

Chevs Lace West Bend, 85-63, Take Over Lakes Lead

The Kewaskum Chevs knocked West Bend out of a first place tie with them by handing the Lithias a decisive 85-63 defeat in the local gym Sunday night before a good sized crowd.

The Chevs went right to work on West Bend and outscored them 25-16 in the first quarter. Kewaskum then slipped a little in the second period and was outscored by one point, 14-13.

West Bend and Campbellsport will start the playoff for the first half title Saturday night on a neutral floor. The winner will then face Kewaskum for the championship.

Six foot, five inch George Hanrahan and Augie Bilgo were the mainstays for the winners with 24 and 23 points respectively.

Tennis and Hager fouled out of the game for the losers and Ramtrun did the same for the winners. Four other Kewaskum players and two from West Bend had four fouls.

2nd Place Indians Win Last Tilt; Best on Offense

Tri-County conference teams wrote fins to the 1954-55 basketball season by playing the final games last Friday evening. Kewaskum's second place Indians ended the campaign with an easy 65-44 victory over the North Fond du Lac Orioles on the home floor.

The Indians finished two games behind the conference champion, Brandon, and two tilts ahead of third place Rosendale. Brandon, which went undefeated throughout the season, was the only team to beat Kewaskum and they did it twice.

Kewaskum had very little trouble in notching their 10th win at the expense of North Fondy. The winners outscored the Orioles in every period but the third. They were ahead, 14-11, at the quarter and took a commanding 35-17 advantage at halftime by tallying 21 points in the second to Fondy's 6. Coasting in the third stanza, the Indians were out-pointed, 19-11, making the count, 49-26.

Scent May Not Be So Practical
Last year's bottles were emptying themselves and now, suddenly, there's a raft of wonderful new scents, Christmas gifts from the thoughtful and loving.

The instinct in most women is to hoard—to use up one bottle at a time and then turn to the next. Practically speaking, this is not sensible, says Betty Ann. For, by the time you get to the bottle earmarked for July, they're all evaporated.

Most fun and most scent saving is to work on all the bottles at once, keeping them tightly stoppered and away from light between uses, of course. But simple and find one that feels gay and lighthearted for evenings out. Find one that's tweedy or light for work. One real knockout one for evenings. One for evenings at home with company.

If you're really perfumes up, you may be able to find one that exactly sets off each of your dresses. By all means do.

Don't rely on one scent for all occasions. Exactly as you're a subtly different person when you're with different people, so should you wear a different scent.

Keep up the half hour a night of lying flat on your back and propping your legs high on the wall. This will reduce puffiness. If you're honest about doing it daily. Shave close and carefully with a steady hand. Do all this as preparation for wearing sheer hosiery.

While you're in the shower or bath, massage legs to keep them silky smooth. With the suds on, stroke legs upward with a quick, firm over and over motion. Knead deeply into the calves with the edges of your hands. Get the bristly nail brush after feet and heels. Wind up with a coat of greaseless lotion, perhaps a hand lotion, and a thorough pedicure.

White cotton gloves with seed pearls handing the cuff or scattered over the back in a pattern, look luxurious, wash readily, are spice for a dark winter coat or suit.

In introducing yourself to a person whom you think may not recall you it is helpful to place yourself in some such manner as, "We met at the George Jacksons" or "I'm with the Clark Co." Don't let the other person struggle to place you.

If you work in an office where desks are close together be sure you don't talk in such a loud or booming voice that it is difficult for those working near you to concentrate. On the other hand, don't talk as though you are trying not to be overheard, as that makes you seem secretive.

A normal speaking voice is the ticket.

A dazzling array of sugary delights can be made from this easy basic fondant. Blend two-thirds cup sweetened condensed milk with one teaspoon vanilla extract, then gradually mix in four cups sifted confectioners' sugar until smooth and creamy. Use to put halves of pecans or walnuts together sandwich fashion, or as a stuffing for dates or plump, tender prunes; or make into small balls and roll in chopped nuts, shredded coconut or grated chocolate, or flavor and color the fondant as desired and form into round, flat patties.

Sunday night supper is easy and fun if you have a pitcher of waffle batter ready, maple sirup and crisply cooked bacon on hand. Serve coffee or tea with the waffles and bring on a big bowl of fresh fruit, figs, dates and nuts for dessert.

Cherry Jewel

1 No. 303 can sweet light cherries; 1 No. 303 can grapefruit sections; ¾ cup canned cherry juice; ¾ cup canned grapefruit juice; 1 package lime flavored gelatin; ½ cup ginger ale; tangerine sections and fresh mint.

Drain juice from cherries and grapefruit sections. Combine the fruit juices and heat one cup of the juice. Add to the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add the rest of the fruit juices and ginger ale.

Pour just enough of the gelatin mixture into a one quart mold to cover the bottom. Arrange some of the cherries in the mold and chill until firm. Chill remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Add remaining cherries and grapefruit. Pour into mold. Chill remaining gelatin until slightly thickened. Add remaining cherries and grapefruit. Pour into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with tangerine sections and fresh mint. Serve with whipped cream for dessert or mayonnaise for salad. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Spices Add Interest to Favorite Upside Down Cake

Pineapple "grain shocks" give eye appeal to this upside down cake, spices add a wonderful aroma and the eating lives up to all this advance promotion. Evaporated milk mixed with pineapple juice gives rich moistness to this new version of the old favorite.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN SPICE CAKE

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 4 slices pineapple (No. 1 flat can)
- 1½ cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup soft butter
- ¼ cup evaporated milk mixed with

Melt the 2 tablespoons butter in an 8-inch square cake pan. Tip pan to allow butter to grease sides well. Spread the 1 cup brown sugar evenly in bottom of pan, then place pineapple on sugar. (Slices may be left whole or cut and placed in decorative pattern. Save pineapple juice for use in batter). Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spices. Add the 1 cup brown sugar and stir until dry ingredients are well blended. (If brown sugar is very lumpy, put it through a coarse sieve with the other dry ingredients, pressing out lumps when necessary). Beat egg. Add the ¼ cup soft butter, milk and pineapple juice. Bible Comment:

St. Paul's Sermon On Love Is Among the Finest

If we omit the sermons in the great parables of Jesus, perhaps the greatest of all Christian sermons is Saint Paul's discourse about love in the Thirteenth Chapter of I Corinthians.

