Centennial Theme to Feature County Fair

The annual Washington county 4-H club fair is planned for July 29 through Aug. 1, Thursday through Sunday, at the fair grounds at Slinger. The fair this year will feature enlarged industrial, farm, and home exhibits plus special centennial features and entertainment attractions.

Exhibits on the grounds will be housed in the main exhibition building and in a dozen or so tents. A total of more than $4,000 in premiums will be awarded this year. The evening attractions are expected to cost over $1,500.

The state's centennial will be fittingly observed in this year's fair. Club members of county 4-H units will stage a centennial pageant on Friday and Sunday evenings in addition to the regular evening programs. Premiums will be awarded for special centennial exhibits, such as the oldest wedding gown, the oldest dress, the oldest piece of small household or small farm equipment, and many others.

The sponsors of the fair wish to emphasize that the celebration is free to all. There are no admission or parking charges on the grounds. They point out further that competition is not limited to 4-H'ers. The only exception to this is the livestock exhibition which is restricted to the 4-H clubs, FFA, and Junior Farmers because of limited barn space. All other premium contests are open to any resident of the county.

The fair is under the supervision of a county board committee. They are Harvey Dettmann, Random Lake; Adolph Lofy, Hubertus; and Emil Gauger, West Bend.

Premium books and other information may be obtained from the fair secretary and Washington county's agricultural agent, E. E. Skalsky, West Bend. The county board is co-sponsoring the fair, as in the past, with a money grant to the fair's finances. The amount is $1,500. Other revenues to pay for the fair's expenses come from profits on concessions and rides at the fair.

During past years, the fair has been the largest and most popular attended affair of its kind in the state and has been complimented for its administrative organization and exhibits.

In addition to home and farm exhibits, there will be a large industrial display. Space for these exhibits has been completely subscribed for in advance.

Farm machinery dealers who will be present in the industrial section of the show include West Bend Motor Company, Ford agent, West Bend; Weiss Hardware and Farm Machinery Company, Allenton; Strupp, Allis-Chalmers agent, Slinger; Burg, International Harvester agent, Slinger; and Kaestler, John Deere agent, West Bend. Many of the county's leading appliance and home service dealers will be there with interesting exhibits. These include Roger O'Meara, West Bend; Malsack, Slinger; Fuge's Appliance, West Bend; Culligan Soft Water Service, West Bend; Christenson and Arndt, West Bend; Burkhardt Electric, West Bend; Miller's Furniture, Kewaskum; Wayne Appliance, Slinger, and many others.

Snapp's Greater Shows, a familiar and welcome visitor to the annual fair, will be on hand again to provide continuous rides and entertainment on the midway all during the fair. They are bringing with them some new and interesting rides this year. Snapp's shows have a reputation for reliable and up-to-date showmanship throughout the state.

All residents of Washington county are extended a cordial invitation to attend their fair.

ATHLETIC FIELD LIGHTING Discussed by Kiwanians

Kiwanians held an open forum discussion Monday evening on athletic field lighting system possibilities.

Bill Cullen, president of the Union at the Utensil Co., and Giles Wierman, manager of the Utensil company baseball team, offered financial assistance from employee and baseball team activities toward the lighting system.

Following an informative discussion on the subject, the club voted to have the president of the club appoint a five-man committee to formulate a lighting system program.

Officer Eddie Haack was admitted to club membership at this Monday meeting.

Next week's Kiwanis meeting will be in the form of a family picnic to be held at Mauthe lake Monday afternoon and evening.

MARKETS REVEAL TREND TO COLORFUL HOME FURNISHINGS

During the past two weeks Miller's Furniture store was well represented at the National Home Furnishings exposition at Chicago. "Pat" reports that for the first time since the war the industry has gone out of its way to help make the American home more inviting and make living at home more appealing. Colorful upholstered furniture, carpets and rugs to make our homes more cheerful are a definite fashion trend.

The furniture industry is striving to improve our country by stressing the fact that proper home environment and cheerful surrounding in the home will go a long way toward having the average family spend more time together at home. Millers invite you to call at their store to discuss your home furnishings problems.

In other games Waubeka trounced Boltonville, 6-1; Newburg shaded Barton, 8-2, and Belgium surprised Sheboygan Falls with a 5-2 win.

Crowd at Firemen's Picnic Among Largest Ever to Attend Here

Perfect Weather Helps Attract Thousands; Parade, Acts, Dog Show Were Features; Parade Winners Announced

Not a drop of rain and hot, ideal weather Sunday helped make the Kewaskum firemen's annual picnic one of the biggest and most successful ever held by the organization. The attendance numbered among the largest if not the largest to attend a firemen's picnic here and was believed to have bettered the attendance at the big Badger Firemen's tournament held here a few years back.

Especially surprising was the huge crowd which lined the streets for the parade. We do not remember a time when there were more people on hand for a parade in Kewaskum and at some spots along the line people were jammed out into the street. Persons who witnessed the parade numbered into the thousands and soon afterward filled the park. The firemen were much pleased with the evening crowd which was fully as large as that in the afternoon.

For the fire department the event was probably the most successful financially ever held. The hungry, thirsty, good time seeking crowds really kept the workers in the stands on the run and many extra volunteers were called in. Although a couple of the usual games did not operate because of restrictions, there were other new stands, attractions and concessions to provide more midway amusement.

The 12:45 p. m. parade which started festivities was bigger and better than in other years. Among the units in the parade were police motorcycle escort, color bearers, Legion drum and bugle corps, Kewaskum school band, Ruth Eickstedt's majorette corps, Legionnaires, visiting and local firemen's groups, floats, kiddie floats and specialties, and other units. The floats included several very nice ones from Campbellsport and these added much color and beauty to the parade.

Cash prizes were awarded to the best commercial floats and best entries in the children's parade by the judges. Serving as judges were Charlie Heide, Mrs. Minnie Mertes and Miss Lillie Schlosler. Campbellsport entries topped the first two prizes among the floats. First went to the Father Marquette float by Lester's Glass Shop of that village and second to the Freedom Float by Hemen's Sheet Metal shop. Third prize was awarded to the Regal Ware float by the Kewaskum Utensil Co. in the children's division group prizes went to the Campbellsport firemen, first, and School House by Karen and Holey Kohl of Kewaskum second. Individual prizes were awarded to Marlene Zuehlke, first, and "Sissy" Miller, second, both of Kewaskum.

The free entertainment in the park featured music by Reuben Kay's orchestra, acts by Mel "Sambo" Hummels' vaudeville troupe, dog exhibitions by "Cherry" Haushalter and his Golden Retrievers and a baton twirling exhibition by Ruth Eickstedt's majorette corps. Kay's orchestra provided excellent old time, modern and band music in the afternoon and evening. The various acts by Hummels' group were very entertaining and well received but the exhibition which received the most comment and made the biggest hit was the outstanding show put on by Haushalter's Retrievers in the afternoon and again at night.

