Tuberculin Test Will Be Given in County Schools

The Washington county board, through the office of the county nurse, is giving the parents an opportunity of finding out if their children are free from tuberculosis by offering them the tuberculin test without charge at clinics to be held in the following schedule: Monday, April 28—8:30-9 a. m., Newburg public school; 9:30-10 a. m., Fillmore graded school; 10:30-11 a. m., Boltonville graded school; 11:30-12 noon, Kewaskum High school; 1-1:30 p. m., Barton graded school; 2-2:30 p. m., Allenton public school; 3-3:30 p. m., St. Lawrence parochial school. Tuesday, April 29—8:30-9 a. m., Slinger High school; 9:30-10:30 a. m., Hartford city hall auditorium, 11-11:30 a. m., Plat graded school; 1-1:30 p. m., Richfield graded school; 2-2:30 p. m., Germantown graded school. 3-3:30 p. m., Jackson graded school. The doctors will return three days later to take the reading of the tuberculin test, which will be taken Thursday, May 1, and Friday, May 2, at the same time periods and places as in the schedule above. The tuberculin test this year is the tuberculin patch test. No needle is used in giving the test. 72 hours later the tape is removed and the test is read by the doctor. If the doctor says the test is negative he means that nothing in the way of tuberculosis has happened to the child. A positive test means that the child has been exposed at some time or other to tuberculosis and that some of the germs have become lodged in his body. It does not necessarily mean that the child has an active form of tuberculosis. The persons who have a positive tuberculin test should have an X-ray of the lungs to discover whether or not there is any noticeable involvement. These examinations should be repeated as often as may be necessary. If, after an X-ray examination, the doctor says you are all right, he means that at the time he examined you or at the time the X-ray film was studied there was no evidence of tuberculosis that a doctor can see. But no one at any time can feel safe from tuberculosis because there is constant danger that you have intimate contact with an unknown case of the disease or that the germs already in your body may spread to and involve new areas and cause you to become sick. Therefore, even though you may be perfectly healthy at the time the doctor examines you, you must guard your health by being re-examined every three or twelve months according to the doctor's recommendation. Stop tuberculosis before it stops you!

Interesting Letter From Private Wietor

The editor received an interesting letter from Private Leo Wietor of Fort Riley, Kansas. Wayne young man who was one of those from Washington county inducted into selective military service in the March draft. Army routine and the duties and recreation of the draftees in camp are related by Pvt. Wietor in his letter, which should prove instructive to our readers. The letter: Troop D, 6th Squadron Cavalry Rep. Center Bldg. 526 Fort Riley, Kansas Mr. William Harbeck Kewaskum Statesman Dear Sir: I am receiving the Statesman promptly and appreciate it very much. It's kind of nice to know what's going on around home. I am in the U. S. army several weeks now and have learned quite a bit in so short a time. The first two weeks we learned all operations of scout cars and 6 wheel drive army trucks. The scout cars we drive weigh about 6 1/2 ton. We have to double-clutch these vehicles. I drove scout cars several times in convoy tours of about 30 miles. It was quite an experience driving through ditches, muddy roads and over steep hills. Also had rifle aiming practice and took them apart and cleaned them. Have to know each s.d. every part about a M-1-30 U. S. army rifle. We get instructions on military courtesy and discipline several times a week. We were given a lecture on the different kinds of gases, like tear gas, mustard gas, Lewisite, etc. Mustard gas is the worst. Last Friday we were given a mask and walked right through tear gas with no effects. Then we took them off and you should have seen us cry. It's a gas to delay the enemy—not very harmful but it affects the eyes. We used to march about two or three miles a day but now we don't march near that much. The bugle blows every morning at 5 a. m. That means everybody out. We make our beds and they are all put up the same way, you know, army style. Then we clean up and get ready forchow or breakfast. We get plenty to eat. Saturdays we have chicken dinner and ice cream for dessert. That hits the spot with all the boys. There are about 6,000 soldiers here at Fort Riley. We sleep in barracks (with spring beds), about 55 soldiers to a barrack. The government owns about 19,000 acres and is purchasing another 35,000 acres in Kansas, adjoining Fort Riley. We have retreat on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 4:45, with a 30-piece band. Saturday afternoons and Sundays we are free. They have Catholic and Protestant services every Sunday and Jewish on Friday evenings. We started playing baseball and softball. Pretty good teams, too. Quite a few fellows from New York, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin are in my barracks; only five from Washington county, Ramel, Guse, Fushur, Averill and myself. They are rushing us with basic training so we might not stay 13 weeks. We might be transferred sooner. Today we received our training on shelter tents, two fellows to a tent. We set them up in about 10 minutes. We also have general orders that we must know. All the fellows know them pretty good by now. We all get a taste of "K-P" once in a while. That means kitchen patrol or help the cooks; also in charge of barracks. We have a very happy troop. Sergeant Lilly is a pretty nice chap. So is Corporal Walker. These officers are in charge of Troop D, 6th squadron. Also have musicians and comedians to pass the time away. I mean spare time. Everybody is happy when we have mail call. It sure feels good to receive mail. In closing I hope everybody in Kewaskum and Wayne had a happy Easter. Best regards to each and everyone. Yours truly, Pvt. Leo L. Wietor P. S. Next week we get practice on the firing line—16 shots a day at the bull's eye.