It is a supreme example of brevity, preciseness and simplicity in the presentation of a sublime subject. The subject undoubtedly inspired in Paul the quality of his utterance; but if it were considered only for its style, apart from its theme, this chapter would be remarkable.

Although foreign writings often suffer in translation, the English translation of the original Greek has a balance and rhyme; a music that one can feel as he reads it aloud.

Concerning the matter of translation, it definitely does enter into consideration of this wonderful sermon. Perhaps a majority of today's Biblical authorities admit that for the "charity" of the Authorized King James Version we should substitute the word "love," as in the latest "Revised Standard Version."

The same thought apparently applies to the translations of Weymouth, Ballantine, Moulton and Goodspeed.

On the other side of the question, some authorities make much of the various and confusing meanings of the word "love," while maintaining that "charity" has a simple and clear reference.

However, to one who wants sincerely to put Paul's great sermon into his life, the choice of words won't matter.

In FASHION now

It is not the money you spend on clothes that counts but the way they are worn that makes a well-dressed woman.

A person should dress for her particular job in life. It may be a business job, or keeping house, or both. The costume you choose should be chosen for the time and place, he becoming to the wearer and well fitted.

Accessories should be used sparingly to improve the overall effect of your outfit. They should be used effectively without making you seem over-dressed. Strive for that fresh, immaculate look that comes with good grooming.

Know your type and stick to it through all kinds of fads and seasonal style changes. Age is a big consideration. Dress your age.

A color plan will help hold a wardrobe to a minimum and yet keep it versatile when necessary. Neutrals such as black, browns, grays and navy make fine basic colors for any wardrobe. The same accessories can be worn with only the accent color changed. This is done easily by adding a bright colored scarf or pair of gloves to various outfits. One splash of pattern is maximum for a wearing.

A good foundation is essential. It should be comfortable and at the same time do something for your figure. The bust must be uplifted, stomach and derriere flattened and the waist defined.

Give special attention to shoulder seams. They should be flush with the shoulder edge. Through the bust the fit should be easy. The waist must indent at the normal waist line. A skirt should never cup under derriere or ride up. The hemline should be the most becoming length for your figure.

The long-torso look seems to be the most outstanding single fashion note for the coming spring. It is being adapted to both suits and one-piece dresses. The bodice extends to the neckline and the skirt is usually pleated or gathered below.

The dress may have a bell or cuff-type trim at the hips but no belt at the waist. However, there is no sad-sack look usually associated with this line because the bodice fits the body like the paper on a wall.

The covered-up look is going to be popular in all type of clothes. Bathing suits of this design offer something entirely new and quite attractive.

Beads and bangles are still important in the jewelry department. Earrings for evening are longer and more dazzling than ever before.

Corset and bra manufacturers are busy designing for the long-torso look. It is said this line requires special attention in the undergarment department.

The Dior flat-look has been completely forgotten in favor of the natural feminine look.

Decorator's Notebook

The winter furniture markets are filled with new furniture ideas that are sure to set the home-conscious homemaker's head whirling. These markets are the big industry style shows held in Chicago, Ill., Grand Rapids, Mich., High Point, N. C., New York, N. Y., and Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif.

This Captain's Sea Bunk is a typical example of new furniture that combines beauty and function. For the homemaker, storage space is always a problem. Notice that this bunk-bed has three spacious storage drawers in the base. There will be no difficulty in making this bed either; the base is set on easy rolling casters. This bed is part of a new grouping of solid maple Early American furniture. It is perfect for the children's room, whether they are tots or teen-agers.

This is only one of the many really new items of furniture. The year 1955 will give the homemaker the greatest variety of styles in furniture that she has ever seen.

Style highlights are the use of more leather as trim and as upholstery, and more metallic fabrics. Wood finishes lean toward the brown tones. Colored finishes too, are seen on everything from chairs to entire groupings. Styles and designs run the gamut to suit the particular taste of the homemaker.

Geographic Oddities and Briefs

The SS United States, speed queen of the Atlantic, is fireproofed to an unprecedented degree. Wood is used only in her pianos and butchers' chopping blocks. More aluminum went into her construction than into any other single structure on land or sea, says the National Geographic Society.

Natives of African Uganda regard milk as a truly royal beverage, the National Geographic Society says. Milkmaids chosen at an early age tend cows owned by the king. Europeans seldom are permitted to see the milkings, and the milk must always be borne to the royal house with great ceremony.

The Principality of Liechtenstein, one of Europe's six smallest nations, has been a sovereign state since 1342. Poised in the Alps between Switzerland and Austria, Liechtenstein covers 61 square miles—about the size of the District of Columbia.

Two out of three of the world's radio hams are Americans, the National Geographic Society says. Only about one in 50 is a woman.

On five treeless, fog-bound islands in Bering Sea, the Pribilofs, the largest assemblage of wild animals to be seen anywhere on earth gathers each year. Approximately a million and a half fur seals jam the lonely dots of land in breeding season, the National Geographic Society says. More than 100,000 come ashore on a single mile of beach.

Two pyramids in North America occupy a larger ground area than the largest pyramids of ancient Egypt, but they are not as high. One, covering three and a half times the area of the Pyramid of Cheops at El Giza, stands at Cholula in Mexico's state of Puebla. The other, Chahokia Mound, rises in the suburbs of East St. Louis, Illinois.

Korean printers cast bronze

Reptiles of the desert's scorched wasteland instinctively hunt shade for a midday siesta. Experiments prove that the rays of the southern California sun can kill a sidewinder rattler in nine minutes, says the National Geographic Society. Thus desert snakes seek their prey during the cooler hours between dusk and dawn.

Factual News About The Eyes

BE A PRIVATE EYE FOR YOUR EYES

The average person knows very little about his own eyesight and would find it interesting as well as profitable to learn more, says the Better Vision Institute.

For example, many people are ignorant of the importance of side vision: A normal person sees nearly 180 degrees (a half circle) to right and left while he fixes his gaze straight ahead. Anyone with a much smaller field of vision is bound to find it more difficult, if not impossible, to carry on certain activities—such as driving a car—with safety and efficiency.