There was fun and entertainment going on all the time and everyone had a real enjoyable time. The firemen wish to thank all who assisted, attended and helped in any way to make their picnic an outstanding success.

African Wood Used by U. S.

American woodworking industries are turning to a wood from the vast forests of the Belgian Congo known as "Kortina" because they are unable to obtain high-quality timber at home.

One of the countries largest timber users already has begun large-scale importations of the wood that stacks up with American oak. The industry is importing about 6,500,000 feet of Kortina a month.

The inability to obtain high-quality timber in the United States is blamed on two things—lack of a sound conservation scheme and rapid growth of the woodworking industries.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS GOP Convention Hands Nomination To Dewey in Display of Unanimity; Warren Second Choice on Ticket

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

GOVERNOR DEWEY AND FAMILY ... They want a new, white house ...

DEWEY EYED GOP Convention

Out of the smoke-blurred rooms during the recess before the third roll call came the word: It was Dewey—first again with the medicine men.

From the very beginning of the GOP convention in the sweltering confines of Philadelphia's convention hall it was a simple case of Dewey against the field. The field was composed of Taft, Stassen, Vandenberg, Warren and MacArthur, plus a scattering of favorite sons.

Despite some frenetic jockeying for delegates by Dewey, Taft and Stassen over the week-end preceding the convention, the big three of the GOP started out on Monday with their pre-convention alignments unchanged.

But by the time Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois had finished with his keynote address Monday night it was apparent that a stop-Dewey movement was struggling to get under way. As it turned out that movement never did get beyond the struggling stage and Dewey remained virtually the only one unaffected by it.

In retrospect, the convention by that time already had assumed an inexorable course toward the Dewey camp. Second-guessers maintained that the whole affair coiled along as if motivated by some fundamental and changeless law, although that was not fully evident until the convention could be viewed as a finished product.

If there was a fundamental law it was compounded from a series of heterogeneous factors, political and personal.

First of all there was the superbly functioning Dewey machine, operating with almost 100 per cent efficiency to corral votes.

Secondly, the Dewey opposition was divided. Taft and Stassen, poles apart in their political philosophy within the Republican party, could not get together. Stassen flatly refused a deal and Taft kept waiting for a break that never came.

California's Gov. Earl Warren refused to have a hand in a stop-Dewey drive, insisted he was running for the nomination and not just against Dewey. Vandenberg added to the confusion by remaining silent, noncommittal and even disinterested.

Nomination

Actual climax of the convention came when Sen. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania renounced his favorite son candidacy and threw his support, backed by about half the members of Pennsylvania's 73 delegates, to Dewey. That started the blizzard. From then on it was Dewey and downhill all the way.

As the crucial balloting began it became more evident that a stop-Dewey coalition had not jelled.

On the first roll call it was Dewey 434, Taft 224, Stassen 198. On the second ballot Dewey had gone up to 515 and Taft to 274, while Stassen dropped to 149.

At that point the convention recessed for three hours, a move engineered by Taft, Stassen and other anti-Dewey leaders to give them time to decide whether or not to continue the fight.

When the convention reconvened for the third roll call the stop-Dewey drive had changed to a nominate-Dewey stampede. Sen. John Bricker of Ohio was the first on the rostrum to withdraw the

Radio Talent

Residents of Tokyo, sweltering in the summer heat, are finding some relief by tuning in on a radio program which features the cool, clammy croaking of a chorus of frogs.

There are no temperature-boosting commercials—only the "singing frogs" who hang out in a pond 200 miles north of Tokyo. A little soothing poetry is added for variety. The Japanese just loosen their kimono, forget the heat and listen.

CRACKDOWN: Marshal Tito

Russia's iron curtain had twitched apart along its Yugoslavian seam to provide a glimpse of the Communist stage set with the rickety scenery of dissension, fear and insecurity.

Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia was the central figure, but remained so for only a brief instant before his Soviet bosses whisked him off the boards.

Plain fact was that Tito, hitherto the fair-haired boy of eastern European communism, had been all but purged from the Communist party because he was trying to make a play for western capitalism.

Actually he, together with his henchmen in the Yugoslav government, was ousted from the all-important Cominform (Communist information bureau) which was established last year to provide greater unity for the Soviet satellite states of eastern Europe.

Tito and his regime were charged with virtually everything the Soviet politburo considers a crime—ranging from Trotskyism and anti-Sovietism to "ineptness" and "false demagogic tactics."

Behind this official facade which the Communists had thrown up, however, were the real reasons for Tito's expulsion from grace.

As the only wartime hero of the Communists the Yugoslav marshal had begun to take himself too seriously, hence, was beginning to feel the need to express his own opinions and policies on matters political and economic. Stalin wanted no other boss in his sphere.

Tito was building up a "personal police" army which was molesting other Communists, including Russians, in Belgrade. Also, he had followed an independent foreign policy without Moscow's approval.

Finally he committed the cardinal sin of currying favor with western capitalist diplomats with an eye to obtaining reconstruction credits for Yugoslavia.

SERVICE: Drafting

That draft which men in the 19-through-25 age group are beginning to feel is the result of the U. S. armed forces drawing in their breath and preparing to expand all over the world.

Between next fall and next summer the services plan on calling about 30,000 draft-age young men every month. Drafting is scheduled to start about September 22.

With a strength of 837,000 authorized by congress in the selective service bill, the army has estimated that it will need between 223,000 and 250,000 selectees to approach its authorized strength. That number is in addition to the 250,000 or 300,000 volunteers it so fervently hopes it will get.

In discussing plans for this second peacetime draft in U. S. history, Army Secretary Kenneth Royall explained that the army now has 542,000 men but it won't jump to the 837,000 figure immediately because funds for the fiscal year which began July 1 are not sufficient.

Thus, by July 1, 1949, the size of the army will be an estimated 790,000. The peacetime draft is a relatively slow-functioning process. Certainly it can't compare with the wartime levying of manpower. Peak of the induction rate during the war was reached in February, 1943, when 406,374 men received their army orders.

When the army attains its full 837,000 strength it will consist of 12 regular army divisions. Backstopping these will be six national guard divisions, together with other supporting elements such as anti-aircraft artillery and service troops.

BLOCKADE: Berlin

Russia's freight blockade of Berlin, while a stark enough action in its own right, nevertheless was a secondary manifestation of the same old cold war crisis arising out of the Soviet bid for power in Europe.

While American and British planes by the hundreds were flying in food to besieged Berliners the western powers were pondering a question they had had to answer in 1938 when Hitler was in power—whether or not to appease.

Long range plans of the Kremlin, of which the Berlin blockade is just one phase, call for the forcing of the western Allies out of Berlin. This, according to Soviet thinking, could be done by either of two means: Either by threats and terrorization involving the risk of war, or by a four-power negotiation which could be hoped to result in a western appeasement policy such as grew out of the ill-starred Munich conference of 1938.

Britain and the U. S. are on a dangerous spot. If they pulled out of Berlin under the pressure of force applied by Russia the power and influence of western democracy would be perilously weakened in Europe.

