Granville Shades Lakes Stars, 2-1

Manager Earl Gengler's league leading Granville baseball team edged out the all-stars of the other teams in the northern division of the Land o' Lakes loop in a game played under the lights at Regner park in West Bend Tuesday evening. The score was 2 to 1. Two Kewaskum players, Norm Held, an outfielder, and Lloyd Petermann, third baseman, were selected to participate in the contest.

Three Granville pitchers allowed the all-stars but four hits. A total of 22 stars got into the game. Al Giesner was the hero for Granville as he drove in both runs in the 3rd inning with a Texas league single.

Granville used their newly acquired teen-aged pitchers against the stars. Don Sweitzig allowed only one hit in the first four innings. "Lefty" Bornheimer gave up two bingles in two innings, and Bob Unger held the stars to only one in the last three frames.

Fred Timm of Grafton, co-manager of the all-stars, and one of the league's top batters, drove in the stars' only tally in the sixth with a single. Giesner of Granville was the only batter with two hits.

This same Granville team will play at Kewaskum this Sunday. ALL-STARS AB R H Mueller, (Grafton) c.....3 0 1 W. Meisenheimer Hurls Two Hit Win Over Hustisford

Kewaskum's Rock River Junior leaguers met Hustisford for the second time on the home field Sunday morning and upset them again, 6 to 1. Kewaskum is the only team in the loop to defeat Hustisford this season and the locals did it twice, also beating them there 9-5 on June 22.

Everyone on the team played fine ball Sunday, especially pitcher Don Meisenheimer, who gave up only two hits. "Meisy" has pitched two-hit ball the last two games in a row for a very good record. He struck out 10 and walked seven in the win. Letzheh, the visiting hurler, was touched for 10 safeties. He fanned eight and passed three.

Hustisford scored its lone run on a walk, stolen base and an error. Meisenheimer, Eddie Ramthun and C. Koepke led the team in the hitting department with two each. One of Ramthun's was a double.

Both the Juniors and Land o' Lakes teams are off on Labor day and the Juniors would like to promote a game with the senior team. It has been some time since two local teams played off and the Juniors think it would go over well.

This Sunday Kewaskum plays at Barton. The team wishes to thank the fans for supporting them in their home games. Hustisford..... 001 000 000-1 Kewaskum..... 002 130 00X-6

Honeck Hurls 7-1 Win Over Mequon

LAND O LAKES STANDINGS (Northern Division)

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost. Includes Granville, Kewaskum, Grafton, West Bend, Mequon, Slinger, Newburg, Saukville, Germantown, Cedarburg.

Kewaskum drubbed a strong Mequon team, 7-1, here Sunday as Kilian Honeck, Jr. pitched shutout ball until the ninth inning and helped his own cause by driving in two runs. The win was the Chevrolet's second over Mequon this season and gave them a tie for second place with Grafton, which was defeated by league leader Granville. The above standings include Kewaskum's disputed victory over Mequon which has not yet been allowed by the league director.

Kewaskum led the win in one big inning, the sixth, in which they pushed six runs across the platter and had Mequon running around in circles with the hits, bunts and base running. The visitors' lone run in the ninth came after pinch hitter W. Rennieke smacked a long fly double with a man on.

Honeck was nipped for nine hits but kept them scattered to pitch eight frames of shutout ball. He was given fine support by his teammates, especially by Barney Proot, who made a couple of sensational plays at second base. "Killy" walked three men and struck out five. D. Rennieke pitched the first five and one-third frames for the losers before being replaced by Gruenwald in Kewaskum's big sixth. Rennieke allowed eight hits, fanned one and passed one. Gruenwald, in two and two-thirds innings, was touched for two hits, walked one and whiffed four.

Norm Heid and Jerry Stautz were the top batters for the Chevrolet with two hits apiece. Burczyk was the big clubber for Mequon with three singles.

The big game of the season will take place this Sunday when Kewaskum takes on first place Granville on the home diamond. The powerful Granville club has lost only one game this season. The Chev's were defeated in their first meeting at Granville but held their own until blowing up late in the contest. If the team plays ball like they did last Sunday they will stand a good chance of upsetting the leaders. They would like nothing better so it should be good.

Estimated 35,000 Attend County Fair

The 95th annual Washington county fair was held over the past week end. It was the 15th fair to be held on the highway grounds at Slinger. The weather was favorable for fair purposes. The total attendance was estimated to have been between 32,000 and 35,000 visitors. Some estimates are even higher.

A free entertainment program was presented on each evening and on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Home talent was largely used. Spapp's Greater Shows and Rides presented an inviting midway.

Because of limited barn space the number of livestock entries any exhibitor might make was limited. However, even with this limitation the fair had a very good showing of livestock.

Those in charge of the county fair appreciate very much the splendid cooperation given the fair by the county board fair committee and by the county board of supervisors. Sincere appreciation is further extended to those who helped conduct the 4-day event. These include the local 4-H and FFA leaders, the Slinger fire department, the Wisconsin Electric Power company, the home demonstration agent and the county 4-H club leader.

Appreciation is also further extended to the many young people of the county who are members of the 4-H and FFA and PFA groups and exhibited at the fair, to the many adult exhibitors, to the business firms who had commercial displays, to the press and radio of the county for their good publicity, to the American Red Cross, to the Snapp's Shows and Rides for a well managed midway, to the county board for their financial assistance, and to Ken Downs of WBKV for his able assistance in serving as chairman of the Saturday and Sunday entertainment programs.

Present at the meeting were John Richling, Jr., national service officer of the DAV, who addressed the gathering; State Commander Cain, and officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the organization.

Fourteen of the 16 members already signed up for the organization were initiated at the session. All members of the county chapter of the DAV and all other veterans' interested in joining are urged to attend the meeting on August 5.