A simple test will tell you roughly how wide your field of vision is. Hold your left hand at arm's length, palm up, and fasten your eyes upon it; then take a piece of paper in your right hand, stretch it out to the side, and bring it slowly around toward your left hand, noting when you first see the paper. This should be when your two arms form an angle of almost 90 degrees. If you switch hands and bring the paper around from the left side, you'll find out how good the side vision of your left eye is. Lowering the paper from above and raising it from below will show you that we humans are much more restricted in marginal vision up and down than to the side. The entire visual field of a normal eye resembles the shape of an egg, and the visual fields of a pair of eyes overlap.

Senate Assignments Upset Old Tradition

Senate Democrats recently upset tradition by giving three Senators elected in November choice Senate committee assignments. The three were Senators Barkley, Kentucky; Morse, Oregon; and O'Mahoney of Wyoming. Barkley and O'Mahoney are Democrats. Morse, a former Republican is expected to run as a Democrat in his next campaign.

Barkley, the former Vice President, was given two excellent committee memberships, Foreign Relations and Finance. Although the former Veep must start at the bottom, in seniority, on these committees, he nevertheless becomes a member of very important committees.

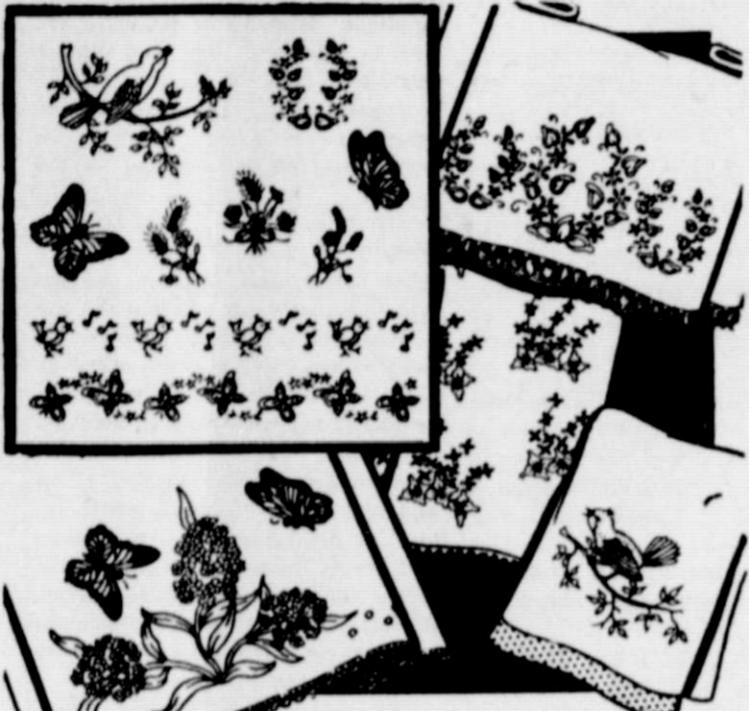

Morse, of Oregon, was given two equally fine assignments, and a third. The Oregon Independent was placed on the Foreign Relations Committee and the powerful Banking and Currency Committee. In addition, he was made a member of the District of Columbia Committee.

O'Mahoney, who won his seat back in Wyoming last November, and who had attained high prominence in the Senate before his defeat some time back, was honored by membership on the Interior and Insular Affairs and Judiciary Committees.

The departure from tradition, in the cases of these three men, was justified. Membership on Senate committees depends upon seniority in two ways. In the first place, only Senators with some priority (seniority) get on the choice committees. Thus freshmen Senators rarely get on a really top committee.

In the second place, once the Senator finally gets on a choice committee, he must work his way up to the top by seniority. He starts out on the bottom rung of the ladder and if he lives long enough, and stays in office long enough, he might become chairman—if his party is in power at the right time.

Health & Beauty

Young children put almost everything in their mouths as they begin teething. This is a natural tendency and is nothing to become alarmed about. There is one thing to be remembered, however, that can prove most harmful, even fatal, and that is—lead poisoning.

Most manufacturers of cribs, infant's beds and toys use paints which contain no lead pigments. This is not protection enough. Children chew on window sills, chairs, all kinds of odd furnishings. It is the mother's job to watch this closely and put a stop to it before harm is done.

Lead poisoning affects the child's brain, liver, blood, bones and most of the other vital organs. Even if your child's life is saved, he may show effects of mental deterioration afterwards. If you suspect your child has lead poisoning, call a doctor at once and explain the situation to him. He will respond at once. He will probably give him plenty of epsom salts and milk. He will cause him to vomit also.

Make sure that all toys, cribs and furniture are painted with lead-free enamel. This simple precaution could save your child's life.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Oblivious to the general opinion that it isn't even a sport, a contented army of Americans fishes for crabs, oysters and other shellfish. All they get out of it is a lot of fun—and some of the best eating the waters of our continent provide. Let's take a look at just two, crabs and crawfish.

CRABS — Although several edible crabs exist on the East and West Coasts, the No. 1 favorite is the blue crab which is found from southern New England down Florida and all around the Gulf Coast. When the tide goes out, you'll find hand netters near the channels and weeded patches in the bays. The crabs are exposed in the shallows and are simply dipped out with a net which has a handle of six feet or so. On the West Coast the Dungeness crab takes the place of the blue crab as the one most likely to be caught as recreation.

The old-time crab trap is still used in some places. The other amateur method of catching crabs is to lower a bait on a line which is attached to a pole, as a rule. When it is drawn up, the crabs cling to the bait, and if you're lucky you hand net them at the surface.

In an article on shellfish which recently appeared in Sports Afield magazine, Bill Wolf explains that crab baits lean toward the smelly type because crabs are scavengers. A rich, ripe piece of menhaden (mosbunker or fatback, as it is known in some sections) is good. Professional crabbers use horse meat which has been salted and set in the sun for awhile.

CRAWFISH — Call these crawfish, crayfish, crawdads or mudbugs, they are appreciated only in the Mississippi Delta country. That is the rest of the nation's loss. The crawfish (which is almost strictly a fresh-water crustacean and is not to be confused with the salt-water crawfish known as the spiny, or rock lobster, even to its claws. It is familiar to bass and trout fishermen and a good bait, in its smaller sizes, and is considered a nuisance by everyone who fishes bait on the bottom. It will cling to the bait, eating it even when drawn from the water. In fact, that's one of the simplest ways that you can catch crawfish.