Funny Americans
A dialect man speaking in railroad track Mexican drew howls at a luncheon the other day. Said he: "The Americanos are ver' fenny piddle. They have a famous drink—the cocktail. They put in the whiskey to make it strong. They put in the water to make it weak. They put in the lemon to make it sour. They put in the sugar to make it sweet. Then they say, 'Here's to you!'—and drink it themselves!"

Illiterate Soldiers
During the World war, of 1,552,256 men who were given the psychological test, 24.9 per cent could not read and write English well enough to understand a newspaper and write a letter. Based on these tests it may be concluded that about 311,000 in the army, or 7.6 per cent were wholly illiterate and 712,000, or 17.4 per cent were relatively illiterate. The number in the literate class was 3,067,000.

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Ma—

Well you will laff at this ma but the army has learned me how to make a bed. If I get out of this war safe and back in plain close no matter how bad the employment situashun is I can get a job as a chambermade. Making beds is one thing I never thought I would be a expert at but it is one of the first things you get instructed at in a draft camp. I never paid no attention all my life to bed making. I just got out in the morning and from all I knew it was all done autermatically but I am now a first class bed maker and some nice girl could use me as a housekeeper.

I no this will surprise you more than anything the mom when I tell you I am a Grade A dishwasher. They call this kitchen police detail but I do not know where the police part comes in as I never seen no cop doing dishes but they tell me in the army that they call any dirty work police work. Well anyhow I put in a hole day washing dishes and if you ever ask me to help with the pots and pans hereafter and I refews I will apologize becuz it will be a picknick compared to what washing dishes is up here. You don't wash a plate at a time. You wash 'em in bunches and you have to be a combenashun Japaneze jugler, kitchen canary and all around moppper-upper. I have got so good at it that if I had a race with a electric dish washing machine it would take a photo to pick the winner.

The breakage is not heavy which is a big disappertment as I would like to bust more than I do but the crockery they use in the army is more like cement lawn furniture. You can drop a coffee cup on the floor and it will bounce rite back and hit you on the jaw. I dropped a saucer yesterday and it made a hole in the floor big enough for two men to go throu. I never new there was so many dishes in the army and believe me I never seen no physical training that hardens muscles like just lifting army china. I know a private who dislocated two ribs lifting a saucer. The sergeant says the dishes are just for eating but he can't fool me. If war comes they will be used for throwing.

My hand and arms up to the rist is all pink and puffy from being in the hot water so many hours at a stretch and when I don't count sheep I just count dirty dishes. I had a terrible dream last night. I dreamed I had to do all the pans and broilers all over a second time. You know how the pans and broilers are all stuck up after a big Thanksgiving dinner at home, ma, well there is twice as much goo on 'em up here and I think the skipper puts a coat of hard varnish over it to make it all the harder.

