

Adeline Zachow Wed to Wayland Tessar

Miss Adeline Zachow of Cascade rural route, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mike Zachow of the town of Auburn, became the bride of Wayland Tessar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tessar of this village, in a 10 o'clock double ring nuptial ceremony performed by the Rev. Walter Strohschein in the Dundee Lutheran church on Thursday, Nov. 7.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ester Zachow, as maid of honor, while Allen Tessar served as best man for his brother.

For her marriage, the attractive bride wore a forest green gaudine suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of gardenias. Her maid of honor was attired in a midnight blue wool suit with brown accessories, and she wore a corsage of red roses.

A 12 o'clock dinner was served to 18 guests at Lauer's, Crystal lake, following the ceremony. Later the popular young couple left on a wedding trip to Chicago. They will reside at the home of the groom's parents in Kewaskum.

The bride graduated from the Kewaskum high school and attended the University of Wisconsin for one year. She has been employed as a stenographer at the Amity Leather Products company in West Bend. The groom also is a graduate of the Kewaskum high school and at present is attending the Milwaukee State Teachers college. He is a navy veteran of three years' service during World War II.

KUESTER-OTTEN

In a double ring ceremony performed in St. Mary's church, Barton at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, Nov. 6, Miss Grace Otten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Otten of Route 2, Kewaskum, became the bride of John L. Kuester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Kuester, West Bend. The Rev. O. Urich officiated at the rite and read the nuptial high mass.

A gown of white satin with net trim and a veil of white net edged with lace and held with a cap of net caught with orange blossoms were worn by the bride. She wore a strand of pearls, ring and earrings which the bridegroom had purchased in Japan. She carried a bouquet of white mums.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Thull, as matron of honor. She was attired in a gown of pink satin and wore clusters of tiny pink mums in her hair. Her flowers consisted of white mums. The bridesmaids, Miss Rose Vogelsang and Mrs. Lavern Jones, wore gowns of blue satin and clusters of white mums in their hair. They also carried bouquets of white mums.

The groom was attended by John Thull, brother-in-law of the bride, as best man and by Lavern Jones, uncle of the bride, and Roman Otten, brother of the bride, as groomsmen. Lester Francke and Donald Otten ushered.

A reception was held at the Otten home and 200 guests were present for the luncheon and dinner served at Urb Gehl's. The newlyweds will reside on Route 2, Kewaskum, upon returning from a honeymoon trip to the South.

The groom, who recently returned from two years of service in the Philippines and Japan, is associated in business with his father and brother.

OLSON-LEA

Miss Margaret O. Lea, daughter of Rev. A. P. Lea of Waterville, Iowa, who formerly taught in the Kewaskum high school, was united in marriage to Hjalmar Olson, son of George Olson, Waterville, in a high noon ceremony, at the Old East Point Creek Lutheran church, Fort Atkinson, on Oct. 19. Rev. Lea, the bride's father, performed the ceremony.

The bride taught music and history while a member of the Kewaskum high school faculty and made numerous friends during her stay here. Her high school a cappella choir won much recognition here.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ambrose M. Lea, was gowned in an aqua dinner dress with matching hat. An orchid banked by white baby mums composed her bouquet. The maid of honor, Miss Antoinette Lea, Milwaukee, wore a dinner gown of smoke pink with matching gauntlets and hat. She carried pink and white baby mums.

Alton Kolsrud, Waterville, was his uncle's best man. George Huff and Ambrose Lea ushered.

Before and throughout the service, Harold Gulbranson, La Crosse, played the organ. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Hubert Schroeder, Madison, sister of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." Immediately following the service, which was performed in the Norwegian language, Mrs. Schroeder sang "Jeg Elsker Dig."

A dinner was served to 23 immediate relatives at the Kaveny Tea Room in Waukon. A reception and shower were

4-H Achievement Night Climaxes Big Year for 500 Members, Leaders

Washington county's 1916 4-H achievement night last Thursday, Nov. 7, proved to be one of the biggest successes of recent years as 600 people enjoyed an interesting and inspiring program.

With house lights out and impressive lighting effects on stage, a pageant entitled "Lamps to Keep Burning" started off the program. Played and narrated by club members and leaders, it depicted the problems of rural youth in a war period and the guidance of parents and leaders in the adjustments which must be made. Hob, after a hard day's work, has time to think and falls asleep—he dreams of his mother, father, leader and girlfriend, who speak to him in a vision. The goals of larger service, greater loyalty, better living and clearer thinking as embodied in the 4-H club pledge become more meaningful. These are goals which 4-H boys and girls across the land have been guided by in their work this year.

Leaders and members who participated in the pageant were: Clifford Bauer, Jacob Janz, John Indermuehle, Mrs. Chas. Weinreich, Mrs. H. B. Esselman, Ed. Campbell, John Horiamus, Clara Mae Miller, Audrey Peters, Kenneth Wedin, Liesbeth Nebel, Marjorie Mayer, Carol Liesner, Marita Liesner, Betty Mayer, Mary Ann Indermuehle, Alice Liesner, Dorothy Volkman, Phyllis Indermuehle, Grace Dobberphol, Mary Jane Lhotka, Marilyn Bauer, and Mrs. Wallace Kuhnaupt.

Awards for outstanding work this year in the different projects were given to the following members:

ENROLLED AT NORTHWESTERN

A total of 21,818 students are enrolled at Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill. The enrollment, the largest in the history of the school, includes 401 students from Wisconsin, among them being Miss Rosemary C. Haug of Kewaskum, daughter of the P. J. Haug, Miss Haug is enrolled in the graduate school.

Emphasizing the achievement theme of the evening in an inspiring address, Miss May Roach of Stevens Point State Teachers college captured the interest of everyone present. She stressed the importance of choosing a worthwhile job, setting goals that are not too high to be reached and to achieve the goals set up. She concluded by quoting a poem "Builders" by R. L.

"Isn't it strange that princes and kings And clowns that caper in sawdust rings

Are common folks like you and me— Are builders for eternity.

"To each is given a bag of tools. A shapeless mass and a book of rules And each must make—ere life is flown— A stumbling block or a stepping stone."

Other parts of the program were music by Ted and Robert Hosp, West Bend, and Norbert Margelowsky, Hartford. Mary Jane Lhotka accompanied by Phyllis Indermuehle led group singing.

The Pleasant Hill Troopers 4-H club sent one young home with a smile with a clever pantomime in which they imitated an auto ride in 1915 style complete with blowouts, rain, a balky engine, and the rough ride on highways of that era. Those participating were: Rosemary Berend, Bernard Fechter, Norbert Margelowsky, Bernard Kohler, Betty Falter, George Kohler, Frank Falter, Mary Kowanda, John Falter, and June Lemke.

County Holstein Sale Averages $232 a Head

The second annual sale of twenty-eight head of Holstein sires raised by 4-H and F.F.A. boys averaged $232.00 per head last Saturday afternoon.

Ziegler Sire Tops Sale
The top price in the sire sale went to an animal consigned by the B. C. Ziegler company and raised as a prospect by Melvin Puestow of Route 4, West Bend.

The sale got off to a good start with a very choice fifteen month old sire from the Arthur J. Schmitt herd, Route 1, Colgate. This young sire raised by Bernard Zinke of Route 4, West Bend, sold for $255. Other sires that followed into the sales ring sold over the $200 mark except where the animal was too young for immediate service.

Four of these young registered bulls were purchased by the fathers of the members who raised them. In all, eighteen of the twenty-eight sires were purchased by Washington county dairymen. Most of the remaining ten animals were purchased by dairymen of Dodge and Ozaukee counties.

