitler had advised against the campaign and since the Duce had gone ahead anyhow, he should be given time to consider the consequences of effront to the leader. Mussolini apparently was doing penitence. Already he had relieved one commander in the field, another at home and ordered more Fascist legions committed to the Balkan campaign.

There were other, more practical reasons, why his drive first bogged down and then turned into retreat. These were: British aid in the air and sea, which made hazardous his lines of communication; unwise anticipation of mechanized units in mountain regions; insufficient use of the Italian air corps; Greek strategic ability which made the most of "Resignation" of Marshal Pietro Badoglio as chief of the Italian general staff was also announced officially in Rome. This fact gave some indication of the tough going of Mussolini's plans for a "quickie" war in Greece. Badoglio was replaced by Gen. Ugo Cavalero, until recently commander of the Italian forces in East Africa. Italy's most famous soldier, Badoglio had been nd of all three branches of the fight forces of Italy.

The Mediterranean

The first major encounter of the British and Italian navies was off Sardinia. British planes sighted tiny spots in the ocean, identified as Italian warships. They radioed the word back to the fleet and the British, led by the battleship Renown, went into action. Planes joined the melee. The Italians finally threw up a smoke screen and got back under the protection of shore batteries. There were conflicting claims, but the British declaration that its navy controlled the Mediterranean seemed to hold weight.

The British told a story: "The American navy," it said, "prefers whiskey, the British navy rum. But the Italian navy sticks

ENGLAND'S CRISIS:

Food and Planes

More and more it became apparent that the weeks just ahead may decide the ultimate victory for Adolf Hitler. That he is well aware of this is seen in the intense bombings being administered to British industrial areas.

Supplies is the key, and Hitler hopes to so cripple British production that the anticipated spring drive will be made easier. Certain it is that he is obtaining some results, although British censorship has hidden the extent of the industrial damage in Coventry, Birmingham, Bristol and Liverpool. On the other hand, Arthur Greenwood, minister of production, admitted losses when speaking to commons. Also an increase in U-boat activity was admitted to threaten sea traffic, upon which Britain must rely for the major share of its foodstuffs. Stricter rationing was decreed, milk supplies curtailed, imports of fresh fruits banned and fewer meat shipments forecast.

Shipping losses were estimated at 4,500,000 tons a year. It was 600,000 tons a month at the height of the U-boat campaign in 1917. Partial British answer to this was found in R. A. F. bombings of submarine bases in France and Belgium. British war on German production also was made in bombings on a score of continental cities.

The Way Ahead

Eyes of all were on the rate of production of planes and munitions in the United States. Here may be the final test, if the British can hold out to mid-summer. American planes sent to Britain in October numbered 281. Scheduled for November were 390. For January the figure is 350, and 400 by April, to be increased to 900 by January, 1942. Also by that time it is considered a fair estimate that the U.S. will have 50,000 planes of its own. But an "all-out speed-up" would even revise these figures upward.

RUMANIA:

Death and Terror

In 1923 a Polish mystic in Rumania formed a fascist, anti-Semitic movement under the name of League of the Archangel Michael, later to become the Iron Guard. His followers wore green shirts. At the same time in Germany an Austrian beer hall orator launched a similar campaign known as National Social-His followers wore brown

In 1938, the Iron Guard, admirers of their German counterpart and allegedly financed by them, were outlawed by King Carol following a long list of bombings and outrages. Corneliu Zelea Condreanu, the Guard leader, was imprisoned Later it was announced he had been shot dead while trying to escape.

Three months ago German pressure pushed Carol from his throne and put the Iron Guard in control. But the green-shirted legions yearned for revenge. They attained that revenge when a band of several hundred forced their way into a fortress prison, took from cells 69 anti-guardist leaders and executed them. Included was Gen. George Argesauto, premier at the time of Condreanu's death.

Civil War

The Bucharest government of Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu quickly expressed disapproval in the chief of staff for 15 years and had name of party discipline. The premier is titular head of Guard. Even with strict censorship it was learned that there had been wholesale resignations of army officers in protest. But the assassinations continued and units of the Hitler had little to lose in the quarrel. Both the army and Iron Guard are pro-Nazi, the army however not approving of anti-Semitism. Amid the internal chaos, trainloads of German troops poured into Rumania to "keep order." Germany badly needs Rumanian oil and wheat, and the Rumanian mountain passes lie across the path of the Nazi push to the east. Hitler was easing his route while the Rumanians quarreled.

