A spectacular fire Saturday night destroyed a large 110 by 50 foot barn on the Clyde Schloemer farm on Route 1, Kewaskum, located about two miles northeast of Boltoville. The fire of undetermined origin was discovered about 7:30 p. m. The blaze was visible for many miles and attracted hundreds of persons to the scene. Damage was estimated at from $20,000 to $25,000.

Destroyed along with the barn were more than 100 tons of hay, 2,000 bushel of grain and nine yearling Holstein heifers, valued at about $150 each. Some farm machinery was also lost, including a hammer mill, milk machine, and other equipment.

Fire departments from Boltoville, Fillmore, Batavia and Silver Creek fought the flames. It was reported that the crowd at the scene was so large that firemen were handicapped in getting water to the fire.

By the time firemen arrived the fire had burned so fiercely and gained such headway that all they could manage to save were an adjoining shed and milk house. A silo was destroyed along with the barn.

The farm is operated by Schloemer by George Hiller, Jr., who called firemen when he noticed flames pouring through the barn. The blaze apparently started in a hay mow. The roof was already caving in when the first firemen reached the farm. Some of the fire fighters remained on the job until 6:30 a. m., Sunday and returned to the fire again in the afternoon to keep the smoldering ruins from breaking out again.

Attorney Schloemer of West Bend, the owner, says he will rebuild the barn in the near future.

The four-day conference of fellowship, training and exchange of ideas, is believed to be the only national meeting of its kind to be run entirely by young men whose average ages between 17 and 18.

Local delegates are members of the Shagunapi Lodge of the Badger Council. It was chartered in 1925 and has 180 members.

The local delegates were: Thomas Champion, advisor, Eagle Scout, has Vigil Honor rank in the Order of the Arrow, Fond du Lac; Thomas Lemke, Ship 115, Life Scout, Fond du Lac; Richard Grebe, Ship 115, Eagle Scout, Fond du Lac, and Robert Rose, Eagle Scout, Kewaskum. The local group left for Laramie on Aug. 29, traveling by car.

On their way to the national convention at Laramie, the group visited Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills and the Bad Lands where they had a meal of Buffalo Steak.

On their return home the boys stopped to visit the Rocky Mountain National Park and Pikes Peak, and other points of interest.

The Order of the Arrow is a Brotherhood of Scout Honor Campers with a membership of 65,000 experienced campers of the Boy Scouts of America in whose program it has an official place. A total of 464 Boy Scout local councils have adopted the Order into their "round camping" program. Nearly 150,000 members have been inducted since the founding in 1915.

Members are selected by fellow campers as worthy examples of living the Scout Oath and Law.

MISS OPGENORTH TELLS OF WORK IN YOUTH CARAVAN

At Peace church last Sunday Mary Carol Opgenorth told of her summer's work with a Youth Caravan. After a brief but intensive training course at Tiffin, Ohio, she was sent to St. Louis to work in Community Center activities for six weeks. Meeting with young people of other faiths and working with an interracial group in the slum area of St. Louis revealed in a striking manner how the less fortunate live. Though the weather in St. Louis was extremely hot, Mary Carol enjoyed this service and calls it a very profitable summer, in experience.

She previously spoke to the Women's Guild of the parish meeting at the Clyde Smith home last Thursday.

Youth Critically Injured in Crash

A Milwaukee youth was critically injured and his passenger received lesser injuries when their car left a curve on County Trunk V about 4 1/2 miles north of Kewaskum shortly after 1 a. m. Saturday and plunged into a ditch.

Richard Hunter, 19, Milwaukee, suffered severe chest and other injuries and was still in a critical condition this week. Dennis Bingen, now of West Bend, formerly of Kewaskum, was shaken and bruised. They were removed by Campbell-sport ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend. Bingen was later released.

Fond du Lac county police officers who investigated the accident, said that it was fortunate that both young men were not killed, so badly was Hunter's 1952 model car wrecked. The machine plowed a head and rolled over several times for a distance of many yards along the ditch, coming to a stop at the edge of a corn field. Both youths were reported to have been thrown clear of the car, and this probably saved their lives.

While the auto was being towed to a Campbellsport garage it caught fire, making it a total wreck.

In other accidents of a more minor nature a Kewaskum woman and young man were involved during the past week in separate mishaps.

Parish of Fr. Fellenz Observes Centennial

St. Mary's Catholic parish at Pine Bluff, Wis. observed its 100th anniversary recently. Pastor of the parish is the Rev. Aloysius Fellenz, a native of Kewaskum. Bishop William P. O'Connor of the Madison Diocese, presided at a solemn high mass in honor of the centennial of the parish. A score of Wisconsin monsignori and priests, and scores of parish members and friends crowded into the church. A public dinner was served to hundreds on the church grounds after the morning services, and a picnic was held in the afternoon and evening.

Father Fellenz was celebrant at the centennial mass. Other priests taking part in the mass included the Rev. Clarence N. Stoffel of Martinsville, another Kewaskum native and brother of Nicholas Stoffel of this village, as master of ceremonies.

A picture of Fr. Fellenz giving the blessing ending the service, as well as a group picture of the Catholic clergymen present, along with a story appeared in a Madison paper.

Wagner of Barton, and Gerald I. Mehlos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mehlos of Kewaskum. The Rev. O. Ullrich performed the ceremony.

The bride chose a white ayon gown with a short sleeved, lace bodice. Lace flounces enhanced the full skirt which featured scallops caught up by tiny rose buds to reveal an under skirt of pleated tulle. Her veil was caught to a band of tulle flowers. Her bouquet consisted of white rose buds and gardenias.

The bride's sister, Miss Marie L. Wagner, as maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of ruby red crystaline with an empire waist detailed with a pleated nylon insert in the bodice. A pleated panel extended down the front of the full skirt of unpressed pleats. She wore a feather headpiece with rhinestones in her hair.

Mrs. Joan Cook, another sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was attired like the honor attendant. Both attendants carried bouquets of white asters and tiny red rose buds.

A reception was held and buffet supper served at the Moose hall in West Bend, following a wedding dinner at Larry's Supper club there.

