Workmens Compensation Claims Costly to School District

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Eugene Bohn, of the Kettle Moraine Insurance Agency, told the Kewaskum School Board that tremendously higher than average claims for the District have resulted in almost doubling its annual premiums for Workmens Compensation insurance.

Addressing the board Monday night, Bohn stated the district's premium has gone up from $11,380 last year to $19,513 for the current school year, an increase of $8,133.

Using a sheet containing claims information for a three-year period, Bohn showed the board that Kewaskum's claims were 75% higher than average for school districts. The modifier point, set by the Workmens Compensation Board, to calculate the district's premium rate is 1.75, as compared to 1.0 for other districts, causing Kewaskum's premium to increase by 75%. Bohn stressed the increase was not set by the insurance company. The modifier is set by the Workmens Comp Board, said Bohn, and that's what the insurance companies are required to use.

Comparing the Village of Kewaskum to the school district, Bohn stated the village's modifier is .85 which means their claims are 15% below average.

Board member Tom Brigham asked if there was a pattern in the types of claims and, if so, what steps the district could take to alleviate this problem. Bohn indicated he could see no real pattern. Claims came from both certified and non-certified employees. Some claims were very large, while many were very small. "I know one thing that isn't being done is the pre-employment physicals. That would eliminate some accidents that are waiting to happen," stated Bohn. The physicals would not stop all the problems, but it would reduce

Garbage, Refuse to Be Picked Up Earlier

The Village Board has approved the changing of disposal locations for garbage and refuse. This means a time savings of several hours over the two days of garbage collection. The Public Works Department is asking for your cooperation in the placement of your garbage at the curb earlier than normal to accommodate the earlier pick up time.

The Public Works Department also would like to ask that all people place their garbage at the curb for pick up on Wednesday and Thursday, December 26 and 27, 1984, and again on January 2 and 3, 1985, due to the holidays.

Man Critically Hurt, Brother Killed In Separate Accidents on Same Day

A rural Kewaskum man was critically injured and his brother from Campbellsport was killed in a tragic coincidence of highway accidents Saturday.

Early Saturday morning, Randy J. Zeman, 22, of 2641 Ridge Road, Kewaskum, suffered massive head injuries when the car in which he was a passenger left State Highway 144 near Big Cedar Lake in the Town of West Bend and hit a tree, according to the Washington County Sheriff's Department.

Only hours later, his brother, Daniel E. Zeman, 30, of 130 Sheboygan St., Campbellsport, was killed when his Chevrolet Nova rammed into a steel bridge on County Trunk Y east of Campbellsport and plunged to the bank of the Milwaukee River below, according to a Fond du Lac County Sheriff's spokeswoman.

Randy J. Zeman was listed in critical condition Monday night in the neuro-intensive care unit of Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital, Milwaukee, a hospital spokesman said.

Daniel E. Zeman reportedly had been out fishing in the early morning hours. Authorities said they did not reach him with news of his brother's accident before the crash.

His car hit the bridge and flipped over, landing on its top on the river bank. Fond du Lac County Coroner Alan Stormo said the body was found in the car. Zeman died of multiple injuries.

The accident, which happened about a half mile west of U.S. Highway 45 in the Town of Auburn, probably occurred between 5 a.m. and 7 a.m., Stormo said. Authorities were notified at 7:16 a.m.

An investigation into the cause of the accident was being made.

Randy Zeman was transferred to Froedtert from St. Joseph's Community Hospital in West Bend by the Flight for Life emergency medical helicopter.

The Sheriff's Department said Zeman was a passenger in a car driven by Sara J. Zeman, 21, also of 2641 Ridge Road, Kewaskum. She told police she dozed off while driving north on 144.

Sara Zeman was treated for multiple cuts and bruises and a sore neck at St. Joseph's Community Hospital. She has returned home from the hospital.

The Zeman brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Zeman of Campbellsport.

The death of Zeman marks the second traffic fatality at the same Milwaukee River bridge on County Y near 45 this year. Another Campbellsport young man, Daniel Morgan, died after his car hit the bridge shortly after midnight on Aug. 11.

Zeman's death raised the Fond du Lac County 1984 traffic fatality toll to 16. That figure compares to 15 deaths on the same day last year.

Annual Christmas Concert At Kewaskum High School

Christmas decorations, Santa Claus, coffee, punch and cookies, an informal atmosphere with all styles of Christmas music - these are just some of the things that you will be able to enjoy on December 19th. This is the date selected by the Kewaskum High School Music Department for their annual Christmas concert.

Wednesday, Dec. 19th, is definitely a date to circle on your calendar. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the concert band will be playing Christmas Music for Winds, a medley of traditional Christmas carols, Symphonic Variations On 'In Dulci Jubilo' and Christmas Favorites. Put a group of singing young ladies together and the girls' chorus is there with The Gift, Hark, Now O Shepherd, The Alfred Burt Carols, and No Golden Carriage, No Bright Toy. As the evening progresses the symphonic band will further whet your appetite for good music with Waltz of the Flowers from the Nutcracker Suite, Fantasia on a Hymn by Pructosius - the beautiful Lo, Now a Rose Ere Blooming, A Scandanavian Christmas Rhapsody and Twas the Night Before Christmas, narrated by Mitz Nigh. The mixed chorus will conclude the concert with Hodie, Christus Natus Est, A Christmas Lullaby, Jazz Gloria, Silent Night, with the German verse sung by exchange student Martin Selchert, and Joy to the World. As a traditional finish, The Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah will be sung.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening and Santa will be there with treats for the little children.

Farmington Town Board Sets Tax Rate

The Farmington Town Board adopted the Town Budget as proposed at the Budget Hearing held on November 27, 1984.

The 1985 budget provides for proposed expenditures of $287,136.02 and estimated receipts and balances of $287,136.02, of which $89,250.00 is to be raised by a town tax levy. The town tax rate per thousand of assessed valuation will be $1.205 compared to last year's rate of $2.743.

The total gross rate per thousand including the State, County, Town and School Tax levies will be $17.38, but the State Tax Credit will reduce this to a net rate of $15.438.

Copies of the 1985 Budget including Federal Revenue Sharing funds, are on file and may be examined by contacting the Clerk, Joanne Oneska, at 675-6441.

Lawn Ornament, Jeans Taken

It was reported by a Brooklane Drive resident that a deer fawn lawn ornament was taken sometime between 10 p.m. and midnight on Friday, Nov. 30, from their front lawn. The ornament was part of a display also containing larger buck and doe deer. The same resident also reported that a street sign on Brooklane Drive was turned in the wrong direction.

A local woman also reported that twenty pairs of new and used children's and adult jeans were taken from their washline at 222 Main Street on Monday, Nov. 26.

Kewaskum police are also investigating an incident which occurred Nov. 30 at 9:40 p.m. in which a car parked near the corner of Main Street and Parkview Drive was struck by the driver of another vehicle who left the scene without reporting it.

Bethel Class Begins at Peace United Church of Christ

On December 3 a new two-year Bethel Bible Program began at Peace United Church of Christ in Kewaskum. The Bethel Series provides an overview of Scripture study, giving the student a meaningful base from which to pursue more in-depth biblical studies. To aid in the retention of what the student has learned in the study of the Bible itself, the Bethel Series makes use of a series of 40 visual aids. These are illustrations or posters which serve to summarize knowledge which the students are learning. Before the Bethel Series began this month at Peace Church, both Pastor and Mrs. Joiner were required to attend an intensified two-week training session at the Bethel headquarters in Madison, Wisconsin. There, among other things, the ministers learned the written format which is taught to church laypeople who have been carefully selected as the teacher-leader trainees within the congregation.

On Sunday, December 9, the Bethel Class was installed and prayerfully committed to the Lord as they begin this rigorous two-year study. The members of the class pictured are:

The annual Picnic Committee will consist of Kevin Fay, Dennis Fechter, Ken Theusch and Ron Petermann.