FARM SHOW: Girl Is Winner

At the forty-first annual International Livestock Exposition and Hay and Grain show in Chicago, the major event for junior cattlemen and farmers was won by Evelyn Asay, of Mt. Carroll, Ill. It was the junior steer competition and Miss Asay carried away honors with her Hereford steer Sargo.

Then Sargo went on to even greater glory. He was picked as the Grand Champion steer of the exposition, the highest honor in cattledom. Later he was sold to the Firestone Tire and Rubber company at the fancy price of $3.30 per pound. This cash and the money won in prizes by the animal will be used as a down payment for a farm for the Asay family, according to Evelyn, who was hailed as the toast of the

SIAM AT WAR: Another Invasion

In the World war Siam (Thailand) fought on the side of the Allies. Several thousand troops were brought to France, but military experts after estimating their combat possibilities, assigned them to truck driving in the Paris district.

Now Siam has attacked France, roops invading parts of helpless Indo-China. The French garrison there, split in allegiance to the Vichy and De Gaulle governments and beleaguered by the Japanese. are not expected to put up a strong

There is little cause for war becountries and the original attack came only after the usual "border incidents" which easily can be inspired or imagined.

Actually the behind-the-scenes sponsor is believed to be close affection between Japan and the present Siamese government led by Premier Gen. Laung Bipul Songgram, and all eyes are glued on Singapore, near-by British naval base, the chief British strong point in the Far East. Singapore is impregnable from the sea, but believed vulnerable by land. Should Japanese and Siamese forces unite in Indo-China, it would pave the way for joint movement by land against

DRAFT REJECTIONS: Not Fit to Fight

About 15 per cent of the first 14,-500 men who answered the initial summons under selective service, are back home, judged by army physicians as sub-standard physically. All the men previously had been passed by their local draft board physicians, but army doctors were more thorough and used X-rays. Chief cause for rejection was substandard teeth and eyesight.

The high rejection percentage was a surprise to the army. They had expected a rejection not higher than 2 per cent. Immediate steps were taken to call additional men from each draft board where a man was rejected before being inducted.

MISCELLANY:

A third recent major airline disaster occurred in Chicago when a large United Air Lines passenger plane crashed, killing eight and injuring eight. The plane was descending for a landing and was only five seconds' flying time from the Municipal airport runways when its engines stalled. It fell, crashed into a house, a garage and an electric power line and then slammed to the ground. Preliminary investigation indicated ice on the wings may have caused the crash. I Five hundred feet underground and two miles from an exit, 31 men were entombed by an explosion in a coal mine near Cadiz, Ohio. Frantic effort to reach them in the hope some were alive, finally was aban-

He said that due to housing shortages in some military encampment areas, officers were forced to live in private dwellings. In several of these towns, he declared, rents had been doubled and tripled (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) The steel-engraving days have come to Washington; bare, black tree-limbs etched against the bright high-light of the clouds; the lagoon and the river beyond, a molten gray; the monument, the porticos of the White House, sharp white. And the shape of things to come is being etched deeper into the consciousness of the capital, too.

America is starting down strange road. Ahead is a fork. Shall we let the team choose or does the driver know?

One thing seems to be certain. The driver knows where he wants to go. So do the horses. Back home, back to the world of things we understand. The familiar gateway that takes us up the lane to the barn; the warm light in the dining room window, the friendly smoke curling up the chimney.

The world we know! You hear that phrase often these days. The job is to get back to it. There are two roads. One is the hard way, the way that leads so near war that the hardiest hesitate. It means throwing all we have with Britain, banking on her victory, insisting on absolute defeat of the totalitarian

The other is the easier way. short cut to our own backyard. Close the gates. Bar the door, lock the windows, learn to live within ourselves if we can and let a new, mad world wag on outside.

Which is the President's way? There is no doubt that Mr. Roose velt considers that his election meant that his foreign policy has been endorsed. He knows, of course, that even the people who endorsed it don't quite know what that policy is. But they do realize that it means aid to Britain short of war and they must sense that there is the risk that we may not be able to stop short of

Many Disagree On Foreign Policy

Inside the government, as well as outside, there are those who do not agree with this policy. They believe that while we must do everything to build our own defenses, our effort should be to bring about some kind of peace between Britain and Hitler and let Europe settle its own problems, because, as H. G. Wells put it, if the war goes on, the destruction of property, of life, cities and institutions will be so great that our civilization itself will be de-But those who think they know the President's mind say that he feels that civilization as we know and want it can be saved only if Britain with the aid of the United States breaks the power of totalitarianism, liberates the occupied democracies and helps lead the world back along the known paths which we have traveled. That belief and the assumption that it is the policy of which the majority of Americans approved in the last election and to which all Americans will submit, is the backbone of the President's policy now taking concrete shape.

