

Small Town . . . Big Job for U. S.

When most of us think of the great task involved in the carrying out of our gigantic defense program, we visualize belching furnaces and great shipyards where little men labor like ants to turn out big battle wagons. But we think of all these things as being in great cities like Chicago, Detroit, New York. However, vital jobs can be done outside of big industrial centers, as for example, Hagerstown, Md., one of the smallest industrial centers in the United States. Situated in the heart of the Maryland farming region, Hagerstown boasts an airplane factory that is turning out three planes a day for the fighting forces of Uncle Sam. It is the Fairchild Aircraft factory, makers of the training plane that bears the company name. This series of photos takes you through the plant.

ASSEMBLY . . . In this department of the Hagerstown plant of the Fairchild company the motors are installed in plane fuselages. Then the assembled ship is towed to Hagerstown airport where test pilots take the ships into the air before the planes are turned over to army fliers.

MAKING IT STICK . . . Craftsman J. E. Clopper is engaged in welding the hollow piping used to shape the framework of an airplane. The piping is of aluminum alloy and each piece must be welded to its mate with the greatest care to withstand flight strain.

A BORN RIBBER . . . Ribbing is the assembling of the framework of the wings. Vilda E. Seibert is engaged in that task here. The wings of the plane are covered with plywood after this job is completed.

BRAIN DEPT. . . . Before you can start to build an airplane there are scores of things you must know about aero dynamics. Here are two project engineers dopping out stress, weights, etc.

DEBUT . . . The men who take all army planes made in Hagerstown for their first trip are shown here in a brand-new ship. In the cockpit is Capt. C. W. O'Connor, U. S. A., army test pilot; chatting with him is Dick Henson, Fairchild's own test pilot. Henson has already flown the ship and passes it on to Capt. O'Connor to make his own test.

A Fairchild plane, trim as a humming bird, makes its bow to the world.

Out of His Mouth
Pat had been hurt. It wasn't much more than a scratch, but his employer, with visions of being obliged to keep him for the rest of his life, sent him to a hospital for examination. The doctor said, "As subcutaneous abrasion is not observable, I do not think there is any reason to apprehend tegumental cicatrization of the wound." "Ah!" said Pat in relief. "Ye took the very words out of me mouth."

No Passengers
The "Lost Bridge"—never crossed by a vehicle since it was built 33 years ago—finally has been demolished by workmen. The bridge was constructed to fulfill requirements of a rural mail route because a township board in Stanley, Kan., feared the span would divert traffic from a nearby main highway. Approaches to the structure never were built. Instead traffic used a nearby ford to cross the river.

THERE are fascinating new transparent materials on the market now. Luncheon sets and aprons and rain coats and closet accessories all take on new glamour when made of them, and you will find that every left-over scrap will be used for something that is attractive and worth while.

Less than 50 cents' worth of this window-pane clear material made the hat cover, underwear case and two glove cases like the one shown here. All the directions for cutting and making the hat cover are given here in the sketch. The material from two corners made the square underwear case. The material from each of the other

Helpful Laughter
Laughter is a most healthful exertion; it is one of the greatest helps to digestion with which I am acquainted; and the custom prevalent among our forefathers, of exciting it at table by jesters and buffoons, was founded on true medical principles.—Dr. Hufeland.

AROUND the HOUSE

Ammonia and water will remove red ink stains from white cloth.

Pumpkin pies will have that rich brown tint if a tablespoon of molasses is added to the filling.

One pound of powdered or confectioner's sugar is equivalent to 2½ cupfuls; one pound of granulated sugar equals two cupfuls.

Use needles to pin down the pleats when pressing a pleated skirt. The needles will leave no marks when you remove them.

Print your child's name inside his rubbers when he goes to school. This will make it possible for his teacher to identify them, which would otherwise be impossible to do where there are so many rubbers of about the same size.

For Busy Shoppers
Winning popular approval with busy Christmas shoppers are the two handsome gift packages of Camel cigarettes featured by local dealers. The regular Camel carton—10 packs of "20's"—comes in a colorful, holiday dress. Equally striking is the gay Camel package of 4 "flat fifties."

