Area Barn Fire Declared Arson

(Statesman photo by Gerry Mueller)

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

A weekend fire which destroyed a 36 by 120 foot barn on a farm owned by Charles and Beverly Garbisch, Route 1, Kewaskum, has been declared arson after an investigation by the State Fire Marshal's office and a $5,000.00 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties, said Fire Chief Roger Vetter of the Beechwood Fire Department.

The fire was discovered at approximately 12:45 a.m. Sunday morning by children of the family renting the farm home. They called the Garbisches who had just gone to bed after attending a dance in Kewaskum.

Garbisch said his wife called the fire department and got their truck out while he dressed. Garbisch, who lives on the next farm directly south, said he saw a small red glow in the barn when he looked out a north kitchen window. By the time he got to the barn, it was engulfed in flames.

The Beechwood Fire Department answered the call to the farm which is located on the southwest corner of Highway D and Boltonville Road, Town of Scott, Sheboygan County. The Boltonville and Batavia fire departments assisted in fighting the blaze and were on the scene until approximately 3:00 a.m. Beechwood remained until 9:00 a.m. because of smoldering hay and straw.

Garbisch said the barn was a total loss, however, the firemen were able to save approximately 45 heifers which were in the barn. "I think we got all the animals out," said Garbisch, "but with all this confusion, I haven't had a chance to take a count or check in the barn to see if there's any in there."

Mrs. Garbisch said they had driven by the barn on the way home from the dance and had not noticed anything wrong at that time.

Preliminary estimates place the loss of the building and its contents of hay and straw at about $15,000.

Seven Wayne Kindergarteners to Attend Kewaskum Elementary

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

After two deadlock votes to decide action on kindergarten scheduling for 1983-84, Richard Zarling, Director of Elementary Education, told a special school board meeting, called Monday night to discuss the situation, "our problems have been solved."

Zarling was referring to the board's inability, last week, to decide whether there should be two kindergarten sections at Wayne, or one, with the overload of approximately seven students being bussed to Kewaskum Elementary for class.

Zarling told board members that new factors including the possibility of one student not going to school at all or going to KES because of babysitting arrangements and a pin being

First KEA/District Salary Negotiations Meeting Disappointing

In a short interview Monday evening, Kewaskum Education Association President David Wietor indicated that the first meeting between the District and KEA for the purpose of negotiating a 1983-84 contract was less than satisfactory.

At the meeting held last Thursday, the KEA came prepared to present its 1983-84 contract proposal. "We set down the ground rules," said Wietor, that we would exchange packages at this meeting. The District brought nothing other than a statement saying what day school will start. Wietor said the KEA is not told what the starting date will be, this is also a negotiated part of our contract bargaining.

When asked if the KEA had presented their package, he said no. When the district has a proposal to put down on the table, we'll present ours, he noted.

Misfortune Hits Haney Family Again

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Virginia Haney, operator of Gina's Pizza on Main Street, was robbed of $190.00 from her business sometime Friday evening.

Kewaskum Police Officer Thomas Bauer said the department received a call at 9:50 p.m. from Mrs. Haney reporting the money missing. The police report says Mrs. Haney had placed the money in a bag at the rear of her store earlier in the evening. When she went back to the room a short time later, to get some change, she noticed the money was gone from the bag and the rear door was not locked completely.

When Mrs. Haney was asked if she could provide any leads, she told police it had been one of her better nights with people in the store all the time and she had been so busy, she wouldn't know where to start trying to remember who was in the store at the general time the theft took place.

This is the second time in less than two months that the Haney family has been victimized by robbery attempts. Mrs. Haney's husband Robert sustained severe injuries last May when he was beaten in a suspected robbery attempt at his business, R.L. Game Room, located just a few doors from his wife's business.

Gro Ommundsen

Alan McFarland

Gro Ommundsen, 18, of Sandnes, Norway, will arrive sometime in August to live with the Warren Sekas family at Dietrich Dr., Route 2, Campbellsport during the 1983-84 school year. Her father is an engineer and her mother is a librarian. She has one brother, Tron, 16 years old, and two sisters, Anne, 19, and Holde, 12.

Gro has had eight years of English, one year of German and one-half year of French. She has traveled to France, Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Greece. Her hobby is painting and drawing.

Sandnes is an industrial center in a primarily agricultural area with 4,000 inhabitants, industry, ironwork, oil industry and a bicycle plant. Sandnes is very close to Stavanger which is the administrative center for the oil production in the North Sea.

The area has all kinds of cultural activities to offer.

Alan McFarland, 18, of Katanning, Western Australia, will be arriving in late July or early August to live with the David Domasky family at 8701 Boltonville Road, Kewaskum. Alan's father has a furniture store and his mother helps in the store. Alan has one brother, Ian, 15, and two sisters, Julie, 13, and Heather, 11.

Katanning is a countryside town of 1,000 people. It is well known for its beef produce and some dairy farming. The people are either farmers or just own shops in the town, a close community of people who have lived there for generations.

Alan speaks his native language and has one year of French. He likes swimming, fishing and likes to read. He has helped his parents in their store.

Kindergarten

seven of which live in the same general area making it convenient to bus them to Kewaskum. This would bring the Wayne section down to 25 students. With 19 children scheduled for Beechwood, 25 at Wayne, 25 at Farmington and three sections covering 73 students at Kewaskum, Zarling said class size would be fairly equal throughout the whole district, and recommended the board approve bussing the seven students.

District Administrator John Long told the board he would stand by its decision, but he still would rather see two classes at Wayne. Board member Ralph Horner motioned to approve the bussing, second by Charles Ogi. The motion was approved 5 to 2, with President Jean Goeden and member Neal Weare voting no.

One of the parents whose child will be bussed, entered the meeting late, shortly before the vote was taken. She said she, and the other parents were opposed to the bussing and wanted the board to re-consider the recommendation. After the motion was approved, she asked what action could be taken to change the board's decision. Long told her, at this point you have no recourse. "You can't fit a district to meet every individual family," said Long.

