8 Teams in Lakes League; Meet Here

The division will consist of either eight or 10 teams and the season will be divided into two rounds of play, according to Ray Pirelli of West Bend, who was named as director of the division.

Representatives at the meeting here decided to follow the 10-second rule this season which will help speed up the games. Officials interested in working the Lakes games are requested to contact Pirelli, about 15 are needed.

A final meeting will be held on Nov. 20 at which time franchise and forfeit fees must be paid. These fees will be $20 and $25, respectively, this season. The roster lists must also be turned in by Nov. 20.

The Kewaskum teams now are holding regular Monday and Thursday evening practices. A large number of candidates for the two teams have turned out. Manager Honeck asks that all players be present at next Monday's practice because measurements for new uniforms will be taken that night.

Mrs. Koch Christmas Seal Sale Chairman

Mrs. Harry E. Koch, Main & W. Water streets, will be the chairman of the 1952 Christmas seal sale in Kewaskum, the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association reported.

The once-a-year campaign will begin officially Nov. 17 and will continue until Dec. 25. Christmas seals finance the year-round tuberculosis education and prevention program of the WATA.

The very record of Wisconsin's progress in the fight against TB is a handicap, for it tends to obscure the size of the problem still remaining," declared C. W. Kammerer, WATA executive secretary. "We must look to the living persons with TB, help them to receive sanatorium care and help return them to useful lives after they win the battle with TB."

Kammerer stressed that "the Christmas seal must keep pointing out that more than 4,600 persons are treated each year in Wisconsin sanatoriums." Last year 1,706 new cases of TB were reported in the state.

"And it must not be forgotten that 341 Wisconsin persons died last year from this preventable, treatable and curable disease," Kammerer added.

Miss Loraine Noll, state seal sale chairman, urged everyone to support the voluntary work of the Christmas seal sale chairman. "The good that seals do in your community and in the state will depend directly on your buying and using them," she stated.

Schools Holding Jr. Red Cross Enrollment Drive

Marking the 35th anniversary of its founding nationally, the Junior Red Cross of the West Bend Red Cross chapter launched its annual enrollment drive on Nov. 1, according to Fred Holt, Junior Red Cross chairman.

The Junior Red Cross carries on an active program of services to various institutions of this community and for children overseas. Its activities in the 1951-1952 school year included the sending of Christmas boxes overseas, the supplying of almost 300 trays, favors and filled nut cups for the holiday season for Wood hospital, as well as entertainment and supplies for the hospital.

The American Junior Red Cross was created in 1917 by President Woodrow Wilson, then president also of the American National Red Cross. On Sept. 15 of that year, he issued the proclamation establishing a junior membership of the Red Cross, to carry on its activities in the schools. "Through it (the school)," he said to the school children of the United States, "you can best work in the cause of freedom to which we have all pledged ourselves."

VARNISH OR ENAMEL A DOOR—WITHOUT SAGS

ENAMEL A DOOR WITHOUT SAGS

The beginners main worry when using varnish or enamel, is that it sags in the process of drying. This usually happens on vertical surfaces, but could happen on horizontal surfaces if too much paint is left in one place. The secret of avoiding sags lies in spreading the paint evenly, and not too thickly. The ability to do this comes with experience. But the amateur can enamel a door without sags by removing the door and laying it between saw horses or boxes as illustrated. By turning the door over, both sides can be drying at the same time. Make sure the surface is in good condition. All cracks should be filled, and when enamel is used, an undercoater should be

Handy Hints

Farmers lose 55 Million Dollars every year because of bruised livestock that reaches the market. Most injuries are caused by boards or heavy sticks while driving them. But, here's an effective "persuader," or slapper, that drives them by frightening them—but won't hurt them. You can make it with a three or four-foot section of an old inner-tube, and an old paint brush handle. If you have no old paint brush, then whittle out a handle from a soft board. Just slip the handle into the tube, as shown in the sketch, and tack it on.

used first. Wipe the surface free of dust with a rag dampened in turpentine. Clean the brush to be used with brush cleaner. Remove the gloss from the previous coat with fine sandpaper or steel wool. Apply varnish or enamel evenly. Do not leave pools in the corners. These dry with a skin on top, but the wet paint underneath may not dry for months. Remove gloss with steel wool and sandpaper between coats. Also wipe the surface dust free before applying the next coat. Never dip a brush into a can of varnish. Instead, pour a small quantity at a time into a flat dish, and dip the brush in that. Throw away any varnish left over in the dish. The reason is to avoid getting dust particles in the unused varnish. Do not stir varnish. Stirring puts air bubbles into the varnish which cling to the brush and are still left as air bubbles on the surface of the article being varnished.