Emotional Asthma

Asthma, with its painful choking and wheezing, often may be the result of an emotional disturbance rather than being brought on by purely physical factors.

Dr. F. B. Schutzbank of Tucson, Ariz., told the American Medical association meeting in Chicago that many of the asthmatic victims who flee to Arizona for relief could save the trip simply by curbing their family quarrels and other distresses.

Dry climate is no cure-all for the condition. Dr. Schutzbank, an allergist, emphasized of a group of 74 patients who benefitted by journeying to the Southwest, relief in 32 of the cases could be attributed simply to the fact that when they left home they left behind the causes of their nervous and emotional instability. Dr. Schutzbank told convention delegates.

However, many other factors also are involved in asthma, he pointed out, and many of these are helped by climate.

Washington Digest No Right-Minded Candidate Will Antagonize Newsmen

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA.—The notes for this column are inspired by a view from the extreme left wing of the Democratic platform. I do not mean that figuratively, but literally.

I am sitting in the left-hand corner of the wooden platform filled with the brass hats of the party and their friends who are gathered together to nominate a Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

The scene isn't so very different from other political conventions I have attended back to—well, never mind how far back I have in my mind's eye a different picture. It is a platform, viewed from just about this angle, but instead of this high rostrum protruding into the hall from the middle of the wide platform there is just a wooden box with boards atop it—rough-hewn rails to fence off the speakers from the shouting delegates. The name of Abraham Lincoln is being put in nomination. This vision, let me hasten to add, is purely visionary. I did NOT cover that convention. I saw a picture of it in a book.

The scene I have been watching is no more placid. That Democrats love a Donnybrook is an old saying. No smoke-filled rooms, no private lights for them—rather a free-for-all in a wide field, even if they know what the final outcome is to be in advance.

But frankly I have been thinking about something else as I sit here in this tropical heat—that is, in the moments when I have been able to think between the flashing of the light which is the silent bell on the telephone beside the mike I am sharing with Earl Godwin. The flash of the light on the phone means someone in the ABC booth, high above us, wants one or the other of us to jump in and give a brief word-picture of what is transpiring in our immediate neighborhood, for we are in the thick of things here and, believe me, sometimes things are pretty thick.

What I have been thinking about is the lot of the newsmen and the small thanks he gets for his pain and suffering in a political year. Besides being hauled and mauled by the public—his public, as the listeners of a commentator are referred to—besides that, he is under slantwise attack by the candidates when they forget themselves.

Nobody, either the partisan listeners or the politicians, ever thinks the columnist, commentator or reporter is being fair unless he is boasting his bias.

Candidates, when they are in possession of their full senses, don't go around arousing the wrath of the newsmen. Even Franklin Roosevelt, who was forever needling the newspapers, always carefully explained that it was the publishers and editors and headline writers who twisted the news, not the men who wrote or broadcast it.

But sometimes candidates slip. And as we sit, perspiring under the klieg lights and trying our best to tell the truth without malice and with as much charity as possible about what is going on before us, we recall without too much rancor, the statement of the candidate who is not being unanimously nominated. On his recent trip he made one off-the-cuff remark, which prompted him to send that offending piece of haberdashery to the laundry immediately after he had thought it over.

President Truman opined to one rear-platform audience that it was almost impossible to get the facts definitely before the public "because there are certain people in the newspaper business and certain people in the radio business who have a distorted view of what the people ought to know and what the people ought to think."

It might have been better if he had worded his plaint in the language of an earlier candidate—much earlier—John Quincy Adams, who at least narrowed his charges against the press to a few papers, even though he didn't name them specifically. This offered a sop to the rest.

However, President Truman, in a previous outburst on that same western trip was specific too. He attacked the Chicago Tribune and the Spokane Spokesman-Review. In lambasting the Tribune, he was following in Franklin Roosevelt's footsteps. You may recall that on one occasion when FDR was asked a particularly sharp question by a Tribune reporter, he replied: "Oh, tell Bertie (Robert McCormick, publisher), he's seeing things under the bed."

Mr. Truman's attack on the Tribune came about this way: While travelling through Washington state, a reporter put to him a question which, although it seemed guileless, might have concealed a barb. Anyhow the President interpreted it that way when Senator Magnuson re-

Executive Loses 18 Pounds After Eating Grass for One Month

TAYLOR, TEXAS.—Elmore Torn, executive vice-president of the Texas Chemurgic council, is looking toward a square meal after more than a month on a grass diet.

Torn went on the diet of dehydrated cereal grasses as a means of expressing his individual support of the European aid plan.

He vowed to remain on the diet until the plan became a law. But even though the aid bill has been passed, Torn is still "apering off" his grass diet.

He says whole milk will be supplemented and lean steaks added gradually until his daily calorie intake is stepped up from about 200 to 1,200.

Torn said his loss of weight during the entire experiment was only about 18 pounds from his original 200.

After a month of eating very little but dehydrated grass pills, Torn said chlorophyll from now on "will have a prominent place in my ration for cutting away the fat and hardening the muscles."

Party Platforms
The labels of the two platforms recently adopted by the two national party conventions were erased and they were laid side by side.

About the only difference in the two major party platforms is that the Republicans view with alarm the record of the national administration and point with pride to the record of the 80th congress while the Democratic platform views with alarm the record of the 80th congress and points with pride to the record of the national administration.

This reporter believes that both major parties may have an opportunity to put into operation their platform planks sooner than they expect because of one indication that President Truman does not propose to let the lawmakers rest until next January but will call them into special session probably sometime in August.

Promises - Performance

The Republican party, since it is the majority party, has had the responsibility since 1946 of placing into practice what it preaches in its platforms. A scanning of the 1944 platform finds little difference between the pledges made then and the pledges made in the 1948 platform adopted at Philadelphia.

"WE FAVOR PROGRESSIVE DEVELOPMENT OF THE NATION'S WATER RESOURCES FOR NAVIGATION, FLOOD CONTROL AND POWER WITH IMMEDIATE ACTION IN CRITICAL AREAS." Then why were bills for development of the Missouri river, the Columbia river and others pigeonholed?

"WE FAVOR A COMPREHENSIVE RECLAMATION PROGRAM FOR ARID AND SEMI-ARID AREAS." Then why were reclamation projects throughout the West strangled for lack of appropriations?

"HOUSING CAN BEST BE SUPPLIED AND FINANCED BY PRIVATE ENTERPRISE, BUT GOVERNMENT CAN AND SHOULD ENCOURAGE THE BUILDING OF BETTER HOMES AT LESS COST." Then, obviously, why were all controls of allocation and costs eliminated?

"WE RECOMMEND FEDERAL AID TO THE STATES FOR LOCAL SLUM CLEARANCE AND LOW-RENTAL HOUSING PROGRAMS WHERE THERE IS NEED THAT CANNOT BE MET EITHER BY PRIVATE ENTERPRISE OR BY THE STATES." Then why was the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill scuttled?