This simplest method consists of taking a piece of string tied to a pole, and baiting with a chunk of meat. The more professional method consists of using a square of net with four wires coming up from the corners. Place the meat bait in the center, lower the trap to the bottom and later collect it by pushing a stick through the wires.

A THIRD hand is mighty helpful when putting up 4 x 8 ceiling panels. The illustrated home-built device solves the problem. It's suggested by Family Handyman.

The magazine says only an hour's time is needed to make the hoist. Materials needed are four 4' lengths of 1 x 4-inch stock, two 2 x 3's each 5' long, scrap 1 x 4-inch stock for the "box," 9 angle irons, 4 casters and a C-clamp. The casters permit easy moving of the hoist to the spot required.

The hoist puts the panel in place and holds it there while being nailed.

MUTE GIRL MAKES FRIENDS

Louisville, Ky.—Delores Schneider, an eight-year-old deaf mute, solved the problem of making friends and playing with other children, when her family moved into a new neighborhood — by teaching the children the sign language. There's hardly a child of her age in the neighborhood who can't hold his own two-handed conversation.

FLORIDA'S NEW ATTRACTIONS

Along with its principal attributes of warm sun and sandy beaches, Florida, year after year has added new and worthy sight-seeing attractions to its tourist fare.

Now, reports the AAA, it is possible on a visit to Florida to have a close-up look at anything from alligator wrestling to water skiing, from big league baseball in winter quarters to the Ringling Brothers Circus.

Among the newest attractions are three antique automobile museums and two points of religious interest, one of them a huge mosaic of Da Vinci's "Last Supper," and the other the winter performances of the Black Hills Passion Play.

Best known of the antique car collections is James Melton's Autorama at Hypoluxo, just south of Palm Beach. The well known singer, who is an avid old car enthusiast, moved 75 antique cars last year, from Norwalk, Connecticut, to their new location.

Melton's museum is on Route 1, along the principal artery to heavily visited south Florida. The grounds of the Autorama also face the inland waterway, so that visitors can approach it by boat as well as by car. His collection, in addition to the old cars, includes antique auto emblems and horns and sheet music associated with motoring.

Newest of the three antique cars museums is the Carriage Cavalcade at Silver Springs, with cars dating from the 1899 Locomobile Steamer down through the teens and 30's. These include a 1901 Pierce Motorette, one of the first great cars of the Pierce line; a 1908 Stanley Steamer, and a 1914 Stutz Bearcat, built the year that fabled car was at its peak.

The Carriage Cavalcade also includes a variety of early horse drawn vehicles from a one-horse shay to a Concord Thoroughbred and a Parisian victoria.

The third museum, Horn's "Cars of Yesterday," is located a mile north of Sarasota, opposite the Ringling Brothers Museum. It is operated by Herbert and Robert Horn, farm equipment manufacturers of Fort Dodge, Ia., who started collecting old cars six years ago; they now own more than 100, with 65 on display at Sarasota.

Their museum is housed in a huge $100,000 "Gay Nineties" building, in which an entire block is recreated—the blacksmith, cycle shop, music store and livery stable, along with the cars of the early days.

Both the winter home of the Passion Play and the "Last Supper" mosaic, are at Lake Wales, near the already popular Cypress Gardens and Singing Tower. And both these religious attractions had their beginnings in Europe.

The mosaic is called "The Great Masterpiece" and was brought here from abroad after the war. It is 12 feet by 24 feet, consisting of more than 300,000 stones in 10,000 different color shades. Presentations with narration are given every half hour.

In the Da Vinci Memorial Gallery on the grounds nearby there are reproductions of this Italian master's most famous paintings and working models of his inventions, far in advance of his time.

A mile and half east of Lake Wales the Passion Play, which is shown each summer at Spearfish, South Dakota, is given in an outdoor amphitheatre in winter. This, one of Europe's older productions, was presented for the first time in America in 1932. It is now a permanent fixture on the dramatic scene, starring Josef Meier and a cast of 250 in a portrayal of the life of Christ.

Here's the Answer

Way To Increase The Game Supply

In several states in the United States game and conservation departments have inaugurated programs in recent years which increase the supply of game. One of the methods which at least one state (Florida) has employed is designed to take advantage of the huge timber preserves of major private industries.

These private industries, such as paper manufacturers, often have many thousands of acres of timber lands in many of the states. On these thousands of acres, the paper companies must often take measures to prevent trespassing.

In most instances, the big paper companies would not mind hunters using the acreage but the danger of forest fires is great and hunters, being like everyone else—sometimes careless—the timber companies have often found it necessary to keep all trespassers off their lands to protect their growing timber. After all, that is the private companies' prerogative and it is a logical step.

In Florida, state game and conservation officials have entered into agreements with large companies holding huge tracts of timber land and agreed to patrol the land for the private companies. This prevents fires from destroying timber, and removes a financial burden and a responsibility from the shoulders of the private companies.

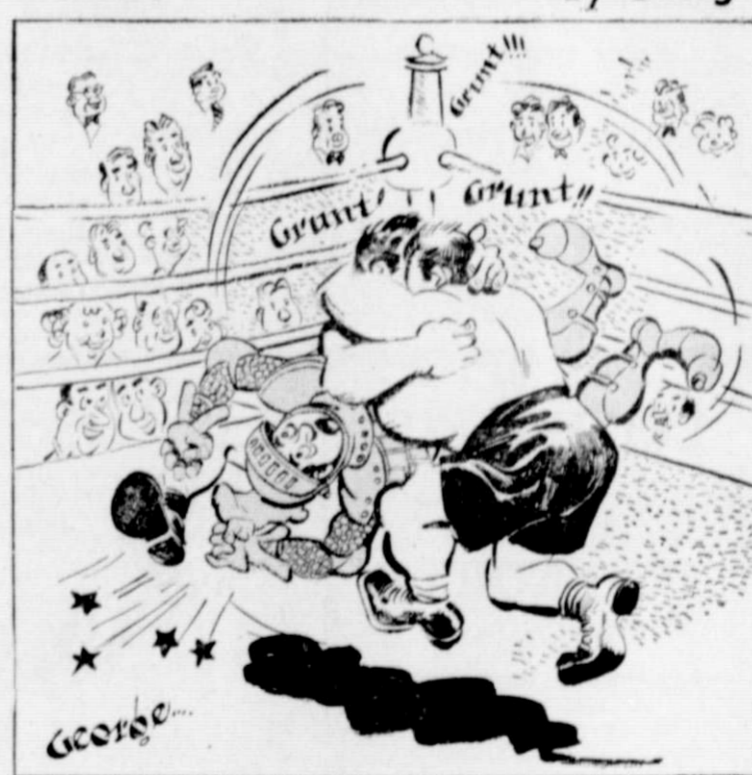

In return, the private companies give state officials the right to set out game to increase the supply and to supervise hunting on such lands. State officials allow hunters to hunt on the lands, at certain times, and all hunters are treated equally. It is a case of first come, first served.

