Indians to Play 8-Man Football

Kewaskum and other schools in the Fox River Valley Tri-County conference will make a change from six-man to eight-man football this fall. This will be the first attempt at eight-man ball. The teams have played six-man football ever since adding this sport to the athletic program.

Coach Ernie Mitchell and his assistant have been training the large squad the past two weeks to get them acquainted with the eight-man game. Among the 35 candidates who have reported for football practice, only four are returning lettermen. The team was hard hit by graduation and transfers of players to other schools. Only lettermen back are Leroy Keller and Lloyd Dreher, backfield men, and Donald Dei and Roger Groeschel, ends.

The Indians open their seven-game schedule, including a non-conference tilt with Kohler, at Lomira on Friday, Sept. 19. Last year Kewaskum won four games and lost two and ended up in third place in the conference.

Eight-man football differs from the six-man game in that two guards are added in the line. The eight positions, therefore, are two ends, two guards, a center, and three backs.

Following is Kewaskum's schedule for the season: Sept. 19—Kewaskum at Lomira. Sept. 26—Oakfield at Kewaskum. Oct. 3—North Fond du Lac at Kewaskum.

Oct. 10—Kewaskum at Campbellport. Oct. 17—Brandon at Kewaskum. Oct. 24—Kohler at Kewaskum. Oct. 31—Kewaskum at Green Lake.

Haebig of Kewaskum Defeats Holtebeck in Assembly Race

Gonring, McCarthy Winners in Other GOP Contests in Primary; 482 Votes Cast Here

As the result of hot Republican state assembly and county district attorney races as well as state senator and secretary of state contests, voters of Kewaskum and Washington county turned out in huge numbers Tuesday to cast their ballots in the September primary election. The highest number of ballots ever cast in a fall primary were recorded. Hot, sunny weather brought the voters all out and helped pile up a total of 10,533 ballots in the county.

A total of 482 votes were cast in the village. Although a large number, this total did not equal those of some previous elections. There were 427 Republican ballots cast and only 55 Democratic. However, some Democrats switched their vote to the GOP ticket in this election because of the interesting contests on that ballot.

The most important contest locally was that between incumbent K. William Haebig of Kewaskum and Theodore Holtebeck for the state assembly post on the Republican slate. This race was close, especially when early returns came in. Holtebeck gave Haebig stiff competition throughout the evening, and only when the returns from the village and town of Kewaskum and the city of West Bend were tallied was Haebig assured of nomination.

Locally Haebig polled 352 votes to Holtebeck's 59, which was expected in the former's home town. The town of Kewaskum gave Haebig 132 votes compared to 37 for his opponent. The city of West Bend also gave him a substantial margin. Holtebeck ran strong in Hartford and the rural areas on the southern end of the county. Complete tallies for the county gave Haebig 4,851 votes to Holtebeck's 3,319.

There was no candidate for assemblyman on the Democratic ballot. Robert J. Loeb, who polled 232 write-in votes, will oppose Haebig in the Nov. 4 election.

Atty. Lee Gonring easily bested Atty. Luke Kauth and William Marth in the three-way race for the GOP nomination for district attorney.

overwhelmingly for the senator. McCarthy won a landslide victory in his race with Atty. Len Schmitt. Joe carried every one of the county's 25 precincts with big majorities. He received 6,513 votes, compared to 1,779 for Schmitt in the county. Four other GOP candidates who opposed McCarthy trailed badly. In Kewaskum McCarthy posted 302 votes to 85 for Schmitt and in the town of Kewaskum he received 142 to 29 for Schmitt. Almost complete returns from the state gave McCarthy 431,422 votes to Schmitt's 173,701.

Veteran Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman soundly trounced Maurice B. Wigderson, his GOP opponent for nomination. With 2,918 of the state's 3,223 precincts reporting, Zimmerman was leading Wigderson by more than 377,000 votes. Here Zimmerman received 249 votes to Wigderson's 134 and in the town it was 113 to 45. All other Republican candidates were unopposed.

The Democratic vote as usual was light throughout the county. There was opposition for only two races. For U. S. senator, Henry Reuss nosed out Thomas Fairchild in the county, 618 to 562. However, Fairchild defeated Reuss in state balloting in a close race and will face McCarthy in November. In the other contest Ralph A. Norem won over L. P. Touchett and H. F. Slover in the race for Sixth district representative in congress. Norem polled 455 votes, Touchett 423 and Slover 190 in the county. Complete results from the entire Sixth district were not yet available.

Following are the totals for Washington county, the village and town of Kewaskum: WASHINGTON COUNTY Governor—Kohler (R) 5183; Proxmire (D) 1159.

Congressman—Van Pelt (R) 6855; Touchett (D) 428, Norem (D) 455, Slover (D) 150.

Assembly—Haebig (R) 4851, Holtebeck (R) 3349; Loeb (D) (write-in) 237.

County Clerk—Stalal (R) 7744; County Treasurer—Justman (R) 7650; Johnson (D) 1062.

Sheriff—Brugger (R) 7579; Monroe (D) 1091.

Hospital Installs New X-Ray Therapy Machine

The sisters and staff of St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, are happy to announce the installation and completion of a new medical facility. A modern deep x-ray therapy machine with full complement of accessories is now available at the hospital. It occupies a specially constructed lead-lined room on the third floor. This 250,000-volt x-ray unit, the General Electric Maximar 250, III, is capable of producing x-rays of very short wave-length, which penetrate deeply into the body to cure internal cancer.