Ten Females Average $21
Ten females ranging from young open heifers to milking cows averaged $211 with the top animal selling for $225.50. This was a three year old cow consigned by Christ Mayer of Slinger and purchased by Becker Bros. of Hartford.

Since many of the boys raising young bulls for the sale will be interested in knowing who purchased the animal they raised we print herewith the name of the buyer and the name of the boy raising it.

ACCEPTED AS MEMBER OF COLLEGE DRAMATIC GROUP

Ralph Krautkramer, Kewaskum, has been accepted as a member of Pioneer Players, the dramatic organization of Plattville State Teachers college. After successfully participating in "try outs" the new members awaited initiation, which took place Wednesday, Nov. 13.

In the near future Pioneer Players hope to run a regularly scheduled program over KDFH, the Dubuque radio station. The club plans to produce one act plays at its regular meetings and to highlight the year with the customary three-act play in the spring.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To hold a stained spot tight while trying to remove it from a cloth, use embroidery hoops.

New clotheslines are clumsy to put up. To make them more soft and durable, try first boiling the line for a few minutes in soapy water.

Overcast seams of rayon, silk, or wool to keep them from raveling. They can be overcast together or each edge separately as preferred. Do not draw threads too tight.

White woolen toys which are not too soiled can be freshened by cleaning them with a paste made of white starch and a little cold water. Rub in and let dry thoroughly, then brush off.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

How's breakfast interest at your home these days? Does everyone look forward to sitting down for breakfast because mother is sure to have some fluffy hot bread that they can smell baking while they're going through the finishing touches of bathing and dressing? Or, is the family anxious to scamper through breakfast without giving it so much as a sniff?

If the latter is the case, then sit down right now and do something drastic about it. You may have to do without bacon and sausage, those breakfast standbys, but the ingredients required for breakfast breads are available. Let them give you a lift for that important first meal of the day. Your family can't resist light, fluffy rolls with the tangy smell of cinnamon and raisins, or light and hearty pancakes. Bran is a good food item for any day of the week, but it's especially good at breakfast when served in these tasty muffins.

Bran-Molasses Muffins.
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sour milk or buttermilk
1/2 cup molasses
1 1/4 cups bran
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons melted shortening
Sift flour once; measure, add baking powder, soda and salt. Sift again. Add milk, molasses and bran; let stand until most of the liquid is absorbed by the bran. Add egg and melted shortening which has been slightly cooled. Add flour mixture and stir just enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Fill greased muffin pans 3/4 full and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Peanut Butter Bread.
3 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup dates or candied orange peel
1 1/4 cups orange juice or milk
1/2 cup peanut butter
Sift flour; measure; add baking powder, salt and sugar. Sift again and add dates or orange peel. Add milk or orange juice slowly to peanut butter, blending thoroughly. Pour into flour mixture and mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Do not beat. Turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for about 1 hour.

"Sally Lunn."
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
Sift flour, measure and add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually; continue beating until light and fluffy. Add sifted flour mixture and stir just enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Do not beat. Pour batter into a greased square pan.

Streusel Coffee Cake.
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon mace
6 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
Sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening, add un-beaten egg and milk. Stir until smooth. Turn into a square or loaf pan which has been greased and top with the following mixture:
Streusel Topping.
4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon butter
1/4 teaspoon mace
Mix all ingredients with a fork until mixture crumbles. Scatter over top of batter and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 25 minutes.

Blitz Coffee Cake.
Bake Streusel coffee cake in tin, preferably a round one. Cover top, before baking, with shaved almonds and brown sugar. After cake has baked and cooled, split in half and spread with whipped cream and raspberry jam.
If you want to impart a buttery flavor to baked goods without using butter itself, then use sour cream. It imparts richness and taste to almost any baked food.
Sour Cream Waffles.
1 cup flour
3/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup rich sour cream
3/4 cup buttermilk
2 eggs, beaten separately
Add well beaten yolks, sour cream and buttermilk to melted shortening and sifted dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Fold in carefully the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake on a hot waffle iron.
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

LYNN SAYS:
Sponge cakes should never be removed from the pan until they are thoroughly cooled. The air cells in these cakes, as in angel food cakes, are so delicate that they cannot hold the weight of the cake unless the cake is thoroughly cooled.
Bake muffins and cup cakes in fluted cups to save fats and to conserve on dishwashing. The pan does not have to be greased, and neither does the cup.
Buy only enough for one or two days supply as vegetables do not keep well. As soon as they are brought home from the market, wash and refrigerate them.
Never soak vegetables in water for long periods of time as this destroys flavor and nutritional values. Cook as soon as cleaned but be careful not to overcook.
Add flavor to vegetables such as cabbage, carrots, asparagus and brussels sprouts by serving them with crumbled rusk or toasted bread crumbs flavored with cinnamon.

LAUGHING STOCK By Frank Adams

Empty Inside
Two small boys eagerly watched the stout lady step on the scales. The machine was out of order, and registered only 75 pounds.
"Holy smokes!" cried one of them. "Imagine that! She's hollow!"

Voice of Experience
"Paw—Does bigamy mean that a man has one wife too many?"
"Not necessarily, my boy—he can have one wife too many without being a bigamist."

It Happened Before
He (driving along country road)—You look lovelier to me every minute. Do you know what that's a sign of?
She—Yeah, I know. You're about to run out of gas.

Single Blessedness
Little Woman—Dear, why can't we live peacefully like the dog and cat lying there by the hearth? They never fight.
"No, they don't, but tie them together and then see what they'd do."

Just a Little Chat
Husband—Who was that you were talking with outside for a whole hour?
Wife—Oh, that was Mrs. Jones. She didn't have time to come in.

More Obvious
"I always judge a girl by her figure."
"And I always judge a girl by her brains."
"My system is better. It's a lot easier to tell if she's got a figure."

Crazy Chemistry
Harry—Do you know the formula for water?
Jerry—Sure. H2O.
Harry—And what's the formula for sea water?
Jerry—CH2O.

Better Diets
In the last 37 years the consumption of citrus fruit has increased 850 per cent and that of potatoes and grains decreased 30 per cent, according to a report analyzing per capita food consumption in the United States. During the recent war, the nutritive value of the average civilian diet actually improved. The mineral and vitamin value of the daily meals have improved due to higher consumption of milk, meat, eggs, green and yellow vegetables and citrus fruits and to bread and flour enrichment.

Disposal Pit
One of the best investments on a farm is a disposal pit for dead birds and other small animals. A pit 6 to 8 feet in diameter and 8 feet deep, walled up with rocks and covered with 2 feet of dirt, will provide a place for all birds which die during the course of several years. A 12 inch intake in the top covered by a small tub is convenient and it keeps the odor in and the flies out. If the dead birds accumulate faster than they decay, add quick lime occasionally.

Deadly Poison
A new super-deadly poison, the most potent known to man, has been developed by the special projects division of the chemical warfare service. An innocent-looking crystalline toxin, the poison is so powerful that an inch-cube size of it—roughly an ounce—could kill every person living in the United States and Canada, silently, swiftly.

Fire Causes
Underwriters association lists causes of farm fires in the approximate order of their importance. They are lightning; defective chimneys and heating apparatus; matches and smoking; combustible roofs; spontaneous ignition; gasoline and kerosene; electricity; and miscellaneous causes.

