More Money Needed for Countywide Library System

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

While the Washington County Board recently recommended a 10% increase in its financial support of the countywide library system next year, one of the member communities, West Bend, has already indicated it is seeking $260,000 or a 44% increase for its library's services.

County Supervisor Daniel Stoffel, who is chairman of the County Library Services Board, feels the county will have to make some increase in its support of the system if it is to survive. The board's recommendation, however, would only see funding increased from $180,000 to $198,000 for the entire program next year, far below the amount West Bend officials alone are seeking to provide services to county residents.

It is calculated that costs range between $1.23 and $3.00 for each item checked out of a county system library. Officials of these communities furnishing the services contend they are subsidizing these services to the non-residents because the county only pays 87c of the cost per circulated item. The proposed increase would raise the county's share closer to $1.00.

West Bend's Library Director, John Reid, has indicated the new system is costing the city more than it is getting. His library served more than half or 51,460 of the non-resident patrons who used county libraries during the first six months of the system's existence.

The City of Hartford has also made a request for more funds. It has requested $210,000 to help it fund the services it provides to county library users.

The system is a little better than half way through the first year of a three-year trial program in the county. Along with West Bend and Hartford, libraries in Germantown, Kewaskum and Slinger have also been providing library service to residents living outside their communities. In exchange for that service, the county taxes users living outside those communities and distributes that money to the libraries, based on the usage each receives from those non-resident patrons.

Stoffel acknowledges that a compromise is necessary to keep the system alive, however, he feels library officials know the county is facing the same budgeting problems as everyone else, and it is unlikely that the county will come up with the kind of money being requested.

County residents who have not previously had the services of a library, except through the purchase of non-resident cards, are expected to use 200,000 pieces of library material this year. Earlier, that usage had been projected at 175,000.

Village of Kewaskum trustee Richard Schmidt, who serves on the federated system board, has told the Kewaskum Village Board that it must look into ways of attracting more rural patrons to use its facility. The more people who use the library, the more funding it will receive, noted Schmidt. We have to keep bringing it to everyone's attention that we can provide the very same materials found in West Bend, Hartford, etc.

The County Finance Committee will discuss the Library Services Board request on October 7th.

Three Re-Bid on Fire Station Repairs

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

At a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Kewaskum Village Board opened re-bids on proposed repairs at the fire station located at 1106 Fond du Lac Avenue.

Bids were received from the three contractors whose original bids were rejected two weeks ago because of non-conformance to bid specifications.

JB Contractors of Menomonee Falls submitted a bid of $114,879, HIS Corporation, Hartford, bid $110,475, and Eagle Construction of Kewaskum came in with a bid of $103,200. The bids were turned over to Bob Skatrud of Reukert & Mielke for his firm's review and recommendations.

The bid is expected to be awarded at the board's next meeting on August 31st.

In other action the board approved a liquor license, running to June 31, 1988, to Valera McDonald, 215 Main Street, and a bartender's license for Gordon Wilhelmi.

The board also approved the hiring of Kitty Hlavaty as Library Director. Hlavaty had been assistant librarian. She will replace Evangeline Teeslink who is retiring. The position of assistant librarian will now be advertised.

The budgeted replacement of a window at the treatment plant was approved at a cost of $1,800. Plant Superintendent Pete Albers noted this completed the project to replace the plant's casement windows with energy and heat efficient insulated glass block type windows.

Administrator Dan Schmidt advised the board that water utility rates will be discussed at the August 31st meeting. He noted any increases approved would not go into effect until the beginning of a complete quarter.

Roof Repairs Top Priority Recommendation to School Board

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Finance-Transportation-Buildings and Grounds Committee went through a lengthy agenda Monday evening and decided its top priority recommendation to the full school board will be a two-year program to repair roofs on the Kewaskum Elementary, Wayne Elementary and Kewaskum High Schools.

In discussing the roof problems, Buildings Superintendent Fred Boehlke told the committee, the two elementary schools had the most serious problems, but all three buildings had leaking.