Experience is a good school, but the fees are high.

Kewaskum Middle School to Sponsor Toy, Mitten Drive

The Kewaskum Middle School Student Council has announced their third toy and mitten drive.

Last year, according to Student Council advisor, Jim Borusky, seven families were aided by the drive which took place just prior to Christmas.

"We need toys, games, and mittens that would be suitable for children ages 2 through 11," Borusky stated, "and all items must be new or in like new condition."

"Last year," Borusky stated, "the donations that you gave us were the only gifts that some of these families received for Christmas." We are probably talking about seven or eight children - seven or eight that would have received no other gifts at all.

Donations should be taken to the Kewaskum Middle School office prior to Wednesday, Dec. 19th. The drive is being coordinated at the Middle School by George Walz, Student Council President.

All items will be given to those needy families in the Kewaskum School District.

them and alert the district to applicants with potential problems so the district could place them in jobs where this could be avoided, noted Bohn.

The board thanked Bohn for appearing before them and indicated it would look into the matter to see what corrective steps could be taken.

In other action, the board discussed the Olympics of the Mind program. Brigham told the board, his committee and the Kewaskum Education Association still had not come to an agreement on a job description for the program's coordinator position. He also noted that while the job had posted within the district and advertised, no one had applied for the job. The board then moved to give High School Principal Leroy Kopecky the authority to go out into the district and talk with citizens who might be interested in the position and, if an applicant is found who will take the job as a paying, rather than volunteer position, offer the same salary of $12.00 an hour as set by the Negotiations Committee/KEA meetings.

Elementary Principal Tom Larsen told the board he and Middle School Principal Dennis Reha have agreed to coordinate the Olympics of the Mind kindergarten through high school program for this year so it gets started. However, if a coordinator is hired, they would like to turn the program over to that person.

Board member Neal Weare asked for a report on the district's computer program. His concern was that the high school students who are taking the computer course for a required 1/2 credit, are not receiving enough hands-on time.

Weare wondered whether the high school's computer numbers could be supplemented with units from the middle school. Reha said the computers in his school are in constant use, either during a class or by students who come in during their study halls and free periods to work on them.

High School Math and Computer instructor Joe Harlow

felt the way the district's computer program has been set up should be reviewed and possibly changes made. He felt each curriculum, such as typing, accounting, etc., should have units to work with in areas related to that particular course. Harlow told the board while he could teach programming and math skills, he did not feel qualified to teach keyboard or word processing. "I'm a two-finger person, this is something that could be taught in a business office or English curriculum," commented Harlow.

Weare asked Reha to look into his request farther and report back at the next board meeting.

Board member Ralph Horner asked for a report on the district's competitive bidding practices for purchases of services and supplies. After explanations from Business Manager Cherna Gorder and Buildings Superintendent Fred Boehlke, Horner asked Policy Committee Chairman Neal Weare to look into a policy governing the bidding process.

On administrative recommendation, the board approved transferring Mrs. Irene Stradtman from half-time Beechwood kindergarten teacher to full-time at Kewaskum Elementary. Mrs. Lori Noegel will be transferred to Beechwood kindergarten and Chapter I program. The Chapter I reading program will run during the morning and the kindergarten class will be switched to an afternoon session as of January 1, 1985.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

PUT SAFETY FIRST WITH TOY PURCHASES

Christmas and children seem to go hand-in-hand. Each year children anxiously await the arrival of Santa Claus and the toys he will leave under the tree on Christmas Eve. When shopping for those toys on your Christmas list this year, make safety your first consideration.

One way to protect your child against an accident is to select toys that suit his or her skills and abilities. A toy that is safe for a 12-year old is obviously not safe for a six-year old. Many toy manufacturers are helping parents choose appropriate toys by attaching age recommendation labels or safety information such as, "Not recommended for children under three."

Most toys and other articles intended for very young children (under age 3) have to pass a test of the U.S. Product Safety Commission to insure the toy does not have very small parts or has small parts that can easily break off. Children under age three are particularly vulnerable to injuries and deaths from swallowing, inhaling or choking on small parts of toys and other articles intended for their use.

When shopping for toys keep these safety tips in mind:

- Select toys without rough or sharp edges which could cause bodily injury or lacerations in the mouth.

- Examine toys for small parts which young children might swallow or place in their ears or noses.

- Make sure that the wiring in electrical toys is strong and intact — not loose or flimsy. Look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label on the cord and on the toy itself.

- Air rifles, sling shots, archery sets and other projectile toys can be very dangerous. If you do buy this type of toy for your child, make sure he or she uses it only under adult supervision.

• Toys with wheels can also be dangerous. Each year, there are thousands of injuries associated with bicycles, skateboards, and rollerskates. Be sure the bike you purchase has reflective tape and lights for night use and fits the child's size today, not tomorrow. When buying a skateboard, also buy protective gear to protect against injuries.

In addition to selecting safe toys, you should supervise safe play by explaining how to use each toy properly and safely. Older children should be instructed how to maintain and keep more sophisticated toys such as chemistry sets, ice skates and toboggans away from younger siblings who could easily injure themselves.

You should also teach younger children to put their toys away so that no one trips or falls over them. It's also a good idea to periodically examine toys for good working order.

If you invest some time in these safety steps in the selection and maintenance of toys, you will have a better chance to guiding your child through a Merry Christmas and a safe new year.

More wine is drunk in Italy than any other country in the world.

High School Math and Computer instructor Joe Harlow

felt the way the district's computer program has been set up should be reviewed and possibly changes made. He felt each curriculum, such as typing, accounting, etc., should have units to work with in areas related to that particular course. Harlow told the board while he could teach programming and math skills, he did not feel qualified to teach keyboard or word processing. "I'm a two-finger person, this is something that could be taught in a business office or English curriculum," commented Harlow.

Weare asked Reha to look into his request farther and report back at the next board meeting.

Board member Ralph Horner asked for a report on the district's competitive bidding practices for purchases of services and supplies. After explanations from Business Manager Cherna Gorder and Buildings Superintendent Fred Boehlke, Horner asked Policy Committee Chairman Neal Weare to look into a policy governing the bidding process.

On administrative recommendation, the board approved transferring Mrs. Irene Stradtman from half-time Beechwood kindergarten teacher to full-time at Kewaskum Elementary. Mrs. Lori Noegel will be transferred to Beechwood kindergarten and Chapter I program. The Chapter I reading program will run during the morning and the kindergarten class will be switched to an afternoon session as of January 1, 1985.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

PUT SAFETY FIRST WITH TOY PURCHASES

Christmas and children seem to go hand-in-hand. Each year children anxiously await the arrival of Santa Claus and the toys he will leave under the tree on Christmas Eve. When shopping for those toys on your Christmas list this year, make safety your first consideration.

One way to protect your child against an accident is to select toys that suit his or her skills and abilities. A toy that is safe for a 12-year old is obviously not safe for a six-year old. Many toy manufacturers are helping parents choose appropriate toys by attaching age recommendation labels or safety information such as, "Not recommended for children under three."

Most toys and other articles intended for very young children (under age 3) have to pass a test of the U.S. Product Safety Commission to insure the toy does not have very small parts or has small parts that can easily break off. Children under age three are particularly vulnerable to injuries and deaths from swallowing, inhaling or choking on small parts of toys and other articles intended for their use.

When shopping for toys keep these safety tips in mind:

- Select toys without rough or sharp edges which could cause bodily injury or lacerations in the mouth.

- Examine toys for small parts which young children might swallow or place in their ears or noses.

- Make sure that the wiring in electrical toys is strong and intact — not loose or flimsy. Look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label on the cord and on the toy itself.

- Air rifles, sling shots, archery sets and other projectile toys can be very dangerous. If you do buy this type of toy for your child, make sure he or she uses it only under adult supervision.

