Games this week—Sat., Dec. 27: West Bend at Random Lake, Rosendale at Hartford; Sun., Dec. 28: Mayville at Oakfield, West Bend at Slinger, Watertown at Kewaskum; Tues., Dec. 29: Random Lake at Watertown.

Kewaskum won its third Lakes game in a row at Slinger Sunday afternoon, whipping that team by a decisive 80-48 score. As a result the Chevrolet still hold a tie for second place with two other teams. The Chevs had a surprisingly easy time in running up a score on Slinger's home floor. The winners held a slim 18-15 advantage at the quarter but then began to roll. A whirlwind second period led the win for them, in this stanza the team swished 25 points through the nets while holding Slinger to a virtual standstill. The losers made only five points to make the halftime count at 43-20. Kewaskum again outscored Slinger by three points in the third quarter and by six points in the final period to win by a margin of 32 points.

Augie Bilgo, one of the league's top scorers, again paced his team with 21 points. He now has a total of 73 in four games. Right on his heels was Dick Edwards, who dropped in 18, all in the second half. Dick played only part of the game. The only high scorer and leading man on the loser's team was forward Mago, who collected 13 buckets. The winners sank 13 of 31 free throw chances. Bilgo made 18 of his points in the first half.

The "old timers" lineup will consist of such former players as Dave Bartlett, Harold and Ralph Marx, Joe Miller, "Killy" Honeck, Bill Bartlett, Fred Dorn, Barney Probst and others. Indians Tip Brandon, Take Over Loop Lead

The Kewaskum Indians won their third straight conference game at Brandon Friday night to take over sole possession of first place in the Tri-County league. The victory was the Indians' sixth in seven games, including non-conference tilts. The Campbellsport Belles knocked Oakfield from the unbeaten ranks. The Oaks had been tied for the top spot with Kewaskum.

Coach Mitchell's boys just could not get used to Brandon's floor and got a scare before coming out on top over the last place Brandon five. They had to go all out to defeat the fighting Brandonites, 57-52, and the losers came close to pulling an upset.

The score was knotted at 52-all in the final minutes of play after a nip and tuck battle. In the last minute Kewaskum scored a basket and made a free throw after the shoot-out was fouled. Then as the gun went off the Indians sank another field goal. The winners held a 25-19 advantage at halftime. The second quarter, in which they outscored Brandon 12-5 won the game for the Mitchells.

Brandon's scoring ace, Tom Miller, was the high point man with 26. Kewaskum's star scorer, George Hanrahan, again led his team with 17 points and Leroy Keller came through with 13.

Prof. Raymond F. Dvorak, UW director of bands, and Don Marcoulier, director of marching bands, announced the names of the 152 bandmen who are going west.

In the meantime, individuals and groups and organizations in all parts of the state, alumni and friends of the university, and students and faculty-staff members, were all contributing to the $50,000 fund needed to send Wisconsin's band to the West Coast.

Prof. Dvorak has been struggling with train timetables and band schedules for the trip.

This was the tentative schedule; packed into four Pullmans, the band left Madison Christmas morning and will arrive in San Francisco the morning of Dec. 27. That afternoon the men will play at the East-West game in San Francisco by special invitation.

"The boys voted to accept the invitation although it meant leaving Madison early and each man had to pay for his own meals the extra two days," Prof. Dvorak said.

"We don't know where the boys will spend the night of Dec. 27," he continued. "We may sleep in the Pullmans—or we may be invited to bunk in campus dormitories in the area."

"On Dec. 28 we plan to take the daylight special down to Los Angeles. We're still waiting for word from Occidental college in Pasadena that we can practice on the campus Monday through Wednesday. The band used the University Stock Pavilion for practice on the Madison campus until Christmas."

will march seven miles in the Parade of Roses, eat a box lunch, and then perform in the bowl. That night we start the return trip back to Madison, with arrival scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 4."

According to Dvorak, who has been cutting corners on paper, the Pullmans will be reserved on a per diem basis; and by assigning 39 men to a car (two in each lower berth), the group will need only four cars. Bus and trucking service is an expensive item in Los Angeles, so the band will share the service with the UW athletic department.

"The suggestion has been made that to save money we feed the men two meals a day," Dvorak continues. "We have vetoed that in the interests of their digestions, for they would probably fill up on candy bars. Another suggestion, that we ride the day coaches, has also been vetoed. With the rugged schedule mapped out for us on the coast, the men will need their rest to serve as our representatives of good will. I might add that the men themselves are willing to go along with almost any suggestion that will help."

Old-timers recall that the last Wisconsin band to travel to the West Coast was the 60-member band of 1915, Charley Mann conducting. The group traveled west (CONTINUED ON PAGE FIVE)

Behind The Scenes In American Business
by Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—In Charles E. (General Motors) Wilson, President-elect Eisenhower has chosen a Secretary of Defense of sufficient stature to change the course of history. Maybe not the history of the great U.S.-Soviet Russia tug-of-war, but quite probably the economic history of the next year.

It was noted in this space last week that speculation on the forthcoming recession, if any, generally assumed that the first half of 1953 would boom with civilian and military business, but that the crystal ball clouded a little thereafter. First logical step for an acknowledged production genius like Mr. Wilson to take would be to cut everything back that could be safely cut back, until he began to get the reins of the sprawling Pentagon procurement system firmly in his hands. Then, if wartime precedent means anything, the wheels would really begin to spin to some purpose.