Cechvala Barn Destroyed When Hit by Lightning

The John Cechvala barn at Route 2, Kewaskum, in the town of Farmington was destroyed by fire when struck by lightning early on Monday morning in the electrical storm which swept the area. The loss was estimated at from $20,000 to $35,000.

The bolt struck some time after 4:30 a. m. Mrs. Cechvala was awakened by the crash and looked out of the window to see the barn in flames. The Cechvala family dog was apparently killed by the bolt of lightning as were more than 150 yearling chickens.

It is believed that the lightning struck the silo and glanced off onto the barn, setting it afire. The Boltonville and Farmington fire departments were called but the entire roof of the barn was aflame by the time they arrived and much of it had already collapsed.

The Cechvala barn was a new one, having been erected in 1947 after another fire destroyed the original barn on the farm located on Highway 184. The earlier fire at the Cechvala farm in October of 1946 destroyed the building with an estimated loss of approximately $20,000. The present laminated roof structure was a modern type barn approximately 50 by 150 feet in dimensions. It was covered by insurance and it was reported.

Lost in Monday morning's blaze along with the dog and chickens were the hay crop of approximately 15 tons and a new hay loader, a new rubber-tire wagon and a five-ton trailer. The granary, stanchions and milking machine were damaged but not destroyed. It was said. A bull was rescued from the barn before it was destroyed. There were no other cattle in the structure.

The two fire departments were credited with keeping the flames from destroying the entire barn floor, and it was believed that it could be repaired. The firemen arrived at the scene before 5 a. m. and remained there until about 10 a. m.

Aug. 14 "Bender Day" at West Bend Country Club

It's that time of the year again! On a par with the stupendous spectacle of the Republican and Democratic conventions, as far as local interest is concerned, is the annual "BENDER DAY" at the West Bend Country Club.

The time: August 14, 1952, beginning at 8:00 a. m. (stay as long as you like). General Chairman R. "Doc" Dunlop and his hard-working committee predict the most colossal, entertaining, mirth-provoking, satisfying program in history—at no increase in price over last year—"the biggest bargain of a lifetime."

There will be many, many more worthwhile prizes of exceptional value, added golfing events, a delicious dinner and supper, diversions throughout the day for any and all to participate, and the promise of all-star entertainment to climax the festivities. (In keeping with tradition, the entertainment is a closely guarded secret, the only hint this year being, "It is being brought from miles away.")

One of last year's most hilarious prizes was the mystery award which turned out to be (as advertised) a canary yellow convertible. Members of the committee emerged from the gloom of a smoke-filled room to announce, that in response to popular demand, there would be a different mystery award worth many, many times that of last year. It's tops in awards!

All attempts to discover what it would be were greeted with lips tightly clenched on their cigar butts, rigid jaws and a stony look by members of the committee.

All male adults in this area are cordially invited to attend BENDER DAY and enjoy the fun and good fellowship for which it has become famous. Local or out-of-town guests are welcome. Tickets at $7.50 per person will be sold in advance by club members or can be purchased at the West Bend Country Club.

See you all the 14th!

Behind The Scenes In American Business
By Reynolds Knight

Many an industrialist today is gravely wagging his head over the chronic labor unrest. Since the end of World War II approximately 38,000,000 tons of steel ingots have been lost due to strikes in coal mines and steel mills.

Since 1945 there have been five years in which coal strikes interfered with steel production, and three years when steel strikes directly stopped output. The loss in steel output would be sufficient to make 15,000,000 automobiles.

Whether the nation can afford chronic strikes—and the above figures refer only to major tie-ups, not wildcat strikes—is a question that many a businessman keeps asking. So far, labor legislation has not been very effective in maintaining production. There are some predictions that compulsory arbitration, such as some states impose with regard to public utilities, can be expected unless conditions take a turn for the better. At any rate, one of the first responsibilities of the new Congress may be to devise means for dealing with strikes.

IMPROVING THE BREED—The Iron Horse will be a much stouter steed if a vitamin pill proposed by a study group of the Transportation Association of America becomes part of his regular feed box diet.

The transportation body is recommending measures that would give the American railroads an even shake with their competitors and thus attract to them the flow of investment capital that is so necessary to their continued operation. This would be the effect of a series of recommendations it has made and which would add up to a modernized transportation policy.

A major proposal calls for the elimination of long and costly (to the rails) delay periods between application for rate increases and their final effective dates. Another provides that all users of domestic government-owned facilities—such as highways, waterways and airports—pay a fair share of the building and maintenance costs of the facilities they use.

THINGS TO COME—Supermarkets are getting as interested in pushcart design progress as most of us are in each new year's automobiles. The latest, with a built-in baby seat, is practically tip-proof. . . Giving your typewriter a rest: material originally designed to be used as an anti-fatigue floor matting is now being sold as typewriter pads. . . If this doesn't soothe the tired businessman's jangled nerves try a new sound-absorbing desk now on the market. . . Metal workers will be interested in a ready-mixed aluminum paint which, the maker says, can be permanently bonded to practically "all" metal surfaces and is heat-resistant, anti-corrosive and weather resistant. . . Also available is a handy electrolytic process which removes discolorations in hard-to-get-at corners resulting from welding. . . A one-way peephole with a wide-angle lens for mounting in doors may well become popular in offices that handle sizable amounts of cash.

'NAUTICAL GODFATHERS'—Honoring employees of long service is an industry practice that takes many forms, but Freeport Sulphur Company has one of the most appropriate ideas yet. The firm names boats in its fleet for workers who have been on the job for many years.

Most industrial firms operating marine units customarily name vessels for top officials, but rank isn't taken into consideration at Freeport. To date, 26 employees, from drill crewmen to chief engineer, have been given this unusual citation.

Most of the workers have been with the company 30 or more years and their names appear on the passenger boats, drilling barges, tug boats and dredges required to serve Freeport's sulphur developments at Grande Ecaille, Garden Island Bay and Bay Ste. Elaine in Louisiana.

