Oklahoma Youth Is U. S. Star Farmer

Other Young Farmers Are Honored by FFA

Harold DeWayne Hodgson, 20-year-old farmer and Hereford cattle breeder of Freedom, Okla., was named Star Farmer of America during the 24th annual national FFA convention at Kansas City. He received an award of $1,000 for being named the outstanding future farmer of the country.

Three other young farmers received awards of $500 each as Star Farmers of their respective regions. They are George Williams, 19, of Nicholasville, Ky.; Joe Harris, 20, of Eagleville, Calif.; and Ralph G. Sanner, 21, of Kutztown, Pa.

Harold DeWayne Hodgson, 20, Star Farmer of America, owns a 320-acre farm and rents an additional 255 acres.

The Star Farmer awards are made annually and are the highest recognition given to FFA members. The winners were chosen from 295 candidates. Outstanding accomplishments in farming and rural leadership, along with evidence of the youth's successful establishment in farming are the principal considerations used in determining winners of the awards.

Hodgson owns a 320-acre farm and operates an additional 255 acres of rented land.

Engineer Suggests Way To Meet Labor Shortage

The nation's farmers next year will be asked to maintain a high standard of production and will again be faced with a severe labor shortage of several hundred thousand workers.

Here are four suggestions by which production can be maintained:

1. More efficient use of management and labor. There were a lot of chuckles when the efficiency experts started working for industry, counting steps and clocking movements. As a result of their work, however, our industries are the most efficient in the world.
2. Increase mechanization. In normal times, the answer to labor shortages has been increased mechanization. If we get the machinery, it is still a partial answer.
3. Efficient building arrangement. Time and labor required around buildings has changed little in the last 50 years.
4. Survey of urban districts and rural towns. You can often find laborers in rural towns.

The farmer who surveys his needs and acts on these suggestions can solve his labor problems.

Record Price

Next Few Weeks Is Time For Cattle Lice Control

The next few weeks is the ideal time for cutting the life span of cattle lice that are at their peak during winter months. If animals are not treated for this pest and profit-robbing, they will reflect poor signs of progress. Mature cattle on feed will not gain properly and young stock and calves will not grow normally. In addition, the cattle will have a general unthrifty appearance.

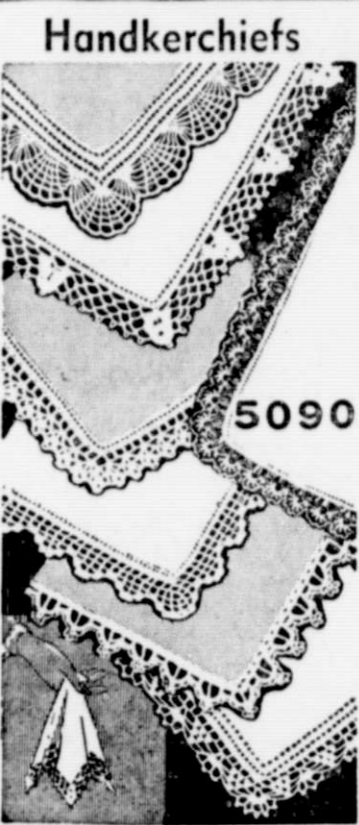

Meat Prices Are Likely To Hold Steady, Report

G. L. Jordan of the Illinois College of Agriculture says he believes we are not going to have runaway prices on meats, and we would not have them without price controls. Meat supplies will be large enough to pull livestock prices down somewhat in 1952 if consumer spending stays the same as in 1951, he reports. Price control on meats, however, will continue through next year.

IN LOS ANGELES . . . A young man charged with counterfeiting $5 bills confessed his guilt, but expressed pride in his work. And the district chief of the Secret Service admitted the youth had a right to be proud. "The bills," he said, "are good enough to fool most banks."

THE WHITE HOUSE

$5,761,000 Spent on Renovation Of Historic Executive Mansion

WNU Washington Bureau
When President Truman and his family move back into their home at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue shortly after the first of the year, they will find the historic old White House a stronger, safer structure designed to last another century as the residence of the nation's presidents.