At KES, said Boehlke, the cafeteria, second story and third story roof areas needed work at an estimated cost of approximately $56,000. Repairs at Wayne were estimated to run around $52,500, and repairs to the 1966 roof section of the high school were estimated at $74,000. With a total price tag of over $183,000, the committee felt it had to distribute the work over a period of three years. Perry Ankerson told his fellow committee members, "If we do it over a period of three years we have to decide if we want to borrow some money or budget $60,000 a year for it."

After further discussion, committee member Irene Gnacinski moved the committee recommend that repairs on KES and WES be done next year with the money coming out of the district's fund equity. Board member Ruth Schmitt, who was in the audience, stated "I wish we would have had an additional $50,000 in the budget."

Committee members Clara Trapp and John Spoerl questioned the need to do the Wayne gym roof. Boehlke said, in another year or so it would be in need of repair also, so he felt it would be less costly to do all the roof work at one time rather than have some one return in two years.

The committee also voted to recommend construction of an additional 70 x 100 foot parking lot at Farmington Elementary School at a low bid cost of $1,950.

The remodeling of the marquee in front of the high school was discussed. Principal LeRoy Kopecky informed the group that the funding would come from the Booster Club and students, with no cost incurred by the district.

In later discussions, regarding repairs to the baseball diamond grandstand, it was questioned whether the Booster Club would like to assist with funding repairs there rather than remodel the marquee. The committee decided to look further into both items. Gnacinski asked if it was possible that a local organization could be enlisted to aid with the grandstand repair. Committee chairman Ron Theusch thought the Land-O-Lakes Baseball League and some of its members might be

Police Pursuit Ends In Crash

By GERRY MUELLER

Keith D. Bauer, 20, of 13-101, Route #1, Adell, sustained severe head and internal injuries as the result of an accident when he tried to elude a Sheboygan County police car Sunday evening.

A Sheriff's Department spokesman said the accident occurred at 8:47 p.m. at the intersection of Highways S and A, in Beechwood.

Deputy Inspector John Hoffmann said the report indicated a patrol car traveling down Highway 28, noticed two motorcycles pull off to the side of the road. One bike appeared to be having mechanical problems.

As the squad pulled up behind the motorcycles, one of the riders looked back, seeing the squad he (Bauer) started his machine spinning gravel and stones at the car and then taking off. The second cyclist pulled to the shoulder and stopped.

The sheriff's deputy pursued Bauer for approximately six miles in the direction of Beechwood. Witnesses at the crash scene said Bauer was traveling between 50 and 60 miles per hour and accelerating rapidly when he went through the stop sign on S, crossing A. Bauer missed a jog in the road, went into the ditch out again and willing to help.

The item of additional rest-room facilities at the Middle School was discussed. When Boehlke told the committee the cost would run close to $5,000 plus the cost of mirrors, dispensers, etc., District Administrator Penny Kleinhans questioned whether there really was a need to justify the large cost.

Kleinhans noted both she and Director of Instruction, Julie Backus, had talked to the teachers and had not gotten any comments that would indicate there was an actual need for the additional facilities. "No one seems to think there is a shortage of restrooms," said Kleinhans. She suggested Backus watch the situation for the first nine weeks and report back with her findings.

The committee discussed disposition of the remaining State Trust Fund loan money. Business Manager, Cherna Gorder, said after the Wayne well repairs were paid for, there would be approximately $9,000 left. Some projects suggested exceeded the funds left.

Kleinhans said she would rather see the money used to cover the cost of some unexpected repairs and equipment replacement such as the possibility of having to replace a problem water softener at WES. She also suggested that a portion of the money be used to replace curtains at Farmington which are in very poor condition. The committee agreed to recommend the curtain replacement.

In reference to carpet replacement at KES and KHS, Boehlke advised the committee that the carpeting was being done in special education rooms and the funding was coming out of government special ed grant money.

Boehlke also went over bids received for rest room repair at the high school. The committee had some questions on items included in the bids so they directed Boehlke to go back for clarification on the cost and some of the materials being furnished.