'SHOCKING' FABRICS—Retailers are not too happy about some of the new synthetic fabrics.

No customer wants a garment which picks up dirt and lint. No one likes an electric shock. Few want to wear clothes that cling. Yet static electricity, which produces the above-mentioned effects, is often characteristic of some of the new "wonder" textiles.

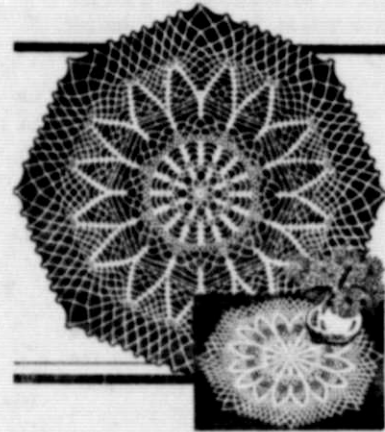

These fabrics can generate an objectionable amount of electricity. Many hospitals have forbidden the use of such materials because of danger that the electricity might cause an explosion in an operating room.

This is a problem the New York section of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists last week set itself to solve. The answer must be found if there is to be wide acceptance of the new fabrics.

REDS EYED—Troops of the Philippine Battalion in Korea keep a sharp watch on "Shanghai Hill," a Communist position only a few thousand yards from their United Nations' outpost. The heaviest fighting of the year has taken place in this area.

THE ASTER DOILY

Flower and crochet lovers, here is an idea! Have a garden indoors. No, not the kind that is fragrant, just the kind that will last through the year. The aster will bloom with each click of the crochet needle and add loveliness to any room during the long winter days. The doily may be crocheted in variegated thread, or any of the many colors that are so popular. It can be made in a jiffy. Ask for pattern C3219, 20c. Send orders to: Homecraft Service, Journal Pub. Co., Inc., 2500 Buchanan, Kansas City 16, Mo.

QUEEN OF WAVES—Chosen queen of the fourth annual Gold Coast marathon powerboat race, curvy Rhoda Wetz waits in Miami, Fla., ready to flag the winner of the two-day race. Course ran from Miami to West Palm Beach and back.

PAINTS HOUSE AT 74—Never thinking about hiring some young fellow to do the job, 74-year-old Mrs. Harriet Morse of Cleveland paints her own house from a rickety old ladder. The self-reliant grandmother of three is used to doing things herself. She was widowed when her only son was 12 years old and she earned their livings by taking in roomers. She's anxious to complete the house so she can get started on the big porch and a three-car garage.

Maple, Box Elder Trees Hit By Scale Insect

Unusually severe damage to soft maple and box elder trees in many Wisconsin cities and towns is being caused by the cottony maple scale insect, according to E. L. Chambers, State Entomologist for the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Unless some immediate control measures are practiced, the branches of heavily infested trees may die and the foliage of the entire tree will turn yellow. The large brown scale insect is easily seen because of the large white curtain like egg sac that protrudes from it. Upon hatching, many of the nymphs move to the under surface of the leaves where they feed on the principal vein.

Chambers explains that the danger and damage this year caused by the maple scale insect is due to the fact that its natural enemies die out when the scale insect is brought under control. Then the scale insect numbers build up rapidly to a serious stage before they can be again brought under control.

The most effective control Chambers said, is a dormant application of a 2 to 3 per cent superior type oil or a 4 per cent summer oil which should be applied while the trees are dormant. Summer sprays can also be effectively applied to the young scale insects which are now beginning to crawl on the surface of the trees. Nicotine sulphate used at the rate of one part to 800 parts of water in which soap has been dissolved, makes a good treatment, or a DDT spray made up of one pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder to 50 gallons of water, is also effective.

Chambers said that if the scale insects persisted, that the treatment should be repeated in ten days.

OURS IS TOP AGRICULTURAL STATE

Minnesota ranks first among the 48 states in butter and oats; second in flax, chickens, turkeys, and eggs; third in barley, hay, milk cows, and whole milk; fourth in corn. Fifty thousand of our 179,000 farms are classed as dairy, 37,000 general, 35,000 livestock, 25,000 cash grain. Greatest acreage is in corn, next oats, then flax, wheat, alfalfa, barley, wild hay, clover, soy beans, rye. There are more pigs than cattle, more turkeys than either, nearly three times as many chickens as all.

Protect Your Skin While You Tan

Summer sun enthusiasts should be careful to protect their skin by gradually increasing exposure, using common sense and a good sun-screening preparation, if necessary. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association outlines the following rules to follow for safe sun bathing:

1. Expose your skin for brief periods, no more than 10 minutes the first day with gradual increases thereafter. The sun's rays are usually more powerful between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. A sun tan preparation is not needed if you experiment cautiously. The body builds up an effective immunity without excessive burning.

2. If you plan to spend long periods in the sun, use a sun-screening preparation, applying it every two hours, after each swim and when it rubs off. However, under the best preparations, you may still burn. Each individual tans differently—a few, not at all.

3. Protect your eyes. They are extra sensitive to the burning rays of the sun because they cannot build up immunity like the skin, and are vulnerable to injury. When lying down, cover them with cotton pads. Wear sun glasses at other times.

4. Protect your hair. The sun probably won't permanently damage the hair, but it may cause brittleness and dryness, making it hard to manage.

5. Lubricating the skin will help prevent excessive drying effects of the sun. Constant sun bathers should apply a cream or lotion before retiring. A tanned skin may appear dry and taut and may look older than it is. People over 30 years are more likely to develop dry skin from sun bathing.

6. Use common sense. Don't engage in violent physical exercise and if you feel tired, get out of the sun. Learn your limitations and you will get far more benefits from the sun's rays.

MRS. F. O.: In a previously normal child, what is the most likely cause of convulsions?

ANSWER: If the child has previously been found normal by a physician and is on a good diet, the most likely cause is infection, such as respiratory infection, whooping cough, pneumonia and scarlet fever.