During the two years of its renovation at a cost of well over $5,000,000 the architects and builders have been careful to preserve the traditional appearance of the White House both as to exterior and interior, so that to all intents and purposes the old mansion remains the same as it always has been in the minds and hearts of the American people.

Four new bedrooms have been added, making the total number of rooms now 54. Only the strengthening of the basic structure has been concentrated upon; there has been no change in the architectural arrangement of the house.

On the first floor, there are no great changes except in the state dining room, used only for official dinners. Formerly paneled in dark oak, this room is now paneled in celadon green. An antique Hepplewhite four-pedestal dining table which seats 22 is a new addition. The private dining room, used by the President and his family, has Sheraton and Hepplewhite furniture in the 18th century tradition, most of which has been in use in the Blair House, temporary residence of the Truman family during the reconstruction, but which is refinished and recovered and placed in the original location.

In general, the first floor retains its air of simple dignity, while undergoing a strengthening of color throughout. The blue room, frequently called the prettiest in the house, is a deeper and more vibrant blue.

The red room is a lighter red, not as dark and brown as before. The draperies are resplendent damask of 18th century design, and the same material is used to cover the walls. The only different note in the room is white damask used on a set of Hepplewhite chairs and a Chippendale wing chair.

The walls and draperies of the green room are the same shade of striking emerald green silk damask. Much of the furniture in this room had been in use in the Blair House. The green room had been redecorated and restored only a few months before the house was vacated.

THE EAST ROOM, the largest in the White House, where Abigail Adams, wife of the first occupant hung her washing, is used only for state receptions. A white and lemon-gold silk damask has been woven from an old document characteristic of many used in the 18th century. This material is used for the draperies, replacing the old cranberry red silk ones. Here, too, hang the portraits of George and Martha Washington saved when the British burned the original building in 1812.

The grand stairway to the second floor is entered from the main hall, rather than the secondary cross-hall as before the restoration. The marble floor, columns, pilasters, and wainscot of the main floor hall are new. A set of walnut framed Louis XIV benches have been installed. The hall is somewhat sparsely furnished, in keeping with its essentially plain architectural nature.

The second floor is brighter and more informal. The Monroe room furnished with its restored and refinished original pieces. The draperies here are of an 18th century print of fruits and flowers in rose and blue. This room is very simply furnished with a desk, bookcase, sofas and lounge chairs suited to its historical background.

Having undergone a varied history and having been relegated to different rooms in the White House, the massive Victorian bed in which Abe Lincoln slept is once again the main feature of the Lincoln room on the second floor. Other pieces of furniture belonging to Lincoln are also used in the room, once Lincoln's study and where he signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

While the treatment of the second floor for the most part expresses a spirit of informality, the third floor is even more informal. The third floor bedrooms are smaller and economy and simplicity have been sought in the process of their renovation. There are 17 full bedrooms and 16 half baths in the house.

The original kitchen, on the ground floor of the White House, with its vaulted ceilings and stone fireplaces has been replaced by a new and modern kitchen. The old kitchen will be used as a conference and broadcasting room. Here will be sofas and lounge chairs of more modern vintage but completely restored, together with an old pine table and large hutch built from old rafters of the house at the time the building was reconstructed in 1815-17.

The main interior change is a strengthening of color throughout, and in contrast to this, the executive mansion will be a "whiter" White House.

LANA TURNER

LANA TURNER'S autobiography, in the December Woman's Home Companion, is one of the frankest and most honest life stories ever written by an actress. After telling hitherto unpublished facts about her early life, she goes on to relate the truth about her marriages—to Artie Shaw, Steve Crane and Bob Topping. There is the tale of her walking across the stage and speaking one line in her first picture; she was horrified when she saw herself on the screen, but that appearance shot her into fame as The Sweater Girl. She pulls no punches, makes no apologies; the result is a story that holds interest from beginning to end.

Great Britain Did Not Use Well Money U. S. Gave

By Wright A. Patterson

THIRTY-FIVE BILLION dollars of American tax payers' money have gone down the rat hole of English socialism, says Fulton Lewis, Jr., after a careful and thorough investigation in England. He found every other war-devastated nation of Europe well-recovered, fully employed with production at prewar figures with a million aroused, both as to each nation generally and with their individual citizens, with the shops and stores well stocked with both the essentials and the luxuries of living.