Hereditary Deafness
Only one type of deafness is considered hereditary by the medical profession. That type is due to otosclerosis—the thickening of a tiny bone in the inner ear. The fact that one or both parents are so affected, however, does not necessarily mean that the ailment will reappear in the children.

Deafness Progresses
Deafness progresses with age; most persons reaching the handicapped stage wait two to five years before they can bring themselves to wear a hearing aid; 40 per cent of the persons so handicapped never adopt a hearing aid.

Milk Consuming State
Pennsylvania is the second greatest milk consuming state, but ninth in milk production. The Keystone state ranks fourth in the amount of cash farm income from milk, fifth in respect to the value of her heifers, and 10th in the number of cows.

Meningitis Caused Deafness
Meningitis used to leave many hopeless cases of deafness; such cases were numerous among veterans of World War I. Treatment with streptomycin, penicillin and sulfa drugs has almost eliminated this type of deafness.

Resistant to Altitude
Birds in general are extremely resistant to altitude. Wild geese have been observed flying as high as 29,000 feet, and crows, storks, cranes and finches frequently fly at 20,000-foot altitudes.

Cows Need Water
In full milk flow, an average size cow needs from 150 to 350 pounds of water daily. Water supplies 87 per cent of the total content of milk and 56 per cent of the total body weight of the cow.

Lice Affect Hogs
Lice lower the vitality of hogs and make them more susceptible to diseases. Waste motor oil is effective in controlling the pests. It may be applied by sprayer, mop, or by rubbing or oiling posts.

Hearing Casualties
The Veterans' administration indicates that at least 40,000 war-deafened veterans were added by the war to the ranks of the hard of hearing.

High Flyers
Normal cats can easily withstand an altitude of 24,000 feet. Rabbits display no lethal effects of altitude until they are taken above 27,000 feet.

Big Taxpayers
The trolley coach, street car and gas bus companies of America paid more than $164,530,000 in federal, state, county and local taxes last year.

Wasting Bread
Just one slice of bread thrown into the garbage each week by every American family is the same as throwing away 100 million loaves of bread a year.

Bull Calves
Bull calves intended for market should be castrated before they are four months old, as castration after four months may result in "staggy"

Chicken Diet
Investigations in a number of different laboratories have revealed that the growing chicken needs 13 different vitamins including vitamins A, D, E and K, thiamin, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, nicotinic acid, pyridoxin, biotin, choline, inositol and folic acid. All of these vitamins can be supplied as crystalline compounds, and chickens grow normally when fed such a combination of pure vitamins in conjunction with a suitable combination of purified carbohydrate, protein, fat and mineral salts.

Ventilate Poultry Houses
Electric fans are the latest attempt to reduce excess moisture in poultry houses. Moisture means more cleaning, higher susceptibility of flocks to varied ills, and may drastically cut egg production. Many poultrymen report excellent success with electrical ventilation. Overall results, however, are mixed. Some poultry experts claim fans are no better than gravity-operated flues. Fans work when the air is heavy and damp while flues do not.

Cantaloupes Nutritious
Cantaloupes of top quality are an excellent source of vitamin C. A half cantaloupe will furnish about as much vitamin C as a third of a glass of orange juice. In addition to vitamin C, cantaloupes also contain other vitamins and valuable minerals which help balance body chemistry. They are also rich in sugar.

Kills Japanese Beetles
Used either in traps, or as a spray or dust, DDT has proved to be one of the most effective killers of Japanese beetles. Traps in which the beetles drop through the baited top, to hit a surface or wick loaded with DDT have saved much trouble in emptying traps, yet kill all the beetles.

Conservation Districts
There are now considerably more than 1,600 organized soil conservation districts in the nation, with new districts being organized at the rate of almost one a day. These farmer-managed districts are assisted by trained technicians who help the farmers put conservation practices to use on their land.

Handicapped by Deafness
Judged from extensive population sampling, between five and seven million Americans have serious hearing impairments of one or both ears; about half this number have both ears affected to such a degree as to be seriously handicapped.

More Milk Per Acre
Wilted hay made into silage provides almost 16 per cent more milk per acre of land than the same forage made into field-cured hay, according to studies at the Beltsville Research center of the department of agriculture.

Damaged Egg
A fertile egg that is allowed to remain exposed to high summer heat in the nest or in the field all day will show definite germ development and damage by nightfall. If left two days, damage can be clearly noted by candling.

Forest Fires
Forest fire losses in 1945 exceeded $25,000,000 for the country as a whole, mostly in unprotected areas. This was nearly $1,000,000 over the 1944 loss, although the number of fires was down 5 per cent.

Strawberry Jam
Strawberry and raspberry jams and preserves made from frozen berries that have been stored for several months are as good as those made from fresh fruit during the berry season.

Medicinal Herb
Ma Huang, an herb derived from an Oriental shrub, was used for 8,000 years in China before technicians discovered in 1924 that the active principle of Ma Huang is ephedrine.

Rail Tonnage
The weight of steel rail in this nation's vast network of railroad tracks was four times the total tonnage of the navy at the close of the war.

Record-shattering Crops Boost Farm Production to New Peak

WNU Features

While international crises and domestic difficulties have been dominating the news scene, American farmers have been rolling up one of the most impressive production records in history during the current year.

Crop production for 1946 is setting an all-time peak, 2 1/2 per cent above the record output of 1942, best previous year, and 28 per cent above the average for the prewar years of 1935-39, a summary compiled by department of agriculture discloses. Wheat and corn production soared to new high marks, followed by record-shattering harvests of tobacco, peaches, pears, plums, truck crops and potatoes. Other crops have come through in good measure, with exception of cotton, rye, broomcorn, dry beans and pecans.

Livestock production continued high, despite critical feed shortages in mid-year.

Taking agricultural production as a whole, 1946 may stand for a long time as the farmer's biggest year, the agriculture department concludes.

The story of the farmer's big year, as told in the pictures:

1 FARM RECORDS are being broken throughout the nation as farmers wind up the biggest year in agriculture's history. This scene of a farmer storing corn in temporary cribs is being repeated throughout the grain producing areas as farmers gather in the greatest feed crop ever grown in this country.

2 FOOD NEEDS exceeded even heavy wartime demands and farmers met the challenge with the largest harvested wheat acreage since 1938-940,000 acres over 1945. The combination of improved wheat varieties, good growing weather and national yield of 17.8 bushels per acre resulted in whopping 1,169,422,000 bushel crop. Production of all food grains set a new record—more than 37 million tons.

During the harvest season, farmers worked night and day, frequently with multiple crews and machines, as shown here, to save the precious grain. The new crop helped to relieve the bread shortage which resulted at mid-year when the nation shared its slender wheat stocks with hungry people overseas. Exports of wheat in this calendar year may reach 360 million bushels, highest since 1921.

3 READY FOR THE FUTURE. With the help of this big year, farmers are in better position to face conditions ahead. Good feed crops will help to maintain livestock production at high levels and savings of nearly 20 billion dollars provide a reserve for poor years or farm improvement.

This West Virginia farm, with its crops set in easy-to-work contoured strips, offers a pattern for the future. With his farm's soil enriched by lime and green manure, and slopes protected from costly erosion, the operator has the assurance of maximum efficiency and minimum production costs. As of July 1, 2,750,000 acres had been laid out in contoured strip cropping, with plans ready for an additional 2,250,000 acres. Two-thirds of all U. S. farms are actively participating in 1,675 soil conservation districts.