This can mean that instead of a big first half and a slacker second half for suppliers to the military, the expected buildup will coast after the first quarter, and be back in high gear by Labor Day, making most of the prophets look bad.

ROYAL WARRANT—Recognition as a worthy tradesman deserving royal encouragement of its wares has come to Johnson's Wax through the managing director of its English subsidiary. After several years of satisfactory performance of Johnson products in the royal precincts, a warrant allowing him to describe himself as a "purveyor to the crown" has been issued. Royal patronage is a coveted honor in Great Britain. In this country Johnson will continue to woo the housewife on TV, in magazines and newspapers. After all, the housewife is Queen around here, isn't she?

THINGS TO COME—Springs Cotton Mills of Lancaster, S. C., is preparing to market colored sheets containing chlorophyll. Didn't say why... For Christmas, golfers can buy a practice golfing gadget which reads distance and direction of each shot, made by walloping a ball hitched to the indicator by a stretchable seven-foot cord... A magnetic tuner-outer of extraneous noise, for users of hearing aids while they talk on the telephone, is promised by 1953 by one maker... By 1954 the Air Force will have a forging press in operation capable of exerting a squeezing force of 50,000 tons... A blue plastic container is expected to sell more auto storage batteries for Sun Oil Co. this winter... More industrial plants may be built on sandy sites now that a method of compacting such soil by vibration has been devised.

SHOP TALK—Some of America's smartest merchandisers have been tumbling over each other to set up shop in a new suburban shopping center even before the town's all there!

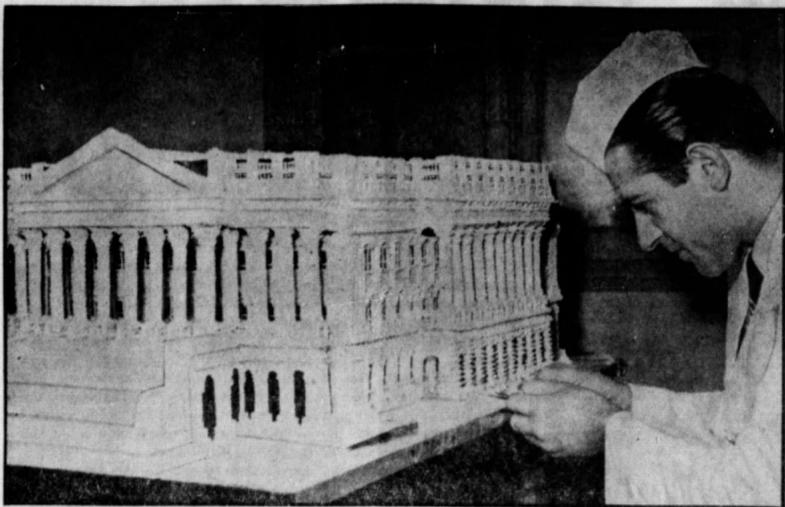

This is happening at Levittown, Pa., in the booming new industrial area just north of Philadelphia. The community building firm of Levitt and Sons, Inc., has a 16,000-home project under construction there. Since last June about 2,000 families have moved in. Another 2,000 will follow by early 1953, with the balance scheduled to arrive in the next two years. The ultimate population is figured at 70,000.

But the big parade of the blue-chip retailers is well ahead of the stream of settlers. The first dozen firms to sign up include Sears, Roebuck & Co.; W. T. Grant; Singer Sewing Machine Co.; Sun Ray Drug Co.; Thom McAn shoes. Negotiations are going on with other top firms which will occupy the 90-odd locations in the $25,000,000 shopping center, with plenty of willing takers.

TRADE AND AID—Nineteen U. S. cities have organized trade groups to stimulate imports into the country. This follows up a plea for tariff reductions made by the National Foreign Trade Council. Outgoing officials of the Mutual Security Administration have prepared a scheme for submission to incoming MSA head Harold Stassen, proposing almost unlimited insurance to investors abroad against everything but bad business judgement. The World Bank suggests a related agency to invest equity capital abroad in much the same way the bank makes loans. Lending point to all these maneuvers for cutting down the dollar gap around the world is a 29 per cent drop—September to September—in American farm exports. Interest in imports usually rises when someone remembers that they are essential to exports.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Rubber consumption in October was 118,000 tons, 75,000 American-made and 43,000 imported crude.

If you have two real friends, you are batting above average.

ICE! ; IKE'S CAKE—Dabbing finishing touches to his five-by-three-foot-square model of the United States Capitol Building, French Riviera pastry specialist, Gino Bastardi of Nice, France, gets ready to present to President-elect Dwight Eisenhower. Bastardi began work on the cake two months ago. He has made edible models of other structures including the Eiffel Tower.

You can seal the undercrust of a fruit pie by brushing it with melted butter before you add the fruit. Baking at a high temperature will also help seal the crust before the juice soaks into it.

Build A Straw Shed For Your Heifers

A temporary straw shed may answer your needs for extra dairy cattle housing this winter. Many Wisconsin farmers do not have enough barn room for their young stock. When that's the case, an easily-built straw shed can house those extra heifers.