Learn Right Ways To Aid School Children

Because parents are anxious to help their child do well in school, they often do unintentional damage by helping in the wrong way. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association outlines the rights and wrongs parents should practice or avoid:

1. Help with homework should be given with the idea that the child learn how to do it, not that he simply have a good paper. In class the next day he should be able to do similar work.
2. Fake excuses for absences are often a handicap to learning to adjust to school environment and learning to take responsibility for his own affairs.
3. Do not criticize teachers, the school administration or other students behind their backs when they cannot justify their acts. It is better to solve problems by discussion with the individual concerned.
4. Do not put unnecessary emphasis on high marks. Good adjustment to school is more important than having the child classed as a "brain." Don't make him afraid to come home if he gets a low mark.
5. Skipping a grade leaves gaps in the child's education. And, social adjustment in a higher grade may have serious disadvantages.
6. Special lessons like music, skating or dancing, should not be overemphasized. Don't overcrowd the child's day so he becomes nervous, thus letting the quality of school work suffer.
7. Don't make your child too "different" from other children in dress, manner of living or privileges. Being like other children is important to a child.
8. Parents who entertain too often make it hard for a child to be a good student. Rest is broken, and the child rebels against going to bed on time, thus lowering efficiency.
9. Become well acquainted with the child's teacher and familiar with the school, so when problems arise, direct discussion will make them easier to solve.

1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed tomato soup
4 small onions
6 small carrots
3 potatoes, quartered
Combine flour, salt and pepper; roll meat in this mixture. Brown meat in shortening in a heavy saucepan. Add water; cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours, stirring occasionally. Add soup, onions, carrots and potatoes; cook until vegetables are tender—about 1/2 hour. Makes 6 servings.

GOOD MEALTIME QUIZ QUESTION is to ask yourself how much milk the family is getting. You're a smart meal-manager if you serve plenty of milk or milk-dishes each day. Both little tots and their elders will benefit. And the start of the school season is an especially fine time to check up on the food-value of the youngsters' meals. There are so many ways to include milk in their lunch boxes and at other meals: as a beverage, in soups, creamed meats and vegetables, with cereal, etc. When you prepare condensed soups with milk, use a can-measure of milk to each can of soup for just-right results.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

PEACH COBLER WITH SAUCE

For real dessert pleasure there is nothing so tempting as a hot peach cobbler topped with golden squares of flaky butter pastry. Served with a large spoonful of creamy hard-sauce, it is "tops" in desserts. Any number of different fruits or fruit combinations may be used instead of sliced peaches. To make cobbler to a "queen's taste" be sure to serve it hot with plenty of creamy butter-hard sauce. Peach Cobbler: The filling—1/2 cup sugar, or to suit taste; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 tablespoons cornstarch; 3 cups sliced peaches, or other fruit. Crust: 1 cup all-purpose flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup butter; 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water. Filling: Mix sugar, salt, cornstarch and fruit and pour into a buttered shallow casserole or preferably a cake pan 2 1/2 inches deep. Crust: Sift flour and salt. Cut in butter until the pieces are size of small peas. Add water a little at a time until mixture holds together. Roll pastry out 1/4 to 1/2 inch thickness and cut into decorative pieces with cookie cutters. Place pieces of pastry at regular interval over the fruit mixture. Bake in a hot oven (450°F.) for 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is browned. Serves 6. Serve hot with hard sauce.

There is such a variety of home-made sauces that with little trouble you can fix a most attractive dessert. Even if you can't have new foods, serve the old ones in a new way.

Coffee Sauce
1 cup evaporated milk diluted with 1/2 cup water
1/2 cup ground coffee
1/3 cup sugar
3/4 tablespoon cornstarch
Salt
Scald milk with coffee and let stand 20 minutes. Strain through fine cheese cloth. Mix remaining ingredients; add coffee-milk gradually. Cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve hot on ice cream or puddings.

Hot Chocolate Sauce
1 1/3 cups milk
1 tablespoon butter
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup powdered sugar
Salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Heat milk, add chocolate which has been broken in small pieces, and butter in a saucepan. Cook over low heat until mixture is smooth and thick. Add sugar and cook until it thickens again, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and salt. Serve hot or cold with ice cream.

Butterscotch Sauce
1 egg yolk
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons water
2/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup corn syrup
Beat egg yolks slightly. Add remaining ingredients and cook over hot water, stirring frequently, until it forms a thick syrup. Beat thoroughly before using.

Orange Sauce
1/3 cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
1 1/2 tablespoons orange rind free from white, cut in slivers
Mix sugar and orange juice, add rind. Bring to a boil, boil 3 minutes. Chill. Serve over lime or lemon sherbert.

French Pudding Sauce
1/2 cup butter
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 egg white beaten stiff
1/2 cup chilled evaporated milk, whipped
3 tablespoons grenadine
Salt
Cream butter and sugar together, add remaining ingredients and blend. Serve at once on hot puddings.

16 marshmallows
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup sugar
3 egg yolks well beaten
3 tablespoons minced preserved ginger
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Place marshmallows and water in double boiler, cover and cook until marshmallows are melted. Add sugar to egg yolks and stir in marshmallows. Add ginger, orange and lemon rind; return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes. Chill.