Another item which had been added to the Special Meeting's agenda was discussion on a secret ballot at the Annual Meeting. Board member John Spoerl brought up the same comment addressed by Ogi at last week's meeting, that an elector at last year's meeting had indicated she wanted a secret ballot cast at this year's meeting.

Goeden said, in checking with Attorney Steve Hintzman of the Wisconsin Association of Schools, association recommendations do not say a motion is needed to have a paper ballot, an elector need only request it. Goeden noted she was against the secret ballot, saying "just because one person requests it, doesn't mean the rest of the people feel the same."

Administrator Long told the board, while he had no problem with a secret ballot, he saw no reason for people to be afraid to cast a "hand" ballot. "I don't think a secret ballot is any big deal," said Long.

Long told the board, the electors will not be voting on the budget itself, but rather the tax levy and this is strictly an advisory vote. "If you have 150 against and 50 for, that's a good indicator you might want to re-think the budget. That's where the indicator comes from, the people as the electorate at that meeting."

Ogi motioned to have a closed ballot, seconded by Spoerl, with Ogi, Spoerl, Brigham and Horner voting for, Lynn Dieringer, Goeden and Weare voting no.

The first coin to bear the portrait of a living president was the 1926 Sesquicentennial half dollar, the obverse of which bore the heads of Presidents Washington and Coolidge.

Even before his first birthday, a child benefits from being read to and told simple stories. Vital for language development, it also gives the toddler the enjoyment of undivided attention from another member of the family.

Celebrates 100th Birthday

Caroline Bohn, 100, and great-granddaughter, Adrienne Elise Bohn, 9 days old.

The 100th birthday of Caroline Bohn, a resident of the Samaritan Home, West Bend, was celebrated on Sunday, July 10, at the Fire House in Boltonville.

Dinner was served to 130 relatives, followed by a Mass celebrated by Father Anthony Thoma and Father Bernard Wagner, cousins of the honoree. An open house followed, attended by friends and former neighbors. The celebration was hosted by her family.

Relatives came from Virginia, Washington D. C., Ohio and Indiana, as well as the surrounding area.

On Monday a Mass was celebrated at the Samaritan Home in her honor by Father James Strupp for relatives, residents and staff. Birthday cake, punch and coffee were served.

Caroline Bohn was born in the Town of Trenton, Washington County, on July 11, 1883. She married Edward Bohn at Holy Angels Church, West Bend, on September 6, 1910. The couple farmed in the West Bend and Fillmore area until retirement. Mr. Bohn died in 1952.

The couple had six children. Living are Philip Bohn (Marian) West Bend; Eleanor Enright (Merlin), near Random Lake, and Alice Bales (Sylvester) of rural Kewaskum. Deceased are Mrs. Marie Minz, Edward Bohn and Raymond Bohn. She has 18 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Gardening, knitting, crocheting and sewing formerly occupied her time. Caroline still works in the Activity Room at the Samaritan. She keeps in touch with children, relatives and friends by phone, receiving calls from her grandchildren in other states.

Her talking clock keeps her on schedule because of failing eyesight.

Kewaskum Welcomes Another New Face to Its Business Community

Thomas Neuy has become the new proprietor of the tavern formerly known as Serwe's Tap at 1310 Riverview Drive.

Neuy, a lifelong resident of West Bend, also runs the Sportsman's Bar in West Bend.

Neuy has named the tavern "The Old Chapperal," and is planning to set a more relaxed atmosphere featuring Country and Western music rather than Rock as featured by prior operators of the tavern. "I'm working with a booking agent in an effort to get some name bands from Nashville to come up here and play on Friday nights," said Neuy.

The Chapperal is serving food, featuring a fish fry on Friday, and Chicken and Roast Beef on Saturday and Sunday. "Later on, we plan to add a smorgasboard," said Neuy.

Neuy has already installed a new bar in the hall area which will be more convenient for private parties using the hall. "We're putting in new carpeting this week and plan on re-doing the whole inside," stated Neuy. "We're going to run a quiet place," he said.

The Chapperal will also be running a food special for Kewaskum's Krazy Daze.

The worst enemy of the human race is nervous tension, and fast living which causes it.

Kewaskum Cable System Outage

Cablevision would like to thank all the residents of Kewaskum for their patience during the cable system outage last Saturday night, July 16th, between 7:30 p.m. and 11:15 p.m.

The loss of service was caused by the complete breakdown of the main system power supply located just north of West Bend. The power supply runs all of the system's line amplifiers serving village subscribers to the system.

The power supply failure was caused by an apparent combination of the build up of excess heat and by a recent power surge such as a lightning strike to the lines.

Subscribers to Cablevision who attempted to contact the cable system office may have found the phone lines busy when they called due to the large number of calls being taken. Service personnel were dispatched immediately to work on the problem and a new power supply was installed. Normal service was restored as quickly as possible.

State Senator
SCOTT McCALLUM
Reports

Wisconsin Farmers and PIK

If all goes as planned, Wisconsin farmers can expect a better year in 1983 than the one they experienced in 1982, reports Scott McCallum (R-Fond du lac). A new federal program, the Payment-in-kind (PIK) program, has been enacted to help the ailing agricultural economy.

The PIK arrangement is a revived depression-era program that began in January this year under the Reagan administration. It is designed to keep corn prices up and surpluses down.

The program allows growers of corn, rice, wheat, and cotton to idle as much as half their acreage. In return, the government rewards them with surplus corn equal to 80% of what they normally would harvest from those acres. Farmers may choose to keep the corn, sell it, or store it at government expense, for five months. In effect, the PIK plan will allow some farmers to benefit from corn crops without having to plant them.

Currently, more than 30,000

Wisconsin farmers have idled 1.5 million acres of corn land. They will be paid with 86.8 million bushels of surplus corn. In total, state corn growers are expected to receive an estimated $243 million in surplus corn this fall. The average grain payment to a Wisconsin farmer will be valued at $8,100.