The committee also directed Boehlke to go ahead with necessary playground repairs at Beechwood School in compliance with an inspection report submitted by Wausau Insurance Company.

Gorder informed the group that she had been contacted by a company which offered to do an energy study at no cost to the district related to Wisconsin Electric's Smart Money Energy program.

The committee felt that if there was no cost to the district, she should go ahead with the offer and see what kind of recommendation the company comes up with which could earn the district a rebate from Wisconsin Electric.

Trapp asked whether the district had looked into resurfacing the tennis courts. Boehlke said the cost to do the work was estimated at $34,000 two years ago. Kleinhans noted, when we found out how exorbitant the cost would be, we just felt we could not justify spending that kind of money when we have higher priority needs.

The committee will present all its recommendations at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the school board.

KeWalkSum Classic Opens School Year for Teachers

It was walk, run, bike or roller skate in the 2nd Annual KeWalkSum Classic at the beginning of the Kewaskum School District's in-service day.

District Administrator Penny Kleinhans addressed teachers at the in-service welcoming breakfast. On the wall behind Kleinhans is the district's theme for the year. "MOVE, Motivation, Opportunity, Vitality, Excellence"

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Following through on last year's theme of fitness and wellbeing, the Kewaskum School District held its second annual KeWalkSum Classic to kick off 1987-88 in-service activities Monday.

The day began at 7:30 a.m., with teachers, support staff, administrators, a school board member, and the media participating in the Run/Walk/Skate/Bike routes which were from a half to four miles long.

The classic was followed by a breakfast at which District Administrator Penny Kleinhans welcomed returning and new members to the district's staff. In her opening address Kleinhans told the teachers that while the scope of education has continued to broaden and grow, surveys show that 61% of all American adults have not read a book in the last year and 26% of the college graduates have not read a book in that period.

Kleinhans referred to a statement made by a prominent individual in the education field that the two great casualties of our time were truth and conscience. Moral standards have not improved on the same level as education. As examples, Kleinhans cited the Iran Contra and Watergate scandals. The individuals involved in these incidents were all highly educated, yet education had failed because it had not taught them to behave, she noted. "We must address ourselves to what is right and proper also." "Children watch examples better than they listen to lectures," stated Kleinhans. She asked the teachers to model themselves accordingly.

As their guideline, Kleinhans asked the staff to remember the theme for the new school year, "MOVE," Motivation, Opportunity, Vitality, Excellence.

As in the past, staff members were recognized for their years of service to the district. Receiving plaques for 25 years service were Marlene Erickson, her husband, Ken Erickson, and Dean Roe. Connie Zemlicka, Floyd Brenner, and Bill Wuebben were recognized for 20 years of service. Sharon Blank, Mary Dallman and Elvira Nigh received engraved paperweights marking their 15 years of service. Mr. Walt Bade also received a plaque for 25 years of service although he has served the district for 30 years, but not consecutively.

Mr. Ronald Beimborn, vice president of the School Board, participated in the walk. He and Ruth Schmitt, board clerk, also attended the breakfast.

At the conclusion of the breakfast meeting, the teachers continued the in-service, attending other meetings in preparation for the opening of school on Wednesday.

After the early morning exercise, it was back to the high school and breakfast before the day's meetings began.

Local Day Care Raises Over $1,400 for MD

TOP HOPPER — Natasha Weaver with Ronald McDonald at a taping of this year's TV6 Telethon. This portion of the show will be aired about 3:15 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 7.

My Little Friends Day Care raised over $1,400 dollars for the M.D. association through a Hop-a-Thon held in late May of this year. The children had family and friends pledge money for the amount of hops they could do in a two minute time period.