4 GOOD WEATHER favored the farmer in his fight for big crops. An early spring sent crops off to a flying start. Ideal conditions, illustrated in this summer scene on a New England farm, often helped the farmer at critical times, such as haying and grain harvest. Little wheat was lost because of wet weather during harvest or after, but sudden ripening of grain over large areas produced more grain at one time than elevators or railroads could handle. Drouth did strike some areas, notably New Mexico and Arizona, and prolonged rain interfered with planting of grain sorghums. The weather wasn't perfect, but it was generally better than 1945 and proved a big factor in a record crop.

5 BIG BUYERS. Record production and good prices have created the greatest farm purchasing power of all time. From total cash receipts of more than 23 billion dollars this year, farmers will realize a net income of more than 14 1/2 billion dollars, or more than three times the net income of 1940. Like city folks, farmers find goods scarce and prices above prewar levels. As he shops for new shoes, this farmer finds proof that the average price of farm work shoes rose from $2.53 for the 1935-39 period to $4.49 on June 15. Prices received by farmers for their goods had doubled meanwhile.

6 MORE HELP. provided by returning veterans and war plant workers, made the job easier for the farmer, but everyone had to work hard, early and late, to handle the bumper output. Typical of the veteran's return to the land, this ex-army sergeant and his wife, former army nurse, bought an Alabama farm with the help of an FSA loan. By mid-year 1,045,000 veterans were working on farms, representing about three-fourths of the number of farm workers who entered military service before July 1, 1945.

7 TWO ON ONE means good corn in the nation as a whole, two out of every three acres this year were in high-yielding hybrids, accounting for 20 per cent increase in corn yields by department of agriculture estimates. In some sections of the corn belt, hybrids were planted on 100 per cent of the acreage, boosting Iowa's corn yield to a phenomenal 61 bushels per acre. Better varieties of other crops, developed by agricultural scientists, helped push production to new records. Improved fertilizers and new cultural methods also boosted yields.

8 NEW TOOLS also helped to swell 1946 production. Expansion by REA co-operatives brought electricity to additional thousands of farms and made daily chores like milking (above) faster and easier. On July 1, nearly 53 per cent of all U. S. farms received central station electric service and new customers were being connected to REA lines at the rate of 250,000 per year. Farmers also found DDT and chemical weed killers potent weapons against old enemies. Production of new farm machinery during the first half of the year fell below the war-limited production of a year earlier, forcing most farmers to get along with old machines. Tires, fuel and seed were in fair supply, but containers, steel products and lumber continued scarce. Farmers used more fertilizer in their drive for maximum production.

Man's 'Best Friend' Causes Most Farm Accidents

Old Dobbin may be man's best friend—but he doesn't act like it. In fact, horses are involved in more accidents on American farms than any other animal, including the bull, Dr. H. Herman Young of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., told delegates to the farm safety section of the National Safety Council's 34th national safety congress in Chicago.

Life on farms is full of peril. Dr. Young asserted, pointing to a nine-year survey of farm accidents, made under joint auspices of Mayo clinic and the safety council, which disclosed that 38,700 farmers were killed at work during the period. About 133,200 farm residents were killed accidentally and 100,125,000 non-fatal farm home and work accidents also occurred in that time, he reported.

"The farmer usually is his own boss or employs only a few men, probably carries no accident insurance, and is not as conscious of the need for safety measures as those employed in other industries," Dr. Young said.

Accidents take an enormous toll every year, with victims not limited to farmers, delegates to the safety congress were told.

Statistics show that there's an accidental death every 5 1/2 minutes, a traffic death every 18 1/2 minutes, an occupational death every 33 minutes and a home death every 15 1/2 minutes.

National Safety Council is a non-profit, non-commercial corporation supported mainly by industrial concerns. It has 25 separate sections to deal with safety in every field.

Wyoming Homesteads Open to Veterans

WASHINGTON.—Want a home in Wyoming or a ranch in Shoshone valley near Yellowstone park? If you're a World War II veteran with good character and good luck, you might get one. First step is to submit an application to the bureau of reclamation project office at Powell, Wyo., before November 25. The bureau will then open to homestead entry 83 irrigated farm units, a total of 7,720 acres, on the Heart Mountain division of its oldest project, the Shoshone.

Applicants will be rated as to character, industry, capital and farm experience by a local examining board, which will select the top 166 candidates to participate in the drawing for the 83 farms.

Three other land openings for homesteading of 5,372 acres of irrigated land in Washington and Idaho also are scheduled this winter.

Wave Takes Army Job, Finally Gets on Ship

CINCINNATI.—After 26 months of land-locked service with the WAVES, Miss Edith Dunn finally got aboard a ship—by taking a job with the army. The Ohio river division engineers, local army unit, resorted to naval tactics to help solve the housing problem of 22 women employees. They are housed on two quarterboats moored here, the girls paying $15 a month rent.

No Alarm Clock Needed In This Family's Home

STANFORD, ILL.—Both advantages and disadvantages are combined in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Allen. Bells keep ringing with annoying regularity, but they have four sewing machines, two cooking stoves and plenty of household equipment. The Allens and their two young sons are living in the home economics room of Stanford community high school.

Boy of 13 Honored For War Activities

PHILADELPHIA.—For his role in helping fight the war on the home front, 13-year-old Teddy J. Kuligowski has been awarded the Veterans of Foreign Wars medal of citizenship and certificate of merit. The boy sold more than 11 million dollars worth of war bonds and entertained servicemen with his violin in hundreds of army and navy camps and hospitals.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

NEW BUDGET 'ECONOMIES' PROVE TO BE ILLUSORY
WASHINGTON.—Strange things are done in Washington, but the strangest is on the budget. Actually Mr. Truman is "economizing upward." He is cutting by increasing. He is saving by enlarging appropriations. Actually! Honest!

The President took hold of the budget, you may remember, last August 3. It was a firm grip. The headlines said his grasp, or you might say clutch, at the situation was "the greatest economy move since the Hoover administration." That economy upped the budget from 36 billion dollars (yes billions) where it was last January, to 41 1/2 billions, a saving which adds up backwards.

That is all past history. Now we are in for some more economy—upward I mean. The press has been unofficially informed that the navy budget is to be slashed 700 million dollars more than its original (August) 650 million dollar "slash," and "the Presidential economy drive will be $1,350,000,000."

MOUNTING COSTS

They do not say how much more this will cost, but a check at the budget bureau will show you all economy is tending upward, and by this I do not mean to say enlarging, but merely costing more money than may be saved. Mr. Truman, it is far more authoritatively said, in private, is limiting national defense (the largest in the budget item) to 13.2 billions, or 8 billions for the army and 5.2 billions for the navy. But unused balances of old appropriations give the services a total of about 22.9 billions, an amount about 9.7 billions more than the appropriated and officially suggested figure. The usual combined figure used for these services is about 18 billions, but these above stated come from budget authorities. Mr. Truman's cuts, "slashes," have been made in the unused balances of old budgets and not in the current appropriations. I am informed. This was the "slash" so widely advertised. Actually what the President did was to tell his navy and war secretaries in a confidential letter to limit their expenditures further—meaning to the utmost in consonance with the necessities of their office.

Of course even with his economy upward he still will be spending more than 12 billions (yes billions) above the prewar year of 1936. In those days, defense cost only 1.2 billions for both army and navy. (The Russian advertising of economy has not been added up here yet.)

Now this is not as surprising or confusing as it sounds. Actually the position of Mr. Truman's budget is somewhat like my own and yours. I am economizing, but it is costing me much more to live. I am forced to do the same thing he is doing, namely pay more for less, so much more that no matter how much I economize, my budget runs up.