Kids Love Florida Lollipops

Nickles and dimes being at a premium these days with the small fry, you can help their budget problems by letting them make lollipops at home. Easy as freezing ice cubes, when they use Florida tangerine or orange juice, and an easy way of being sure that they get plenty of Vitamin C to help replenish their energy. These nutritious and refreshing goodies are sensible, too, since canned Florida citrus juices are at least 25% lower in cost than they were last year, and in good supply. Simply pour the juice into the ice cube tray, and when partially firm, insert headless match sticks for handles, or use the new paddle pop forms available in many variety stores.

ONE THOUSAND MEN AND A GIRL—All G.I. eyes follow pretty USO dancer Margaret Brown as she whirls through a fast tap-dance routine for the members of the Army's 2nd Division in Korea. Real appreciation for entertainment is shown by United States fighting men in Korea who turn out en masse for all USO shows put on for their enjoyment. Margaret, above, seems to be enjoying the G.I.'s approval as much as they enjoy her dance.

COW-CULATING COW—Miranda, Red Bluff, Calif., cow, offers her mathematical services to a Department of Interior surveyor. He is busy checking figures and plans to bring irrigation water to 205,000 arid acres south of Red Bluff. As Miranda will be using some of that water, she is exercising special interest in his instruments and board. "Looks like a funny way to bring water down there by making marks on this here board." The surveyor is too busy to explain.

Honor 4-H Members of County at Annual Achievement Program

Washington county 4-H clubs held their annual county achievement night last Thursday at the McLane school in West Bend. Achievement to a 4-H boy or girl means the successful completion of a job they have started. The achievement night program is held to honor the boys and girls that have done outstanding work in each of the projects this year.

Betty Mayer of Slinger was given the girl's junior leadership award and Lee Schoeni, Richfield, was picked to receive the junior leadership boy award. Honorable mention in jr. leadership went to Joyce Schauer of Hartford.

The achievement boy and girl were Conrad Schlaefer, German town, and Betty Ann Falter, West Bend. Receiving honorable mention were Roger Schoedel, West Bend, and Mrs. Irma Mayer, Richfield. Master of ceremonies Bill Kurth kept the program running smoothly. June Beimbom played "The Ploughing Song" as the American and 4-H flags were carried in and presented. Dewey Schiele and Mary Alice Feiler led the pledge of allegiance and Carol Decker and James Filo led the 4-H pledge.

A special feature of the program was the story and pictures of Lois Linse, an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate. Her story of her trip to Chile and her stay with farm families there gave the audience a good idea of the life and customs of the Chilean people. Recognition was given younger 4-H members this year. Awards, a 4-H pencil to girls and a 4-H jack-knife to the boys, were given to members 14 years of age who had done the best job in each project.

The winners in the projects were: Beef—Eileen Schmidt; dairy—Dewey Schiele and Margaret Huber; electricity—Charles Mintalaff; forestry—Judy Kloth; garden—Judy Patt, Mildred Gundrum; handicraft—Daniel O'Keane; improvement of home grounds—Averille Zaehle; insect study—Dave Schneiss; pig—George Raub; poultry—Norrita Oelhafen; sheep—George Schauer; oil conservation—Ralford Ritterbusch; wild life management—Michael Dierbeck; rabbits—Lila Ann Lehman; clothing—Patricia Ann Massick and Marilyn Schulteiss; foods & nutrition—Robert Wegner and Jean Colwell; home furnishings—June Beimbom; food preservation—Pat Massick.

The outstanding members in each project received recognition pins for their achievements. In the agricultural projects the winners were: Forestry—Jane Kloth; soil conservation—James Griesmer; wild life management—Louella Cypher; dairy—Dick Mayer, Bill Schroeder, Fred Mayer, and Conrad Schlaefer; field crops—Wilfred Klippel; garden—Cecelia Bies and Lee Schoeni; home grounds imp.—Louella Cypher; beef—Harold Schmidt; pig—Roger Schoedel; sheep—Geo. rad Schlaefer and Art Ziemer; poultry—Edward Lehman, Norrita Oelhafen, Joyce Bauer, David Wolf and Jerry Wolf; handicraft—William Liesner; electricity—Carl Zaehle, Guy Schoeni, Ralph Baatzman and Mike Saiter.

By Betty Ann
EDITOR
THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

You're as cheerful as your home allows you to be. So help it to help you, says Betty Ann. You spend hour after hour in that house or apartment, and its effect on your mood is subtle, but nevertheless always there. Here are some of the factors to watch for, and correct, if you find that a day of housekeeping leaves you out of sorts:

Avoid excessive fatigue. Good, healthy tiredness is normal, but not that beaten down feeling. One sure way to prevent it is to make your home as easy to clean as possible, with a minimum of dust collecting objects, plenty of simply washed surfaces, especially in the kitchen and bathroom, and rugs and draperies which don't require coddling.

Inspect your work methods. If you don't have a plan and follow it, you will be constantly frustrated. Writing a schedule and keeping it gives a sense of well-being as the chores are checked off as finished.