All the children who participated did a great job and received a certificate for their hard work. The hoppers were Erin Backaus, Nathan Fechter,

Nicole Johnson, Nikki Koch, Noah Koch, Jenny Neumann, Dean Pretsch, Tracie Pretsch, Brian Prost, Aaron Rodenkirch, Samuel Schacht, Joseph

Schacht, Jennifer Schickert, Jeremy Scheerer, Melissa Schladweiler, Jaime Schulz, Nicholas Schulz, Joshua Schoofs, Aaron Seiser, Patricia Stoffel, Gretchen Van Ess, and Natasha Weaver.

The children enjoyed hopping because they knew that the money they raised was going for wheelchairs to be used by children who didn't have strong leg and arm muscles like them. It was a good learning experience and went for a very good cause.

SPORTS ENERGY

For quick energy eat candy or cookies, right? Wrong! This type of sugar triggers too much insulin into the blood stream, reducing blood glucose and your energy lags. For energy and pep, eat complex carbohydrates: raw fruit and vegetables, whole grains. They release their sugars into your blood stream slowly and steadily.

The extra teaching staff for the coming school term will be as follows: Principal - Clifford M. Rose; Manual Training - Harry Furlong; Social Science and Athletics - Lyle E. The employees of the Kewaskum Aluminum Company and their wives were entertained by their employers last Saturday afternoon at a picnic in the new Kewaskum City Park. All sorts of amusements were delved into during the process of the afternoon and refreshments were served. All present stated that they will not soon forget the good time shown them by their employers, and it is hoped that this picnic may become an annual affair.

Kewaskum continued to grow a little bigger when two more families moved in recently. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Backhaus and family have moved from the Town of Kewaskum into the residence recently purchased by Mr. Backhaus on First Street, formerly the Kludt home. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schrauth, who were married a short time ago, have also moved into our little city. They come here from Elmore and are at present living in the Mrs. Rob. Backhaus home on Second Street.

A Model T Ford, owned by Alfred Firks, blacksmith at New Fane, was considerably damaged by fire on Monday noon of last week while parked on Main Street in Campbellsport. A fire alarm was sounded about 10 minutes after the noon whistle and the fire department responded immediately and extinguished the blaze in a few minutes. The back end of the car was badly damaged. The cause of the fire is not known.

In a pretty summer ceremony, Miss Lucille Alliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Alliet, Route 2, West Bend, and Fred Weddig, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weddig of this village, were united in marriage August 24 in West Bend.

Howard Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schmidt of this village has been granted an amateur radio operator's license by the Federal Communications Commission. The call letters for Howard's amateur station will be W9DDD. He will transmit code on 7146 K C 7206 K C and 14,292 K C. The station will be located in Howard's home.

A torchlight parade, dedication ceremonies and a pavement dance marked the official opening of West Bend's new $25,000 concrete bridge across the Milwaukee River on Water Street on August 12. The structure replaces the steel span built 50 years ago which had become unsafe.

A farmers organization was organized in Groeschel's Hall when about 35 farmers of this community assembled for the purpose of forming an organization. The name adopted was the Kewaskum Agricultural Society. Officers chosen are: President, F. C. Gotsleben; Secretary, Franklin Backhaus; Treasurer, John Oppenorth; Vice President, Louis Backhaus; Sergeant-at-Arms, Jos.

Honeck.

That the village has a craze for automobiles is shown by the number of car owners. At present there are 17 owners.

Michael Geidel, one of the oldest residents of this community, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jacob Becker, at the age of 79.

Citizen Advocacy Celebrating CA Week

Citizen Advocacy is celebrating CA Week from August 23-29. The focus of this event is to introduce or, in many cases, rekindle the passion of community involvement many people have experienced through their work with Citizen Advocacy.

Citizen Advocacy is a non-profit agency which links volunteers from the community with people who happen to have disabilities. One-to-one relationships, self-advocacy, educational advocacy and short-term advocates are included in this non-profit agency's services.

Activities offered during the week include 2 shows on WBCC-TV, a display of books and suggested reading lists of material about people who happen to have disabilities at the West Bend Library, and ends with the ninth annual CA picnic held at Ridge Run Park on Saturday, August 29, from 3-8 p.m. for all those involved and interested in the Citizen Advocacy program.