We suggest this method to other state game and conservation agencies which are not now taking advantage of it, and who have many thousands of acres of timberlands tied up by big companies. In this way hunting acreage and the propagation of wild life is tremendously increased and, therefore, birds and other game in limited land always open to hunters are not killed down to the last living specimen.

HERE'S HOW...

BUILD A SINK CABINET

A cabinet beneath the sink improves the appearance of the room and provides handy storage space. Since the size of the cabinet depends upon the size of the sink, the craftsman will have to develop the over-all dimensions. The basic frame shown here gives him the outline of the job. Lumber needed is as follows: for (A) use 2-by-2-inch stock; for (B) use 2-by-6-inch stock; and for (C) and other frame members use 2-by-4-inch stock. Panels (E) and doors are of 1-by-12-inch lumber or of hardwood plywood. The frame is made away from the sink. Then slide into place and fasten to the wall and to the floor.

National Lumber Manufacturers Association

Behind The Scenes in American Business

By Reynolds Knight

One of the important economic sounding boards heard from at this time of year is the annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. This is true because, while most of the time it's the major merchandising units that get their opinions aired, when retailers big and little from all over the country utter their voices the chorus does manage to make itself heard.

These men aren't in the position of the great industrial units which have assets so great that their plans can overlook or override an occasional error in future planning. The retailer can't make his community prosper or flounder; he can't move away; he must take what he finds and somehow extract a profit from it.

Hence it is significant that these men reached a consensus of "five per cent better" for 1955 over 1954. Nor were they simply talking optimism to cheer each other up. During and since the meeting, New York has been simply crammed with buyers. Everyone anyone has ever seen on Seventh Avenue is in town. Some of them, still hurting a little from the adverse fall season when the weather was wrong so much of the time, are buying hand-to-mouth, but even those are earnestly lining up resources so they can get in a hurry the merchandise they believe they will sell.

NEW JET PHOTO PLANE—A striking advance in the science of aerial reconnaissance — making pictures of target areas for combat commanders use—was registered this month. The Air Force took delivery of the first modern photo-reconnaissance fighter plane specifically developed for this purpose.

The plane was designed and built after Air Force commanders in the Korean war frequently noted that fighters converted in the field into reconnaissance craft came home with inferior or unusable pictures, cutting down the United Nations' air superiority. The official announcement of first deliveries to Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina said of the plane: "It makes available a jet-powered craft with the speed, maneuverability and photo equipment necessary to obtain and bring home the vital pictures of enemy areas without which no campaign can be planned or executed with utmost effectiveness."

The plane, called the Thunderflash by its builder, is officially the RF-84F, a swept-wing, single-jet plane, it functions day or night, at any altitude, and goes "more than 650 miles an hour." Four, 50-caliber machine guns help it get home with its pictures if enemy planes interfere.

THINGS TO COME—A snack tray for television lookers has two spring-actuated grippers which hold it firmly to a chair-arm of almost any size. A portable one-burner gas stove for campers, cooks 15 meals on one filling of propane gas. A new game is supposed to teach small children, playing store, to keep within their budgets. Automobile drivers whose right legs get tired on long trips can now buy sponge-rubber supports for them.

COSTLIER METALS — Higher prices have been posted in primary markets in the last two weeks for aluminum, one of the two light metals most important to the continuing construction boom—and fabricators are wondering if copper can be far behind.

