The Soft-Hearted Railroad Detective Thought He Wanted Coal to Take to His Poor Old Mother

By BILLY ROSE

If the man who was yard detective at the East River tugboat terminal 40 years ago will drop around to my office, I'd like to present him with a pair of down-front tickets for the show playing at my theater.

What did the yard dick do to rate these front-row ducats? Well, I can't answer that one without sketching in a bit of my bumptious background...

The year Senator Taft's pop became President, the Roses were living in a railroad flat on the lower East Side—four rooms in a row, each with a window that leaked cold climate. Our central heating system consisted of a squarish stove in the kitchen, and the cost of coal being what it was (15 cents a bag), it was seldom that the home fires were burning.

Billy Rose

Most of the time I went around the house with a lady's stocking stretched over my ears, but when it got so blustery that even that didn't help, I would stick an old fire bag into my pants, ease my way into the yard back of the tugboat terminal south of Manhattan bridge, and swipe as much coal as I could carry from the piles used to fire the boilers of the tugs.

Then, as now, I was built close to the ground and last of all got-out, so I usually got away clean as a clinker from the yard detective—an oyster-faced little man whose idea of a good time was to catch two coal thieves at once and knock their heads together.

One murderously cold February, I was stuffing an old sack with choice chunks of anthracite when the dick sneaked up and caught me black-handed.

"Don't you know what happens to kids who steal?" he said.

I could have told him they get warm, but decided not to.

"Don't tell me—let me guess," he went on. "Ya got a poor old mother and unless ya bring home some coal she'll catch her death of cold."

"How'd ya know?" I said.

"I also suppose yer old man hasn't worked in six months."

"It ain't that long," I said, "but he don't make much even when he does work."

"A dozen times a day I hear the same story," said the yard detective. "I know it like I know my name."

Suddenly, to my unbelief, he handed me the bag of coal and walked away. "Don't let me catch ya again," he said.

As I got to the gate he yelled, "Wait a minute," and scaled a silver dollar in my direction. "Maybe this'll help out."

I picked up the buck, floated out of the yard and kept floating until I came to a vacant lot on Rivington street where a bunch of my pals were making a snow man.

"Did ya get it?" one of them asked.

"Nothing to it," I said.

"We used two lumps for the eyes, a large chunk for the nose, a few smaller pieces for the mouth, and there was enough left over for a row of buttons down the front and a belt clear around the middle."

What did I do with the dollar? Well, there was a little cutie on Rivington street who had never given me a tumble, and so I offered to buy her a hot chocolate at Silkfin's drugstore.

"You mean you got money?" she said.

"I not only got for hot chocolate," I bragged, "but for movies and after, maybe, ice cream."

"That would be peachy," said the little doll, flashing the kind of smile that in later years I had to give up diamonds to see...

Well, there it is, the nasty little secret I've been harboring for 40 years. I wouldn't go so far as to say it's been keeping me awake nights, but—well, I'd feel a lot better if the old yard detective were to pick up those down-front ducats.

This Is Your Paper Local News Is Big, Too

By William R. Nelson

THE WORD "newspaper" oversimplifies the functions of the institution so named, because a newspaper publishes much more than the news of its community. Virtually all newspapers regularly contain editorials, features such as this, and advertising, none of which is included when speaking of news. Strangely enough, the histories of famous newspapers disclose most won fame because of contents other than news. That proves, editors believe, that readers approve of, want and enjoy a variety of material in their newspapers.

Functions of Newspaper

To give readers a better cross-section of current events, a newspaper impartially and objectively reports the news, discusses and interprets it with editorials, and entertains and informs in feature and advertising columns.

News is an accurate account of highlights of a happening of interest to the paper's readers. That is why it is necessary to say black is white, if that is what someone said, even though the reporter, editor and newspaper report differently. And that is why a report about a meeting of local officials is as important news here as a session of the legislature or of the congress.

The home town newspaper's editorials and its educational and entertainment features may not receive as widespread attention, numerically, as do those of metropolitan papers, but proportionately they are even more important. They are more closely representative of what the "grass roots" of our country think, approve and disapprove, because America's home towns are the backbone of our nation.

Voice of Majority

Sixty per cent of the people of the United States live in communities such as this, or on farms. What they believe, do and say is therefore the voice, will and heart of this country. And their newspapers therefore mirror majority desires and aims.

News, editorials, features and advertising combine in the home town newspaper to accurately reflect the community, to inform it, entertain it, and give it a voice in the larger affairs of our daily lives. There is no more important newspaper, anywhere, than this one.

Use Dry Sugar Pack for Frozen Berries (See Recipes Below)

SO MANY FOODS like peas, asparagus and strawberries which are coming to their peak of season now yield excellent results when frozen. If you have either home or commercial facilities for keeping them in this way, then it's time to make your plans soon.

Freezing foods is quick and easy. Results are excellent, and your table in mid-winter, showing off these delicacies, takes on the effect of a banquet.

The flavor and goodness of fresh foods is preserved during the freezing process. However, it's important to remember that foods come from the freezer just as good as when they are frozen, and no better.

Speed is Essential

Utmost speed should be used in getting fruits and vegetables into the freezer. The two hour rule which applies to canning should be used here, too. It's easier to observe, however, because there's no processing time to consider.

If you have your own garden, pick vegetables and fruits early in the morning when the dew is still on them. If you have to arrange to buy them, try to observe the same rule. Fruits and vegetables which have stood around are not as tender as when first picked; neither do they have the food values as freshly picked produce.

Have all equipment in readiness so that you can go ahead with full speed. Vegetables will have to be scalded, then dunked in ice water. Containers should be ready to fill and seal.

Plan to put foods in your own refrigerator promptly and plan to get them into your own or the commercial freezer as quickly as possible.

Freezing Raspberries, Strawberries

Both raspberries and strawberries give best results when they are frozen with sugar rather than with syrup since they will make their own juice in the carton.

Choose varieties which have been successfully tested for freezing. In raspberries these are Cuthbert, Latham or Viking. A 24-quart crate or about 36 pounds of raspberries will yield 24-26 quart cartons, each quart serving 6 to 8 people.

Marshall is the best common variety to use for frozen strawberries, a 24-quart crate will yield about 30 quart cartons.