I do not like it much as it does not seem to have much glammer and in all the stories I read about war heroes I never noticed a dish washer being mentioned. The sergeant says Napoleon started as a dish washer washing French pastery dishes with is why they call him Napoleon but he is kidding I gess.

All the boys is talking about the rumor that this training will last longer than a year, maybe for two years but I wud not mind it so much pervided I could go home winters as the life the last winter was so tuff even those Finns would be in swar. I see Washington says the report is strictly balony but most of us has our fingers crost becuz the lease lend bill is passed and anybody knows that nobody who borrows anything ever gives it back under a couple of years.

Anyway ma do not worry as I am still okay except for soar feet, a bad hangnail and a little touch of newmonnia but I am so busy washing dishes that it takes my mind off my suffering.

Your loving son, Oscar.

Children's Wardrobe Problems Made Simple by Home Sewing

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

JACK'S beanstalk of fairy tale days has nothing on little girls when it comes to growing rapidly. They seem to change from day to day, even pass the doll-like stage of babyhood. It's a problem every mother has to face, but it is surprising how simple a problem it becomes if you can sew. The many needed changes don't upset the most rigid budget if wardrobes are planned carefully.

In the first place cotton fabrics are not only practical and inexpensive but smart as well. This spring, sand-boxes and dancing school alike will see cotton frocks on all of Fortune's favorite tikes. There are innumerable enchanting fabrics that cost so little you can make a six-year-old daughter a complete wardrobe of spring frocks for five or six dollars.

It's smart this season, too, to make children's clothes from the same basic pattern, varying materials and trimmings. This is a blessing for a busy mother. You'll find most children's patterns are so simple this season that you can complete a whole frock in a couple of hours' time.

The princess silhouette, as graceful and becoming to almost every child as its name implies, is particularly favored right now. For playtime, make it of sturdy denim or striped seersucker. Percale and gingham, crisp and trim, are favorites for school, likewise pique, which is simply ideal for practical wear. You can get pique in the new pastels as well as in white. As shown in the illustration, the little girl standing has on a winsome frock made princess style. To add to its charm, it has a cunning zippered front fastening. Mothers find that these gay colored zippers prove a constant source of delight to youngsters.

When party time calls something more dainty, novelty organdy or dotted swiss would be a good choice, and as for dimity, it is more of a favorite than ever. An Alice-in-Wonderland dimity frock is the pride and the joy of the little girl seated in the picture. In size four, this little dress costs but a few cents over a dollar to make, including organdy frills, tiny pearl buttons, pattern and thread. The same pattern in gingham makes a cunning play frock.

A most commendable thing about the frilled organdy panel that adds such a dainty touch to this gown is that it is made detachable so that the frills may be laundered separately. One of the delights of princess frocks is that they also are easy to launder. No gathers, no pleats! Be sure you use boilfast thread when you are sewing, so that it won't run or fade. Also, if you want to leave an extra two inches in the hem to take care of rapidly growing legs, boilfast thread will leave no mark when the hems are changed.

The pinafore with its apron and bib, so charming for little girls, has been revived, and a very sensible fashion it is. A change-about of gumpies and skirts is a flexible wardrobe note to be remembered when active playtime makes many changes necessary. You can often use last year's outgrown dresses to make the apron and pinafore bib. Use the extra fabric of the sleeves for little ruffles over the shoulders or for a big pocket on the skirt to hold a favorite toy.

A good time to teach youngsters to sew is when you are making their clothes. With a little supervision, leftover pieces of material can be fashioned into doll clothes just like mother's. You can't start them too young, and doll clothes are by far the happiest medium of approach. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Hawk in the Wind

"I'll have to scour the windshield," Wills said. "I can't see through it." Air that cut their faces rushed in as he opened the door. Marian thought of old Tom—the thin, torn old coat he had worn in the jail, his feet sloshing through the freezing mud, wind cutting through mercilessly.

"Oh—hurry!" she whispered. "But—Mother, what if he didn't come this way?" "He came this way. He took the old lo trail across the ridge, and crossed the river on that swinging bridge."

"There's a light," said Branford Wills. "The gate is beyond that big tree. It's steep beyond—you'd better change gears."