Another thing is certain: From now on you will hear far less from the New Dealers who are the mouthpieces of the so-called reform measures. Their voices will be drowned out by the voices of the men running the defense commission; the secretaries of war and the navy; of the military advisors and the diplomats.

The President has frequently said it was the administration's purpose "hold the social gains" rather than to try to advance the ball. He is now demonstrating this. The 'quarterback," as the President used to call himself, is now more interested in the "quarterdeck," and the factory.

That seems to be the picture which is slowly being etched into the background of Washington as the third term is about to begin.

Financial Experts Exchange Views

A new figure has appeared recently in Washington who is conducting a highly interesting shadow show in which conflicting viewpoints within the administration and outside, play highly exciting roles.

The man is tall, quiet Milton Harrison, one-time familiar as a discreet lobbyist in congressional corridors, now editor and publisher of the Savings Bank Journal.

He is gifted with an impish sense of humor as well as a keenly ana-ment of $93,318 to help defray the cost of fighting forest fires on state and private owned lands in Wisconsin during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, was disclosed in Madison by the forestry service of the U. S. department of agriculture. Issue Money for Fair Aids-State fair aids totaling $160,000 were issued by the department of agriculture to 76 county and district fairs in Wisconsin. The aids are allocated on the basis of 80 per cent of the first $5,000 expended for premiums and 50 per cent of all amounts in excess

Traffic Deaths ncrease-Capt. John Schoenecker of the Milwaukee police traffic bureau reported that the nine deaths in Milwaukee during November brought the 1940 toll to Dec. 1 to a total of 65 deaths. There were six traffic fatalities in November, 1939, and 53 during the first 11 months of that year

Board Refuses Road Plan - The Winnebago county board rejected a proposal to issue $300,000 in bonds to help finance construction of the relocated superhighway 41 from Neenah to the Fond du Lac county line. The proposed route would bypass the city of Oshkosh but contain an auxiliary route through the city.

Plan Corn Borer Campaign-Plans for the 1941 cleanup campaign against the European corn borer will be discussed by representatives of the state department of agriculture at a series of farm meetings to be held this winter in eastern Wiscon sin, Ralph E. Ammon, department director, announced at Madison. Thieves Rob Phillips Church-Thieves broke into St. Patrick's Catholic church at Phillips, rifled contribution boxes of $10 and did damage estimated at $350 to the altar. The altar was damaged by a grub hoe which the thieves found in the basement. The damage indicated that they thought there was loot back of an altar door.

Authorize Cut in Rates-The public service commission announced at Madison that it had authorized the Chippewa Falls municipal water utility to reduce water rates $3,175 a year, effective Jan. 1. About 2,000 customers will be affected. The municipal electric utility at Cuba City received permission to reduce rates $1,170 annually for 387 customers.

Suggestions For Relief Of Itching

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

HAVE counted over one hundred causes of headache; others have counted many more than this.

It would seem TODAY'S that another HEALTH simple yet annoying symptom has COLUMN likewise a great many causes. I refer to itching, or pruritis as it is called.

Itching cannot be classed as pain and yet it can be so severe that it may cause the patient to actually tear his skin in his efforts to obtain relief.

So important is itching considered from the standpoint of comfort and health that a special article thereon by

Dr. Arthur W. Stillians, Chicago, appeared in the Journal of the American Medical association recently, The causes of itching may be some disturbance of the skin itself, local causes, or to some Dr. Barton general disturbance of the body.

Among the local causes are: 1. Animal parasites such as itch mites and other insects that live on the skin, pin worms, and the parasite known as trichomonas. 2. Vegetable irritants such as itch powder, nettles, fungi, plant juices, pollen, drugs. 3. Mechanical irritants such as scratching and rubbing of clothing and the effect of wind. 4. Cold or heat. 5. Chemical irritants such as sulphur, mercury, nickel. 6. Local secretions: sweat left in folds of skin, alkaline or too acid

Cause and Treatment. General causes of itching: 1. Irritations due to pressure of growths on abdominal organs. 2. Deficient nutrition, anemia, vitamin lack. 3. Poisoning of blood and tissues by liver disease and constipation. 4. Gland disturbances such as diabetes (pancreas) exopthalmic goiter (thyroid) and the menopause. 5. Sensitiveness to foods, drugs and other substances. 6. Nervous diseases.