A special PIK program is also available to about a dozen farmers in the state. This arrangement is designed to compensate farmers who have reached the limit of $50,000 in cash payments. They will have the option of accepting more surplus corn or planting crops other than corn on land that otherwise would be idle.

The Reagan administration is hoping that this program will be effective in allowing the government to work off the huge, and costly, grain surpluses that have accumulated as a result of the states' record-setting harvests. It should also enable many farmers to pay off overdue debts from 1982, when the bumper crop pushed market prices nearly $1 a bushel below the cost of production.

"You never have a second chance to make a good first impression."

County, State 4-H'ers to Participate in Citizenship-Washington Focus Program

Nearly 300 Wisconsin 4-H youth will travel to the nation's capital this summer as part of the Citizenship-Washington Focus Program. About 4,600 4-H members from 44 states will participate in the series of week-long sessions, designed to give them active experience in understanding their roles as U.S. citizens.

Washington County youth who will participate in a July session include Terri Barth, Robert Falk, Karen Pikoske, and Stan Shaw, Jr.

The participants will meet members of Congress and see them in action. They'll learn how bills become law, and how they can influence the process. The 4-H'ers will also visit government agencies, and the capital's historic and cultural sites. Workshops and seminars will help them apply what they learn to local 4-H programs.

Selection to the Citizenship-Washington Focus Program is an honor, and is based on an individual's leadership ability and overall accomplishments. Most of these 4-H'ers are 16-19 years old — mature enough to learn about government — and perhaps already voting. Each Wisconsin county sends an average of about four participants each year.

The program costs about $400 per youth. Each participant's family pays over one-half the amount, while the county 4-H leaders raise the rest. The Washington County Bankers Association, Farm Bureau, and Farm Bureau Women contribute to the program. But the cost is well worth it. The participants meet many 4-H'ers from other states, and learn of the wide variety of programs among different clubs. The excitement and aura surrounding the nation's capitol have an effect no local citizenship workshop could produce.

It starts an awakening process in them. Seeing Congress work on television or reading about it in the newspapers isn't the same as sitting right there in the gallery. If the program fosters a change in the individuals, it's money well spent.

State Fair Offers Discount To Unemployed

The Wisconsin State Fair will offer a $1 discount off the regular $3 admission fee to unemployed fairgoers throughout its Aug. 4-14 run.

"We knew it was a good idea and began working on it as soon as it was brought up at our recent board meeting," commented James W. (Billy) Greiner, Fair director. "We held the announcement of the discount in hopes we'd find a sponsor to underwrite a further discount. We welcome any potential sponsors or offers."

The Fair will admit anyone with an Unemployed Workers Discount Program membership card, or other proof of unemployment, for only $2 at any gate at Wisconsin State Fair Park at any time during regular Fair hours any day of the Fair. The unemployed discount cannot be used in conjunction with any other gate admission discount.

"We wish we could offer more of a discount," added Jayne Steffens, who handles the Fair's group sales. "However, we are not tax-supported, and we depend on outside sponsors to supplement programs like this."

The Unemployed Workers Discount Program is sponsored by the Milwaukee County Labor Council, United Auto Workers Region 10, and the Wisconsin Action Coalition. Membership cards are available at many locations in Milwaukee, Dane, Waukesha and Dodge counties. For exact locations, call 414-276-0760. Unemployed workers not living in or near these counties will receive the discount with valid proof of unemployment, such as an unemployment check, layoff notice from their employer, or proof from their unemployment office.

Allen Bernard Herriges, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Herriges of Wayne, was instantly killed on July 16, when his auto was struck broadside by a fast-traveling Chicago and North Western railway passenger train on the Main Street crossing in Campbellport. Herriges is survived by his parents, a sister, Mrs. Joseph Ruplinger of Wayne; three brothers, Raynor of Kewaskum, and Leander and Linus at home.

Harold Krueger, 35, who resides on Hwy. V about two miles north of Kewaskum, was seriously burned Saturday afternoon in a flash fire while trying to dispose of a pile of rubbish in his yard. Krueger suffered second degree burns on his arms, face and neck. The mishap occurred when Krueger poured gasoline on a pile of rubbish when it failed to ignite. Lighting a piece of paper to start the rubbish, Krueger was enveloped in flames when the gasoline fumes ignited. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, West Bend.

The budget hearing of the School District of Kewaskum, held on July 14, was called to order by August Koch, director of the Board of Education, with 13 electors present. It was moved by Leo Bingen and seconded by Fred Spoerl to present the proposed budget of $89,741.32 to the electors at the annual meeting. The motion carried.

James Van De Hei, 20, of Route 1, West De Pere, a construction worker on the Hwy. 45 project between Barton and Kewaskum, was killed instantly in an accident Monday, when a front end tractor-loader he was driving tipped over and pinned him beneath it on the gravel road known as the "old West Bend road" several miles south of Kewaskum.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wagner, Kewaskum, on July 15. A daughter was also born to Mr. and Mrs. James Falk, West Bend, July 14. Mr. Falk is the son of the Wilmer Falks of Kewaskum.

50 Years Ago

July 21, 1933

Sheriff George Freund of Fond du Lac County on Monday issued orders that all roadhouses and taverns in that county must get rid of women employees or face arrest. The orders were given after the sheriff received numerous complaints from people residing near the various roadhouses and taverns operating with women employees. Several raids were made Monday night by deputy sheriffs of roadhouses and taverns which were open after the closing hour. It is claimed that most of the women employed in the roadhouses and taverns are strangers and are connected with a "ring" which furnishes women entertainers, with headquarters at Chicago and Milwaukee. The complaints filed with the sheriff claim that in a number of places in the county as high as four women were on duty nightly. In many roadhouses, the "hostesses" were well dressed and could not be distinguished from the women patrons. Owners of the roadhouses claim that women increased their business and the oftener they employed different women the better their business was. The women were sent from one place to another and after completing the circuit of the county, they were sent to another county and another group sent to Fond du Lac County.