Stan Witzel, farm buildings specialist at the University of Wisconsin, says you can build a post and pole framed shed with baled straw, corn stalks, or poor hay around the enclosure for side walls.

Use poles or timbers on firmly set posts and cover with brush and straw for the roof. Witzel says it's a good idea to cover straw with wide strips of tough, reinforced waterproof building paper. That will insure a dry bedding area for the heifers inside.

If you're feeding young stock in the open, Witzel says you need only 30 to 40 square feet of floor space per head. Leave the shed open on part of one side only.

The truth hurts people who do not like to face facts.

Prayer Voted Most Helpful Sermon Topic

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Editor of Guideposts Magazine, announces that the three subjects voted most helpful in the first national survey on sermon subjects are: "How can I make prayer more effective" (25%), "How can I make the greatest contribution in life" (20%), and "Ways to increase religious faith" (18%). These subjects lead in the tabulation of thousands of votes cast by members of all three faiths and from more than 30 different denominations. This survey was conducted in the July issue of Guideposts Magazine.

Readers were asked to check their preference among ten sermons on the basis of "What Sermons Do You Believe Would Be Most Helpful." The returned filled-out questionnaires show the following standing of the other subjects:

How can religion eliminate worrying, 9%; Happier families through religion, 8%; Immortality, 6%; The religious approach to international problems, 4%; How can I take my religion into my business life, 3%; The religious approach to social problems, 4%; The religious approach to economic problems, 3%.

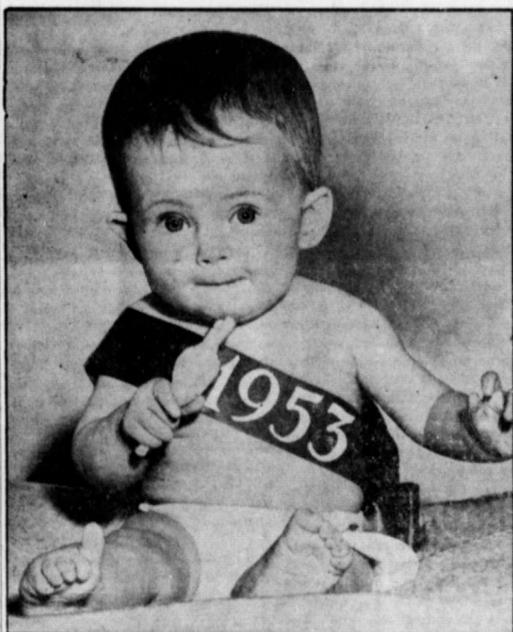

When the returns were analyzed by regular church-goers versus irregular attenders several interesting and significant differences showed up. Regular worshippers appreciate the comfort, inspiration and power of prayer so much more, that a larger percentage wanted sermons on ways to make prayer even more effective. Irregular attenders were more interested in sermons on ways to increase their religious faith. A larger percentage of those who do not go to church regularly, were interested in sermons on how religion can eliminate worrying and can make happier families. Evidently the regular church-goers are now enjoying more of these normal results of worshiping, therefore they did not want those subjects in sermons to the same extent as the occasional worshippers.

The questionnaire gave readers an opportunity to write in needed and helpful sermon subjects not included in the check list. More than 160 different subjects were suggested. Most popular of these were: Ways to increase religious faith of others; How to use the Sermon on the Mount; Thinking; Religious approach to political problems; Building up the faith of teenagers; and How people can meet the challenge of old age.

This first National Sermon Subject Survey was conducted by this interfaith inspirational publication to be of help to clergy and church workers. The findings were so significant they will be sent to every Theological Seminary in the United States. The full report on the results is found in the November issue of Guideposts Magazine of Pawling, New York.

Timely Tips

Christmas is for the children, they say, and certainly no one who has watched the youngsters' eyes gleam with joy on Christmas morn will deny this. But the child who also learns the true Christmas spirit of giving gains the greatest gift of all. To impress the Christmas spirit upon your youngsters, let them become a part of the preparations. They can make Christmas cards for their own friends simply, with stickers or art cut from cards from previous years. Tree ornaments, too, can be fun in the making. As a beginning, let them make cut-outs from cards of yesteryears or from scraps of Christmas wrapping paper, so pretty when tied to the tree with colorful string. Angels and cones, more elaborate, are for the child with artistic trend.

ADA Adopts Two-way AD Program For 1953

Chicago... New advertising stressing both economic and appetite appeals of dairy foods will spearhead the dairy industry's sales action for 1953. This was the new program adopted Friday, November 7, for the American Dairy Association.

The executive committee of the association, which conducts nationwide advertising, merchandising and research for the industry and its products, climaxed its two-day meeting in Chicago by setting up activities representing two million dollars worth of sales expansion and research projects.

Research will center on the development of new products. Included among the research projects, however, are two seeking to find new, quick tests to determine butterfat content in products where it may be mixed with other fats and oils.

The executive committee also confirmed the resignation of Owen M. Richards, general manager of the association since its founding in 1940. Richards had submitted his resignation some weeks previous to the meeting, to be effective December 31, 1952.

The committee took official recognition of the many years of service of its departing general manager. A resolution adopted by the committee read:

"The members extend their sincere thanks and expression of highest appreciation for the great service he has rendered to the American Dairy Association and the entire dairy industry of the United States."