The treatment of itching naturally depends upon the cause. Until cause is found, Dr. Stillians suggests the use of a soothing powder of equal parts of boracic acid, talcum and zinc sterate. Cooling the skin by cool wet compresses of boracic acid solution-a teaspoon to a pint of water—is also helpful. Calamine lotion is perhaps the most widely used preparation to relieve itching.

Getting Rid of Superfluous Hair

T HAS been found that the best treatment for the removal of superfluous hair is electrolysis. The tiny needle is inserted into each hair root and, if done properly, the hair is permanently destroyed.

Unfortunately, because this is not 'medical' treatment, anyone can buy this electrical outfit and perhaps, in time, acquire the necessary skill to kill the hair root and leave no scar. But while these "operators" are learning how to use the equipment, much damage may be done to the skin of the patient.

There are a number of reasons why safety is not assured by these lay operators, the most important or serious of which is (a) their lack of knowledge of preventing infection. and (b) treating what they consider simple moles, which are really an early form of cancer.

Operator Should Know Antisepsis. To avoid hazards of infection and spreading a cancerous growth, the operator should have some understanding of anatomy, physiology, bacteriology, antisepsis, besides his knowledge of how this particular electric apparatus is used. Now this doesn't mean that anyone with superfluous hair must go to a physician to have it destroyed because the majority of physicians know little or nothing about removing hair by electrolysis. It does mean, however, that if he does not go to the physiotherapy department of any hospital, a patient desiring this treatment should ask his physician about the establishment where he expects to undergo the treatment.

A good "operator" of the electrolytic apparatus may be unable to tell the difference between a simple and cancerous mole.

QUESTION BOX

Q .- Is it safe to use the formaldehyde remedy for excessive underarm perspiration?

A .- Formaldehyde used in treatment of perspiring feet is an irritant of the skin and might be too severe for perspiration under the arms. The X-ray treatment is effective for underarm perspiration. Very hot towels placed in armpits for a minute may hold back perspiration for an hour or more.

Using Up Old Paint. QUESTION: I find that I have several gallons of interior paint left over from a previous job. I need exterior paint. Is there any way that I could treat the interior paint to make it suitable for outdoor use?

Answer: I do not recommend trying to make outside paint out of interior paint. The result would probably be a failure, and you would lose time and materials. It would be much better to save the inside paint for some future job for which it is suitable, and buy only the best quality paint for your outside work. New Shingles Over Old.

Question: I am told that in this climate (New Jersey) it is not wise to lay a new red cedar shingle roof over an old roof; that it works well in New England, but not around here. Would like your opinion.

Answer: In this, as well as other parts of the country wood shingles are applied over an old roof with satisfactory results. It is a general practice to leave the old shingles on the roof. In doing so, you provide better insulation against heat and cold, and avoid the expense and mess of tearing off the old shingles.

Cracked Porch Floor.

Question: My coal bin is under the cement floor of my porch, 7 by 20 feet. The floor has cracked, and because of a sag the cracks are wider at the bottom than on the top. There are bad leaks in a rain. How can I close them?

Answer: You should run a girder lengthwise under the floor, supported by two or more posts. First, paint the cracks on the under side with thick roofing cement, working it in as deeply as you can. In putting in the girder, take out the sag with a jack or with wedges, which will squeeze the cement into the cracks. Then run cement into the cracks on the top. After drying. paint the roofing cement on the top with aluminum paint to prevent the oils from bleeding into the floor paint. The floor paint should be applied only when the floor is thor-

Arrange them carefully so that the edges meet exactly; put a small piece of tissue paper on each side of the tear, and let dry under a weight. Pull away the tissue paper, and at casual glance the paper might never have been torn. For less fine work, or for something that will receive hard wear, cut strips of thin semi-transparent bond paper, such as is used for file copies of letters. Coat with worked paste, lay over the torn places, rub down with a clean cloth and put under a weight until dry." Mildew on Paint.

Question: In places dark brown paint on my outside trim has become covered with black blotches. This only occurs in spots that do not get the direct rays of the sun. The painter says that these blotches are "a fungus growth caused by trees," and will have to be burned off. I am wondering if he is right. Answer: Yes; he is right. Paint that is in shadow is likely to be attacked by mold. The softer the paint the more likely it is to become moldy, and dark colored paint is soft because of the greater quantity of oil that it contains. The mold can be burned off or can be killed by washing with alkali; washing soda, for instance. In repainting, replace some of the oil with turpentine, and mix powdered calomel with the paint, in the proportion of an ounce to the gallon.