Last week Saturday was one of the busiest days at the L. Rosenheimer Malt and Grain Company for a number of years. This was due to numerous farmers bringing barley and several breweries in the neighborhood sending trucks to get a supply of malt.

Reminder to Property Owners

As the summer building season is upon us, please note that the Washington County Land Use and Park Department Inspectors administer and enforce the following ordinances within the community:

Zoning Ordinance - Townships of Addison, Barton, Erin, Farmington, Hartford, Kewaskum, Trenton, Wayne and West Bend.

Building Code - Townships of Addison, Barton, Erin, Farmington, Hartford, Kewaskum, Wayne and West Bend.

Sanitary Ordinance - Entire County.

Shoreland and Floodplain Zoning Ordinance - Entire County.

Before beginning any construction (including remodeling or any structural alterations), please check what zoning and building permits and inspections will be necessary. Also be aware that permits are usually required for fences, swimming pools, signs, and accessory structures.

Please contact us before doing any work on your septic system other than the routine pumping of your septic tank every 2 or 3 years as required under County Ordinance. County and state laws require that any repairs, alternations, extensions or additions require permits at the county level and the state requires that the person performing the work be properly licensed.

Enforcement of the Shoreland and Floodplain Ordinance pertains especially to people who live within 300' of a river, navigable stream or within 1,000' of a lake. Permits may require approval by the Washington County Park and Planning Commission prior to your starting work on the following projects within the shoreland or floodplain zone:

- Filling, grading, ponding or

- lagooning.
- Sand blanket.
- Seawall or riprap.
- Additions or alterations to existing structures.
- New construction of any type.

When working near lakes and streams, you are advised to contact the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources at 257-6543 because in most cases permits will be needed from them also.

To help minimize complications, please do not hesitate to contact our office for information about the procedure for obtaining any of the permits mentioned above. When work takes place without permits, County and State Laws usually hold the property owner responsible, even if the work was done by a contractor.

WHAT ARE WISDOM TEETH?

By J. D. Connor, D.D.S.

Wisdom teeth are the last permanent teeth which are supposed to erupt when a person is about eighteen years old, supposedly the time at which people reach the age of wisdom—(thus, the name, wisdom teeth).

What is an impaction? Teeth are formed deep within the jaw bones and eruption is a tooth's movement toward its normal place in the oral cavity. If a tooth erupts in the wrong direction or if it is blocked from reaching its normal position in the mouth, it is said to be impacted. An impacted tooth may be defined as one that is prevented from following its normal eruption pattern because of malposition, lack of space, blockage by another tooth, dense bone formation, unduly long retention of the temporary teeth, premature loss of temporary teeth, density of the overlying mucous membrane, acquired diseases, or some other impediment.

What is meant by unerupted and malposed teeth? An impacted tooth should not be confused with unerupted tooth or a malposed tooth. The unerupted tooth is not present in the arch, but is still forming within the jaw bone and as the root develops, the tooth erupts towards its future place in the dental arch.

A malposed tooth is one which has erupted into the wrong place in the dental arch.

Can an impacted tooth cause harm? The impacted tooth, whether it can be seen in the mouth or not, is subject to caries in the same manner as other teeth and, if neglected, can cause a severe toothache.

In some cases where the lower third molar remains impacted, the upper third molar has continued to erupt downward to press against the gum tissue flap covering the crown of the impacted tooth, resulting in an acute infection, called pericoronitis, which may extend to the cheek, throat, or neck, causing headache, severe pain, jaw stiffness, and a general systemic malaise. Bacteria in the saliva, seeping around and under the gum tissue flap, may also cause an acute infectious condition with complications.

An impacted tooth can also cause harm by pressing against another tooth, especially if the hard enamel crown is in contact with soft root structure. The tooth under pressure may be injured and may be pushed out of position.

Finally, an impacted tooth may encourage the development of a cyst or other pathologic process around the crown, causing much bone destruction and injury to adjacent teeth.

Why not disregard the impacted tooth until it becomes troublesome and then remove it? All impacted teeth do not cause harm, but as previously stated, they are a potential source of disturbance. (X-rays do not reveal which impaction is going to become a problem). The removal of impacted teeth is easier for the younger patient but becomes more difficult as the patient grows older.

If a patient waits for an impacted tooth to become active, the infection or other ensuing complications will have to be controlled before removal can be considered.

During the acute pericoronitis stage of infection, for instance, or when soreness is present, it may be wiser not to remove an impacted tooth, even though covered adequately with antibiotics. First, the inflammation is reduced by treatment. This means additional loss of time, entails additional expense, and possibly an added surgical risk.

Is there any preferred time to remove an impacted third molar? The question of when a third molar should be removed is one that can be answered only by consideration of the individual case. Personal factors that should be considered include the presence of active infections, pregnancy, possible hemorrhage and blood dyscrasias (an abnormal blood condition), and the patient's general health. Constant monitoring at regular intervals is the best way to avoid problems with wisdom teeth.

Free Thermometers Avoid Burn Injuries From Hot Tap Water

A potentially dangerous liquid lurks in the plumbing of thousands of Wisconsin homes. It's overly hot tap water.

In an effort to avoid burn injuries from hot tap water, and to encourage energy conservation, Wisconsin Electric Power Co. is again offering thermometers free to customers who wish to test the temperature of their water. A similar effort last year resulted in the distribution of about 140,000 of the thermometers.

According to recent studies, more than 2,600 people across the nation are scalded every year by hot tap water, some fatally. Most victims are young children, the elderly and disabled.

The thermometers will enable customers to check the temperature of their hot water, and then set their water heaters accordingly. Wisconsin Electric recommends that water heaters be set no higher than 120 degrees Fahrenheit, which would not only be safe, but economical, since it costs less to heat water to lower temperatures.