• Toys with wheels can also be dangerous. Each year, there are thousands of injuries associated with bicycles, skateboards, and rollerskates. Be sure the bike you purchase has reflective tape and lights for night use and fits the child's size today, not tomorrow. When buying a skateboard, also buy protective gear to protect against injuries.

In addition to selecting safe toys, you should supervise safe play by explaining how to use each toy properly and safely. Older children should be instructed how to maintain and keep more sophisticated toys such as chemistry sets, ice skates and toboggans away from younger siblings who could easily injure themselves.

You should also teach younger children to put their toys away so that no one trips or falls over them. It's also a good idea to periodically examine toys for good working order.

FFA Members Attend National Convention

From November 7 to November 11, Joe Schmitt, Joel Junk, Gary Butzlaff, and Patsy Panzer, Kewaskum FFA Chapter members, attended the fifty-seventh annual national Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

Leaving Wednesday night from Waupun, they arrived in Kansas City Thursday morning for the first session at the Municipal Auditorium. Close to 23,000 F.F.A. members from all over the United States attended the convention.

During their stay they heard motivational speeches from Pat Summerall, Art Linkletter, Bart Conner, and Eddie Albert at the convention sessions.

F.F.A. members witnessed the national prepared speaking contest, national extemporaneous speaking contest, the American Farmer ceremony, winners of national proficiency awards, and winners of national chapter and Building Our American Communities (B.O.A.C.) awards.

The delegates visited the Ag Hall of Fame. Machinery and exhibits from as far back as the early 1900s were on display.

A visit to the Harry Truman Museum in Independence, Missouri was also on the agenda. Many of the late President's articles from his political as well as private life were on display here. He and his wife's gravesites are also part of the museum in its courtyard.

Members were treated to a horse show at the American Royal in Kemper Arena. During intermission, country-western singer Mickey Gilley performed and put on a very good show.

There also was a career conference show. Colleges, the armed services, and many agricultural product companies set up displays informing F.F.A. members of the possible career opportunities lying ahead of them.

All this kept the members rather busy, and they hope to bring back some ideas for use on the chapter level.

POTATO POISONING

All parts of the potato plant except its root tubers [potatoes] contain the potent poison, SOLANINE. However, the potatoes themselves become loaded with solanine a few days after they begin sprouting. Vomiting, diarrhea and fever - even death may result. Cooking cannot remove the solanine - throw away any potatoes that begin to sprout and have lost their firmness or are discolored.

A TALE OF OLD AGE

The following news story was written by Sandra Axtman of Grafton, a classmate of R. G. Edwards, M.D., Kewaskum, who is attending classes in Creative Writing at Concordia College.

There is something lost today to families that was often a way of life when I was growing up. It fell under the heading of the Bible verse, "Feed my lambs." When I was little it seemed like our house was the parade route for relatives who had neither home nor family. I suppose it had a lot to do with the depression era that my parents grew up in everyone helped each other! When my Great-Grandmother Fligge died and my Dad was fourteen years old, he went to live with an older sister and her husband. When he married my Mother they lived with my maternal grandmother until I was born. Even then the move was only to the back cottage on the same city lot. People cared about each other, to the point that often children found themselves giving up a room so that Uncle Joe didn't have to live on the street.

My first live-in relative that I can remember was Uncle Harold. At six years of age I hardly was aware of what the circumstances were surrounding his untimely arrival. I do remember feeling very sorry for him — after all he had no one! There were whispers about a woman, a child, his brother, and instructions not to bother him because he was sick! My Dad built a room in the attic of our Milwaukee bungalow for Uncle Harold; it was small and in the back of the house. My brother and I often tip-toed to his room, being careful to avoid the floor boards that creaked. There we would peek in to see if he was still alive! Why would he be asleep at 2:00 in the afternoon? Why did he come home so late at night? Why did such a strong smell permeate the room when he entered? If he was sick, why didn't he have to stay in bed like we usually did when we were ill? We asked these questions often of ourselves, but never did we dare question him. Finally one day he was gone. He eloped with a very nice lady and we were, in our child like way, relieved. We were happy for him because he had someone to care about him!

Our next live-in relative was Uncle Charlie, although not really an uncle. He was my great-grandmother's cousin who had lived with her and my great-grandfather since the day he arrived from Germany. Charlie was a small man, stout in stature and bald. Old family pictures all show him sporting the same sullen look. I was older when Uncle Charlie joined our family, as a result of my Grandmother's death. By then we had moved and because of his arrival some switching of rooms was needed and I exchanged my large bedroom for a much smaller one. But there was no complaining because we had to do what was necessary, after all Uncle Charlie had no one. He was 75 years old, and all his possessions could have fit into an over sized closet. He had a bed, a large radio, and his television set, that had a tiny viewing screen.

Uncle Charlie was hard of hearing and wore a hearing aid. My brother and I would mouth words in front of him so that he would think his batteries were wearing down. We would laugh to ourselves for succeeding in tormenting him. He was always a good sport and I think he sometimes played at the game too. Whispers surrounded Uncle Charlie too! His eyes were filled with despair. He would sit for hours, hands folded in his lap, watching and waiting. I wondered what he thought about; did he only have his memories? Did he count for anything in God's plan? There were rumors about a girlfriend many years before when he was younger; a jilted relationship, and years of solitude that followed - but he remained silent!

Even his death was uneventful. He passed away quietly in his sleep. Family members went through his meager belongings, much of which were very outdated and worn. At his funeral I shed tears for his loneliness in this life.

I really believe that because my parents cared enough to give homes to my homeless relatives it has given me an awareness and sensitivity of older people. It instilled in me a need for a family and a need to be surrounded by love. Our children miss this opportunity today because old people are only accepted as long as they behave themselves and are productive. When they fail society, they are neatly packed away in a nursing home. Uncle Charlie and Uncle Harold did

AGENT ORANGE

Vietnam veterans have a unique opportunity to take advantage of a settlement that was announced recently in a lawsuit against the manufacturers of the herbicide, Agent Orange. However, to take advantage of this settlement, the veterans must file an "Agent Orange Claim Form" with the Court by midnight, January 2, 1985.

On May 7, 1984, a tentative settlement was reached between seven chemical companies and attorneys for Vietnam veterans. That settlement would create a $180 million trust fund to benefit veterans and their families who suffer from the adverse health affects of exposure to Agent Orange. Veterans who claim their health has been affected should file the Claim Form.

The Vietnam Veterans of America's legal department has prepared a set of instructions to assist veterans or their surviving family members in completing the Claim Form. VVA is distributing both the Claim Form and instructions to veterans who contact them.

Under the settlement, Vietnam veterans must file by January 2nd for present and past disabilities. For disabilities that first appear after January 2nd, veterans can file but they must file within four months of the development of the disabilities.

Benefits can be awarded for disabilities suffered by a veteran and for birth defects believed to be related to exposure. Next of kin can file for death benefits.

Vietnam veterans can receive a copy of the claims form needed to file under the settlement, plus a booklet explaining the litigation and the claims form, by contacting their County Veterans Service Office. If you have any problems locating your county office call the state VVA director Steve Piotrowski at (715) 341-6418 or (715) 346-1311.

CHRISTMAS SEALS FIGHT LUNG DISEASE — Surrounded by some of the three billion Christmas Seals distributed nationwide this fall, American Lung Association of Wisconsin President David L. Vollmar urged Washington County residents to increase their contributions to the association's 1984 campaign to fight lung disease. Vollmar noted that although donations for the state Christmas Seal campaign have risen an average of eight percent annually for the past six years, deaths from chronic lung disease are increasing at a rate of 10 percent a year.