Leaking Metal Roof. Question: A large frame house was reroofed two or three years ago with corrugated sheet iron. In places this roof has always leaked. How can it be made thoroughly waterproof?

Answer: Use roof cement, which can be had from any roofer. Fill the joints as deeply as possible by forcing in the cement with a stiff brush or a putty knife. Any nailheads that are exposed should also be covered. For appearance, you can then paint the entire roof with any asphalt paint. For a suggestion, use aluminum paint with an asphalt base, which will go far to protect the house against summer heat. This paint, which is a recent development, does not dry black, for the aluminum flakes float to the surface and harden there. The final effect of the roof will be aluminum.

Oil-Stained Masonry. Several inquiries have been received on the removal of grease and oil stains from masonry; A brick hearth is stained by grease from cooking steak; there are dark stains on floor tile in a vestibule; and there is a stain on flagstone from lubricating oil. All of these stains can be removed with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate, say, a cup to the quart of water, and applied hot. Put it on liberally, let it stand for a while, mop up, and then rinse the entire surface with clear water.

Illuminated Christmas Tree on Front Lawn Will Give Extra Beauty to Your Home

A N ILLUMINATED tree in front of a house always makes it look more "homey" on Christmas eve. It need not necessarily be a pine or fir tree-it may be any evergreen standing apart or in shrubbery hugging the house.

The lighted tree or shrub not only makes the home look more beautiful, but also serves as a definite contribution to the community Christmas spirit.

There is, of course, a right and a wrong way to do this, as there is in doing everything else. The ordinary indoor Christmas tree lighting sets are not apt to prove very satisfactory, although often they serve the purpose. But much more often their exposure to the elements spells their doom. For one thing the lamps are quite small, and also because the cord or wire is not properly protected by rubber or other safety insulation that will aid it in withstanding the uncertain weather of Christ-

In buying such an illuminating set it is, therefore, necessary to tell the electrician from whom you are purchasing it for what purpose it is intended, and ask him to suggest the best way to connect it.

REVOLT FROM A RADIO Elmer Twitchell is suffering from what is coming to be known as "radio chills." He is beginning to shiver at the very sight of a radio. 'Yes," admitted Elmer today. "I'm afraid of the darned thing. It used to be fairly peaceful: at least there was nothing about it to intimidate me. It was just a piece of furniture between the piano and the vestibule, or a table ornament with cigar ashes all around it.

"I may not have been overfond of it, but I considered it a good friend. It was a bit obstreperous at times but never savage. It was even safe for women and children to handle." Here Elmer looked nervously around and shed a few tears.

"The breakfast food, hair oil, chocolate bar and gasoline talks were annoying at times, but they never made my hair stand on end," continued Mr. Twitchell. "And the minute I heard some radio voice say: 'This is the Peter Pipp Almond Program' I didn't have to duck or have a battle for civilization hurled smack into my lap!

"A few words about a tooth powder weren't a prelude to all the ghastly details of a bombing raid. About the worst I had to fear from the radio in the old days was some Hackensack Lady Duo or the voice of the man who urges radio fans to watch their innards and buy the Key to Vigor & Vim for $1.50 before it goes to $2.25.

"I could even ignore my radio and assume it was out of order and perfectly harmless. But them days is gone. It's now a constant menace. I have a feeling it can snap, snarl and bite me."

Elmer was plainly all upset. "It's become a thing of blitzkriegs and bombs and bullets. I'd just as soon have a tank in the room. In fact, I'd rather have a tank, provided it was wired for just the baseball scores and racing results.

"Having a radio is almost the same as going to war. It's worse in a lot of ways. In a war there are periods when you are too far back to know what's going on up front."

At this point Mr. Twitchell put on a gas mask, grabbed a gun and started crawling across the floor toward his radio set, using the other furniture for cover. "This is about time the wife tunes in on one of those programs," he whispered. Elmer had plainly gone nuts.

EW YORK. - Also bulky and muscular, but less belligerent than John L. Lewis, his predecessor in office as president of C. I. O., Murray of CIO is Philip Murray. He is of Silver - Tongued; Scottish de-Checks Hard Fist scent and therefore given to fewer words than Mr. Lewis, and has been a powerful offstage figure in the sensational rise of the C. I. O. in the last four years.