Both packages contain 200 cigarettes—are easy gifts to get, perfect to receive.—Adv.

Don't let any cabbage stamps remain over winter. They harbor pests.

Potatoes to be baked in the skins will cook quicker if they are dried before being placed in the oven.

Layer cakes with soft fillings will not become soggy if a thin icing made with confectioner's sugar is put on and let harden, before spreading the filling.

Happy Hours Ahead
A gift to make many happy hours for pipe and "makin's" smokers is the Prince Albert Christmas package—one full pound of ripe, rich-tasting, mellow tobacco. Colorful holiday wrappers put these popular presents in gay Christmas setting—and a handy gift card is enclosed. Your regular tobacco dealer has the one-pound gift tin of Prince Albert on display. Remember! Prince Albert is the cooler-burning tobacco—the National Joy Smoke.—Adv.

CARMEN OF THE RANCHO

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

CHAPTER XVII—Continued

Hardly had the two faced about when the clatter of hoofs behind them indicated they were being followed. They broke the ponies into a swift lunge; their pursuers rode after them but short, and, as dusk fell, Felipe and Carmen dashed safely through the opened doors into the mission compound and Felipe, leaping from his horse, closed the clumsy gates behind them.

To square accounts with Bowie.

There were hesitation and wrangling threats among the horsemen. They milled around the plaza, while within the church Padre Martinez and all in the mission enclosure were on their knees before the Blessed Sacrament, beseeching heaven for aid in the extremity. An hour or more passed, with the raiders chattering about the plaza but not about testing Felipe's marksmanship from the tower.

Padre Martinez laid his hand on Bowie's arm. "I understand perfectly, my son. I ask you to take, before all else, whatever measures are necessary to protect our Senorita—for, as our benefactress, we feel that she is ours as well. Whatever may happen here, it is your duty to protect her."

"We will wait for two more angels, Padre Martinez," suggested Bowie. "Pardaloe and Simmie will be here any minute. What I want to do is to find the senorita quick, to quiet her fears."

"What is that?" whispered Carmen. "Nothing to worry about. They were getting wood together for a bonfire when I scented the outfit. You see, my precious one," he continued gravely, "this is what this beautiful country is coming to. These ruffians are as bad as the savages and with no more regard for women. Come back with me to the sacristy. Pardaloe and Simmie will be here very soon."

through the big gate or just what had actually happened. Bowie did not slow the almost uncontrollable horses until they had reached cover in the doubly dark alameda. Carmen parted from his embrace slowly; it seemed such a natural place to rest her head, and in her ear close to his breast she had heard his heartbeats.

"What is that, 'Quito mio?'" Carmen spoke from her own saddle and her voice betrayed her acute alarm. Bowie noticed the low sharp rumbling. But he was so alert to the danger of pursuit that he did not at first comprehend.

Towering trees whirled in circles.

his own feet while he supported the half-conscious girl. Nature tossed and heaved in an agony of convulsion. Towering trees whirled in circles, whipped to the ground, now prostrate, now upright, or snapped like matches at the base. And over the moaning and crashing of the troubled darkness there spread a faint ghastly light such as never has been looked on save at moments such as this.

MONKEYING WITH THE BIG SHOW

From Sarasota comes the word that the circus of 1941 will have more ruffles than ever. It has been going, Hollywood for the past few seasons, but next year the biggest show on earth will look like something out of the "Arabian Nights" via Metro-Goldwyn.

Norman Bel Geddes has been retained by the Ringlings to streamline, decorate and dress the big show from the peanut bag to the elephants; and circus addicts who like their circus plain and a bit odierous are worried. It may be hard to tell the 1941 show from a night club interior.

There was something rough, catch-as-catch-can and impromptu about the big show that was appealing. If you wanted art and beauty you went to a musical show or a circus. And a circus had to smell like a circus, too.

That would have been all right with the old-time circus addict if they had stopped there. But the circus management went in head over heels for glamour.

THE BREAK I haven't any sables to slip elegantly on, Nor silver fox or monkey-fringe to lure a Don Juan; I haven't any star sapphires or robe with diamond bustle, And I haven't any bomb-proof cell to which I have to hustle!