"WE URGE EXTENSION OF THE FEDERAL OLD AGE AND SURVIVORS INSURANCE PROGRAM AND INCREASE OF BENEFITS TO A MORE REALISTIC LEVEL." The natural question—why was not the social security program extended for more coverage and benefits made "more realistic"?

"WE URGE STRENGTHENING OF FEDERAL-STATE PROGRAMS DESIGNED TO PROVIDE FOR MORE ADEQUATE HOSPITAL FACILITIES, TO IMPROVE TREATMENT OF MENTALLY ILL AND TO ADVANCE MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH AND GENERALLY TO FOSTER A HEALTHY AMERICA." Then why wasn't the Taft national health act passed and the national hospital act improved?

"WE PLEDGE A VIGOROUS ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING LAWS AGAINST COMMUNISTS AND ENACTMENT OF SUCH NEW LEGISLATION AS MAY BE NECESSARY TO EXPOSE TREASONABLE ACTIVITIES OF COMMUNISTS." Remember the Mundt-Nixon bill outlawing communism? It passed the house and died in the senate.

"WE PROPOSE A WELL-PAID AND EFFICIENT FEDERAL CAREER SERVICE." Most federal pay bills were lost in the shuffle.

"WE FAVOR EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK REGARDLESS OF SEX." Same thing is true here—no action.

"WE FAVOR ELIMINATION OF UNNECESSARY FEDERAL BUREAUS." None was eliminated.

More Promises
The GOP platform recognized the "CRUELLY HIGH PRICES" and pledged attack upon the "BASIC CAUSES OF INFLATION," but the party refused to enact any legislation to curb prices and only pledges to "PROVIDE INCENTIVES FOR MORE PRODUCTION AND THRIFT." All when production is at an all-time peak.

The party pledged continuation of efforts to reduce taxes but knows it must increase taxes next January.

It pledges small business "MUST BE ENCOURAGED THROUGH AGGRESSIVE ANTI-MONOPOLY ACTION" but refused to pass any anti-monopoly laws, in fact made railroads free of the monopoly laws.

It paid lip-service to the support of "BONA FIDE FARMER-OWNED AND FARMER OPERATED AND OPERATIVE" but at the same time attempted to cripple co-ops and draw tight restrictions about REA operations and appropriations.

THE FICTION CORNER
BANDBOX BETTY
By MARY KEMPE CHEATHAM

HEAT shimmered from the down-town pavements. Torrid light fell in bars through the Venetian blinds in Mr. Humphreys' private office, carrying with it a coppery odor, like that of a penny clutched too long in a perspiring palm. It was a hot day all right, and the city lay panting under the noonday sun.

"Leave the door open, Miss Barclay," called Mr. Humphreys, as Betty returned from lunch. "Let the air circulate." "Thank you," she added, mopping his brow, "we've got to get some air conditioning in this hotbox."

Betty smiled, removing her white gloves and her crisp white hat. Mr. Humphreys said the same thing every summer. She laid her gloves and white purse neatly away in the bottom desk drawer and sat down at the typewriter. With her blonde hair sleek and smooth and her pale green dress miraculously unwrinkled, she looked as cool and fresh as an iced limeade.

"How do you do it, Miss Barclay?" marveled Mr. Humphreys, entering the cubicle of an outer office where she sat as secretary and receptionist. "You can't be as cool as you look! Anyhow, let's put this fan out here somewhere to stir up a little breeze."

He looked around vaguely, pulled out a chair a few feet from Betty's desk, set the fan on it, plugged in the cord and returned to his own large desk through the open door marked Private.

Betty gazed doubtfully at the fan whirling away on the chair before her. She anchored the fluttering papers on her desk with paperweights, and, with a little frown of annoyance, smoothed back the tendrils of hair which were beginning to blow loose from the bun at the nape of her neck. She caught Mr. Humphreys looking at her and smiled.

After all, Mr. Humphreys was the boss. If he wanted to go around putting electric fans on chairs, it was no business of hers. Anyway, Mr. Humphreys was nice. Nice, and quite, quite happily married.

"We're all quite happily married, thought Betty with a sigh, as she began on her transcription. All the really nice members of the office force in the other departments, all the nicest salesmen. That business of romance in an office was just something you read about in magazines.

"Is Mr. Humphreys in?" She looked up as a tall, broad-shouldered, red-haired young man strolled toward her desk and thrust a business card into her hand. Before she knew what was happening, he had pulled up his trouser legs slightly, to preserve their meticulous crease, and had begun to assume a sitting position over the whirring fan.

"Don't sit down!" Betty shrieked, simultaneously with Mr. Humphreys' shout. The young man catapulted away from the chair as though a bomb suddenly had sprung from the fan blades. Backed against Betty's desk, he stared, then grinned. Mr. Humphreys, flown to the rescue, was mopping his brow again, but not from heat.

"That," he said, shakily, "was a narrow escape." He disconnected the fan and stood, bewilderedly, holding it. Her composure regained now that catastrophe had been averted, Betty became once more all cool efficiency. She glanced at the card. She chuckled. She could not help it.

"Would you," she asked, "have had coverage for THAT?" The card read, "John J. Thomas, Insurance."

The young man chuckled, too. "I came here," he remarked, "to talk to Mr. Humphreys about accident insurance."

"Sure, sure," murmured Mr. Humphreys, still shaken. "Come right in. Have one of the boys put that thing on a bracket for you," he said to Betty, indicating the fan.

When they emerged from Mr. Humphreys' sanctum, John Thomas had a pleased expression on his face and, no doubt, a policy in the bag. "It was really her fault, you know," he remarked to Mr. Humphreys, loitering at the door. "She looked so cool, I didn't even see that chair."

"Miss Barclay always looks cool in summer," said Mr. Humphreys proudly, "and neat all the year round." "Like she's just stepped out of a bandbox," John continued.

Muggsy gave her a broad grin, the more effective for three missing teeth. "You're pretty," she said. "I like you."

Betty flushed. She had had the expression applied to her before. Since her first days with the company, she knew she had been familiarly referred to by the other employees as "Bandbox Betty," but it was disconcerting to be discussed in this fashion.

"The least she can do," he teased, "is give me a dinner date." "That's fair enough," echoed Mr. Humphreys, "if it's all right with Miss Barclay."

"Well," conceded Betty, "but I warn you, I have all the insurance I need." Dinner with John Thomas was distinctly pleasant. It was cool in the Orchard room and the table appointments were perfect. The floor show was good, the food even better. From cocktail to parfait, the courses were faultless. John himself met every requirement as an escort.

Betty began to be glad Mr. Humphreys had put the fan on a chair. "Not a hair out of place," John commented, studying her across the table. "They drill it into you," countered Betty, "at secretarial school. White collars, tidy fingernails, all that."

"I'll bet," John said, suddenly, eyes twinkling, "YOU WOULDN'T EVEN GET MUZZED AT A PICNIC." They parted early for, as Betty pointed out, a good secretary had to have plenty of rest. Besides, there was the usual routine of washing hose and gloves, cleaning shoes and purse, doing her nails and pressing a dress for tomorrow.