Miss Dorothy Wendelborn, the maid of honor, was attired in shrimp color lace over taffeta with accents of the full skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations. The bridal aide, Ruth Schultz, wore an identical gown in aqua. She carried a bouquet of vari-colored carnations. Serving as flower girls were Miss Jean Wilger and Miss Jane Dabringer. Primary Election Tuesday, Sept. 14

THREE WAY RACE FOR NOMINATION TO ASSEMBLY OFFICE HELD BY K. W. HAEBIG

Although interest had been lagging, things are beginning to hum as the primary election next Tuesday, Sept. 14, approaches. Polls in Kewaskum will be open from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. in the municipal building.

There are three candidates in the Republican race for the assemblyman's post presently held by K. Wm. Haebig of Kewaskum, who declined to run for re-election. Theo. Holtebeck of West Bend, who withdrew from the campaign last week, had a change of heart and announced this week that he would re-enter the race. The other candidates are Elmer Schowalter of the town of Jackson and Atty. Robert Marth of West Bend. There are no Democratic candidates for the office.

A light vote is anticipated because of a lack of interest in the election. Voters are urged to go to the polls.

The county ballot, outside of the assembly contest, shows no opposition. All incumbents except two are candidates for re-election. The slate, all Republicans, follows: County clerk—Anton P. Starai; county treasurer—Paul L. Just, man; sheriff—George Struger; coroner—Ewald W. Schwulst; clerk of circuit court—Lawrence P. Berend; district attorney—Leroy J. Goring; register of deeds—Edwin Pick; surveyor—Ethan D. Maxon.

Only two of the above candidates are new on the ballot, namely Schwulst and Maxon. There are no Democratic candidates for any of the county offices.

In the race for state offices, the incumbent Gov. Walter J. Kohler is facing opposition from two Democrats, William Proxmire and James E. Doyle. George M. Smith, incumbent lieutenant governor, is opposed by Warren P. Knowles, while Sverre Roang and Edwin Larkin are seeking the Democratic nomination. In the campaign for secretary of state Fred R. Zimmerman, incumbent, has re-entered the race despite the fact that Joyce Larkin, former Two Rivers newspaperwoman, has been endorsed by the Republican party. Joseph J. Costello and Marguerite R. Benson are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Warren R. Smith, Republican, and Oscar M. Jonas, Democrat, are unopposed for their party nominations. Smith is the office holder. Incumbent Atty. Gen. Vernon W. Thomson is seeking re-nomination on the GOP ticket while Frank L. Nikolay is out on the Democratic ticket.

Rep. William K. Van Pelt, incumbent congressional representative from the Sixth District, is unopposed for the GOP nomination. Two Democratic candidates are seeking nomination. They are Lawrence P. Touchett and Russell S. Johnson. Frank Panzer is facing opposition to retain his seat as state senator from the 13th District with Walter R. Bussewitz as his opponent. Panzer is Republican and Bussewitz Democrat.

Dizzy Dean Will Co-Star In Movies

Dizzy Dean, once one of baseball's great pitchers, will next try his hand as an actor in motion pictures. He is also expected to dabble in television.

It was announced recently that Dizzy would co-star in a series of comedies, perhaps with the British musical comedy star, Hermione Gingold.

It was said that the comedies would not involve baseball, and that Mr. Dean's natural talents would be exploited. Although it is a bit unusual to comment on such an event in an editorial, we welcome the arrival of Dizzy Dean on the moving picture screen.

We have enjoyed Dizzy's baseball savvy on both radio and television. Although Mr. Dean sometimes fractures the King's English, his audience is interested in his knowledge of baseball and not in his knowledge of English.

We prefer a man who knows baseball, and who really gets a bang out of the game he is describing, to those polished announcers who seem to keep up the chatter at all times, though never having played the game and not appreciating some of the sensations which occur among players on the field.

Dizzy Dean cannot be accused of these latter crimes, and although it would not be well for all radio and TV sportscasters to offer our youngsters the Dean version of English, it is refreshing to hear a bit of Ozark English once in a while.

We do not venture to predict the outcome of Mr. Dean's sally into the motion picture field, though he may know more about baseball than he does about moving pictures. We would say he had about a fifty-fifty chance of striking out, but it will be interesting to see him give it a try.

Public Health Is Everybody's Business

Those of us who have never been seriously ill rarely appreciate our good fortune at being well. We take our good health for granted. However, like our rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, we have things to do if we are to preserve our good health.

We not only have a personal responsibility for our own health, but we also have an obligation to the community in which we live. INSTALL HEAT DUCT TO SECOND FLOOR

If you are making structural changes in your house, be sure to have a building permit. Your plans should include the extra hot or cold air ducts.

Find First Floor Closet

The easiest way to install warm air ducts in an old house is to find a first floor closet, as near the center of the house as possible, and on an inside wall.

The duct may be run up thru the closet to the second floor without the need of cutting into the wall. See illustration. This way the heat duct will be hidden where it cannot be seen.

Buy the duct already made from a heating supply store. Be sure to get the hood required. Also buy the hood for the top if you are going through an upstairs wall, plus a wall register.

If the heat is to be used on the same side of the wall as the duct, a floor register and adapter will be more suitable.

Cut a hole through the first floor large enough that the end of the heat duct may be inserted.

It will be necessary to cut the shoe mold and base board in order to have the duct fit flat against the wall.

Push the duct up all the way to the ceiling. Make sure it is straight up and down, and mark the location of the hole in the ceiling.

Start the opening by drilling a hole in the plaster. Finish by sawing to shape with a compass saw, or an old crosscut saw. Do not cut through any ceiling joists. In case one is in the path of the duct, it will be necessary to buy an offset section of duct.

Cut hole through second floor. Locate hole by boring holes at the corners of the hole through the ceiling.

Various Register Types

Push the duct through the hole and install the registers. The type of register will be determined by the location of the duct in relation to where the heat is wanted.

It will probably be necessary to patch some plaster, and nail molding back in place. It will also be necessary to connect the heat duct with the furnace or another heat duct in the basement.

The warm air duct should be painted where it is exposed inside the closet. But be sure to paint it before the heat is connected.

The closet through which the heat duct is run will be quite warm unless you insulate the duct. In some cases a false wall is built across the end or side of the closet. This completely hides the duct.

Yes, if you install a warm air duct to the second floor, you should also install a cold air duct of the same size. Otherwise, you will get poor circulation of air and it will be difficult to heat the rooms comfortably.

