Kewaskum Receives Attendance Trophy At Brewers Fan Appreciation Night

Chamber of Commerce President Dan Filzen is shown holding the large trophy presented to Kewaskum on Brewers Fan Appreciation Night Saturday at Milwaukee County Stadium. Kewaskum was honored for having the largest Wisconsin state attendance at a Brewers game for a city under 5,000 population on Kewaskum Night last June 26.

Fond du Lac was presented a similar trophy for having the largest population turnout and Burlington for the highest percentage of population. The presentations were made in pre-game ceremonies before the Brewer-Minnesota Twins game Saturday night by Dick Hackett, director of ticket sales.

A total of 37,809 fans were in attendance on Fan Appreciation Night, including a large number from Kewaskum. Each fan who bought a ticket received a Brewer gift, such as plastic batting helmet, coffee mug, pair of shorts with Brewer logo, shaver, etc. After the game a drawing of prizes was held with 27 of them being given away, ranging from a box of assorted sausages to a 1978 Chevrolet Monza (the Milwaukee Brewers official bull pen car).

Also before the game the Brewer players got into pickup trucks and rode around the track inside the stadium, waving, tipping their caps, smiling while hanging onto the trucks to show their appreciation and thanks for the support of the fans throughout the season.

Congratulations to the Kewaskum community for their "Kewaskum Night" achievement.

Sewer Bid, Tennis Court Lighting Proposal Accepted by Village Board

By TAMI EDGAR
Statesman Staff Writer

Three bids were submitted for the installation of storm sewers and for the extension of water and sewer lines on Werner Drive at Monday night's Village Board meeting.

The bid of Mueller Excavation of Campbellsport was accepted by the board for a total of $36,616. Construction would include the installation of sanitary sewers, manholes, watermain distribution system, water service connections, storm sewer and appurtenances. The speculative completion time would be 21 days. This will also include the replacement of the blacktop.

Discussion was held on the lighting proposal for the tennis courts in the new park. The board had to decide whether to install metal halide lighting or the quartz lighting. For 1,200 hours of lighting the energy cost for the quartz would be $2,888 while the metal halide, which gives five times more hours of lighting, costs $1,603. Installed will be ten light poles.

The board decided to approve the proposal of $16,300 from

The resolution for the use of village equipment was introduced and approved by the board members. Authorization for the use of any equipment must come from the Equipment Committee.

The board approved that Foth and Van Dyke and Associates, Inc. should proceed with plans on the drainage ditch at Knights Avenue. Consideration on the project would be to fill the ditch with 8 inches of sand and 3-4 inches of concrete. This would make the drainage area 2 feet wide with only 1-1/2 feet of water which would help alleviate the problem of algal build up.

The board complied with the request of a local resident to hold a wedding reception in the park. Rules and costs will apply the same as for a family reunion.

The Jaycees have requested the use of the old Geidel house for their haunted house. The board approved this request under the condition that proper liability insurance be obtained.

Hasty eating or drinking causes an excess of air swallowing, which in turn causes intestinal gas. Thorough chewing of food aids the digestion and absorption of nutrients in the small intestines. Unchewed food can ferment in the colon, causing gas. Begin your meal with raw vegetables or fruit to provide enzymes which aid digestion and protect against gas formation.

KHS Girls Named Commended Students in Merit Program

The principal, Clark Pearson, announced today that two senior students at Kewaskum Community High School have been named Commended students in the twenty-fourth annual (1979) National Merit Scholarship Program. This honor recognizes each student's outstanding performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test which was administered nationwide to high school juniors in October, 1977. Letters of Commendation were presented to Jeri Buss and Julie Yearling.

A total of almost 35,000 Commended students throughout the United States are being honored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation; students in this group represent the top five percent of more than one million participants in the Merit Program. Although Commended students scored slightly below the level required for Merit Program participants who were named semi-finalists and who will continue in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1979, each Commended student has demonstrated exceptional academic promise.

A spokesman for NMSC stated that the corporation believes "the high standing of Merit Program Commended students is an attainment that deserves their public recognition, because the nation as well as these students will be benefited by continued educational and personal development of their talents."

To increase their opportunities for college admission and financial aid NMSC has offered each Commended student an opportunity to have identifying information sent by the corporation to two high education institutions selected by the student. In addition, NMSC makes it possible for regionally accredited U. S. colleges and universities to receive home addresses for Commended students, on a cost basis, so that an institution may contact any of these promising young men and women directly. It is hoped that recognition of the Commended students in each year's Merit Program will serve as an encouragement to able youth and will assist them in obtaining whatever information and assistance they may need to pursue their educational plans.