"Has he had time—" "He left before dark. A boy saw him go. They didn't miss him till supper time—"

"If only they had locked the door," Marian mourned. "We may be in time." Virgie was hopeful.

The house that sprang out of a garbled darkness of old apple-trees was bleak and somber and somehow desolate. "The door's open—" breathed Marian.

Virgie gave a little groan. "I'll go," she said. "You wait here."

"Not alone, Mother." "No—not alone," Wills sprang out after her.

Marian hurried after them, slipping and panting in the wan beam of their headlights. But somehow she knew it was too late. She had known it when the dreary old house leaped out of the darkness, out of the solitude and silence which for a year it had known.

"Don't let her come," Virgie warned sharply. "But I'm coming," Marian answered, setting the chun she had from David Morgan.

"Take my hand," Wills said. "I can walk alone." But she took the hand.

Held it tight, clutched by the dread of that sinister, opened door. Beyond that door a lamp fluttered in the draft. Beyond it was a deserted room, where coals glowed in a base burner and Wallace Withers' elastic-sided shoes sat warming on the floor. Shoes he would never wear any more.

"Don't come closer," Virgie called sharply. But Wills went on and Marian would not let go his hand, though her flesh was icy and her hair lifted a little on her head, at what lay there, face upward in front of that open door.

Wallace Withers had been shot cleanly through the head. This time Tom's gun had not jammed.

"Don't touch anything," Wills warned. "Is there a telephone in this house?"

Virgie, a little sick because she could not hate even a dead, cruel old man who had wronged her, shook her head.

"Not even a well," she said. "But—we've got to find Tom!" Marian began sobbing wildly.

"Take care of her," Virgie said to Wills wearily. "I'll get a sheet. I know where they are. I can't leave him lying there—like that."

She had heard Marian's little choking cry, "Oh, Bran—Bran—" She had seen Wills holding her in his arms. Suddenly she was old and lonely, and this was death lying face up to the hostile sky—and out of the aloof hills a winter wind howled in desolation. Suddenly she was sorry for Wallace Withers. He had been lonely, too!

They found Tom Pruitt at dawn. Men with lanterns and dogs had crashed and slid through the icy night, cursing the storm and the darkness. And all night Virgie had sat by the stove in Wallace Withers' house, looking straight ahead of her, musing on the tangled tragedy of life—and the way greed snarled the twisting strands, wove traps and nooses and webs for hopes and high ambitions to be choked in.

Wills and Marian had gone for help and met a posse on the road. But light was under the hemlocks along the river bluff when they found Tom.

Virgie saw them coming, slowly, up the frozen lane, and knew what they had found.

"He went over them rocks—down there where the river runs under the cliff," a deputy said. "He was heading back toward your place I reckon, Miss Morgan, and he missed his footing in the dark. I wouldn't take on, Miss Morgan—I reckon it's just as well."

"Yes," said Virgie, tonelessly, "it's just as well." Somehow she got home.

Riding in somebody's rickety car, cold and weary and aching from head to foot with a sorrow that was rigid and steeled like bonds around her heart and throat.

The mountains and the woods were frigidly incased in a coating of icy glass. The streams were hidden and from the stack of the mill a wan steam drifted.

The fires were banked and tomorrow the barkers would whirl again, gnashing their steel teeth into unresisting wood, grinding and spewing and sucking away the life-blood of a green tree so that missals could be printed for praying nuns and letters written to old mothers.

The mill would go on and Tom would not be there. David would not be there. A sudden, stark, awful loneliness got Virgie Morgan by the throat as she walked into her own house, and sank into the chair that had the print of David Morgan's thin shoulder-blades.

She couldn't go on—she couldn't—alone! And then suddenly she was not alone. Youth was there, with lights and hot coffee and gentle hands.

Marian and Branford Wills. "We've stopped fighting, Mother—we found out we were terribly in love with each other. Do you mind, Mother? Take off her shoes, Bran, and rub her feet. I'll get her slippers."

Branford Wills knelt at her feet, lean and brown, with his deep voice and gentle eyes.