A STABLE ECONOMY

I wonder if the entire nation and the world is not in the same fix. The world talks of developing a high wage-high price level as ideal, and I agree it is not only ideal but a necessity. The strikes (and I do not mean the political CIO strikes against Dewey in Albany or the Lewis-promised strike on the eve of election) only indicate a demand by unions to get ahead of the price-fluctuating economy. Yet the unions are always dissatisfied with their last strike, and always planning a new one to get a new wage increase, which will force prices even higher and cause plans for a third strike they have not yet envisaged—but will.

Now all this talk of budgets (like strikes) is silly in a fluctuating economy. What the budget needs is the same thing that the unions really need, if they only knew it—namely, a stable economy.

Budgets are and will be loose and inexact in these days. Economy is simultaneously demanded (and may not be carried far enough) to keep the budget from running away with itself and to keep tax necessities down. But actually you cannot say that an expenditure will be limited to this or that exact figure below appropriations—not with any confidence. You may have to pay more for less than intended.

You take the expert advice of those who know the subject—and use your own judgment.

I cannot find it in my heart to criticize Mr. Truman on the budget—and I cannot find anything except confusion in the budget bureau, as you have seen. I recommend the country do the same thing I am doing—namely, putting the budget into a secondary category and devoting myself primarily to the hope that the administration will establish a stabilized wage-price economy.

Muddled Liberals

The confused liberals have obtained the service of Henry Wallace to head their confused magazine "The New Republic." It was "The New Republic" which polled people some months back on what is wrong with liberalism and found the wrong answer. No one told them their real trouble was that liberalism was not liberal any more, but had espoused too many truly reactionary doctrines of arbitrary dictatorships.

Now Is the Time to RETREAD WORN TRACTOR TIRES

Firestone
FACTORY-METHOD RETREADING Gives Your Worn Tractor Tires NEW PULLING POWER

FOR much less than the cost of new tires, you can have your worn tractor tires retreaded with the sharp, deep-cutting Firestone Ground Grip tread design. This patented tread will increase the drawbar pull of your tractor by as much as 16%. Retread rubber is of the same long-lasting quality used in new Firestone tires.

Firestone Factory-Method Retreading takes only a few days. Loaners or exchange tires are available at your nearby Firestone Dealer Store or Firestone Store. Ask for their low-cost Firestone Factory-Method Retread service. Give your worn tires the pulling power of new Firestone Ground Grips... the only tractor tires that take a "center bite" in the heart of the traction zone... and give your tractor up to 16% more pull at the drawbar.

*"Center Bite" traction zone.

Soviet Policy Holds Key to Parley

U. S. Awaits Russian Game at Foreign Ministers' Session

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Of course this date isn't official. But, since the brand new station where I got off had a nice "United Nations" sign on it in bright Pennsylvania red and gold, I can call it that. The United Nations is really meeting in two different places: The assembly, where I happen to be at this writing, at Flushing, N. Y., and the headquarters of the security council, miles away at Lake Success.

Baukhage

There have been a long series of books by experts and others, telling just what is wrong with our foreign policy and what might have been done or might be done to improve it. William Bullitt tried in a book (already mentioned in these columns) to show that Russia's dreams of empire are nothing new, that the Soviets are merely taking up where the Czars left off. More recently Louis Fischer has come along with his "Great Challenge."

Draw Line on Soviet Expansion

Edgar Ansel Mower, reviewing this book in the Saturday Review of Literature, says that "if Henry Wallace had read and understood this book, he would not . . . 'push a completely unrealistic policy of appeasement of Soviet Russia.'" Mower probably would be the last person to claim that he was prejudiced in favor of the Soviet rule but he is certainly familiar with his subject and his comment is worth consideration. As for Fischer, he laughs at the idea put forth by the Russophiles that all we have to do is to assure Russia of her security, remove her suspicions and fears of democracy, and then she will march shoulder to shoulder with the rest of us. Fischer says Russia's behavior is explained not by fear of attack but by certainty that she will not be attacked. This belief seems to be back of the American action here today. It is to be hoped that during the negotiations at Lake Success, Russia's more specific objectives will be revealed as they were in Paris. Fischer claims that "Russia is not afraid and not suing the situation in Europe which she could not dictate. Chaos, if not time, fought on her side."

As the negotiations continued, however, slowly out of the mists along the Volga another shape became visible. It was the materialization of one phase of the divide and conquer principle. In this case it was the open bid for German sympathy which Russia hoped would turn the Germans in the American, British and French zones away from those countries and toward Russia. Although it was Russia itself which prevented the economic unification of Germany (plus Communist influences in France and French fears) it was Russia which suddenly offered the grandiose plan of a unified Germany with a hint at a rectification of the eastern frontier at the expense of Poland. This sensational suggestion burst over Europe and the conference like a thunderbolt, but thanks to the quick action of Byrnes it proved a boomerang. Byrnes knew what to shoot at and he shot.

The Wallace incident which for 24 hours threatened to cut Byrnes' support from under him fortunately had just the opposite effect. Byrnes insisted on repudiation of Wallace by the President and got it. Then Byrnes took the stump, showed that American policy would give Germany everything that the Russian plan would give her and made it clear that the question of the eastern frontier might well be opened with the United States sympathetic toward a revision of the boundary to the advantage of Germany.

Thus, in a lightning flash Russia's policy was illuminated and immediately blocked. The question now remains as to what line of approach the Russians have decided upon, if any. In the meeting of the assembly they tried to continue their obstructionist tactics.

The real test will come in the foreign ministers' conclave at New York.

There is a considerable element in the United States, by no means entirely composed of convinced Communists or their more hesitant followers, which believes with former Secretary of Commerce Wallace that the United States can pursue some middle-of-the-road policy and that East and West can thus move together without friction. There is no question, however, that the task that Secretary Byrnes has set out for himself admits of no appeasement.

Violence Marks Strike; New Arms Curb Sought

LABOR: Militant

Policemen were hard put to maintain order at the Allis-Chalmers tractor plant at Milwaukee, Wis., as striking pickets of the CIO-United Automobile Workers bucked a back to work movement of over 3,000 employees. As violence mounted, the number of returning workers was cut in half.

As militant pickets turned over cars attempting to enter the plant, clashed with returning workers and hurled stones at company windows, county and suburban police were compelled to appeal to Milwaukee authorities for reinforcements. Over 200 of Milwaukee's finest were sent to the plant, but even so the enlarged police detail encountered difficulty holding the strikers in check.

Allis-Chalmers remained adamant against granting UAW a closed shop as the strike entered its seventh month. While agreeing to check off union dues with workers' permission, the company stood out against compromise on compelling employees to join the UAW.

With demand high, dealers have been able to meet only 40 per cent of their orders and manufacturers have not promised great improvement in 1947, it was said. Farmers' increased interest in equipment was said to stem from wartime emphasis on more efficient operations and large accumulation of funds.

It is expected that the pin-pricking policy by Yugoslavia will continue. At this writing further efforts to obtain control of the Dardanelles are limited to name-calling in the Russian press. It must also be remembered that when the United States put its foot down and Russia said that it would not pay to go farther, Tito could go into reverse.

It must also be remembered that when the United States put its foot down and Russia said that it would not pay to go farther, Tito could go into reverse.

It is expected that the pin-pricking policy by Yugoslavia will continue. At this writing further efforts to obtain control of the Dardanelles are limited to name-calling in the Russian press. It must also be remembered that when the United States put its foot down and Russia said that it would not pay to go farther, Tito could go into reverse.