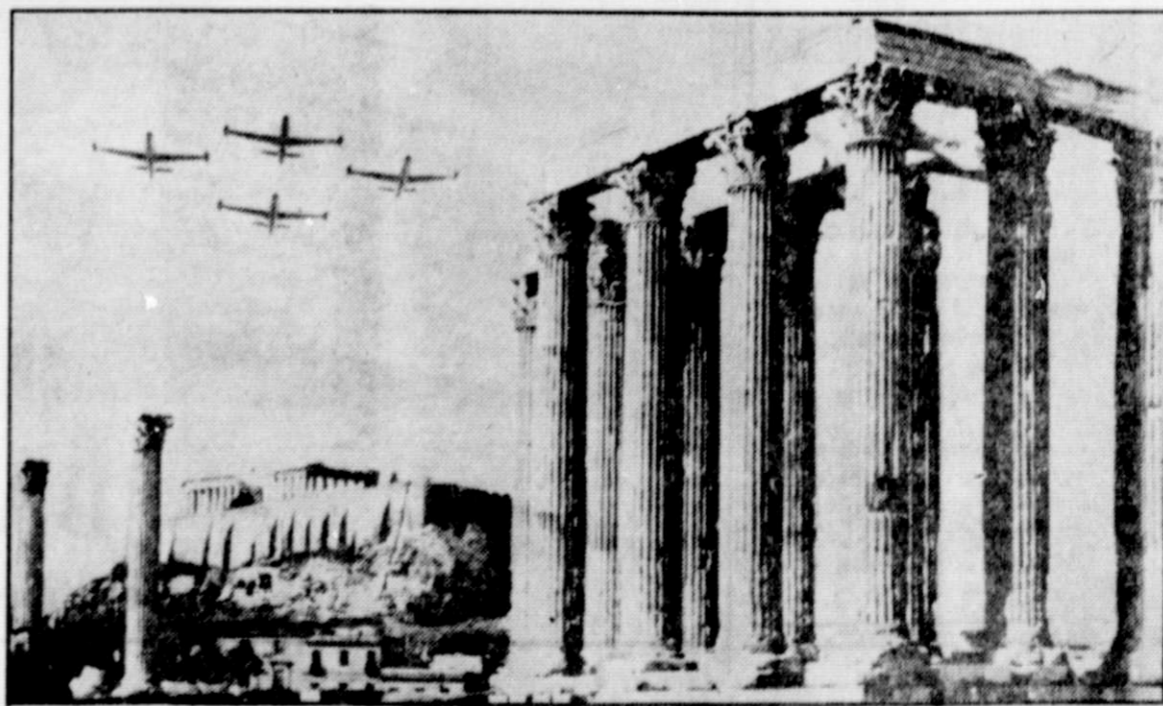

Labor costs have been rising in aluminum smelters, and demand has been strong. Pig aluminum has gone up to 21.5 cents a pound. Ingots are 23.2 cents. Both prices are roughly a cent a pound higher than December quotations.

Copper prices remain at the 30-cent level first quoted in April, 1953. However, custom smelters report sources of scrap are beginning to hoard the metal, and Chile has begun shipping to Europe, where the price is 36 cents, some of the copper which used to come to this country.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Interest rates on short-term commercial loans were raised twice in a week in the New York market. More dwellings were started last month than in any other December in the nation's history. Steel production topped 2 million tons in the January 15 week, for the first time since November, 1953.

YOUNG CIGAR-SMOKER

Boston, Mass. — John J. Connelly, Juvenile Court judge, recently saw a little boy, sitting in a doorway, puffing on a cigar. He casually asked, "Son, why aren't you in school?" The little boy took the cigar out of his mouth and replied, "Mister, I'm too young to go to school."

TWO WORLDS' WONDERS—Pillars of the Acropolis at Athens, Greece, architectural remnant of the might of an ancient civilization, rise as if in salute to a wonder of the 20th Century, a flight of sleek American-built jet fighters. They belong to the Greek Air Force; were delivered under the U. S. Military Aid Program.

Buy Field Seed Early Is Advice to Farmers

For 1955 the total supply of 26 important legume and grass seeds is about 14 per cent less than last year and a tenth below the 1943-52 average.

Of the one billion pounds of these about 700 million are those most likely to be sown in the spring, and this is only 7 per cent less than last year and nearly equal to the 10-year average.

Hot, dry weather in many seed-producing sections reduced the harvest, but fortunately elsewhere yields were above average. Because of generally favorable weather for harvesting, the quality of the 1954 seed crops is fairly good to good.

Current prices of 11 out of 18 seeds in this spring-sown group are higher than a year ago and than average, and 7 are lower. If the domestic disappearance of 5 or 6 of these seeds in 1954-55 is equal to that of the preceding season, and there are not sufficient imports to supplement the present supply, there will not be enough to meet the demand.

To make matters worse, European countries are now importers of field seeds instead of exporters because of their very unfavorable weather for seed production in 1954. The current level of imports, about the same as last year, does not reflect the short supplies of seeds in Europe, as Canada has been contributing most of the imports into the United States.

Weather in Canada likewise was unfavorable for a number of seed crops, especially alfalfa, red clover, sweetclover and smooth bromegrass, the 1954 production of which is much below average.

Because of the severe drought last summer and fall in the United States, thousands of acres will have to be resown to legumes and grasses. Furthermore, many acres that normally would be sown to wheat, corn and other crops which have been in surplus supply, are expected to be sown to legumes and grasses in order to provide forage for livestock.

These factors, together with general economic conditions, point to a larger disappearance or consumption of seeds during the 1954-55 season. But the higher level of seed prices and smaller supplies of a number of seeds than in 1953 may tend to decrease the utilization of seeds for hay and pasture.

*1954 production plus carry-over June 30, 1954. Imports are not included in above comparisons. The imports of over 5 million pounds of timothy from Canada up to Dec. 1 are very large even though only 70% of last year for the same period; those of Kentucky bluegrass are over 4 times those of last year to date; those of alsike clover are 2 1/2 times last year; but those of red clover are only 1/6 of last year; and those of red fescue are an eighth less than last year.

Inasmuch as supplies of many seeds are smaller than usual and cannot be increased much, if at all, by foreseeable imports during the next few months and also because the trend in seed prices has been upward since last fall, it would seem prudent for those needing seed to make their purchases as soon as possible. This applies particularly to red clover, white clover, lespedeza, redtop and orchardgrass, supplies of which are much below average.

BOWLING PAINS LIABLE TO SPOIL GOOD SPORT

Bowling is one of America's greatest winter recreational activities. It is a good, healthful sport. To the beginner, however, bowling is a one-sided exercise as he has not learned to coordinate all of the muscles of his body into the delivery of the ball, and consequently strains muscles and injures ligaments. With this he is liable to misalign the hips or vertebrae which would result in pain and soreness. Sometimes a veteran bowler slips or loses his footing and a like injury can result. These conditions, unless attended to, can become quite troublesome.
 Bowl for health's sake, but don't let "bowling pains" spoil the sport for you this winter. Most cases can be remedied by Chiropractic adjustment.

Office of Naval Research, which recently released this picture at Los Angeles, Calif., says that the round radarscope in bed of panel and semicircular plate resembling a windshield represent flat television tubes which will provide pilot with all operational data he'll need. In-flight test of the system is expected to occur in about three years.

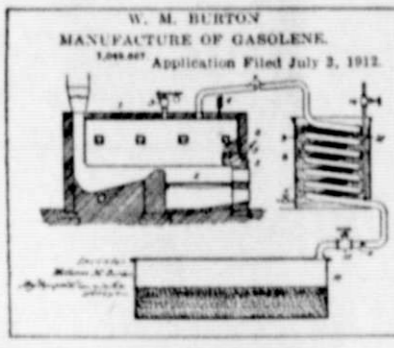

INVENTIONS that serve you

The expansion of America's automotive industry was greatly accelerated in 1913 with the invention of the cracking process to obtain gasoline from crude petroleum. The inventor was William M. Burton, research chemist of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. He was granted a patent Jan. 7, 1913. The drawing is that of the Patent. At first he was refused, but later was granted $1,000,000 for equipment to demonstrate his theory. His success brought him distinguished awards and presidency of his company, which had reaped over $15,000,000 in royalties by 1921. Burton was born on a farm near Cleveland, O., in 1865. In recent years he has lived in retirement. His inventions made thousands of jobs.