"I can't go on without her," he said. "I know what a presumptuous fool I am—"

"I'm glad," said Virgie numbly. She would have liked a son like this lad, she was thinking.

Lucy was there—and Stanley Daniels, looking sheepish and relieved and eager to help. They were scrambling eggs, they announced.

"We thought you'd need us, Mrs. Morgan," Lucy said, brightly, little red coins shining in her cheeks.

Suddenly Virgie began to sob. They were so brave and so reckless and so gallant. Their eyes were so clear. They were youth—going out!

"Yes, I need you!" she said hoarsely. [THE END]

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

FEMININE headgear usually holds its shape best if it rests right side up on a stand that fits inside the crown, but this is not true of a man's hat. Its dashing lines may be preserved by placing it upside down in a holder. All of which is worth remembering when you are fixing up "his" closet or even when you are generously preparing to share a small corner of your own.

The man's hat box, shown here, is covered on the outside with maroon and blue cotton print and lined with blue chambray. The lid and the front of the box are hinged with adhesive tape before the covering is pasted on with stiff paste. The stand is made of cardboard, as shown in the sketch, and is covered to match the box. The maroon bias tape edging of the stand is cemented in place in a way that you may find useful in making many other things. The secret is in spreading the cement evenly on both surfaces, letting it dry, and then vulcanizing the two together with the heat of the pressing iron.

NOTE: Why not put away Winter things all nicely mended? It will be grand to get them out in perfect order next Fall. Mrs. Spears' Book 2 shows you how to do the most professional kinds of mending, as well as every day household mending. There is a simple, quickly made zipper bag for five garments in SEWING BOOK 2. Desperate Feud

The Tewksbury-Graham feud, which raged in Gila county, Arizona, between 1887 and 1892, was the most desperate fight of its kind in the history of the West. Starting with a dispute over stolen cattle, it quickly involved all the men and boys in three large families and numerous friends, all of whom, with one exception, were killed. In some of their battles as many as 20 men fought on a side.

Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.—Lowell.

JUST BEHIND

One Way Only: Miranda—Doan' fergit dat yo' done married me fer bettah or wusser. Rastus—Dat's right, but how come yo' keeps gettin' wusser 'n' wusser? "I'd like to get married and settled down," said the young chap, "but I guess I'll have to stay single and settle up."

Assurance Needed: "Is this the Fidelity Insurance company?" "Yes, ma'am, it is. What can we do for you?" "I want to arrange to have my husband's fidelity insured." One to Fit: A young man was doing his own shopping. He said to the pretty girl behind the draper's counter: "I want a pillow-case, please." "Yes," said the girl. "What size?" "Why—er—I'm not sure," said the young man, "but I take a six and seven-eighths hat!"

Twin Hankies

Striking accessory notes are a fashion "must" this season. Your quest for novelty and chic should lead you to the handkerchief counter where you will be rewarded with a real "find" in the way of plaid hankies. The "trick" is to wear these plaids in pairs, as here shown. You may choose these hankies in little pin checks or big bold plaids, with background colors that match or blend with the latest colors. These hankies never fail to add that dash of spice to the always smart, simple suit.

Lace Redingotes

A pretty fashion to be worn in late spring and throughout summer is the long redingote made of sturdy lace in colors, and in black or white. It is perfectly stunning when worn as a summer wrap.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

Your entire ensemble can carry out the sailor theme this season, if you wish. Fashion tricks to make the life of the working girl less complicated are the collars, cuffs and ruchings that button on and off. Capses have literally taken over the sports field both in active and spectator costumes. They are being worn in everything from terry cloth to knitted fabrics.

Pleats, Longer Jackets

Mark Newest Spring Suits: Precision in tailoring mars spring suits for 1941. Fashion has determined that m'lady will wear pleats in the suit skirt—knife, box or twin box pleats in back or front, but plain at the side. The fashionable length for jackets is 24 inches or wrist length. Other details to keep in mind if buying or making a suit are single link closing, neatly squared shoulders padded flush with the arm, and hip flap pockets. Take your pick of the so-called "open shirt" revers, or the elongated type that creates the impression of a longer waist. The fancy feminine suit has a shorter jacket with a definitely nipped-in waist and easy fullness in the skirt. Knife pleating, grouped pleats, new soft yokes, double flap pockets and chunky gold buttons are characteristics.

