

Firemen's Annual Picnic to Be Held Sunday, July 13th

Celebration to Feature Street Parade, Excellent Acts, National Comedy Quartette, Cedarburg Band, Baton Twirling Exhibition

The annual picnic and celebration of the Kewaskum firemen will be held in the village park Sunday afternoon and evening, July 13. Arrangements have been completed by the committee in charge to make this year's event bigger and better than ever. Outstanding acts, music and features have been engaged and there will be special entertainment going on almost all the time.

A big street parade at 12:30 p. m. will again start off the festivities. The line of march will form at the high school and proceed as usual along the streets to the park. The parade will include floats, a fine band, civic organizations, majorettes, 25 baton twirlers, firemen, scouts, American Legion, flag bearers, kiddies' parade and other units yet to be arranged. Cash prizes will be awarded by three judges for the best floats, decorations and showings in the kiddies' parade and all children entering will receive free tickets good in trade in the park. The firemen want to line up a worthwhile parade and hope our businessmen and kiddies will co-operate by entering floats, etc.

Concert music will be furnished afternoon and evening by the crack Cedarburg Fire Department Civic band. The band will be in the parade and immediately following this will play a concert in the park. Also in the afternoon and evening, excellent free acts will be staged. The acts will feature Foley and Foley, doing upside down acts on roller skates and balancing acts. Their main act will be climaxed by Mr. Foley fastening a roller skate on his head, balancing upside down and doing a 30 foot slide down an 18 inch wide runway.

Another feature will be singing by the National Comedy quartette with "memories of the Gay 90's." This quartette has a national reputation as singers when it comes to real harmony and will provide plenty of side-splitting laughs along with their close harmony. It is strictly a comedy quartette—not a barber shop group.

Next in line will be a fine baton twirling exhibition at 5 p. m. by Ruth "Sparky" Elchstedt of Kewaskum and 25 of her pupils large and small. This exhibition will last over an hour and you won't want to miss it because it's interesting entertainment. You'll especially like seeing the little tots do their stuff with the batons individually and in groups. Miss Elchstedt will also do solo twirling.

Here you may have time to grab some of those delicious bratwurst or hamburger sandwiches which you'll have to hurry because at 7 p. m. another big specialty act will take place. The act will feature Roberts & Company, doing a thrilling magic show. This is a real entertaining act and will last about a half hour.

Following the magic acts the evening concert by the Cedarburg band will get under way again. Foley & Foley will do their acts again for the night crowd and the National Comedy Quartette will do their stuff once more. With this lineup of special entertainment, there will be very little time between features. But during the short lulls in between acts records will be played over the Landvatter loud speaking system.

Besides all the above entertainment there will be rides of various kinds for the kiddies including real live ponies, games, amusements and refreshments of all sorts for old and young. All of the entertainment, parking and admission are free so come and spend a day of real fun in Kewaskum with the firemen.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL NOTES

We played our first game Thursday night, June 26, and we had to mark it down as a defeat. The game ended after six innings because it was growing too dark with a final score of Kewaskum 6, Fillmore 15. We had quite a few boosters and despite the fact that they contributed their share by giving us plenty of encouragement we just couldn't pull out of the rut we fell into at the beginning of the game. We hope to do better at our next game, which will be with Boltonville.

M. Bartelt, Sec'y.

MEN'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Bad Storm Causes Damage; Bay View Club Furnishes Program at Kiwanis Meet

In a severe storm shortly before midnight Saturday, terrific winds, driving rain and ferocious lightning and thunder caused widespread damage. Cows were killed by lightning and in other areas harrier hit barns were blown down, streets were flooded and thousands of phones and lights were out of order as poles and trees were uprooted.

Kewaskum was without electric service only a brief time. Some trees were uprooted and many branches torn loose. A large advertising sign on the front of the Kewaskum Chief hotel was torn loose from its rigging and blown into the street.

On the Albert Uelmen farm near St. Michaels 11 cows were killed by a bolt of lightning. The cattle were huddled under a tree for shelter when the bolt struck. Lightning also struck the Jac. Staehler residence at St. Michaels. The resulting fire was extinguished by the members of the family. The tents set up on the St. Michael's parish grounds for the picnic there Sunday were flattened in the twister.

Rainbow Team Shut Out by St. Michaels for 1st Loss

The league leading Kewaskum team in the Rainbow loop was handed its first defeat here Sunday morning by St. Michaels in a 2-9 shutout. Rinzel of the Saints and Backhaus looked up in a real mood duel in which Rinzel bested Backhaus because his teammates came through in the pinch with a couple of runs. Kewaskum had a couple of good scoring opportunities but couldn't produce with men on the bases. Rinzel was in his best form as he allowed only 3 hits. St. Michaels scored in the first and last innings.

On July 4th Kewaskum met the Batavia-Silvers on the home field and on Sunday they will play at home again with Sheboygan Falls coming here.

Hold West Bend Man for Kewaskum Theft

Miron W. Molter, 20, West Bend, has been linked to a burglary at Kewaskum and is being held in Fond du Lac county jail in default of $1,000 bond. Sheriff Ray Koth said last week.

Molter is alleged to have stolen $73.30 in cash from the home of Harold Schmidt just north of Kewaskum recently. Money found in the stolen car Molter left in West Bend last Monday was identified by Mrs. Schmidt as belonging to her.

Kewaskum police officer Edmund Haack took a plaster cast print of the burglar's footprint as further possible evidence. Washington county authorities are working with Fond du Lac authorities on how best to dispose of the case. It appears that Molter will first stand trial in Fond du Lac and if convicted will be brought to trial in this county after having completed his sentence.

Parole Board Officials of Madison

Parole board officials of Madison have been notified and are expected to begin proceedings for the revocation of Molter's parole. He was paroled from Waupun state prison less than a week before he became involved in two auto thefts and the local robbery.

Loop Leading Utensils Make It Six Straight

Those slugging Kewaskum Utensils did it again Sunday. We mean they won their sixth straight game without a defeat and now are two full games ahead in first place. Kewaskum's victim was the heavy hitting Waukega nine and the score was 9 to 4 in a contest played at Waukega. In a surprise upset Sunday the Campbellsport Belles were whipped by Belgium, 6-0, the Belles getting only 3 hits.

FOURTH OF JULY GAME

Kewaskum at Campbellsport Belles
Games This Sunday
No games scheduled. (All stars of northern and southern divisions will play each other in K-M field day game at Cascade.)