Conservative labor opinion sees in his selection an augury for improved labor relations under the urgency of our defense effort. He has been a negotiator and labor pacifier for three Presidents. President Wilson made him a member of his War Labor board. In 1921, President Harding used him to sidetrack a civil war in the West Virginia coal fields, with 10,000 miners in revolt. President Roosevelt asked his cooperation in the successful adjustment of the threatened steel strike of March and April, 1937. He has been a hard-hitting foe of the leftwingers, both in the old craft unionism and "vertical" unionism days. A month ago, he wrote to Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, proposing a conference, "for the establishment of orderly industrial relations."

In his native Lanarkshire, Scotland, he was a breaker boy in the mines. He arrived in America with his family when he was 16 and went down in the pit for the Keystone Coal and Coke company in Westmoreland county, Pa. He started a small civil war when he punched the weighmaster in the nose. That, he has said many times, was one of his greatest mistakes. Thereafter he kept his temper. But the nose-punching started his career as a labor leader. The miners made him president of their newly organized local of the United Mine Workers of America, at the age of 18.

He educated himself by a correspondence course and now he is a master of flawless grammar and diction. Restraining his powerful fist has not always been easy and he enjoys vicarious milling as an eager boxing fan. He is silver-haired, slow-spoken, with a bit of the old Scottish burr on his tongue, and deliberate in speech and action. In behalf of his organization, he has pledged labor's full co-operation in defense. He is married and has a 21year-old son.

They wouldn't talk that way to his face. The big, knobby, Danish-American citizen once mixed with "Ruby Bob" Fitzsimmons, without getting hurt. He is not only a sculptor, but an amateur boxer-still good for his age-a politician and engineer, a writer and a painter.

He likes a lot of elbow room in whatever he does and has been having the time of his life with his Black Hills sculptures of the Presidents. Standing up, his mountain-side &braham Lincoln would be 465 fact tall. He's never so happy as when he has a steam shovel for a chisel and a carload of dynamite for a mallet. He has a hair-trigger temper, riding any big political cyclone that may happen to kick up. His first attempt at gargantuan mountain carving, for the Confederate memorial at Stone Mountain, Ga., broke up in a row, in which models and plans were destroyed.

With a number of other distinguished artists he has been active in the poster contest and has helped stir public excitement over the competition. Born in Idaho, he was educated in Fremont and Omaha, Neb., and studied art in San Francisco and Paris.

IN THE war-planning, which daily takes on more and more of an emergency aspect, whippy little gray-moustached Gen. George V. Strong is the diplomat of the army. His recent mission to Great Britain is said to have yielded much basic information on which the army and navy are working out hemisphere defense. He is chief of the war plans division of the war department's general staff. General Strong is one of the few high-ranking army officers who started their careers fighting Indians.

He has known all kinds of milling, on down to modern tanks. After his graduation from West Point, he was soon in the saddle fighting the Utes, at Fort Meade, S. D. During the World war, he planned troop movements and was rewarded with a Distinguished Service medal.

Back in 1925, when General Mitchell was being court-martialed for clamoring for more planes, General Strong eased into the hearing some the inventors would be glad to re- startling evidence that foreign powers were getting air bases down around the Panama canal.

-16-They had ridden miles and miles before Carmen slackened pace and looked over with a laugh at her companion. "Oh, I haven't had so glorious a run since—I can't remember horses. A dell opened on one side of the trail they were following. Bowie pointed. "That's a lush stand of grass over there. Shall we let the ponies nibble a bit?" "They deserve it, don't you think?' "I think whatever you think, senorita."

"What nonsense!" Carmen drew herself up in her saddle. "I be- nez! When everybody else despaired lieve I'm tired. Where's poor Pedro? Oh, he's coming, isn't he? We did ride fast. There seemed to be something inside me just urging me to speed on. Funny, isn't it, how impulses act?"

"If you are tired let's get down a moment. I think your cinches are giving a little, anyway," he added hypocritically. "Who hooked you

"Felix, I think it was."

When he asked his inconsequent question — for words were spoken now only to conceal thoughts-he was on his feet, waiting to take her down from the saddle. She slipped into his arms, neither too freely nor too restrainedly, but inevitably, for an instant, into his arms. That instant was to plunge both into an time Monica comes away up here to ocean whose waters had been dreamed of but never before felt. She drew back almost guiltily as she smoothed her riding skirt and, lupe there is one of you?" without looking directly at him, murmured a thank you. When she saw him throw the lines of the ponies, and they began cropping, her heart beat faster: he meant to linger a while.

Pedro rode slowly up. "Pedro," said Bowie, "ride up to the Melena and look about for any bogged cows before the squatters get them. If we do not follow you look for us here on your way back." As the vaquero spurred off, Carmen sat down on the grass with a pleasing sweep of her voluminous skirt, took off her hat and let the sea breeze play through her hair.