Wisconsin Folklore

© 1978 Dr. Walker D. Wyman
University of Wisconsin - River Falls

Editor's Note: This article is one of a series of 15 on "Wisconsin Folklore" being presented by the Statesman in cooperation with University of Wisconsin Extension. The articles are the bulk of the reading material in a course which may be taken for undergraduate or graduate University credit. For more information about this course, contact: Dr. Lorin R. Robinson, director; "Wisconsin Newspaper Classroom," Department of Journalism; University of Wisconsin—River Falls(54022).

MYTHICAL CREATURES OF WISCONSIN

The world of nature has always held a fascination for man, and, consequently, there has emerged a vast body of lore about insects, snakes, birds, fish, and animals. This lore divided into two parts—the lore about domestic and wild animals and other creatures including stories of bears, cows, and homing pigeons, of dogs that go across the continent to find their way home, and of wolves that attack human beings. Then there is the lore about creatures that never existed except in the mind of man. We call these mythical creatures.

The early settlers along the Atlantic no doubt brought with them beliefs about a natural world that they had never seen. Dragons had roamed the land, especially in the Middle Ages. Werewolves abounded. A traveling missionary reported in the 14th century on a monster serpent that he saw in Scotland, and it has been reported hundreds of times since then. A Spaniard noted a strange animal known as the Unicorn in the 7th century.

Doubtless every community had its own creature that may never have been seen but which was believed to exist because of unexplained happenings, erroneous reporting, or possibly honest reactions by people with imaginative minds and the belief that the world was full of evil forces.

Early settlers in the English colonies seem to have left most of these mythical creatures behind. It was not long until there was an American listing of mythical creatures that showed the effect of the new continent on the imagination.

American folk beliefs were affected by erroneous reporting in some cases. Some of them can be traced to a hoax; most of them have no origin. They came from the nowhere into the now through an endless chain of storytellers—some who believed, some who told of horrendous things with tongue in cheek.

Mythical Insects

The first known report on giant mosquitoes in the logging camps was made by the mythical Paul Bunyan who started the first logging operation in the Great Lakes region somewhere in the Rhineland. Big mosquitoes would land along the river with their legs on both sides of the stream and wait for the lumberjacks to float by. Then they would pick them off and carry them into the deep woods and eat them. One mosquito was heard to say to another as they waited for a lumberjack to come by: "Shall we eat this one here or carry him into the woods?" To which the other giant mosquito replied: "Let's wash him off and eat him here before the big ones take him away from us."

Mythical Snakes and Worms

Every farmer knows that now and then a cow will come in from the pasture with a dry udder. If there is no calf with the herd, the milking had to have been done by something else. Since the farmer knows that there are snakes and that snakes have jaws with hinges flexible enough to swallow a toad or a small rabbit, obviously a snake could encircle a cow's teat and suck her dry.

The Hoop Snake takes its tail in its mouth and rolls toward its victim. An old lumberjack from Cornell once told me of seeing a Hoop Snake rolling toward him and he decided to stand firm and hit it with a peavy as it went by. As the snake neared its victim, it detached itself and instead of striking the lumberjack, hit his peavy with its venom. The peavy swelled and swelled until it was an enormous log. It was pulled to the sawmill by several teams of horses, and old Louis Blanchard became a wealthy man from the sale of railroad ties.

Hardy Wisconsinites who ride their snowmobiles or do cross-country skiing often see small, dark holes in the snow, usually beneath snow-laden trees. These holes are so common that the natives of Northern Wisconsin, known as Jackpine Savages, pay no attention to them. But there has to be an explanation for everything, even holes in the snow. Across the vast snow belt the local storytellers say that these holes have been made by Snow Snakes. Since they are pure white, Snow Snakes cannot be seen. A few old lumberjacks, making their way home after an evening on the town, claim they have seen Snow Snakes with ruby-hued eyes that glow in the snow. A few who have a well-developed sense of smell say that when they step outdoors on a cold night they can smell a lemon like odor which comes only from Snow Snakes.