In England there was only austerly, meagre supplies, rationed food, a lack of ambition, reduced production, an ever-increasing burden of debt. All of that, regardless of the fact that this country has contributed to England more than two and a half times as much money as it has contributed to all the other war devastated nations of Europe. England did not use the money we generously provided for the purposes for which we intended, the reconstruction of the war-devastated sections of that country, but did use it generally in the socialistic experiments which did not work.

The wealth of England has been dissipated without benefit to any class. The "something for nothing" of the Attlee labor government, in so far as it has worked at all, has been only possible through the money paid to the labor government by the people of America. And we are urged to follow the example of England, to follow the pied piper of socialism over the precipice into the oblivion that is today the fate of England.

The legislation the President has so ardently urged congress to enact is but additional steps toward socialism. The Brannan farm plan, medicine, federal aid for education—these and others are but moves for a centralized government that could easily become as much of a menace as the Atlee government.

We need a leadership that will turn us away from these socialistic dangers. No political party will provide such leadership, but there is one man, one individual, in whom the people of America have implicit confidence. That one man is the disgraced general of the Army, Douglas MacArthur.

His words of warning against the socialistic advance are stirring millions of his countrymen to the battle front to oppose that more to be feared enemy than any other, socialism. Gen. MacArthur led our forces to victory in a terrible war. He administered the defeated enemy, starting the Japanese people in the ways of peace and instilling in them the desire for individual liberties. But he was not permitted to be invited to witness the final chapter of those great events of which he had been the central figure. Now he turns to another leadership. He does not do so as a candidate for the nomination to any public office. He does so only as a truly great American interested in the future of his country with the hope of defeating that greatest of all enemies that could threaten us—socialism. My guess is America will follow where he leads. It is our last chance for a continuance of the America we know and love.

All of the wild, reckless and needless spending of the taxpayers' money is not confined to members of the congress in Washington. Some of the same disregard for the interests of the people may be found in the council chambers of our towns and cities, in the court houses of our counties, in the legislative halls of our state capitals. It may not be in sums of billions, or even millions, but small or large, as it may be, it is not the money of our elected officials that is being foolishly or needlessly spent, but ours, the people who elected them to office. Congress may be too far away from us to reach in any practical way, but that is not true of our town, county and even state officials. We see them at frequent intervals, and should not hesitate to call them to account for not seeking ways to economize, rather than only ways to spend.

The chiselers on the relief rolls are so draining the wealth of the nation that it will not be long before there will be nothing with which to provide relief for those really entitled to consideration.

THE FIREBUG

By Daniel Shifren

"I've come about your ad in the Chronicle," the little man said.

"Doc knew who it was immediately. 'Do you have any ideas on nabbing the culprit?'"

To keep the man talking, Doc Hawes asked who was calling and waved for Sadie to notify the Lieutenant to trace the call, and for Stevenson to start the recorder.

"My name is Harris," said the stranger. "Just an admirer, you see."

"Thanks for your interest, Mr. Harris. No, I don't have much of an idea. This arsonist is a very clever man and is going to be hard to catch."

Hawes heard a delighted laugh. He fed the conversation until Stevenson signaled "enough."

STEVENSON played the tape back. "Definitely! That's Lancashire, glossed over some by residence in America. Afraid that's all I have on this one, Doc."

"You mean Lancashire, England?" Stevenson nodded.

Sadie Pruitt said the call had fizzled. It had come from a drug store.

"Is the Lieutenant still on?" Stevenson asked. "Can you manage to look like a lawyer for a while tomorrow? Got a slim lead. I'm going to try something in the Chronicle."

In the quiet office Lieutenant Linstrum poured over a sheaf of stage-prop briefs, uncomfortable in his role.

He said, "Doc, this setup looks screwy. How do you get any results playing these games I'll never know."

A whispered "Shhhh!" came from behind the slightly open inner door. "There's someone coming."