"Many water heaters are set at 150 degrees at the factory, even though water at this temperature can cause a third-degree burn in less than two seconds," said WE Medical Director, Dr. Erwin Huston. "By contrast, it would take 10 minutes to cause a serious burn at 120 degrees."

The thermometers may be obtained by calling (414) 277-3311. In addition to the thermometer, customers will receive a brochure offering hot water safety tips, energy saving advice and information on how to lower the temperature and extend the life of a water heater.

New Motorcycle Safety Film 'Riding High' Is Available for Distribution

Everybody knows that drinking and driving don't mix. But nobody knew for sure what happens to critical skills when motorcyclists drink and then attempt to ride.

Now this information is available in a new 28-minute documentary produced by WHAT-TV for the state Department of Transportation's motorcycle safety program.

The film is titled "Riding High" and is available on free loan through the DOT film library.

"We're really 'high' on this film," said David Bohlman, chairman of the DOT motorcycle safety committee. "It accomplishes something never before done in highway safety... it presents a message without moralizing or showing even one drop of blood," he added.

Ronald Thompson, motorcycle safety program manager, said the film features eight Wisconsin cyclists of varying skill levels, showing them performing portions of the Motorcycle Operator Skill Test both drunk and sober.

Careful records were kept of the number of drinks each rider consumed, and blood/alcohol concentrations (BAC) are shown on their backs as each rider goes through the "wet" runs. Although one of the riders was unable to complete one portion of the test because of a high BAC level, the eight riders compiled a total of 105 "Error" points after drinking compared to only 29 during the "dry" runs, Thompson said.

Bohlman said a nationwide search found no available films on the subject of cycling and drinking. The DOT committee recommended production of the film after studying Wisconsin cycle crash data and finding that six of every 10 cyclists killed in 1981 were legally intoxicated.

The percentage dropped to 47 percent in 1982, after the state enacted a tougher drunk driving law.

In addition to the 25 copies available for free distribution through the DOT, another 50 copies have been purchased by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation for nationwide distribution, while American Family Insurance, Madison, added 20 prints to their free film library.

Funding for the film was provided through the DOT Office for Highway Safety's state motorcycle safety program. Bill Maund, WHA-TV, was producer and director.

Requests for the film should be addressed to the DOT Film Library, P.O. Box 7713, Madison, WI 53707. Copies are also available on 3/4-inch videotape.

Power Lines Can Be Deadly

Power lines have become just as familiar and just as common as the building and the roads around us.

There is one important difference, however. Power lines can be deadly.

Overhead and underground power lines cannot be taken for granted while on the job — especially when using cranes and other tall equipment. Before starting any work near overhead power lines, call your local electric utility for information on voltages of the lines, safe working clearances, or whether the lines should be de-energized or re-routed by the utility.

For information on overhead power lines call the Wisconsin

Electric "Emergency Service-Lights Out" number listed in the local telephone directory. If you are outside Wisconsin Electric's service area, call your local utility.

Before digging call DIGGERS HOTLINE at 334-5111 (Milwaukee) or at 1-800-242-8511 outside Milwaukee. In Michigan, call MISS DIG at 1-800-482-7171. Some areas outside Wisconsin Electric's service area may not be served by DIGGERS HOTLINE or MISS DIG. In that case, call your local utility.

For more information on safety around power lines and to receive a free safety kit containing posters, stickers and brochure, write to Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Safety Program, Room 377, P.O. Box 2046, Milwaukee, Wis., 53201.

ARE YOU RUNNING A RISK?

Every year, more than 2,600 people are severely scalded by ordinary tap water. Some die. Most are young children, but the elderly and disabled are also victims.

If your water heater is set at 140°F or more — and most are — it can cause third-degree burns in less than 5 seconds.

Lowering the temperature to 120° can lower the risk. And lower your energy bills besides.

At that setting, you'll still have enough hot water for most household uses, and you'll greatly reduce the chances of a scalding accident.

Water heater thermostats aren't always accurate, but you can check your water temperature with a special thermometer developed by Wisconsin Electric. The thermometer is free, along with a guide to using hot water safely and wisely.

To get yours, call 277-3311. Because your family's safety could be just a matter of degrees.

[Implied Consent Law] - Warning, Law Is Tough!

Summer fun, picnics, vacations, and parties on warm days, especially physically active days, may increase your consumption of alcoholic beverages. Sheriff Clarence Schwartz warns motorists the new Implied Consent Law is TOUGH! You refuse it you lose it!

"Make no mistake about it. If you're arrested for operating while intoxicated and refuse to take the breathalyzer test, you are going to lose your license, says Schwartz. Plea bargaining has been reduced substantially by the new law since courts must approve and find it consistent with the intent of the drunk driving legislation," he added.

The mandatory six month license revocation for refusing the chemical test is separate from the penalties for drunken driving. And in addition to the heavy fine and revocation of the drivers license, there are other considerations that the convicted driver must consider.

Reinstating a drivers license after revocation requires payment of a reinstatement fee, passing all tests (including behind the wheel), and posting proof of financial responsibility. Remember, in almost all instances, this places the driver in the high risk insurance group, which costs two to three times the normal insurance rates, Sheriff Schwartz points out.

The best way to avoid the unpleasant, costly consequences of a drunk driving or breath test refusal charge is to limit your alcohol intake when driving - or not drink at all, says Schwartz. In a party situation, many groups are now appointing one person as official driver, to remain sober and see that everyone gets home safely.

Remember, if you are hosting a summer party gathering, you have a responsibility to your guests. Arrange for their safe transportation home.

Partygoers must consider their implied consent responsibility. If you are stopped for operating under the influence of an intoxicant and directed to take the test, you refuse it...you lose it!

roads and bridges.

The payment included $35.1 million in transportation aids, and $1.79 million for maintenance of "connecting" highways.