Such treatment was not previously available in West Bend and surrounding area. The hospital's x-ray department which is under the direction of Dr. A. Melamed and Dr. A. Marek, radiologists, now is prepared to treat a much wider variety of conditions than hitherto. Armed with a more powerful unit they expect to treat more effectively a larger group of diseases including cancer.

This project was made possible by generous gifts from members of this community.

Knowledge Of RH Factors In Blood Saves Many Babies

Carl N. Neupert, M.D.
In recent years we've heard a lot about babies developing severe jaundice or even dying because something in the blood of their parents was not compatible.

This fear has almost subsided as we have learned to understand more about the Rh factor—an important feature in the composition of human blood cells.

It has been learned that an Rh negative woman, one who does not have the Rh factor in her blood, may become sensitized to it. If she is married to an Rh positive man, she may therefore be unable to have well babies. However, this usually does not happen until several Rh positive children have been born, sometimes as many as six or seven.

The danger to the baby of Rh negative mother and Rh positive father is further minimized because many women who are Rh negative never become sensitized to the Rh factor even though they bear Rh positive infants.

It is important for the physician to know which of his pregnant patients are Rh negative and which are Rh positive. With this knowledge he can prepare before hand to meet the emergency of a jaundiced baby. The knowledge is obtained by having tests done every few weeks during her pregnancy. These tests reveal in most cases whether the child has Rh positive blood.

The treatment for such a baby is more than just giving a half pint or less of blood. It requires that all of the blood of the infant be exchanged for blood that is Rh negative and is otherwise compatible with the child's blood. This procedure is called "exchange transfusion." By this method Rh positive children born to Rh negative mothers and Rh positive fathers can be saved.

The need for the doctor to know about the presence or absence of the Rh factor is another reason for good medical care all during pregnancy and for adequate hospital facilities.

Savings Bonds Guard Future

The country has faith in U. S. Savings bonds. This is brought out by the fact that bond ownership has increased $8½ billion from approximately $49 billion in 1946 to $57½ billion at the present time. And the latest Treasury Department offering of 2 3/8 per cent bonds, dated July 1, 1952, and maturing June 15, 1958, was oversubscribed more than three times. Subscriptions from non-bank investors alone exceeded the original quota.

Many Sturgeon Bay workers are being asked to join the payroll savings plan for buying bonds. They may well bear in mind those millions who have decided that U. S. Savings bonds are a fine investment.

But in addition to buying bonds as a means of personal savings, the holder can consider himself an important factor in keeping his nation's economy stabilized. One of the main reasons for the country's high level of prosperity following the World War II boom was the savings made through bond purchases. Persons made temporarily jobless by reconversion were aided over by the money they had saved, and a possibly serious national recession was avoided. The bonds also made it possible for many to buy homes, new businesses and farms.

Remember that when you buy U. S. Savings bonds you are assuring yourself of a secure future in two ways:

First, you will have the dollar maturity value of your investment, and second, your purchases will play an important role in keeping the nation's financial structure on a steady course.

repairman can do it with these instructions.

If the cold room is not desired, the slab can still be used for a back porch.

Excavation

The hole should be dug large enough that there will be at least one foot of working space on the outside of the wall.

Walls

The wall should be laid of cement blocks, on a cement footing 4"x16" in ordinary clay soil. Waterproof outside of wall with cement mortar and tar waterproofing.

Support

If the length of the slab is more than eight feet, a one-inch beam should be laid across the top of the wall. It will be necessary to cut into the walls of both basement and porch so that the beam will be even with the top.

Construct a plank flooring to serve as a base when pouring the concrete. This should be removable after the cement has seasoned. (see illustration)

Forms

Build forms for a four-inch slab. The slab should be larger than the wall if it is to be above the level of the earth.

Reinforcement

Use 3/8 or 1/2 steel reinforcement rods. Smaller rods may also be used. They should not be more than 24 inches apart.

Cement

Use standard mix concrete. This is usually called a 2:3:5 mix. If convenient, have the cement delivered ready mixed and ready to pour.

Smooth cement with a straight edge. Trowel slightly when it begins to set. Keep cement wet for several days, by covering with paper or burlap. Do not permit rain to fall on fresh cement until it has set hard.

HE'S ALL EARS—In the jungle of his cornfield, Basil Soupos, South Gifford, Mo., holds a yardstick to demonstrate the prolific yield he has received via liberal fertilizing. Seven ears can be counted in this 38-inch segment of Soupos' 190 acres of corn. The civil engineer-turned-farmer figures he has about 30,000 stalks per acre while some of his neighbors get no more than 7000. Because of the lack of rain Soupos probably won't reach his coveted goal of 200 bushels per acre, but if the dry spell continues he'll flood his field with water pumped from the Chariton River. Looking ahead, Soupos says he won't be satisfied until he raises 300 bushels per acre.

CALICO ASTER

© 1951 National Wildlife Federation Calico Aster

Many years ago, someone looked at the flowers we call asters. We don't know his thoughts at that moment, but we can imagine they must have been something like this:

"Why, those flowers remind me of stars! Their blossoms look as though they were sending out rays. Wouldn't it be a good idea to take ASTER, the Greek word for star and give it to the plants?"

The name stuck, and today it belongs to one of our largest families of flowers. There are more than 250 kinds of asters on our continent alone. Some are tall and some are short. Some look ragged and some neat. There are asters with blossoms under a half inch in diameter and others whose flowers are two inches across.