Farmers Face Trouble With X-Disease

Farmers need to be on the lookout for a new disease in their dairy herds.

"X-disease," as it is commonly known, has caused outbreaks in several hundred Wisconsin herds in the past few months. It is also called "sore mouth" disease (hyperkeratosis).

So far, University of Wisconsin veterinarian D. T. Berman says no one knows the exact cause of the disease, but it is definitely not contagious. Berman states it has some connection with toxic materials in feeds. He points out one of the effects of the disease is a lowering of the animal's vitamin A reserves.

One of the first symptoms of X-disease is a watery discharge from the eyes of the animal, Berman says. Following this, there is usually saliva drooling from the mouth, diarrhea, and poor appetite.

In many cases the skin peels away from around the nose, and warty growths appear in the mouth. These warts cause the "sore mouth" condition, and both the animal's eating, if the disease continues, the hide often becomes hard and board-like.

Other signs of X-disease may be irregular heat periods, anemia, and pneumonia.

There is no specific treatment available yet, but Berman suggests changing feed where outbreaks occur. He recommends good quality grains and hay and corn silage, and whole or skimmed milk powder to affected calves.

X-disease has been most common in calves, and they are more seriously affected than cows. Many calves die before the hide changes.

Bible Comment:

Large Divorce Rate Warns Us to Heed Commandments

FAMILY religion has deep roots in the Old Testament, and in the Jewish literature were many precepts, giving wise counsel to parents, and setting forth the duties of children, thus establishing with clearness the conditions of family welfare and a happy home life.

It ought to be noted how strongly some of the choicest of these precepts stress the law and commandments. "My son, keep thy father's commandment, and forsake not the law of thy mother." There must be standards of right, and a sense of responsibility, if there are to be sound relationships and happiness in the home.

The acceptance of parenthood without an adequate sense of responsibility is the root of a great deal of home breakdown and tragedy today. A first essential of a good home is good parents. What can be expected of children if their parents do not set them a good example? Moreover, precept and teaching are not enough, for children will soon detect an insincerity, and the worst of all counsel we could give our children would be to say, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say."

"Train up a child in the way he should go," is the Bible's injunction to parents, with the assurance that when he is older he will not depart from it. Alas! that assurance is not always justified, for many influences are upon the child, as well as those of the home, and too often they break down and destroy what the home has sought to do. But without proper training the child has little chance at all, so that exceptions in reality do not nullify the law that good training brings good results.

The most acute social and religious problems today are associated with home and family. With an increasingly large proportion of marriages ending in separation and divorce, we are facing ominous times. And most of the proposed remedies are doing little to get at the cause.

The principal cause for the breakdown is the lack of regard for law and commandments—the failure to observe the rules of what is life's most important game.

By Ted Kesting

The next time you see a spinning angler drop his lure time and again almost exactly where he wants to put it, don't be jealous. Getting accuracy with spinning tackle is easy when rod, reel, line and lure are properly matched in weight or strength and when you use the instantaneous advantages of forefinger control which Joe Bates, Jr., discussed here a few weeks ago. With them, and a bit of practice, it's a sure bet that you can be an accurate caster, too.

We asked Bates what type of cast aids the spinning angler most in getting accuracy. He explained there are half a dozen accepted types, but the overhead cast and the side cast are used most often. The side cast sends the lure and line out in a low trajectory but accuracy in direction is more difficult. The overhead cast, being made in a single plane is more accurate in direction but less so in distance, because of the higher trajectory of flight of the lure and the greater belly in the line.

The side cast starts with the rod pointing forward. From this position, wrist action snaps it downward to the right. Utilizing the bend thus made in the rod, it is instantly swept forward and upward to a position pointing at about 45 degrees over the target. At this point the line is released by extending the forefinger.

The overhead cast is made by snapping the rod back vertically from the horizontal to an 11-o'clock position overhead and then, utilizing the bend thus formed in the rod, sweeping it forward and releasing the lure when the rod is pointed at an angle of about 45 degrees over the target.

In either case, a full arm swing is neither necessary nor desirable. Use the wrists a lot, the forearm a little and the upper arm not at all. For best results, let the rod do most of the work.

Don't bother trying to learn other types of casts until these two most important ones become instinctive. Practice gradually will make the release of the line and control of the lure become second nature. Then you will be pleasantly surprised to see how accurately the lure can be made to land in the ripple ring of a rising trout. In the pad-bordered lair of a big bass, or close to rocks along the coast where ocean game fish are feeding.

HEAT 101, SUFFERS FROSTBITE

Washington, D.C.—While hundreds of people were treated for heat exhaustion, Mrs. S. A. Carr, of nearby Rockville, Md., was treated for frostbite. Mrs. Carr opened her refrigerator to get some ice and her hand stuck to the ice tray. She couldn't get her hand released, so she pulled out the ice tray and waited for it to thaw enough to release her frozen hand. Then she went to a doctor's office to be treated for frostbite.

QUESTION: I am planning to construct a masonry fireplace in my new home and would like to know whether the firebrick must be laid in cement mortar or in fire clay. If fire clay, what is the proper way of mixing it?
D.K. Uniondale, L. I. N. Y.

ANSWER: When firebrick are laid in mortar, cracks usually develop in a short while. Fire clay is better, more enduring. Mix the dry, powdered clay with water to the consistency of putty, or mortar—an easily workable mixture. Do not build a fire before 48 hours have elapsed.

QUESTION: I am unable to get paint to adhere satisfactorily to the house in which I live. I use the best quality paints, yet now it is beginning to peel again. I have been advised to use shellac by one person—no undercoat of aluminum paint by another person. Can you offer a solution to my problem?
—A.L.M., Roanoke, Va.

ANSWER: The advice you received is sound in both cases. Shellac and aluminum paint are excellent wood sealers and should cure the paint peeling problem. Be sure to remove all old and defective paint before application of either of these undercoats.