Wash the berries in water which has been cooled with ice to 40°. Do not allow them to remain in the water for more than 30 seconds.

A good way to do this is to place the berries in a colander, after sorting, and then place the colander in water sufficient to cover. Shake gently, lift from water, drain and remove caps, using a sharp knife.

Place the fruit on a tray which has been lined with several thicknesses of absorbent toweling and place in refrigerator to drain and cool.

Place drained and cooled berries in a bowl and sprinkle sugar over

LYNN SAYS: Dress Up Ordinary Foods If You Serve Them Often

Are fruit salads an almost daily item at your table? The family will appreciate new color and flavor in the dressing. Beat some currant jelly into sweet French dressing for that nice, extra change.

If sandwiches are a stand-by on your luncheon menus, try this one for something different; use broiled bacon, lettuce and sliced tomato on buttered toast and serve with thin, hot American cheese sauce.

Leftover fish? They seem to be made for those green garden salads that are tossed together the last minute. Crumbled hard-cooked eggs improve them immensely.

Apple pie is good, but it can be improved with grated cheese propped on the top crust just before serving, while the pie is still warm, of course!

Ever tried baking cornbread in the skillet in which the chicken was fried? It's an excellent accompaniment to the crispy fried poultry, especially when served with cream gravy.

them, using one part sugar to 4 parts of berries. Or, alternate sugar and berries in freezing carton. Seal and freeze carton at once.

Frozen Peaches

Use tree-ripened varieties, such as Hale Haven or J. H. Hale in the yellow type.

One bushel of peaches will give about 24 quart cartons frozen.

Place about 18 peaches in a wire basket and plunge into hot water for one minute, then in cold water and slip off skins. Slice and place in a bowl, sprinkling with one tablespoon of lemon juice as you do so. Add sugar, one part to four of fruit. Turn gently with wooden spoon.

Pack gently into carton and seal. Freeze at once.

Handle peaches gently and make certain all sugar is mixed with fruit before packaging.

Allow 1/2-inch head space for fruits and vegetables packed in pint cartons. Allow about 1/4-inch additional when using quart cartons.

Frozen Peas

Tender, not fully matured peas are best to use. Wash pods before shelling and discard all small or wrinkled peas.

If pods are full and difficult to shell, scald with boiling water for one minute.

Peas then, should be scalded, after shelling, also; by steam, three minutes; by boiling water, one minute; or by pressure cooker for two minutes. Cool in ice water and drain on absorbent toweling.

Seal at once and place in freezer or refrigerator immediately, not allowing more than one hour to elapse from the time they are packaged to the time they are freezing starts.

The varieties giving best results are Thos, Laxton and Alderman. One bushel yields 6-8 quart cartons.

Frozen Green Beans

Iron utensils should not be used for scalding as they will discolor beans during scalding.

For small beans, cut shoe string style, scald with steam for five minutes, or by boiling water for three minutes. For medium whole beans, use steam for six minutes, boiling water for four minutes or give them five minutes in a pressure cooker.

Cool in iced water, drain, pack and freeze.

For quick preparation, after washing, grasp as many beans in hand as possible and snip off the stem end.

You'll never need to apologize for fish filets which have been baked in thick cream with sliced mushrooms, chives and a sprinkling of paprika. Icy cold sliced cucumbers and new potatoes are perfect with it.

Omelets can be improved with herbs. You might like to try this egg dish with sweet marjoram, tarragon or basil.

Cinnamon sprinkled into apple sauce is a perfect accompaniment to French toast be they served for luncheon or breakfast.

A novel way to serve those garden beets is to cut them into strips and toss with sweet marjoram, tarragon or basil.

Cinnamon sprinkled into apple sauce is a perfect accompaniment to French toast be they served for luncheon or breakfast.

Beat together equal amounts of honey and butter until fluffy for a delicately different sauce for pancakes.

THE FICTION CORNER VALUABLE MAN

By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE DOOR MARKED "Private" opened and a girl appeared. "Come in please, Mr. Jeffrey," she said.

Tully dropped the magazine he had been reading onto the reception room table, rose, buttoned the coat of his double-breasted suit, straightened his tie and stepped past the girl.

"Mr. Gunner," said the girl, "has an appointment this morning. He asked our Mr. Jacobs to talk to you."

A rage seized Tully, and a determination. He thought: "To hell with Gunner and his job! I'm going back to Boston. But first I'm going in there and tell that yes-man what I figure I'm worth."

The yes-man was a typical, efficient yes-man, small, bespectacled and used to handling unpleasant duties for Mr. Gunner.

"Sit down, sit down, Jeffrey," he said. "We understand you have a letter. You're seeking employment. Mr. Gunner is very sorry to have to advise that at the moment there's nothing. Not a thing."

"Good," said Tully. "I decided not to take the job anyway. I decided you can't pay what I'm worth."

"Really?" said Mr. Jacobs, arching his brow. "And that is?"

"Two hundred and seventy-five dollars a week!" said Tully. He rose. "Good day, Mr. Jacobs. Give my uncle's regards to Mr. Gunner."

Mr. Jacobs sat at his desk with pursed lips and stared thoughtfully slammed but closed with a determined firmness. Presently he rose and invaded the privacy of portly Mr. Gunner.

Briefly Mr. Jacobs outlined what was in his mind.

"Asking $275, eh? Said he didn't want our job? Probably offered a better job by Erwin and Company. Called here to pay the respects of his uncle, Humm. Treated him rather shoddy, didn't he, Jacobs? Must be a good man. We need good men. Get hold of him, Jacobs."

Mr. Jacobs tried Tully's hotel. There was a wait, then the clerk told him Mr. Jeffrey didn't wish to talk to any representative of Gunner, Inc.

MR. JACOBS went back to the office. Three times that afternoon he called Tully's hotel, but without success. He reported to Mr. Gunner. Mr. Gunner grew thoughtful.

"Jacobs, this youngster is probably the very man we've been looking for. Young, fresh viewpoint, new ideas. If he's worth $275 to Irwin or any one else, he's worth $300 to us. I'll handle it myself."