A little, mild-mannered man entered. "Solicitor Linstrum?"

"Yes?"

"I've come about your ad in the Chronicle. I lived most of my life in Lancashire."

Doc Hawes stepped into the office. "Oh, it's our 'Mr. Harris'. How are you, sir?"

The man was startled, ran. "Grab him, Lieutenant. That's our firebug."

At police headquarters, the Lieutenant asked, "Mind telling me now, Doc, how you baited this fish?"

"Simple," said the Doc, smiling. "Few men can resist the chance at some easy money. Here's the ad I ran in the Chronicle."

The little rectangle read: "Attorney, settling large estate, requires point of information that can be supplied only by a former resident of Lancashire, England. Most liberal reward."

"How liberal would you say, Lieutenant?"

"About twenty years."

Effective Cough Syrup, Mixed at Home for Economy

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.
Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and is still one of the most effective for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Make a syrup with 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup water. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Finex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really excellent for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy and lets you get restful sleep.

Finex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Greenland's Iceberg Export Drops Behind

Greenland's largest export, icebergs, hit a new low this year when, of an output estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 bergs, none succeeded in reaching the crowded shipping lanes between North America and Europe.

The largest Arctic icebergs take off from the continually advancing Greenland and icecap fringe of Greenland's west coasts, says the national geographic society. In an average year about 400 of the total production survive a 1,800-mile southward drift before disintegrating in the warm Gulf Stream. This year no icebergs were reported below the 46th parallel along the southern tip of Newfoundland.

Moving south through Baffin Bay and Davis Strait to Labrador, many of the crystal "castles" and plain "flattops" jam against the coast or are caught in the natural traps of islands and bays. A few swing into the Labrador current and continue southward. Some drift toward Belle Isle straight and some move around Newfoundland by way of Grand Banks to invade main traffic arteries and threaten shipping.

Major Arctic icebergs are produced by about 18 "name" glaciers. The Humboldt, near Thule, north of Cape York, is one that supplies outside models. Mountains of ice a mile across and rising 200 feet above water have been reported, but the largest are puny compared to the 20-mile-long bergs sighted by Australian air reconnaissance in the Antarctic in 1948.

Final Bond Sales Report Total $147,597 in County

Final reports of defense bond sales in Wisconsin have swelled total sales for the campaign which began Sept. 7 by more than $1 1/2 million to boost the campaign total to $19,232,856. It was reported Saturday by the Wisconsin Defense Bond committee upon receipt of information from the Federal Reserve banks. The final sales reflect substantial purchases of F and G series by investment sources in response to appeals by bond committees over the state. Defense bond officials, highly elated by the campaign response, said that the final sales for the drive were 135% of the unofficial figure they had set as a yardstick since no dollar quotas were assigned in this campaign.

In Washington county the final sales reports total $147,597. It was reported by Thomas O'Sara, county chairman. William Taylor, Milwaukee, chairman of the state defense bonds committee, hailed the final tabulations as a testimonial to the outstanding work done by the volunteer county committees and their aides, as well as an indication that the public is becoming more acutely aware of the importance of defense bonds as a helpful factor in our fight against inflation and as an essential economic factor in the national defense program.

"The manner in which defense bond volunteers throughout the state joined wholeheartedly to give much of their time and effort to the campaign is reflected in the results which are gratifying to all of us," Taylor said. "The state committee expresses its thanks for this splendid cooperation. Although the campaign period is over, the need of defense bond purchases on a level raised by the campaign still remains, and we hope to maintain this level and possibly increase it for the future. This can be done by the continuing systematic purchases of bonds by a larger number of citizens, principally through the payroll savings and bond-a-month plans.

"The campaign has served the very useful function of alerting Wisconsin people to the need for stepped up purchases of defense bonds. We cannot afford to relax any more than our soldiers can relax their fighting the war in Korea. Wisconsin has given a proud accounting of itself and I am confident this record will be maintained and even bettered."