Live with color. Psychologists have demonstrated in their tests that color is vitally important to mental outlook. If your kitchen, where you spend most of the day, is uninspiring and depressing, have it remodeled in a color that gives you a "lift."

Darkness is dreadful. Too many women struggle with homemaking in rooms which are literally as dim as dungeons, and don't realize it. It would be well worth the cost to install a few extra windows or some good artificial lighting.

Arrange for leisure. A change of pace during the day for indulgence in a hobby or informative reading puts a new face on life. You will be a more cheerful person for the family if you remember this.

As much as 50% of the light is wasted when dust and dirt are allowed to accumulate on reflector bowls of floor and table lamps and on glass portions of ceiling fixtures. To clean, remove glass parts and wash in warm soapy water. Rinse and dry thoroughly inside and out.

Use elbow grease sparingly in removing spots and stains. Much expense on clothing and household fabrics can be saved by the woman who is skillful at removing stains, and she does not need to be a powerful Katinka. Strenuous rubbing, brushing or scraping may do more damage than the spot because this may permanently mark, chafe or weaken the fabric.

Choose the right solvent for the stain and for the fabric. Then remember that several light applications generally work better than one heavy treatment. Try sponging with a cloth just dampened with the solvent—once, twice or several times lightly—until the stain disappears.

It's well to remember that some fabrics—such as rayons, acetates and wools—are weaker when wet than when dry. Thus, when you moisten them to remove a spot you need to treat them gently.

The food shoppers' guide for October, according to the United States department of agriculture's plentiful foods list, features honey, grapes and turkeys.

Honey is featured because of a second large crop; turkeys because farmers broke their production record for the third year in a row, and grapes because a larger part of the crop than usual will come fresh to market. Winemakers will take fewer grapes this year. Raisin processors are taking more, however, so supplies of raisins should be plentiful in October, too.

Other main dish foods the department recommends are stewing chickens and fresh and frozen fish. Farmers will be selling plenty of the stewing hens this fall, and fish stocks are large.

Apples are the only other fruit the department says will be generally plentiful in the midwest in October. There is a smaller crop than a year ago, but the peak of the harvest in this part of the country will be gathered. Good supplies of apples will be available at seasonally low prices.

In dairy products, there will be plenty of nonfat dry milk solids and products made from them and plenty of cheddar cheese.

Only two fresh vegetables, cabbage and carrots, will be plentiful throughout the midwest. Stocks of salad oils and table and cooking fats continue large and the prices very reasonable.

SVELTE SWEATER GIRLS!

Sweaters are the quick, appealing answer to the shivery discomfort of nippy fall weather, and girls go for these practical chill-chasers in a big way. Smart, plain type (1) worn by "The Happy Time" star, Linda Christian, Hollywood sweater queen, is suited for afternoon wear. Rugged individualistic style (2) comes in handy when picking a bone or two with a friend. This style is most preferred by the top-dog social set. Smoothie, dressed for evening (3), wears a smart peek-a-boo sweater with a scoo-oo-neckline and three-quarter sleeves. Any garment as classy as a sweater naturally leads to the choosing of "Miss Sweater Girl." This honor goes to shapely Jean Davis of Alabama (4) who was crowned at a New York ceremony.

The well-rounded adult has often forgotten the value of recreation which is even more important to adults than active youngsters.

DIAMOND LIL—Two million bucks worth of rocks are brightened by the charm of pretty Candace King. She has fun playing Diamond Lil with gems of the Harry Winston display at Las Vegas, Nevada. The jewels, including the 88-carat "Spirit of Hope," pinned on her brief swimsuit, dazzle wolves of the western resort. What we wonder is: Who pinned them there?

©1952 National Wildlife Federation
Gadwall

Gadwalls are sleepy heads in the daytime. When the sun is out, they spend most of the time dozing in the thick grass of marshlands. Only a sudden noise would make them look for a safer spot.

At dusk, the big birds come to life. From twilight until long after dark, they feed around the edges of lonely lakes and streams and in nearby fields. There they feast on tender water plants, insects, snails, small fish, tadpoles, nuts and grain.

By the time dawn begins to break, they have eaten their fill and are ready to turn in for a day's rest. Back they go to the marshes, where human beings seldom bother them or their nests.

They build their homes near the water, says the National Wildlife Federation, but always on dry ground. Under a bush or on a broad clump of grass, they collect finely shredded grass for the outer part of the nest. In the center they add a lining of feathers.

The soft nest is finished and ready for use by May. In it the female lays from eight to twelve large, pale buff or creamy eggs. She sits on them for twenty-eight days to make them hatch.

From their parents, the young quickly learn to be shy, wary ducks. They not only hide and sleep by day, but they also are alert at swimming and diving. The snag of a twig or the flash of a gun is enough to send them plunging for cover.

When fully grown, Gadwalls are about twenty-two inches long, and they weigh two pounds or a little more. In flight they can spread their wings to a total width of thirty-five inches.

Brownish gray is the main color on the male. At the back edges of his wings he has clear patches of white within a border of black and brown. On his lower back and in his tail there are black feathers, but the tip of his tail is gray. His lower neck is dark gray, and farther down he is white. His bill is blue and his legs are dull orange.