Chenille Dots in Veils

Latest Addition to Hats: Ask at the veiling counter to see the new confetti veils. Chenille dots that look like huge snowflakes are closely scattered all over the fragile backgrounds. Cover your hat with this veil in billowy masses and you will achieve a true "spring" look. All veils have a most fetching way about them this season. Their sole mission is to flatter and to lend allure. Little flower hats have as their main keynote whimsical colorful veils. Wide brims are also flatteringly veiled this season.

Dolman Sleeves

A coat destined to be a highlight in fashion is the new shirtwaist type with dolman sleeves. Its utter simplicity of cut and styling is its charm.

Beige Tones

Beige tones not only lead the parade in new spring dresses and suits, but also in furs. News in bathing suits is the knitted wool sweater top—a bra with short sleeves—worn with shorts to match, leaving the midriff bare. Scarfs display a patriotic motif this year. Newest are those printed with Lincoln's Gettysburg Address stamped against the background of an outline map of the United States.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

Today, more than ever, you and we are glad to live in the United States, to be members of the greatest democracy in the world. But we do not stop to think that it may not always be thus. Do we realize that our country has a weakness which might spell disaster should we be invaded? Do we know how easily such an invasion might be accomplished? MISS VIRGINIA GRANDLICH WED TO KURT O. RUDOLPH

The parsonage of the S. S. Cyril and Methodius church in Sheboygan was decorated with greens and ferns when Miss Virginia Grandlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grandlich, Sr., 1103 N. 5th street, Sheboygan, became the bride of Kurt Rudolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rudolph, 520 Park Way.

Kahler, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in a candlelight ceremony. The Rev. Rudolph Potonik read the service.

The bride is well known here as she has made many visits and spent week ends here with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Grandlich in Dundee. The best man, William Kregel, is also a former Dundee boy.

White satin which was fashioned into a princess style gown with a quilted sweetheart neckline and leg-omnium sleeves was chosen by the bride. Her fingertip length veil and the long illusion veil which extended beyond the train of her dress were caught to a crown of orange blossoms made of pearls, from which fell a flusher. Her flowers were sweet peas centered with a large gardenia fashioned into an all white bouquet.

Miss Jo Matthes of Milwaukee appeared in a baby blue chiffon dress as she attended the bride as maid of honor. Her dress was made with a full skirt and lace bodice with a sweetheart neckline and huge puffed sleeves. Her large picture hat of corn yellow was trimmed with a blue ribbon of a shade matching the dress and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow daffodils centered with blue forget-me-nots.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Hertha Roessler, cousin of the groom, and Antoinette Retell, both of whom wore baby blue net dresses. There were three rows of lace on the full skirts and the bodice was also made of lace. Their hats and flowers were identical to the maid of honor's.

William Kregel, a cousin of the bride, attended Mr. Rudolph as best man. The groomsmen was Theodore Schmidt of Milwaukee.

Schubert's "Ave Maria" was sung during the services.

Dinner for 50 guests was served at the Kohler village hall at 6:30 o'clock, followed by a reception for 150 guests. Decorations were in white and the tables were centered with a wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph have postponed their wedding trip and after June 1st will be at home in their newly constructed house at 2102 S. Ninth street, Sheboygan.

After graduating from the Sheboygan High school, the bride studied at the Lee Sinna School of Music in Chicago. She has done radio work in Sheboygan for the past six years, having been employed at WHBL and has also been affiliated with radio stations in Chicago and Indiana.

She was employed at the Alfred Jung company in that city at the time of her marriage.

Mr. Rudolph was graduated from the Kohler High school and is now employed at the Bank of Sheboygan. He is well known for his work in the Sheboygan Community players both on the stage and the radio. He is known especially in radio for his characterization of Scrooge in "A Christmas Carol," which is presented over WHBL each year at Christmas time and for the Sherlock Holmes series.