A haymaker and its contents of about 100 tons of hay were destroyed by fire at the John Pamperin farm about 1½ miles west of Kohlsville early Sunday evening. The loss is estimated at approximately $5,500. Pamperin's son, Walter, operates the farm. The blaze in the haymaker, a 50 foot high, metal silo type structure, was discovered about 4:45 p.m. by Ray Pamperin, another son. He made an attempt to put out the fire with a hand extinguisher but the flames had already gained too much headway. Walter called the Kohlsville and Allenton fire departments and later the Kewaskum Fire Department was summoned. While the hay in the haymaker was burning out, firemen concentrated their efforts on saving the large barn only a few feet away and other buildings. They kept the barn soaked almost constantly and the cold weather came to their assistance as ice formed on the roof of the barn and prevented it from catching fire. The barn was saved from fire damage, fortunately, and only the haymaker was burned out and its contents of hay destroyed.

Santa Claus will be in Kewaskum on December 19 for the annual Christmas party for the kiddies at the theatre, sponsored by the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club. The theatre doors will be open at 1 p.m. and Santa has promised that he will arrive promptly at 1:30. He will be escorted to the theatre on the fire truck to meet all the little tots and present each and every one of them with free popcorn and candy. After Santa has had time to visit with all the children and give them their goodies, free movies will be shown at 2 p.m.

At the December meeting of the Kewaskum Fire Department, held last Thursday evening, all of the present officers were re-elected for 1960. They are: Assistant Chief, Armin Oppermann; Foreman, Bill Martin; Assistant Foreman, Bob Ours; Treasurer, Harry Koch, and Secretary, George Koerble. Chief Harry Schaefer, who is appointed by the village board, is serving a five-year term in that capacity.

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Beverly M. Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ruth, Route 2, Campbellsport, and Jerome A. Nigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nigh, also of Route 2, Campbellsport, at Holy Trinity Church on November 28.

The Rev. Rayner Hausmann read the nuptial mass in Holy Angels Church, West Bend, on November 28, during which wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Alice E. Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Krueger, and Andrew E. "Gene" Gruber, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber of Kewaskum.

A chimney fire on Dr. H. Driessel's residence caused a great deal of excitement last Sunday evening. The chimney burned for some time and threw out showers of sparks. Luckily the neighboring buildings were wet, otherwise a bad fire might have resulted.

These pupils were the winners in the Good Conduct Race: Lois Vorpahl, Doris Mae Stahl, Lois Koch, Marion Ramthun and Rachael Brauchle.

Miss Marcella Casper, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.N. Casper of this village, who recently graduated from St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Milwaukee, was successful in passing the examination given by the Wisconsin State Board of Health. Miss Casper received an average of 87.6, which ranked highest in her group of 125 classmates. She now holds the certificate of a registered nurse and may append R.N. to her name. At present Miss Casper is employed at St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee.

Rev. Father Chabian of Milwaukee has charge of the St. Michael's congregation until a different priest has been appointed by Rev. Archbishop Samuel E. Stritch to take the place of Father Beyer.

Miss Charlotte Lay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lay, and Miss Linda Rosenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Rosenheimer, Kewaskum, were given parts in the annual Christmas play to be given by students of Milwaukee-Downer College on December 15. Both of the girls were graduated from Kewaskum High School and Miss Lay is now a junior, while Miss Rosenheimer is a sophomore at the college.

American Red Cross to Aid African Famine Victims

The American Red Cross has sent two fact-finding teams to Africa to assess the famine caused by one of the continent's worst droughts in 100 years. The team will visit Ethiopia and Mauritania, two of the countries most severely affected by the drought.

The purpose of the team's visit is to obtain first-hand knowledge of drought conditions and to raise the American public's awareness of the situation. In January, the American Red Cross will launch an African Famine Relief Campaign to raise a minimum of $5 million.

The money will help some of the 180 million people in 27 African countries who are in danger of dying of severe malnutrition and starvation. The countries affected cover an area greater than that of the United States and part of Canada.

The teams—headed by volunteer leaders of the American Red Cross and Richard F. Schubert—will visit famine-relief centers and long range development projects being implemented by local Red Cross and Red Crescent societies. The local societies are being aided by the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies.

The league coordinates and conducts disaster-relief operations worldwide. It is made up of 135 national Red Cross and Red Crescent societies of which the American Red Cross is one of the largest.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the African famine can send a check to the Red Cross at 18 E. Washington St., West Bend, Wisc. 53095 Marked African Relief.

West Bend Citizens for Decency Through Law are sponsoring their second contest for High School students writing essays on the HARMFUL EFFECTS OF PORNOGRAPHY. First prize will be $150 minimum and $270 maximum. Second prize will be $100 minimum and $160 maximum. Third prize will be $50 minimum and $110 maximum.

Students attending a high school in Washington County are eligible.

Our youth are being bombarded every day with pornographic immoralities, but seldom are they cautioned about the bitter consequences of getting involved with pornography and the philosophy of "free and easy sex" that it promotes and glamorizes in living color.

Federal authorities who see the harm done by pornography tell us that 75% to 90% of the obscene material eventually gets into the hands of children. Doctors, psychologists and psychiatrists who treat the young victims tell us about the harm it inflicts on them mentally, emotionally, physically and morally, besides the sex crimes that it incites. This information will be available to the contestants.

There is a tremendous need to inform and caution our young people about the harmful effects of obscene material, and that is the purpose of our contest.

Contest rules and an application form will also be available after December 9 from the principals' offices in the high schools, or by dialing the sponsors: 338-1596.

It's been 100 years since a country schoolteacher, Bernard Cigrand, first placed an American flag in a bottle on his desk at Stony Hill School in Waubeka in commemoration of the birth of the United States flag, June 14.

Now, on the eve of the 100th anniversary of that event, the United States Postal Service has announced that it will issue a stamp commemorating Flag Day. The design was unveiled Thursday, Dec. 13, at 1 p.m. in ceremonies officiated by Postmaster General William F. Bolger.

The unveiling was held at the Waubeka, WI Firemen's Hall.

The stamp will officially be introduced next year.

The brief ceremony also included comments by John Hames, president of the National Flag Day Foundation and an invocation by Rev. David Jerger of St. Paul's Community Church, Waubeka.

Fredonia Postmaster Willard Kuhfuss presided at the ceremonies.

ASCS Issues Wheat and Barley Deficiency Payments

Depressed grain prices will create sizeable deficiency payments for the 212 Washington County producers taking part in the 1984 Acreage Reduction Program. Deficiency payments will be $1.00 per bushel for wheat and $.26 per bushel for barley. Payments were to be mailed around December 10th.

The target price for wheat was $4.38. The average price farmers received for the five month marketing period (July - November) was $3.38, $1.00 below the target. Each wheat producer's payment will be $1.00 X the ASC yield X the acres planted.

The target price for barley was $2.60. With an average price of $2.34 the deficiency payment will be the difference, that is $.26 per bushel.

Corn deficiency payments are expected to be announced in March, as this is a later crop. Prices currently are well below the $3.03 target price.

The 1985 signup is taking place now through March 1. Target rates and price support loan rates remain the same for 1985. Price support loans are limited to participating farmers. Reductions of 30% for wheat and 10% for corn and small grains are required.

Elections were held and the new officers are as follows: President, Colleen Alsberg; Vice President, Andy Degnitz; Secretary, Susan Marquardt; Treasurer, Shelly Petsch; Reporter, Jennifer Degnitz.

Next month we will be having our Christmas party on the 18th. We will be meeting our new grandmother and parents are welcome. Each member should bring 6 cookies and a gift that would be suitable for either

CHILDREN LEARN WHAT THEY LIVE

Have you ever wondered why two children can respond so differently to the same situation? Why does one student feel good about a test score and another feel discouraged about a test score that is exactly the same? What makes one boy or girl able to respond positively to a reasonable explanation for not getting a date while another boy or girl almost crumbles when they think of rejection.