The female is about the same color, but darker, with more brown mixed in her gray feathers. She is also a bit smaller than the male, and does not make as much noise when she quacks as he does with his loud, shrill kack-kack.

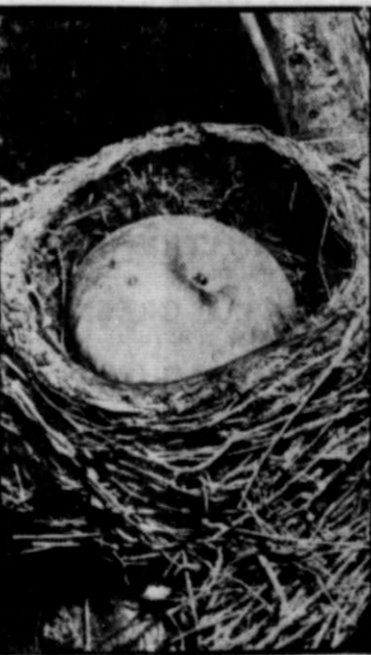

Summer and winter, Gadwalls are birds of the Northern Hemisphere. They spend the spring and summer in Canada, along the Pacific Coast, and eastward into Iowa, Colorado, Minnesota, Ohio, New Mexico, Utah, Texas and Louisiana. A few of them remain in southern Canada for the winter, while others fly to such scattered places as Maryland, Lower California, Mexico, and southern Florida.

A MEAN TRICK

Hodgenville, Ky. — Somebody played a dirty trick on Sheriff Joe Burnett, of Wayne County. A 220-gallon moonshine still—one of the largest ever discovered in Larue County, of which Hodgenville is the county seat—was set up in a heavily wooded ravine in a remote section of Burnett's farm.

CHAIN REACTION

Boswell, Ind. — When their trucks collided, two drivers suffered only minor injuries, but what followed wasn't minor. One truck loaded with beer, smashed into a farmhouse and both caught fire. James Border, 84, blind owner of the home, suffered a heart attack and Fireman Raymond Smith was cut by flying glass as beer bottles exploded.

TRAGEDY—This apple-blasted robin's nest remains as a mute reminder of a tragedy. The Mendota, Minn., owner of the apple tree was proud of the bird's nest in his tree, wondered where mother Robin might be when she was absent for several days. Investigation revealed the scene above. When the apple was removed several eggs were found, crushed.

Know Rules For Safety In Hunting

Hunting can be hazardous or safe, depending on the degree to which the hunter practices safety rules, states a bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association. The common safety rules, often forgotten but worth repeating, are the following:

1. Don't shoot at everything that moves. Know where your companions are and shoot in the other direction. For extra precaution, break your gun open as another hunter approaches.
2. Don't stop to rest by leaning on your gun. Know and use the safety mechanism.
3. Don't go over a wire fence with weapons in your hand. Loose ends are likely to catch the trigger. Instead, pass the gun under, but first break it open and unload to avoid mishaps from tangled twigs.
4. Don't use the gun for a lever to move logs or other objects.
5. Don't shoot from a car. It is unlawful in most states and can be dangerous for people near the road.
6. Don't try any acrobatics while clutching a gun. Don't walk along the top of a stone fence. To get across, place the gun to one side, muzzle forward, and climb over where you won't jar the gun.
7. Keep your finger off the trigger until you're ready to shoot. Never let your gun, for any reason, point at anyone or anything you don't want to shoot.
8. When finished hunting, don't put loaded guns into the car. Break them open, and remove ammunition so jolts and bumps of riding can't set them off.

Additional rules include: Don't look down your gun barrel; don't go hunting in cowboy boots with high heels—you may trip; don't move in a boat with a loaded gun; don't play with dogs while holding a loaded gun; never climb a tree with a loaded gun; never mix hunting with alcohol.

MRS. U. H.: What are the things that make a person faint?

ANSWER: Some people faint more readily than others. Emotional shock can cause fainting. Fatigue and headache predispose to fainting.

John Has Defined Christian Fellowship In Third Epistle

THE third Epistle of John consists of a single chapter of only 13 verses and differs from most other books of the New Testament in that it is addressed to an individual instead of a church or group of people.

However, even though it is brief, it deals with a large theme. And though John addressed the book to an individual, its theme and appeal are for every individual who would follow the Christian way.

The relationship which John describes should exist between all who follow Christ. It is the hope of establishing that relationship among all men that is the highest ideal of human accomplishment.

The dominant theme of the epistle, a personal letter addressed to Gaius, is fellowship, or the love of one Christian for another. We have no way of determining which of the many men named Gaius in the New Testament was the one to whom John wrote.

Perhaps that is just as well for it gives to what was originally a personal letter a sort of more-than-individual interest. It might be thought of as a letter from John to any sincere Christian friend, even to you if you qualify in that respect.