Pasteurized Milk Safeguards Health

Of all our foods none is more important than milk. It is a good muscle, bone and tooth builder, an excellent source of vitamin A and G, and an inexpensive source of energy. Nutritionists agree that normal children should consume at least a quart each day, normal adults at least a pint.

But while milk is often considered the most nearly perfect food it is also a most dangerous food if not properly safeguarded. Unfortunately milk is not only a good food for humans but certain types of disease organisms also thrive on it. Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria, septic sore throat and undulant fever.

Though these facts should be carefully considered, they should not cause us to become frightened or prevent us from using this wonderful food. Through proper production methods and by heating the milk just high enough and long enough to kill all the dangerous germs which may have slipped into it, our milk supply can be safeguarded for each of us. This process is called pasteurization.

For those in rural areas who do not have the protection of commercial pasteurization, a simple home method may be used. This can be accomplished by heating the milk in a double boiler until it reaches 165 degrees Fahrenheit as shown by any good thermometer; then cooling immediately, preferably under cold running water. Constant stirring during both processes is highly recommended.

Undulant fever, which may be transmitted through impure milk is four times more common in rural areas than in urban areas of our state. This is one good reason why all milk should be pasteurized.

Yes, milk is the most nearly perfect food—especially if it is Grade A pasteurized.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Outdoor Barbecue

This time of year there'll be plenty of meals served al fresco, backyard, or plain old picnic style, for whether it's thick steak or homely franks and hamburgers, it all tastes better in the fresh air. Have an easy barbecue sauce recipe handy, make it at the broiler, and make it good with Tabasco just before swabbing on your meat. One famous old Southern recipe goes as well with chicken and steak as it does with hamburgers and franks so it fits all moods and pocketbooks. Here's how to prepare it:

- Barbecue Sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1 cup vinegar
 - 1 minced clove garlic
 - 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1/2 cup catchup
- Combine salt and mustard in saucepan. Add about 1/4 cup vinegar to make a paste. Gradually stir in 3/4 cup more vinegar. Add garlic, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco, sugar and catchup. Simmer 10 minutes. This makes 1 1/2 cups of barbecue sauce, enough for frequent basting of meat for a crowd.

Whether you gather round the picnic basket, the outdoor grill or have an informal snack on the back porch, be sure to keep the menu simple and easy on the cook. The following you'll want to use often.

- Ham Skewbobs
- 1 1 1/2-lb. can ham
 - 1 No. 2 can syrup pack sweet potatoes
 - 1 16-oz. can pineapple chunks
 - 1/4 cup butter
 - 1/4 cup brown sugar firmly packed
 - 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- Cut ham in chunks. Put a piece of ham, piece of pineapple, and piece of potato on a skewer. Repeat until skewer is filled. Melt butter, stir in sugar and mustard. Brush sauce on skewered foods. Cook in broiler or on an outdoor grill, until lightly browned. Turn occasionally while cooking.

- Beef Marinade
- 2 lbs. lean round beef cut in 1 inch cubes
 - 1/2 cup salad oil
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 1/4 cup chopped onion
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - Pepper
 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- Combine oil, vinegar, onion, salt, pepper, and Worcestershire sauce. Mix well. Add meat cubes and let stand 1 hour. Skewer and roast 6 to 8 minutes on each side.

- Skewbob Combinations
- Lamb cubes, mushrooms, cooked potatoes and small onions
 - Hamburger balls, tiny onions and small tomatoes
 - Calves liver, bacon and onions
 - Lamb, egg plant, tomatoes and onions
 - Pork tenderloin, apples and onions
- Roast over glowing coals. Serve with relish and hot rolls.

- Zucchini and Meat Sauce
- 2 lbs. Zucchini squash
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 10 1/2 ounce can spaghetti sauce with meat
 - 1/4 lb. sharp cheese, shredded
- Scrub squash and cut in thin slices. Melt butter in a 2 quart saucepan, add Zucchini slices and salt. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat about 15 minutes or until tender. Stir with a fork when about half done, add spaghetti sauce and half of the cheese. Mix well. Pour into four individual casseroles, sprinkle remaining cheese on tops. Bake in an oven 375 degrees 15 to 20 minutes, until they bubble and cheese is melted.

- Picnic Cake
- 1/2 cup butter
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 2 well beaten eggs
 - 1 1/3 cups sugar
 - 2 1/4 cups flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 cup milk
 - 12 marshmallows
 - 1/2 cup brown sugar
 - 1/2 cup nut meats chopped
- Cream butter, add sugar and vanilla. Beat thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Pour into a well greased 8 x 12 inch cake pan. Cut marshmallows crosswise—arrange on batter. Sprinkle with brown sugar and nuts. Bake in an oven 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

- Picnic Spice Cake
- 2 cups sifted flour
 - 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/4 teaspoon cloves
 - 1/2 cup butter
 - 1 cup apple sauce
 - 2 eggs
- Sift all dry ingredients together twice into a large bowl. Then add softened butter and 2/3 cup apple sauce. Beat hard for 2 minutes. Add the remaining apple sauce and eggs. Beat hard for 2 minutes. Pour into a pan 9 inch square greased on the bottom and sides, and lined with waxed paper which has been greased lightly. Bake in an oven 325 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Cool in the pan. Frost.

- Cream Cheese Frosting
- 2 3-oz. packages cream cheese
 - 2 tablespoons milk
 - 1/2 cup sifted confectioners sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- Mash up package of cream cheese. Mix in milk. Beat until creamy. Stir in sugar and cinnamon. Spread on top of cake.

- Picnic Refrigerator Cake
- 1 package chocolate pudding
 - 3 cups milk
 - 1 sponge cake, cut in 3-4 inch cubes, about 6 cups
 - 1 square unsweetened chocolate, shaved
 - 1 cup cream
 - 1 tablespoon confectioners sugar
 - 3/4 teaspoon vanilla
- Line 1 quart loaf pan with waxed paper. Empty pudding into a 2 quart saucepan. Gradually stir in milk. Cook according to directions on package. Remove from heat. Fold in cake cubes. Pour into loaf pan. Cool about 1/2 hour. Chill in refrigerator overnight. To serve turn on platter. Lift off waxed paper. Sprinkle with shaved chocolate. Stir sugar and vanilla into whipped cream. Spread on top of cake. Sprinkle with shaved chocolate.