When Mr. Gunner decided to handle anything he went to town. This tenaciousness was responsible for the success of his present firm. Never give up when you think you have something good, was his motto. Thus it was that Tully, returning home late from the theater, found a middle-aged, portly, important looking man parked before his door.

"I'm August Gunner," the portly man said. "My man Jacobs—" "Told you I said you couldn't pay what I'm worth," Tully finished. "He was right. You can't. Good night, Mr. Gunner."

Uninvited, Mr. Gunner followed Tully inside the room. "I think," he said, "that your uncle rather expected you to go to work for us when you came to New York."

"Correct," said Tully. "So what?" "Your uncle is one of my dearest friends. We'll pay you $300 a week," Tully stared. A sneer curved his lips. Mr. Gunner, he thought, was kidding.

Suddenly Tully realized that Mr. Gunner wasn't kidding. He swallowed, but managed to keep his voice under control. "All right," he said, "I'll take it. For the sake of my uncle."

Outside in the corridor, Mr. Gunner mopped his forehead. What a break! The kid was probably worth twice that much. And this uncle of his. He'd have to remind Jacobs to find out the old boy's name, first thing in the morning.

her greatest victories was won when she refused to have her nose made over! When her picture career petered out in 1932, she became a successful business woman and has made only three films since then. The latest, Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard" is so good that hardened critics have seen it three times. Once again she has proved she is the fabulous Gloria.

"The Theatre Guild of the Air" vacations beginning June 4, but will return Sept. 10 on NBC for a 39-week period, again sponsored by U. S. Steel. Starting June 11, the same company will sponsor a 13-week series of broadcasts by the NBC symphony orchestra, as it did last year. Famous conductors and distinguished soloists will appear in programs of light classics.

Bill Holden says his two young sons suffer from "Hopalong Cassidyitis," like thousands of other youngsters, they never miss their idol's television shows. Bill doesn't know it yet, but something new has been added to those Hopalong suits and guns that children now demand; it's "Hopalong Cassidy" wallpaper. Now will the paper hangers be busy all summer!

MacDonald Carey, in New York to publicize "The Lawless," set a record when he appeared on 80 television and radio shows during the two weeks, and made 30 other appearances before press, public opinion and exhibitor groups.

Five technical advisers were employed for scenes in RKO's "The Secret Fury," starring Claudette Colbert and Robert Ryan. They checked on sequences laid in a psychiatrist's office, a mental hospital, a jail and county offices.

Jan Sterling had to cope with rumors that she was engaged to Paul Douglas as soon as she began wearing those rings he gave her—three gold bands, each set with a pearl topped by a tiny diamond. They fit over each other.

Doris Dalton, playing the new role of "Vivian Jarrett" in "This Is Nora Drake" on CBS, has had an impressive stage career. She has appeared in any number of plays, played opposite John Barrymore in "My Dear Children."

ODDS AND ENDS... Don't forget that "The Halls of Ivy," starring the Colmans, has moved to Wednesday nights, still on NBC... Elliott Lewis has signed a new long term contract with Phil Harris, to continue as "Frankie Remley"... Hank Hope, brother of Bob, is a disc jockey on Hollywood's KFWB... Joan Crawford's poodle, Cligout, won't make his film debut in her "The Damned Don't Cry" after all, his scenes ended on the cutting room floor.

"Good," said Tully. "I decided not to take the job anyway."

Justice of Peace Looked In Own Jail by Prisoner

CEDARBURG, WIS. — William Deppisch, Cedarburg justice of the peace, was still ruffled over an incident the other day at the jail.

Deppisch and a policeman were trying to lock up a reckless driver who didn't want to go. Finally, the steel door slammed shut, and all was well—except for the fact that the resisting motorist was the only one outside. Deppisch and the policeman were locked cozily inside.

BASEBALL FOR BOYS Little League Provides Baseball For U.S. Youngsters 8 to 12

Most people when thinking about organized baseball instantly picture the major or minor leagues, the set-up ruled by czar "Happy" Chandler. They miss entirely the strongest baseball idea which has ever spread over the United States, that of the Little League, baseball scaled down to fit boys between the ages of 8 and 12.

Eddie Listander, hurler for Pensacola, runner-up in the 1949 Little League world series, shows Mickey McConney, chief of the scouting section of Brooklyn Dodgers, his pitching form.

Teams Are Sponsored

Although the country has not fully recovered from the depression, Stotz started out to find a sponsor who would help him financially get the idea working. He made 56 calls before he succeeded.

The 57th call produced results. Three other sponsors quickly fell into line and the Little League opened with four teams. The first year, however, was little more than supervised sandlot play. But each year the idea has captured the imagination of more people, until today Stotz gives his full time to the organization as president and commissioner of the league.

All teams and leagues are sponsored locally. It costs approximately $200 to uniform and equip a team, or $800 for a four team league. The U.S. Rubber company supports the national Little League headquarters and bears all expenses of the week playoff at Williamsport for the national pennant.

The league is specifically for boys between the ages of 8 and 12. Each team consists of 12 uniformed players with not more than six eligible reserve substitutes. No team is allowed to have more than five players in uniform who are 12 years old, and not less than three players age 10 or less.

The regulations specify that a league consist of from four to six teams. There is no limit on the number of leagues in a city or community. The national organization covers the league from local champions to state and sectional champions, and finally the Little League world series at Williamsport during the last week of August.

The regulation diamond has been scaled down to two-thirds size for the kids. The bases are 60 feet apart and the pitcher stands 40 feet and 4 inches from home plate. The

At first the idea spread to towns adjacent to Williamsport. Then it appeared in neighboring states. Word of mouth publicity appears to be responsible for its progress.

The amazing thing about the Little League is the way it has grown. There was none of the usual promotion or high pressure methods used in putting across the idea. Perhaps one of the reasons for its growth is due to the ages of the youngsters. Mothers are always interested in what their boys of 8 to 12 are doing. And, believe it or not, women are making up a greater portion of the spectators at Little League games.

Finally, two years ago, the United States Rubber company became interested in the movement and since then has given financial support to the extent of playing host to the teams qualifying for the championship series and support for the Little League headquarters.

Stotz now devotes all his time to the league. A considerable amount of it is spent traveling over the United States explaining the movement. While his speaking engagements are extensive, in each case he appears only on invitation.