The advertising program adopted for a 12-month period, will be highlighted by a series of merchandising events for specific products. These events will be concerted drives for sales such as have been conducted in the past in the October Cheese Festival, the Cherry Vanilla Ice Cream Drive in February and others.

A new promotion on evaporated milk was scheduled for February. A nationwide Milk and Ice Cream Festival was set up for the summer months.

In these drives the American Dairy Association will use newspapers and magazine advertising as a spearhead, while rallying efforts of industry firms and related food groups.

A new test program on television was set up for the Chicago area on a market test basis. This will be an effort on the part of the industry to stress the advantages of real cream as well as product selling and public relations messages on milk, butter and other dairy products.

At the meeting two newcomers, Ray Alberts as membership director and Hugh McSweney as merchandising director, were introduced.

In its early stages, tuberculosis may give no warning symptoms. You may have the disease without knowing it. A chest X-ray is the best way to detect TB early, when it is most easily cured.

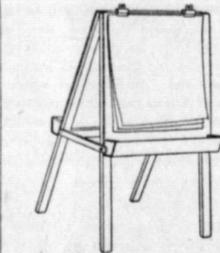

When you break glassware, use a piece of moistened cotton to pick up the tiny pieces that are hard to see.

Two-Sided Easel for Child

AS A HOME entertainer and educational tool for young children, an easel is without parallel. The one illustrated is especially useful because it can be used simultaneously by two children. One side is for drawing on sheets of newsprint; the other is a chalkboard.

A panel of Masonite 3/16" tempered hardboard forms the backing for both the paper and the chalkboard. Sheets of newsprint are held in place with clips. Use two coats of unpigmented sealer in preparing the other, sanding the first down thoroughly and the second lightly. Apply a thick coat of slate surfacer, obtainable at paint stores, rubbing it down with a clean cloth when dry.

Legs are formed of 1 by 2-inch lumber. A center strip behind each hardboard panel gives it support. The troughs for colored crayons and chalk have ends of lumber, sides and bottoms of tempered hardboard. A strip of lattice lumber at either end of the easel holds it steady when in use. Hinges at the top permit ready folding and storage.

The overall height is 49", the height of the hardboard panels is 27" and their width is 30". Length of the legs can be varied to suit the ages of the children who will use it. The top of each trough is 4" wide and the depth is 3 1/2".

It is strange how furious the average plug fisherman can become over the time he has to spend untangling hooks from a net, especially when you consider how often it can save a good fish. But a poor net—such as a shallow one from which a fish may flop easily—is worse than none.

Jason Lucas insists a net should always be deep, and one with a square bottom retains a fish the best. The frame should be strong enough not to bend with a heavy fish; it's better to have a net too large than too small.

In boat fishing a very long handle is usual; it is best if someone else nets your fish. However, it is preferable for an experienced angler to net his own fish, since he can coordinate movements of net and rod tip. To net your own, a short handled net of the type used by trout fishermen is the most convenient.

There are collapsible nets, big and strong enough for bass, wall-eyes and such, that will go into a large tackle box. When one of these is used, it should be an invariable rule to open it and place it within easy reach before you start to fish.

Now as for using your net, don't ever go after a fish tail first; a touch of the net against his tail sends him darting off, even when he appears exhausted. The net should always be held perfectly still, just under the surface, and the fish led quietly, head first, into it. Wait until his head is about to the rear of the frame—if he's large let the net sink and slide under a little—and quietly lift him up. Since the back of the net is above the surface, a touch on his tail by its front will only drive him into the meshes.

It often happens that a fish cannot be brought properly to the net the first time, so just lead him around again. Jabbing at him with the net, or attempting to scoop him in, is practically certain to lose him and might result in broken tackle.

In short, there is no better method of landing any fish of good size than proper use of a suitable net—even though it may take some time to untangle hooks from it.

To keep turkey or poultry from drying out in the oven, cover it with a cloth dipped in salad oil or melted fat. Remove the cloth for the last hour of cooking to allow the bird to brown.

Christmas Has Everything

Christmas has everything—hasn't it?

Christmas holds tightly many happy memories, is loaded with joy and good cheer right now, and pierces uncertainties of the future with the bright twinkle of hope.

Christmas lifts you out of your ordinary self and pushes you up into being a person far nicer than you have thought you were.

Christmas opens up friendships more numerous, more delightful and more heart-warming than you knew you had.

Christmas appeals to all five of your senses. Is there any sight lovelier than gaily wrapped gifts, multicolored candles, shiny holly and decorations on a Christmas tree? Isn't there contentment in the fragrant smell of fir balsam in the living room and of spicy odors in the kitchen? Wouldn't the days seem empty without hearing again the universally-loved carols and the laughter of happy children? Isn't self-control overstrained by the taste of festive, tempting foods? And don't we respond to the invigorating touch of the sweet air outdoors and the welcome warmth of home and family within?

It looks like Christmas.

It smells like Christmas.

It sounds like Christmas.

It tastes like Christmas.

It feels like Christmas.

It must be Christmas.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

How to Even Up Chair Legs

WHEN a chair is out of level, one method of evening the legs is to trim the legs which are too long. A simple method of performing this tricky operation is described in Family Handyman.

Form a tube of paper, fastening it together with paste. Now slip it over one leg, cutting off the tube at the exact tip of the leg as the other end rests on the rung.