Waukega showed a good hitting club and a fine fielding infield, especially on first base. Their youthful catcher, Rose, played a real game and picked Kewaskum men off the bases like flies. Their weakest spot seemed to be in pitching. The Utensils touching young Sook for 16 hits. Although hit hard Sunday Sook has pitched some bang up games this season. Waukega nicked Marx for 8 hits. Both teams were hitting the apple and neither pitcher struck out many batters.

Waukega threw a scare into Kewaskum with 2 runs in the initial inning. The Utensils scored 1 in the second and trailed 3-1 until the fifth when they pushed over 4 runs. Kewaskum scored 2 more in each of the 7th and 8th for security. Waukega scored its final run in the 8th and threatened again in the 9th but failed to score.

That man Wayland Tassar, league leading hitter, went on a spree again, banging out a hit every time at bat. He batted 4 times and got 4 hits, including 2 doubles. Tassar to date has been up 27 times and has 17 hits for an amazing batting average of .530. Jerome Stautz and Kelly Honeck each drove out 3 hits in 5 tries. Honeck, a pitcher, converted to second base to strengthen that position, did all right in his first start there, handling all chances without a miss as well as getting 3 singles.

Nation May Be Embarking On Major 'Peacefare' Effort

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—It was a sizzling day in the capital. The town moved slowly like a lazy setter, stretching and hunting the shade. Even the trees were half asleep. The air pushed hard against your brow and cheeks. The asphalt yielded to one's foot-falls like brown grasses in a trodden field.

But we had to attend the regular press and radio conference of the secretary of state. Nature languished, but we knew the dispatch room was spluttering and sparking in sharp shudders with the news of an anguished world. America we sensed (but didn't understand quite how) was embarking on a colossal undertaking.

We walked down the air-cooled corridors of this new state department building which in wartime housed the brass hats of the high command. For those working for peace, it is a little depressing to pass those stark murals depicting war at its worst—or best, which is probably the same thing.

We were still interested in the implications of the statements on foreign policy. Each statement pulled a little wider the curtain on the theater which was neither a theater of war nor a theater of peace. Again and again the same came in the same darts. Efforts to pierce what we all felt was a screen concealing vistas much wider than the formal statements had yet revealed.

Was there a greater plan lying behind this program for aid to stricken countries—the program outlined by Secretary Marshall at Harvard? The question was asked although we knew that even if the secretary had a vision wider than ours, he could not reveal it—yet.

His answer, frank enough under the circumstances and not unexpected, was that if there was some further plan behind the one already revealed piecemeal, he was not going to talk about it.

He did reveal that Russia was not outside the pale of America's rehabilitation efforts—in theory at least. This was surprising to some who had read Marshall's and Ben Cohen's most recent statements, and yet not so surprising as we recalled the nature of other talks, not public, which had hinted at larger things.

In this a real effort to achieve a fair understanding with Russia? (Rapprochement is the diplomatic word.)

I am wondering whether those unspoken words of the secretary of state could possibly describe the immensity of America's task, the task which is envisioned in the plans which Secretary Marshall "would not talk about."

I say this because I have learned a new word which, it seems to me, might bear within it a vital, a hopeful concept. Like Hauptmann, in "The Sunken Bell" when he said: "Tear! All the gladness, all the sorrow of the world sparkles within it."

Think of the dynamic quality of other words: Fame—Riches—Fair Play—Charity—Honor!

Nothing like this has ever been attempted before. Nations have loaned money for the purpose of earning a neat dividend or to wring some political advantage from an imppecunious princeling or bankrupt government. Many fair promises and high sounding ideals have been written into covenants signed only to be broken when opportunism dictated a reverse English.

But here is something new and different. Something rather bright and idealistic has been added, what we hope is an honest effort to wage peace, to outroot the malice of the few, in the spirit of charity toward all.

It may be all eyewash, I know. I've seen a lot of castles fall. But my feeling is that if we get out of the scuffer's seat for a moment, if we drop the cynic pose and put peace into the national vocabulary, we may make it work.

Many fair promises and high sounding ideals have been written into covenants signed only to be broken when opportunism dictated a reverse English.

But here is something new and different. Something rather bright and idealistic has been added, what we hope is an honest effort to wage peace, to outroot the malice of the few, in the spirit of charity toward all.

It may be all eyewash, I know. I've seen a lot of castles fall. But my feeling is that if we get out of the scuffer's seat for a moment, if we drop the cynic pose and put peace into the national vocabulary, we may make it work.

Nothing like this has ever been attempted before. Nations have loaned money for the purpose of earning a neat dividend or to wring some political advantage from an imppecunious princeling or bankrupt government. New Farm Plan Studied; Fruit Crop Favorable

FARM CONTROLS: Opposition Grows

American Farm Bureau federation, powerful farm group which sponsored most of the agricultural legislation now in force, is considering recommendations for total abandonment of all farm price and crop controls by the government.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, said the board is not satisfied with the old AAA, established during President Roosevelt's first term. He revealed that a better agricultural program than the one the farmers now have is being sought. The AAA authorizes payments to farmers for reducing acreages in the basic crops of wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

Farmers from the North and Northwest have consistently opposed federal subsidies, and sentiment was reported to be growing among the producers for letting farm products seek their own price level as a permanent policy.

In the South, however, cotton and tobacco growers are known to be satisfied with the situation as it stands, favoring tight controls if prices start to slip.

One of the federation's economists predicted at least a 10-year period of good prices for farmers at levels slightly below those prevailing now.

Decision of the senate group was reached as the Very Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, a member of President Truman's universal military training commission, told a house committee that "the politburo in Moscow is not going to adjourn for the summer as its forces creep across Europe."

Father Walsh said that America is definitely on the Soviet agenda of conquest, and Russia will be ready to start her "shooting war" as soon as her atom bombs are in production.

TAX PLANS: To Think Over Congress has been presented with four tax-revision plans to think over until it gets ready to have another go at the income tax problem.

The treasury department has given the house ways and means committee studies of four plans to equalize federal income taxes on married couples in all 48 states.

One of the proposals would give 4,900,000 couples three-quarters of a billion dollars annually by giving those living in 38 states the same "income splitting" rights now enjoyed by couples living in 10 states which have community property laws.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder has indicated that the administration considers the proposed plans to be among the "right kind" of changes in the tax setup.

general assistance rolls increased 60 per cent between March, 1945, and March, 1947, the report declared. Unemployment benefits in New York City have increased ninefold, from 23,212 in August, 1945, to about 203,000 at the present time, it was asserted.

Total general relief caseload for the nation in February was 344,000 compared with 258,000 a year earlier. In a year general relief costs increased 97 per cent in Delaware, 90.8 per cent in Wyoming, 75.8 per cent in Ohio, 67 per cent in California and 55 per cent in Indiana, the report disclosed.