Prominent baseball officials have endorsed the Little League. "Happy" Chandler, base ball czar, said: "Naturally organized baseball is behind the Little League movement."

"Sponsors of the Little League baseball are doing the nation and professional baseball a service of incalculable value," says Bruce Dudley, president of the American Association.

And G. M. Tautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs, added, "I heartily endorse this work as one of the fine contributions that is being made to the youths of our land."

Five Points Listed

The effect of organized baseball on the kids is tremendous. They are proud of their uniforms and teams. During summer months a kid is occupied with his team and will think twice before doing anything that will jeopardize his status as a player.

The presence of crowds at their games proves to each boy that his community is interested. Close association with other youngsters with regard to race, creed, or color, gives then a start in the basic principles of Americanism.

There are five basic points under which the Little League operates:

- 1. Little League is a non-profit organization.
2. It is designed to promote good health, good habits, good sportsmanship and good citizenship in the youths of America.
3. Little League essentially is a community activity with a national tie-up. Regional and championship play-offs provide youngsters a challenge to excel so maybe in the future he can make the big league.
4. It is without prejudice of race, color or creed.
5. Little League is big league baseball for the little boys of America.

Mothers Are Fans

In the interest of safety, steel cleats have been banned from the league and now sport goods manufacturers are making a special rubber sole shoe for the kids. Uniforms are standard, and professional umpires, working free, call all the Little League world series games.

BROWN SWISS BREEDERS TO HOLD CANTON SHOW MAY 31

Brown Swiss breeders from five counties comprising Canton No. 7 of the Wisconsin division of the Brown Swiss Breeders' association will hold their summer canton show at the Washington county fairgrounds at Slinger on Wednesday, May 31, according to E. E. Skalsky, Washington county agricultural agent. About 25 to 50 of the best Brown Swiss animals in this area of the state will be on exhibition. These animals will be judged in the afternoon of that day and will compete for canton honors.

The following counties are included in Canton No. 7: Dodge, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Washington, Ozaukee. A good speaking program which will include a roping and animal throwing demonstration and a hoof trimming demonstration will be presented. Entertainment will be provided during the noon luncheon hour. There will be a refreshment stand upon the grounds serving noon hour luncheons. R. W. Stumbo, national fieldman for the Brown Swiss Breeders' association, will be in charge of the day's events. The public is cordially invited to attend the canton show which will begin at about 10:30 a. m. and continue in the afternoon with the judging of the entries.

FARMERS ASKED TO SUPPORT JUNE DAIRY PUBLICITY FUND

Dairy farmers in Wisconsin are being asked to contribute one cent a pound for butterfat marketed during the month of June. This money is used by the Wisconsin Dairy association for publicity purposes for all dairy products. Dairy farmers in more than forty states contribute to such a fund. The various states support the American Dairy association, from which source most of the dairy advertising comes. More than one-half of the dairy plants of Washington county have the consent of their farmer patrons to take the June check off for state and national dairy publicity. Dairy plants not now co-operating are invited to do so.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Senator Pepper Is Defeated; Savings Bond Drive Underway; Loyalty Files Opened to Probe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

POLITICS: A New Trend?

Political observers were face to face with the question: Is there a new political trend in the wind? In Florida 36-year-old George Smathers defeated Sen. Claude Pepper, one-time new dealer, by well over 65,000 in the democratic primary.

The winner, however, told Republicans to take no comfort from his victory. He said: "The people of Florida in this election proved they were unwilling to depart from the well-established and basic principles of the Democratic party. They do not wish to venture off down the side road of extremism or dangerous experimentation."

"Nor are they interested in turning the clock back to isolationism and the do-nothing attitude of the Republican party."

Meanwhile, the people of Texas elected the first Republican congressman in 24 years when Ben H. Guill, 40-year-old Pampa broker and former schoolteacher, defeated 10 Democrats. It was a sudden death election to fill the unexpired term of Gene Worley who had resigned to become a federal judge.

Guill said he was going to Washington as one small protest and added: "... If I go up there as one small protest, maybe the powers that be won't think they have the whole country in the bag. Maybe some of those big shots will take a look at this little segment of Texas and take warning."

BOND DRIVE: Save for Independence

With a gentle tap on the Liberty Bell, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder on May 15 opened the greatest savings bond drive in the peacetime history of the country. The drive continues through July 4.

The bell is the symbol of the 1950 drive. The theme: "Save for your independence—buy U.S. savings bonds."

Fifty-two replicas of the historic relic are on tour of the 48 states, District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. They will visit over 2,000 communities and will be viewed by millions of people.

The bells were made at the foundry of the Sons of Georges Piccard at Anney-le-Vieux in France and are said to produce the exact tone of the Liberty Bell before it was cracked in 1835.

The treasury department has one objective—to promote the sale of savings bonds in order to encourage thrift. An attempt will be made to contact every potential buyer of savings bonds in the nation.

At the conclusion of the drive, Snyder said a bell will go to each state and territory for permanent exhibit.

INDOCHINA: To Get Aid

Secretary of State Acheson announced in Paris that Indochina would get immediate American aid in the form of military equipment in an effort to rid the country of the guerrilla war which has been going on for four years.

He announced the bulk of $75,000,000 already appropriated to combat communism in the Far East will go to the French backed Vietnamese of ex-emperor Bao Dai and the associated states of Cambodia and Laos to fight Moscow backed Ho Chi Minh.

Many observers felt the move was an important one in the battle against communism in that section of the world. Some believed the Communists may have made too many gains and the aid will be "too little and too late."

Acheson indicated the United States would expect a greater degree of self-government for the three Indochina states under the French.

He added, "The United States considers the situation to be such as to warrant its according economic aid and military equipment to the associated states of Indochina and to France in order to assist peaceful and democratic development."

KING: Crowns Self

Boston-born Phumiphon Aduldet, who has been on the front pages of American newspapers a great deal recently because of his marriage and the announcement that he had written music for a Broadway production, lifted a nine-tiered crown on his head and became Rama IX, king of Thailand.

The coronation was performed with all the mystic pomp and ceremony of the Chakri dynasty. The ceremony began with the traditional sacred bath. Phumiphon dipped himself into waters gathered from all parts of his story-book kingdom.