"Gillygaloo" lay square eggs while saying "ouch!"
(illustration by Helen B. Wyman)

Ice fishermen pursue their sport until the ice begins to look like a honeycomb instead of blue steel. But what takes the honey out of the honeycomb? It is the Ice Worm. This mythical creature emerges from the bottom in late spring, eats its way upward through the ice, leaving behind its empty trails. No one has ever seen the Ice Worm, but if they do not honeycomb the ice, then what does? Why is there an Ice Worm Festival each spring in Cordova, Alaska? Why are there Ice-Worm Cocktails sold in Alaskan bars? And what causes cement sidewalks and foundations to crumble? Cement worms, of course.

Mythical Birds

These creatures have been reported by the imaginative people all over the nation, but Wisconsin has its share. The Dingbat for example, has large wings and antlers and snatches bullets from the air in deer season and drinks gasoline out of parked cars.

The Gillygaloo builds square nests for its square eggs on the Wisconsin River hills, but has never been seen by human beings. They were often heard when laying square eggs to cry "ouch." Lumberjacks used their eggs for dice to while away the long winter evenings. A children's play about "Benjy and the Gillygaloo" has been written by Professor Josie Paterek, UW-River Falls.

The Goofus Bird looks like a stork, builds its nests upside down, and flies backward. It apparently does not care to know where it is going, only where it has been. In Maine it is said that the bird flies backward to keep the wind out of its face.

The Pinnacle Grouse had only one wing and could fly around the pinnacle of a hill only in one direction. It was never seen except by a few who worked in the Bunyan logging camps.

The Wild Blue Yonder Eagle soars eternally above the earth and never lands. It builds no nests, even on the clouds, but lays its eggs on the wing. The eggs hatch before they reach the earth, and the young do what comes naturally—start flying as soon as feathers form. By the time they are adults, have flown in great circles into the Wild Blue Yonder.

Soldiers stationed along the Alaskan Highway during World War II reported hearing (but not seeing) a bird flying high above them making a call similar to the Whip-poor-will, only saying "gee-gee Geesus -- It's cold."

Mythical Fish

Of the many mythical fish that have been reported in Wisconsin rivers, the Fur-bearing Smallmouth Bass is the only one now on exhibit. It's in the Buckhorn Tavern (and House of Learning) in Rice Lake. The fish was caught with hook and line using a wild strawberry for bait in tiny Miniature Lake where the lower layers of the water are frozen even in July. This fish tells the story of evolution, for only the fittest (and warmest) fish could survive in this lake. Fur-bearing trout have also been reported in some of the Rocky mountain lakes.

The Upland Trout was once found in all rivers of Northern Wisconsin and Michigan. Feeding only on mosquitoes, it spent much of its time out of the water, and in time it learned to live out of the water and to fly. It built its nests in trees and flew up and down the rivers at night catching mosquitoes. One pioneer settler captured an Upland Trout and taught it to walk on its tail, but a sad thing occurred. In crossing a little bridge one day, it fell into the stream and drowned.

According to Mythologist Clyde Wynia of Marshfield, the Flambeau Ambler was sought by frying pan fishermen. Fried over a wood fire, it tasted like fried chicken; boiled in lake water, it tasted like lobster; roasted over a campfire, it tasted like roast pig. No wonder it is now extinct.

Honor 12 Deceased Newspaper Officials

Twelve deceased persons who were once affiliated with the newspaper industry in Wisconsin were honored by their associates Friday at the Trees for Tomorrow Environmental Center at Eagle River.

Memorial services were held for the twelve as part of the 31st annual fall outing of the Wisconsin Newspaper Association at the center. The name of each individual was placed upon a memorial pylon in the Wisconsin Newspaper Association Demonstration Forest, and each was eulogized by friends or relatives.

The twelve join 128 other individuals who have been similarly honored since 1958.

The persons honored include Mrs. Myrtle B. Chapple, owner, Ashland Daily Press; George Bauman, editor-publisher, Cudahy Enterprise; Grace Smith, owner, Tri-County News, Osseo; A. Matt Werner, editor, publisher and chairman of the board, Sheboygan Press; Merton A. Jensen, publisher, Blair Press; F. William Heath, partner and editor, Phillips Bee and Prentice News; Theodore Buehler, editor-publisher, Buffalo County Journal, Alma; Anthony W. Bakken, editor-publisher, Rio Journal; Firman E. Cooper, publisher, Iola Herald; Don Anderson, publisher, Wisconsin State Journal, Madison; Lester L. Arnold, publisher, Wonevoc Reporter; and Carl A. Zielke, manager, Wisconsin Press Association.