In the July distribution, Washington County received $471,989.06. Payments to municipalities in Washington County include $112,353.09 to West Bend, $54,882.68 to Hartford, $3,324.46 to Slinger, $2,855.21 to Jackson and $63,788.67 to Germantown. Towns receiving payments were: Addison $6,678.04, Barton $4,442.87, Erin $5,506.70, Farmington $5,213.11, Germantown $511.38, Hartford $6,483.04, Jackson $7,191.10, Kewaskum $4,182.35, Polk $8,153.30, Richfield $11,555.77, Trenton $6,247.99, Wayne $5,263.76 and West Bend $8,097.57.

County Receives $471,989 in Road Aids

The state Department of Transportation has issued checks totaling $36.9 million to 1,921 counties, cities, towns and villages, representing the quarterly payment transportation aids to help pay the cost of building and maintaining local

In addition, connecting highway maintenance payments for Washington County included $15,148.27 to West Bend and $5,922 to Hartford.

Transportation aid payments to local units of government represent a major portion of the state transportation revenues derived from motor fuel taxes, vehicle registration and driver license fees.

A NEW APPROACH TO STUDENT LOANS

Federal loan and grant programs have made it possible for millions of young American to attend college. These programs generally have been sound, well managed, and effective, but increasing problems with tight money, high interest rates, non-repayment of loans, and eligibility inequities make it necessary for us to see if there is a better way to provide student aids.

Last week, I joined Wisconsin Rep. Thomas E. Petri (R-Fond du Lac) in proposing the Income Dependent Education Assistance (IDEA) of 1983 to supplement current student aid programs with an alternative solving some of problems without busting the budget.

The means of financing an education is more critical than ever, given the rise in college costs. Post graduation job selection is more often affected by large educational debts, with the graduate making a job decision more on the basis of compensation to repay the debts rather than on personal preference or society's needs.

This is unfair, especially when high incomes graduates abuse the system by investing their money rather than repay low-interest, taxpayer subsidized student loans.

The IDEA program would offer loans much as the present Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) and National Defense Student Loan (NDSL) programs, but would be self-financing through repayment plans geared to graduates' post education income - i. e. ability to pay. Larger income graduates would pay higher rates than lower income ones. Loan rates now are fixed, but IDEA rates would float with Treasury bill rates annually, but never more than 14%.

Under IDEA, students could borrow up to $40,000 ($2500 per undergraduate year and $10,000 per graduate year). Repayments would be collected by the IRS through the income tax, but would be limited to 15% of the borrower's income to keep the debt manageable through times of unemployment, job changes, or other

IDEA funds would be available to everyone without a means test. This is part of the concept the program's structure should focus on repayment terms rather than loan distribution policies.

There are other good provisions in IDEA, too. Low income borrowers will have any balance outstanding after 30 years completely forgiven, for example, and holders of outstanding GSL and NDSL loans can convert them to the IDEA program.

The IDEA program solves many problems and would be a fairer system. IDEA is a good idea!

Searching through Wisconsin's 280 newspapers for articles of interest to nearly 375 clients is a challenging task for readers at the Wisconsin Newspaper Association Clipping Service. In business since 1933, the service finds, clips, identifies and mails over 500,000 clips annually to clients eager to know about news stories affecting them.

Most Wisconsin residents read at least one or two newspapers, sometimes more. But why would anybody need to see news stories from 280 dailies and weeklies?

Why—because newspaper clippings are essential to a variety of Wisconsin businesses, trade associations, governmental agencies and individual citizens.

Information gleaned from the state press is sought, for example by Jac and Ann Kivett of Stoughton, James Laird of Appleton and Professor Don Jensen of Madison.

They are among more than 375 customers who pore through envelopes of clippings provided by the Wisconsin Newspaper Association (WNA). A staff of eight readers and clippers search through Wisconsin's 280 newspapers, marking and clipping articles, dropping the rest of the paper into trash barrels.

The Kivetts want information about parking meter developments. Laird looks for news of property tax assessments. Professor Jensen uses the clippings to tabulate farm accidents.

Tips leading to new business sales are a major interest among firms which are clipping bureau clients. Companies also subscribe to the service to keep an eye on what their competitors are doing.

Politicians, governmental officials and utility executives monitor newspaper editorials, cartoons and letters-to-the-editor to chart shifts in public opinion.

Advertising agencies and public relations offices depend on clippings to log the number of their news releases and promotion campaigns which earn publication in Wisconsin newspapers.

Individual Citizens have interests ranging from the pros and cons of billboards to newspaper reports on UFO sightings in Wisconsin.

Headlines which catch the eye of the Kivetts, who are manufacturer's representatives doing business as the Traffic Equipment Co., are those telling about cities considering the installation of new parking meters. But sometimes the clippings relay a storm signal.

"The trend recently has been toward removal of meters from some business districts," Jac explains. "Downtown merchants might be afraid meters may drive buyers out to shopping malls."

That's a mistake," Ann points out. "For instance, Hudson, Wisconsin, tried discontinuing its main street meters. But the parking utility found the free parking spaces were being occupied by non-retail employees before store customers got there. So the city reactivated the meters and discovered a few cents an hour is not going to chase a shopper up the road at today's gasoline prices."

Laird's appraisal consulting service finds WHA clippings offer leads when governmental units set up property tax systems or conduct reassessments. "One out of about five clippings converts to a new account," he says. "The clips are an integral part of our business."

Professor Jensen, University of Wisconsin-Madison farm safety specialist, reports state newspaper stories reflect a downward trend in fatal agricultural accidents in the past quarter-century. "Human factors or errors are involved in most accidents—fatigue, depression, attitude, haste, stress, horseplay and poor judgement," Jensen adds.

His studies remind clipping bureau employees that one of their unusual clients in past years ordered stories about accidents involving angry bulls. It seems the client sold brass rings for bull noses.

Current clipping service customers include a Milwaukee department store which keeps track of court actions regarding shoplifting and burglary. A federal government agency monitors stores of injuries associated with consumer products. A commercial photographer keeps a file of graduation class reunions scheduled in his eastern Wisconsin area.