What is this thing that can have such a great impact in our lives? It is called self-concept. All of us, including children, have a mental picture of ourselves. We see ourselves as short or tall, a leader or a follower, a doughnut or a hole. This picture we have of ourselves is our self-concept.

A positive self-concept represents strong self-approval. Such people like themselves, are self-confident and self-assured. People with positive self-concepts do not necessarily think of themselves as perfect or better than others, but are satisfied with themselves the way they are.

Here are five steps to help build your child's self-concept:

- P - Praise yourself, and help others to do the same
- R - Respect children
- A - Accept children
- I - Invest time in children
- S - Set reasonable goals
- E - Evaluate your accomplishments realistically

Helping children develop a positive self-concept may be one of the most difficult tasks of parenting or teaching. There is no easy, fool-proof formula for accomplishing this. It takes a lot of time and effort from concerned adults like you. Remember what each letter of PRAISE stands for and that "Children Learn What They Live."

CHILDREN LEARN WHAT THEY LIVE

- If a child lives with criticism, He learns to condemn.
- If a child lives with hostility, He learns to fight.
- If a child lives with ridicule, He learns to be shy.
- If a child lives with shame, He learns to feel guilty.
- If a child lives with tolerance, He learns to be patient.
- If a child lives with encouragement, He learns to appreciate.
- If a child lives with fairness, He learns justice.
- If a child lives with security, He learns to have faith.

If a child lives with approval, He learns to like himself.
If a child lives with acceptance and friendship, He learns to find love in the world.

WASHINGTON COUNTY, WIS. SHERIFFS DEPARTMENT

Clarence A. Schwartz, Sheriff

Holiday Safety Tips

The holidays are nearing and already busy shoppers are hustling and bustling to buy their holiday gifts. Washington County Sheriff Clarence Schwartz offers some safety tips to help make your holidays happy. "The holidays are a special time of year, says Sheriff Schwartz, "but they're also a time when people are especially vulnerable to burglary, theft and other crimes." We can all take part to ensure this holiday is a safe one by following these safety tips:

1. To make your shopping spree a safe one, always remember to walk and park in well lighted areas. Walk confidently and always be aware of people around you. Always lock your car doors after entering or leaving your car. Have your keys in hand so you don't have to linger before entering your car. Check the back seat and under the car before you get in.

2. Never leave your children alone at home, in a car, or in any public place. Teach them to go for help if they get separated from you in a shopping mall - have them go to the cashier and say they are lost.

3. Don't "flash" your cash. Pay with check and credit cards, when you can. Don't leave packages on the car seat. Lock them out of sight in the trunk.

4. The holidays are also a time when we see more home burglaries. Don't display your gifts where they can be seen from a window or doorway. Be extra cautious about locking doors and windows when you leave the house, even for a few minutes.

"If we're all extra cautious this holiday season, we can all have a safe and more enjoyable one," Sheriff Schwartz concluded.

Private Wells Tested for Chemicals and Pesticides

Fifteen months into a state program to assess groundwater quality by sampling private well water, the Department of Natural Resources reports that 138 of 836 wells tested show signs of organic chemicals and 47 of 499 sampled wells have detectable amounts of pesticides.

Approximately 20 of the pesticide-contaminated wells and 39 of the wells contaminated with Volatile Organic Chemicals (VOCs) contain water which is unfit for human consumption, said Robert Krill, director of the Bureau of Water Supply.

Krill emphasized that these test results did not typify well water quality statewide. "We couldn't sample all wells, so we started by testing wells which were most susceptible to contamination — wells which were close to known pollution sources, wells near industrial developments and areas where sandy soil would let pollutants rapidly percolate to shallow water tables," he said.

Private well sampling is just one part of Wisconsin's groundwater assessment program. Bruce Baker, director of DNR's Bureau of Water Resources Management explained how the agency is using legislated funds to learn about groundwater conditions in the state.

"In passing an innovative groundwater law last session, state legislators directed DNR to study how human activities affect our fragile groundwater resource," he said.

"Monitoring will help us understand this underground resource," Baker continued. Testing public and private water supplies will help us understand the nature and extent to groundwater contamination and the public health threat.

"We'll also investigate whether environmental monitoring requirements at sewage treatment plants, industrial sites and landfills give us early warning of potential groundwater contamination. We want to evaluate if treatment systems sufficiently protect groundwater purity," he added.

"Finally, we need to examine current management practices to determine if they really protect groundwater as well as we think they should," Baker concluded. "For instance, we want to know if people who use pesticides according to the manufacturer's directions inadvertently threaten groundwater quality," he added.

"Generally Wisconsin's drinking water quality is very good, Krill said. "Most chemically-contaminated wells are clustered in small, isolated spots where poor landfills, old underground petroleum tanks or spills are leaking contaminants," Krill added.

As private well testing continues, state environmental and health officials are honing procedures for protecting public health.

Homeowners are notified when any chemical or pesticide is detected, Krill continued.

even when small levels of contaminants don't threaten drinking water quality. DNR intends to seek funds to regularly sample any well showing traces of chemicals or pesticides.

This January, the State starts a well compensation program to help private well owners bear the costs of repairing or replacing contaminated wells. The costs of bottled water, hook-up to community water supplies, water treatment or well replacement can be partially reimbursed. Demand for the program may outstrip the available $500,000 funds, Krill said, in which case, state funds would be divided among all applicants.

The initial phase of the groundwater program to test all municipal wells and 1,200 private wells for VOCs will end next August. Concurrently, a similar program will test 700 private and public water supplies for pesticides. Next fall, DNR will combine all monitoring results in a report which comprehensively assesses groundwater quality in Wisconsin.

Pesticides were detected in 13 of the 38 counties in which private water supplies were tested. The counties where pesticides were detected were: Dane, Dunn, Iowa, Marathon, Monroe, Oneida, Pierce, Portage, Richland, St. Croix, Sauk, Waukesha and Wau-shara. Officials pointed out that results of recent extensive sampling in the Dunn County community of Rusk, where widespread pesticide contamination has been discovered, were included in the general report.

VOCs were detected in 23 of the 72 counties in which private water supplies were tested. The counties where VOCs were detected were: Brown, Calumet, Columbia, Dane, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Grant, La Crosse, Lafayette, Manitowoc, Marathon, Monroe, Outagamie, Polk, Portage, Rock, Shawano, St. Croix, Taylor, Walworth, Washington, Waukesha and Wood.

For more information, contact Robert Krill, Bureau of Water Supply, (608) 267-7651 or Bruce Baker, Bureau of Water Resources Management, (608) 266-8631.

ACP Signup at ASCS Thru Dec. 21

Cost-sharing requests for the 1985 ACP (Agricultural Conservation Program) are being accepted thru December 21st.

Producers may sign up under the annual program or request a Long Term Agreement. Usually farmers prefer the annual program and plan one or two practices. Long Term Agreements require a total plan and commitment over a 3 to 5 year period.

Cost-sharing rates vary from 40% to 75% of the approved costs. The purpose is to encourage farmers to install conservation practices they would not do on their own. Some of the high priority practices offered are: Stripcropping, Sod Waterways, Animal Waste Controls, Water Control Structures, Diversions, Permanent Cover, Minimum Tillage, Windbreaks, Tree Planting and Timber Cover, Minimum Tillage, Windbreaks, Tree Planting and Timber Stand Improvement.

At the close of the signup announced, the ASC County Committee will review all requests filed. Funding will be approved to practices of highest priority first; that is those with the most serious erosion and/or pollution problems. A limited allocation is available for each county.

All requests are taken at the Washington County ASCS Office in West Bend.

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

By Jack Trzebiatowski, Washington County Agricultural Agent
PICKING RIGHT SYSTEM KEY TO GOOD FARM RECORDS

It doesn't matter if you use a microcomputer, subscribe to an accounting service or slug it out with pencil and ledger. If you don't use a well-designed farm record system, tax time will be a nightmare. So will trying to convince a banker that you're a good loan risk.