The Demonstration Forest, sponsored by the Wisconsin Newspaper Association and managed by Trees for Tomorrow, is the only forest of its kind in the nation. It functions as an outdoor laboratory for students, teachers, businessmen and others attending workshops at the center. Christmas trees harvested from the forest earn scholarship funds for journalism students.

Apples and Pears Ripening; Color is Check on Maturity

Wisconsin owners of apple and pear trees should be getting ready to harvest the fruits of their labor. Bartlett pears and McIntosh apples, the most popular varieties in the state, usually ripen about mid-September, but tree owners should frequently sample their fruit before they harvest large quantities.

The mature apple will be firm, crisp and have a sprightly taste. Immature apples often have a fruity or bitter flavor. Overripe fruit is soft or mushy, bruises easily and cannot be stored for any extended period.

Another test for ripeness is to check the "ground color" (background skin color). When it turns from leaf green to a "greenish yellow color," apples should be picked and used immediately. If apples are to be stored for more than two weeks, they should be picked five to seven days earlier.

Unlike apples, pears must be picked before they ripen on the tree. If allowed to ripen on the tree, pears will spoil quickly. Poor flavor often results from leaving the fruit on the tree too long. Pears should be picked while still firm but when the ground color changes from a dark green to a light or a yellow green.

One of the best ways for fruit growers to insure proper fruit maturity for future harvests is to write down the dates of their annual harvest. If they are dissatisfied with their fruit this year, they know they will have to change the time of harvests in future seasons.

The average number of days from bloom to harvest is also a good indicator of approaching fruit maturity, but the number of days varies by cultivar.

Picking should be done by gently twisting and lifting the fruit upward until the stem separates from the branch. Otherwise, the picker risks damaging the fruit spur which bears next year's flowers.

Picked fruit should be handled carefully. The harvested fruit is a living organism. Bruises or removal of the stem will often speed spoilage.

For longest life, apples and pears should be stored at about 31 degrees under high humidity. Pears deteriorate rapidly and should be refrigerated immediately after harvest. If the fruits are washed, they should be dried thoroughly before they are stored.

When pears are stored with other fruits or vegetables, place them in a sealed polyethylene bag because they easily absorb odors.

When taking pears from storage, take only as much as you will use in one week. They will ripen in about four days at 60 to 70 degrees.

tension office, 515 E. Washington Street, P.O. Box 537, West Bend, WI 53095; A2209 Apple Storage, and A2621 Harvesting and Storing Pears.

The first annual Miles "The Mouse" Melius Fall Classic was held this weekend at Slinger Super Speedway.

On Saturday, Willie Goeden of St. Michaels was ninth in time, and tenth in the 25 lap feature. Tony Strupp of Slinger was back in his own car this weekend and placed thirteenth in time, second in his heat and third in the 25 lap feature. Mike Melius of Random Lake turned nineteenth in time.

In the hobby division Rick Lisko of West Bend was second in time and fifth in his heat. Paul Wenninger of Slinger was seventh in time. On Sunday, Lisko did as he had done all year, winning the feature. This was a 40 lap affair and he took the lead with ten laps to go. Wenninger was second in that feature.

In the 110 lap late model feature, Goeden experienced engine problems early that forced him to slow his pace and he finished four laps behind the winner in ninth place. Strupp dropped out on lap 18 and returned on lap 61. He dropped out again on lap 86 and was given fourteenth in the 110 lap feature. Melius went out early and placed 16th in the go.

Set Registration Stations for Deer Bow Hunting Seasons

Registration stations for the 1978 deer bow hunting seasons have been set for southeastern Wisconsin by the Department of Natural Resources.

Hunters must present the deer intact, except for field dressing, to any of the registration stations listed below so the deer can be properly registered and tagged. Deer must be registered by 5 p.m. of the day after it was taken and before it is removed from the county or an adjoining county from which it was taken.

Statistics compiled by DNR wildlife managers taken from deer registrations provide data on the number of deer killed during the season and information on the sex of the animals, age classes of the deer, and where the deer was taken. The information is used in determining future hunting seasons. The deer bow season opened on September 16 and will continue through November 12 for the first part of the season. The second part of the bow season will be from December 2 and will run through December 31.

The registrations are:
Kenosha County - Sheriff's Department, Kenosha.

Ozaukee County - Sheriff's Department, Port Washington.
Racine County - Viking Gun, Burlington.

Sheboygan County - Ed's Bait Shop, Howard's Grove; Steiner's Standard Station, Plymouth; and J & L Archery Lanes, Sheboygan.

Walworth County - Sheriff's Department, Elkhorn.