Kathleen Norris Says:

A Job for a Lonely Woman

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"I could be popular enough; one of those nicely-groomed, graying women who play bridge, keep appointments in beauty parlors, discuss servants, movies, styles."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

LEADERS NEEDED

An intelligent, well-off widow asks Miss Norris for some advice on choosing a really absorbing and useful career. She can afford to devote herself to practically anything she wishes. Part-time assistance to charity drives, community services and so on, are not sufficient to interest this vigorous, alert woman, who used to be in newspaper work.

Her daughter is married to a naval officer and now lives in Mexico. Except for two months a year, when Mrs. Lewis wants to visit her daughter, she has nothing to do. Of course, she writes, she could plunge into the useless social activity of bridge-playing and gossiping, but that doesn't interest her.

Miss Norris advises Mrs. Lewis to enter politics and to try to work herself up to a position dominant enough to wield some really constructive power. The years ahead are critical. Events that will shape the future for generations are just ahead. Women should take a hand, continues Miss Norris, and try to save what is best in our civilization.

Bridge and Gossip. "A merely social life would be quite possible, and I could be popular enough; one of those nicely-groomed graying women who play bridge," writes Charman. "Keep appointments in beauty parlors, discuss servants, movies, styles. Or I could marry again, but I somehow can't consider either way seriously. Jim and I had only seven months together, in all. But they're going to last me for life."

"I'd like to go back on the old newspaper. But at 44, rich, well-dressed, independent, that wouldn't work. You have to need a newspaper job to put up with the strain of it. I dabble in every drive, charity, project that comes up; Red Cross, cancer, tuberculosis, community chest, Russian, China, tornado relief. I buy tickets for everything. But all this leaves me profoundly unsatisfied. I know that if I plunged into something, even book-binding, language study, stamp collecting, I'd work my way out. But which shall it be? I must be free to visit Mary every year. Call that two months. What of the other ten?"

Enter Politics. We'll answer you by telling you what I'd do, if I were a whole generation younger, as you are, and had the means to do it. I'd go in for politics—and how! I think my own resentment of the encroaching years is that I was born just a little too late for it.

If ever the greatest country in the world needed honest servants, it is today. If ever we needed level heads in Washington, it is right now. Never the muddles that men have made of international affairs, labor problems, juvenile control, national policies were crying aloud for the touch of a woman's hand—firmly holding a maternal slipper—it is now. We want leaders, pitifully, cruelly, desperately. Perhaps you are one. Perhaps you can help put good men and women into office. No soldier at the front ever did his country a nobler service than you can, if you will.

The plunge into politics, for a woman, is apt to be a trifle grimy. The practical start is to watch the papers for announcement of a political meeting or rally and attend it. If delegated to some larger meeting are solicited, and they usually are, volunteer for that service. Get onto a committee, or head a delegation, and learn how simple the business of state management is, and begin to pull your weight as a privileged citizen of the greatest country the world ever has known.

Critical Times. And you younger women, you mothers of nursery-size children, you young nurses and teachers; how about you? Do you realize that the things that affect the next generation have moved out of the hands of Granny and Mommy and dear Teacher? That tremendous force are afoot whose action will affect us all, and perhaps undo what we've been building since the world-shaking days of Washington and Jefferson?

Just now and then, you young wives, go with Bill and Bob to a political meeting, read an occasional newspaper article, form an opinion. This will be a true service to America, a service without cost or sacrifice. It may save you in 10 years—in 20 years—from the bitter and terrible sacrifice that this joyous little nursery of yours would have to face in another war.

Plastic Tableware Is Tested by Army Preliminary tests of army tableware made of molded plastics indicate that these items have many advantages over chinaware dishes for military purposes. Eventually these dishes will probably be used in homes too.

Plastic bowls, cups and plates are undergoing tests at army hospitals, at Camp Lee, Va., and in a quartermaster-operated restaurant. Now the quartermaster corps is conducting research into plastic molding materials and processes in the search for products that will meet high military requirements. Plastic articles produced for civilian use often do not have sufficient impact strength and abrasion resistance, the low water absorption, ruggedness, and resistance to extremely high and low temperatures needed in military items. The army hopes, with cooperation of the plastics industry, to develop materials for use in such items as buttons, sunglass frames, waterbag faucets, crash helmets and tableware.

During the war the quartermaster corps developed a six-compartment plastic dinner tray which employed new developments in molding materials. The tray proved to be superior to the metal tray in that it presented a better appearance, was easy to clean and did not absorb heat as readily as the metal tray.

Other problems in the study of plastics for army use include impregnated and coated items, low-pressure methods for molding such articles as helmets, and the development of nylon molding materials as substitutes for leather.

Housewives Combat High Living Cost by Thrifty Tricks For quick results and practical economy, nobody can hold a candle to Mrs. America and her daily bout with today's high prices.

When the bones are laid bare on Sunday's roast and all meat scraps salvaged for Monday's stew, pop the beef, ham or chicken bones in a pot of water, cover and boil slowly and long for meat-stretching gravy stock or leftover-vegetable-user, soup stock. When it comes to Monday's wash, even the bulging laundry bag has a few saving graces.

She sorts laundry into progressive divisions of dirtiness. First, fragile light-colored things; next, towels and table linens; and last, muddy play and work clothes. Then she soaks white laundry and super-soiled things separately overnight. Monday morning she hangs out a procession of cleanly sudsed duds, beginning with the fragile and not-so-soiled, and ending with the grimy soaked-over-nighters.

THE FICTION CORNER

THIRD STRIKE CALLED!

By JACK KOFOED

THE sun slanted into the bull pen where High Pockets Kelley was warming up, and caused beads of perspiration to stipple his brick-colored forehead like raindrops.

"Something always happens to me," Kelley said, "and it is seldom anything to write home about. As far back as I can remember, I have been the unluckiest guy in the world. When I was only seven years old, I met Sally Ryall. . . ."

"If you call that 'bad luck,'" snorted Pete Howard, "get me a load of it."

High Pockets put an extra little zip on his fast ball. "That's right but you only got the start of it," he said.

"Where're you from?" "Ishpeming, Michigan, and a lot of huses out there have board fences along the back yard. I tried to make a hit with Sally by walkin' on one of them and fell off and busted a couple of ribs. When I got my first job in the Northern Michigan League, she came to see me work. I tore a nail off a finger of my pitcher's hand and they knocked me out of the box in two innings. But that wasn't the worst of it. We had signed a new first baseman named Frederick Longstreth McGee. . . ."