RUFFLES ON A RECTANGLE

This pretty ruffled doily is especially attractive for oval or rectangular end tables, step tables and others. The finished doily measures about 13" x 15." Without the ruffles it could be used for a chair set or vanity set. Send for this easy-to-follow direction sheet No. C3184, 20c.

UNTIMELY DIG—More effective than an hour-long speech is the simple, hand-lettered sign placed in a Kansas City, Kan., street cave-in by a quick-thinking political opportunist just before election time.

BOOKMOBILE—This rolling library brings everything from Shakespeare to spine-tingling who-dun-its to soldiers of the Army's 27th Wolfhound Regiment standing guard along Korea's uneasy truce line. Built into an Army ton and a half trailer, it makes the rounds of the regiment every ten days.

INTERESTED SPECTATOR—As Sister Mary Jacqueline displays near-perfect bowling form, the ball she started to throw sits in the alley behind her, apparently watching the nun's follow-through. The ball slipped from her grip in the alleys of Lewis Theological College in Lockport, Ill., where several nuns took their turns on the alleys.

LARGE-SCALE EFFORT—Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers makes like a human fly as he scales the center field wall at Ebbets Field in a vain attempt to grab the high-flying ball (arrow). It was a double by Ralph Kiner of the Chicago Cubs.

By Betty Ann

Editor, The Milwaukee Journal
Woman's Pages

Hot, steamy days call for refreshing beauty tricks, says Betty Ann. Why not borrow one from baby who relies on talcum powder to overcome summer discomfort?

Since the skin perspires from head to toe, talcum powder will make you feel dainty and sweet on the muggy day. Choose one that is endowed with deodorant qualities, designed to protect you from all over perspiration odor.

A talc can be used in many places where liquid, cream or stick deodorants are impractical. Sprinkled between the toes, it will keep them fresh and dry and will help discourage skin infection that thrives on moisture.

The morning tussle to get that girdle on will be a considerably calmer period when talc is used, and it also will prevent chafing. Slipping into nylons will present no problem when the legs are dusted with talc. Seams and wrinkles can then be straightened without starting a run.

Deodorant talc rubbed on your hands will help absorb perspiration, a particularly practical idea before a game of badminton, tennis or golf. After razor shaving or using a depilatory, the skin is sensitive and an antiperspirant should not be used for about 24 hours. During that period, several dustings with soothing deodorant talc will absorb enough perspiration to keep your clothes safe and to take care of the odor problem. Most talcs are ideal for vacation and week end traveling, come in metal containers that can't break, won't spill.

If you use color rinse on your hair, take care to prevent its showing at hairline and part. After applying the rinse according to directions, go over these areas with a sudsy cotton tipped stick to remove stain. Then rinse hair again.

When applying perfume to your handkerchief spray it on. That way you won't cause a stain by concentrating the scent in one spot. An ordinary sudsing will wash out the fragrance.

Clothes well hung are said to be half ironed. So shake out everything as you put it on the line and it will dry as smoothly as possible. Remember, too, to hang garments by their firmest sections, as the waistband of shorts and slacks.

If you dislike a high glaze on furniture, you can tone it down somewhat with diluted denatured alcohol or diluted vinegar. Dip very thick cheesecloth into the solution and wring it out. Then go over the furniture quickly and lightly.

If your face is round, shape your brows so that they arch slightly, coming down rather sharply at the sides. And keep them fairly thick.

Want to turn a simple roll into a glamor item? Try pineapple crunch rolls. Start with a package of eight brown and serve dinner rolls. Combine one-fourth cup drained, crushed pineapple, three tablespoons brown sugar, and one tablespoon each of pineapple juice and melted butter. Spread mixture over bottom of a loaf pan to fit rolls. Place rolls, tops down over mixture and bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool for a minute, turn out and serve, fruit side up.

French Cabbage Salad
Two quarts thinly shredded cabbage; 2 tablespoons salt; 3/4 cup ripe olives; 3/4 cup mayonnaise; 3 teaspoons worcestershire sauce; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; lettuce; paprika.

Place cabbage in large flat pan and sprinkle with salt; toss until salt is well distributed. Let stand about one hour. Rinse with cold water and press dry. Cut olives in large pieces. Combine with mayonnaise, worcestershire sauce and mustard and blend. Pour over cabbage and blend lightly. Serve on lettuce garnished salad plates. Sprinkle with paprika. Serves six.

Frankfurters taste extra good when they are grilled, put into toasted rolls and topped with a generous spoonful of chili con carne and a sprinkling of finely chopped onion and parsley.

Tossed and green are the best salads these sweltering days and they're more than ever irresistible when you toss in small squares of bread slowly fried till crisp in butter. Add them the very last minutes.

Health & Beauty

A great many women have trouble with a cosmetic allergy. Often, not realizing what the trouble is, they will spend large sums of money trying to find out what is wrong.

This is understandable because with a cosmetic allergy, the most often affected places are the face and neck. It takes a great deal of self-control to awaken one morning with a bright red rash or a series of blisters on your face and not become frantic.

The list of irritants could go on indefinitely but a few of the most common ones are: nail polish, all kinds of eye makeup, harsh shampoos and soaps, wave sets and hair lacquers, hair dyes and the usual base makeup, powder rouge and lipstick.

The best policy, if you suddenly start having blemishes that sting or burn on your face or neck is to get in touch with your family doctor. Upon examining you, he will probably prescribe something to give you relief from your discomfort. If he thinks your trouble is bad enough, he will most likely put you in touch with a dermatologist.

A most peculiar aspect of this type of skin trouble is that you can suddenly become allergic to some cosmetic you have been using for years.

It has been found, fairly recently, that allergies are one of the causes of acne. The sad part of this is that an acne victim will usually pile on a great deal of make-up in an effort to hide the eruptions on her face and neck. Whether her trouble is caused from a cosmetic allergy, a food allergy or a glandular imbalance, this is the worst possible thing she could do.

How To Figure Dog's Age In Human Terms

The old theory that one year in a dog's life is equivalent to seven years in the life of a human being has been abandoned, states a dog research center in New York. The new principle is that a puppy of six months corresponds in development to a child of ten years. At one year, a dog's age compares to 15 years in a human being. Beyond two years of age the dog's maturity rate slows, each year being the equivalent of four years in man.