To assure getting each leg the identical length, slip the tube over each other one in turn, marking them to the same length. Now adjust the length of the tube to the shortest leg and mark all others for cutting.

Help Stop Spread Of Sickroom Germs

Because home quarantine of communicable diseases is rarely used today, it is important to know what precautions to take in helping stop the spread of sickroom germs when a communicable disease hits.

A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association states that there are three reasons why quarantine is rarely used. They are: 1) few diseases are dangerous in the face of vaccinations, serums, "wonder drugs," and sanitation; 2) more is known about the causes and carriers, and what to do to prevent diseases; 3) new antibiotics render a person non-infectious in a short time.

If a communicable disease breaks out in the home, therefore, the doctor will probably not hospitalize the patient unless complications set in. Mothers, particularly, should know how to handle the sickroom items.

Hygienic handling of contaminated eating and drinking utensils is essential. Every object that leaves the sickroom must be checked. Anything the patient has touched—dishes, cutlery, cups, glasses—can become a source of infection until they are sterilized or destroyed. The sickroom area should be set off and all items inside that area should be considered infectious and handled carefully.

Thorough washing with plenty of soap or detergent and rinsing with very hot water is sometimes regarded as sufficient, but some authorities believe these utensils should be boiled.

Another method of cutting down infection is the use of paper utensils. Because they are disposable, there is little chance of increased contamination.

The first thing to do after handling any object in the sickroom is to wash your hands. Detergents and paper towels are recommended as the safest and handiest equipment for this purpose. A brush is not advised because its scratches invite infection easier.

Happy Birthdays Are Fun, Easy Too!

BY EDNA MILES

YOUR child's birthday party is always a memorable event. Probably you'd like to spend a great deal each year in order to have things just right. And most likely, your budget won't allow it.

Without a large expenditure, you can have party accessories with a custom look. To make place mats, napkins and bibs, you need only some drill or other sturdy fabric and several packages of the new adhesive denim patches that can be ironed onto the fabric. (These will withstand frequent launderings.)

You'll want to work out your own contrasting color schemes, of course. For four place mats and four napkins, you'll need one and one-eighth yards of fabric. Begin by cutting out four rectangles 20 by 13 inches and four 10-inch squares.

Fringe each edge of each piece by pulling threads so that you get a one-half-inch fringe. A row of machine stitching around the inside edge of the fringe will keep it from fraying when it's laundered.

Now, trace your child's favorite animals onto the denim patches and cut them out. Place the cut-out figures on the mats and napkins and iron into place.

For the bibs, make a pattern from brown wrapping paper for each bib. You can do this by tracing around a bib you already have on hand.

Bind the edges of the bib with narrow bias tape which you can buy in the five-and-ten. Stitch it around the edges of the bib on the right side, then turn it to the wrong side and hem. Continue the bias strip at the neckline to make the ties at the back of the neck. Turn in the raw edges of the tie and slip-stitch.

These gay circus figures look bright and pretty on place mats and napkins for a birthday party. Decorative cut-outs are made from new adhesive patches in bright-colored denim. They are ironed on, will adhere perfectly and will launder indefinitely.

As before, place the denim patch figures on the bib and iron them into place. It's as simple as that.

Develop New Way To Build Up Child Who Is "Just Skin and Bones"

Doctors have found a new way to fatten the underweight child whose finicky, poor appetite keeps him just skin and bones. It is a pleasant-tasting fat emulsion that comes in a bottle and supplies calories in richly concentrated form, according to Dr. Frederick J. Stare, Harvard University nutrition expert. Writing in McCall's for December, in collaboration with Donald G. Cooley, he tells about some of the spectacular weight gains that have resulted from its use:

"For the underweight, run-down child who is a heartache to mother and doctor, a new kind of weight builder that comes in a bottle is now obtainable. It is not a drug or medicine, but an everyday food—fat, in the form of a creamy-white, pleasant-tasting emulsion, easy to take. It supplies calories in richly concentrated form.

"The skin-and-bones person usually has a poor appetite. This prevents weight gain and something is needed to break the vicious circle. Food could do it. Fatteners such as egg-nogs and malted milks help put on weight. But there is a limit to a person's capacity, and these fatteners still may not contain enough calories.

"Here is where the new fat emulsion has a special virtue. One eight-ounce glass of emulsion gives as many calories as four glasses of egg-nog—about one thousand. Or a few spoonfuls added to the egg-nog or milk drinks step up the caloric value out of all proportion to its bulk.

"Dr. Earl Burbridge of the Upjohn Company, pharmaceutical manufacturers, of Kalamazoo, Michigan, first experimented with fat emulsions for underweight children in 1950, when he treated his daughter and her companions in a hospital ward where the children were recovering from polio. When the test was begun, most of them were 'bags of bones,' despite having had a superior diet, but within ten days after the emulsion was added to their diets, the ward was unbelievably transformed. Dr. Burbridge's daughter gained nine pounds in a month. One girl had to be taken off the emulsion after she gained ten pounds in two weeks.

"Although these children had had polio, their weight-gain problem was substantially the same as that of any underweight child. They needed a supply of energy to fan smoldering body fires into clean-burning flames. We at the Department of Nutrition of the Harvard School of Public Health, who played a part in the development of fat emulsions, have seen hundreds of such spectacular results.