The U.S. Weather Bureau collects accounts of "damage resulting from weather." Universities and colleges want to know about alumni marriages and deaths. The Wisconsin Professional Police Association seeks candidates for its awards to youth and adults for courageous acts. A central Wisconsin motel follows up stories on future conferences and conventions.

Just as families pass around clippings among their near and distant relatives, numerous WNA clients reproduce key clippings for relay to officials throughout the state and region.

Wisconsin Department of Transportation employees look forward to receiving a Reader Review of clippings. Developed by retired public information officer and Mineral Point newspaper publisher George Bechtel, the format has been adopted by highway offices in Wyoming, Florida and several other states.

Governmental ordinances and other documents published by Wisconsin newspapers are filed for statewide inquiries received by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities in Madison. John Kirkpatrick extracts clippings highlights for two monthly league publications which he edits for nearly 10,000 municipal officials.

WNA headquarters in Madison distributes over half a million clippings a year to clients in Wisconsin and nearby states. The operation dates back to 1933 when the association purchased a small clipping service from a Madison man (Paul Hunter), who ran it for his real estate and civic club interests.

A staff of eight readers and clippers are supervised by Muriel Brandt, bureau manager. It becomes a highly developed skill, memorizing the continually changing list of clients and the subjects they want clipped, and scanning every paper of every newspaper in the state with those clients in mind.

Readers locate the stories that are to be clipped, marking them with numbers that represent each client. Then clippers go through those papers, cutting out the stories that are marked. An identification tab showing the name and date of the newspaper is then pasted on top, and the articles are folded and placed in a client file to be mailed each week.

Still, the process of looking for article and sending them to clients remains the same. "We provide a service that no one could afford to do by himself," says Muriel. The cost of subscriptions of every paper for a year would be astronomical. And the labor to read every paper and clip out only the stories wanted would be at least double the cost."

"You don't have time to read for information or enjoyment," Muriel says. "Actually, if you find something that interests you, it just bogs you down. There are too many newspapers that have to be read to get distracted by one story. But still, a reader knows pretty well what is going on around the state."

She and her staff summarize the bureau's work this way:

"The faces on the clipping room floor belong to people who don't care what the press is saying about them."

... about your Social Security

By David Becker, Social Security Branch Manager in West Bend

SSI REPORTS VERY IMPORTANT

People in the area who receive supplemental security income (SSI) payment have a very important responsibility to report any change in their circumstances that could have an effect on their eligibility or amount of their payment, David Becker, Social Security branch manager in West Bend said recently.

SSI is a Federal program that provides a basic cash income to people 65 and over, or blind, or disabled who have little income and own little property. Although SSI is administered by the Social Security Administration, all funds come from Federal general revenues, not Social Security taxes.

A person who does not report a change may get too much money and have to pay it back. Or, the person may miss out on money if the change would raise the payment.

A person must report:

- Any change in a savings account, Christmas club, certificates of deposit, or any other account. A person whose name is on someone else's account must report this, too, even if he or she does not use the account.

- If he or she takes a job or goes into business, or any change in earnings, including cash, checks, food, or anything received as pay.

- If he or she receives any other income, such as annuities, pensions, workers' compensation, any benefit check, interest, prizes, gifts, awards, insurance money, support, alimony, strike pay or other union benefits, inheritances, rental income, and sick pay.

- If anyone gives the person money, food, clothing or free housing, or pays any bills or rent.

- If the person enters or leaves an institution, such as a hospital, nursing home, county home, halfway house, jail, prison, or any other kind of institution.

There are other changes that must be reported, but these are the most common, Becker said. More information about what should be reported by people getting SSI payments can be obtained at any Social Security office. The telephone number is 1-800-242-9946.

West Bend Navy Recruiting Station Moves

After eight years at its old location at 136 North Main Street, West Bend's Navy Recruiting Station has moved crosstown.

Operating at 1605 South Main Street, the office, which opened July 9th, provides free career guidance to interested Washington and Ozaukee County residents concerning the latest information on Navy career and occupational opportunities, education benefits and scholarship programs.

The office is headed by Aircrew Survival Equipmentman First Class Bruce Spielman, who has been recruiting since June, 1980. A twelve-year Navy veteran, he has served at aviation commands in Marminster, Pennsylvania; Norfolk, Virginia, and Corpus Christi, Texas.

The first telephone book ever issued contained only fifty names. It was published in New Haven, Connecticut.

ANOTHER CHILD HAZARD

It is dangerous for a child to swallow one of the dime-size batteries used in watches, hearing aids and cameras. Within a very thin casing of stainless steel, each battery contains twice the mercury needed to kill a grown person. Weak stomach acid could dissolve the casing in 5 hours. In one case, a British surgeon immediately operated to remove the battery from a boy's stomach and found it corroded - it broke apart in his forceps.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of my dear husband, Lloyd J. Erdmann, who passed away one year ago, July 26, 1982.

Memories grow more precious still

When loved ones have to part
And remain forever blooming
In the gardens of the heart
While we who walked together
Walk now so far apart
How sweet to know that distance

Cannot separate the heart
Nothing could be more beautiful
Than memories I have of you
To me you were someone special

God must have thought so, too.
Forever loved and missed by wife Leona.

RACING NEWS

By Joe Thiel

Adding some goals to the fire Saturday, Gene Erdmann of Sussex won the 30-lap modified feature race at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth, for the second week in a row. It was a straight shot from the pole to the finish for Erdmann, who leads the modified points standings in the Eastern Wisconsin Racing Association.

Halfway back in the 19-car field at the start, Ron Luedtke battled his way up to finish second. He took third place away from Bill Johnson II of Slinger on the 16th lap, and then traded places a few times for second with Plymouth's Randy Tracy before taking full command of that spot.

John Born of Cleveland took home the win in the 20-lap sportsman feature. He said it was a transmission change after the heat races that made the difference in his race, after he got rid of an early ignition problem. "I never did that before," Born said. But the track was hard and black and slippery, and due to those conditions he changed transmissions to go "way down in gear ratio."