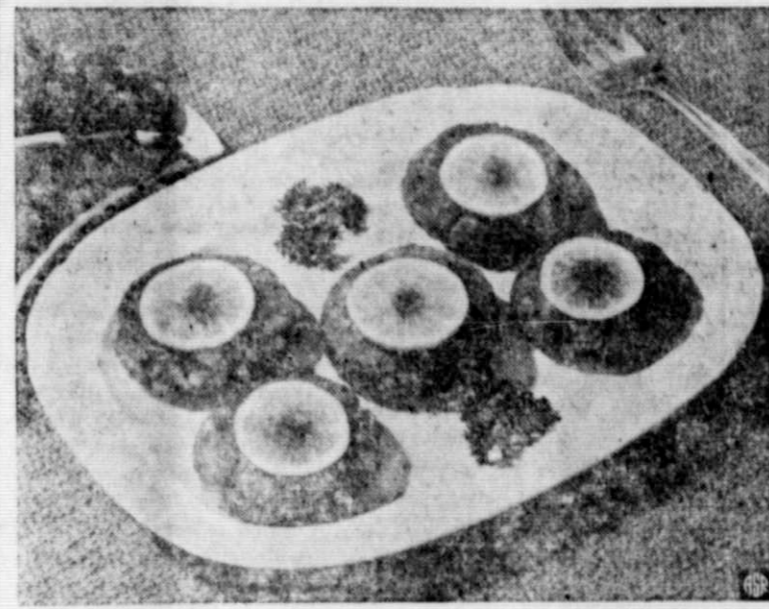

Most of the plants belonging to the aster tribe grow in the eastern & central United States. Only a few varieties are found in the far west.

One of the eastern members of the family is the Calico Aster. The National Wildlife Federation reports that it thrives from New England west to the Dakotas and south to Texas and Louisiana.

It is at its best in dry, open fields, but it also grows along thickets and in thin woodlots. Where there is not too much moisture and shade, the Calico Aster stands a foot or more in height. Here and there are a few

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Tasty Tuna Patties

The cook who can come up with a tasty tuna patty of melting tenderness should be revered in song along with the lass who could bake a cherry pie. For tuna patties, combining the delicate goodness of tuna flakes with seasonings and crumbs, are truly a gustatory delight.

This tuna patty, with velvety textured mayonnaise baked in should make the hardest-to-please man sigh with contentment.

Broiled Tuna Patties

- 4 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 6½-ounce can tuna, flaked
- 1½ cups fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon finely cut parsley
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- Lemon slices
- Paprika
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Finely dice the eggs and combine with the tuna, 1 cup of the bread crumbs, the parsley, salt, pepper and mayonnaise. Mold into 5 or 6 patties, and cover them on both sides with the remaining crumbs. Broil under low heat until golden brown and heated through. Garnish with lemon slices sprinkled with paprika.

Madame Pierre Besson of Paris and Le Cormier, France, makes "the kitchen with the heart" and that is the way she explains her wonderful cooking. Whether she is preparing meals in their Paris flat or in their sixteenth-century farmhouse in Le Cormier, she always loves to make her Polka—an extremely rich and typically French dessert that is a favorite with her husband. Food Editor Helen McCully tells how it is made in the Besson kitchens, in McCully's for September:

Madame Besson's Fabulous Polka

First step, bottom pastry layer:

- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup shortening
- 2½ tablespoons cold water

Sift flour and salt together, then cut or work in the shortening with two knives or a pastry blender until mixture looks like coarse corn meal. Sprinkle in the water and mix long enough to hold the pastry together. Roll thin on a lightly floured breadboard, place bottom of a 9" piepan on dough and cut out a circle ½" wider than bottom of pan. Now fit pastry into pan (there will be a narrow rim extending up the sides), prick copiously with fork tines and cool in your refrigerator until second step is prepared.

Second step, cream-puff sides:

- ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- Pinch of salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ cup butter
- 2 eggs

Start your oven at 425 F. or hot and sift flour, salt and sugar together. Mix boiling water, butter, or shortening in a saucepan and cook over low heat until fat is melted. Now dump in the flour mixture all at once and beat like fury, still over the low heat, until batter forms a ball and leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the range and stir in the whole eggs, one at a time. Beat hard after each addition until you have a thick, shiny batter. Hard, hard beating is the secret here.

Now use a spoon and spread the batter around the sides and up to the rim of the piepan that already has the chilled pastry bottom. Bake for 15 minutes but don't open oven door during baking. At the end of this baking time, both pastry bottom and cream-puff sides are a lovely gold and the sides shape a puffy, irregular frame around the pan. Remove from oven and cool completely.

Third step, cream filling:

- ½ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 cups milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Put sugar into a saucepan and stir in the eggs, one at a time, until well mixed. Mix in the flour and beat until smooth. Now pour in the lukewarm milk and vanilla extract. Cook over a low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is a thick custard or pudding. Pour into pie shell and cool completely.

Fourth step, caramel glaze:

Pour 1/2 cup sugar into a large, heavy skillet. Turn the heat up high and cook the sugar until it liquefies. Now turn heat down low and continue cooking until syrup is a rich golden caramel color. While syrup is still piping hot, use a spoon and drizzle fine lines of the caramel glaze over the cool custard filling.

New Idea For Outdoor Corn Roasting

NOW IS THE TIME FOR ROASTING-EARS. This delicious summer treat is always better when cooked and eaten out doors. A new, and easy way to roast corn is in a Nesco electric roaster-oven. The portable electric roaster-oven, long a summer favorite for indoor cooking, is now being used widely out of doors, either on the picnic table or on its own cabinet.