"Such an emulsion—Lipomul—

Be ye not as the horse or as the mule, which have no understanding; whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.—(Psalms XXXII. 9.)

Let us not, through fear or other compulsion, be driven into the ways of goodness. Rather, should not a man, through his own free will and human inclinations, want to live and walk daily in the way of the Lord? Understanding shall be ours if we shall earnestly and humbly seek it through God's mercy. His guidance and help; we have the promise that it shall not be denied us.

distributed by the Upjohn Company, can be obtained from any drugstore without prescription since it is not habit-forming or a drug."

EGG NOG FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Christmas-Time is Egg Nog Time—and what a lot of jolly parties can be built around the bowl of egg nog! Planned for or shipped up on the spur of the moment, by invitation to open house or an impromptu treat for the carolers, the Egg Nog Party is the simplest form of holiday entertaining.

Time was when egg nog making was real work, egg yolks and sugar to be skillfully blended, egg whites beaten to the just-right stage, milk and cream carefully measured. Then there was the problem of containers and space in the refrigerator. But today, purchased as we do our daily milk supply, egg nog is blessed with a goodness that the modern homemaker, suddenly frugal with time and ingredients, does not always achieve. Coming as it does in bottles or cartons, this dairy egg nog is easy to store in precious refrigerator space.

Egg Nog's only requirement is to be well-chilled, given a flip of the nutmeg grater or shaker as it goes into cup or bowl, and served with the simplest of accompaniments—cheese pastry or crisp butter cookies. It's a holiday beverage you can serve to old and young alike.

Of course, there are tricks of

Storage Carrots Now A Good Vegetable Buy

Carrots are just about as good a buy on Midwest markets now as they were during the summer growing season, according to John Schoenemann, horticulturist at the University of Wisconsin.

That's because storage varieties are good producers and are less expensive to handle than the bunch-by-hand carrots that come straight from the truck gardens.

The topless condition of the stored carrots doesn't detract at all from their quality, the specialist points out. In fact, removing the tops keeps them from drawing moisture out of the carrots. Whether you buy them in bulk or in plastic bags, storage carrots will probably be a top fresh-vegetable buy from now until February.

Choose those that are firm, clean, and of good orange color. They should be smooth, well-shaped, and free of side roots.

Carrots need cool, moist storage, so it's a good idea to keep them in the dehydrator of your refrigerator. To retain the most food value, wait until just before serving to cut or shred them.

When you cook them, use just a small amount of boiling, salted water, and save the cooking liquid for use in soups or stews. Young, whole carrots and older, sliced ones will cook in 15 to 20 minutes.

One pound of carrots will make five half-cup servings, cooked, or eight half-cup servings shredded raw.

Carrots are rich in vitamin A. They're a good combination with dried beans or peas in hearty supper or lunch-box soups. Raw carrots are also a popular and easy-to-pack food for box lunches.

Despite the many chest X-ray facilities for early discovery of TB, most Wisconsin patients enter the sanatorium with advanced tuberculosis.

Teacup Topics By Betty Ann

EDITOR
THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

Tweed has been a fabric favorite with women for years because of its long wear qualities and handsome variety of colors and textures. But never before has this staunch standby been styled into such formal and feminine suits as we find this season, says Betty Ann. This is a new version of tweed—softer, with more supple finish, but all the heathery texture and durability of the old rugged tweeds is still there.

One fashion house calls them "city tweed" suits because they have the sleek lines associated with high fashion, the elegance that needs no props but can take the garnishment of jewels and furs in easy stride. A new shapely jacket silhouette is tailored right into the suits, so that women don't have to squeeze into complicated undergarments to get the Paris inspired suit curve. Inner padding gives a permanent arch to hiplines and indent waistlines to a small circle. Even lapels and collars are specially interfaced so they set properly.

Every woman, whether she's already a tweed fan or not, will appreciate the fresh fashion look of a velvet collar on a color dappled tweed suit, or the slot seaming detail that adds to the curving lines of another color flecked town tweed. A cardigan suit is given new elegance when it's belted and tailored with lone lines and features four prominent pockets with contrast trim.

Your winter skin beauty will increase in proportion to the regular use you make of good quality complexion and bath brushes.

Use no other brush on your complexion than one made specifically for the face. The bristles, whether nylon or natural, should be fine, soft and flexible. Limber them up before using the brush for the first time by soaking the brush in a boric acid solution.

Wash your face first to remove most of the dirt and make-up using your fingers to massage. Then use your complexion brush with your second lathering.

Start at the base of your neck and work upward with gentle, circular motion. Take your time on area prone to blackheads, and at the hair line. The circulation will be stimulated and all dead cuticle removed. Your skin will emerge clearer, smoother and brighter than ever.

Be sure your complexion brush is thoroughly rinsed after every use and is allowed to dry in the air. Let no other member of the family borrow it.

Your regulation bath equipment should include a long handled brush for reaching your back areas and any especially rough areas.

When darning men's heavy socks, use a small funnel open side up within the stocking. It's flat and open underneath which makes it easy to push the needle through the heavy yarn.

There's only one way to keep your clothes looking lovely. You must give them constant, daily care.

Remove spots as soon after they appear as possible. Have a clothes brush within easy reach of the closet to use for brushing away dust and lint from the fabric surfaces of your clothes.