"See!" she exclaimed, pointing as he threw himself on the ground beside her. "There's the bay. Isn't it gorgeous! I don't think I ever found this nook before." "Senorita," he said, plucking a blade of grass and paying no attention to her words, "something you said at dinner last night set me thinking." "How could anything I might say set you thinking, Senor Tajano?" she asked, plucking a blade of grass herself "You said you could now ride without fear of being carried off. Why should you feel afraid of such a thing? Surely you don't think these miserable squatters would dare do | that?" She was silent so long that he looked up at her for an answer. When she spoke her expression had completely changed. She was serious. "Shall I tell you?" she asked in a tone quite new to him.

"Why not?" he said simply. "When I was a child," she said, "a dreadful tragedy came into my life. First I must tell you, senor, I am not the daughter of Dona Maria and Don Ramon. Dona Maria is my aunt. My real father's rancho near San Diego was raided one dreadful day by Indians. They murdered my father and would have murdered my mother, had it not been for the plea of her Indian maid, Monica. As it was, the agony and terror that Mother suffered that day killed her within a few weeks. There were three of us children left orphans: an older brother, my younger sister Terecita, and myself. My brother was not at home and so escaped. The Indians set fire to the ranch house and carried my sister and myself away with them into the mountains." "My sister and I were at the mercy of the savages. I don't remember much of this—I was too young, and I was insane with terror. I do seem to remember a stormy night, a terrible fight, and being snatched up with my sister and carried away by other Indians-at least I thought them such. But both Terecita and I were so far gone we knew little of what went on about

"But Monica, our faithful nurse, has told me that four days after the burning of the rancho and the murders my sister and I were brought back to the rancho by three white men with heavy beards. They could speak no Spanish; she could not understand a word they said, and they were not going to leave us with her until our old Padre Pasqual happened along, walking down from San Gabriel. The men, or at least one of them, talked by signs with the padre, and he assured them it would be all right to turn us over to Monica." "Senorita," said her companion gently, "this is too hard on you. You are suffering. Don't tell any more now. I feel it myself." He drew a "Thank God, you breath of relief.

My aunt, Dona Maria, took me breathe him." They walked the for her own. She and dear Don for her own. She and dear Don Ramon adopted me. For years afterward, senor, I would start out of a sound sleep screaming and sobbing. At other times horrible dreams assailed me. "It was Dr. Doane and, most of all, the help of my religion and the ministrations of blessed Padre Martinez that brought me through those terrible years. Dear Padre Martiof my recovery he, almost alone, supported me and told me I must and should get well. "For that reason-all my illnesswhen I became the foster daughter of Guadalupe it was strictly forbidden for anyone ever to mention the tragedy or the fact that I was not their very own child . . . This is a very long story-"

"I can't tell you how deeply I feel it, senorita.' "You asked me why I was afraid of being carried away. I have told you. And I had a reason much more grave for recounting all this, Senor Bowie. ed,' I said. 'This man is smooth faced.' She only shook her head. 'That,' she said over and over, 'is the man who laid you in my arms at Los Alamos!'

"I was shaken almost to death by her story, senor. Shouldn't you be? Senor Bowie, were you that man? Try to recollect."

He stared at the grass by his side. At length he shook his head "She must have been misslowly. taken." Plucking at the grass, he added with a slight tremor, "I wish it were true."

But Carmen had not done: she only pressed her victim more close-"Knowing you as well as I now do, senor, perhaps better than you think," she continued, "I felt it would be well to talk first to Senor Pardaloe, because I knew he came with you to California and might explain it. I did talk with him. He confirmed the story absolutely, even to the beard. Senor Bowie, you are the man." Struggling no longer with pent-up emotion, she burst into tears.

"Why, why, should this upset you so senorita?" he pleaded. "It may only possibly be true. And if it

In my heart I have said, 'If I can ever find that man I will wipe his feet with my hair. I will serve him at table. I will be his handmaiden for life."

"Henry," she exclaimed, holding out her hand for him to help her up, "how do you think I have stood it since Monica told me it was you?"

"Could it indeed have been I? Could that sobbing little brown-eyed girl I carried that day on my shoulder be this magnificent woman who stands before me now? Carmen!" His voice threw more into the words than she had ever heard from human lips. "I love you. I have loved you from the first moment I ever saw you, Carmen. That is the reason I had to leave Guadalupe. That is the reason I never could stand it to come back to Guadalupe and yet stay apart from you. Now you know everything!"