Washington County - Sheriff's Department, West Bend.

Germantown Runs Over Indians In Conference Opener, 46-14

The Kewaskum Indians were crushed by a powerful Germantown team in their Scenic Moraine opener here Friday night, 46-14, before a Parents' Night crowd.

Holding the Indians scoreless until the fourth quarter, Germantown racked up 384 yards on the ground in 50 carries to Kewaskum's 99 in 33 carries. They scored in each of the first three quarters before failing to score in the final period.

The Warhawks' quarterback, Jerry Vance, ran for three touchdowns, one a 69-yard run, and passed for another. Vance, a 5 foot 10 junior, ran his two other TD's in from the 4. He also connected on a 25 yard touchdown pass to Bill Bruegger.

Kewaskum's Joel Herriges threw two touchdown passes but was the victim of many dropped balls. The Indians gained 102 yards passing.

After being shut out by West Bend East the week before, 7-0, Germantown, with a squad of nearly 50 players, came out with a vengeance against the Indians. They took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards in six plays for a score in the first two minutes, which was the first of seven touchdowns.

Before the first quarter was over, the Warhawks scored twice more, both by fullback Jeff Noltner. A good punt return by Vance and a penalty gave them good field position on Kewaskum's 30. Four plays later Noltner scored. Germantown made it 20-0. Noltner took it in again with seconds left in the quarter.

In the second period Vance hit on a 25-yard scoring pass to Bert Bond on a 42-yard drive. On the next series Vance intercepted a Herriges pass and carried it all the way to the Indians' four. On the next play he scored and Neil Bialk kicked one of his four extra points. This made it 33-0 at halftime.

The Indians had a total of four yards rushing and minus five passing in the first half against the aggressive Warhawk defense. Their only first down came in the last series.

Early in the second half Kewaskum's Herriges got loose for a 40-yard run for a first down on the opponents' 4-yard line. But the Warhawk defense stiffened and the Indians wound up on the six after four downs.

Germantown then came back with a 94-yard drive with Vance going 69 yards around end for another TD. Reserve Mike Petrozates got the last score on a 5-yard run as substitutes played out the rest of the game.

Trailing 46-0, Herriges and wingback Rod Schultz teamed up for two scores in the last quarter. The first was on a 34-yard pass play and the second went for 43 yards. Herriges finished with 7 out of 20 completions.

This Friday night the Indians face another tough opponent when they entertain defending champion Grafton, which made the state playoffs last year.

Eichstedt County Golf Champion

After coming close before, Kewaskum's Clark Eichstedt finally won the championship of the Washington County Amateur Golf Tournament held at Hon-E-Kor Tournament Club here over the weekend.

Eichstedt shot 141 on rounds of 70-71 for a county record and a five shot lead over second place Mark Pfeifer (70-76-146) of Hartford. After the first day Pfeifer and Eichstedt were tied with 70's and the former slipped to a 76 on Sunday. Hartford's Bob Talajowski was one behind with 71 but slacked off to 79 the next day. The weather was overcast and cool on Sunday and some of the challengers started to fall while "Ike" continued a run of pars and birdies mixed with a couple of bogeys.

Although this was the first Washington County title for Clark, in four previous years he has been fifth once, third twice and second once.

Eichstedt left early Thursday morning, flying to England, where he will teach and play basketball during the winter months as he did a couple of years ago. Clark, who starred in athletics at Kewaskum High, also played basketball at St. Norbert's College, where he captained the team. "Ike's" new address is 48 Beresford St., Stoke, Plymouth, PI3-2AL, England.

This year's Hon-E-Kor champ, Mike O'Honor, Jr. wound up 13th in the county tournament and was never in contention.

In the women's division, West Bend's Mary Lou Chapman had rounds of 93-96 for 189 for an easy 11-shot victory. Irene Schlefke, last year's champ, took second with 200.

In men's first flight, Kewaskum teacher Bill Wuebben won, mainly due to a second round 73. He made 13 straight pars the second day. His total was 158 to edge Dave Denis by a single stroke.

In second flight, Paul Christensen was winner with an 89-78 for 167, and a two shot lead over Cal Wittenberg, James Sullivan and Tim Perkins, all with 169's.

Third flight winner was young Bob Lyons on rounds of 98-82 for 180. Don Laatsch was two behind with 182 and Harold Marx third with 184.

The two-man best ball event was won by Mark Pfeifer and John Hermesen with 66-68-134.