'SQUARE DEAL'

Small Business Seeks New Unit

WASHINGTON.—Organization of a "strong, integrated government agency" to take care of all government activities concerned with small business is the objective of a campaign launched by the American Association of Small Business. The new agency would supplant the present divided authority resting in the department of commerce and Reconstruction Finance corporation.

U. N.:

In Accord

The U. S. and Russia came off all even in their first swap at the United Nations assembly in New York. If anything, the U. S. got the better of the exchange as Delegate Warren R. Austin of Vermont conducted himself with a gentlemanly reserve that contrasted with Foreign Minister Molotov's vitriol.

Molotov was the first to speak, calling for international disarmament, a report on the number of allied troops in non-enemy states, retention of the veto power of the Big Five in the security council. He bitterly attacked U. S. and British imperialists, headed by Winston Churchill, for seeking world domination.

Ignoring Molotov's political charges, Austin entered into a discussion of the proposals raised by the Russians:

If the Russians wanted international disarmament, the U. S. would gladly oblige, provided an adequate system of inspection and other safeguards would be established to guarantee fulfillment of the program. After the last war, Austin recalled, the U. S. accepted the principle of disarmament but remained alone in carrying it out.

If the Russians desired a report on the number of Allied troops in non-enemy states, the U. S. suggested that the check be extended to former enemy countries as well. (Such an all inclusive report would provide the world with an adequate estimate of Russian troop strength behind the iron curtain, said by Churchill to total 200 divisions.)

If the Russians opposed a modification of the veto power at this time, the U. S. also was against revision of the U. N. charter. However, the U. S. hoped that the Big Five could get together in the future to modify the veto in the case of peaceful settlement of disputes, although retaining it on the question of applying force.

FAO:

U. S. Backs Down

Having heartily endorsed a plan of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization at Copenhagen, Denmark, for distribution of food to needy countries at bargain prices, the U. S. repudiated its position as an FAO commission met in Washington, D. C., to work out details of the project.

Under the plan, FAO would have purchased food from surplus producing countries out of a revolving fund contributed by member nations. When the world price for food would have gone above a predetermined level, then FAO would have sold its reserves to needy buyers at the lower figure.

Children Get Benefits

Approximately 90,000 children whose fathers died as a result of World War II service are receiving monthly compensation benefits, ranging from $15.60 to $30 per month, Veterans' administration announces.

Widows of these deceased veterans are entitled to receive $60 per month for themselves and $18 for one child plus $15.60 each for any additional children. In the event that both parents are deceased, the child's legal guardian receives $30 per month. If there are two children, the guardian receives $45.60, plus $12 for each additional child.

Recent legislation removed previous restrictions as to the total amount payable in these cases. In effect, the law authorizes compensation for each child surviving the veteran regardless of the number of children and grants a 20 per cent increase in payments. All children are entitled to this compensation until they reach the age of 18 unless they marry before that time. In the event a child becomes mentally or physically incompetent, payments will be continued during the incompetency. Benefits also may continue after the age of 18 while the child is going to school, but cease upon his reaching the age of 21 years.

Questions and Answers

Q. My son has been in service 18 months, has been overseas a year and is still in Berlin. He didn't make an allotment to me as we didn't know he could, and I have just found out nearly every one drew allotments from sons in service, which I could have done if I had known about it. He sent me a little money. He could spare and bought himself a bond each month. I do not own a farm, just rent, only milk a few cows. Have five children under 16, all in school except one. I wonder if I could draw any back pay for the time he has been gone, also start drawing now. I surely need it.—Mrs. P. O. D., Seymour, Mo.

A. Your son is at fault in this matter, since all men going into the service and especially when they go overseas are thoroughly briefed concerning their dependents and their allotment rights. Their dependents are entered on their service records. I do not think you can get back allotment but, if your son will ask his commanding officer for an allotment for you, he can obtain it since it is entirely voluntary on the part of your son. There have been rare instances where the war department has recognized claims for back pay in these cases, however, and to be sure, you should write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, War Department, Newark 2, N. J., and explain your case.

Q. Is it true that I don't have to pay the premiums on my husband's national service insurance as he is a disabled veteran of World War II, and will I get the money back which I have already paid?—Mrs. C. E. B., Lewistown, Pa.

A. No, it is not necessarily true. Veterans' administration says that a veteran of World War II must be totally disabled for a period of at least six months before he is eligible to make application for a waiver of his premium payments, and that this waiver, if granted, shall not affect any premiums which become due more than a year before the application for a waiver was received by the VA. There is no money returned. Suggest you consult with your local VA office or with your local post of the American Legion.

Q. My son went overseas in March, 1944. In May he wrote for us to fix allotment papers and in June they began taking out of his pay and did so until he died in December, 1944. Can we get that pay?—Mrs. B. W., Pontotoc, Miss.

A. Yes, and also six months additional pay. Write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, War Department, Newark 2, N. J., and explain your case fully, giving your son's full name, serial number, the date and manner of his death, if you know. Your answer may be delayed, since this department of the army is in process of moving to St. Louis.

Q. I am a widow of a veteran of World War I who died while in France. I never did receive an allotment or any of his insurance. Am I due anything?—Mrs. R. L. K., New Hope, Ala.

A. If you are the legal widow of a veteran who died in France in World War I you are entitled to his insurance, if he had government insurance. You also are entitled to a widow's pension. Suggest that you contact your nearest Veterans' administration office, probably at Birmingham or Mobile, and give them full particulars of your case.

THIS is a burst of loud applause for Eric Sevareid's autobiography, "Not So Wild a Dream." It's the story of a boy from a small town in South Dakota who has never lost his love for that small town, through the years when he's become one of our best political and war reporters. Many of us will never forget some of his broadcasts over CBS during the war, and still look forward to his Saturday night talks. Sevareid covered the war in France, England, China, Italy, Germany and Burma. But this is not primarily a war book; it is the inspiring story of 34 years of a man's life, superbly written, a story of the world in our times.

Now that "Deception" is being shown, Bette Davis wants to do a comedy; since 1941, she's been specializing in tragedies. "People will think I'm a humorless character who stalks the corridors with a candle scaring small children," said Bette. She thinks her best comedy role was in "His Love Is My After," which was made in 1937 and was overshadowed by the Award-winning "Jezebel."

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada. He has fallen in love with Madame Madeleine Kinross, young widow who owns the timberland. He returns his affection, but tells him that marriage is impossible, as she believes her husband is still alive. Her lawyer, Horace Broussac, is also a suitor. When rejected, he became Mark's bitter enemy. Mark returns to camp he is set upon by three men. They bind him, throw him into his cabin and set fire to the surrounding brush. Nat Page, his assistant, sees the smoke and hurries to the rescue. Meanwhile, Mark's enemies are gathered in the town tavern, drinking to keep up their courage.

CHAPTER VIII

They were too late. The door was flung open, as if by a blast of wind, and a man stood before them.

He must have been six feet two or three in height, and he was built like a Hercules. His long, blond hair hung down over his forehead. His clothes were nondescript, and did not fit him at all. They consisted of a sweater, jacket and trousers, but they were not the sort of clothes that are to be found along the St. Lawrence.

He stood before them, ending his snatch of song, and then he laughed gaily. Eyes of pale brown that passed from face to face, while the two shrank back against the wall, watching him in turn.

"So I have found you! But where is Andre Galipeault?"

"At the lighthouse, Eric. He keeps the lighthouse now, mon seigneur. Your wife's father is dead."

There was something like madness that sounded in the bay of mirth that burst from Eric Kinross' lips.

