Budget for 1981-82 Is Major Topic at School Board Meeting

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Although it wasn't on the agenda for Monday night's school board meeting, the 1981-82 budget and its proposed cuts became the main topic of discussion.

What looked like a short and average meeting changed after board member Dr. Charles Ogi casually asked if the board members would be re-considering his suggested staffing cuts at Wednesday's budget meeting.

Board President John Tessar

told Ogi the board is still considering any and all budget cuts which have been recommended to this point. This includes staffing, busing and possible closing of the Beechwood School.

Tessar noted he was disturbed by comments regarding the school board. "Because we have not gone along with your recommendations, we have been called dumb and stupid and this has come back. I respect your recommendations as I respect those of the other

Kewaskum High School Shop Class Completes Pier Project

Metals and Building Trades students from KHS in the process of assembling the new village pier.

Students in Howard Zemlicka's Metals III class and David Stradtman's Building Trades class proudly announce the completion of a two month project started back in February. The project is a 40-foot length pier to be used in the Kewaskum Village Park. The pier is constructed of steel with a five-foot wide platform. It is mounted on wheels so that it can be easily installed and removed from the swimming area at the park.

In February, Zemlicka was looking for a worthwhile project for his Metals III class and the village was in need of a pier for the swimming area at the park for this summer. The result was an agreement between these groups for the village to provide most of the necessary materials and the trade and metals class to provide the labor and skill required to fabricate such a project. Both classes joined forces, first to design, then assemble and finish the pier.

Zemlicka estimated around $400 of materials went into the construction of the pier. Some of the materials such as the wheels and axle were donated by Gordy Darmody. He also estimated that a commercially purchased pier would have cost in the area of $2,000.

Both Zemlicka and Stradtman agreed the project provided an excellent learning experience for their classes. The village is very appreciative of the pier and feels it will be an excellent addition to the swimming area and the people who use the park.

Plans are being made to install the pier sometime this spring.

School Board

board members, but just because someone doesn't agree, I don't think we should be criticized. I think we're all here to do a job and we're doing the best job we can. I don't mind being criticized, but I don't think we should be called dumb."

Tessar stated he is receiving calls daily saying close Beechwood but don't drop private school busing or drop busing and keep Beechwood open and so on. Each group wants to see budget cuts made but not in places where their children will be affected. The school board is six people trying to do a very difficult job, that of providing the best education and services at the lowest possible cost. Tessar noted he felt it was time the "board got together and worked together."

Superintendent Floyd Brenholt told the board it would be extremely difficult to consider cutting staff other than what had already been approved since contracts, although not signed, had been issued as of March 15.

Member Richard Theusch told the board he had done a study regarding cost saving if Beechwood School were closed. He noted his original saving figure of $40,000 now seems to be quite conservative. Actual figures show a 1982-83 saving of approximately $52,526.

Beechwood can handle 180 students, but presently has only 74 pupils, showing the school is operating at only 45% capacity.

A parent questioned whether the cuts will keep our taxes at the same level. Brenholt stated even if some of these substantial cuts would be made, taxes are still going to go up. Brenholt noted the taxpayers must realize they have a responsibility to education. "I would like the people of this district to understand we've been running on a bare-bones budget right along."

Theusch told the board, the Kewaskum schools are being compared to two other districts, Campbellsport and Slinger, who are operating at a much lower mill rate. Theusch noted, however, that both districts have only one out-lying school (Kewaskum has three, Farmington, Beechwood and Wayne). It was also noted that the other school districts have not had any large building or expansion programs in recent years and no debt retirement that the board knew of.

Kewaskum is entering its final stages on its debt reduction program with a payment of $35,000.00 this year and $98,000 in the last year. Theusch stated, "so I think some of these things have to be taken into consideration when people say we're spending more dollars than neighboring school districts are."

Theusch also stated he received a call from a woman whose daughter is teaching in Glendale. She stated Glendale was operating at a much lower cost than Kewaskum. Brenholt and Theusch said they checked and compared Glendale with Kewaskum. The results showed Glendale had a student/teacher ratio of 13:1 at a cost of $2,765.00 per student, while Kewaskum's ratio was 17:64:1 at a cost of $1,831.00 per student. Kewaskum would have to add 42 people to its present staff to equal Glendale's.

Tessar stated "our problem now is we have to look at what kind of federal and state aids we're going to get." No definite decisions can be made until all the figures and information are available. Tessar noted he wanted to review the budget as a whole and if necessary make cuts throughout, not just in one specific area.