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to refinish a mirror that has spots showing through from the back which mar the clear vision? There must be some solution for this purpose.
—A.W., Readstburg, Wisconsin

ANSWER: The only real cure is refiguring your mirror. This is a professional job requiring special equipment, including a tank large enough to contain the mirror, plus knowledge of proper chemical mixtures. Oxidation of the silvering coat causes the black spots. You can scrape the loose material away at these points, cover the area with aluminum foil held down with clear shellac, but the patchwork will show.

Condensery Products Up; Butter, Cheese Output Down in 1951

Wisconsin creamery butter output last year was 11 percent less than the 1950 production, according to the Crop Reporting Service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture. A slight drop in the production of cheese but an increase in the total output of condensed, evaporated, and powdered milk products is shown in the annual reports of the state's dairy plant operators.

Creamery butter production in Wisconsin last year is reported at 143,730,000 pounds or 17,914,000 pounds less than the output in 1950.

Although American cheese output in Wisconsin of 431,266,000 pounds was three per cent larger than the quantity made in 1950, the total amount of cheese made in the state last year was one per cent smaller than the previous year. Limburger cheese production of 3,206,000 pounds was the smallest quantity made in the state in any one year since records began in 1924. Swiss and Italian cheese output dropped about a fifth from 1950 and smaller quantities of brick and Munster were also made. Total cheese output in the state is reported at 552,064,000 pounds for last year.

Total output of condensed, evaporated and powdered milk products in Wisconsin last year is reported at 1,268,003,000 pounds, or nearly three percent more than the 1950 production. Many changes took place in the manufacture of the different products in this classification. A sharp decrease in sweetened condensed whole milk, bulk and case goods occurred while unsweetened evaporated and condensed, whole milk, case and bulk goods output gained from 1950.

The annual reports of dairy manufacturers also show that last year more milk and cream were shipped out of the state than in the previous year, there was a larger increase in casein and that some increase in ice cream manufacture occurred.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recently issued a folder "Polio Pledge" to alert American children and parents to safeguards which may lessen the possibility of contracting paralytic polio.

- Here, in abbreviated form, are the essential precautions listed in the 1952 "Polio Pledge":
- (1) Avoid fatigue from work or play.
  - (2) Don't get chilled. Don't swim too long in cold water nor sit around in wet clothes.
  - (3) Don't mix unnecessarily with new groups. Don't take children out of camp where there is good health supervision.
  - (4) Watch closely for signs of illness. . . headache, fever, sore muscles, stiff neck or back, trouble in breathing or swallowing.
  - (5) Put a sick person to bed at once, away from others, and call your doctor. Follow his advice.

MUDDY SHOES, CLOTHES SUMMERTIME PROBLEM

Summer storms make muddy shoes and clothes quite a problem in many homes. And mud isn't always easy to remove, says Gladys Meloche, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

It's a good idea to brush loose dry mud from clothes before you wash them, she says.

If there's any clay in the mud, rinse the fabric several times in cold water to get out all the soil lodged in the yarns. Then use warm—not hot—soap suds. Red or yellow clay will make a stain like iron rust—and hot soap suds will set the stain.

Even though dry mud comes off shoes more easily than wet mud does, it's not a good idea to let the mud dry on, Miss Meloche continues. Mud will stain leather, and the longer it's on the worse the stain may be.

It's safer to scrape the moist mud off as soon as possible and then wipe the leather clean with a soft, moist cloth. Stuffing shoes with paper will help them hold their shape. Let them dry slowly before you repolish them.

Franklin's Gull

© 1951 National Wildlife Federation Franklin's Gull

When farmers plow the rich soil of the plains in southern Canada and the northern United States, they are often followed by flocks of Franklin's Gulls. The big birds hop from furrow to furrow, chattering noisily and looking for the bugs they like so well.

As they move about, pecking in the soft dirt, it is easy to see that their heads are mostly black, with just a speck of white over their eyes. Their backs and tails are pale gray, and so are the upper parts of their wings. Along the outer edges of the wings, the gray fades into white. Their pointed wingtips are black, and their feet, legs, and bills are dark red.

More white appears when they soar into the air. Their bodies are white underneath, and the light shines through the thin, white feathers along the edges of their widespread wings.

At the heart of our continent, where they spend the summer, Franklin's Gulls settle down along the shores of lakes and in tangled marshes. Wherever you see a few of them, the National Wildlife Federation reports, there are likely to be many more nearby. For the Gulls are neighborly and usually live in colonies.

Each pair of Gulls builds a nest on wet ground or on shallow water. It is a crude home, made of grass and rushes, and it may be placed on a mat of broken reeds. In the nest the female lays from two to four large eggs. Some of the eggs are pale buff and some are dark, but all have brown and lavender marks. After twenty days the eggs hatch. The young birds, covered with downy feathers, may be either dark brown, speckled black, or gray. Like their parents, they soon are eating hearty meals of fish, frogs, crayfish, and insects. The entire family performs a valuable service by destroying pests which are harmful to crops.

As the weeks go by, the young steadily gain in size. When fully grown, they measure fifteen inches in length, and they can stretch their wings to a width of nearly three feet.

In the fall, the whole family leaves the north. With their neighbors, they fly down to the coast of Texas and Louisiana to spend the winter. Some Franklin's Gulls don't even stop there, but go deep into South America.

While in the south, the birds change slightly in color. They lose their black hoods and wear white on their heads until time to go north again in the spring.

Sometimes Franklin's Gulls are confused with Laughing Gulls. The way to tell them apart, says the National Wildlife Federation, is to observe that Laughing Gulls have more black and less white on their wings. Laughing Gulls also live on the Atlantic Coast, while Franklin's Gulls are found much farther west.

HOW IT STARTED

Back in 1870 at Montrose, New York, the New York Central installed the first device which enabled locomotives to pick up water without stopping. Railroad men referred to this process as "jerkwater" and Montrose became known in railroad lingo as a "jerkwater" town.