What was so distinctive in the relationship that led John to address Gaius as "Beloved"? The salutation makes it clear. He is the beloved whom John loves "in truth." It is the truth in which they "walk"—the truth of practical Christian living and "faithful work."

"Fellow workers for the truth"—these are the words John uses and they define the essential nature of Christian fellowship.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Jason Lucas, well-known angling editor, reports that recently he's received a good many interesting letters from some of the most successful carp fishermen in this country and in England, where carp fishing is taken more seriously than here.

In spite of the great number of baits recommended for carp, these experts are unanimous in saying that the best bait of all and about the only one needed, is the common doughball. They agree that it should always be made of bread, never of raw flour. Another thing on which most of them insist is that the doughball be small, even for larger carp, barely covering the hook.

And they all hold that a small hook is necessary, as well as fine terminal tackle, if one is to catch many wary carp. Some of them use a very thin leader of nylon monofilament, but others say that the slight stiffness of this will cause carp to eject the doughball before being hooked. These prefer very thin, soft line, either all through or at the end.

Of course, Jay has received far more letters from those who say that they simply can't catch carp, even where there are plenty of them. It seems obvious in such cases that the trouble is not with their baits but with their methods. They don't realize how wary the carp is—they use large hooks, baits and heavy lines, and move around in plain sight of the fish. Sometimes, chiefly in spring, such fishing will get them but generally it is wasted effort.

A cane pole with line tied on is out with such fine terminal tackle as the experts use. Carp of any size would promptly break it. And make no mistake about it—the carp is a strong fighter, little if any inferior to some of our game fish.

So to be a successful carp fisherman one must learn to play large, powerful fish skillfully with rod and reel and light line. As a matter of fact, this is such good sport that even the top notch angler is overlooking a fine bet if he doesn't go out and try them some evening on light tackle. He'll find to his surprise that hooking a carp isn't the simple thing he thought it was.

Handy Hints

Having trouble with hens roosting on water fountains, or self feeders? Then try this Handy Hint: Suspend a bolt—a heavy nut, hoop, or piece of metal will do—from the ceiling until it hangs like a plumb bob directly over the fountain.

When a hen tries to fly up on top of the fountain, she bumps into the weight—and she's promptly discouraged. She won't hold her perch long, even if she gets a foothold, because of the swinging weight.

Autumn Ideal Time To Kill Rats, Mice

The first cool autumn days should be your reminder to prepare for the invasion of rats and mice. Farms are especially susceptible, but protection should be provided in other places, too—homes, summer cottages and business places.

An effective anti-rat and mouse campaign, according to many pest control specialists, includes these three steps:

- One—Remedy poor sanitation.
- Two—Ratproof buildings, when practical.
- Three—Place rat bait according to directions.

To assure good sanitation, remove all rubbish piles, and stack lumber and firewood neatly on racks at least one foot above ground level.

Ratproofing, Step No. 2, can effectively keep rats and mice out of corn cribs, granaries, warehouses, and all other places where feed is available. Bulletins describing ratproofing methods may be obtained from your county agricultural agent.

Baiting is the third and most effective blow in the autumn anti-rat campaign. Outstanding among the available rat and mouse killers is warfarin, a potent substance discovered in the laboratories of Dr. Karl Paul Link, Biochemistry Dept., University of Wisconsin, by Drs. Mark A. Stahmann, Miyoshi Ikawa, and Link.

Warfarin bait is recommended because: It kills all species of rats and mice common to the United States; it is a slow killer and does not create bait shyness; no pre-baiting is required; no tolerance develops; it is easy to use; it may be used in any climate or season at any temperature; it is comparatively safe to use; and it may be purchased as a concentrate or a ready-mixed bait.

In using warfarin bait, it must be made available to the rats and mice at all times. Bait stations—shallow containers protected with a board or a wooden box—are normally examined and replenished every 48 hours. A limited number of permanent bait stations will kill newcomers and control reinvasion.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1: The answer is definitely yes.

In any mass screening when supposedly healthy individuals have X-ray pictures of their lungs, a certain percentage of early lung tuberculosis is found among unsuspecting individuals. In these early stages tuberculosis is curable.

Answer to Question No. 2: In 1930 about 20 of every 100 babies died before their first birthday. In 1950 three out of 100 died before they were one year old. The chief causes of death in these three are prematurity, severe deformities present at birth, birth injuries, blood diseases and acute infection. Some of the causes are avoidable and medical science is rapidly eradicating them. Others are beyond the control of science.

Answer to Question No. 3: It is a disease caused by parasites which are introduced into the body by the bite of certain types of mosquitos. The parasites invade the red corpuscles. The chief signs are chills and high fever. Proper sanitation measures have almost wiped out the disease in the U.S.A.

Handy Jim's FIX-UP TIPS For farm and home

Bridging the Gutters

CLEANING and painting eaves-troughs is a worth-while autumn chore. It's a good idea, however, to take care with the ladder so that you won't fall and you won't damage the gutters.