A favorite way to roast sweet corn-in-the-husk is as follows: Preparation—Select large, freshly gathered ears of corn that are fully developed, tender and uniform. Remove top layer of husk only. Cut off tassel end and peel back entire husk to stem in three sections. Remove silks and cut off tip end of corn. Rinse in cold water allowing a little moisture to remain on corn. Replace husk on corn for protection.

Roasting—Arrange 12-18 ears of prepared corn in bottom and cross-rack (3rd position from bottom) of roaster-oven "Handy-Lift" rack. Place full rack in roaster-oven which is preheated to 400 degrees. Adjust vent to closed position; roast 45-50 minutes; and serve piping hot in husks. Butter or margarine are all that need to be added to make this a perfect summer time dish.

Garden Birthday Parties Summer Fun Fashion

For folks who have their birthdays in summer, it is gay to have the party in the garden, or on the terrace or porch.

Using a pastry tube, decorate the cake with names of the friends who are guests at the party and make ice cream an easy-to-serve accompaniment to the cake by buying the pre-packaged kind. Just bring the neat pint cartons to the garden table and slice the ice cream into convenient cube portions by cutting the ice cream across each way.

Pre-packaged ice cream is ready to take home, no waiting for a container to be filled. You'll find both pint and half gallon pre-packaged cartons of ice cream to serve groups large and small.

Farm Labor Situation Serious

"The farm labor situation throughout the country is becoming more acute and serious," according to C. R. Schoby, President of the American Dairy Association.

Mr. Schoby, an Iowa dairy farmer, says growing shortages of dairy farm workers and the heavy investment a dairy farm demands today leads him to wonder if the question "how much does a quart of milk cost?" may turn into "where can we get a quart of milk?" "Census figures show," Mr. Schoby declared, "that there were about 1,320,000 fewer people working on U. S. farms in 1950 than in 1949."

"The decline of farm workers was caused largely by the decrease in the number of farm operators and family workers who are members of the operator's family, resulting from the decrease in the number of farms. There were approximately 500,000 fewer hired workers on farms in 1950 than in 1940. Expenditures for hired labor were 271 per cent greater than in 1939."

"The number of farms in the United States in 1950 was 495,000 less than in 1940. The average size of farms increased from 174.0 acres in 1940 to 194.8 acres in 1945 and 210.5 acres in 1950. The percentage of farms operated by tenants declined from 38.7 in 1940 to 31.7 in 1945 and to 26.7 in 1950.

"Displacement of about 3,500,000 American farm workers by 1970 as a result of labor-saving devices 'revolutionary in impact' is forecast in a recent study made public by a Senate committee."

Mr. Schoby said that dairy farmers are using all possible mechanical devices to help them carry on their 365 day a year job of milk production. "Mass production of milk on the dairy farm is not sufficient to take up the loss of labor," he added, "and overcome gradual disappearance of the family type farm. During the five years from 1945 to 1950 there was a decline of 124,000 in farms of from 100 to 219 acres."

Red Cross is Seeking Nurses for Polio Duty

An urgent appeal for registered nurses for polio duty in the mid-western states was made this week by Miss Clara B. Jaehrig, executive secretary of the West Bend Red Cross chapter. At least 75 nurses are needed because of a sudden surge in the number of cases in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Inactive registered nurses are especially urged to respond. Nurses recruited by the Red Cross are requested to serve for a minimum two-month period. Their salaries of $275 per month are paid by the National Foundation for infantile Paralysis. Since March 1952, Red Cross has recruited 160 registered nurses for the midwestern states. The National Foundation for infantile Paralysis, the organization that provides expert polio care and meets the cost of treatment when family finances are inadequate, pays the cost of transportation to places of assignment and will provide maintenance, in addition to salary while the nurse is serving in polio work.

All nurses who are available for polio duty should contact the West Bend Red Cross chapter in its offices above the library, or Dr. A. H. Heidner, Red Cross medical disaster chairman, Mrs. Harold Fischer, Red Cross nurse enrollment chairman or Mrs. George Sampson, Red Cross disaster nursing chairman.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK — The weather man has played an especially prominent part in shaping business this summer. The record hot spell has boosted sales of soda pop to all-time peaks. Pepsi-Cola sales have been running an estimated 20 to 25 per cent ahead of a year ago; a West coast drink — Squirt — is running 30 per cent ahead. Coca Cola, starting from a much higher base, has gained 10 per cent or more for recent months, and White Rock records a 21 per cent climb.

Makers of air conditioning equipment are having their best season, many leading makers being sold out on individual room coolers.

A sour note is introduced by the effects of the drought on farmers throughout the country. The Agriculture Department has declared that "disaster conditions" exist in 11 states. This makes farmers in those areas eligible for prompt three per cent long-term loans to help them bear the damages of the dry spell.

POLITENESS POLICY—Many American companies now have representatives abroad. For the most part these people are salesmen — selling American-made goods and services. But they also are selling America and its ideas.

Recognizing the need for an atmosphere of good will toward its spokesmen abroad, some forward-looking companies have begun to teach overseas employees to be diplomats. One of the most effective jobs in this direction is being done by RCA International Division of the Radio Corporation of America, which sell electronic goods and services in all parts of the world. It has published a booklet entitled "So You're Going to Work Abroad for RCA." It lists 17 commandments and the first and last of these are the same — "Be Polite." Others show the need for tolerance, for learning the language, for being friendly, patient and businesslike. It says, "If you could pack only two things, take with you Tolerance and Friendliness."