Counting twenty-four "man years" for the first two "dog years" and adding four man years for each additional dog year, a 10-year-old dog would be comparable to a 56-year-old human being. At 16 years of age a dog is as old as the human octogenarian, and, adds the Center, if your dog lives to the ripe old age of 21, his age is comparable to a human being 100 years old.

Milk can be frozen, and it might be a good idea to freeze a few quarts before taking an extended trip so that you have some on hand when you return.

Storage time for pasteurized milk can be up to six months. Freeze the milk in any type of container, but allow one inch for expansion. For everyday use, freezing is not practical because of its bulk, but for emergencies it is helpful.

A supply of a baby's formula can be made and frozen. Again, this requires much storage space, but solves the problem when someone else is taking care of the baby. Put the formula in sterilized jars. Removed from the freezer and placed in the refrigerator thaws overnight.

Keep Swedish Delicacy on Hand for Coffee-Time Treats

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

FRIENDS of ours just back from Sweden, report on a wonderful soft spice cake they ate there.

"The aroma was familiar; spicy, like American gingerbread, but the 'face' was different. Instead of a flat square, there was a high and handsome cake which had been baked in a tube pan (the kind we use for fancy gelatin desserts).

"The cake wasn't frosted as ours usually are, but it didn't need finishing with frosting. Lining the buttered pan with fine dry cake crumbs made it come out beautifully smooth and pretty.

"The Swedish people call our American cakes frosting cakes. They're a little sweet for their tastes."

As the cake slices fell, we could see chips of candied orange peel and citron. "We put those in especially for the holidays," said our hostess, "and the rest of the year, we serve the cake plain.

"It's so quick to stir up, and keeps so well that most people always have it on hand to serve when friends drop in for coffee."

Home economists of the Pillsbury Test Kitchens adapted this recipe for us. They lined the pan with chopped nuts instead of cake crumbs, believing the flavor and texture of nuts would appeal more to American tastes than a plain crumb finish.

Good Soft Spice Cake

(God Mjuk Pepparkaka—Pronounced God Meyook Pepper-Kaka)
Melt 1/2 cup butter or margarine; cool. Sift together 1 1/2 cups enriched flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ground cardamom, 1 teaspoon clove, 1 teaspoon ginger.

Beat 3 eggs with 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar until very thick. Stir in 3 tablespoons finely chopped citron, 3 tablespoons finely chopped candied orange peel, 1/2 cup blanched almonds, chopped, fine, and half of the dry ingredients. Mix well.

Blend in 1/2 cup light cream. Add the remaining dry ingredients; mix well. Add the cooled, melted butter; stir just until blended.

Soft Swedish Spice Cake, served with coffee, is a treat that's welcome at any hour of the day or evening.

Turn into 9- or 10-inch tube pan which has been generously greased and coated with finely-chopped almonds or other nuts.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Cool in pan 15 minutes; invert on wire rack. Serve warm or cool.

Note: If desired, cake may be baked in 9x3x3-inch bread pan. Citron and candied orange peel may be omitted, if desired.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

Cooking with heat is not the only way to break down food to make it digestible. An electric blender cooks by breaking down food mechanically.

For example, it will grind coffee, make powdered sugar from granulated sugar, chop batters, whip cream or chop nuts. It also blends, mixes, grinds, pulverizes and shreds.

All of this saves time and energy and will help you keep cool during these hot days while you prepare a meal.

This new type of cooking will enable you to use raw food in your diet in a way you have never been able to before. Vegetable soup made in a blender is easy, quick and contains a far higher vitamin count than the conventional type that is cooked for several hours.

It is a perfect way to prepare baby food and food for ailment. The food is cooked first with heat and then blended. Delicious summer fruit drinks, different from any you've had, can be made in a blender. The whole fruit may be used, if desired.

It will be well worth your time to investigate the workings of a blender, and even, if you already own one, you should try some of the new recipes.

Factual News About The Eyes

Eyeglasses can do their best job only if they get good treatment, says the Better Vision Institute. So make sure that yours are always kept in top condition.

Wash them frequently in warm, soapy water, and polish them with a clean handkerchief or tissue. In setting them down, let them rest on the sidepieces, so the lenses won't be scratched. Whenever your glasses get loosened up too much—as they probably will every few months—ask your specialist to readjust the frames, for it's important to have them held securely in perfect alignment.

Remember, a tremendous amount of scientific effort and skill went into those wonderful little visual aids, the Institute admonishes. It will pay you to give them good care until their frames go out of style or until your changing eyesight demands a change of lenses.

It will be well worth your time to investigate the workings of a blender, and even, if you already own one, you should try some of the new recipes.

A visitor to this fabled Blue Grass region finds that horses hereabouts live better than most people. Not that anybody minds, for these are racing thoroughbreds on their home ground—and it's a friendly, fascinating ground at that.

Many of the fine horse farms in the neighborhood around Lexington welcome visitors. Those who spend a leisurely afternoon or an entire day are in for a rare treat. Nor is it necessary to be a horse fancier from away back to enjoy the experience.

For one thing, the landscape is hard to match. The expression "Blue Grass" is really a misnomer, because the grass is an intense green. The roads are lined with freshly painted fences, beyond which horses roam at their luxurious ease.

At outstanding farms like Almahurst, south of Lexington on Route 68, horse barns are built, painted and landscaped as attractively as most private homes. Inside the barns are as clean as a meticulous housewife's kitchen and even the brushes that are used on the horses are given a thorough daily soaking.

Anybody who has read the sports pages, even casually, has some acquaintance with such well known thoroughbred farms as Calumet, Coldstream, Elmendorf, Greentree, Faraway and Spendthrift. Most of these and many others keep the front gate open, usually between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., though some are closed Sundays.

Greentree Farm, which Jock Whitney and his thoroughbreds call home, is one of the most popular farms for visitors. Just driving over more than a thousand acres of pastureland is a refreshing and restful diversion from the open road, to say nothing of visiting the barns and meeting some of the great winners of the past—and no doubt the future.

The groomers are friendly and if you don't know the racing records of their favorites when you arrive they'll be sure you do before you leave. "Windy" Alexander, chief groom at Greentree's stud barn, for example, earned his name in twenty-five years of handling champions, and telling about them, too.