Her composure, as she stood, astounded him. It was now he who must work to control his voice and Dry old Don Ramon interposed an impudent question. "What did your wild horse coax you into?" Carmen met the attack without a tremor. "Nothing to speak of. The important thing is, California can count one more caballero. Don Henry Bowie is coming back to Guada-

Dona Maria rose to her feet, clapping her hands. "Glorious!" "He has promised to stay."

"Better and better." "But, of course," continued Carmen blandly, "you never can tell about really wild horses."

"They are serviceable only when actually brought to bit," observed | welcomed noisily by the vaqueros Don Ramon dispassionately. "Felipe," he said to the houseboy, "here is a key to the wine cellar. Bring three bottles of the 1830 champagne . It was a good vintage," he observed, addressing Bowie. The Tejano left in the morning for the fort to break away from Sutter. It was difficult to make his peace, but the captain was not wholly unreasonable. Bowie took him into his confidence, and in the end the veteran promised to come and dance at the wedding. A week went before Bowie, very impatient, could get back to Guadalupe. Fortunately, in the circumstances, he reached the rancho in the evening. The night was clear. A full moon was rising over the mountains, and just within the patio a slender girlish figure, wearing the very highest of her combs and draped in her most elaborate Chinese shawl, waited to greet him. "Three nights," she whispered when she could catch breath to speak, "three nights I have waited here long, long for you. Wicked Tejano, to keep a poor, poor girl shivering out here in the cold. You need not make excuses. I know you just forgot me. How are you, querido? And now that you havewhat you call it-a job, you must ask Don Ramon in the morning for his daughter's hand-if you think her worth it. I, myself, don't. But I have heard it said that there is no accounting for tastes."

Don Ramon made the asking easy for Bowie. "If Carmen had done as I wished she would have been yours long ago. You are welcome to my household, Senor Bowie. I trust you two may be happy together and may provide for Guadalupe the descendants for which my wife and I have vainly longed."

The betrothal was made an occasion of festivity at the rancho, culminating in a formal dinner to which Padre Martinez and his assistant and Aunt Ysabel from Monterey were summoned. The household and the guests sat at table late and had gathered in the living room with a fire in the huge fireplace. While the talk went on Felipe came in to whisper a message to Bowie. He excused himself and was gone only a few minutes. When he returned Carmen looked at him questioningly, but he ignored all curiosity concerning his absence from the room and no one asked further. It was only when he and Carmen were alone after the guests had left and he was bidding her good night that he answered her question. "It was a messenger from Dr. Doane. Felipe will put him up for

"But what did he want?" "He brought a message from the doctor to let me know that Blood is out again. He broke jail tonight at Monterey."

Bowie was in Monterey next day on business. His business was with Ben Pardaloe. When they had finished their conference Ben had engaged to return to Guadalupe. fortnight later Bowie was riding along the river with Carmen. She had asked to visit the quarter of the rancho threatened by the squatters-three of their shacks were visible from where Bowie and Carmen had halted. K. H. S. DEFEATS OAKS 21-16 The game with Oakfield last week Friday ended in a hard won victory for Kewaskum. It was a wild and tough battle, which can be proven by the fact that Oakfield had fourteen fouls and Kewaskum thirteen. At the half Keof Oakfield's eight were made on free throws. The third quarter ended with Oakfield in the lead, 13-6. In the last quarter Kewaskum started to score in front with Oakfield crowding close behind. Kewaskum went into a stall the last few minutes, which was effective, and kept Oakfield from scoring. With the start Kewaskum has they hope to defeat the rest of their opponents this season. -KHS-

YOU HAVE HEARD OF KWIK LITE TWO-WAY LANTERNS

Perhaps you already know about the famous Kwik Lite Lantern which has proven to be such a sensation wherever it has been introduced by newspapers to their readers. But if you have not, here's a brief description-

KWIK LITE has two lights—an unbreakable trouble light on top and a long distance, focusing type headlight in front. This searchlight is capable of throwing a beam of light a distance of 300 feet. Suitable for all general purposes, and may even be used as an emergency headlight for your car, The light on top is surrounded by a red rhyolite dome that shows a red light for a long distance—an excellent danger signal for times such as when you have to change a tire on the road at night. Through an opening in the top of the dome you get a strong beam of light that may be directed at any trouble spot.

The body of the lantern is of light weight steel, done in an attractive silver finish. Switch and focusing button conveniently located on back of lantern.