A court astrologer proclaimed the moment auspicious and a Brahmin high priest handed Phumiphon the nine-tiered crown. The boyish king placed it on his head.

In a world with fewer and fewer kings, Thailand at last had a new one, successor to his brother, Ananda Mahidol, who was mysteriously slain four years ago.

The Winner!

George Smathers, 36, casts his vote in his race against Senator Claude Pepper for the U.S. senate. Smathers defeated Pepper by well over 65,000 votes. Pepper had been a member of the upper house for 14 years. His defeat is considered a blow against President Truman.

SPY HUNT: Files Available

The Communist spy hunt, called by many a witch hunt and a mud slinging campaign against administration big shots, took a new turn when President Truman agreed to give investigators the complete state department loyalty files on the 81 cases cited by Senator McCarthy.

Although Truman's approval did not cover F.B.I. files, a great amount of F.B.I. material is included in the reports.

It now comes to light that the 81 persons named by McCarthy have been investigated by four other congressional committees.

Senator Tydings, chairman of the subcommittee which has been looking into McCarthy's allegations, said: "No adverse report concerning these employees came to the floor of the house or the floor of the senate and none was sent to the state department after the other investigations."

Some sources are saying public opinion is beginning to blow the lid off the scandals of the Truman administration. But others believe too much time and money are being wasted in an effort to create Communist hysteria for political reasons.

The public, meanwhile, was becoming a little bored and skeptical of explanations from either side. Some logical explanation of what has been going on had better be made and soon, the voter was saying.

TRUMAN: On Tour

President Truman began his western tour with four speeches on behalf of the Brannan agricultural program, but took time also to preach the gospel against isolationism.

And it was a new Truman, using gentle ridicule against his political enemies instead of the free-swinging, sledgehammer blows he used on a similar trip two years ago. That in itself was enough to make many a politician raise his eyebrows.

The President shoved his needle of ridicule deep when he touched on isolationism. He said:

"Now isolationism would be a cheap policy to follow. It would be easy and cheap to stop spending money on our army and navy and air force and to stop sending supplies to other countries who survived the great war. We can stop these things today."

"Isolationism would be mighty cheap for today and tomorrow and maybe next week. You remember how cheap isolationism was in the 1920's. Taxes were cut, at least for the big fellows, but look at the terrible price we have paid for isolationism in the second world war."

"Today exactly the same issue faces us. There are still some men who keep telling you that we can economize by following an isolationist policy. These men can't see beyond the end of their noses."

"They don't see that isolationism would let the rest of the world be swallowed up by communism. That would certainly bring on a new world war just as it did in 1939. We engaged in 1921, just as Russia today is doing with the help of our own isolationists."

Beauty

Elizabeth Taylor, generally known as one of the most beautiful women in the movie world, was married in what has been publicized as the movie capital's wedding of the year.

The groom is Conrad (Nick) Hilton, scion of the hotel family. Seven hundred guests were invited to the wedding and about 200 to a reception at the Bel-Air country club.

Elizabeth's wedding gown was a production in itself and aroused a brief controversy. One reporter said that it would feature a plunging neckline. The horrified designer, Helen Rose of MGM, quickly squelched the report. "The gown is about as unplunging as anything can be," she said.

The gown, which Miss Rose termed a "nice modest, pretty dress that any girl would wear," required 25 yards of pure silk satin and handfulls of seed pearls and beads. The studio footed the bill.

LABOR: Strike Settled

The 100-day-old Chrysler strike, the second longest and costliest in the history of the automobile industry, has been settled.

The union claimed it won the "10 cents an hour package" in pensions and hospital and medical benefits for which the strike was called.

To put the strike above the mercenary level, UAW president Walter P. Reuther said, "The Chrysler strike was a part of a great human crusade to build a better tomorrow and a better world."

But labor observers said the strike was too long and too costly for anyone to benefit. About 89,000 Chrysler workers in 25 plants and 50,000 in supplier plants had been idle.

Also on the labor front, John L. Lewis announced that the UMW welfare fund would resume payment of benefits next month. Benefits were suspended for almost a year during the UMW's drawn out strikes and restricted work weeks.

Another important move in the labor world was the announcement of William Green of the AFL that his union is willing to meet with the CIO to form a united organization "of all forces and groupings of organized labor."

In a letter to Philip Murray, Green proposed:

- 1. To co-ordinate work on economic, legislative and political problems. 2. To achieve organic unity.

T-H LAW: Non-Red Oath

Labor unions, bitter enemies of the Taft-Hartley act since the day it was enacted, found themselves confronted again with one of the most disliked provisions of the law. The U.S. supreme court upheld the provision that requires union officials to file non-Communist oaths if their unions are to use machinery of the national labor relations board.

Both national and local officers of most unions have filed such affidavits, although a few holdouts remain.

Chief Justice Vinson said in his 31-page opinion, "Those who, so Congress has found, would subvert the public interest cannot escape all regulations because, at the same time, they carry on legitimate political activities. To encourage unions to displace them from positions of great power over the national economy while at the same time leaving free the outlets by which they may pursue legitimate political activities of persuasion and advocacy, does not seem to us to contravene the purposes of the first amendment."

DERBY: Near Record Bet

A Texas colt and a Texas boy won the greatest sport event on the American scene—the 76th running of the Kentucky derby. The colt was Middleground. The boy was Bill Boland of Corpus Christi.

There was another news story in the event, however. Those who kept an eagle eye on the nation's purse were startled that wagering on the race was only $5,016 short of the record.

A total of $1,248,026 was bet. The record handle of $1,253,042 was set in 1947.

For the full nine-race derby day card, the handle was the third highest in history. A total of $3,559,382 was wagered. The 1947 record was $3,636,403. The handle in 1946, second highest in history, was $3,668,208.

If betting is any indication of the economic trend, the prospect for the rest of 1950 would seem excellent. Observers point out that people don't wager when times are hard.

Beauty Married

Beautiful Elizabeth Taylor and Conrad (Nick) Hilton, Jr., son of the hotel magnate, were married in what was publicized as the Hollywood wedding of the year. At the license bureau the clerk told Hilton he didn't look old enough. Hilton went home to get his birth certificate.