Currently his stable is occupied by such great horses as Shut Out, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1942, One-Hitter, Capot, Bimelich and Tom Fool. Remember those names? They thrilled the fans at tracks all over the country several years ago. Tom Fool is the latest to join this stable; he won everything in sight, was retired when his handicap was raised to 142 pounds. His stud fee: $5,000.

Faraway Farm is one of the most visited of Kentucky farms, as the site of the famed bronze statue standing over the grave of history's great racing champion.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Most museums welcome camera carriers, and you'll have an opportunity for many interesting snapshots such as this of the young woman admiring the cigar store Indian.

Give Your Flash Attachment a Vacation

THE title of today's column means exactly what it says. It doesn't mean you should stop using flash for awhile.

It says give your flash a respite from the daily routine, a change of scenery, when you do the same for yourself. In other words, take it along when you go on vacation.

All your vacation time isn't spent outdoors, any more than your daily life is. So, your picture record just can't be complete if you rely on the sun to light all your snapshots.

There are bound to be a wide variety of indoor scenes and activities well worth remembering—and, therefore, well worth a picture. Museums, for example, may offer a rare opportunity for you to picture objects of special interest and, in a sense, take home with you something you couldn't possibly have in your own home.

Don't forget that your flash attachment can be useful outdoors, can reach into spots that the sun can't touch, can substitute nicely on comparative close-up outdoor shots when the sun stubbornly refuses to shine.

Have a supply of both blue and the usual clear flash bulbs with you if you use color film. The color film you use outdoors can go indoors with ease, if you use a blue flash bulb to simulate daylight.

But, remember, give your flash attachment a chance to enlarge your vacation picture record.

Bible Comment:

We Owe Much to St. Matthew

THE Gospel by St. Matthew, the first in our New Testament, is distinctive in that it offers much that is lacking in the other three Gospels, and in the consolidated and well-arranged way in which it presents the teaching of Jesus.

It is doubtful, for instance, that the passage that we call "The Sermon on the Mount" in Matthew was all delivered at one sitting, though St. Matthew opens it with Jesus going up to the mountain, and closes it with Him coming down.

The same teachings in Luke's Gospel are in a different setting and are not all in one passage.

As presented by Matthew, the collected sayings of Jesus become a charter of Christian faith and practice, the constitution of the Kingdom which Jesus proclaimed. It is here that Matthew's Gospel excels, as Luke's excels in the Christmas story and in the wonderful recordings of the Parables of Jesus.

Another distinctive and important contribution of the Gospel by Matthew is the chapter of "Woes." How distinctive this is, and how much Matthew records, unmentioned by other writers, may be seen by comparing it with similar passages in Luke. This is important, for it emphasizes an aspect of Jesus and His ministry that is widely disregarded or neglected.

We think of Jesus as the gentle Christ, illustrating His truth concerning God's grace and the love of man to man with the simple, wonderful tales that we call the Parables.

It is a profound mistake to believe that Jesus was only a teacher, preacher and Saviour, with a Gospel only for individuals. His whole Gospel was social. It struck at the deepest motives in social conduct and social welfare.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Cigarette production in May was above the year-earlier month, the first time this had happened since last November. . . . Dragon's blood—really a vegetable resin used by photo-engravers—is more expensive since the Indochina truce. It comes from nearby Malaya. . . . Lumber output has been cut more than 40 percent by the Pacific Coast fir strike. . . . Machine tool orders in June topped those for May by 36 percent. . . . Soft coal production jumped 1,835,000 in the July 17 week as miners began returning from vacations.

There are people in every community who judge others by the size of their bank account; that gives us a pretty low rating.

Gossip spreads much faster than the truth; that's why there is so much talk of scandal and so little about really important matters.

Horses and Lexington have been good company for 150 years, since the days when the Jockey Club held its meetings at Ashland, the home of Henry Clay. It has two fine tracks: Keeneland, running in April and October, and the trotting track, where standard bred go through their paces in September. A horse show is held in July, when local society shows the latest in fashions.

But the show then, as throughout the year, belongs to the horses. As one racing enthusiast puts it, "People will just never replace horses that can run."

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Teaching by example is not confined to human beings alone. Most dumb animals learn by example too. Dog trainers have found that youngsters learn much quicker by watching older dogs at work. "Start him off with an older dog" is sound advice given many amateur trainers. This particularly applies to hounds, but it also applies to other sporting breeds.

Henry P. Davis, sporting dog editor of Sports Afield magazine, tells of one trainer who always sets an example for his pupils before beginning their training.

They are staked out and allowed to watch while he puts a finished retriever through his brush-up lessons. The trained dog is praised and rewarded at every step. Before long the young dogs, to whom the trainer has paid no attention whatever, begin to show eagerness to get into the game themselves.

They seem to catch on to what the trainer is trying to teach much quicker when given an opportunity to see another dog in action—and one being rewarded for good work. This trainer says "visual education" makes his work much less arduous. Many a young dog has been cured of gun shyness in the same way.

In almost every bird dog training establishment you can find a staid old pointer or setter that is the trainer's "right-hand man." Other breeds of dogs have been used in bird dog training, too.

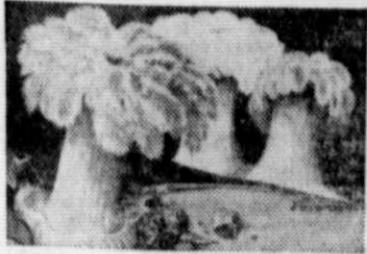

The late Charles Babcock put the talents of an old-fashioned shepherd named Pal to good use. The dog was his constant companion, trotting along beside his horse when on training workouts in the field, and he was always a big attraction at field trials.

Pal was trained to find a bolting dog and to "herd" him back to the trainer. If the dog refused to go he would give him a mild roughing up. If he still refused, Pal would bay, allowing Babcock to locate the miscreant through his barking. Pal was never allowed to engage in a severe fight, and after one roughing up, he usually had the situation under control. After a workout Babcock frequently returned a young dog to the kennel by coupling him to Pal's collar and ordering him to take his charge home.

Pal was finally barred from attending field trials because he trotted out of the gallery one day and pointed a covey of quail that a contending dog had previously pointed—and left!