Items on the agenda included a request by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bodden to transfer their property from Kewaskum to the Lomira school district. Action was tabled until the April 27 meeting.

The board accepted resignations from four teachers, Susan Brockway and Janet Wollangk, Speech Therapists, Patrick Gasser, Science and Math, and Mary Jane Buddenhagen, Elementary Art.

A contract for Peggy Henke, Mrs. Buddenhagen's replacement, was also approved.

The KEA contract for 1980-81 was ratified by the board.

Board members Richard Theusch and Byron Gessner were appointed to read names for the 1981 graduation.

The Board set July 27 as the date for the School District's annual meeting.

A Budget Committee meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, April 15, at 7:00 p.m. in the Middle School.

The board adjourned to closed session to discuss the 1981-82 bus contract.

BUDGET COMMITTEE OF SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Notice was not received by the Statesman until Monday of this week that the Kewaskum Board of Education would meet on Wednesday, April 15, at 7:00 p.m. The meeting was held in the Middle School library.

This meeting was for preliminary purposes such as organizing for budget discussions. No decisions were to be made at this meeting concerning specific programs for 1981-82. Items such as kindergarten schedules, parochial school busing, etc., will be scheduled for future meetings of the committee and/or board.

Announce Local CF Bike-a-Thon Chairpersons

The Kewaskum Jaycees and Roy Peterson have been appointed chairpersons of the annual Bike-A-Thon in Kewaskum, sponsored by the Wisconsin Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The appointment was announced by Robert L. Gilpatrick, President of the Wisconsin Chapter, who noted that funds raised in the event will support research and treatment programs of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The principal goal of research is to find a cure for cystic fibrosis (CF), the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in the United States. Every day, every five hours, a child is born with CF and every day, every eight hours someone dies of CF.

The Wisconsin Chapter is one of 73 Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Chapters in the country. The Foundation's mission is to find the means for the prevention, control and effective treatment of cystic fibrosis. In addition to providing annual research grants to study the causes of the presently incurable disease, the Foundation also supports a network of 128 CF Centers nationally. Two of these are located in Wisconsin at Milwaukee Children's Hospital and the University of Wisconsin-Madison Hospitals. These CF Centers specialize in diagnosis and medical care for CF patients, as well as services for CF families.

"We hope to get the full participation of our residents in the event," said Peterson. "Together with the hundreds of other volunteers working on similar fund-raising events throughout Wisconsin, we can make a strong impact on the fight to conquer cystic fibrosis."

from Tom Leitzke, R.P.H.

Heard the expression, "My feet are killing me?" One suggestion - be sure your shoes are correctly fitted. High heels cramp your tendons and cause imbalance of weight on your toes. Wear high heels only briefly. Switch to lower-heeled shoes that don't jolt the body with every step.

For 'burning feet' realize that nylon stockings or imitation leather shoes retain heat and burn the feet. Change to cotton stockings and real leather shoes with 'breathe' thru natural pores.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Once again, residents of southern Wisconsin have proved their generosity, as viewers of the WISC-TV broadcast of the Easter Seal Telethon raised more than $81,000 to support Easter Seal programs for disabled Wisconsin residents.

Donations were pledged from all over the WISC viewing area, and nearly 6,000 Easter Seal clients will benefit from the funds. Some will be campers at Easter Seal's Pioneer Camp or Camp Wawbeek in the Wisconsin Dells, gaining new independence and self-confidence. Others are Easter Seal homecraft clients, working at home to make items to sell in five Easter Seal Homecraft Shops around the state. Still others will benefit from Easter Seal's equipment loan program, or other year round services of the Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin.

The willingness of your community's residents to help makes the continuation of these vital programs possible. On behalf of the Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin, I want to offer a sincere "thank you" to all who helped.

Sincerely,
Wayne Wallace

Letter to the Village of Kewaskum Citizens

Thank you for your votes for me in last Tuesday's election but more important thank yourself for participating in the election process.

Based on the large number of votes I received, I and you need to continue to voice opposition to the proposed T.I.F. district for the village of Kewaskum.

The homeowner's voice needs to be heard at Village Board meetings to keep our home taxes from being increased by the trustees.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
James Scott

Editor, Kewaskum Statesman:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the enthusiastic and energetic volunteers who helped make Musicfest for People Who Care, a benefit for Citizen Advocacy, a success. That success was obvious on people's faces who enjoyed the afternoon of music, as well as in the support for the program which will further our efforts to include disabled people in our community.

It would not have been possible without everyone's contribution. Thank You!