The fire smoked, ashes fell into the coffee, the charred stick for a made smudges. Betty did her best to stay neat, but Muggsy was everywhere at once, dribbling steak-juice, mustard and catsup. A stinging sensation crept behind Betty's eyelids as she recalled John's admiring words, "I'LL BET YOU WOULDN'T EVEN GET MUZZED AT A PICNIC."

She pulled ineffectually at her wrinkled frock, dabbed with a handkerchief at stains, wiped the dust from her shoes. It was unfair of John to put her to such a test. The picnic dragged mercilessly on to an amusement park where Muggsy wanted to ride a roller coaster. Betty shuddered. She hated roller coasters, she hated flying turns, but she found herself hurtling through space with John and Muggsy in any number of crazy fashions. When they emerged, her bun was quite gone, the blonde hair hanging loosely about her shoulders. Her shoes were full of shavings from the amusement park grounds, she had a run in her hose and her face was smudged and devoid of makeup.

John stared at her and laughed aloud. "What," he asked, "has become of Bandbox Betty?" Someone, she thought, should slap his face, but before she could put the impulse into effect, he had seized her hands and pulled her close. To her amazement, he kissed her fiercely, before all the people in the amusement park, with Muggsy giggling at them both. Everything seemed to fade away as she kissed back.

"That," he breathed, "is more like it." "I couldn't have stood it," he said, "to have you respond with nothing but a neat little peck."

She had a number of dates with John, their tempo always smooth and pleasant. Her work suffered no misplaced commas, Mr. Humphreys was happy, John seemed happy and Betty was almost happy. Only—that was all that ever happened. Never once had John attempted to kiss her or even hold her hand. He was, she concluded finally, a confirmed bachelor.

"Just as I," she thought, poking savagely at the typewriter keys, "am a confirmed old maid." It was a Saturday, almost noon quitting time. John had not called, and the future suddenly became a whole series of weary calendar pages, neatly torn off day by day and deposited in the wastebasket.

As she walked from the building, there was John's convertible parked at the entrance. "Get in," he called, "we're going on a picnic!" It was amazing how his red hair could brighten up the day! Betty was happily in the car before she even noticed his female companion. "Oh!" she gasped. For there, huddled between John and a bulging picnic basket, was a startling apparition—a little girl with freckles, wide blue eyes and the same red hair!

"How do you do it, Miss Barclay?" marveled Mr. Humphreys, entering the cubicle of an outer office where she sat as secretary and receptionist. "You can't be as cool as you look! Anyhow, let's put this fan out here somewhere to stir up a little breeze."

He looked around vaguely, pulled out a chair a few feet from Betty's desk, set the fan on it, plugged in the cord and returned to his own large desk through the open door marked Private.

As PEGLER Sees It

By Westbrook Pegler

HOWARD HUGHES, the moving picture magnate who produced no airplanes for 40 million dollars of public money, has made public a letter to Sen. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, offering him $300 a week to start as an actor. "You are no amateur," Hughes wrote. "Your ability as an actor has been well demonstrated. Also, you are the perfect type for some parts I have in mind."

We here have a senator publicly mocked in his office of investigator of outrageous corruption in the war production program by a man who could not deny that he had conspired with a professional barfly to compromise agents of the government and seduce them from propriety.

Hughes finds himself singularly free of the restraints which affect the course of men of fastidious morals and ethics. He is not embarrassed by disclosures which would intimidate a more sensitive citizen.

In the early part of 1947, Hughes saw an investigation coming. He had spent money to hire women to act as social companions of procurement agents and for booze and luxurious meals and had charged this expense to the ultimate taxpayer as part of the cost of the planes which he did not produce for the 40 million dollars.

He spent about $4,000 on the wedding expenses and on extravagant personal entertainment of Elliott Roosevelt, then ranked as a colonel, in expensive hotels and night clubs of Hollywood and New York. There was testimony among the disclosures that Hughes' social-traffic manager, Johnny Meyer, gave a $20 bill and a batch of nylon stockings to Faye Emerson, who was to become the third Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt.

Anticipating disclosure, Hughes hired a Carl Byoir and Associates, the New York and Washington public relations and propaganda firm, to see him through. They did well by him. Hughes was enabled to appear to turn the tables on Senator Brewster and to make Brewster seem to be a guilty fellow, although the record does not justify this impression. Actually, here was a defendant who admitted that he was what he was, staking his unsupported word in a charge that Brewster offered to abandon the investigation if Hughes would abandon his own plans for an overseas passenger airline.

Brewster and others believed that the United States would best serve American interests by recognizing and supporting only one American overseas line. Pan-American was our big overseas pioneer and Brewster thought Pan-American should carry on as a favored agent. He may have been imposed upon by officials of Pan-American with whom he had become friendly. It appeared that he did accept personal hospitality from one of them, although at no cost which could be dignified by the taint of bribe.

There was shocking testimony and documentary evidence against Hughes, Meyer and Elliott Roosevelt in the hearings in Washington. Nevertheless, by artful manipulation of the publicity and the timing of dramatic incidents, Hughes walked off triumphant, although not with honors. Elliott Roosevelt had been so heavily mired in the wallow of the notorious John Hartford loan and other gyps, done with the guilty knowledge of his father, that nothing could embarrass him.

Mr. Gen. Bennett Meyers E. Meyers was sentenced by the United States court, not by the army, to serve from 20 months to five years for perjury in concealing the fact that he owned a company from which he bought material for the army. THIS WAS ENTIRELY ASIDE FROM THE HUGHES DEALS INVOLVING ELLIOTT.

The army had abundant evidence that Elliott's father had verbally ordered that favors be shown to the man who was winning and dining his son. Many a headstrong or wayward buck private meanwhile had spent years in prison for rude violations of unaccustomed restraints.

There was mutually accusing testimony by Hughes and General Meyers concerning discussions of favors to be done Meyers by Hughes, including a job at a high salary after the war.

The committee could not decide who was the liar but it did say formally to congress that these individuals did have a number of conversations concerning loans, gratuities and job offers. Nevertheless, Hughes said nothing until it served his case at a public hearing three years later to charge Meyers with tendering corrupt proposals, whereas MEYERS SAID HUGHES TOOK THE INITIATIVE.

"Hughes should have promptly made a full disclosure," the final report says. "Any war contractor is morally obligated to report promptly any corrupt or fraudulent proposals made to him." And, finally, although Hughes claimed that most rival aircraft builders squandered public money on government agents, the report says: "The committee with the assistance of the bureau of internal revenue and the general accounting office, could find no comparable expenditures" by other companies.