Appointment to Military Academy Open in District

Representative William K. Van Pelt this week invited young men residing in the Sixth Congressional district to contact him if interested in an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

The congressman stated he has been asked by the secretary of the army to fill one vacancy at the academy for the class to begin July 1, 1952. To guide him in selecting the candidate he has requested the U. S. Civil Service Commission to conduct an examination for designation in the principal cities of the Sixth District on Monday, Jan. 14, 1952. From the individual ratings achieved in this examination, Congressman Van Pelt will name one principal and three alternates who will then be eligible for the West Point entrance examination scheduled for March, 1952.

Candidates for the academy must be actual residents of the district, comprising the counties of Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet, Sheboygan, Ozaukee and Washington. They must have reached their seventeenth but not their twenty-second birthday by July 1, 1952.

Representative Van Pelt said that young men interested should send their full names, addresses, dates of birth, to his Washington office, Suite 431, House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C. Complete information and instructions concerning the January examination will be forwarded to those making inquiry.

Congressman Van Pelt said he will not have a vacancy to fill at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis during 1952.

From 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. James F. Honzik and Henry A. Dillon, both from the Milwaukee district QPS office, offered retailers and consumers of Washington and Ozaukee counties the same sort of individual consultative and advisory service offered at the Milwaukee headquarters of the QPS.

Present plans call for the return of an QPS consultation team to West Bend on December 10 for another one-day stand at the city hall. These teams do not hold "meetings." Individual problems are discussed individually and privately.

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

State Chamber of Commerce Sets Up Plan To Assist Communities in Helping Selves

There was no tried and proved formula available for the Kentucky State Chamber of Commerce when that group decided two years ago to launch an experimental community-development project, which it hoped would yield some information on how to help towns and counties in the state help themselves.

With no precedent for a guide, the Chamber, in a tentative mood, selected the town of London, county seat of Laurel county, as its laboratory for testing the plan.

The first step, by way of organization, was to form the London - Laurel County Development association, appoint committees, and outline the local objectives which were to be accomplished. Professional assistance was provided by the Chamber to get the project rolling, but after that London was free to go it alone, except for occasional visits and advice from the state group.

The people of London, as well as the Chamber, rediscovered an old and basic truth: that there is a strong and willing body of citizens in every community who, given the proper incentive, will mold themselves into a hard-hitting, hard-working group capable of achieving constructive local action.

A year after the project had begun, an audit showed that a total of 115 major improvements had been accomplished in the town. On those terms, the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce concluded, the community-development idea was a success.

So, mindful of the lessons learned in the London experiment, the KCC compiled a detailed blueprint of the project and published it in booklet form as a guide to any other city-county alliance which might be interested in the self-improvement plan.

At the same time, it continued its own work on these lines by setting up four other towns as test-tube communities to receive the same treatment as had London. An additional five city-county associations picked up the KCC offer to help on similar projects. And just recently, another six groups requested assistance in forming associations and getting local programs activated.

Now, with some of the associations having been in operation for about a year, the progress reports coming from them are completely heartening. None of the towns has landed any million-dollar industries; rather, progress has taken the form of small but very important accomplishments which, added up, make a town a better place to live.

Let's see, for instance, what just one group—the Central City-Muhlenberg County Development Association—has managed to do:

An industrial survey of the city and county has been completed, and the industrial development committee has been able to induce a manufacturer of medical-supply equipment to locate in Greenville, the county seat. A building supply company has set up a large concrete block plant in Central City, and another 12 companies are said to be investigating possible sites into which they may expand.

A new city dump, located three miles from town, has been leased, and the old one sprayed and given a sanitary covering. Twenty downtown stores have re-decorated their fronts. Two new dairies have gone into production. The municipally owned water company is investigating costs of equipment necessary to add fluorine to the local water supply.