Over $9 Million in County Real Estate Taxes Still Outstanding

Fredric A. Seefeldt, Washington County Treasurer, reported that his office has taken over the responsibility for collecting more than $9 million in outstanding 1980 real estate taxes as a result of the settlement process completed with local treasurers.

Seefeldt stated that this amount was made up of $8 million in postponed taxes due by July 31 and $1.1 million in delinquent 1980 taxes. This represents a 25.7% jump in uncollected taxes as compared to last year's settlement.

Delinquent taxes topped the $1 million mark this year for the first time. This amount was up $289,000 from last year for a 34.8% increase.

Postponed taxes were up over $1.5 million, going from $6.4 million last year to better than $7.9 million this year for an increase of 24.5%.

Seefeldt observed that the sizable percentage increases are a reflection of the increased tax bite experienced county wide. Tax levies for schools, local, county and state purposes increased more than $4.4 million from last year. Taxes for all purposes went from $38.1 million last year to $42.5 million this year for a 11.6% increase.

"A more accurate measure of the tax collection process this winter would be to compare uncollected taxes as a percentage of total levies for the year," Seefeldt commented. "When a comparison is made on this basis, I see a 1.9% increase in the use of the postponed payment plan, going from 16.8% of total levy in 1980 to 18.7% this year. Delinquent taxes on March 1 went from 2.2% of total tax levy in 1980 to 2.6% in 1981, an increase of .4% (4/10 of one per cent)." Seefeldt said.

TO FLUSH HYDRANTS

The village employees will flush hydrants on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 21 and 22. If water appears rusty, do not be alarmed as it is harmless and will clear in a few hours.

A colony of honeybees may be composed of as many as 90,000 individual bees.

Local Treasurers Turn Over Better Than 77 Percent of County Tax Levy

Fredric A. Seefeldt, Washington County Treasurer, reported that local treasurers were able to turn over to him better than 77% of the county tax levy as a result of tax collections made by them in December, January and February.

Seefeldt reported receipts of over $4.7 million as a result of the March settlement process.

The Village of Newburg led this year in the percentage of the tax roll collected with 84.2%. Second was the Village of Jackson with 83.6% and third was the Village of Germantown at 82.7%. Newburg took over the lead this year from the Village of Jackson which led last year with 87.1%.

Collections dropped county-wide as the result of the increased use of the postponed payment plan and an increase in delinquencies reported earlier by Seefeldt. The overall average dropped from 79.1% in 1980 to 76.6% this year.

Among the townships, Richfield was again the leader this year with 80.90% collected as compared to its 83.98% in 1980. Second was the Town of Germantown with 80.85% and third was the Town of West Bend with 76.89% of the tax roll collected.

In the county's two cities, the City of Hartford reported a 81.05% collection rate compared to 83.91% last year. The City of West Bend came in at 79.56% compared to 81.97% last year.

"The percentages are computed after monies due the State of Wisconsin are paid out in full. The county and the school districts then receive a proportionate share of the balance of the taxes collected," said Seefeldt.

Truck Firm to

Richard A. Zima

Zipco Trucking, Inc., of West Bend has received expanded common carrier authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), according to Zipco president Richard A. Zima.

Zipco, which has specialized until now in transporting cheese, butter, beer, wine and produce, has received ICC approval to carry a broader range of products.

"We will now be able to haul not only foodstuffs but also materials, equipment and supplies used in the manufacture and distribution of foodstuffs," Zima said. "In addition we can carry such commodities as are sold in retail gift and curio shops. And we are not restricted as to the type of business we can transport for."

Zipco, with headquarters on Town Hall road five miles south of Kewaskum, operates in all states except Alaska and Hawaii. The company was started by Zima in 1971 and incorporated in 1978. The Zipco fleet of more than 40 trucks, most of which are temperature-controlled, traveled a combined total of over 2½ million miles in 1980, Zima said.

April Proclaimed
Cancer Control Month
By Gov. Lee Dreyfus

April was officially proclaimed Cancer Control Month by Governor Lee Dreyfus on March 30, at 1:30 p.m. in the Governor's Office.

Cancer is a large group of diseases characterized by uncontrolled growth and spread of abnormal cells. Cancer is the second leading cause of death, and it is estimated that there will be 17,000 new cancer cases among men, women and children in Wisconsin this year.

Although the lives of one-third of all cancer patients are being saved, this figure could be increased by as much as 50 percent by earlier detection and diagnosis of cancer, and prompt treatment.

During April, the American Cancer Society conducts its annual crusade against cancer. It is a dual campaign to raise funds and to educate the public about cancer's early warning signals and cancer prevention. Volunteers will travel door to door with this life-saving information and with requests for contributions toward the fight against cancer.