High Pockets banged the ball viciously into his glove. "Yeah, but look what luck does to me. Fred wasn't supposed to report until the next day, but he's just dumb enough to get his dates mixed and showed up in time to meet Sally. What's Clark Gable got that he hadn't got? Not a thing. And me six-foot-four, and with a pan that stopped practically every clock in Ishpeming."

"So you lost Sally to him, eh?" "Not yet. If my luck in love is as bad as it is in everything else, I probably will. When we came up to the majors, McGee was signed by the Giants. Five minutes after he put on the slidin' pads, Smith's legs went bad, and there was McGee the regular first baseman. The Yankees took me and all I had to beat out for a job were Jones, Pearson, Talbot and Wirtz."

"You complain too much," said Pete. "Look at me. That Connelly will go on catching till I've got a beard way down to here. All I get to do is warming up these bums."

High Pockets considered that unimportant. He had his own troubles. "Sally talks that way, too. She works for a psychiatrist named Golenpaul, and he says I'm obsessed by the belief that luck is the dominant factor in my career. Well, ain't it? Lookit this series now. Here we come to the last game, and every pitcher on the staff except McKeever and me is as healthy as if they had the cholera. And what happens? Slat's makes 'em eat out of his hand while I'm here in the bull pen. The boss is wavin' for you, Luck!"

Howard laughed, but there was no mirth in it. "If you gab less and look more, maybe you wouldn't feel that way. McKeever's lost his stuff. Moe's singled and Wilson walked and there's Lake at the plate now. If he gets a piece of one, goodbye ball game! Uh-huh, he walked, too. And the boss is wavin' for you."

Kelley stuffed his glove in his hip pocket and pulled his cap further down over his sunburned forehead. "Good luck," he echoed scornfully. "If I strike out the side, I'll bet Connelly misses the last pitch and the winning runs come over."

McKeever was still waiting at the pitcher's box with all the infielders around him when Kelley shuffled up. "Somebody's makin' an awful mistake," said High Pockets. "Lesner knows how unlucky I am. Does he want to lose this series?"

Slat's glared at him. "If the rest of the staff wasn't on the waitin' list of the hospital for joint diseases, you wouldn't even be here. Forget that luck stuff. It's not as important as the hop on your fast one."

"That's what you think," Kelley said. "But I'll take a double order o' luck. My girl says there ain't any. Laugh that off. And for a real break—Frederick Longstreth McGee is battin' next. What a guy! He could trip over a cat and fall into a gold mine. This sure is a spot for a guy who ain't pitched much more this season than Shirley Temple has. McKeever's gaunt, red face expressed the deepest disgust.

"Well, you better come outta this game with somethin' better than a bad luck alibi, or New York won't be big enough to hold the two of us."

He turned on his heel and strode back to the bench. The infielders took their positions and High Pockets stood in the middle of the diamond with the ball in his hand and remembered how he had fallen off the fence and how those Northern Michigan fellows had pinned back his ears, and knew in his heart that he wasn't lucky enough to get one past McGee.

He better, though—if he failed he could not excuse himself to Sally. She wouldn't listen to that bad luck stuff any more. She would say he was given the greatest break of his life and had not been man enough to take advantage of it. Besides, High Pockets felt that if he let McGee hit, he'd be delivering groceries for old man Hemingway back in Ishpeming next Summer instead of drawing salary checks from the Yankees.

Connelly was signaling, Kelley didn't know what the catcher was calling for. A curve? A fast ball? A dippy do? What did it matter, anyway? Whatever he threw, McGee was going to hit.

"What happened?" he asked, dazedly.

The plate umpire took off his mask and bellowed, "If you can't look yourself out of that trance, Kelley, how about working at your trade? I don't want to stay here through the whole football season!"

Well, there wasn't anything else to do. Then High Pockets wound up, his mind on Sally. . . . and bad luck. . . . and the instant the ball left the tip of his fingers he knew it didn't have anything on it but the stitches, and it was straight as a ruler and big as a balloon. He saw McGee pull back his club. . . . and then there was a whack of wood against leather. . . . and that was all he remembered.

High Pockets woke up in a nice clean hospital bed with a nurse taking a thermometer out of his mouth. Pete Howard stood nearby. "The doc says you're all right," said Pete. "It's lucky you got a head like a wrestler, or they'd be tuning up the harps for you now."

High Pockets twisted his neck. There was a little ache in the back of his skull, but not much. "What happened?" he asked. Howard seemed embarrassed. "Well, McGee hit a line drive that bounced off your noggin into Stone's hands and you made a triple play unassisted."

Kelley sat straight up in bed. "Holy Moses! The first break I ever had in my life, and we win the World Series with it! I'll never crab any more. Wait till I see Sally!"

"I wouldn't bother, if I were you," Pete said, moving toward the door. "Women are awfully funny. Sally said nobody ever got a worse break in luck than Fred McGee, and before she marries him she's going to tell Dr. Golenpaul he doesn't know what he's talkin' about."

"I owe everything I've done to some advice I got from an old friend I had admired from childhood," he told me when I asked him to outline his method. He told me to make believe that I had just six months more to live, just six months more. It was June when I saw him. 'Just pretend you won't be here January 1,' he advised. Then he said, 'In that case, what would you do with those remaining six months?' I thought for a moment, for I hadn't even been asked a question as portentous as that. Then I told him: 'Why, believe me, I'd live! I'd crowd as much into those six months as I possibly could!'

It gave him a new life really! What a wonderful thing it would be for everyone if he or she could imagine the same thing and try living a full and complete life for just six months. Why no one would ever be content to live a less happy, less complete, less full life!

For some reason this headache has been overlooked by many scientists who make a study of various kinds of headaches and their causes. Dr. Chor reported that injections of salt solution into the muscles will bring on pain in the head and scalp. The treatment recommended, fortunately, is satisfactory and simple. Massage and salicylates, best known to the layman as aspirin, give very good results. Many have been treating for this type of headache without knowing its name.

Veterans Service Bureau

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct, but they will appear in this column regularly.

Quick Action Necessary Veterans' administration has issued a warning to all G.I.s who intend to enter school next fall under the G.I. bill to arrange immediately for entrance into the schools of their choice if they have not already done so.

VA forecasts another peak registration, with indications pointing to a considerable increase over the present 1,200,000 enrollment. Veterans who wait until the last minute are running the chance of being shut out. VA also advises veterans who plan to start their educational training next fall to apply at once for their certificates of eligibility. This certificate, when accepted by the school, becomes the basis for payment to the school of the veteran's tuition, fees and supplies, and the subsistence allowance to the veteran. They may be obtained by writing or visiting any regional or sub-regional VA office.