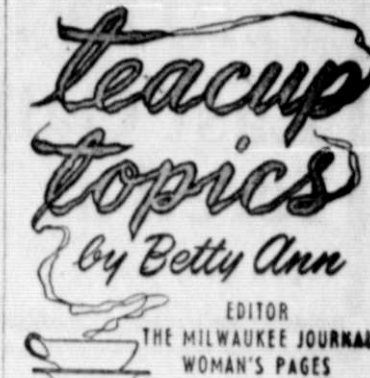

As more devices were installed along the line, the term "jerkwater" was used in a disdainful sense to describe places which were important only for the water picked up there.

Ticklers

By George

"I admit it's a good act, but this music's kinda dead."

EDITOR THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL WOMAN'S PAGES

Prints are everywhere this year, says Betty Ann. Choose prints on nylons of both puckered and linenlike types, or on permanently crisp sheer nylon. Gold printed cottons are still in great favor. All these are as practical as they are pretty, if you know your soap and water techniques. Printed pure silk crepe and surah, or tie silk, can also go in the suds with the right instructions.

There's never been any mystery as to why solid colors and woven stripes are so friendly with soapsuds. Because the yarn was dyed and "set" before the weaving took place, the color is deep in the fabric.

With prints, color is rolled on two, three, or many tints within one side of the fabric only—often the same design. Will they come out in the washing? Will one color or bleed into another? These are the questions you ask about prints.

First, check the labels. Many prints are made to be superbly washable and the tag tells the story. But if you're not sure about washability, make a simple test for colorfastness. Take a bit of the material from an inside seam or the belt end, soak it in a glass of warm water for a short time, and pat it between two folds of clean white cloth to dry. If you notice little or no change in the color or in the outlines of the design, the colors of your print are safe in soap and water.

Silk, rayon, nylon and sheer cotton prints are candidates for quick, gentle handwashing, once the color test has been passed. Wash one piece at a time in rich, lukewarm suds. Do not soak. Squeeze gently and do not wring. Soiled spots and streaks on collar or cuffs can be rubbed with well soaped fingers or a soft brush. Put the garment through several lukewarm rinses.

Now roll it in a soft towel to remove excess moisture. Unroll immediately, shake to separate all surfaces, and arrange it on a hanger in an airy, shady place. It's a good idea to cover the hanger with a soft towel before placing a sheer summer dress on it. This avoids a sharp crease at the shoulder seams.

Press silk, rayon or sheer cotton prints while still damp, with a moderate iron, on the wrong side. If you have to finish up a pocket or pleat on the right side, cover it with a thin press cloth or sheet of tissue paper first. It isn't necessary to iron until completely dry. Place the garment on a hanger and the remaining dampness will evaporate by itself.

Some nylon prints need no ironing at all. Puckered nylon is especially easy to launder by the handwashing method. Letting the smoother types of nylon fabric drip dry will usually straighten it out so that the garment ends up looking well pressed after drying. Orlon is another new non-ironing material. If a fabric contains more than 50% orlon, blended with acetate, rayon or some other fiber, it has enough "body" to put it in the no-ironing class. Just arrange collar, neck opening and sleeves to hang properly while drying.

Don't leave pretty frocks hidden away in the closet because they're soiled. Hints for a quick handwashing of summer prints can keep your wardrobe fresh day by day all through the hot season.

Here's a tasty main dish salad to have on hand for easy week end meal getting. Soften an envelope of unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Heat a can of ready to serve chicken noodle soup to boiling, remove from heat and stir in gelatin until dissolved. Chill until it begins to thicken and add some finely chopped onion and a can of flaked tuna. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Serve on crisp salad greens.

Wash closet and drawer interiors with plenty of sudsy hot water before storing winter woollens away. Try using 'cloves. They smell spicy and keep moths away.

If your glassware and silver show water spots after being washed and dried in a dishwasher, the condition may be due to film caused by hard water. To avoid water spotting, pour a small quantity of bleaching agent on top of the detergent in the detergent cup (use the bottle cap as a measure and fill it ¾ full). Repeat the process periodically, depending on the hardness of water.

Entries High at County Fair in Homemaking Dept.

The Washington county fair is the goal toward which 4-H members aim their project work during the year for it is at this time that they exhibit the articles they have made. There were very few of the 554 4-H members who did not exhibit at the 95th county fair. In the homemaking departments, 4-H girls made 375 foods entries, 261 clothing articles, displayed 45 home furnishing articles, and 127 canned or frozen foods.

The open class homemaking departments displayed 574 different entries made by 170 exhibitors. Some of these people were adults who can be counted on every year to make exhibits but the number of 170 was reached with the exhibitions of many 4-Hers. Foods entries in this department numbered 246 while there were 169 cans of food and 259 clothing garments entered.

4-H clothing girls took part in the dress revue contest with enthusiasm for 181 garments were modeled for the judging. The contest was climaxed Saturday evening, July 26, by a dress revue for the public. "There's Magic in the Making" was graphically shown as 4-H girls stepped from a black top hat, the symbol of magicians, to model clothes they had made themselves.

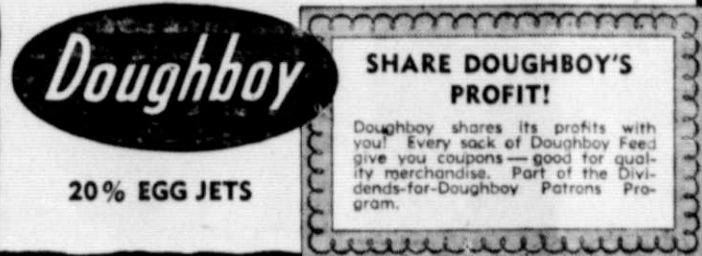

Joanne Gutjahr, Allenton, a 5th year clothing member of the Rock River Royals club and Jackie Wolf, Richfield, of the Oak Grove club, who is also a fifth year clothing member were picked as dress revue winners. Joanne will model her aqua blue nylon dress in the state contest during the state fair. Jackie will wear her 4-piece green denim play suit in the same contest. Alternates for the state dress revue competition are Joyce Wolf, Jackie's older sister, and Aveline Herriges of St. Michaels.