In his proclamation, Governor Dreyfus credits the American Cancer Society with providing "valuable aid in rehabilitation services to the cancer patient," and recognizes its support "for important medical research in order to finally eliminate the suffering and death from cancer." In proclaiming April to be Cancer Control Month in Wisconsin, the governor urges every citizen to support the American Cancer Society's annual cancer crusade.

Attending the ceremony were Don R. Wallace, of Madison, Chairman of the Board of the American Cancer Society, Wisconsin Division and Mrs. Julie Schnarr, also of Madison, Honorary C-Day Chairman of the division and 1981 recipient of the American Cancer Society Courage Award.

Vocational Education Works: Esser

Measured in 1980, unemployment rates for vocational graduates who completed a senior occupational preparation course (capstone) are 4 percent one year after graduation and 2 percent three years after graduation. These percentages contrast sharply with the current national unemployment rate of 7.4 percent and a teenage unemployment rate of 19 percent.

This information was recently received by Roy Essar local Vocational Education Coordinator at Kewaskum High School in the form of the Third Annual Composite Evaluation Report for Secondary Vocational Education in Wisconsin, 1979-80. The report, published by UW-Stout for the Department of Public Instruction, contains a number of interesting measures of the effectiveness of vocational education.

Because vocational education aims to train students for entry level jobs, the employment data featured in the report is also significant. It stated that over half of the capstone graduates of 1979 are employed full time the first year after graduation and three-quarters of the capstone graduates of 1977 are employed full time three years after graduation. Additional capstone graduates are employed part time.

"Employers of graduates were also surveyed and found to be highly supportive of high school vocational training," according to Esser. The report reveals that over 8 out of 10 employers responding indicated preference in hiring vocationally trained high school graduates over those who have not had such training. Reasons for this may be due to high employer ratings of graduates in such aspects as "ability to work with co-workers, accepting advice and supervision, quantity of work, quality of work, and understanding of the value and importance of work." Employers also rated graduates' attitudes as above average in such qualities as "dependability, courtesy and friendliness, personal appearance, responsibility, cooperation, and work attitude."

The report cites the average annual wage for capstone graduates after one year of employment as $8,382.00 and after three years of employment is $10,109.00. Wages for capstone graduates in industrial education, however, show an annual wage of $10,338 after one year, and $11,877 after three years (1979-80 dollars).

Data in the Composite Report were collected from 56 schools across the state which participated in a Vocational Education Program Evaluation during 1979-80.

Assistance for Rural Tornado Victims

Various types of assistance and programs are available from the United States Department of Agriculture agencies for victims of tornadoes and other disasters. U.S.D.A. agencies in Washington County and their representatives include:

-Farmers Home Administration, L. Robert Stephenson, 2395 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI 53095; Phone: 334-7850

-Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, Donald Sampson, 2395 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI 53095; Phone: 334-4765

-Soil Conservation Service, Donald Kurer, 2395 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI 53095; Phone: 334-3706

University of Wisconsin-Extension, Agricultural Agent, Jack Trzebiatowski, 515 E. Washington Street, P.O. Box 537, West Bend, WI 53095; Phone: 338-4477

These agency representatives met as a U.S.D.A. County Emergency Board to file a report requesting aid for rural residents of Washington County affected by the tornado. The types of programs and assistance available will depend on whether or not the area receives a major disaster or emergency declaration by the President or the Governor. Further information will be made available from each agency as the status of this aid becomes known.

Individuals living in rural Washington County that were affected by the tornado are encouraged to contact any of the above agencies for further information.

Bright Spot and Moisture Assure Easter Lilies Bloom

It's again the season when the stately, white Easter lily is in abundance. Some selection and care tips on this traditional symbol of the Easter season may help you maintain a showy flower display.

First, select an Easter lily still in the bud stage or with less than one-third of its buds open. The blossoms last several days only, so selecting a budded plant allows you to enjoy the lily longer. There's little chance the blossoms won't open in your home as long as you provide a bright location and adequate moisture.

Look for plants with healthy foliage. Yellowing leaves or an absence of leaves near the base of the plant reflect a poor, declining root system. This can mean problems keeping the plant, especially if you intend to replant it outside.

In your home, place the lily in a bright location, and keep the soil evenly moist. The lily will last longer if it's kept cool.

You may want to remove the anthers (the yellow pollen-producing structures in the flowers) as soon as the petals begin to open. The powdery yellow pollen released from the anthers will stain surfaces it contacts.