THINGS TO COME—A new synthetic soap for toilet use called Zest will be introduced by Proctor & Gamble, touching off new competition for big soap makers. . . More stylish women's umbrellas, to match their coats and suits. . . Vending machine "department stores," with the whole operation automatic. . . A brand new, waterproof zipper of plastic that will not jam because it has no teeth. . . For a safe summer vacation take along a tiny life preserver no bigger than a pack of cigarettes. The device automatically inflates with the pressure of a child's fist and can support a 250-pound man in the water.

NEW SELLING TECHNIQUES—A long-range attempt to make dealers better salesmen by teaching them the fundamentals of effective and profitable merchandising has been launched by Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. The undertaking fills a long recognized need for increased merchandising know-how at the dealer level.

Heart of the $100,000 program is a series of seven new how-to-do-it books published by Honeywell and now being made available to others in the industry. Entitled "Seven Steps to Greater Dealer Sales," the books, along with other supplementary material, constitute one of the most unusual packaged merchandising plans ever offered to business in general and the heating trade in particular.

The books not only tell the dealer what to do, but they show him how—and in a manner designed to get him to take definite action. A separate book of 20 to 40 pages is devoted to each of seven merchandising steps, embracing sales training, personal selling, advertising, selling by mail, exterior display, interior display and public relations.

BACK TO NORMAL?—The nation's economy is back to its pre-war competitive basis after a decade of ups and downs, according to an insurance industry survey.

The study notes that from 1929 to 1941 national retail sales were in the neighborhood of 46 per cent of the gross national product. During the war years when most goods were unavailable, retail sales dropped to the lower 30 per cents. In the years following, they jumped up to about 51 per cent.

Now, retail sales have come back to 46 per cent of the national product, approximately normal.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Investors in the United States have spent an average $11,000 in plant, equipment and tools for every worker in manufacturing, the National Industrial Conference Board reports. . . Manufacturers' sales dropped from $22.4 billion in May to $21.8 billion in June. Inventories went down from $42.7 billion to $42.2 billion. Unfilled orders, however, jumped from $11.1 billion to $11.6 billion.

Today, as in World War II, American Labor takes its place firmly behind the man behind the gun in Korea. Unfettered and strong, the American workman once again is proving to the world that he can outproduce the shackled slave of the totalitarian state. The slave, who works long hours under miserable conditions and the relentless eyes of the secret police, can still never hope to remotely approach the standard of living which the American laborer has come to enjoy. On this Labor Day, Americans pause to take stock of their industrial accomplishment, and then with determination return to the task of arming our bastion of democracy.

"That settles it—the walls are entirely too thin for us."

Quarantine Imposed On All State Swine

In a move to extend prevention of the swine disease Vesicular Exanthema in Wisconsin, an order clamping a quarantine on the assembly of swine within the state was announced Thursday by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

D. N. McDowell, State Department of Agriculture director, declared the order bans swine exhibitions at all Wisconsin fairs including the State Fair, Regional, County and Community Fairs. The order also prohibits the sale of any swine assembled at stockyards or shipping points to any person other than a licensed slaughterer.

Prohibited also by the order is the transportation of swine into Wisconsin in any truck, trailer, railroad car, or other vehicle unless it has been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected and a written proof of the disinfection must accompany the swine shipment. The order states that disinfection should be done with a solution containing not less than 4% sodium carbonate or a solution with not less than 2% sodium hydroxide.

The unloading of swine which are in transit within the state, whether they are in interstate commerce or not, is also banned by the order. These animals may be fed and watered while aboard railroad cars or trucks but equipment used for feeding and watering must be cleaned and disinfected immediately after use.

As a further precaution the order provides that any interstate carriers serving food to passengers aboard vehicles must dispose of garbage only by incineration. Any other method of garbage disposal from carriers will have to be approved in writing by the State Department of Agriculture.

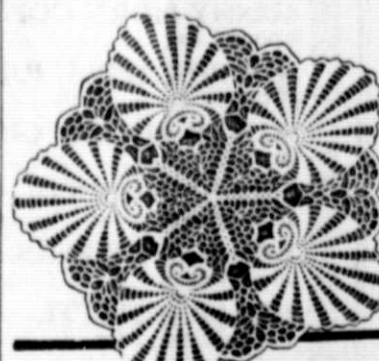

Dr. H. J. O'Connell, state veterinarian, said that while no cases of Vesicular Exanthema had been uncovered in Wisconsin swine the incidence is increasing in nearby states and that therefore the quarantine was necessary to protect Wisconsin livestock. He said the disease is highly contagious and infectious.

The order does not apply the quarantine to exhibitions of swine from which all animals are consigned directly to slaughter following the exhibition. Written permission from the department however is required in these cases.

The order becomes effective at 12:00 o'clock noon on Monday, August 11.

The department will contact the mayors in communities where pig fairs or sales are held regularly and request that such sales be banned by proclamation until the threat of an outbreak is past in Wisconsin.

Great Proverbs of Old Give Us Guide To the Good Life

Great proverbs are the crystallization of experience. Sometimes they are reflections upon life and conduct; terse concen- trated bits of wisdom, or philosophy; homely or picturesque expressions of truth, that are to character and the good life as the acorn is to the oak.

Sometimes they are the observations of discerning critics, who have seen the wisdom of the wise, and the folly of the foolish, and have set down human values and the best way of attaining them in rules or guidelines in the form of popular, memorable maxims.