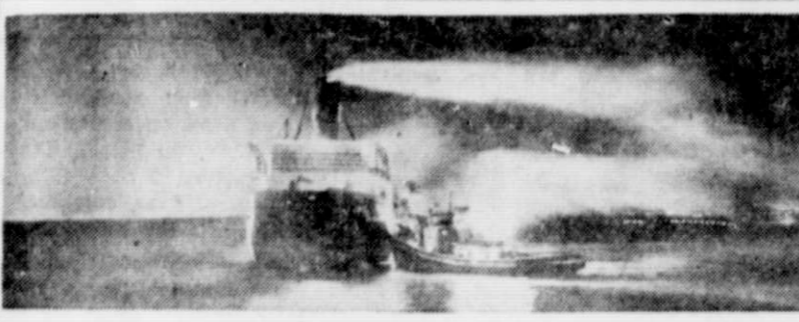

A Teen-Age club has been organized with 116 members, which is indeed a far-sighted and highly laudable achievement. A city-wide clean-up, paint-up campaign was conducted successfully last spring, and an Independence Day celebration was held to raise money for playground equipment in the city park.

Other of the associations are working on trying to improve highways, procuring a county health doctor, sponsoring essay contests, building swimming pools, constructing a hospital, and a myriad of other useful and important projects.

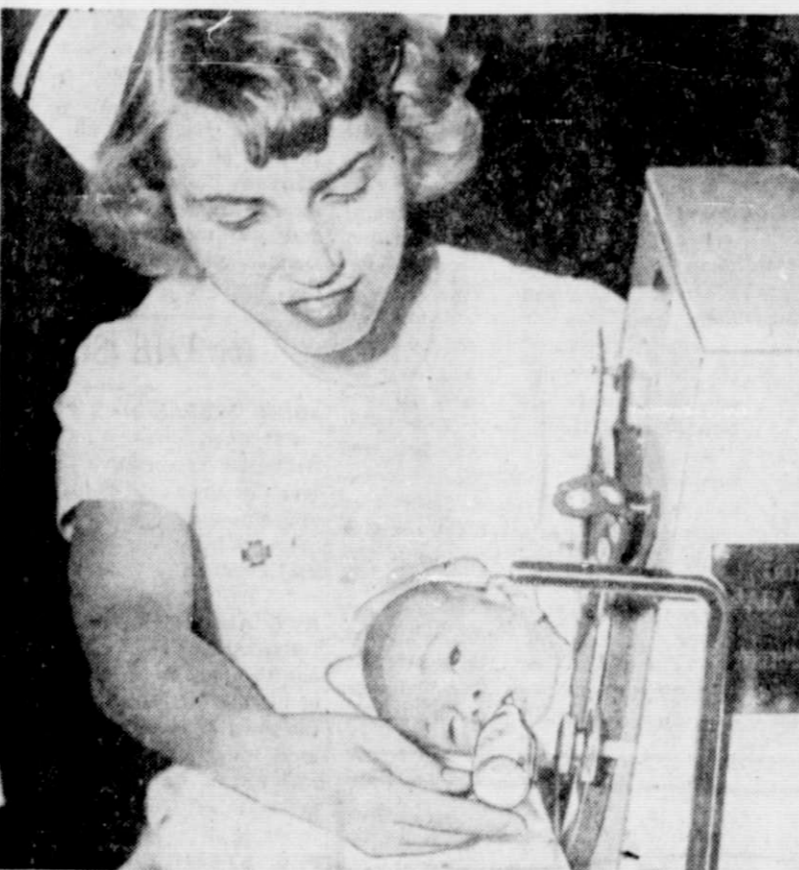

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. If you want to receive a great deal, you first have to give a great deal. If each individual will give of himself to whomever he can, wherever he can, in any way that he can, in the long run he will be compensated in the exact proportion that he gives.