After flowering, continue watering the plant until the leaves turn yellow and brown. When all the leaves have died, cut the stem off at the soil surface, stop watering the plant and allow the soil to dry.

Later in the spring when the ground warms up, transplant the lily outdoors in a sunny, well-drained location. Plant the lily so the top of the bulb is 5 to 6 inches below the soil surface.

Depending upon the site and the bulb's condition, you might see your bulb bloom again in late summer. For best bulb growth, the plant should receive several feedings of a complete fertilizer during the growing season. Avoid a high nitrogen production — a 5-10-5 fertilizer is best.

If your lily doesn't bloom again this year, you can expect it to bloom next summer when lilies normally blossom outdoors. Given a sunny location and a well-drained soil, many Easter lily cultivars are winter hardy in Wisconsin. A 2 to 3 inch mulch of straw or leaves should moderate winter soil temperatures and prevent frost heave in the spring.

Let Sun and Air Dry Soil Before Starting Garden Work

By Dan A. Wilson
Horticulture/Resource Agent

With these first warm spring days, home gardeners are anxious to get the garden started. But working the soil too soon may damage your soil's structure.

There's nothing more important than good soil structure for best vegetable productions. Working your soil at the correct soil moisture level is one way to preserving and encouraging good structure.

Soil is composed of mineral particles and organic matter. The way these particles are arranged relative to the moisture content and pore space determines a soil's structure. For example, a fertile silt loam contains approximately 45 percent mineral matter, 5 percent organic matter, 25 percent water and 25 percent air on a volume basis.

Gardens soils in Washington County range from sands to nearly ideal sandy loams to heavier silt loams and clays.

Many of the heavier silt loams and clays are poorly drained and warm up more slowly in the spring. Adding organic matter—leaves, grass clippings or compost—will help increase the pore spaces and improve drainage. Fall plowing or tillage may also improve the situation.

On the other hand, while sandy soils are easier to work, they are also low in water and nutrient holding capacity and in organic matter. Incorporating additional organic matter is a good first step toward improving a sandy soil.

Allow enough time for the sun and warm spring breezes to dry the soil before working or

Older Worker Placement Program

Last May the Wisconsin Bureau of Aging teamed with the Job Service Division and initiated an Older Worker Placement Program for some counties in Wisconsin. With the goal of providing help to older workers over age 50 in finding jobs, this was effected by the placement of two Older Worker Specialists in selected Job Service sites throughout the state.

Information parceled out to three main groups has been a by-product of the service in the past year. In West Bend, mature job applicants have become familiar with the Job Service's computer system, which provides listings of job possibilities that can be reviewed on self-search viewers.

From the publicity given this program by the local media, employers are tuned in to the fact that Job Service has a pool of mature workers ranging from professional to skilled and semi-skilled, able to fill part time, temporary, or full time positions.

And the general public's awareness has been heightened as to the strengths and skills of men and women age 50 and over, and their abilities and needs as workers.

Employers with job openings and applicants who need jobs are encouraged to call Older Worker Specialists Jane McElroy or Irene Wade at Job Service, West Bend, 338-4700.

walking in your garden. So far this spring we've been rather dry, but watch your soil moisture content carefully. If you get on the heavier soil when it is too wet, you risk compressing the pore spaces which conduct water and air through the soil. The result is a hard-packing cloddy surface which is difficult to manage.

Likewise, soil that is worked too dry can be pulverized and will compact after the next rain or watering. In this case, wait to work the soil until after the next wetting the soil receives.

Once your soil is at the correct moisture content, prepare the soil about 6 inches deep using a garden spade, plow or rototiller. Be sure that all manures, garden trash or other organic matter are completely covered. Smooth the garden surface by raking or harrowing, and your garden is ready for planting.

Popcorn was introduced to the English colonists at their first Thanksgiving dinner on February 22, 1630, by Quadequina, brother of Indian Chief Massasoit.

Recycle Motor Oil, Don't Pour It Down the Drain

MADISON, WI—If one of your spring chores is getting your car spruced up for the season, you're probably considering an oil change. What do you do with the used motor oil you drain from your crankcase? Do you dump it down a sewer or bury it in the back yard? According to UW-Extension estimates more than 2 million gallons of used motor oil are needlessly thrown out in Wisconsin each year by do-it-yourselfers changing oil in family cars. That's the reason state lawmakers directed the DNR to coordinate a statewide program for collecting and recycling used motor oil.

In fact, lubricating oils never wear out, they only get dirty. Virtually all used motor oil could be recycled saving energy and money while protecting the environment from the dangers of dumped oil.