Small rips and tears will just get larger unless you mend them before they have the opportunity. Don't fill your closet with any kind of hangers. Each garment demands a suitably shaped hanger, if it is to keep its line.

Use proper protection against perspiration. This means shields plus a deodorant, if necessary. Never apply perfume or cologne directly to a fabric. It may stain and also give an unpleasant odor to the material.

Your entire wardrobe should receive an occasional airing, and periodic laundering or cleaning. On the subject of laundering, there are certain clothes that should not be washed, even though the material has all the necessary laundering credentials. It is much wiser to dry clean any garments that have elaborate, fine pleats, a lined jacket, or contrasting color trimming that are not specifically tagged color fast.

Treat your clothes with consideration. They will wear longer, look smarter, and give you a great deal of satisfaction.

Orange sections, sliced pears, seedless grapes combine well in a fruit cup; pour ginger ale over the fruit and serve in sherbert glasses as a first course for a holiday meal or as dessert.

Wisconsin's Rose Bowl Float

Wisconsin's colorful float for the New Year's Day Parade of Roses in Pasadena is now being constructed in California, it has been announced by Don Wilkinson, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, and J. H. H. Alexander, Wisconsin Conservation Department, co-sponsors of the official float.

The float (sketched above) will be 40 feet long and 15 feet wide, and will dramatize the outstanding features of the state as a dairyland and a vacationland. In keeping with parade tradition, flowers will be utilized to carry out the color scheme.

The theme of the float will be "On Wisconsin," to conform to the "Melodies in Flowers" theme of the parade. Riding on the float will be Alice in Dairyland, Beverly Ann Steffen; an "Indian princess," and two pretty "fishermen," symbolizing Wisconsin as a vacationland.

State Pays $259,700 To Help The Aged

Checks totalling $259,700 and ranging in amount from $1,600 to $33,800 will be mailed within the next few days by the division of public assistance, state department of public welfare, to 25 counties as equalization aid in financing old-age assistance, Geo. M. Keith, division director, announced today.

The payments, made under a law passed by the 1951 legislature, represent 75 per cent of the total amount which it is now estimated these counties will be entitled to receive during the year. The balances will be paid after the counties' shares have been finally determined on December 31.

The law, intended to equalize to some extent the burden on the various counties, sets a limit on the amount which any county must raise to finance its share of the cost of providing and administering old-age assistance. The statute includes a formula for determining the maximum amount which a county is expected to levy and provides for the state to pay up to 60 per cent of the cost in excess of this maximum.

The total amount to be paid by the state this year is estimated at $348,821; last year the final total was $304,438.

The largest payment being made at this time is $33,800 to Douglas county. Eight other counties are receiving more than $10,000, including Eau Claire, $26,200; Bayfield, $24,200; Ashland, $17,300; Forest, $14,000; Pierce, $11,900; Trempealeau, $11,800; Burnett, $10,400; and Barron, $10,200.

The remaining 16 counties will receive lesser amounts ranging down to $1,600 to Crawford county.

Suggests Testing Hogs For Bang's

Farmers choosing hogs for fall breeding should have them tested now for Brucellosis to protect farm family health as well as to assure a better spring pig crop, Dr. H. J. O'Connell, state veterinarian with the department of agriculture advised recently.

"Brucellosis-infected swine have been found to be a prime source of undulant fever among farm families," O'Connell said. "Blood-testing the hogs on a farm is now becoming routine practice with many owners, both as a health and a profit measure."

He recommended that hogs which react to the blood test should either be sent to slaughter or kept in isolation, depending on the veterinarian's judgment. Further tests should then be continued at regular periods until no reactors are found.

If any breeding swine show signs of bad joints or lameness they should be given a health checkup. Lameness and defective joints can be symptoms of erysipelas, infectious arthritis, Brucellosis, or nutritional deficiencies. Accurate diagnosis is necessary to determine the nature of the disease so steps may be taken to protect the rest of the drove.

ELIMINATE DAMPNESS IN CLOSETS

There is not just one cause of dampness. There are many causes. One or more of them may be present in your home.

In the first place, condensation occurs when moist, warm air comes in contact with a cold surface.

In closets, there is no chance for the air to circulate. Therefore, moisture remains and the closet smells musty.

One of the best remedies is to ventilate the closet. Set an electric fan so that the air will circulate.

Also, there are bags of moisture absorbent chemicals which can be hung in the closet. After three or four days, they can be dried out in the oven and used over again.

Also calcium chloride in a drip basket container will absorb large amounts of water. An enameled pan or dish should be used to catch the water.

Proper ventilation is the best remedy for keeping a house dry. Open the doors and windows at least once each day and let the breeze blow through.

Your attic should have a louver on each end to permit moisture to escape. An attic fan will help keep the air moving.

Snowy Owl
©1952 National Wildlife Federation

The plain of the snow-covered coastal marsh was interrupted by curving tidal creeks and an occasional white-capped haystack, like a marshmallow cookie. Atop one of these a snowy owl sat, silent and alert. A lone crow flying toward the beach spotted him there and sounded an alarm. In a moment a gang of black rascals was cawing and jeering its traditional enemy of darkness. Since most owls see poorly in daylight, they are considered safe game; but this was no ordinary owl. Crouching low, with fierce yellow eyes it watched every movement of its tormentors. Suddenly it sprang into the air. Powerful talons snatched a crow in full flight. Returning to its perch with unconcern the great bird tore out the flesh and swallowed it, then, squatting, wiped off its face in the snow as a cat does. The crows were gone.