GERMANY: Greater Freedom

Two important announcements concerning Germany, one from Russia and one from the western powers, were in the news.

1. The Russians have agreed, it is reported, to city-wide elections in divided Berlin. But with conditions, of course.

2. The western powers are near agreement to give the Bonn republic virtually complete leeway in its political and economic affairs. The Soviet proposal is nothing more than a move to get Berlin under its control, observers report. The catch of the proposal is the condition under which the election could be held.

Among the Russian terms was one that would require the withdrawal of the occupation troops of all four powers from the city. Observers pointed out this would mean pulling Russian troops back only to the outskirts of the city while American, British, and French units would have to be evacuated to western Germany.

SPORTLIGHT The Magicians of the Moist Ball

By GRANTLAND RICE

THEY WERE ARGUING the other day, just a fuzzy bunch sitting around, about the best spitball pitchers in the good old days when saliva slants were baffling bewildered batsmen.

They were arguing about the best of the lot, only few seemed to agree. Ed Walsh, however, got the most votes, and he was the natural choice. Big Ed, the Meriden magician of the moist ball, won 40 games one season — 1908 — and saved 12 others. He only worked in 66 games.

That was the year — 1908 — when Walsh struck out 15 men, allowed two hits and was beaten 1 to 0 by Addie Joss's completely perfect game.

There was another spitball master who wasn't far behind. McGraw always said he had the finest pitching motion in baseball. His name was Bugs Raymond. Bugs first collected fame around 1903 at Shreveport, La. That year he bet somebody $25 that he could eat a whole turkey, drink two bottles of scotch and win a double-header. He did.

Bugs came to Atlanta next spring to join the Crackers. He arrived at high noon and he was due to work against the Boston Americans, world's champions that year. This was the team that had beaten Pittsburgh the fall before, with Hans Wagner, Tommy Leach, Will Bransfield, Fred Clarke, Deacon Phillippe, etc., aboard. Bill Dinneen had been the main and winning workhorse for Boston which also featured Cy Young.

I happened, for some odd reason, to be in a bar that day when a trampish-looking character came in. He hadn't shaved and he wore no tie. He was bull-throated and practically bare of arm.

"How about a drink?" he asked me. I had to buy him two drinks. He also wanted a third.

"You must be Bugs Raymond," I said. "And you are booked to pitch against Boston today."

"What of it?" he asked. "How do we get to the park?" "We walk," I said, being down to my last nickel after Raymond's two drinks.

The walk was about a mile and a half. Bugs spent most of his time throwing rocks at pigeons, mockingbirds and telegraph poles. He must have thrown a hundred stones.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round DREW PEARSON

Jaycees Sponsor Tour

A GANGLING Austrian youth with an engaging smile is the pay-off in a great campaign for international good will. He is Eric Geiger, a Junior Chamber of Commerce member from Salzburg, Austria, and now an adopted son of Texas.

Geiger has been touring the United States as a guest of patriotic jaycees in the U.S.A., living in their homes, taking part in their dinner-table arguments, and meeting their friends.

The project began with letters exchanged between the Salzburg and Amarillo, Texas, junior chambers of commerce. Finally, as one step in promoting people-to-people friendship, the Texans "adopted" the Salzburg chamber and arranged for Eric's visit to the U.S.A.

He stayed in Amarillo with a different member each day, and eventually arrived in Washington where he watched sessions of congress, took in the Lattimore hearing, and met Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Congress fascinated Geiger. "It is so democratic and so individual," he said. "In our parliament if a member dares defy his party he must resign. Here, you have so much freedom!"

Communist Who's Who

The Communist Daily Worker has violently denounced Earl Browder, ex-leader of the Communists, and Bella V. Dodd, ex-Communist, following their testimony that Owen Lattimore was never a Communist party member nor a Soviet spy.

You can't tell who's where or when about Communists any more. Speaking of who's where, the files of the Communist New Masses of Massachusetts, Leverett Saltonstall (now senator), wrote a special article for the New Masses in 1944 stating: "The Moscow pact and Cairo and Teheran parleys are the answer to the prayers of millions of people that nations can get along together."

Better not let Senator McCarthy or Congressman Smathers see that. Alasdair Gardner Cowles, Jr., publisher of Look, Quick and Flair praised the Russians in the same New Masses. So did A. M. Hamilton, vice president of American Locomotives. Incidentally, Earl Browder was expelled as boss of the Communist party for repeatedly arguing that Russia and capitalist America could live together harmoniously.

Capital News Capsules

KANSAS CITY CLEANUP—Most interesting fact developed at the Kansas City crime probe is that big racketeers are carefully obeying federal laws. They aren't afraid of state and city laws where local officials are easier to bribe. But they are afraid of federal laws. That's why the underworld is leaning over backward not to get caught in conspiracy. In Kansas City, at least, they operate in small groups, rather than in syndicates that cross state lines.

WHAT MCCARTHY REALLY SAID—Secretary of State Acheson now has two affidavits from people who heard and recorded Senator McCarthy's famous speech at Wheeling, W. Va., stating that the state department had 205 card-carrying Communists. The manager of the local radio station, who recorded McCarthy's speech, is one of those who is giving the state department an affidavit.

BYRD'S LOBBY—Senators can thank their colleague, Harry Byrd of Virginia, for increasing their office work. Byrd secretly inspired a flood of telegrams to congress on deficit spending. He even dictated what several groups should say in their wires to congress. The farm equipment association promptly appealed to its dealers to carry out Byrd's bidding but warned: "Please do not mention Senator Byrd's name in your telegram to congressmen, and change the wording around so that all wires will not read the same."

AIKEN'S PAID AUDIENCE—Good old Senator Aiken of Vermont can add the name of another public official who has been speaking to paid audiences — himself. Aiken stirred up a national hoopla over the fact that the agriculture department paid Minnesota county committee men to hear Secretary of Agriculture Brannan speak in St. Paul. But the other night, Aiken, himself, addressed a similar meeting in Burlington. They were also paid, as is the custom in every state.