A good system does not just generate numbers for your tax form. It also helps chart your financial future, checks your progress and points out problem areas.

Having so many systems to choose from doesn't make picking a good one any easier. Here are some things to consider as you shop for a record system. Many of these pertain specifically to microcomputers. Others apply in any case.

* Is the vendor reliable and readily accessible? Buying software isn't like buying a book. You'll probably want to stop back with questions.

* Does the vendor update the system to accommodate changing tax laws? Tax rules change often — sometimes drastically. For example, some pre-1982 record systems were rendered obsolete when accelerated recovery replaced the old depreciation system.

* Does the vendor provide basic training in using the system and interpreting the results? If you depend solely on the instruction book, getting your system up to speed might take more time than you can afford to spend. And you need to know what to do with the numbers you generate.

* Does the system provide a mechanism to expand its capabilities? Can you name your own accounts, add new ones? Is there a place to record new types of expenses and income?

* How does the system mesh with your current accounting system? Is it set up for cash accounting, accrual, or both? Single- or double-entry book-keeping? Can you specify the fiscal year? Is it designed for a partnership, sole proprietorship, corporation or all three? It's hard enough switching to a new record system without switching accounting methods at the same time. If you suspect you'll be changing your financial arrangements in the future, flexibility becomes more important.

* Are the user instructions clear and concise? Are they well-indexed? Is there a trouble-shooting guide to any data-entry errors or incorrect commands?

* Does the system write checks? It's handy, though not essential. Think how it will impress the guys at the feed store.

* Is there a printer or other backup to save data if the computer fails?

* Is the system acceptable to your accountant for tax filing?

Before you choose, it's important to understand what makes up a complete records package.

Is That Holiday Tree Legal?

Was the Christmas tree in the trunk of your car obtained legally? All trees in Wisconsin are owned by someone, whether the tree has been sheared and is growing in a plantation or whether it is growing wild in the woods.

If the trees are privately owned, whether growing wild or in a plantation, see the landowner and get written permission to cut, and a bill of sale for the trees you purchase.

If the land you are planning to cut on is in public ownership, you must contact the manager of that property and get permission to cut the trees. You may in many cases have to pay a small fee.

Be certain that the written permission or bill of sale has the date and quantity of trees to be taken.

Under Wisconsin Statutes, DNR conservation officers, state traffic officers and county and municipal law enforcement officers have the authority to stop anyone hauling any quantity of Christmas trees. It's best to keep your bill of sale or written permission to take trees readily available. If you cut the trees on your own property and are transporting them, carry your latest property tax bill for the property.

If you know the owner of the land where you have cut the trees and have written permission from that owner, or a bill of sale, you shouldn't have any problem in case you are stopped.

If you follow all the rules, you and your family will be able to enjoy your Christmas tree with the same peace of mind that is the spirit of Christmas.

Under the law, the minimum penalty for timber theft is $100.

with them in school or because their friends have them. For these reasons, most of the pressure to buy computers for kids comes from the children themselves.

If your children are badgering you for a computer, have them make an argument for it. Ask them why they want one and what they'd use it for. If they admire a friend's system, go with them to see it and the uses their friend makes of it.

Of 20 families studied in New York City, only two were using their computer for anything educational; the rest were playing games. To buy a computer simply to play games is not worth the price. The computer should not just be an expensive toy for your child, but should have other uses within the family.

In homes where computers are used well, parents use them to do some of their own work. They're comfortable with computers and serve as role models for their children. To maximize use of the machine, they share it with their children and enrich their lives.

Preschoolers can work well with a regular keyboard doing computer art and letter recognition programs.

Adolescents seriously interested in computer technology may join computer clubs and create social networks of friends who have computers. If your child has shown a sustained interest in computers, purchasing one for your home may be a worthwhile investment, even if you personally don't plan to use it.

Children with special problems such as dyslexia or development delays can also benefit from a computer purchased specifically for their use. However, parents must be willing to spend time with them on the computer or it may go unused.

Some parents worry that computer use will isolate their kids from others at a time when they should be developing social skills. Research shows that the amount of time children spend using their home computers usually replaces time spent watching TV.

Having a computer for your child can have positive benefits, but they're not nearly as dramatic or exciting as the ads lead you to believe.

Computers may not only positively influence children's academic achievement but may also develop future marketable skills for some. Such advantages will only come about if parents are involved with their children's computer use, and not by virtue of the computer itself.

Salvation Army's Presence Is Felt At Holiday Time

With the holiday season upon us, buying presents for family and friends is a pleasure for those of us who have the means of lavish gifts on our loved ones. Retail sales are booming and the lines in the stores are long and getting longer. But amid all this buying and giving, there are also long lines of people waiting to receive the basic necessities of life.

For those who can't afford balanced meals, warm clothing and the rising cost of utilities, social service agencies are the only answer in time of need.

The Salvation Army has come to be associated with assistance to needy families.

Salvationists provide practical assistance to the poor. They shelter the homeless giving aid to the alcoholic, providing day care centers, housing for the elderly, special food programs, emergency disaster services and summer camps for all ages.

Despite all of those ongoing services, Christmas remains the most demanding time of year for the Salvation Army. Last year more than four million people received seasonal assistance from the Army nationwide.

The Army's Holiday ministry is supported by the famous and familiar red kettles seen on street corners and in shopping malls as well as toy drives for children and direct contributions.

According to Len Holt, Director of the Army's state-wide Service Extension Program, "There is a great need this year in every community in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. We hope to provide food baskets and vouchers to cover 6,000 families around the state. We'll repair and wrap toys for over 3,200 children and will conduct visitations to shut-ins and hospital patients through our League of Mercy volunteers. We hope to reach all who need our help."

Anyone wishing to donate funds can send checks to: SALVATION ARMY, 4757 North 76th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53218.

Computer Marketing Aimed at Children This Holiday Season

By Joyce Albrecht
Extension Home Economist

Are you being programmed to buy a computer for your children this holiday season? Don't let advertisers and your children unduly influence you.

Many computer advertisements provide direct messages to parents. They prey on the notion that parents are responsible for how their children turn out. Don't get hooked into the message that you're a bad parent if you don't buy a computer for your child.

Look at what's being sold besides the product. In computer ads, it's success for your child. Some ads overstate the importance or necessity of products. They imply that if you buy a computer, for example, you'll get the success that goes along with it.

By thinking about advertising's hidden messages, you can avoid making an impulsive purchase. Make rational decisions rather than simply responding to advertising pressures.

Children are also likely to be affected by aggressive computer marketing. Viewing TV commercials can increase kids' attempts to influence their parents to buy advertised items.

This often interacts with personal experience. Children usually want computers because of favorable experiences

Lakes Team Loses To Falls Badgers, Defending Champs

In a late afternoon game played at Menomonee Falls North High School Saturday, Kewaskum was defeated by the Falls Badgers, last year's "A" Division champs and grand champions of the Land o' Lakes League, by a score of 141-122.

Kewaskum was missing four of its players for the game, namely Clark Eichstedt, Mike Maney, Brian Larsen and Schroeder.

The Badgers jumped out to a big lead and coasted the rest of the way. Kewaskum did pull to within seven points in the second half before the Badgers pulled away again.

Top scorer was Falls ace Bob Wolf, the league's leading scorer last year ahead of Kewaskum's Leon Laatsch, who amassed 44 points. Teammate Jim Riehle chipped in 25. Best for Kewaskum was Laatsch with 37 points and Bill Gonwa with 30.

Kewaskum's next game is Sunday, Dec. 16, at Port Washington at 7:00 p.m. This is a "must" win for Kewaskum if they hope to defend their "B" Division title.