HOW LIFE GOES Part to working, part to sleeping, part to playing, but most of life goes to waiting for some woman!

ABOUT THE FACULTY

Herein we mention some of the interesting facts about our high school faculty. Mr. Rose once coached basketball—he is an ardent football fan—his tenor voice is the envy of the boys chorus—our principal is fond of good food, but denies that he gains weight on it. Miss Browne lives in Illinois, but likes Wisconsin best—she enjoys chewing gum—her desk and files are a joy to behold in their neatness—she hates to be cold—clever ideas for skits are always at her command. Mr. Furlong enjoys bowling and kidding the boys—he is a faithful K. H. S. sports fan—he is famous for his "tail tales"—he can play good jazz on the horn. Miss Lorenz is always singing—sweaters and skirts are her favorite costume—she is an ardent hobbyist and has three or four—her favorite expression is "Oh, Gosh." Miss Yerke loves to receive candy through the mail—sewing is her hobby—her pet peeve is finding dirty dishes in the home economics room—she, too, likes to bowl—Mukwonago is her home town. Miss Dachenbach gets excited at basketball games—she is fond of skiing and tobogganing—her nickname is "Teacher"—her pet peeves are girls giggling and people reading the paper in class—she is fond of bowling also. Mr. Gibson has a constant smile over the arrival of son "Holman" (so named by the boys)—our coach dislikes the cold and hates to shovel snow—geography fascinates him—the boys say he's a regular fellow.

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO SPEND CHRISTMAS VACATION?

Robert S: "I just want to eat, sleep, drink, and wait for the Campbellsport game."
Ray V: "Just fool around and maybe do a little hunting."
Patti B: "For one thing, I'm going to catch up on my lost hours of sleep. Another thing is that I'm going to visit every one I can, so don't be surprised if I'm overweight when school starts."
Leonard P: "I'm planning to go to the show a couple of times. help work a little, try to be Anto Bach's guardian, and go on a sort of vacation—I HOPE."
Lorraine E: "I plan to stay home and enjoy what Santa brings me. I am also going to see friends in the neighborhood of New Fane."
John Stelling: "I'm gonna stay home and admire my Christmas tree. I also plan to help my father in his deliv'ring."
Fred V: "I'm going on a vacation to Sheboygan."
Mr. Rose: "The Roses plan to spend their Christmas vacation in Kewaskum."
Miss Lorenz: "I'm going to do a lot of nothing, along with skating and playing my records. I'm also going to soar"

Beulah Hirsig: "I'm invited out a number of days and I imagine I'll spend the greater part of my time filling my tummy with goodies which I hope Santa will leave me."
Miss Dachenbach: "I have a gigantic amount of resting and sewing to do. New Years, however, may find me in Rice Lake, Wis."

The Christmas card came from the English custom of calling "Merry Christmas," then later to write congratulatory letters! The "school pieces" were popular in the first part of the nineteenth century. The first Christmas card was printed in lithography, colored by hand in 1846 by Mr. Joseph Cundall, a London artist.

MEMORIAL

In memory of Lester Corbett, who was killed in an automobile accident one year ago, Dec. 24, 1932:
Rest, son, rest! No more wilt thou be weary,
Thy hands no more will labor here with ours.
For thou hast found a land that grows not dreary,
Where fades not flowers.
Rest, loved one rest! rest evermore from sorrow,
Rest, evermore from labor, pain and care!
Where life is one long day that brings no morrow.
Rest, son, there.
Rest, Lester, rest! No power on earth can wake thee,
No mortal power can wake thy harp to song.
This grief is more than we can bear.
Lord help us bear this grief we cannot bear alone.
Rest, Lester, rest! We're coming there to meet thee,
In that bright world where thou art so much blessed!
Forever more to smile when there we greet thee.
Rest, son, rest.
Sadly missed by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Corbett and his sisters.

CHRISTMAS NOTES

The hanging up of the mistletoe and the burning of the Yule log are two of the most ancient customs which come from our pagan ancestors.
There are Scandinavian, French and ancient Egyptian legends which claim to have given the Christmas tree to the world. The first authentic mention of a Christmas tree is of one in Strasbourg, Germany, 1665.