LIFE'S MYSTERY

One of the mysteries of life to a school-age youngster will always be why he has to go to bed when he isn't sleepy and get up when he is.

PLUMOSE ANEMONE

The name anemone is applied to some plants as well as to some animals. Here we refer to some of the animals known as sea anemones of which there are approximately 1,000 known species. With such a number of kinds of sea anemones it is only natural that there will be considerable variation.

One of the commonest sea anemones found along the Atlantic Coast of North America is Metridium dianthus which has world-wide distribution around the Arctic region extending as far south as New Jersey and being most abundant and of largest size in the area between New Jersey and the Bay of Fundy. In that area it is found on piles, in tidal pools, among the rocks from low tide mark on to depths of 150 feet. On the West Coast this same species is found from Sitka south to Santa Barbara, California.

This sea anemone varies greatly in size. Normally those found by beach combers are at most only a few inches high or wide but one dredged from a depth of 50 fathoms off our Pacific Coast filled a 10-gallon crock. Usually there is a smooth velvety column about 4 inches high and 3 inches through. This is crowned with an expandable disc covered with a multitude of many waving tentacles. In large specimens the number of tentacles may be well over a thousand. When expanded the disc may look something like a chrysanthemum colored chocolate brown, streaked or blotched with brown or even white. When the animal is disturbed it quickly contracts the disc and seems to swallow itself since the tentacles all quickly disappear into the animal.

When an animal is being eaten by the sea anemone its fate may be sudden. When a hungry sea anemone is fed a chiton the flesh may all be consumed and the shell expelled within a period of 15 minutes. The animals have been kept active and healthy in aquaria for over a half century and there is no reason to believe that at the end of this period animals so kept could be considered decadent.

Sea anemones may reproduce by simply splitting longitudinally into two or more animals, by budding at the base, or by breaking off fragments of the base, or sexually. When reproducing sexually, eggs are fertilized by sperms. These fertilized eggs give rise to free-swimming larvae that move about and eventually settle down more or less permanently attached to some solid support. Some sea anemones attach themselves to the backs of crabs and thus get moved about increasing the area from which they may collect their own food. The crabs that carry these sea anemones get protection in return for their efforts since the sea anemones with their waving tentacles are able to injure attacking animals. The poison barb in a tentacle of a sea anemone is something that most animals learn to avoid no matter where the anemone may be found.

The graceful movement of the tentacle-bearing discs of sea anemones have appealed to motion picture photographers and some spectacularly beautiful motion pictures have been made of them.

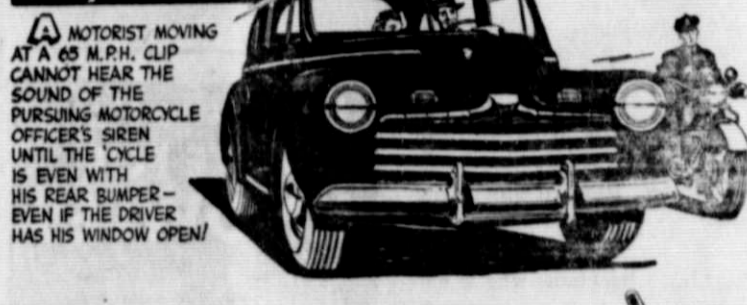

An understanding of the role of sea anemones in the general scheme of things is worth having.—E. Laurence Palmer.

Add Years To Life By Keeping Well

Science is making the world a safe place in which to live. The terrible plagues that once decimated the earth have been almost wiped out. During the Middle Ages millions died from a disease which swept over Europe and for want of a better name was called the "black death." Smallpox, cholera, and many communicable and contagious diseases have been almost driven from civilized communities.

Men no longer die in "droves" as they once did from strange, mysterious plagues that steal upon them unaware, and destroy them. But more are dying after the age of forty of chronic old age maladies than ever before. Since the mass destroying diseases have been controlled, the individual must wage his own battles. Many of them find it a losing fight, principally because they did not learn in youth to live the normal, biological life. They did not learn self-control.

The present mode of education does not teach self-sacrifice and obedience to parental authority, so why should the youngsters obey the laws of health? Their parents also signally fail in this respect, and the children have neither precept or example to follow.

The public generally has been given every opportunity for a liberal education, along the lines of healthful and biologic living. It is in youth that the foundation is laid for a long life of health and usefulness. If, through dissipation and infringement of nature's laws, the seeds of disease are implanted in the body in childhood and youth, they are almost sure to develop and bear fruit in middle-life and beyond.

Man can maintain his health and prolong his life by sound biologic living, but if chronic disease has begun its inroads in his system, he cannot fully repair the damage.

In days to come physicians will concern themselves more with the problems of keeping folks well than in patching them up after they are sick. If human beings understood the importance of keeping well, they would greatly modify their ideas concerning the duty of physicians and feel that when they were sick, it was an acknowledgment of their own failure to obey nature's laws.

In Fashion Now

Often the woman who works the hardest to be the "last word" in fashion ends up by being a somewhat over-dressed pathetic person. Not only this but she usually spends far too much money on clothes.

A smartly dressed woman does not wear full skirts just because the fashion designers have declared that full skirts are the thing to wear.

Find out what your most becoming lines are and stick to them. If you find you look good in the latest thing, wonderful. It will be fun to include one or two of these dresses in your new season's clothes.

This same rule applies to color. Just because one of the big fashion publications comes out saying, "Everything will be green this Fall," don't feel your blue dress is old hat. If green doesn't do anything for you, leave it alone.

Shoes that follow fashion to the letter are often most attractive. However, no matter how stylish a shoe is, if it is uncomfortable, the point is wasted. When your feet hurt, it shows in your face.

If big hats are the rage, by all means have one—if it is becoming. If you are a small person, it is very easy to become lost-looking under too large a hat. Watch this very closely.

The whole point of fashion is to make a person look her best and keep her ego boosted up. When a person allows fad-type fashion to defeat this goal—money, time and effort are being wasted.

COUNTRY PLAYERS

LES CARROLL

COUNTRY artists have been amazed during personal appearances at the many requests for gospel numbers, and this is being reflected in the number of sacred recordings being released.

Hank Snow's "My Religion's Not Old-Fashioned," and "The Alphabet," are moving gospel songs of the spiritual type. And Darrell Glenn gives a beautiful rendition of "Once and Only Once" (both Victor).