Sometimes they seem to have been spontaneous thoughts, quickened by some experience or incident, in much the same way as an artist catches and records some passing scene or impression.

A deep philosophy of life is in 4:23 of the Proverbs: "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." Similar reflection is in the list of things the Lord hates—the six things listed in 6:16-19; and in the well-known 14:34, "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."

Of the second sort—terse, practical observations—is 16:18, "Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall." A good example of the spontaneous, but no less deeply wise proverbs is 27:19, "As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man."

We can imagine the thirsty traveler stooping down to drink in some limpid pool, before mirrors were common, and as he saw each feature given back from the pool having a flash into his mind that vivid metaphor to which Sir Francis Bacon devoted an essay of interpretation.

Every people and country have their proverbs, but richest of all are those that come from the ancient Hebrews. No doubt they were compiled from many sources, but it is no coincidence that they came from a race and a time that gave to the world its greatest saints and prophets, and ultimately the Savior of Men, whose parables express and fulfill the wisdom of the Scriptures that He knew so well.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

There undoubtedly is more interest in setting a new world record for musky than for any other species. No longer does the average angler gloat over a mere 25-pounder. He wants 'em bigger, much bigger.

With all the publicity about big muskies going the rounds you can't blame the angler for laboring under the belief that 40-pounders are common and that 20- and 30-pounders are just minnows. However, Cal Johnson, who held the world's record a few years ago, says that to him any musky between 20 and 30 pounds is a whale.

The truth is that the average size of the North American muskellunge landed by rod and reel is only around 12 pounds. Some lakes may have larger fish, but the biggest percentage of musky waters produce more fish under 15 pounds than they do over that weight.

For example, consider a report from the Manitowish waters of Wisconsin. In 1951, 594 muskies weighing 7,069 pounds were caught. The fish averaged just under 12 pounds in weight and 33½ inches in length. Only 57 muskies weighed 20 pounds or more. Similar records from other musky waters of the country show about the same ratio of big fish. So you see, 50- and 60-pounders are rare indeed.

What about those 100-pounders you've read of? Johnson's done a lot of research during the last 20 years and has been unable to verify a single story. Probably the fish that has received the widest mention is the one taken by the Wisconsin Conservation Department's fisheries division in 1902. This was taken in seining operations, the spawn was removed and it was returned to the water. Newspapers quoted the men as saying the fish weighed 102 pounds. Johnson contacted the Wisconsin fish authorities in 1925 to verify the weight and received the reply that it was not actually weighed on any scale, but "estimated." So there goes the bubble.

Several authoritative reference books, including the Encyclopedia Americana, state that the muskellunge often reaches five to eight feet in length and 100 pounds or more in weight. But no such fish is recorded in ichthyological literature.

David Starr Jordan, author of the technical book "Fishes," and the authorities for Webster's New International Dictionary and the Book of Fishes published by the National Geographic Society are all more conservative, stating that the musky attains a weight of 60 to 80 pounds.

Johnson concludes that we have no actual proof of a musky that was larger than the recognized world's record taken on hook and line—69 pounds and 11 ounces. That doesn't mean there isn't a bigger one—and scores of fishermen are trying to find it.

Teaching is often the effort to persuade younger people to accept the conclusions of another generation.

3. CAN UNDULANT FEVER BE PREVENTED?

Answer to Question No. 1: In recent years, county medical societies throughout the country have taken steps to insure the public of obtaining the services of a doctor at any time of day or night if the family physician cannot be reached, regardless of the patient's ability to pay. The local medical society publishes a telephone number to be called and public of obtaining the services of a doctor at any time of day or night if the family physician cannot be reached, regardless of the patient's ability to pay. Answer to Question No. 2: Yes, many old people who were once bedridden by certain chronic illnesses (such as heart disease, arthritis, etc.) have had their muscles "re-educated," thereby enabling them to dress and feed themselves and frequently to do simple, useful chores. The combined efforts of doctors, nurse and physical therapist will accomplish much toward rehabilitating these old people.

Answer to Question No. 3: There is no specific drug to cure undulant fever (brucellosis). Some of the newer antibiotics help. Humans probably contract the disease by drinking unpasteurized (raw) milk or by eating meat from infected cattle. Local laws requiring pasteurization of milk and inspection of food animals by health authorities are the best hope for preventing the disease.

QUESTION: I would like to know the name, cause, and cure of the white powdery deposit on the inside wall of a fieldstone fireplace, apparently as result of winter frost. Is there any way of treating field-stone fireplaces to bring out the color of the rock?
—E.N.R., New York City

ANSWER: The powdery deposit is called efflorescence, a result of moisture in the rock bringing chemical salts in the rock to the surface. The moisture evaporates, leaving the salts behind. Scrubbing with muriatic acid, diluted 1 part to 8 parts water, will remove it. Rinse thoroughly with clear water. This treatment will also bring out the color of the rock by removing all such deposits and minute films of dirt which blur the coloring of the rock crystals. Protect hands and eyes while performing this cleaning job.

QUESTION: How do you prime galvanized metal drain pipes so that paint will not peel off?
—T.K., Clifton, N. J.

ANSWER: A coat of shellac, thinned about 50% with alcohol will serve as a primer coat to make virtually all outside paints adhere.

QUESTION: Our house is finished in imitation brick with white mortar lines. I would like to know if you consider a white trim with the window moldings royal blue suitable. The roof has four colors—blue, black, red, and green—and I thought the blue window trim would bring out the blue in the roof.
—R.R., Beverly, Mass.