"And my little wife?"

"She is there, living there still."

"Ah! And what have you to say, my comrades, who sailed away and left me to face the murder charge on St. Pierre?"

It was Monsieur Vitard who answered in trembling accents, "Eric, we were not so much to blame. We tried to restrain you from drinking that French brandy. Then the brawl arose with the French revenue men, and you killed one of them with a blow of your fist."

"We were afraid. We fled back to the schooner. We told everybody that you had been lost on an ice-foe, for fear that the truth would be known, and we should be arrested, and taken away to prison in France—Hector and I and Andre."

"Aye! You told nobody the truth. My wife thinks I am dead and has remarried. Come, I'll have the truth! I'll have the truth, I say."

"She has never remarried, mon seigneur," faltered Hector Mackintosh, "and she does not believe you are dead. Somehow—somehow the truth has been guessed by everybody in the village."

"And you let me sweat and rot in the French prison at Marseilles, thinking I should never return, until the French government pardoned me. Did anybody know that I had been pardoned, and was coming home?"

They looked at each other and licked their lips. "Oui, oui, mon seigneur," faltered Vitard. "Horace Broussac knew. He warned us to expect you."

A roar of anger broke from Kinross' lips. "So he is here? He has dared come back here?"

There was no reply.

"That money that would have saved me, had I been able to employ a lawyer—what did he do with it? It never reached me. It has cost me five years of my life."

"Mon seigneur, we are poor men. There was nothing that we could do," faltered Monsieur Vitard. "We knew that Horace Broussac had raised that money for you, but we were not sure whether he sent it to you, after he became guardian of Madame Kinross."

"Guardian?" Eric Kinross set his back against the door. "Go on. You amuse me," he said. "My lands—Horace Broussac, my dear kinsman Horace, has perhaps sold them?"

"No, mon seigneur, but he has leased a strip to an American, a Monsieur Darrell, who is operating the mill that Horace Broussac set up."

"Name of a dog, where is he?"

"He is dead," tickered Hector Mackintosh. "He died in that fire that is raging along the lighthouse neck. You see, Horace Broussac persuaded Andre Galipeault that this Monsieur Darrell was a spy, come to take us all away to prison in France. We knew better, but Andre is a very ignorant man."

"Go on."

"Eric Hears What Has Been Going On"

"And Horace Broussac loves your wife and was jealous because she is in love with this Monsieur Darrell."

The seigneur remained perfectly silent, glaring at the two, stammering out their story like school-boys.

"So it was arranged tonight that this Monsieur Darrell should die, an—" not one of us habitants by birth; he is a foreigner, from Quebec."

There was a sea-rod at low tide by which one could pass from St. Victor to the lighthouse. It was along this that Broussac had driven, tortured by the terrors of Kinross' anticipated return, and his desire for Madeleine.

During his five years of guardianship he had managed to secure the bulk of the seigniorial rights in the form of cash in a Montreal bank. He had disposed of Mark's strip, and an additional one, to certain lumber companies. He had played his crooked game desperately, tracing the hours, almost the minutes that must elapse before Kinross came back.

He pulled his horse to a standstill before Madeleine's door, with a grating of wheels upon the gravel. The girl was upon him, white-faced, terror-stricken, almost before he was out of the rig.

"The fire! The fire!" she cried. "Is Monsieur Darrell safe?"

"Darrell? Oh, I reckon he's safe," answered Broussac. "I didn't come here to talk about Darrell. Madeleine, my yacht is in the harbor. I want you to come away with me tonight. I am a rich man. I can give you everything in the world, instead of your living here, shut up in this cottage. What's the use of waiting any longer?"

"You're mad," cried Madeleine. "My husband is alive, and, if he were dead, I don't love you."

"I have come back, Madeleine, my little one. Are you not glad to see me?"

"I always knew you were not dead, Eric," she sobbed.

"But did you not know where I had been?"

"No! Nobody would tell me. For a long time they pretended that you were dead, but I thought your head had been injured by a flog, and that you were in an insane asylum, somewhere in America."

The seigneur laughed. Big men are accustomed to treachery, which is the defense of weaklings. It didn't matter what lies they had told about him.

"No, my little one, I got into trouble on St. Pierre. There was some good brandy there, and I drank too much. I killed a revenue man, but it was in a fair fight. They sent me to a prison in France, and he better able to decide what to do. I came back intending to kill at least one man, who obtained money for my defense and kept it... where is Cousin Horace Broussac?" Eric cried suddenly.

"I do not know," cried the girl in sudden terror.

"He is not here?"

"No! No!"

"He had better not come here, if he values that wretched life of his. And now about this Monsieur Darrell, of whom I have heard. Eh?"

He tilted Madeleine's face in his hand and looked down into her eyes.

"He is safe in St. Victor. He must be safe. He could not have been trapped in that fire across the neck."

"You have not kissed me, little one."

"I cannot—yet, Eric. Oh, Eric, understand! I was only a woman when you married me, and I am a woman now. Five years have passed. You must give me time to make adjustments."

"Mighty Eric Becomes A Hero"

There was a devil of tender mockery in the seigneur's brown eyes. He let the girl go, and stood looking down upon her.

"And so you love this American?"

"I sent him away. I am your wife, and I knew that you were not dead."

"You love him!"

Madeleine was silent, only looked up piteously into Eric's face.

"Well—you love him?"

"Ah, Eric, forgive me! Five years is such a long time, and I was only a child." Suddenly she flung herself at Eric Kinross' feet.

had never changed that feeling of tenderness for Madeleine.

There was something quite unusual in his feeling for her, and he had never even kissed another woman in his life. That had been his hell in the prison at Marseilles, thinking of her. Of course he had not guessed that his three companions had concealed the incident on St. Pierre.

He strode along the road, shouting gaily. And now they heard him. Old Andre, terrified as he was—for he knew that voice—terrified by the return of the man whom he had left to take his punishment alone, nevertheless stood gamely beside Madeleine.

And Madeleine heard! She stood a look of awful fear came upon her face, but it was not such fear as Broussac had inspired. This was her man, her husband, whom she had known since she was a child. She never loved him, but she had always respected him, and she knew that he was incapable of laying a hand upon her, however hot his anger.

Now he was standing, towering, before her, looking down at her. Then he swept her into his arms and kissed her. He paid no attention to old Andre, who, seeing that Madeleine was safe, slipped back to the lighthouse, where he had left the boy, Georges, in charge.

"I have come back, Madeleine, my little one. Are you not glad to see me?"

"I always knew you were not dead, Eric," she sobbed.

"But did you not know where I had been?"

"No! Nobody would tell me. For a long time they pretended that you were dead, but I thought your head had been injured by a flog, and that you were in an insane asylum, somewhere in America."

Kinross raised her. "That is all right. That is natural, my little one," he answered tenderly.

Voices were shouting from the steps above them, leading down from the natural bridge. A man came into view. Nearly all the hair was singed from his head, and what had been his clothes was now a mass of blackened tinders, in which the bright points of sparks glowed and vanished and appeared again. It was Nat Page, and behind him came a dozen ragged figures.

Removal of Price Controls Means People 'Surrendered'

FROM THIS vantage point in the nation where the objective reporter can view with detachment the unravelling pattern of the national picture, there often comes the urge to cast aside the tenets of factual reporting and to write just what which wells up within... the convictions which form the certainties borne into our consciousness by the revelations which can be seen here in Washington as from no other place in the country.