The illustration, taken from Family Handyman, shows how one home

"fixer-upper" built a brace to support the ladder and avoided resting it against the box-type eaves-troughs. His ladder was held about 3 inches away from the edge of the gutter.
He built the brace of two pieces of 1"x3" furring which he screwed securely to a 2 by 2 the same length as the width of the ladder. The brace prevented damage to the gutters and also kept the ladder from marking the paint on the house.

CHIEF CRAVES COFFEE—Far away from the morning campfires of his boyhood, 91-year-old Chief John Sitting Bull fills a cup of morning coffee on the Hollywood lot where he is working as an actor in filming "The Savage." Full time resident of the Pine Ridge, South Dakota Sioux Indian Reservation, he is one of three living survivors of Custer's Last Stand Battle of the Little Big Horn and a brother of Chief Sitting Bull. His horned headdress is part of the Chief's personal wardrobe, not a Hollywood costume.

New Coats for the Younger Set

BY EDNA MILES

This fitted coat in brushed checked tweed is in antique gold, has doll waist. It's trimmed with triple rows of buttons and stitched pocket flaps of gold velvet matched to the collar and bonnet. Back interest is gained through a half-belt and pleats.

FABRICS with surface interest, new synthetic fleeces, velvet and plush, banded in fur and sparkling with rhinestones, these are highlights of a new collection of coats for girls of all ages, from toddlers to mid-teens.

Designed for Bambury by Pierre Balmain, these new coats emphasize the casual in silhouette and fabrics. There's a rough, tweedy look to many of the fabrics used, lots of homespun-effect weaves and many heavy piles. Tweeds—nubby, brushed, checked and Donegals—often get velvet trim by way of contrast.

Shags, poodles, chinchillas, and deep-pile alpaca with quilted linings tell a texture story. For the first time, a blanket fleece has been used for children's coats. The other half of the new fleece story lies in the use of zephyr fleece to make a coat that's completely lined in orlon. Mother can toss it into the tub, wash and rinse it, then hang it up on a hanger dripping wet. The fleece regains its fluffy texture and emerges looking like new.

The line of these coats takes two silhouettes: the loose, slimmed-down coat, and the fitted coat. The full pyramid of last year is gone and in its place, there's the narrower coat that gives an illusion of fullness. Generally, fullness is concentrated at the back or sides.

There are many sunburst gores, yoke details, flat pleat backs, rolled gores, doll waists and Empire skirts. Sleeves may be tapered, crushed or adjustable, many of these with deep, turn-back cuffs.

Fall colors stress the muted heather tones and the rich, strong shades. Browns range from beige to squash, to spice to chocolate. Winter blues look pretty; winery reds and plums appear in the poodles and nubby tweeds. Linings are colorful as well as functional, with many corduroys, plaids, quilted fabrics and striped taffetas in use.

This dark green, red and white plaid check coat is in an all-wool Kingscourt check. It has an elasticized shirred back, a claret velvet pull-through ascot-type tie and velvet tab pocket trim. It's worn here with matching leggings.

Child Learns Value Of Money By Getting Some To Spend For Himself

A child learns how to handle money wisely by getting it to spend himself. The mistakes he makes will teach him more about the value of money than any number of lectures, says Irma Simon-ton Black. Writing in Redbook Magazine for November, she tells you the advantages of giving your child a regular allowance:

"Learning how to handle money wisely involves using it. It means finding out that the appealing cardboard toy that looked so fine in the store falls apart after a few minutes' use. It means discovering the advantages of saving a larger amount in order to buy a sturdier toy. No amount of lecturing will teach your child such lessons. He has to find out for himself—even as you and I.

"At first, money is no different to a child from any other object that can be touched and played with. But before long a youngster finds out that the shiny pieces are exchangeable for things like toy cars, space men, balloons and other gadgets. Then he'll want to exchange like mad. This is the stage at which you can help him, not by lectures but by giving him some money to spend.

"The only way to learn the value of money (and the things bought with it) and to acquire some restraint about spending is to have genuine independence in the handling of a limited amount of cash. Here are some of the advantages of a regular allowance:

1. It is self-limiting. When you decide on an amount, stick to it. Let your child learn that if he spends his allowance all at once, he'll have to do without ready cash for the rest of the week.
2. It gives good exercise in judgment.
3. It is impersonal. It should be offered like meals, regularly, not handed out as a reward.
4. It is good discipline for you, as well as your child. It takes a strong-minded parent to give a child money for something obviously worthless.

New Warfarin Good For Killing Mice

A new type of warfarin may be the answer to mice-control problems in grain bins.

The new rodent killer dissolves in water and seems to be more attractive than the common cereal-type warfarin bait in grain bins, according to E. H. Fisher, University of Wisconsin rodent control specialist.

Warfarin, originally developed at Wisconsin, has been rated as an outstanding killer of rats and mice.

Fisher says that the warfarin solution must be placed in a suitable container, such as a pint or quart chicken fount.

He adds that a fount should be placed where mice can reach it and should be refilled with a constant supply.

Hopeful Prospects For Victims of T.B.