Questions and Answers Q. I read in one of your recent columns that there are 18,188,900 veterans. Can you tell me whether or not this is the peak number of veterans and how the number of veterans and their families compare to total population of the country?—A. A. S. Hampton Roads, Va.

No, this is not the peak, since there are still men in the armed services who will be counted as veterans of World War II when released. Veterans' administration says that on January 1, 1947, the veteran-family population of the country comprised 32 per cent of the total population. They estimated this ratio would increase to 43 per cent January 1, 1952, and to 41 per cent in 1957. VA defines a veteran's family as a family unit living together and headed by a veteran. It may include a wife, children, parents and relatives by blood, marriage or adoption. On this basis, VA estimates veteran-family population January 1, 1947, at 46,000,000; January 1, 1952, 62,300,000, and January 1, 1957, at 62,500,000.

Q. My son, who is in the army and who is overseas, now wants to know when the G.I.s get their bonus and how much will it be. He was in during the war then reenlisted for two years.—Mrs. O. H. G. Hamilton, Ala.

A. Congress has not as yet provided a bonus for veterans of World War II.

Q. My husband's physical condition when honorably discharged was below M.R.I-9. Could you tell me what that military regulation means?—G. M. C., Ft. Supply, Okla.

A. The letters and figures "M.R. 1-9" merely refer to mobilization regulation of that number and refer to certain standards of physical condition required for entrance into the army.

Q. Will we be able to cash our terminal leave bonds this year? We have been hearing a lot about it, but no one knows for sure, it seems. Can you give us the straight dope?—O. L. S., New Albany, Ind.

A. As of June 1, congress had not passed a law providing for cash payments of terminal leave bonds. Whether the law will be passed before adjournment, scheduled for the last of July, is a pure guess.

Q. I read in this column some time ago that the government had a pamphlet telling the rights of veterans. I jotted down the address at the time, but have mistaid it. Can you repeat the title and address for me?—S. R., Keego Harbor, Mich.

A. The name is Public Document 682, entitled "Servicemen's Rights and Benefits." Write to Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., and enclose five cents.

Q. Is violation of the 83rd article of war subject to court-martial?—Mrs. W. A. B., Piqua, Ohio.

A. It would depend upon the degree or nature of the violation. The article of war covers wrongful disposal, loss or damage to government property and provides that the loss shall be made good in addition to punishment.

Q. Our son is expected to be discharged from the army in August of this year. We already have inquired at our state university and they tell us they already have more G.I.s taking educational training under the G.I. bill than they have facilities to handle. What do you suggest that we do in order to get our boy into the state university?—Mrs. J. A. K., Hutchinson, Kas.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO Released by Western Newspaper Union.

BY INEZ GERHARD LIFE'S always been full of surprises for Marian Shockley, who's "Carol Brent" on NBC's "Road of Life." She planned to be a history teacher, but a job in a stock company bobbed up as she was finishing her studies at the University of Missouri and she took it. Later, an artist who painted her portrait introduced her to a Theater Guild official—result, parts in two Broadway productions. She helped a friend make a recording for a radio show, by impersonating Judy Garland; Phil Baker promptly engaged her to impersonate Katharine Hepburn on his show, and there she was, in radio. Her husband, "Bud" Collyer, announces "Road of Life."

Kent Smith will be the American narrator in RKO's documentary, "Hirohito's Children." Charlie Young, "the man with 1,000 voices," will be the Japanese narrator. The picture was assembled from confiscated Japanese films.

The cast of "The Gunfighters" finally broke down the resistance of Deputy Sheriff William Steele of Coconino County, Ariz., and talked him into playing a small part in the picture. But the company, headed by Randolph Scott, Bruce Cabot, Dorothy Hart and Barbara Britton worked on him for nearly a month before he finally gave in and turned actor.

For "The Foxes of Harrow" eight technical advisers were engaged to coach Rex Harrison. He had instructors for the card sharp scenes, fencing, jumping horses, dancing, singing, French and Irish dialects, and jiu-jitsu!

Besides the usual quota of first aid men on the job during the shooting of battle scenes for "The Man from Colorado," starring Glenn Ford, William Holden and Ellen Drew, five veterinarians were on hand, to care for the hundreds of horses.

If you remember "Grass" and "King Kong" you'll know what to expect from Arko, Inc., a new company formed by Merian C. Cooper, who produced them, and John Ford. They say they'll make unusual adventure pictures.

Peter Lind Hayes came back to New York for the first time since his sensational debut at the Copacabana last May, this time to make scenes for his first starring picture for Universal-International, "The Senator Was Indiscreet." He also discussed plans for the coming Broadway musical, "Cross Town," in which he'll co-star with his actress wife, Mary Healy.

When Jean Hersholt, "Dr. Christian," finishes translating the works of Hans Christian Anderson, he plans to write his autobiography, based on the diary he's been keeping since he first arrived in Hollywood, in 1913. He's seen a lot of things happen in those 34 years; it should make interesting reading. He'll illustrate the book with pen and ink sketches.

A group of William Bendix fans in Brooklyn have started a movement to have the "Where There's a Will" star named as "Mr. Brooklyn," on the ground that he best represents the characteristics of Brooklyn citizens. He's not a Brooklynite!

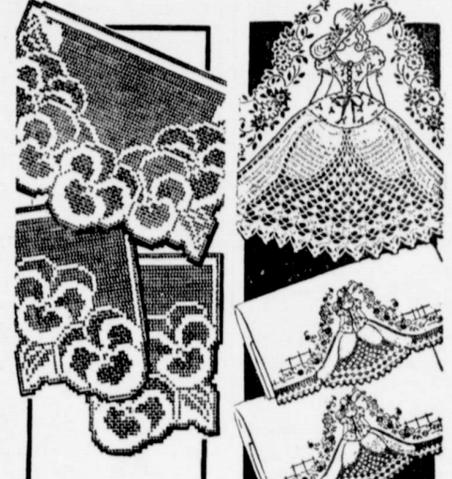

Robert Young denies that this is a man's world. He works in "Three Were Thoroughbreds" at Columbia, then goes home to nine women—his wife, four daughters, a housekeeper and a cook; says he can't get a word in edgewise.

ODDS AND ENDS—Paulena Carter, Meredith Willson's featured star on the air, has signed a 20th Century-Fox contract. . . . Tommy Bartlett, of the new air show, "Welcome Travelers," which started June 30, is known in the Midwest as "the housewife's Van Johnson." . . . Irene Dunne breaks a musical silence of six years in "I Remember Mama," to sing an old Scandinavian lullaby, in Norwegian. . . . Dick Jones, the third "Henry" on "The Aldrich Family," is out of the service, has just finished high school, and will probably be heard on the air soon, from Hollywood.