Public Comments Sought on Improving Trout Fishing in 28 Southern Wisconsin Counties

Department of Natural Resources fish managers are asking anglers to express their views on proposed regulations aimed at improving trout fishing in 28 southern Wisconsin counties.

According to Larry Claggett, trout specialist in DNR's Bureau of Fish Management, Madison, heavy fishing pressure on southern trout streams has created two problems:

1) In streams stocked with trout, a majority of the fish are being caught early in the season soon after they've been planted. The result is not only dissatisfied anglers catching undesirably small fish, but fewer trout to catch during the rest of the season or surviving into the next year.

2) In heavily-fished streams, the number of trout larger than 15 inches has declined thus reducing anglers' chances of catching big fish.

A committee of 10 DNR fish managers chaired by Claggett has examined these problems in recent months and is recommending some major changes in current trout fishing regulations to improve angling quality.

"We are proposing that the early season now allowed in some southern counties be retained, but with a catch-and-release restriction and use of artificial lures or flies only," Claggett said. "For the regular trout fishing season, we're proposing that the bag limit be dropped from its current five or 10 fish to three, and that minimum size limits be raised from six to nine inches. Finally, to build up the number of large trout over 15 inches, special regulations should be developed for some southern streams that would impose even stricter bag and size limits."

In general, the proposed regulations would apply to trout waters located south of U.S. Interstate Highways 90 and 94 and State Highways 82 and 23.

Questions corresponding to the questions will be prepared for the spring Conservation Congress hearings in April, 1985. Regulation changes voted on at those hearings and approved by the Natural Resources Board would become effective January, 1986.

Currently, the statewide trout season runs from the first Saturday in May until September 30. An early season beginning on January 1 and extending to the opening day of the regular season operates in 10 southern counties. Bag limits vary slightly by county and season.

Lowering the bag limit to three trout would save 30 percent of the stocked fish from immediate harvest following stocking, as would the nine-inch size limit, Claggett said. The DNR committee did not recommend doing away with the early season because it reduces crowds on the opening day of the regular season and increases opportunities for trout fishing. Some opponents of the early season have maintained that it is responsible for the decline in the number of large trout, but Claggett said other factors contribute as well, since the decline is also occurring in southern streams not subject to early season fishing.

"More restrictive bag and size limits, no bait fishing and possibly catch-and-release are needed to increase the availability of fish larger than 15 inches," he said. Other states famed for their excellent trout fishing, such as New York and Pennsylvania, have much larger percentage of streams subject to special regulations like this that anglers there support so fishing remains high-quality, he added.

Wisconsin's regulations governing inland trout fishing have changed little in 50 years, even though angler pressure has risen steadily, especially on southern streams close to the state's major population centers. Bag and size limits were adjusted in 1949, 1950 and 1982. The early season was established in some counties in 1977, with more added in 1982. Claggett said only 16 Wisconsin counties contain only 16 percent of the state's 9,560 miles of trout streams, but they are located close to about 60 percent of the state's population.

Hunting Accidents Down in Wisconsin

Hunting accidents do take their toll in Wisconsin. During 1984, three persons have been killed while small game hunting, compared to an average of 5.8 during the same seasons for the past 20 years, Homer Moe, DNR hunter education administrator, said.

"During 1983, there were no small game hunting fatalities, which was the first time since the early 1940's," Moe said. "There are only 17 small game season hunting accidents reported so far this year, compared to 34 for the same period in 1983." The importance of firearm safety training is tragically underscored by the fatalities.

Hunting overall ranks as one of the safest participant sports in the country. Most hunting accidents are caused by human error and can be prevented.

"An unsafe act...a moment of carelessness...a lapse of safety awareness — these are all killers," Moe stated. "Every time hunters set up a firearm, they should consciously think about the responsibility they should shoulder along with their firearm."

Responsible and safe gun handling hunters can usually be spotted. They always treat their firearms as if they were loaded. They open the action when afield among other hunters. They always point the muzzle in a safe direction. They always positively identify their target as legal game before shouldering their gun. And then they double-check for a safe backstop before they shoot.

"Responsible hunters assume that every sound they hear in the woods, or movement they see in dense brush is another person," Moe said. "They don't let excitement and uncontrolled emotions take over. If they are not positive of safety they pass up a shot."

Responsible hunters:

1. Know where their hunting partners are at all times.
2. Establish and stick to safe shooting zones.
3. Wear hunter orange clothing to be seen and stay safe.
4. Consciously practice firearm safety and demand that their hunting partners do likewise.

Kewaskum Statesman, Page 19
Friday, Dec. 14, 1984

Wisconsin hunting accident statistics show that unsafe acts by hunting partners are the major cause of two-person hunting accidents. "More than 70 percent of those accidents involve members of the same hunting party," Moe added.

Some tips for safe and successful hunting.

- Choose your hunting partners with care. An unsafe companion is your greatest danger while hunting.

- Plan your hunt for safety as well as success. Be sure every hunter understands their role and their responsibilities.

- Hunt your plan. Every participant should do what is expected of them and be where their partners expect them to be. Maintain visual or sound contact with partners when driving game.

- Set realistic hunting goals. Your hunting expectations will determine your hunting satisfactions. Think of hunting as an opportunity to hunt for and see game, not merely a chance to shoot and bag game. Hunt for the sake of hunting, not just bagging game. Make each hunt a memorable experience to have with you the rest of your life.

Tips for Deer Country Driving

If you want to keep from becoming one of the statistics in deer-car collisions this fall, Maynard Stoehr, the Wisconsin Department of Transportation's highway safety coordinator, offers some deer-avoidance techniques that may help you.

According to Stoehr, more deer are out in the open along highways during this time of year, especially at night. "Try to time your driving through deer country during full daylight hours. Dusk is a particularly hard time to see deer so it is recommended you keep your speed down so you can make a sudden stop if necessary," he said.

"When you see a deer cross the road ahead of you and it looks like the trouble is past, watch out, because deer often travel in groups of two or more. Always look for a second deer in the area where the first deer came from," Stoehr added.

Stoehr advises motorists to stay near the centerline of the road as much as is safely possible. "This is particularly helpful at night for two reasons: It keeps some of the intensity of the lights out of the deer's eyes and it tends to drive the deer back into the woods rather than out onto the highway. Also, if a deer does bolt in front of your car you have a fraction of a second more time to miss it."

Part of the problem of deer running in front of cars at night is due to headlights blinding them and frightening them. "When you must turn on your headlights, put them on bright so you can see deer as far away as possible," Stoehr said.

If a deer does jump in front of you, there is still one chance, Stoehr said. "A deer that cuts in front of your car is usually running. If your car is going to collide with it, hit the brakes and the horn. Deer always have a burst of speed left and the sound of the horn makes them turn on that extra shot of speed, which may get them out of the way in the last millisecond," he concluded.

Indians Lose 2 Games To Hartford and Kiel

By John Harju

On paper it might have appeared that the KHS boys should have won last Tuesday against Hartford, because of a definite height advantage. However, that wasn't the case as the visiting Orioles used an effective full-court defense to frustrate Kewaskum into submission, 70-59.

"We had our share of opportunities," later commented KHS coach Perry Koth, "we seemed to hurt ourselves."

This was indeed true as Kewaskum, which had trailed throughout the game, came within four points or less numerous times during the fourth quarter but couldn't get over the hump.

The Indians did manage to finally tie the score at 50-all, but Hartford came back with seven straight points without Kewaskum ever touching the ball.

6'2" Oriole guard Dale Claussen (also the tallest Hartford player) led Hartford with 25 points. Andy Langlois added 18 as well.

Kewaskum was led by 6'5" senior Mike Steinhardt with 15 points, most of them coming on offensive rebounds over the smaller Hartford players. Bob Jahr was next with 12 while Todd Wiedmeyer and Tom Herriges had 9 and 8, respectively.