TOMORROW'S BRIDGE. Grace Noll Crowell. TOMORROW'S bridge as I look ahead is a lucky thing to view. Its piers are embedded in solid rock down, its floor would be one through. The chains are spun in dark and deep. And the waters foam and flow. I have considered bridges a thousand times. Though I advise I have reached a yes. It has reached beneath me to be me through. Although it is miles away. But bridges, the bridges that I have crossed have all been safe today. Perhaps I shall find when I reach that one. This lies in the distant blue. Some land may have straddled its rocky foot. And you may see its strong and sure.

Single Rose Is Annual Rental Fee for Church. MANHEIM, PA.—As the rental for its church ground, the Zion Evangelical church made its annual payment of one red rose at the "colorful feast of roses." The custom began in 1772 when Baron William Henry Stiegel levied a rent of "one red rose each year forever" upon the struggling congregation, then too poor to pay a rental for the grounds. Historians say Stiegel believed the people of Manheim who labored in his famous glass works should be religious. He contributed land for a church and fixed the rent, but the people were unable to pay it and the baron decided on the rose payment. Later when the baron went to prison for debts the church members forgot their bargain. The colorful custom, however, was revived 50 years ago. A descendant of the baron claimed the rose at this year's ceremony.

Army Man Discovers Home Police Are Alert. HILLSBORO, OHIO.—Evidence that Hillsboro police are the most alert in the United States was provided in the experience of Dwight Gall, recent graduate from the army. Gall bought a new car in Japan at a post exchange, shipping it back to the west coast. He drove about 5,000 miles without license plates but was never questioned until halted by local police.

MORE THAN 150 FARMERS GO ON COUNTY FARM TOUR

The farm management tour held on Tuesday under the direction of the county agricultural extension office and with the co-operation of the Kraft Foods Company of Hartford was attended by more than 150 farmers. The purpose of the tour was to see and learn about some of the newer farm practices and view modern farm equipment. A total of seven farms were visited.

Also visited was the variety grain plot on the county hospital farm giving farmers an opportunity to view the leading grain varieties. The Kraft Foods Company served a tasty noon hour luncheon. This was indeed a treat to all in attendance. Cordial thanks are extended to them and to the Washington county hospital farm for the coffee and for the use

SPRAY OPERATORS OF COUNTY IN MEETING

A meeting of commercial spray operators in Washington county was held on the Fred Neu farm near Hartford on July 3. The proper use of DDT on the farm was demonstrated to this group by D. A. Wanless, county club agent, and Neal Nicholson, Hartford agricultural instructor.

The spray operators who attended this meeting are taking part in a county-wide fly control program. They are: George and Andrew Dietenberger, Hartford; George Petri, Kewaskum; Herb Ziehm, Colgate, and Vernon Kouth, Rockfield.

These spray operators met recently with representatives of dairy plants in the county to make plans for this county-wide fly control program. Those present decided that the dairy farmer should be assured of an efficient and reasonable service. A standard price was agreed upon.

Any farmer who wants his barn or other buildings sprayed with DDT may obtain this service by contacting any of the above named spray operators or the county agent's office at West Bend.

Gems of Thought

Men heap together the mistakes of their lives and create a monster they call Destiny.—Hobbes.

In faith everything depends upon the fact of believing. What is believed is a matter of indifference.—Goethe.

A fool may make money, but it needs a wise man to spend it.

Poultry or Play House

IN RESPONSE to many who have requested information that would simplify building a small, general purpose backyard house, I designed the unit illustrated herewith.

It can be built 4 feet by 8 feet, 8 feet by 8 feet, or any number of additional 4-foot lengths. To conserve lumber, its outside sheathing consists of non-critical sections and cement board, available at your local lumber yard.

Patterns are supplied for cutting the angles of each piece of lumber. User merely cuts lumber according to length each pattern, piece indicates, saws and assembles. The platform, back, front and sides are first built as individual sections, then nailed together. Complete list of materials, step by step instructions, numbered assembly illustrations included.

Secretaries Have "Good Chance"

It is reasoned that well trained and well groomed secretaries have excellent marriage prospects because they work so closely with men. Secretaries need not dress expensively, like show girls, to impress an employer but they should be crisp looking at all times. To be avoided are, glaring nail polish, short sleeves, chewing gum, skimpy skirts, seductive necklines, high heels and jewelry that jangles, says the director of a secretarial school.

Canned Fruits Aid Health

Stock Up on Fruit

NOW IS THE TIME to use summer's plenty to bolster winter diet patterns and add nutrition to them. The gardens, orchards vineyards and berry patches are all at your disposal with their infinite variety.

It's really easy to can fruit because there is little to preparing it for canning, and provided you take care to follow directions nothing will spoil. Besides, well stocked shelves with a colorful array of fruit will make wintertime meals so much more easy to plan.

Fruit may be canned without sugar for dietary reasons but, if you can eat sugar, plan to can fruit with sugar as it gives a better product.

IF YOU DEPEND upon home-canned fruit as a main item for winter, it's a good idea to make up a canning budget. For example, if you serve tomato juice four times a week, one cup a serving, plan to set enough aside for 40 weeks. This requires 40 quarts of tomato juice per person. For a family of five you'll need 200 quarts.

Do you plan to serve apples twice a week? At one-half cup per serving you'll need four quarts for 15 weeks or 20 quarts for a family of five.

Peaches, at a half cup a serving, twice a week for 40 weeks will amount to 10 quarts per person or 40 quarts for a family of four.

If you serve berries twice every three weeks, at one-half cup per serving, you'll need three and one-third quarts per person to last 40 weeks.

If you serve pears once every two weeks at one-half cup per serving you'll need two quarts to last one person 32 weeks. This amounts to 10 quarts for a family of five.

Do you like to serve fruit juice at least twice a week? At one cup a serving, one person will need 15 quarts for 30 weeks. A family of five needs 75 quarts.

DIFFERENT VARIETIES of fruit come out better in the canning process than others. If you will study these tips and abide by them you'll have fine results.

Apples to be canned whole should be bright and red and hold their shape well although cooked. You'll find that Jonathans work out nicely for this method.

For applesauce, tart apples like Duchess, Maiden Blush, Greenings or Early Transparent are best because they cook to a mush easily.

Fully ripe apricots are ideal for canning. Any good eating variety may be canned.

Firm, well-ripened peaches make the best canned ones. Select Elbertas or Hales that are fine textured and delicately flavored.

LYNN SAYS:

You Need to Know These Canning Terms

Acid foods include fruits, tomatoes, ripe pimientos, sauerkraut and green peppers.

Non-acid foods are vegetables, meats, fish, poultry, game and soup mixtures.

Precooking means boiling food a short time until it is thoroughly heated.

Head space is the space left, when filling a jar, at the top.

Pressure cookers or steam pressure cookers are sometimes called come from the factory. To be usable, they must have a petcock, a safety valve and a pressure gauge. The pressure cooker which is used for processing foods is not the same kind that is used to cook other foods in a short time.

Open kettle is a method of canning fruits, pickles, jellies, jams or preserves by cooking them uncovered in a large kettle. The jars must be filled one at a time and sealed at once.