Signe Hasso, who co-stars with Dick Powell in Columbia's "Assigned to Treasury," is one star who can walk through Hollywood without being recognized. She's auburn-haired, but has always worn a blonde wig in pictures.

Up to now Harold Peary's been very secretive about it, but friends of NBC's "The Great Gildersleeve" say that he'll be married this summer, to Gloria Halliday, formerly of the CBS Hollywood studios.

'Indurative' Headache Is Latest Worry of Mankind Not a new headache, but one with a new name, is the "indurative" headache. It has a hard name and is hard on the patient, but it has one good feature, it responds to simple treatments. Dr. Herman Chor reported to the American College of Physicians. Few physicians are likely to recognize the name "indurative," but will recognize the malady under the Suppose You Had Six Months More He handicapped himself all his life because all his life he had been on the wrong side of the fence in his thinking. In other words, he was negative in his thoughts and in his outlook on life, rather than positive. A person like that can't be very successful or happy, as you, very well know.

And he wasn't young—he was past forty. And yet I watched a miracle happen, in that man's life, watched him transform from a man who was negative about everything into one who was positive about everything.

"I owe everything I've done to some advice I got from an old friend I had admired from childhood," he told me when I asked him to outline his method. He told me to make believe that I had just six months more to live, just six months more. It was June when I saw him. 'Just pretend you won't be here January 1,' he advised. Then he said, 'In that case, what would you do with those remaining six months?' I thought for a moment, for I hadn't even been asked a question as portentous as that. Then I told him: 'Why, believe me, I'd live! I'd crowd as much into those six months as I possibly could!'

It gave him a new life really! What a wonderful thing it would be for everyone if he or she could imagine the same thing and try living a full and complete life for just six months. Why no one would ever be content to live a less happy, less complete, less full life!

For some reason this headache has been overlooked by many scientists who make a study of various kinds of headaches and their causes. Dr. Chor reported that injections of salt solution into the muscles will bring on pain in the head and scalp. The treatment recommended, fortunately, is satisfactory and simple. Massage and salicylates, best known to the layman as aspirin, give very good results. Many have been treating for this type of headache without knowing its name.

When is a Telephone

When the COST of Providing Telephone Service is Compared with the COST of Filling the Market Basket

Every Wisconsin homemaker realizes the cost of living has gone up each time she buys the food to fill her market basket. So too, we find the cost of providing telephone service has gone up each time we install a telephone or handle a call.

Our income is larger from the increased number of telephone customers but falls far short of meeting the tremendous rise in operating costs—due to wages and prices. If we are to serve you efficiently—we must operate on a paying basis. This is the fair way, the American way. We know you will

Vets Surmount New Hurdles To Succeed in Farm Venture

It's Another War, a Continual One— But Ex-G.I.s, Even Disabled, Still Win

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—It's still a war—a war against drought, insect pests, labor shortages, scarcity of materials and, most of all, lack of credit—but young men of the nation, returning from World War II to wrest their living from the soil, have utilized the same courage and determination they displayed on the battlefields to make a success of their farming venture.

In the field of credit, which has proved a perplexing problem to many would-be farmers, Farmers Home administration, a new and little publicized federal agency, has enabled many returning war veterans, even disabled men, to realize their dreams. Thousands of veterans have utilized this source of credit for funds to buy a farm or to rent and operate one.

Created out of a merger of the old Farm Security administration and the emergency crop and feed loan division of Farm Credit administration, the new Farmers Home administration grants loans under provisions of the old Bankhead-Jones act and the farm tenant rehabilitation act.

Liberal Terms.
Loans, which are limited to $12,000, extend up to 40 years and bear interest at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent. To assist in administering the program, FHA has agents in more than 2,000 agricultural counties scattered throughout the country.

Making this form of loan particularly applicable to thousands of returning war veterans is a clause in the law to the effect that loans will be made only to those unable to obtain credit from other regular credit agencies. For instance, if a veteran has been turned down at other farm lending agencies, at his local bank or on application for a G.I. loan, he still can go to Farmers

Home administration and get credit at more liberal terms.

As to the disabled war veteran who might be turned down for a farm loan at other agencies, Farmers Home administration waives the requirement that the disabled veteran's farm "must be judged an efficient family-type farm management unit." The disabled veteran has to show only that his farm is large enough to "match his farming abilities," that he will devote most of his time to farming and that he will get his principal income, other than his pension, from farming.

For most veterans returning from the war, last fall's harvest season was the first harvest since their FFA loan, and according to reports gathered by FFA headquarters in Washington, thousands of these veterans have justified their government's faith in them.

These reports contain many a human interest story... the story of young men facing life for the first time, refused credit at other credit agencies and then going to the local FFA agent and being granted the few thousands of dollars which meant the difference between a well-ordered life with a home and family or being a drug upon society and depending upon a government pension.

Story of Courage.
For instance, there is Euell Blackwell of Portersville, Ala. This veteran came back from the war and battle action in Germany with a paralyzed leg. He had been a sharecropper before going into the service. The pain from his leg was terrific. He also had a stomach ailment and Veterans' administration doctors prescribed a soft food diet for him. However, with the determination typical of many veterans, he bought an 80-acre farm on an FFA loan and put in his first crop, which he says was "made on milk and crackers." But he reaped 12 bales of cotton, as well as 700 bushels of corn, two acres of truck crops and eight tons of hay. He also has started building up a dairy herd, purchasing nine head of cattle.

Perseverance Pays.
Then there is tall, lanky Bill Werner, who came home from the war with four battle stars, a French Croix de Guerre, a good conduct ribbon and with his mind made up to be a farmer. He exhausted every avenue of credit until he went to FFA. Now Bill has a 160-acre farm in the sugar beet country near Merino, Colo.

Werner bumped into the same problem encountered by many farmers, namely shortage of labor. But Bill had been up against tougher propositions while wearing Uncle Sam's khaki, so instead of letting it stump him, he joined with several neighbors to buy a mechanical puller, a big new labor-saver in beet farming. Then a hailstorm struck his crop. It reduced the yield, but he still took 185 tons of beets off 15 acres last fall.

For several months, whole milk from eight head of cows has been going to market from the Werner farm, and he grew plenty of alfalfa, corn and other feeds with a surplus for sale. Altogether the veteran will take in more than $5,000 from his farming venture his first year. Teamwork counts on the farm as in the army, for Bill's wife, Pauline, is caring for a flock of 300 hens and has redecorated the interior of their farm home.