The KHS JVs lost 55-35, while the freshmen could do no better as they lost, 61-38.

Kiel 57, Kewaskum 46
Pre-season E-W conference favorite Kiel defeated the KHS boys, 57-46, last Friday night in Kiel.

Although it's still early in the season, Friday's game may prove to be a key in deciding the E-W conference championship.

Kiel upped its record to 1-1 to stay in the thick of things in the EWC race. Kewaskum is also 1-1, after an opening E-W win over Sheboygan Falls, but it "would have been nice to win," according to Indian coach Perry Koth, noting that a 2-0 record going into the New Holstein game next week would have been a great confidence builder for his club.

Kewaskum began the game by throwing up 20-footers with few falling as the Kiel defense kept the Indians away from the inside. Kiel, on the other hand, ran a patterned offense, taking only well disciplined high percentage shots. At halftime it was 22-19, Kiel.

Kiel opened the second frame with a zone defense which kept Kewaskum at bay, forcing the Indians to take outside shots. For the night, Kewaskum shot only 25% from the floor, so it was pretty logical for Kiel to open the second half in a zone. In the third quarter Kewaskum was outscored 13-6, and from then on it was pretty much downhill.

"I'm not real pleased with the way we played," said Koth, "we took too many bad shots." Koth was, however, pleased with his team's defense. "It was our best of the year."

Outside threat Steve Bunge led Kiel in scoring with 16 points. Scott Schroeder followed with 14 while 6'4" post man Darrel Riesterer powered in 12.

Kewaskum was paced by junior Tim Rohlinger with 13 points while Mike Steinhardt popped in 9. Todd Wiedmeyer scored all 8 of his points in the second half after sitting out the first because of a sprained ankle. Bob Jahr also had 8.

The Indian JVs (0-2 and 1-3) lost to a tough Kiel squad 51-40. Mike Coulter scored a season high 20 points in the losing effort.

The freshmen took home the only win for Kewaskum, a 66-33 thrashing. Joel Fleury pounded out 18 points while Noel Stollenwerk and Steve Johnson each added 13 and 14, respectively.

Kewaskum's next game will be next Friday at New Holstein.

Indian Girls Whipped By Hartford, Whip Kiel

By John Harju

The KHS girls basketball team suffered a 55-29 whipping from host Hartford last Tuesday.

"Other than the third quarter, I thought we played real respectful," commented Indian coach Milt Dickinsen on his team's performance.

The third quarter, which he spoke of, was definitely the decider as Hartford ballooned a nine point half time lead into a 23 point advantage by outscoring KHS, 17-3 in that quarter.

Hartford's Steffi Schink scored 5 of her game high 14 points in the third quarter to lead the 4-0 Orioles to victory.

Lisa Fusek scored 8 of her total of 9 points in the first quarter, but after that, "we shot terrible," commented Dickinsen. On the night, Kewaskum made only 10 of 47 from the field which figures out to a dismal 21%.

Sandy Secor followed Fusek in the Kewaskum scoring department with 7 points. She also pulled down 6 rebounds and had 2 steals.

The KHS JVs won their game, 35-28. "Lisa Schneider played her best game of the year," according to coach Keith Amundson, scoring 8 points and hauling down 8 rebounds.

The freshmen lost their first game of the season, 32-12. Brenda Theusch led the Indians with 6 points.

Kew. 11 8 3 7-29

Kewaskum 57, Kiel 29

Everyone got into the scoring act as the KHS girls romped over the Kiel Raiders, 57-29, last Thursday in Kewaskum.

Kewaskum (now 1-1 and 2-4 overall) jumped out to a 14-6 first quarter lead and never trailed from them on.

Jodi Yearling and Lisa Fusek each scored 6 out of their game high 14 and 12 points in the first quarter to lead the Kewaskum charge.

Chris Frantzen, Michelle Gebheim, and Tracy Prescott sparked on off-the-bench effort which Coach Milt Dickinsen was very pleased with.

Frantzen scored 5 points and grabbed a game-high 7 rebounds while Gebheim and Prescott each added 6 points.

Indian Wrestlers Defeated By Random Lake and Kiel

By John Harju

The Kewaskum wrestling team dropped two matches last week, first, at Random Lake on Tuesday, 37-23, and then to visiting Kiel in their conference opener on Friday, 36-21.

126-pound Bob Callison remained unbeaten with a forfeit on Friday and a 16-0 decision on Tuesday. 132-pound Rick Staehler decisioned both of his opponents last week as did 138-pound Wade Jepsen.

155-pound senior John Nowak won both of his matches of last week with impressive pins.

Random Lake 37, Kewaskum 23 [all KHS wrestlers listed first]

98 - Steve Kapp was pinned by S. Diener, 1:46
105 - Bill Lehmann lost to S. Murphy, 6-16
112 - KHS forfeits to Art Demerath

119 - Rich Straub was pinned by T. Esser, 3:37
126 - Bob Callison beat K. Huiras, 16-0
132 - Rick Staehler beat R. Carcia, 4-2

138 - Wade Jepsen beat D. Hubing, 8-5
145 - Chris Dieringer lost to M. Schwab, 6-10

155 - John Nowak pinned R. Birenbaum, 3:07
167 - Martin Selchert pinned Kevin Kern, 4:22

185 - Jim Lauer was pinned by B. Stout, 2:50
Unl. - Jeff Diels was pinned by M. Schuessler, 3:27

As a team, the Indians shot only 29% from the floor, which was good enough to win (Kiel made only 6 shots all night), but something that "must get better," according to Dickinsen.

The Indian JVs (4-2) destroyed their opponents in the preliminary game, 32-8.

"We really played like a team," commented soph coach Keith Amundson afterward.

Jenny Hintz led the well balanced Kewaskum attack with 8 points. Terri Schmidt and Lisa Schneider each added 6, while Laurie Blum and Brenda Vetter came away with 5 steals apiece.

After trailing 22-21 at half, the KHS freshmen came back to outscore their Kiel opponents, 28-3, in the second half and win, 50-24.

A strong full-court press employed by the Indians in the second half proved to be the reason for the win. "Everyone hustled," according to coach Michele Wiedmeyer.

Brenda Oelhafen, Jean Klahn, and Kim Kasseckert each had 9 points while Debbie Felix popped in 8, as well.

Kewaskum's next game is Dec. 20th when they host Plymouth.

Beaver Dam to Open Gymnastics Season Here

By John Harju

Four returning letter winners will form the nucleus of rookie coach Sue Paul's 1984 KHS gymnastics team.

Paul, who replaces Jane Vesper, who resigned her teaching and coaching duties this past summer, has to replace top performers Sandy Nigh and Wendy Wilson, both of whom graduated last year.

Letter winners Chis Kirchner, Renee Kapp and Sheri Batzler, all sophomores, and Darlene Luedtke, a junior, will be looked on to contribute a lot this year, according to Paul. A fifth letter winner, Shelly Petsch, is currently sidelined with a medical problem.

Kirchner will be an all-around competitor as will Batzler, while Luedtke will concentrate on the vault, floor exercise, and uneven bars. Kapp will be a balance beam, vault, and floor exercise expert.

Top varsity prospects include: senior Terri Voge; juniors Lisa Krahn (beam), Debbie Schoofs (vault), and Mitzi Nigh (vault and uneven); sophomores Jackie Voge (vault), Kerie Swenson (floor and beam) and Dani Rogne (floor).

Other squad members include: juniors Cheryl Kurtz and Marie Miller; sophs Lisa Stray, Christa Smolinski, Tracy Schuster, Lisa Dinesen, and freshmen Mary Pesch, Patty Padden, Jean Herriges, Michelle Picard, Angie Nowak, Nanci Goeden, Britt Ellis, Linda Chochenet, and Carrie Batzler.

The Indians open their season Friday against Beaver Dam here.