The Law and You

HABEAS CORPUS—WHAT IT MEANS

Produce the body!
That in effect is what a writ of "habeas corpus" demands of a sheriff or jailor. That means: Bring the prisoner to court on a valid charge or turn him loose. Habeas corpus has long been a standby of the "who-done-it" writer, but it has been a standby for us and our liberties for a much longer time.

In old times, the king or tyrant could jail you on a whim, with no chance of a day in court. No one dared to question him. In 1215 the English barons had taken all they could stand from King John. They demanded his written guarantee of their rights—the Magna Carta. Among their rights, they wanted the right to a day in court.

The English Petition of Rights asked for habeas corpus in 1628. It said, "no man should be put in jail or held without cause shown to which he may answer according to law."

The Habeas Corpus Act became law 51 years later.

Our state and national Constitutions say that "the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it."

Let's see how habeas corpus works.

Suppose a policeman arrests and puts you in jail. You have the right to be taken promptly before a magistrate and have the charge against you entered. You are also entitled to get in touch with a lawyer of your own choice to advise and represent you.

But what if you don't get a prompt hearing—in a reasonable time? Then somebody is unlawfully taking away your freedom. So you, a friend, relative or your lawyer may go into court and get a writ of habeas corpus on your behalf.

The writ commands your jailor to "produce the body." Your jailor must show that he holds you lawfully or turn you loose. In court, the judge looks into the charges against you. He may hear witnesses. If he cannot find that you are held lawfully, he will order you turned loose. If he finds cause to hold you, you then can ask for reasonable bail.

National Arts Foundation makes its third annual appeal for a blank record in each juke box for those who want to enjoy

Students at the college of dentistry, University of Iowa, drill to music. Patients seem to relax when under influence of soft music. Or, dentist must have trained on hi-fi, to fast marches, and listened only to the sharps.

Farthing Losing Out Like American Mill

The long-famous farthing—the tiny coin which is the least valuable among British coins—is possibly headed for the junk heap. As inflation has increased steadily since World War II and since it is continuing in Great Britain at the present time, the farthing is becoming less and less valuable.

It is estimated that the farthing now represents less than a third of a U. S. penny. Since a U. S. penny will no longer buy very much, one gets an idea of the value of the farthing.

The farthing seems to be headed for the same fate as the mill experienced in the United States. The mill, which represents a tenth of a cent, could for a time—many years ago—purchase something in the United States. Its disappearance and the probable disappearance of the farthing is clear evidence of the inflationary trend which slowly progresses in every democracy and which history shows is an almost inevitable tendency.

The lesson to be learned is that inflation—steady and gradual inflation—is no threat to the currency. Inflation is only a threat when it proceeds too rapidly. The farthing, then, is dying a natural death, brought about by gradual inflation.

Occasionally we hear of a "divorce from bed and board." This is not a dissolution of the marriage but in effect a legal separation sanctioned by the court. It is granted for fewer reasons than a divorce, and the court may decree a separation for a limited time or forever. A division of property, support money and visitation rights may be granted in the decree with the same effect as though the judgment was for an absolute divorce.

Drop Ceiling in Kitchen
Cabinets and shelves in the modern kitchen are built low enough to be reached without standing on a chair or ladder. Then the ceiling above the cabinets is dropped to the top of the cabinets so that there will be no place to clean or dust.

This reader is building his kitchen and wants help with the ceiling drop.

QUERY:
We have an unfinished home and would like help in installing a drop ceiling above the kitchen cabinets.

ANSWER:
Construct a framework, as illustrated, of 2x4's. The drop from the ceiling should be enough to fill in the distance between the ceiling and the top of the cabinets. Anchor the frame to the ceiling and wall. If possible nail into ceiling joists above.

If ceiling joists run the wrong way, anchor the frame through the ceiling plaster with toggle bolts.

Nail the frame securely to the wall on the end or in the back. Use toggle bolts if necessary.

Cover the framework with gypsum lath and plaster, or use wall construction.

Paint as desired. Dry wall construction should have at least two coats of paint.

Install cabinets under ceiling drop. Do not fasten cabinets to the drop.

Obesity Usually Is Malnutrition

Obesity is the most frequent malnutrition problem today—in fact it ranks high among the major preventive medicine problems in our country.

Most people who are too fat simply eat too much. Their choice of food is usually directed to the more filling and higher calorie, starchy, sweet, and fatty foods.

How many calories your body needs depends on its size and activity. If your body weight stays about right for your height and build, it's a sign that calories in your diet match your body needs. But when more calories are eaten than your body can use, they are stored as fat. It's what you eat that makes you fat.

Up to 35 years of age, it is safer to be plump than skinny. Beyond 35, excess fat becomes a greater health liability than extreme thinness. Ills such as high blood pressure and heart and kidney ailments are more common among overweights. Arthritis, too, is adversely affected, and post-operative deaths are increased when obesity is present.

Yes, overweight shortens life. Too much fat also reduces efficiency, and lessens satisfactory living. If you are one who has a tendency to be overweight, your diet should be of major concern to you.

Cut down on your calories—avoid high calorie foods such as fat on meats, salad oils, fried foods, gravies, and rich sauces. Nuts, pastries, cakes, cookies, candies, rich desserts, and snacks are also out.

Good nutrition dots require plenty of lean meat, milk, eggs and lean fish. Be generous about fruits, vegetables and protein-rich foods. Include sufficient amounts of foods containing minerals and vitamins. Eat three meals a day, but don't be tempted between meals.

Don't fool yourself. It's what you eat that makes you fat. Avoid overweight, stay healthy, remain attractive, and work and live more effectively.

Stewed Chicken for Eager Appetites

Why not learn some new and interesting ways to serve chicken. It is such a popular and versatile food that we should know as many ways to prepare this favorite dish as possible.