Needs Little Space.
Then there is Andy Sinclair who landed with the troops at Normandy on D-Day. Andy didn't have much room to operate as his outfit clung to the cliffs on that fateful day. Neither has he much room on his four-acre farm near Vineland, N. J., but they are four triple-cropped, irrigated acres for high pressure truck farming and Andy took out $4,000 in specialized cash crops last year.

There are thousands of others who are making good on farms purchased with an FFA loan or operated with an FFA operating loan. Among the latter is John Jennings, operating as a tenant farmer near Wiggins, Colo. He used his operating loan to purchase equipment he needed to plant and harvest sugar beets, beans and potatoes along with a good corn crop.

TEAMWORK COUNTS . . . Bill Werner, World War II combat veteran, and his wife, Pauline, find that teamwork counts for a great deal in farming.

Unnamed Mountains Get Cognomens

RALEIGH, N. C.—The last two unnamed mountains of the Appalachian range now are officially Mt. Craig and Big Tom, following a decision of the federal board on geographical names to accept recommendations made by Gov. R. Gregg Cherry and other North Carolinians.

And they are not little-bitty peanut mountains, either—as any flatlander will tell you after he has climbed them. Mt. Craig is the second highest mountain in eastern America—soaring 6,645 feet and topped only by its near neighbor, lordly Mt. Mitchell (6,684). Big Tom is 6,558 feet high.

The two mountains, twin peaks in the Black mountains just east of Asheville, had been known merely as the Black Brothers, but this was considered pretty insipid nomenclature for such sizeable mounds. The Black mountain range is so cluttered with high mountains that geographers had paid scant attention to the two peaks until recent surveys revealed their superior heights.

Naming of the higher south fork for the late Gov. Locke Craig was prompted by his well-known love of the mountains. Craig was governor of the state from the beginning of the "model-T era" in 1913 when North Carolinians or the first time had travel means to reach their magnificent mountain scenic treasures, to 1917 when only the emergency of World War I forced the transformed mountaineer to give up his plans to open "every cove of the Mitchell country to every Tar Heel." Just that, by the way, had been accomplished, almost to the letter of Craig's plans when World War II came along.

But designation of the north fork as Big Tom was merely official endorsement of a name which has endured locally for half a century. It was named for Tom Wilson, most famous bear-hunter the South ever had and a man of such prodigious feats that none of his contemporaries ever thought of him without prefixing "Big."

Unlike the Bunyan of the northwoods, Big Tom's woodsmanship was real. With axe and gun and hoe he carved out a pioneer's empire in

NO LONGER MINUS NAMES . . . Twin peaks in the Black mountains of North Carolina, long ranking as the last two unnamed mountains of the Appalachian range, now are officially Mount Craig (right) and Big Tom (left).

Officials Ask Service, Even in Restaurants

DES MOINES, IOWA.—Perhaps fed up with the way food is dished out by waitresses in Iowa restaurants, state officials have instituted a waitress training school. Mrs. Jean Farr, food expert, has been appointed as a traveling teacher who will offer classes to restaurant and hotel waitresses. The project is being managed by the board of vocational education.

Elderly Carpenter Makes Fine Violins

BADGER, IOWA.—A carpenter by trade, Carsten M. Bendix, local octogenarian, has turned his skill to odd use during his free time. Despite his 80 years, Bendix still pursues his crafty hobby of making violins. During the past 50 years, he has made 50 of the delicate instruments and he shaped his first violin as a boy of 12 while still living in his native Norway.

Exploit of Old West Was Financial Flop

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Long regarded as one of the most colorful of western exploits, the Pony Express was a financial flop. Advent of the overland telegraph doomed the express after 16 months of operation. Before it went broke, the Pony Express used nearly 500 horses and employed more than 200 men in transporting mail from St. Joseph, Mo., to California.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Creamed Tuna in Potato Nests!
(See Recipes Below)

First Aid for Lunch
"If only I had a good list of main dishes and desserts for company luncheons," said a friend of mine recently, "but it always seems I get stuck with things and can't think about something the girls really like."

A good solution for the above problem is to keep a card file of complete menus for such occasions. Be certain to try out the foods before the company date comes along so you will be thoroughly familiar with the preparation, and then everything will run smoothly.

If you don't want to plan the menu completely, then select just the main dish and fill in the salad and vegetable with whatever is in season.

Tuna à la King in Potato Nests.
(Serves 6)

2 cups milk
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups canned tuna fish
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 cup tiny mushroom caps
Scald milk in double boiler. Make a paste of the melted butter and flour and add to hot milk, stirring until thick and smooth. Add seasonings and cook 15 minutes. Flake tuna fish into large pieces and mix with white sauce. Add pimiento and mushrooms.

Potato Nests: Peel 4 medium-sized potatoes. Cut into tiny strips lengthwise. Heat in a small amount of fat but do not brown. Remove from fat, sprinkle with salt and arrange in nests inside large muffin tins. Press potatoes firmly against sides of pan and bottom. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 15 minutes. Serve hot tuna fish mixture in crisp, hot potato nests.

Lattice Rhubarb Pie.
Pastry
2 cups cut up rhubarb
Flour
1 cup sugar

Line pie pan with pastry. Wash and peel rhubarb; cut in small pieces. Flour pieces until they are quite white, then add sugar. Mix well and place in pastry-lined tin. Cover with lattice strips of crusts and bake in a 450-degree oven for 10 minutes, then in a 425-degree oven for 30 minutes.

A combination of yellow and green is attractive for working into a luncheon combination, especially when it involves favorites like chicken and lime chiffon pie!

Chicken Loaf with Mushroom Sauce.
(Serves 6)

2 cups diced, cooked chicken
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/4 cup chopped, cooked celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or chicken fat

Combine ingredients, mixing well

LYNN SAYS:
Serve Meat in Ways That Tempt
Make appetizing luncheons out of leftover scalloped dishes by adding pieces of leftover meat to them. Fork with corn, beef with green beans, lamb with tomatoes, etc., are all good appetites satisfiers.

Veal à la King takes on special glamour if it's dressed up with slivered almonds and mushrooms. This may be served in patty shells or a noodle ring.

If you want to have a hearty sandwich in the lunch box, and one that is appetizing and different, too, split and butter corn bread and wrap it in waxed paper. With the corn bread goes some crisply fried bacon wrapped separately in some more waxed paper.

When the young fry want to have a party or a picnic of their own—and to do their own cooking out over the coals—prepare hamburger patties and set them between pieces of waxed paper. In this way they will be ready to use when appetites yell for food.