Newer treatment methods of tuberculosis offer a hopeful prospect to those ill with the disease including many who only two or three years ago were considered to be beyond help.

Older men, and to a lesser extent older women, are now the chief victims. During the three-year period from 1949 through 1951, three-fourths of the men who died of tuberculosis were 45 years of age or older. Almost half of the women were in this older age bracket.

Reported new cases, which include those who recover as well as those who die, also showed many people were 45 or older. About half of the men and almost a third of the women with tuberculosis were in this group.

Many of these cases as well as those in younger people are found when apparently healthy individuals have chest x-rays during the periodic visits of one of the mobile units to their community.

Another case-finding program that is becoming increasingly important is the growing practice of taking x-rays of all patients admitted to many of our general hospitals. As a result of those taken in 1950, for example, not only was suspected tuberculosis picked up but also cases of possible cancer and heart abnormalities were found. Two to three times as many cases of tuberculosis are found in this way than through screening of equal numbers among the general public.

Discovery of such undiagnosed tuberculosis cases in hospitals as well as in doctors' offices and in the community surveys, protects the families, fellow workers, and others from continued exposure to tuberculosis. It also permits earlier referral of the patients to sanatoriums equipped to provide the special care they need. There rest, good food, and medical treatment combined with the newer surgical measures make recovery possible in most cases if begun early enough.

School teachers are among those who labor for insufficient monetary reward.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

by Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—If the people of the United States are to maintain their standard of living they must raise it. The odd fact is that it isn't just stay where it is.

How's come? Well: Production capacity increased immensely in the last decade, with two big spurts, one for World War II and one when the Korean hostilities began. Since the start of the Korean war alone steel output is up 3 per cent, aluminum about 50 per cent, electricity 30 per cent and oil 15 per cent.

But as defense spending tapers off the public must step up its buying to assure full employment. For if employment drops there is less money in circulation and the less money in circulation the fewer factories operating, which results in lower employment and so on. The only solution is to increase consumer buying and thus keep production—and consequently the standard of living—up.

Actually, greater spending has a double advantage. If consumer purchases fail to support production capacity you can bet the government is going to do it instead. And the only way they can do it is with your tax dollars.

TRUCKS GET "SHOES"—There will be a record high 9,255,000 trucks on U. S. roads by the end of this year, carrying every imaginable product to the markets or to your door. And to keep the "rigs" rolling, the rubber industry is set to produce tires to meet the needs of all truckers in 1953.

J. E. Powers, manager of truck and bus tire sales of the B. F. Goodrich Company, estimates that next year about 9,000,000 truck and bus tire casings will be sold—the second time in five years that truck and bus tire replacements will reach the 9-million mark.

Truck tires, today, are relatively less expensive than five years ago, because improver construction results in as much as a 25 per cent increase in mileage. And even better, longer-lasting tires are in the offing, according to Powers. For example the tubeless tire, first introduced by B. F. Goodrich for passenger cars in 1947, is now being tested for possible use on trucks and buses.

THINGS TO COME—Newest paint is stick-free—that is, hardly anything will stick to it. It is now being tested in bakeries to see if a coat in bread pans will eliminate greasing. Might also solve the problem of clogging in machinery handling tacky materials. And it costs only $75 a gallon! . . . Non-ferrous metals such as copper and aluminum are easily cold-welded with a new device. . . . A protective coating for cement floors is said to eliminate dust problems and acts as a primer coat for painting. The liquid can be brushed on with a broom. . . . Latest electric light switch has sterling silver contact points and operates silently and with slight pressure.

MORE OR LESS—In these days of inflation it's a rare article that can boast that, year by year, it yields more and more in quantity—as well as quality—per dollar. But phonograph records, in this 75th anniversary year of the "talking machine's" birth, can. They're probably the outstanding example of technology's ability to produce bargains. A steady trend to more and finer music per dollar—and music that is much more faithfully reproduced, too—has been delighting music lovers (and creating many new music "appreciators") in the last few years during which the records turning at the new and slower speeds have come to dominate the field. Latest steps are RCA Victor's "extended play" records which get twice as many minutes of music on a 45 rpm disc as before, thus halving the size and cost of albums, and the same company's revival of the Bluebird label, at both 45 and 33 rpm speeds as a medium for standard-price versions of standard classics.

A-HUNTING WE WILL GO—There are golf ranges for golfers, batting ranges for baseball enthusiasts, bowling alleys galore and tennis courts aplenty for anyone who can lift a racket. But the hunter, after a week or two of staking the woods and fields and getting in an occasional shot, stores his gear away and waits 'til next year.

To remedy this a department store opened a 192-acre area where riflemen can practice between seasons. The ground offers a wide variety of hunting conditions and target shots and experts are on hand to counsel the fledgling.

Thus sportsmen are served, greater safety while hunting is taught and the store probably gets a fat slice of the added sporting goods market.

BITS O' BUSINESS—The hop crop this year will be about 61 million pounds, but demand is well below this. Some blame the increasing number of female hoppers which like lighter beer (which requires fewer hops).