ANSWER: We think a white trim on the window molding, would be better than blue, since two dark colors on the walls will take much of the liveliness from the appearance of your home.

Durable Linen Towels a Wise Investment

BY EDNA MILES

ONE of the best buys a housewife can get for her money these days is the low-count, coarse-weave linen dish towel. The reasons for this are many but one of the foremost is the greater absorbency of the linen towel. It thus takes fewer towels to stock a linen cabinet.

Absorbency is, of course, a primary factor in any towel. But there are other sound reasons for investing a portion of your household money in linen. Linen was widely used for bandages before the advent of sterilization because it is a poor breeding ground for germs. This is highly essential in hygienic dish-drying.

It's easy to launder, because it requires no bleach and becomes softer and whiter with age. And linen towels give a high polish to glassware because they are nearly free from lint of any kind. The trick in getting a high gleam in glassware is to polish each piece with a dry towel after it has been thoroughly dried.

Other linen products, such as place mats and napkins, shown in picture at left, launder and iron easily. They are durable and colorful, appearing in decorator colors of green, chartreuse, coral, brown, turquoise, cloud pink, sky blue and maize for mixing or matching. These perfect backgrounds for your china and silver are finished with hemstitching and a fringe.

While the linen product costs slightly more than other types, it's an economical, long-range purchase because of its great durability.

Newsreels Faced With Competition From Television

PARIS—A world-wide survey of newsreels, their production, distribution and contents indicates the possibility that they will not survive the advent of television unless they evolve in the direction of the screen magazines.

The study, entitled "Newsreels Across the World" is a 100-page report on a survey of newsreels in more than 50 countries, by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (Unesco).

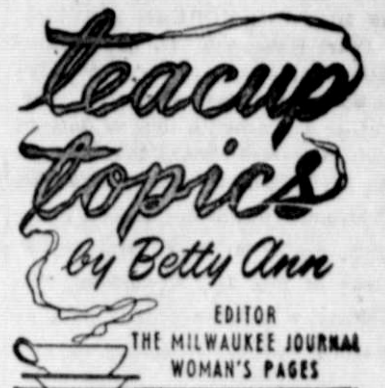

Charts on the content of sample newsreels indicate that emphasis on sports and fashions sometimes leaves little time for adequate coverage of current events. A special study of the content of newsreels produced by five leading United States companies from 1940-49 showed that the space devoted to foreign news had tripled during that span but was still slightly less than the amounts devoted to sport. In 1949, fashion received more attention than the United Nations.

Most countries depend on newsreels supplied by a limited number of large companies in the United States, the United Kingdom, France and the Soviet Union, the report says. About 40 smaller countries produce "national" newsreels. The report emphasizes the need for wider international exchange of news film items and the extension to all countries and producers of opportunities to obtain material from all areas.

The survey contains 97 newsreel stills, photographs and statistical tables on the production and distribution of newsreels. It also contains the script and commentary of the first United Nations Screen Magazine.

"Newsreels Across the World" which has also been published in French under the title "La Presse filmée dans le monde," was prepared by the Swiss film expert, Peter Baechlin and the French film historian, Maurice Muller-Strauss.

Lo! Morality is religion in practice; religion is morality in principle.—Wardlaw.

As we look toward fall from a fashion and beauty standpoint, it's time to think of hair-dos in relation to a season of new clothes says Betty Ann, editor of The Milwaukee Journal Women's Pages. The short, casual, windswept coiffure which seemed all right during the summer months will soon look as out of place as a straw hat.

The American Hair Design institute has designed a new series of hair-dos, called "fluid coifs." As the couturier drapes his materials, so does the hairstylist mold and shape the hair to achieve the same fluidity, the same softness, the same movement. Waves ripple gently, swirls dip and sweep, curls are loose, soft and pliable and over all, you feel, you actually see, the rhythmic movement of the hair.

Line, texture and movement characterize the clothes picture this fall—and line, texture and movement dramatize the coiffure picture, as well. The fluid line of the basic silhouette is paralleled by the fluid line of the new coiffures. The softness and adaptability of the new fabrics are matched by the softness and flexibility of the fluid coif.

There is a tendency toward a somewhat longer hair length. Stylists predict that hair will take the in between length of from two and one-half to three inches at the sides. This does not mean long hair nor does it mean short hair. It means hair of a medium length which is ideal for most hairdressing purposes.

It lends itself to complete adaptability to individual features, to great variety of design, to an upswing on the one hand or a down line on the other and it can be easily manipulated to appear either short or long.

In a capsule, no longer will we see very short hair; the rigid, "set" look; tight curls; sleek, hard lines. Instead, we will find wherever we go, slightly longer hair; the fluid look; loose curls and waved effects.

There are many versions of the fluid coif. One model wears her fluid coif in a backward sweeping movement. The forehead line is smooth, then flows into deep, definite waves that end in softly upturned back curls. Perfect with one of the "big" hats that dip over the back of the head.

Curls, too, can be fluid in line and feeling. In another coiffure each flowing wave ends in a soft, loose, pliable curl. More detail is evident in this fluid coif—but, on the whole, it remains simple, sweet and feminine. Visualize this hair-do under a profile hat.

There is feminine sophistication in a third version of the fluid coif. The hair is drawn back in supple, flowing waves that end in a lovely touch of curl, just before the hair swirls into a beautiful picture at the nape. Put a cloche, a profile hat, a little hat atop this hair-do and you've a study in perfection.