According to the oil refining industry, a gallon of used motor oil can be refined into 2 1/2 quarts of lubricating oil. It would take 42 gallons of crude oil to make the same 2 1/2 quarts of lubricating oil. Oil refiners estimate we could save 1.3 million barrels of oil per day if all motor oil used nationwide were recovered and recycled.

Dumped waste oil poses very real threats to our environment. Dirty motor oil carries lead and other contaminants which can pollute rivers, streams, and harbors. Small amounts of used motor oil can disrupt sewage treatment plants, produce oil slicks that damage aquatic vegetation or seep into groundwater imparting an odor or offensive taste to drinking water.

Under state laws passed last year, any retail store selling motor oil will have to provide a collection spot for used motor oil or post a sign which tells where the nearest collection point is located. Every county must have at least one collection point where people can bring used motor oil for recycling. The law also sets a minimum number of collection spots for cities, towns and villages. No motor oil recycling depots are required if less than 3,500 people live in the municipality; one site is required for populations between 3,500-25,000; two sites are required for populations between 25,000-100,000 people. Cities larger than 100,000 people must provide three collection spots for the first 100,000 people and one site for each additional 100,000 people in the city.

Many oil collection centers are already available but they are not well publicized. Collection points in 76 locations in Wisconsin could recycle even more oil if people knew about them and got into the habit of recycling oil. The DNR will be working with oil retailers, service stations, county and city governments and private industry to make it convenient and easy to recycle motor oil.

Plans for the oil recycling program are being worked on now and oil collection points should be ready and publicized in each county by early 1982.

For more information including the address of the used oil collection point nearest you, contact Barbara Zellmer, DNR Solid Waste Environmental Specialist, (608) 266-7017.

TOP ESSAY IN WASHINGTON COUNTY

"Agriculture: Energy for America's Future"

by Dan Nehm, Slinger FFA

Although it is true that the world is running short of oil, we need not despair. Agriculture can lead the way in finding better and more efficient means of energy production. To the list of food and fiber we will soon be adding fuel.

It is no longer a question of

"if," but "when" the farmer or the community will be self-sufficient in fuel production. It is not difficult to distill fuel alcohol from corn, however, until recently fuel alcohol could not compete with cheap oil. Today the situation is different and we will soon see changes taking place.

Fuel alcohol production lends itself especially well to small, decentralized organization. The technology involved is not complex, and distilleries could ideally be located in farming areas. The high-protein by-product resulting from corn alcohol distillation could be sold wet to farmers for cattle feed each day, thus eliminating costly drying. Small farmers could easily operate their own still part time, using local corn and wood or corn stalks for fuel to produce alcohol and high-protein feed supplement for themselves and their neighbors. Since such a setup would use local renewable resources to produce local material, it would be highly efficient. The profits would also be returned to the community.

Methane production is another source of energy from the farm. Methane or "marsh gas" is a main ingredient of natural gas. Although still in the planning stage, it is possible to heat animal waste and produce methane, which then can be used as a farm fuel.

Besides producing energy, farmers can take the lead in conserving energy. Although most good farmers keep their tractors and machinery in top operating condition to conserve fuel, there are other ways to increase efficiency also. For example, recent technology uses the heat normally wasted from cooling milk to heat water, resulting in savings on the electric bill. Exhaust barn heat can also be used to heat water or even to heat the farmhouse. The air from the barn does not have to flow directly into the house; a heat exchanger takes only the heat into the house. Equipment is already available to do these things.

Low or no-till planting is another option, combining fuel savings with soil conservation. Although not in widespread use, enthusiasm is growing for such conservation tillage, right here in Washington County.

No matter what energy-saving practices the farmer uses, he should not overlook the tax advantages. Tax credits can often be claimed on both the federal and state income tax returns for most energy saving devices.

The farmer has advantages that few others have. He is a natural mechanic and tinkerer. In his spare time he tries to improve his business in any way possible. He takes pride in doing things, not the easiest or fastest, but the best way. For these reasons I have the greatest confidence in the ability of agriculture, more than any other business, to overcome our energy problems.

SOLAR ENERGY

YOU CAN USE THE SUN TO HEAT YOUR WATER. WISCONSIN ELECTRIC CAN HELP.

Last year, Wisconsin Electric began a program to demonstrate the potential of solar water heating by offering 300 solar units for sale.