The snowy owl is spectacularly handsome. It is all white except for more or less distinct brownish bars on back and belly. Its head is big and round without ear tufts, or horns. By both weight and wing span it is America's largest owl, with weight of 5 pounds, length to 26 inches and spread of 5½ feet.

In the chill arctic regions, clear around the pole beyond the limit of trees and as far north as land is known, the great white owl has its home. Snow persists in May and June when the bird scratches a depression in the moss on a hillock top and lays 5 to 8 white eggs. To feed the voracious young, this fearless hunter will take anything to twice its size from big arctic hares, game and shore birds to fish, but its normal food consists of mice and lemmings. Much of the year it roams the tundra like a nomad performing invaluable service in reducing populations of those destructive rodents. Of necessity, in a land of midnight sun, it has learned to hunt by day.

Though many snowy owls winter in their bleak homeland, there is a southward migration to northern United States each fall. Some years, as result perhaps of food shortage, it is a veritable invasion. These owls are birds of the open country being seen most often about the Great Lakes, the Saint Lawrence River and along the Atlantic coast. They appear irregularly in numbers to Virginia, Illinois, Kansas, Colorado and Washington, having wandered to the Gulf coast and Bermuda. Look for them on dunes, posts, haystacks, hummocks and muskrat houses—rarely in trees.

Since stuffed white owls are no longer the approved decoration of cigar stores and bars, says the National Wildlife Federation, the future of this rapacious and beautiful bird seems secure.

Have a bird town right in your back yard. A Bird Feeder will attract many different varieties of our fine feathered friends as a feeding and loafing spot all winter long. In return for much needed food they will spread a lot of cheer during the dull, bleak winter. Very decorative, too. Place feeder so you can watch the birds from your windows. Base is 17 x 20 inches. Pattern C3117 includes complete directions and outlines and patterns for 3 birds—a cardinal and two goldfinches, for 20c.

HOT GINGERBREAD A LA MODE

These are the evenings when Gingerbread a la mode is the dessert of the season! Not that gingerbread isn't a favorite all the year 'round—morning, noon and night. But "a la mode" is different!

Vanilla ice cream is perfect with hot gingerbread. For variety, chocolate ice cream gives a delightfully different twist to gingerbread a la mode. And too at holiday time try it with Egg Nog ice cream.

GINGERBREAD

½ cup evaporated milk
½ tablespoon vinegar
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
2 eggs
½ cup soft butter

Combine milk and vinegar. Re-sift flour with soda, spices, baking powder and sugar into a mixing bowl. Add molasses to the milk-vinegar mixture. Stir into dry ingredients. Add eggs, one at a time, and beat thoroughly, then beat in the butter. Four into a well

Breads leavened with baking soda or baking powder should not be beaten or kneaded. The usual procedure is to combine the egg, liquid and melted shortening, then stir in the dry ingredients, mixing only enough to dampen all the flour. To insure success in your baking, keep a close check on oven temperatures. The most practical way to do this, is to use a portable oven thermometer.

Almond Bread

1¼ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons melted shortening
½ cup almonds, blanched and cut up

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Beat eggs until lemon colored; add sugar gradually beating constantly. Add lemon juice and shortening, continuing to beat until smooth. Add almonds and sifted dry ingredients. Pour into a greased 8" x 8" pan and bake in an oven 375 degrees 30 to 40 minutes or until well browned. Remove from pan and cut into strips.

Cocoa Bread

2½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cocoa
1/3 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/3 cups milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, cocoa and sugar together 3 times. Beat egg, add milk and shortening. Stir into dry ingredients, mixing only enough to dampen all flour. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in an oven 350 degrees 45 minutes.

Peanut Butter Nut Bread Topping

2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon water

Peanuts

Spread butter on bottom of loaf pan. Cover evenly with sugar and peanuts. Sprinkle water over mixture. Cover with the following:

Batter

1 egg
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons peanut butter
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups sifted flour

Honeck Attends Dealers Meeting, Lauds New Chevrolet

A new Chevrolet that will create "entirely new conceptions of automotive beauty and performance" was promised this week by K. A. Honeck, Jr. of Honeck Chevrolet.

Mr. Honeck made his statement following a meeting with company representatives in Milwaukee where 1953 plans were revealed to an enthusiastic audience of dealers from this area.

"When we were invited to attend we were told that this would be one of Chevrolet's most important business conferences," he continued. "This was conclusively borne out by developments. Not only were we shown the most exciting product in my experience as a dealer, but the speakers made clear that the company through its newspaper advertising and promotion would give the model unprecedented backing."

Mr. Honeck said the program should answer any doubts about the future of business.

"A company with the marketing knowledge of Chevrolet does not re-invest the tremendous capital required for a program of this nature unless it is firmly convinced of sound sales possibilities," he pointed out. "It is quite apparent from the product that the largest automobile company in the world is anticipating one of its biggest years in 1953."

Although the date for showing the new Chevrolets has not yet been announced, Mr. Honeck is already making plans for a display of the car here. He is confident that interest in the new model will draw record-breaking crowds to his showroom.