Without a doubt, freezing is today's greatest boon to the home-maker in food preservation. Here are some meat tips:

Do not freeze hams or bacon. The salt content of cured products tends to cause rancidity. However, unopened canned hams and canned smoked picnic shoulders may be stored at zero degrees or below for a year or more.

Wrap meats tightly in moisture-vapor-proof paper. Seal all edges with freezer tape or tie packages securely. After wrapping, immediately freeze meats at zero degrees or below and store at this temperature.

Freeze only the amounts of meat your family will be able to use conveniently. Store no longer than the recommended storage periods, as follows: Beef, 6 to 12 months; fresh pork and veal, 3 to 6 months; lamb, 6 to 9 months; ground beef, 3 to 4 months; sausage, 1 to 3 months; variety meats (liver, tongue, etc.), 3 to 4 months.

Seminar Will Study Improved Statistics For Western Pacific

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—To improve national vital and health statistics services so that the data may meet both national and international needs, a regional seminar for the Western Pacific is being held in Tokyo. Training in up-to-date techniques will be given under the joint auspices of the United Nations, the World Health Organization's Regional Office for the Western Pacific, and the Government of Japan.

The U.N. and WHO are providing funds for a number of fellowships and the Government of Japan will provide equipment and meeting places as well as 16 Japanese lecturers. The U.N. is participating through the Technical Assistance Administration, the U.N. Statistical Office and the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East.

More than 30 participants are expected from the Western Pacific including: Australia, China, Hong Kong, Japan, the Republic of Korea, Philippines and Singapore. This is the first seminar of health statistics to be held in the Western Pacific and the third of its kind anywhere, according to WHO's Regional Office in Manila.

The Regional Office said "recognition of the need for integrated and accurate action has made the science of compilation and assessment of such statistics an essential foundation for health planning and campaigns." The seminar will emphasize administrative and applied aspects of vital and health statistics and the exchange of technical knowledge among the participants. The application and adoption of international recommendations to actual situations existing in the Western Pacific will be stressed.

Topics will be covered by lectures, group discussions and laboratory and field work. Main courses of study will be vital statistics methods, public health statistics, biostatistical analysis, current statistical programs and preliminary statistics.

The Wetter The Better

"A farm," wrote the city boy who was spending his first summer in the country, "is a place where they are always carrying water."

And even though electrification has brought pumps and tanks and piping systems, water-carrying still goes on, especially in emergencies. And whether you've carried water to a blazing barn or just to the kitchen or wash-house or sprayer tank, it might relieve your aching back to know that when water is wetter, you don't have to lug so much.

How do you make water "wetter?" Just by adding some of this new synthetic detergent. Rural fire-fighters have found, for instance, that one barrel of "wet" water will do as much or more than seven and a half barrels of untreated water. "Wet" water is just as helpful in spraying, whether you're after garden aphids or cattle grubs. Just add a pound of detergent to 100 gallons of spray, or three tablespoons to a bucketful, and you'll have a solution that will really soak your livestock, or trees or plants instead of running off in droplets, thus increasing the effectiveness of the poisons or other control ingredients, and making your spray go several times as far.

But, it should never be forgotten that the greatest boon of wetter water, and detergents, is taking the age-old drudgery out of washing clothes, over which women have slaved and ached and grown grey-haired and red-handed ever since Eve decided on something more formal than the fig leaf.

MOST WOOD SOFT

A little more than a quarter of our timber consists of hardwoods, the remainder being softwoods.

For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.—(St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, 12:3.)

Truly great men are marked by their reverent humility, for they know the Source of all power which is good and they are humble before it; arrogance, being not of God, shall not long endure.

PERMIT TRANSFER OF FEEDER PIGS UNDER CONDITIONS

of Livestock Sanitation, many growers of feeder pigs are at a loss to conveniently market such swine. The order was issued to prevent the assembly of swine for any other purpose than immediate slaughter, thereby hoping to stop the spread of vesicular exanthema.

To legally buy or sell feeder pigs it is suggested that the contract of sale be completed before the pigs leave the premises of the original producer. The assembling therefore is not for the purpose of sale or exhibition. The feeder has brought pigs to retain on his own premises. Since there is only one buyer and one seller, Dr. O'Connell feels that this type of transfer is not in violation of the order.

The Farmer's Stake in Stabilization

PRICE STABILIZATION PROTECTS YOU AS A SELLER

YOUR MARKET IS . . .

152 MILLION AMERICANS

YOUR SECURITY AND PROSPERITY DEPEND ON THE SECURITY AND PROSPERITY OF THE ENTIRE U. S. A.

It is impossible to separate the prosperity of the farmers from the prosperity of the entire Nation. The farmer sells his products to 152 millions of fellow Americans. How much they can buy and what they can afford to pay is important to him. Price stabilization protects this profitable market. If inflation is permitted to undermine the buying power of the United States people, farmers eventually will sell less and earn less.

Inflation forces prices up. Prices of farm products rise along with other prices. But wages and salaries always rise more slowly than prices. Over a period of time if prices get too high, most people have to buy less of everything. When fewer goods are bought, production must be cut and fewer people have jobs in factories and stores. These unemployed, in turn, must cut down on their buying. As a result of all these actions, farmers in the long run are able to sell less. Since it is hard for them to cut production, soon they have to sell at lower prices as supply of their products exceeds demands.

Inflation can be controlled. It is being controlled. But it is the responsibility of every person in every occupation to join in the battle. Each one of us has a stake in stabilization.