—R. A. Hayward

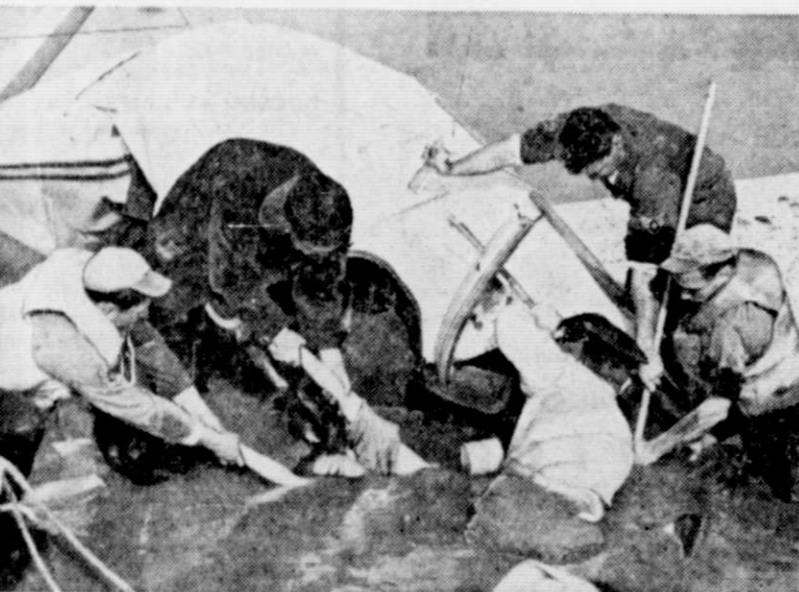

A MAIN STREET FEATURE

DISASTER... Freighter burns near Buffalo after hitting oil barge.

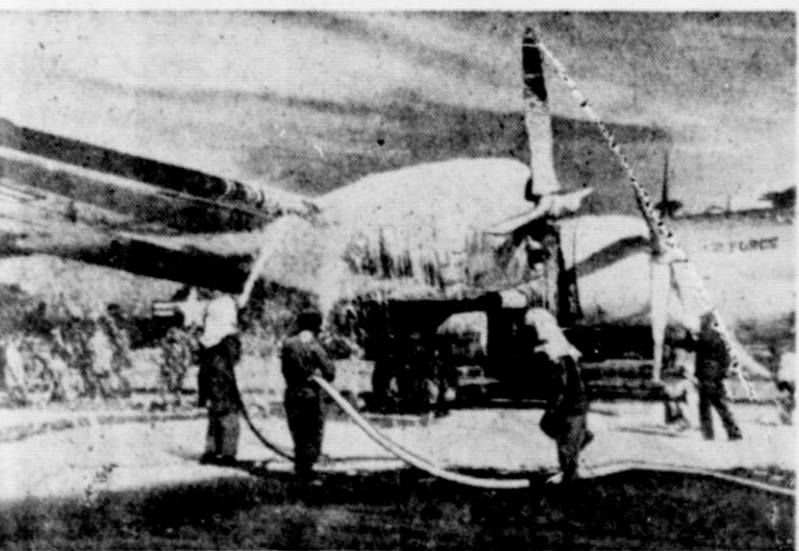

YOUNGEST POLIO VICTIM... Diane, 44-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Shaughnessy of Chicago and called Chicago's youngest iron lung patient, is fed by Nurse Lois Doeden at Michael Reese hospital. Diane, whose twin brother died 10 minutes after birth, was placed in the iron lung after coming down with infantile paralysis. Doctors say that she stands a good chance for recovery.

PRIVATE PLANE CRASHES IN POTOMAC... Thomas H. White, prominent Cleveland industrialist, his wife Kathleen, and Mrs. Robert York White, their daughter-in-law, were killed recently when their private plane crashed into the Potomac river while attempting to land at Washington, D. C., national airport. A Boeing air force base rescue crew is shown removing the body of one of the victims of the crash from the wreckage and the water of the river.

GRANDMA NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD... Some Hollywood fashion designers have come to realize that some of the things Grandmas wore had their own peculiar charm. So they are now turning our modernized versions, frothy with lace that is the whipped cream of vogue. At left is a lingerie ensemble inspired by the bloomer girl of yore. It consists of panties and bra of sheerest lace fabric. At right are the ancient bloomers glamorously modernized and topped with a bodice.

BACK FROM BATTLE... Fifth air force crash and fire crews spray the burning engine of a B-29 Superfort with a chemical foam after the medium bomber tangled with enemy jet aircraft and anti-aircraft guns over North Korea. The daring air crew brought the limping Superfort back to this advanced Korean air base without the use of flaps or rudder controls and with two engines out. None of the crew was injured. Our airmen have noticed an increase in strength of the Reds' air force.