"Chapel of Memories" and "In the Chapel in the Moonlight," by Rex Allen, are two of his best numbers, and he sings them with deep feeling. Webb Pierce sounds great in "Bugle Call From Heaven" (both Decca).

A smooth and unusual duet by Mollie Anne and Slim is "Love You," featuring good trick harmony. Gene Autry has two fine releases in "20/20 Vision" and "I'm a Fool to Care" (all Columbia).

Elton Britt, one of country music's top yodelers, has an especially good recording, "Trailing Arbutus," in which he yodels a duet with himself. And Skeeter Bonn yodels well in "Honey

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK — Anyone who has been wondering just how the U. S. economy is doing can sit back with the comforting assurance that its state of health is "as good as can be expected."

After last year's "slump," "dip," "recession" or "readjustment"—whichever you prefer—1954's first six months did much to brighten the business picture. While no boom is in the offing, the makings of a gradual rise are apparent.

First reports reveal that, while sales of many companies still were heading downward, net profits were up, thanks to the ending of the excess profits tax last December 31 and cuts in operating costs. In many instances, companies that lost ground in the first three months regained it in the second quarter.

Steel production, as reliable a barometer as any of business health, is down to 64.5 per cent of rated capacity, but early model changes in the automobile industry are expected to give this industry a needed stimulant in September. Metals and machinery making are down, too.

Textiles are still weak, and building supplies are spotty despite a near-record housing boom, but aircrafts, chemicals, and foods are doing well. And department stores sales in recent weeks have been topping those of a year ago.

In the tangle of approaches toward solving the problems of making interstate highway freight pay its share of road construction and maintenance costs, one thing seems certain:

Individual states will continue to exercise their right to tax interstate trucking as they see fit, without interference from Washington. This recently became clear from two directions.

In one instance, the House Rules Committee decisively tabled a resolution calling for a House investigation of state taxes imposed on interstate trucks. The resolution was sponsored by Ohio Republican William H. Ayres, who charged that Ohio's refusal to exempt out-of-state trucks from its newly enacted axle-mile tax threatened a "breakdown of the voluntary system of (truck) tax reciprocity."

In the other instance, the annual Governors Conference, meeting at Bolton Landing, N. Y., upheld by resolution "the right of each state to devise its own tax system to meet its highway finance needs." Support for the right of the states to levy special highway-use taxes on interstate trucks was spearheaded by Governors Lausche of Ohio and Dewey of New York.

THINGS TO COME — Plastic collars and cuffs for milday that look like linen yet can be cleaned easily by sponging with soap and water... Lightweight building blocks of shale aggregate that use adhesive instead of sand-cement mortar... A detergent that dissolves readily in either hot or cold water... A harmless repellent to stop birds from roosting on window sills, spouting or roof tops... Dyed-in-the-wool fishermen can now get a portable automatic power kit that has gadgets to scale fish in a jiffy, sharpen hooks, polish tackle and clean reels... An applicator for painting sash, moulding and tight corners without contacting adjoining surfaces.

DING, DONG BELL — Merchandising frontiers are few and far between, but there's one that's just around the corner. It's the school market, says the merchandise manager of the country's largest pen maker.

Enrollment increases of 1,000,000 this year and 10,000,000 in the next 10 years mean new markets for every Main Street retailer, is his opinion. But, he warns, the kiddies will have to be "sold." And that means products designed with school-age appeal and sales techniques geared to the school market.

As for handwriting, he credits functional improvements in writing tools with enabling children in the early grades to use fountain pens, ballpoints and mechanical pencils. "The result is—and a majority of school principals agree—that students not only write better than those of a generation ago, but they learn handwriting more easily with fountain pens and ballpoints," he says.

HEAR, HEAR!—There was nothing wrong with the eyes of the hearing aid experts who chose Vivian Mathis, 22, as their "Miss Hearing Aid" during a convention in New York City. Herself suffering from impaired hearing most of her life, Vivian models a wrist-watch type of hearing aid, considers it just another portion of her costume as she does a watch or other jewelry.

HERE'S HOW . . .

For the children's room, or the summer camp, bunk beds are space savers, and are easy to make.

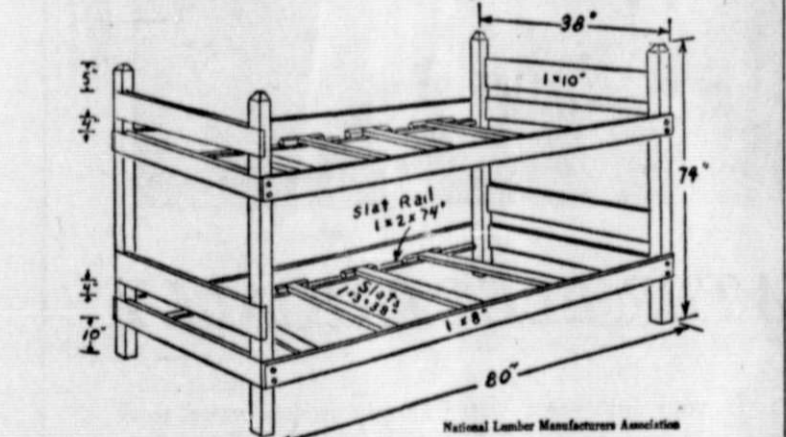

The bed posts are of 3 by 3-inch lumber, each 74 inches long. The dimensions below are easy to follow. The cuts for insertion of the head boards and end framing rails are 3/4-inch deep. Drill 1/4-inch holes for the bolts with which the side rails will be fastened later.

Bed-ends are assembled by gluing the head boards and end rails and securing them with No. 6, 1 1/2-inch wood screws, countersunk.

MAKE A BUNK BED

Side rails of 1 by 8-inch lumber, 80 inches long, are drilled to match the holes in the posts. To each side rail is added a slat-support rail, a strip of 1 by 2, 74 inches long, securely glued and screwed into place. Four pairs of glue blocks, placed 20 inches apart, provide 2 1/2-inch slots for the slats. The completed side rails are bolted to the bed-end assemblies. The 8 slats are 1 by 3-inch lumber, each 88 inches long.

All sharp edges should be rounded or beveled.