Among those from away who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Grandlich of Dundee, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Matthes, Ted Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grandlich of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Max Klotz, Henry Miesfeldt and Mrs. Miesfeldt of Sheldon, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mar-ske and children, Patricia and Nancy, and Miss Hilda Jacobs of Racine.

Legislative News Letter

—By—
Assemblyman
Jos. A. Schmitz
Washington County

(Week of April 14)

HIGHWAY PAVING
Washington county's highway commissioner, Harold Riley, and its highway committee, Messrs. Sell, Schloemer and Van Beek, are to be complimented in having made final arrangements with the state highway commission for the relocation and resurfacing of highways 114 and 83 in our county.

Bids will be let next month, and work will start in June, with completion promised before the summer is over. Highway 144 from County Trunk A to the Fond du Lac county line, and $3 from Thompson to the Waukesha county line will be smooth and wide with long banked curves. The roadbed will be graveled until it has settled, after which a heavy blacktop will be laid.

HOLY HILL UNDERPASS
In addition to this they have secured a sufficient amount of federal aid to provide for the construction of an underpass on the Holy Hill road at the Soo Line crossing.

This will eliminate a dangerous crossing on a much traveled Washington county state highway.

MORATORIUM EXTENDED
The moratorium on foreclosures of farm real estate mortgages has been extended to July 1, 1942, by action of the legislature.

FLAGS DENOTE ACTION
Whenever the assembly is in session, an American flag is flown over its (the west) wing of the capitol.

A flag over the south wing denotes that the senate is in session, while a flag over the east wing tells you that the governor is in his office. A flag over the north wing means the supreme court is in session. Madison citizens and visitors can thus tell just what is going on under the dome.

Before 1904, when the old capitol building was destroyed by fire, a light on the top of the dome signified that evening sessions were being held.

BREAD WAR
Sometimes bills are introduced into the legislature which try to correct a trade war within certain industries in the state. A notable example of such a bill was No. 118, A., introduced by Assemblyman Nuss of Fond du Lac, which proposed to license and prohibit the sale of day-old bread except at factory distributing stations, and required that this bread be plainly marked so as to distinguish it from fresh bakery products.

The object of this bill was to do away with the day-old bread stores in Milwaukee and other large cities and to prohibit the sale from wagons of bakery goods which was more than one day old. If enacted into law it would have seriously crippled the business of those bakers who sell their bread on wagon routes and would have done away with the day-old bread stores.

Mr. Nuss introduced this bill at the request of local bakeries (in his home town) whose business was seriously affected by these stores. It is the general belief of a great number of legislators that laws of this type to settle trade wars have no place in our legislature.

Many people desire bread which is several days old, and those who can afford paying the full price appreciate the saving which they can make by buying returned, day-old bakery goods. For a week or 10 days after the bill was introduced, thousands of letters decended upon the members of both houses. The greatest portion of this mail came from Milwaukee and other large cities in the state, and begged the assembly and senate to vote against this bill. They were written by people who were informed by the drivers of bakery wagons and by the clerks in the day-old bread stores of this proposed law, and were advised to write their representatives at Madison urging the defeat of the measure.

Your assemblyman received nearly two hundred of these letters from good friends and constituents in every section of Washington county.

The only opposition to the bill came from the independent bakers and from the retail grocers associations. When the bill came up on the floor recently a half day was spent in debate on the measure. Good arguments were offered for both sides of the bill, but those who opposed it were in the majority inasmuch as the measure was defeated by a vote of 52 to 43. A motion for reconsideration was immediately made, however, and this assures further voting and debates on the same in the near future.

(Week of April 21)

EARLY ADJOURNMENT
The 1939 legislature remained in session until October 6th. This year all signs point to a much earlier adjournment—not later than June 1st. We have the budget bill out of the way, the tax bill has been passed and the highway division amendment has been shelved in the senate.

Although a thousand bills still remain unacted upon, most members feel that there are not over 50 of them worthy of keeping the legislature in session. Night sessions are being held and even a public committee hearing has been held at night. This is an unheard of procedure and shows that the membership is anxious to finish up and go home.