U.S. COLD - WAR STRATEGY—GHQ for the new cold war offensive will be the grimy old state, war and navy building next to the White House. The planning of strategy will be by two agents known to few Americans—the national security council and the national security resources board. They will call the signals for the defense department, atomic energy commission, the state department, ECA, and other agencies. This explains why Stuart Symington, a head-up operator, was taken from his post as secretary of air to run the resources board.

Under The Dome The next GOP complaint on security leaks will be against government officials who drink too much at cocktail parties, then blab too freely about their work. Republicans are now investigating a report that one high official told cocktail guests how many atomic bombs we have, where they are hidden and how they are protected. The civil aeronautics board has just turned down an offer by Air Transport Associates and Golden North Airways to fly the mails to Alaska.

Electric 'Cowboy' Will Aid Ranchers Economic Way to Keep Stock on Home Pastures

Come spring, an electric "cowboy" will ride the range to help farmers and ranchers keep their stock in the pasture and out of planted fields.

This cowboy is the old stand-by 8-volt Winchester "Hot Spark" battery that years ago gave a balky model T a frosty-morning pickup. Cowboy Hot Spark is more useful than ever on the farm now because he's the waterproof dry cell buckaroo that makes the "touch-me-not" electric fence a safe and economical way to keep the stock where it belongs.

Electric fencing with the use of dry cell batteries is one of the farmers' most inexpensive means to keep his stock where he wants it.

ELECTRIC FENCE HEIGHTS IN INCHES

HORSES	30-40
COWS	30-36
12-18 CALVES
10-18 SHEEP GOATS
6-18 PIGS

Clearly illustrated are the correct heights for electric fence. In states where barbed wire is legal, it is usually preferred.

According to W. S. Allen, general manager of the electrical division of Olin Industries, Inc., who is a farmer to boot.

Little or no knowledge of electricity is required as reliable fence controllers approved by underwriters, which keep the current going to the electric fence intermittently many times a minute, come with simple instructions easy to follow.

Electric fence wire can be moved from one location to another, but it is best to make permanent installations. Metal or wood fence posts are suitable. Posts to fence horses should be from 40 to 50 feet apart. Twenty-five to 40 feet apart is satisfactory for smaller animals.

In states where barbed wire is legal, it is usually preferred. Like any other electric fence wire, it should be fastened to the posts by insulators and should not come into direct contact with posts, weeds or the ground. Inexpensive solid type, but never split type, glass or porcelain insulators should be used rather than old rubber or necks of bottles. Substitutes are a poor economy as they don't work well or last long.

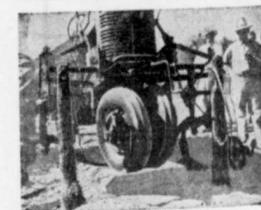

Where gates are required, attach the wire to a spring to maintain tension and continue the wire through the center of a wood or rubber handle to a hook to fasten to a continuation of the wire on the other side of the gate.

How high the wire should be strung from the ground depends upon the size of the animals to be fenced. Generally, you measure the distance to the ground from about the middle of the animals' head when grazing. Following are fence heights for various animals:

6 to 16 inches	... pigs
12 to 18 inches	... calves
10 to 18 inches	... sheep, goats
30 to 36 inches	... cows
30 to 40 inches	... horses

With your fence built, just attach Cowboy Hot Spark and a grounded fence controller and you're in business to charge a fence that can be twelve to fifteen miles long. And "Hot Spark" will last five or six months before you need to replace your dry cell cowboy.

Simplifies Work

Homemade equipment simplifies removing attachments from tractor—two upright posts with clutch-like levers at their tops hold up attachments after they have been unbolted from a tractor. One man can do the job without lifting.

Screwworm Flies Start Most Widespread Year

The U. S. department of agriculture reports screwworm flies apparently are starting their most destructive and widespread year, especially in southern states.

Stockmen are urged to take immediate steps to protect themselves from livestock losses. The bureau especially recommends inspection of animals at least twice a week.

Spring Is Farm's Most Dangerous Accident Time

The spring accident season for farmers is at hand, national safety directors report. In urging farmers to take safety measures, two rules were pointed out that will save many lives this spring.

They are: Be especially careful when operating tractors, discs and plows; and, don't let your children ride on tractors and other farm machinery. These kind of accidents occur often.

"SHOOTING IN THE GULF"

weekly Picture story

In the constant search for more oil for Americans, who are using 40 per cent more than ever before, engineers have pushed out into the Gulf of Mexico. Working from boats, the crews explode small dynamite charges beneath the surface picking up resulting shock waves on seismometers. Interpretation of seismograph records shows the geological formations under the sea bottom, indicating whether or not conditions are favorable to the accumulation of oil. The crew (left) is marking position for a seismometer.

Experts with explosives, (right) handle cans of dynamite with smiling aplomb as they prepare a charge to be exploded in a shot hole, drilled from a special barge. Force of the explosion is controlled by the number of cans fitted together.

At left a Shell Oil company crew lowers a long length of dynamite cans into the casing which lines the 80-foot-deep hole. It's a difficult task from a wave-tossed boat. Notice lifejackets worn by crew.

A veteran of many underwater explosions, the grizzled explosives expert at right is connecting the detonating switch just prior to the seismic explosion which will cause a miniature man-made earthquake.

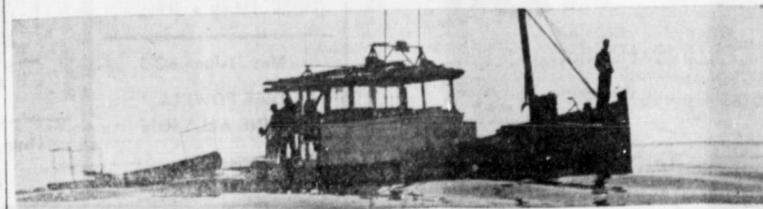

Waiting for the order to fire, the shooting crew (left) watches for possible drift from the toy balloon which marks the location of a suspended charge.

There she goes, and a geyser of water (right) shoots 100 feet into the air as the suspended charge is detonated, sending shock waves to be picked up by the string of seismometers.

Experts (left) interpret seismometer recordings of the shock waves. Interpreted by experts, these records give an amazingly accurate picture of subsurface conformation.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Mother's Love Must Be Wise
By Lawrence Gould

Do all mothers want their sons to be men?