The response has been exceptional. There are fewer than 170 units remaining. More than 130 residents have already taken advantage of this offer and are enjoying the benefits of having the sun heat some of their water. Here are some of their comments:

"We wouldn't have gone solar if it wasn't for Wisconsin Electric's program." The Houks (New Berlin)

"It's amazing how much energy is provided by the sun. And that's true even when the sun isn't directly out. Wisconsin Electric came in and did a beautiful job." R.K. (Appleton)

"Some of the things we like most about the system is that it is totally maintenance free and it is very neat and compact. We've already recommended it to several people." M.S. (Fredonia)

"We've been quite pleased with it and with the way Wisconsin Electric has handled the program. The company is very interested in making sure it's working and that we don't have any problems." F.S. (Milwaukee)

The solar water heating units will be sold to qualifying customers on a first-come, first-serve basis. The complete system, including installation, is available now for $2795. This is a firm price for 1981. State and Federal tax credits and direct refunds could cut your cost in half. Wisconsin Electric will provide a limited, 5-year warranty.

Homes selected for the program must be single-family structures, not more than two stories high, with a sloping roof facing south in direct sunlight. Some other qualifications include sufficient space for economical plumbing and wiring, adequate electric service and a standard asphalt shingle roof in good condition. The number of persons in the home should not exceed five. Applicants for the program must own the home.

Dr. William Genthe won the Wisconsin Association of Conservation Districts highest award for "Water Quality Improvement" at their 27th annual meeting at Green Bay.

When Bill started visiting Big Cedar Lake as a child, the water was clean and fishing was excellent. Now many years later, Bill, as a cottage owner and chairman of the Big Cedar Lake Protection and Rehabilitation District is the driving force behind efforts to maintain and protect the lake's water quality.

Farmers were encouraged to construct manure storage facilities, contour strip cropping and diversions. To date, concrete manure structures have been installed on three farms and one storage tank designed to trap liquid manure from barnyard to prevent from entering the lake. Forty acres of contour strips were also installed.

Private Property Week

Your Private Property Rights... Know and Protect Them

The WASHINGTON BOARD OF REALTORS, INC., in conjunction with the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS and its more than 1,700 member boards throughout the United States have proclaimed April 19-25 as PRIVATE PROPERTY WEEK.

We are reminded that "of all the rights we have, one of the most precious is the right to acquire real property and to own it, use it or transfer it without interference." This right to private ownership of real property—whether homes, farms, or commercial buildings—is the foundation of our free enterprise system and our political freedom; principles that have built this nation into the world's greatest.

In order for all of us to exercise our private property rights, maintain them and preserve them for the future, it is necessary for everyone first to know, then protect these rights. If we lose our rights to private ownership of the land, we will also lose our free enterprise system and our political freedom as individuals.

WHAT CAN YOU DO TO HELP PROTECT PRIVATE PROPERTY RIGHTS? Start by informing yourself about your local government and the regulations affecting private property. Attend the city or town meeting where you live. Become familiar with what is happening locally on such property issues as zoning actions, taxation and the enforcement of regulations that affect private property owners. Check out political candidates for their positions on private property rights. Exercise your right to vote.

Call your REALTOR and join in with the WASHINGTON BOARD OF REALTORS in helping to celebrate PRIVATE PROPERTY WEEK and preserving the freedom we now enjoy.

Scholarship Won By Barbara Thill

Barbara Thill, a University of Wisconsin-Whitewater student from Kewaskum, has been chosen to receive the Donald Graham Scholarship for 1981-82. It is a renewal of an award she received last year.

The scholarship honors the late Professor Donald Graham, a member of the UW-Whitewater faculty from 1955 until his death in 1976. Dr. Graham had been acting chairman of the Department of Social Studies, assistant dean and then dean of the School of Graduate Studies, director of Summer School, and chairman of the Department of History after returning to full time teaching. He was a long time member of the Faculty Senate and served as its chair in 1971-72.

Primary consideration in selection of the award recipient is the scholastic record.

Ms. Thill, a history/broad field social studies major who plans to teach at high school level upon graduation, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Thill, 4656 Hwy. 28 West, Kewaskum.

Selected to Attend Camp
Counselor Workshop

Adults and older youth are counselors at the Ozaukee-Washington County 4-H Camp which will be held in August. To become a counselor a youth must attend a beginning camp counselor workshop at Upham Woods. Several youths have been selected to attend the workshop the weekend of April 24-26. They are Mike Doll, Allenton; Jim Hupfer, Patty Hupfer, Glen Hupfer and Mary Jo Hupfer, West Bend, and Tina Moody of Kewaskum.

The purpose of the workshop is to provide prospective camp counselors an opportunity to learn communication and human development skills. They need to develop an understanding of needs of campers and how they can carry out their role as a cabin counselor.