For centered here, usually with clashing but crystal clearness, are the aims, desires, machinations and connivances of the many facets of our national economy... individuals and collectively against the one bulwark set up for the protection of the masses of the American people... the federal government.

When that bulwark gives way, then the people of America give way... for our federal government IS the people. And this reporter believes sincerely that the people and the government have surrendered in the recent meat crisis, to the same forces of reaction... to the same forces of reaction which brought about the cataclysmic depression of the 1930s.

The difference... they were a land of plenty but the forces of reaction had robbed the people of the means... the money with which to buy food and commodities. Today we are a land of plenty, with money bulging the pockets of farmers, of workers, of most everyone, but the forces of reaction took away food and the commodities upon which to spend it. Either way the people suffer.

Artificial Shortage

That this meat famine was deliberately manipulated is proved by the fact that the day after controls were forced off, stockyards overflowed with beef and hogs and sheep at record high prices. The shortsighted farmers who participated in this conspiracy, this "strike" against price control, will not gain in the long run. As meat goes up, prices of other farm products will go down and most surely prices of the commodities that farmers buy will rise and stay up for some time.

The national administration, with the overwhelming support and consent of the people, determined upon a gradual and orderly conversion from war to peace in the process of adjustment... and this spirit of orderly change was intended to give every citizen a better opportunity within his own limited means and economy to enjoy the better things, the higher standard of living. It meant waiting a while for those things, but the waiting would have been worth while.

All of us, citizen and business and industry, chafing at the restraints of a war economy, were impatient to get rid of High war profits and high war wages had sharpened our appetite. The wise leaders counselled more patience—just a little longer government control until supply could catch up with demand. But here in Washington everyone could watch the picture forming... the pattern changing... for with clever propaganda the forces of reaction began undermining the firm foundations of our national will. No white shirts, no automobiles, no nylons... no this and no that... and with more glib publicity, the blame, at first timidly, then more forcefully, began to be placed upon price control. And the people fidgeted and chafed.

Many patronized black markets. Stocks were hoarded, goods were purposefully held from the retail market. Finally came the meat famine. Clever propaganda symbolized the meat shortage as emblematic of all shortages. Everybody high and low wanted to "get theirs."

Selfish and Cynical

"Meat, give us meat!"—the people took up the cry, as if a belly full of meat would bring to them all the material goods they had so long been denied. And when the people turned from their self-restraint, so long and patriotically imposed during the war, government had to give way. The President turned to a policy of lifting all price controls and wage stabilization, for most certainly if price controls are lifted then there can be no wage controls.

"Meat" has become the cynical selfish cry in this land of plenty. "Meat" may be the phony issue upon which the outcome of an election may hinge. We have compromised ourselves as a people with the forces of greed and reaction. And we will not get meat, nor any other commodities for which we don't have the price to pay inflated prices. Yes, prices will level off when the consumers form a buyers' strike, but not until the forces of reaction have reaped their harvest of millions of dollars for artificially scarce goods.

When we see a surrender of this sort, a weakness on the part of our people... when we see the people actually make "suckers" of themselves harkening to the voices of political and economic sirens, it causes wonder as to what has become of that stamina and courage so evident in this land when we conquered a depression and then went on to win a war fought for the ideals of democracy and the Four Freedoms.

Is this the United States which is expected to lead the world into permanent peace and democracy?

The Influence of the Radio

Teacher—Now, Willie, how much is two times one?

Willie—Go ahead!

Teacher—What do you mean "go ahead?"

Willie (anxiously) — Go ahead and tell me how much I get if I come up with the right answer!

Teacher—For that you stay after school. Johnny Smith, you were very poor in your reading test. Let me see what you can do, beginning on page 6.

Johnny—The white cat saw the gray mouse under the tall chair.

Teacher—That's fine.

Johnny—Now can I go for the jackpot?

Teacher—Such children! Minnie Potter, how do you spell "apple?"

Minnie—You mean backwards?

Teacher—Why backwards?

Minnie—That's the way they spell everything today.

Teacher—Just spell "apple" forwards.

Minnie (peevishly) — My daddy says that if I spell "apple" forwards I won't get anywhere with them. He says that to get anything across and make big sales you got to spell it backwards.

Teacher—Who's running this school, your father or I?

A child — Would you mind repeating the question?

Teacher—This is getting just too much. Steven Gates, if Kate has two plums and Nels has four plums how many plums have they together?

Steven—Could I ask an equation first?

Teacher—Certainly.

Steven—(What is the jackpot now?)

Teacher (prety frantic) — I'm beside myself. I'm dazed and exasperated. I don't know what to do with you children.

A Little Girl (who has been on one of those juvenile advice hours) —Well, I think your problem could be solved by relaxing. You need more rest. If I were you I would...

Teacher—You children are awful. There is only one little boy in the class who is really intelligent and whose standing is high in all subjects. I am going to call on Jasper Loobey to show you how to answer questions. Jasper Loobey, please stand up!

A Little Boy—Jasper Loobey isn't here today. His mother asked me to tell you she had to keep him out as he had to be on a Quiz Kid hour this afternoon.

(Teacher leaps through the window screaming, "Wonderful! Perfect! That wins you 10 silver dollars.")

THE REAL NEWS NEWSREEL

Now that the old World Fair grounds on Long Island, N. Y., have been accepted by the United Nations, will Trygve Lie do a fan dance?... And who gets the canoeing concession?... Our Naerberg scouts report that Goering concealed that poison in his upper tier of chins... Jimmy Byrnes on the radio sounds like a college professor trying to impress the dean... Lady Windermere may have had jabs, but we are not one of 'em.

Bad News From the High Court

According to reports, Justice Robert Jackson and Justice Hugo Black ignore each other and do not even speak as the new Supreme court session gets under way. "Neither looked at the other at any time. They sat several seats apart, and at no time did they speak," says a news item.

This depresses us deeply. If we can't have unity, peace, understanding and brotherly love on the highest court in our land, how can we have it on lower levels? There is something scary in the thought of the United States Supreme court being no different from the lawyers and their clients.

We had a case all prepared for carrying to the Supreme court, in fact we had just christened a new carrier to do the job, but we phoned our attorney and suggested that he take the appeal only through courts that got along well, and stop the minute he ran into some tribunal full of hard looks and cold shoulders. Our lawyer argued back. He contended that it might be a break to submit the case to judges not on speaking terms.

The more we study these photographs of disorders in Hollywood, the more we expect to hear of a scene of violence being called off because the photographer was not ready. And of a case where the cops who slugged it out with the strikers agreed to do it all over for a "retake."

"Fifty-one Nations at Waldorf"—Headline.

Just impossible to get rest and quiet at any hotel any more.

United Nations will now have its own radio station and program. And Ina Dodd asks excitedly, "Does this mean it will broadcast all its fights?"

You can easily tell the U. N. radio program. It will be the one without the hair oil eulogy, the football scores or the advice to unfortunates with a radio complex. It will have just one jingle:

Five big nations, that's a lot, Leading in the peace plans hot; Under them all hatred melts... It had better, kid, or else!

CONCRETE ROADS

Serve for many years

AT LOW ANNUAL COST

Concrete pavements generally carry the heaviest traffic. Yet their annual maintenance cost is far lower than any other pavement intended for similar service. And the rugged strength and stamina of concrete assure long life—many years of all-weather service without interruptions for frequent repairs or rebuilding.

You'll find that concrete pavement usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

So with long life, low maintenance expense and economical first cost, concrete is easily the best investment for motorists' gasoline tax money, assuring as it does, low annual cost—the true measure of pavement economy.