New Swine Disease Reported

A relatively new disease that causes pigs' eyelids to swell, and also affects their noses and lips, is expected to move into more hog lots this summer.

The disease, "pig edema," is fast becoming a serious problem in major swine producing areas, says a report this week from Dr. H. J. O'Connell, state veterinarian with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Pig edema chiefly attacks young pigs and growing shoats 6 to 20 weeks of age, O'Connell says, but it can attack older pigs, too.

It may cause a high death rate. Losses come on quickly and the victims usually die within 36 hours. Among brought-in pigs it usually appears from three to fourteen days after their arrival on a farm.

Typical symptoms include loss of appetite and lack of body coordination. The edema first appears on the eyelids, then spreads to the snout and lips. The pig's grunt may become hoarse, and it may stumble or drag its hind legs. Paralysis and convulsions may set in before death. Further examination usually reveals edema of the stomach and colon walls.

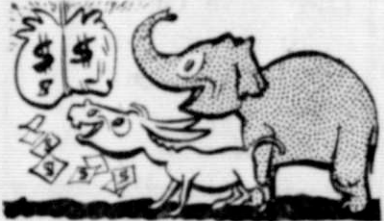

Farmers should report all suspicious cases immediately. This may help to avoid serious losses, and will also aid the veterinarian in keeping this swine hazard from spreading to other farms.

HOW TO LOWER THE CEILING AND SAVE HEAT

The cheapest and easiest way to lower a ceiling is to build a new false ceiling at the desired height. The labor involved in actually lowering an old ceiling is too great to be practical.

First, nail a 2x4 support, all the way around each room at the desired height. Take into consideration the thickness of the wall board or ceiling board you are going to use for a ceiling. If you intend on plastering the ceiling, allow at least 5/8 of an inch.

Be sure the support is nailed securely. Locate the wall studs and nail directly into them.

Use 2x6s for the ceiling joists. Cut the ends of each joist as illustrated so that a part of the load will rest on top of the 2x4 support. Toenail from the underside.

Nail the joists 16 inches apart, center to center. Apply a vapor seal insulation to the bottom of the joists before installing the new ceiling if the space above the room is not heated. Then apply the finish ceiling.

The ceiling may be of lath and plastered, or any one of many

ABOUT YOUR HOME
By FRANCES DELL

There are a great many people today who admire good modern furniture, but feel they must stick with traditional furniture because they have a desk, some old silver and china or, perhaps, a sofa that they wish to keep for sentimental reasons or because they can't afford to replace them and buy the other pieces they need.

Advice coming from the outstanding decorators of the day is to forget the controversy between modern and traditional. Good design, no matter what its label, can mix with any other good design. That's why a modern desk is appropriate in an eighteenth century library.

Modern is not a style but a way of thinking. Modern furniture, to deserve the name has to be more than an unusual shape with chromium rods or plywood do-dads. What makes it modern is how it fills the needs of modern-day living. It must save space, perform efficiently, be easy to keep clean and adapt itself to more than one specialized use.

In the best modern furniture you will find such features as adjustable shelves, removable partitions, reversible cushions and surfaces that are smooth and easy to clean.

Many people wouldn't recognize good modern furniture as modern because it is not extreme, and blends in well with old silver, flower prints and the like.

The supreme test of good furniture of any period is—is it timeless? Good modern is; Sheraton is; Chippendale is. Their lines are clean and will always be pleasing to the eye and to the universal idea of beauty.

G.I. JOE "SHOJO" — To the amazement of Japanese spectators, Lt. Donald C. Mills, of Shreveport, La., performs the difficult and graceful Noh dance, "Shojo," in Fukuoka, Japan. Experts predict that the Itazuke air base officer will become an excellent Noh dancer in time. He was ready for his first performance after only a few months' instruction.

Avoid Food Poisoning On Summer Picnic

Summer picnics are fun—but take care you don't come home with an unpleasant case of food poisoning.

"Family picnics were responsible for a considerable number of food poisoning cases in Minnesota last summer," reports G. A. Vacha, chief bacteriologist of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Foods. "These cases also represent an increase over those of previous years."

In his statement, Vacha lists as particular picnic lunch hazards all salads (but especially potato, chicken and tuna fish salads), meats such as fried chicken and ham, and all forms of custards and cream-filled pies.

"There is great danger of staphylococcus germs poisoning food through improper handling or lack of refrigeration," he said. "These germs grow so fast that they need only a warm day and a few hours to fill the whole food with the poison which causes—in man—nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, diarrhea and prostration."

Vacha suggested these ways of guarding against picnic food poisoning:

PREVENT food contamination in the first place by careful preparation and cleanliness. Cook all "cooked foods" thoroughly. Make sure there are no cuts on the hands or infection on exposed parts of the skin. These can be sources of food contamination.

KEEP IN THE REFRIGERATOR until the last minute all foods other than dry or packaged items. Too often the picnic basket is packed hours ahead, allowing meats, salads, custard foods to stand without refrigeration for several hours. This offers excellent breeding grounds for staphylococcus germs.

IN THE CAR, use a small ice box to keep "spoilable" foods cool and fresh. If this is not possible, the food must at least be taken out of the car and put in the shade as soon as the picnic grounds are reached.

"It's also a good idea to EAT that picnic lunch as soon as possible," Vacha concluded. "Even that may ward off food poisoning."