Gary Moody of Kewaskum will be an adult advisor with the group and will be a resource counselor at the summer camp.

J & J AUTO

LEAKY FUEL LINE.

Our regular customers at J & J AUTO SERVICE know that the fuel lines of their car motor do not leak. We make it a habit to check the fuel lines as well as the fuel pump for leaks while the engine is running because some types of leaks will not show up except under pressure from the pump. This is just one of the extras we include in our lubrication services.

You, too, will become a regular customer at 450 E. Main after you discover that it is a combination of these many extra services that save your car maintenance expense in the long run.

Keeps his memory ever dear.

But memories turn back every leaf.

Lakes Team Ends Tourney Play At Reedsville

A makeshift Kewaskum team, with several of its best players missing from the lineup, lost its last season game to hosting Valley Bank of Reedsville last Tuesday, 80-67. The contest was a consolation bracket game in the Reedsville Athletic Association Fourth Annual Open Basketball Tournament. The Kewaskum Land o' Lakes team was thus eliminated from the tourney.

Reedsville jumped out to an early lead in the first quarter and maintained a lead of around 10 points throughout the rest of the game. The makeshift lineup actually played a good game considering the height disadvantage they were up against. Phil Tarrant, Kamrath and Ninham of Valley Bank are all between 6' 5" and 6' 7" and their guards, Buzz Soderman and Ralph Turner are both quick and good shooters. On the other hand Jim Gardner at 6' 4" was the only real big man Kewaskum had. They shot well, though, and played a good team ball to stay reasonably close.

In the second half, Reedsville slowed the game down and froze the ball to help avoid anybody fouling out. Valley Bank's team was composed of players from Oshkosh. Soderman, Turner and Ninham formerly played at UW-Oshkosh.

This was Kewaskum's last game of the season. They finished 4-10, tied for third place with Hartford in the Lakes "B" Division. They lost all five of their tournament games this year to make their final overall record 4-15.

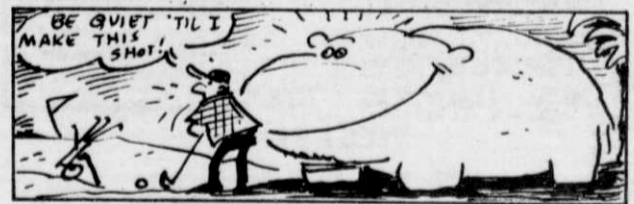

Leading scorers for Valley Bank were Soderman with 21 points, Ralph Turner 21 and Ninham 20. Jim Gardner had 22 points for Kewaskum, Brian Garvey 14 and Steve Farnsworth 10.

Summer Park Attendance Up Last Year

Attendance at Wisconsin state parks during the traditional summer season in 1980, Memorial Day through Labor Day, increased over 1979, though total attendance last year fell below the previous year's totals.

Loren Thorson, Chief of Recreation Programs, said two factors contributed to the overall decrease. He noted that last September was a rainy month and attendance at state parks dropped by more than 225,000 from the September, 1979 figures. Also, the winter season period from January through March 1980 recorded 160,000 fewer visitations than the comparable period of 1979. That was due primarily to a lack of adequate snow during the early months of last year which restricted snowmobiling and cross country skiing opportunities in state parks.

Recreation visits to state parks last year totaled 10,531,353. That is a drop visitations from the 1979 total attendance of 10,801,698.

Camping activity in state parks last year was about the same as the previous year, but was up significantly as were visitations during the summer period of Memorial Day through Labor Day. Again, a rainy September was a factor as there were 57,000 fewer campers in state parks that month last year compared with September, 1979.

Wisconsin residents continue to increase their use of the campsite reservation program each year. Thorson said that 72 percent of confirmed campsite reservation were made by residents in 1980 compared with 66 percent of the total in 1979.

Early visitors to state parks this spring are reminded that the consumption of alcoholic beverages in certain use areas is prohibited from April 1 through May 22.

DNR park officials noted that the ban applies as well to both the Northern and Southern Units of the Kettle Moraine State Forest and Point Beach State Forest.

The restriction does not apply to registered campers in family campgrounds. The ban was begun in the middle 1969's after state parks became the scene of high school and college student "spring flings" often associated with the consumption of excessive amounts of alcohol. Incidents of disorderly conduct were common. Since the ban was imposed for the early portion of the spring park season, disorderly incidents have decreased.

State park officials ask for the cooperation of all park visitors in observing the ban through May 22. "It has helped maintain pleasant and quiet outings for all park visitors," one park official remarked.