TO MAKE BREAD CRUMBS FLAVORFUL for use as toppings, grind them fine and brown them in meat drippings.

When you're serving roast pork or pork chops with dressing, add that special touch to the dressing by using a few chopped spinach leaves.

When making biscuits, do something different and roll the dough out in a rectangle; spread with orange marmalade and roll as for jelly roll. Cut and baked slices in oiled pan for pinwheel biscuits.

Families enjoy pork sausage when it's served to them in this way: Peel small bananas, or use medium sized ones cut in half. Dip in lemon juice and fry in sausage drippings. Serve at once, hot, with the crisply fried links.

It's easy to make crisply lamb from the leftover roast. The meat is simply cut in small cubes or slivers. The gravy is heated with curry powder and meat added. Serve this with boiled fluffy rice.

For something different that is nutritious and tasty, try baked sweetbreads and Parmesan cheese.

Hotel Fires
At least 200 persons have been killed in U. S. hotel fires in the past six months, more than one-fourth of the total 789 hotel fire deaths in both the U. S. and Canada since 1858. In addition to the Chicago and Atlanta holocausts, hotel fires since June have taken death tolls in Albuquerque, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Saskatoon, Sask., and other cities.

Prosperous Year
According to a Twentieth Century fund report, 1941 was unquestionably our most prosperous prewar year. Gross national product rose by more than 23 billion dollars over 1940 to nearly 121 billion dollars in 1941; corporate savings were more than twice as large as in 1940; and personal savings of 14 billion dollars were almost double the 1940 volume.

Hotter Fire
Softwoods from cone-bearing trees make a quicker and hotter fire but also a shorter-lasting fire than hardwoods. The lighter hardwoods make a hotter and shorter-lasting fire than the heavier hardwoods. Woods that give the most heat for their weight are—oak, hickory, sweet birch, hard maple, rock elm, locust and longleaf pine.

Aids Defrosting
To speed up the defrosting of your refrigerator, fill ice trays in the freezing compartment with hot water. Turn the control knob to "off" and close the refrigerator. In about 15 minutes the ice will scale off and the unit will be ready to reset for freezing.

Rural Roads
A report on multi-laned highways in 1943 showed that only 6 per cent of our primary rural highways had more than two lanes, and of the 20,879 miles in this class, 14,661 were 3-laned, a type condemned as dangerous by safety engineers.

Hardy Ramblers
As the name indicates, hardy rambler roses are resistant to frost injury. They bloom one time during the summer and because the canes grow to extreme lengths, they are good for trellis and wall decoration.

Indian Superstition
American Indians believed that if a father, near the time of the birth of his child, was careless in his meat diet, the child would suffer and inherit the physical faults and peculiarities of the animals eaten.

Battle of Isms
FASCISM is as evil or more so than communism. We have only recently concluded a war against the evils of fascism. Remember? Fascism usually develops among the strong and powerful, communism among the weak and underprivileged. And democracy is a way of life which would prevent the foment of either fascism or communism by leveling the peaks and depressions of either privilege or underprivilege. With the hue and cry against communism in this congress and elsewhere in the nation, it is well to see what fascism is doing in the meantime. Monopoly is fascism in action. It is steadily gaining ground in this country and nothing is being done to curb it. Development of monopolistic cartels was a Hitler practice.

The program to divide the farmer and the city worker is fascism in action—the old Hitler theory of divide and conquer. The trend to weaken or destroy labor unions in the guise of correcting some labor abuses is fascism, one of Hitler's first steps in coming to power in Germany.

On several fronts the trend toward fascism is evident while the people are blinded by the waving of flags and the thunder of oratory against communism. Remember, both are equally evil in any form.

Street Scene
A large florid-faced man wearing black hat and string bow tie apologetically proffered three cents and a five dollar bill to a bus driver. "Think I can change a five spot?" snapped the bus driver. The passenger looked up and down the bus. Other passengers looked away. A little white haired lady fumbled in her purse and proffered a dime. The florid-faced man reluctantly took it and paid his fare. Tipping his hat, he said, "If you get up to the capitol, look me up. I'm Senator McKellar."

Retail meat prices soar above black market prices during the control days—and the department of agriculture says middle of June production was 217 million pounds above days when OPA went out the window. Yet congress is determined to end rent controls. Do we forget, or is it stubbornly intentional?

Fertilizer propaganda. Use more fertilizer to live longer. Dr. Firman E. Bear of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station told the American Plant Food council convention at Little Rock that fertilizer increases life expectancy. "Figures show that in proportion as our fertilizer tonnage is increased so has our life expectancy," said Dr. Bear.

Struts 'Sitting Down'
IN THE PAST we have been pleased to laud the statesmanship of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. Many here don't like Vandenberg. They say he is stuffy. One cynical member of the press gallery describes him as a man "able to strut sitting down." He is becoming irritable over the load he carries. He is charged with having opposed appointment of Mark Ethridge, conscious publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, to head the Greek mission because the President did not consult him beforehand. Now he is being charged with holding up appointment of Francis Biddle, former able attorney general, as American member of the United Nations Social and Economic council for the same reason. The nomination was made by the President last January. No action. When asked for the reason Vandenberg said, "Action on Biddle is not one of the supreme dedications of my life." Is that "strutting sitting down"?

Big Guns Obsolete
The day of the coast artillery's big guns is past. War department spokesmen have acknowledged that the coast artillery is almost as obsolete as the horse cavalry and may be abandoned as soon as guided missiles are perfected by modern science. Testimony on the armed forces unification bill credited Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of army ground forces, with the assertion that the giant guns "had not fired a shell in 50 years" and had cost about one billion dollars.

General Devers' statement, however, apparently referred only to continental United States (although many shells were fired in target practice much to the annoyance of housewives). The coast artillerymen at opening of World War II went down in glory at Corregidor, island guardian of Manila harbor, in perhaps the last battle of the coast artillery corps as such. The Japanese failed to knock out any of the long rifles while they were in action, most of them being destroyed by our own gunners after they had run out of ammunition.

HOW IT STARTED
COCK AND BULL STORY—The expression originated from two famous English coaching inns called the Cock and the Bull, at Fenny Stratford in Buckinghamshire. So many false tales and rumors came from there, hence the expression.
KICKING THE BUCKET—This expression, as applied to dying, is said to have originated from the suicide of a man who stood upon a bucket while he adjusted a noose to his neck and then kicked the bucket from under himself.
NOT GIVING A RAP—A rap is a small English coin of little value, hence "not giving a rap" means having little or no concern.

A quick way to cool boiled starch so it leaves no scum is to pour it over ice cubes.