Bartlett pears are good for canning but some people prefer the smaller Kieffer variety, which also are good if they are allowed to ripen in a cool place (60 degrees) for a week or two after picking.

Any variety of plum may be canned as long as it is well flavored and ripe.

HAVE YOU EVER found yourself in the midst of packing fruit into jars and suddenly discovered that you won't have enough? This means digging into the storage closet or running to the store for more, and then washing and sterilizing them. All this comes at a time when you should be rushing the food into jars as fast as possible.

Avoid this by figuring out how many jars you need ahead of time:

One-half bushel of good-sized, perfect peaches yield eight quarts.

Six pounds of apples yield three to four quarts.

One-half bushel of apricots gives nine to 11 quarts.

One-half bushel of plums will give 10 to 11 quarts.

Two and one-half pounds of pears yield one quart.

Five cups (about two pounds) of berries will give one quart.

Eight to 10 tomatoes (2 1/2 to 3 1/2 pounds give one quart.

HAVE ALL EQUIPMENT, including jars with proper lids, ready. Check jars for nicked tops and cracks. Wash in hot, soapy water and rinse thoroughly. Do this the day before.

Use only fresh fruit and berries for canning. Discard those with badly broken skins, broken or over-ripe specimens.

Pack cold or precook according to directions in chart.

Fill jars to within one and one-half inches of top; add syrup to within one-half inch of the top.

Place into a boiling water bath (with water coming an inch or two above the jars.) Count processing time from the time the water starts to boil, not when it is just simmering, unless so specified. If you use a pressure cooker, follow time given in chart.

After 24 hours cooling period, wash the jars off with a damp cloth, dry and label. Store in a cool, dry place.

Boiling water bath, sometimes called hot water bath, equipment consists of a large vessel such as a wash boiler, lard can or kettle the bottom of which is fitted with a rack or platform on which to set jars while they are processing. This should come fitted with a cover.

Sealing means closing the jars airtight.

Cold pack means filling the jars with food in its raw form.

Hot pack means filling the jars with hot food from precooking.

A vacuum in a jar is created by lack of air in the jar. The heating expands air and food, during processing and thus forces the air out of the jar.

A jar lid is a shallow cover of glass or metal that fits on a jar with a metal band or with wire balls.

Processing means cooking the food in jars, either in a boiling water bath or pressure cooker.

Sterilizing means heating food or any part of the canning equipment to destroy bacteria.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

FLORENCE FREEMAN has been playing prominent parts in radio dramas since her debut in 1935. Currently she is helping to celebrate the first anniversary of "Wendy Warren and the News", in which, of course, she is "Wendy." "A Woman of America," "Valiant Lady," "Aunt Jenny," "Young Widdler Brown"—that's a partial list of her assignments. She is a college graduate, taught for a year before deciding to be an actress. In real life she is a clergyman's wife, has two daughters, 7 and 9, and lives in New Jersey in a lovely old house which has just been remodelled with the active participation of the entire family.

In the film based on the radio sketch, "Sorry, Wrong Number," Barbara Stanwyck is helms to a drug fortune, so Edith Head tried to imagine what the richest girl in the world would wear for a wedding dress, and Barbara wears it.

Since Rudd Weatherwax, owner-trainer of Lassie, announced during rehearsal of the "Lassie" show that she had had seven pups, he has been snowed under by requests for a puppy. One already has been given to Claude Jarman, the youngster who co-starred with Lassie in the M-G-M film, "Sun in the Morning."

Nobody can say that Ray Milland won't put his shoulder to the wheel when he's asked to. During a week's visit in New York he appeared on five radio shows to help advertise and exploit his new picture, "So Evil My Love."

One of the best of "The Big Story" broadcasts was the recent one based on material supplied by Bill Finney of Pensacola, Fla. Journal. It dramatized the police reporter's trapping of the perpetrator of a crime that endangered the lives of 350 innocent persons. Pinney received a $500 award from the program's sponsor.

Carmen Cavalero has hit on something new for his Tuesday NBC broadcasts. A psychiatrist has been engaged to make sure the musical programs are relaxing, as the sponsor ordered. A week beforehand, each program is tried out on three different groups at a veterans' hospital. Sounds like a bid for publicity, but Carmen and the doctor say it's true.

Four members of Hollywood's most exclusive club, the John Ford Honorary Stock company, appear in Ford's "Fort Apache." To be eligible, actors must have been in pictures at least 20 years. The roster includes Maurice Costello, Hoot Gibson, Frank Mayo and J. Farrell MacDonald, who were stars when Clark Gable was felling trees and Dot Lamour was an elevator girl.

Peggy Ann Garner, made famous by "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," is now 17 and gets her first grown-up role in Eagle Lion's "The Big Cat." She plays opposite Lon McCallister, who also is grown up in this one.

Columbia will film the highlights in the career of columnist-commentator Drew Pearson in a semi-documentary film tentatively titled "The Washington Story." He will narrate and appear in important sequences.

Odds and Ends... Warner Baxter kisses his 100th leading lady in Columbia's "Gentleman from Nowhere" and his leading lady, Fay Baker, gets kissed by her first film leading man... Hollywood reports that Bing Crosby has been advised to lay off television for at least one more year... "Leonard Sillman's New Faces" on NBC Thursday evenings, is a good show—and, as an added attraction, has no master of ceremonies.

Mary Rolfe, Henry's sister on "The Aldrich Family," is very happy. Her husband, Lyle Bettger, is home after four months in Chicago in "John Loves Mary," and a Cape Cod vacation is scheduled for the summer.

Elliott Lewis has been deluged with "gag gifts" since he did the feature narration of the voice of the horse in "The Winner's Circle." One was even sent him a bag of oats—collect.

Rosemary DeCamp of the "Dr. Christian" show wanted to be a doctor; nearest she has come to it is her role as his nurse. But she makes up for that frustration by keeping an eagle eye on the health of her family, as her three daughters will testify.

Jo Stafford finally has located a Stafford cat to add to her collection of "Staffordians." It is in Missouri and guaranteed to be in running condition.

Only One Per Cent of Vets Fail to Re-Pay Home Loans

CHICAGO.—Ninety-nine out of every 100 veterans have kept up their GI home loan payments promptly, according to a year-end survey by the United States Savings and Loan league.

Less than one per cent of the veterans' loans made by the 3,600 savings and loan associations and cooperative banks comprising the league's membership are reported to be delinquent.

Boy Reaches in Neighbor's Pocket for Spending Money

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Phillip Hoyt, 15, didn't miss a dollar bill from his pockets when an 8-year-old boy slipped out of a theater seat next to him.

But when the boy came back from the theater lobby with candy and slipped the change back into Hoyt's pocket, the coins made more noise. Hoyt called police.

Questioned by police, the boy admitted the theft.

Modernist Folks Aid Lonely Hermit

AKRON, O.—Although Elias Swarthouth, the hermit of Northampton township, north of here, is against most modern conveniences, including electric razors, safety razors, straight razors and shears, it was the modern generation that came to his aid when his home blew over.