SOMETHING SOUR... Col. Chang Chun San, chief Red liaison officer, is anything but poker-faced in this closeup after one of the armistice sessions at Pan Mun Jon, Korea. Something must have smelled sour at Pan Mun Jon.

NANCY GETS DIVORCE... Nancy Sinatra was granted a divorce at Santa Monica, Calif., from crooner Frank Sinatra who plans to wed Ava Gardner. She told Judge she had made Frankie wait for divorce to be sure he knew what he wanted.

FREED, RE-ARRESTED... Kingpin bookie Frank Erickson was booked in New York a short time after his release from Riker's Island penitentiary where he served a sentence for bookmaking and conspiracy. This arrest was on two gambling counts.

HE'S IN, PARTY'S OUT... Aneurin Bevan, fiery leftwing Labor party leader, was re-elected to English parliament, but his party was beaten by the Conservative party, led by Winston Churchill who became prime minister. The Laborites left the Tories with many problems.

MISSING ENGINEER FOUND... A nationwide search for Craig Naudain, engineer said to be working on a top-secret project, ended recently when Naudain telephoned from Provo, Utah, to say he had been ill and under treatment.

Driver Education Taken by 104,144; 1212 in County

Within the past decade, 104,144 high school students in Wisconsin have completed the state-approved driver education course, according to a joint announcement by the department of public instruction and the safety division of the motor vehicle department.

During the 1950-51 school year, the course was completed by 18,655 students. It was pointed out that this was the highest number of enrollees for a single year.

While some schools follow up the classroom instruction with dual control car behind-the-wheel instruction, in most communities school administrators rely on the state-recommended home-supervision plan of road lessons. A manual, “STEP BY STEP,” is used by the parent, guardian or other licensed driver in instructing the student in actual road lessons.

Figures compiled by the two co-sponsoring state departments show that driver education courses have been completed by the following number of students in each of the counties listed:

Washington.....	1212
Dodge.....	2755
Fond du Lac.....	1533
Milwaukee.....	10041
Ozaukee.....	441
Racine.....	1488
Waukesha.....	2520

CONGRESSMAN VAN PELT TO CONDUCT COUNTY MEETING

U. S. Needs Civil Defense

GETTING A BOMBED COMMUNITY ON ITS FEET TAKES ORGANIZATION

(This is the last of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet “This Is Civil Defense” prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for ten cents.)

By MILLARD CALDWELL
 Federal Civil Defense Administrator

Getting a stricken city back into working order as soon as possible by restoring damaged facilities and clearing away debris is the job of the Engineering Service. Under their regular supervisors, but with civil defense direction, men employed by public works and utility departments or contracting firms, would do the same kind of work in the event of enemy attack.

Work would be needed who can operate special equipment, such as cranes, bulldozers, dump trucks and welding machines, and volunteers in the labor force that would help clean away wreckage and open the streets to traffic. Help would be recruited from equipment and material dealers, labor unions, engineering schools, and other groups which have skilled workmen, tools, and material.

The Rescue Service
 Rescue work is mainly an engineering job and requires some basic knowledge of shoring, rigging, and building construction. Hence, its personnel will be drawn from the building trades and similar occupations. Untrained rescue workers often make a bad situation worse by causing additional damage, creating more casualties, or becoming casualties themselves.

Rescue teams will have their own specially equipped rescue vehicles, and will be made up of eight men each. Three teams, working 8-hour shifts to provide around-the-clock operation, will be assigned to each rescue vehicle, and will be known as a rescue squad. Ability and willingness to work as a team under emergency conditions, and strength and stamina to perform that work, are requirements for the good rescue worker.

Skilled drivers are needed for the Transportation Service. In case of enemy attack, people and equipment would have to be moved carefully and rapidly: the injured to hospitals, house, West Bend, on Wednesday, Nov. 28, from 10:00 a. m. to noon and from 2:00 p. m. until 4:00 p. m. Mr. Van Pelt is anxious to meet the people of Washington county to discuss with them their problems as it affects Congress. His purpose in these meetings is to “bring the office closer to the people” and it is hoped that many Washington county people will take advantage of this opportunity to “Meet Your Congressman.”