Fried Chicken Curry
1 3-lb. chicken
2 lbs. shortening
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
3 teaspoons curry powder
1 cup buttermilk

Cut chicken into frying pieces. Heat shortening in a deep kettle or deep fat fryer, until thermometer reaches 350 degrees or until a cube of bread browns in 70 seconds. While shortening heats, put 1/2 cup flour in a paper bag, add several pieces of chicken at a time and shake until thoroughly coated. Let stand while you mix this batter. Mix 1/2 cup flour, salt, pepper, curry powder and buttermilk. Stir until very smooth. Coat flouried chicken with this batter and drain off excess. Fry several pieces at a time in the hot fat until crisp and golden. Be sure fat is right heat before adding additional pieces.

Scalloped Chicken
Hen 4 to 5 lbs.
11 slices stale bread
1 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup minced parsley
1/4 cup melted butter
Salt and pepper

Stew hen with 5 cups water, add 2 teaspoons salt. Cook on lower heat about 2 hours. Cool in broth. Take chicken out and remove all skin. Put skin on a cookie sheet in an oven 250 degrees. Cook until it is crisp enough to crumble easily. Drain on paper towels. Cut all meat from the carcass in thin slices. The meat you can't slice cut in pieces. Crumble bread slices and add celery, onion, parsley, butter, salt and pepper. Grease a half shallow casserole and put in a layer of bread crumb mixture. Over this spread about 1/3 of chicken using cut up pieces first. Cover with breadcrumbs, then another layer of chicken, then breadcrumbs and chicken. Cover with stale bread cut in small squares. PROVIDENCE GUIDES THE PLOW—Seeking God's blessing on the spring crops, residents of Chichester, England, bring a plow to church for a symbolic blessing by the Bishop of Chichester Cathedral. The custom, dating back to the 17th Century, is now an annual affair.

ONE SHOE OFF, ONE SHOE ON—Unlike "my son, John," of the nursery rhyme, Swedish ski jumper Toiro Lauren wasn't caught in bed in this predicament. About Your Home

Encourage your child to paint. Many psychologists have said for a long time that painting is one of the surest ways to help a child express his feeling for beauty. Your encouragement and interest in his work will make your child feel a real part of the home. It will also help him to meet the adult world on his own terms.

Suitably framed, your child's picture will be an interesting addition to almost any room in your home. At worst it will be a conversation piece.

By encouraging children to create, you are helping them to a fuller, richer life. The joy their child will get from having one of his pictures beautifully framed and being in the home will be rewarded enough to most parents.

It is important for the parents to understand that it does not matter what your child paints nor how accurately. That comes later. At first the rhythm and balance is what counts. Your child will want to please you most of all, so keep this in mind.

If your child cannot attend a class, he can paint at home. The necessary materials are few. All he will need is construction paper 18 inches by 24 inches in assorted colors, a set of poster paints, bristle brushes in 1 inch, 1/2 inch, and 1/4 inch sizes and a cup of water for cleaning the brushes.

Perhaps the most important side of all this is that painting will help your child to see more beauty. He will learn to see beauty in such simple things as rocks, tree trunks, and the way paint peels off of old wood. As he grows older this appreciation will grow to include many things of nature and art that some people never learn to enjoy.

Frostbite Painful And Dangerous

Although most of the area has had its share of snow already this winter, we still haven't had a siege of sub-zero weather. Those days of frostbitten noses, fingers and ears are still to come.

And frostbite is nothing to joke about. It can be extremely painful and dangerous. It occurs when some portion of the body such as the fingers, the toes, or the lobes of the ears are exposed to low temperatures long enough to actually freeze the fluid in that part of the body. Outdoor winter chores, snow shovelling, and participation in outdoor sports cause many such cases each year.

Warm clothing is a person's best insurance against frostbite. For extremely cold weather clothes containing multiple air spaces holds in the body heat most effectively. Several layers of woolen fabric provide excellent insulation. An outer garment of leather or substitute material is an important safeguard to shield against the wind. For the feet, boots should be snug but not tight-fitting.

The first symptom of frostbite is a changing of color of the skin from reddish to white or gray. This is followed by a loss of flexibility and feeling in the effected area. When brought indoors the person feels a severe tingling as that portion of the body begins to warm up and to thaw. Eventually this tingling turns into a hot, burning pain.

The first rule in treating frostbite is to handle frozen area gently. Should the skin be broken in any way infection may easily set in. Contrary to former beliefs, the frozen area should be thawed out fairly rapidly by immersion in warm and then hot water.

Unless the frostbite is very mild, a physician should be called immediately. His prompt and adequate treatment will help prevent permanent injury, the chances of gangrene, and the loss of body tissue that may result.

So cover up in cold weather, and dress for comfort rather than style.

A Famous American Ship

The gallant MANHATTAN, of the United States Lines, was one of America's most famous passenger ships. This graceful liner, with her sistership WASHINGTON, were the first American ships built for North Atlantic service in over forty years when they came out in the early 1930s. Their immediate popularity with travelers upturned the entire system of class nomenclature aboard Atlantic liners. The MANHATTAN's red, white and blue smoke stacks and her clean, sweeping lines readily identified her as an American ship. She saw extensive war service, surviving a fierce fire off Halifax. Rebuilt as a troopship she could carry 7,000 men. When peace came, the MANHATTAN was retained by the Navy as a mothball transport. Her peacetime career of only nine years was indeed too short, particularly for such an outstanding example of American shipbuilding, according to the American Merchant Marine Institute. Since the Civil War only twelve ships have been built for American passenger service on the North Atlantic route. High construction and operating costs make it virtually impossible for American ship lines to compete. For years this lack of ships in deep-sea service was made up for in large part by a thriving passenger and cargo service along our coasts. Today, this domestic fleet is extinct. New liners for deep-sea operation are necessary.

The beautiful Bel Air Sport Coupe with Body by Fisher

It's highway robbery!

For sheer fun out on the road,
Chevrolet's stealing the thunder
from the high-priced cars!

Up to this year, maybe there were reasons for wanting one of the higher-priced cars. If you demanded something really special in the way of driving fun, you simply had to pay a premium to get it.

Not any more! The Motoramic Chevrolet has changed all that. Who could wish for more excitement than the new 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" delivers? (For those who do, 180-h.p. is optional at extra cost in all V8 models.) Chevrolet also offers the two highest powered sixes in its field.

Come in and see how the Motoramic Chevrolet is stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!