The 86-year-old recluse lived most of his life in Northampton township, and 50 years in nearly the same location.

He did not live in exactly the same spot because once his home was burned out and he moved to the barn, which recently was tossed around somewhat by a big wind.

The ancient barn was lifted from its foundation and tilted to a 45-degree angle with the aged man trapped inside.

When the barn rolled back, his coal stove, a quantity of canned goods, his bed and a half dozen pet cats joined Swarthouth in the corner.

Everything, Swarthouth included, stayed there several hours until the Northampton volunteer fire department came to his rescue with an ax and chopped open the door. He was unhurt.

Township residents tried to put the barn back onto the foundation.

Woman Recovers Her Money From Dump After Hour Search

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Mrs. P. C. Smith was ready to believe in miracles after garbage collectors hauled off $800 she had placed temporarily in a trash box in the Smith grocery store.

Forgetting the money, she helped garbage collectors haul the box out of the store.

An hour later she remembered, and her husband dashed after the garbage truck. He enlisted five workers to help him at the city dump and after an hour's search, the money turned up. Smith took home the $800 minus the $5 bills he gave to each helper.

Reason to Be Nervous

One day Judge Landis was trying a bankruptcy case, wherein the defendant was charged with concealing assets from his creditors. His Honor was amazed to hear the man openly admit on the witness stand that he had destroyed all the papers which might throw light upon the charge.

"Why did you burn the papers?" the Judge demanded.
"I was nervous," the defendant replied.

"Are you nervous now?" his honor wanted to know.
"I don't know," the man replied.
"Then I'll find out," said Landis. Suiting action to word, Judge Landis slowly descended from his bench, took out his watch, and timed the defendant's pulse.

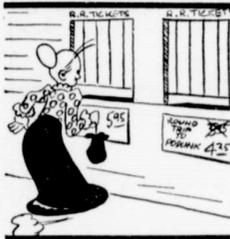

"No," his honor finally decided, "you don't seem to be nervous—but you should be."
"Why?" the defendant inquired.
"Because," Judge Landis wryly rejoined, "in about 10 minutes I'm going to send you to jail."

Wasted Energy

Teacher: "Can you give the class an example of wasted effort?"

Student: "Telling a hair-raising story to a bald-headed man."

BAGGAIN SEEKER

An old lady stepped up to the ticket window in a railway station and asked, "How much is a ticket to Cleveland?"

"That's two dollars and sixty-five cents," replied the ticket seller.
The old lady said, "I guess I may as well buy my ticket here. I've asked at all these windows now, and they all charge the same price."

Safety Precaution

The patient was fumbling in his pocket.

"You need not pay me in advance," said the dentist.
"I'm not going to," was the reply, "I was just counting my money before you give me gas."

CANNIBALISM

Little Boy in woodshed: "Father, did grandpa spank you when you were a little boy?"

Father with paddle: "Yes, my son."

Little Boy: "And did great-grandpa spank grandpa when he was a little boy?"

Father: "Yes, son."

Boy: "And did great-great-grandpa spank great-grandpa?"

Father: "Yes."

Boy: "Well, don't you think with my help you could overcome this inherited rowdiness?"

Bed Clothes

"Look here, mister," snarled the customs inspector. "You told me there was nothing in the suitcase except clothing and I found a bottle of whiskey."

"Sure," replied the accused one, "that's my nightcap."

Thoughtful Gift

Harold was, or had been, Aunt Matilda's favorite nephew. His name was still on the list for the annual gift distribution.

"What did you give him last year?" asked her companion.
"A check for $25," said Auntie, "and, poor boy, he told me he couldn't find words with which to thank me."

"And what are you giving him this year?"
"A dictionary."

Music-Lover

Sandy had reached his hundredth birthday and, of course, had to be interviewed by Harry.
"You have said," remarked Harry, "that you have never heard the playing of a piano, a fiddle, an organ, an accordion, nor even the bagpipes, and never listened to the radio. That's remarkable; but tell me, Sandy, what are you really fond of?"
"Music," answered the centenarian like a shot. "I have a kettle that whistles and sings!"

FILIBUSTER: This word originally meant a buccaneer such as those who plundered the Spanish colonies in America, and later, adventurers who led pirate armed expeditions into countries with which the country from which they set out was at peace at the time.

From this general idea, the term has come to be colloquially used to designate organized obstructionist tactics in legislative bodies. It is the practice of deliberately taking advantage of freedom of debate in the senate with a view to delay or prevent action on a measure under discussion.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

QUESTION: Our old house is full of chimneys, some of which we would like to use occasionally. They don't smoke, but they are open with no damper, so that they really consume warm air and fuel. Can a damper be purchased that will not require taking out half the chimney to install?

ANSWER: That cannot be done in a chimney that is already built. If you wish to close off the fireplace opening much of the time, have a sheet metal panel made to fit the opening that can be taken out when the fireplace is to be used. This panel will prevent the escape of warm air up the chimney.

QUESTION: Could I use a lacquer paint on my concrete floor? The cement work is a home job, and it seems to be coming off in spots. It washes off like pieces of sand or small stones.

ANSWER: Give up the idea of painting the floor with lacquer. You might be able to pour a new topping coat on the present floor, since it probably is rough enough already. It might be better to break it up and use it as a base for a new surfacing.

QUESTION: I have a large window, the pane of which when broken is expensive to replace. I am wondering if it would be practical to put in a vertical strip to divide the sash, thus using two panes half the present size. Could I do it myself?

ANSWER: It would be best to take the sash to a millwork shop to have the muntin bar inserted there. The sash will have to be grooved to hold the bar in place. If there is no mill handy, a competent carpenter should be able to do this for you.

QUESTION: How do you remove black marks on a varnished floor caused by bed rollers?

ANSWER: Rub lightly with a handful of very fine steel wool moistened with turpentine, then touch up the spots with a little paste wax.

Tarzan's Bed
Johnny "Tarzan" Weismuller is reported to have the biggest bed in Hollywood. It measures seven by eight feet. Actually, sleep is hindered if a bed is too small, but tall people don't have to be movie stars to remedy the situation. Extra length, extra width bedding now can be obtained at small extra cost.

BASEBALL
for the rest of the way. The victory avenged a last inning setback suffered at Grafton the last time out. The Utensils pounded out 14 hits off of two Grafton twirlers, B. Eernisse and Schwenner. At the same time Marx set down the opponents with 8 safeties. Two of the losers' runs were tallied in the last frame. Jerome Stautz came through with batting honors, collecting 3 singles in 5 trips. Frost and Kral slammed out two each, one of the latter's being a two bagger. Dickman and Riebe were the only Grafton hitters with two. Marx did not give up an extra base hit. Grafton was guilty of 7 errors behind their pitchers. Kewaskum used every player in uniform in the game. The Utensils hit the road again this Sunday, going to Mequon to battle that tough, second place team. Mequon won handily in the first engagement between the two here but Kewaskum has shown much improvement since and stands a chance to upset them.