THE FLAMINGO

Have you ever seen a dream walking? Well, this colorful flamingo isn't a dream, and chances are he is too lazy to do much walking. This makes him just fine for a yard ornament. There is no assurance that he'll keep the lawn mowed, but he won't quit and walk away. Lucky fellow! He's probably the only one who is allowed to sleep on the job! The pattern for this 24-inch flamingo includes cutting and color guides, C3217, 20c. Send orders to: Homecraft Service, Journal Pub. Co., Inc., 2500 Buchanan, Kansas City 16, Mo.

Traffic Deaths Rise In Summer Months

Hot weather months tend to show an increase in highway traffic deaths, the safety division of the Wisconsin state motor vehicle department points out, in a mid-summer warning to motorists.

A seasonal increase in the volume of traffic is given as the chief reason for the relatively high summer death tolls, year after year, but the safety division declares that the direct effects of heat itself probably are involved in some cases. Above-normal temperatures can cause loss of efficiency, weariness, and near-exhaustion on long, grueling trips, the division warns.

Tips for safe hot-weather driving are: Dress comfortably. Do not drive when weary; make frequent stops for rest and relaxation. Do not over-indulge in eating or drinking before driving. Do not over-exercise in the hot sun. Take it easy before you drive, and when you drive.

Youthful Drivers Have Poor Record

According to records kept by the safety division of the motor vehicle department, the most dangerous driver on Wisconsin highways in 1951—to himself and to others—was a driver in his late teens or early twenties. Nineteen-year-old drivers were involved in more reportable accidents than drivers of any other age. Twenty-three-year-old drivers were involved in the greatest number of fatal traffic accidents.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Here's A Good Fish Story

This time of year, when fresh fish are plentiful and economical, is a good time to get acquainted with the many varieties available not only near ocean and lakes but in inland towns, thanks to modern refrigeration. Secret of success in cooking fish is not to overcook it, and to season it properly. Fish is bland, and takes well to simple sauces, such as the Tabasco sauce below. A high quality protein food, there are some 160 varieties of fish sold in the United States. Here are pictured, reading top to bottom, three salt water varieties, sea bass, mackerel and porgie, and three fresh water species, white fish, yellow pike and brook trout.

An easy and appetizing way of preparing fish for the table is by simple broiling. To serve four, plan on 1 pound of fillets or steaks or four small fish, and 3 to 4 tablespoons of fat. Preheat broiler. Cut fillets or steaks into serving pieces. Grease the broiler rack lightly. Place fish on rack, skin side up; brush with melted fat. Place rack 2 to 3 inches from heat. Broil fish 5 to 8 minutes or until brown, and serve with this tangy sauce.

Tabasco Butter Sauce
4 tablespoons butter or margarine 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
4 1/2 teaspoons lime juice 1 tablespoon minced parsley
Melt butter in saucepan. Add lime juice and Tabasco; heat. Add parsley. YIELD: Approximately 1/2 cup.

1 package lime flavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup diced, well drained canned pineapple

Refrigerator Custard Ice Cream
2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
3 eggs—vanilla
1 pint cream
2 tablespoons sugar
Mix cornstarch and sugar. Add milk, put on stove and cook until it coats the spoon. Remove from heat and stir in well beaten egg yolks. Beat as you mix so that it will not lump. Return to stove and cook till thick. Set aside to cool. Put in freezing tray and freeze almost hard. Whip cream. Empty frozen custard into bowl with cream. Beat until frozen lumps are smooth, then fold in well beaten egg whites to which has been added 2 tablespoons sugar. Flavor with vanilla and freeze without stirring. Makes 1 1/2 trays.

Banana Ice Cream
Salt
1/2 cup banana pulp
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 cups light cream
Add sugar to bananas, add salt and lemon juice. Stir cream into mixture. Freeze.

Chocolate Ice Cream
1 1/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup cold water
2 cups light cream or evaporated milk
Put condensed milk and chocolate in top of double boiler. Cook over rapidly boiling water, stirring often until thick, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Slowly add cold water, mixing well.

Add cream and blend well. Chill and freeze.

Devil's Food Ice Cream Loaf
1 quart vanilla ice cream
2 layers devil's food cake
1 cup cream whipped
Line a freezing tray with wax-paper. Pack half of the vanilla ice cream into the bottom of tray. Cover with a thin layer of cake cut to fit. Pack rest of ice cream firmly on top. Place another layer of cake firmly on top. Chill in freezing compartment for several hours. Turn out on chilled platter and cover with whipped cream. Slice and serve on chilled plate.

CHOPPED GRASS YIELDS MORE SPUDS? — Not satisfied with a three-year rotation of grain, alfalfa and potatoes because the preceding crop was hard to plow under, F. H. Krause of Germansville, Pa., decided that a shredder was what he needed. He went to a manufacturer in New Holland, Pa., and bought the machine, above, which was intended for mowing and chopping grass for silage. Rather than blow the chopped grass into a wagon Krause puts it back on the field as "green manure." He says it will increase potato production.

CAMERA CATCHES CATCHER'S FLIGHT—Seeming to hover over home plate, catcher Paul Navarro of the Mexico City team descends too late to tag Rene Gonzales of the Veracruz Aguilas who steals home safely. The zooming catcher made up for the late tag when he singled home the winning run later in the game, giving his team a 5-4 win of the contest played in Mexico City.

STREET OF FLOWERS — Perhaps the most beautiful main street in the world is this one in Genzano, Italy, during the Corpus Christi religious celebrations. On the main street leading to the church, a group of local citizens complete their flower decorations as spectators line the sidewalk. Hundreds of pounds of fresh petals are used and even the ropes holding back the crowd are covered with foliage.

U.N. Agency Helps Korean Farmers

As a first step in the long-range rehabilitation of Korea's food resources the United Nations Reconstruction Agency (UNKRA) and the Heifer Project, an interdenominational voluntary society, sent 210,000 hatching eggs by plane to that country. Above, Mr. Hobart Creighton, a hatching expert with the U.N. Civil Assistance Command in Korea, shows a farmer how to handle the baby chicks.