Answer: Most mothers would say they do, but unfortunately a good many do not. A woman who at heart hates men or resents what she regards as the unfair advantage their sex gives them over women will unconsciously be tempted to express these feelings by suppressing all distinctively male qualities in her son. She may smother the aggressive impulses without which he cannot win a man's place in the world, or make him so much afraid to play the male role with a woman that he either will not marry or will submit to a wife's domination.

than the writer. For the writer can express his own ideas and daydreams, while the actor plays a character who is not himself and expresses the emotions of the playwright. Both types usually are neurotic, but the actor is the more inhibited of the two.

Are "marriage prediction tests" trustworthy?

Answer: No, thinks Dr. Albert Ellis, consulting psychologist and marriage counselor. Many of them have been worked out on an "arm-chair basis," and tested on people who are not fair samples of the general public. They have shown enough success to justify further experimenting with them, but not yet enough to "have much practical value in predicting the marital adjustment of normal individuals. . . . The present-day widespread use of marriage prediction scales for individual marriage counseling practice cannot be scientifically encouraged."

Are writers "frustrated actors"?

Answer: No, says Dr. Edmund Bergler in the magazine, Imago. This curious theory, recently offered in an explanation of Dickens and Poe, is at variance with psychoanalytic findings. The immediate urge of both writers and actors is to "show off," but the actor really does so less directly

KEEPING HEALTHY

Coronary Disease Hits Men Often

By Dr. James W. Barton

ALTHOUGH HEART DISEASE is the greatest killer of modern times, it is only in recent years that one form of heart disease—coronary sclerosis or occlusion—has made itself generally known. In coronary heart disease, a blood vessel supplying the heart itself with blood gets hardened or clogged up (blood clot) or broken so that a portion of the heart cannot get its blood supply until repairs, healing or new vessels are established. High blood pressure is the usual cause.

While infection is a common cause of this damage to the heart, and heavy eating and overweight also add to the danger, there are cases in which the cause is unknown.

In several previous articles, I have pointed out that research workers state that emotional disturbances are a big factor in causing coronary sclerosis.

In "The British Heart Journal," Drs. J. A. Ryle and W. T. Russell report their findings in Reports of the Register-General (covering a 25-year period) as regards deaths from coronary disease in England and Wales. They found that the death rate among persons aged 35 years and up in 1945 was greater than in 1921. "There is evidence that in the age period 40 to 55 the male death rate was increasing more rapidly than that for females."

The records show that the male death rate in middle life is five times as great as that of females. The death rate from coronary disease among men 45 to 55 in the highest social class is nearly 10 times as great as that of their wives. Men in this class are mainly those in professions and business administration.

The symptoms occurring in those individuals before a heart attack are angina (pain in chest) which is brought on more rapidly by walking immediately after a meal, on a cold day, in a state of anxiety or fatigue.

HEALTH NOTES

If you are well, feel like doing your daily work, if weight has remained the same for past few years and is about the average weight for your height and build, don't decrease or increase the amount of calories eaten daily.

Goiter may be of the simpler type, which is not dangerous, or it may be severe.

The liver manufactures bile, nature's purgative, stores up fat and sugar for emergency, and removes wastes and poison from the blood.

Some of the conditions that can reduce your heart's strength are overweight, colds, overwork and emotional strain.

Symptoms of allergic diseases—head colds, skin rashes, hives, stomach upsets—are not usually relieved by removal of tonsils or adenoids.

Emotions cause change in the skin because they cause an increased flow of adrenal-like substances.

An underactive thyroid may cause mental symptoms.

Remember that the liver is the largest organ and does more work than any other organ.

Last year more people died of heart-disease than of cancer, accidents, tuberculosis, and pneumonia combined.

The greater part of persons with poor hearing, adults and children, still possess some amount of hearing.

Penicillin has revolutionized the treatment of ear, nose and throat.

Sugar is a great river of energy when energy is needed most.

Household Hints

Two at a Time

Do not crowd glassware in dishpan. A good rule is two stem glasses at a time. Lay a cloth in the bottom of the pan.

Creamed Shrimp

Next time you plan to serve creamed shrimp enliven the sauce with a little onion juice and a tablespoon of cooking sherry.

Milk Stains

Rinse milk glasses in cool or lukewarm water before washing. Hot water sets milk stains to some extent; stubborn milk stains will yield to lukewarm water softened with soda.

Cleaning Utensils

Stainless steel utensils should not be scoured with harsh abrasives. Soak and remove food with a dulled surface such as a wooden spoon. If the bottom is made of copper, clean with a good copper cleaner or rub with a cut lemon dipped in salt.

Incinerator

Several families in multiple buildings can share an average size gas incinerator because it burns up three bushels of garbage per hour. Operating cost is low.

Cheese Sauce

Simple cheese sauce: Heat 1 cup evaporated milk over hot water, pour into 1/4 lb. grated Cheddar cheese. Stir gently until smooth.

Origin of Trousseau

The word "trousseau" has its origin in the "trusse" or bundle of long ago. At that time, it was the custom for the bride to supply herself with clothing and household equipment sufficient enough to last for many years.

Washing Glasses

Rinse glasses in water of the same temperature as the wash water, adding a few drops of dilute ammonia or bluing for luster unless the glass has gold or silver decoration. Drain on rubber mat or turkish towel spread on drainboard. Use a lintless towel if drying by hand.

Extend Barley Contest Entry Date to June 15

At the request of a number of county agents, the closing date for entries in the Wisconsin Brewers' barley contest has been extended from May 15 to June 15.

Five acres is the minimum required to enter the contest. It must be planted in Moore, Oderbrucker, Wisconsin 52, Kindred, or OAC 21 (Artic), which are Wisconsin's five best maturing varieties of barley. A bushel sample submitted in the fall county contest has a chance to win any one of the nine county prizes ranging from $5.00 to $26.00 in amounts.

State fair prizes of $50.00 to $300 and totalling $1,900 are also offered.

Wisconsin brewers, who account for 12% of the nation's beer production, alone use 10 million bushels of barley each year. Last year less than six million bushels were grown in Wisconsin.

Farmers are warned by the county agent's office to get their contest application blanks into the office by June 15, the new entry closing date. Last year several were received too late to qualify.