"Gary Laack was right behind—I saw him a few times on the inside. I just had to drive a groove, and make him go around me if he wanted to pass." Laack never got that chance to pass, though he was on Born's tail almost the whole race. Born led from the early going after wresting the lead from pole-sitter Jim Pitzen.

The 10-lap hobby stock feature was won by Randy Meyer, holding off his hometown rival Dave Haag, who leads the point standings in that division. Both Haag and Meyer are from Plymouth.

Terry Peik of Reedsville quickly worked his way through the ranks in the 15-lap modified semi-feature, from his tenth place start in the field of 15 to second place on the second lap. He took the lead from Campbell'sport's Rich Buslaff, and rode it to the finish line.

In the 12-lap sportsman semi-feature, Bernie Jesson of Fredonia took advantage of a second-lap tangle that dropped Dale Bauer and Francis Klein out of contention for the lead. They were battling for second behind Chuck Amweg of Elkhart Lake, but Jesson took the spot when they mixed up their interests in the second turn. Jesson demoted Amweg in the fourth lap and then stretched the lead for an easy win.

Winning in the second week of street eliminator action was David Lazansky in a '72 Gremlin, winning the two-lap dash over Rodney Mueller in his Buick Apollo.

Wind Up EW Season with 4-14 Record Indians Defeat Kiel in Twin Bill, Random Lake; Also Lose 3

The Kewaskum Indians finished their regular season with a busy week of baseball, winning 3 games and losing 3 to split six games.

Last Monday at Two Rivers the Raiders used two three-run innings to defeat the Indians, 7-5. Scott Yakoubek's bases loaded triple in the fourth was the killer as it erased a 4-3 Indian lead.

Jim Braun, Tim Dettmann and John Swanson, who took the loss, all had two hits for Kewaskum. The Indians scored single runs in each of the first, second and fifth innings and two in the fourth. Several errors were costly for the Indians.

Swanson went four innings, giving up six runs on seven hits. Freshman Tim Rohlinger finished up, allowing one run on two hits while striking out four.

Tuesday evening the Indians swept a doubleheader from Kiel here, taking the opener, 4-3, and the nightcap, 9-2.

The opener featured a three hit pitching performance by junior Brian Arndt. The second game was more decisive with two home runs providing help for Jim Hanrahan to gain his first pitching victory.

Hanrahan also pitched a three hit game, including the retiring of 15 batters in succession at one point.

Kewaskum scored single runs in the first and third frames and concluded its scoring with two in the fourth in the opener. Kiel scored a run in the third and a pair in the fifth.

In the nightcap the Raiders picked up two runs on just one hit in the first inning and were shut out the rest of the way. Offensively for the Indians Braun and Dieringer were the stars at the plate. Braun hit an opposite field home run and added two more hits later, going 3 for 3. Dieringer also homered and singled, his four bagger coming in the third with a runner on base. Kewaskum added four insurance runs in the sixth.

The Indians closed their Eastern Wisconsin conference season with losses to Chilton Thursday, 10-9 and 5-3. The first loss concluded a game that had been suspended on June 23 when darkness set in after the two teams went nine innings and were tied 9-9. Neither team scored in the 10th or 11th but the Tigers (home team in this game) scored with two outs in the last of the 12th for the victory.

Ivan Wenig got credit for the victory while the Indians' Brian Arndt suffered the loss.

In the second game Chilton took a 5-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh but the Indians tallied two in the last of the seventh to narrow the gap to 5-3. Chilton got out of it with the tying and winning runs on base. Kewaskum first got on the board with a run in the second. Tiger pitcher Doehr sailed through the next five innings without much problems until the seventh, when he started losing control, and Kewaskum had a chance to win the game. Braun and Dieringer each had two hits for the Indians.

Kewaskum ended up with a 4-14 record in the Eastern Wisconsin for last place.

Kewaskum concluded its regular season on Friday with a surprising non-conference victory over Random Lake, co-champs of the Central Lakeshore Conference, 12-3.

Hanrahan and Arndt shared mound duties, limiting the Rams to six hits. The Indians banged out 11 hits with all starters except Hanrahan getting at least one. Swanson and Arndt each had a pair with Swanson driving in four runs.

Both Kewaskum pitchers looked sharp, with Hanrahan getting credit for the victory. Krueger was the only Ram with two hits.

The win gave Kewaskum a 5-19 overall record for the season, going into the regional tournament against Campbellspore here Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

THURSDAY NIGHT GOODTIME LEAGUE

Standings

Bartelt Ins.	4-1
BJ & Co.	4-2
Kennelly	3-2
Thornton & Schaub	2-4
Grand Larsony	1-5

HIGHLIGHTS

In the first game Kennelly squeaked out a 3 to 2 win over Grand Larsony. Ed "Anchor Clanker" Pfeiffer kept the Grand Larsony hitters off balance with his mixed bag of bopper pitches. It has been a tough year so far for the Crass boys and Grand Larsony. They have lost numerous close games and once again this week had to play with nine players which makes the tenth hitter an automatic out. This probably lost them the game. In the last of the 7th Grand Larsony had 2 runners on base with 2 out and the ninth hitter at the plate. Ed Pfeiffer, being the good sport he is, was going to pitch to the hitter. However, team manager Hiram "Win at any cost" Justman insisted that he walk the ninth hitter thus bringing up the automatic out and the game was over.

In the second game BJ & Co. out stumbled Thornton & Schaub by a 4 to 3 score. Don "Concrete Hands" Nowack had a key hit for the winners. Dave "Twinkle Toes" Schaub and Eddie "I can see again" Kleinke made some dazzling defensive gems to keep Thornton & Schaub in the game. There were several comments about a certain myopic umpire, however, situations have a way of evening themselves out in the end.

July 21 games - 6:00 p.m., Bartelt Ins. vs. Kennelly; 7:00 p.m., Grand Larsony vs. Thornton & Schaub.