Please try to get to know us through the information offered during CA Week. Community involvement is the crucial link in the circle of human concern. For more information please call the CA office at 334-3384.

UWWC Dean Robert O. Thompson will greet new freshmen at a Sept. 3 orientation session. Applications for 347 new freshmen had been processed as of Aug. 20 with registrations completed for 239 of the prospective students.

The theme of the evening, Ford said, will be: "This is going to be a great year, and UWWC is a good place to be."

Many of the new freshmen will be involved in pre-registration testing and planning. Placement exams in English and mathematics will take place at 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Aug. 31. Program planning, required of all new students, is set for 5 p.m., Sept. 1.

Registrations will be accepted for some classes through Friday, Sept. 18. Students will have until Sept. 21 to add a class or to change a class from audit status to credit or from credit to pass-fail.

Biertzer Wins First; Laack Pads Lead at Plymouth

Ken Biertzer of West Bend driving the Randy Zahner modified at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth Saturday night to an emotional peak as he was joined by a tearful

Willie Goeden in victory ceremonies after winning the 30 lap modified feature. Biertzer is driving the RZ mount this season for Willie as he is recuperating from injuries suffered at Kaukauna in a late model accident in May of this year.

Plymouth's Gary Laack the current point leader in the sportsmen division took another step closer to nailing down his third straight championship by capturing the 25 lap sportsmen headliner. In the hobby stock division David Laabs of Manitowoc won his first feature at Plymouth and his second of the season, the other being the July 8th feature at the Manitowoc Expo.

The hobby feature turned into a marathon as the event was halted six times by the red flag. Dave Murre led most of the event holding off Don Grootemaat of Brookfield and David Laabs of Manitowoc. Things were going smoothly for the leaders until lap fifteen when Grootemaat running second spun in turn two, leaving a two car battle for the lead between Murre and Laabs. Murre however tried a little too hard for the victory and Laabs leading giving the top spot to Laabs. Laabs held onto the lead to claim his first feature win at Plymouth this season.

Rich Wondra of Campbell sport won the modified semi while Bob Brion of Sheboygan was a double winner taking his heat and the sportsmen semi. ATV race winner was Eric Klemme of Sheboygan Falls.

Bennett and Brownell Best Slinger Speedway Features

Lowell Bennett of Neenah scored his first 30 lap late model feature victory of the season Sunday night at Slinger Speedway.

Pole sitter John Mueller grabbed the early lead over outside front row starter Bennett. By the second revolution, Rich Bickle Jr. advanced from his sixth starting position to the rear bumper of runner-up Bennett.

On lap 4, Bennett overhauled Mueller for the lead. Al Laufer shot from eighth on the starting grid to nail down the fourth slot at this point. Bickle Jr. passed Mueller for runner-up honors one circuit later.

The running order stabilized for several laps until Conrad Morgan maneuvered past Tony Strupp and Mueller into fourth place on lap 8. Two revolutions later, Morgan dropped Laufer to the fourth slot as Al Schill joined the lead group moving into the fifth position.

Dennis Lampman spun his IROC-Z Camaro in turn three on the 11th circuit bringing out the yellow flag. While slowing for the caution, Bickle Jr. and Morgan tangled extensively damaging the rear bodywork of Bickle Jr's mount and the snout of Morgan's machine. Both continued in the chase.

When racing resumed, Bennett reclaimed the lead with Bickle Jr's car filling his mirror. By lap 13, Bickle Jr. pulled even with Bennett and the pair raced door-to-door for several laps. Morgan exited the race with mechanical problems on lap 14.

At the halfway mark, Schill pulled alongside Laufer to fight for the third spot. The duo ran numeral-to-numeral for three laps before Schill overpowered Laufer on lap 21. Strupp retired his ailing Dodge Daytona one circuit later.

On lap 23, Laufer repassed Schill for third position only to have Schill drop him only to fourth to circuits later. Bennett held Bickle Jr. at bay in the final laps to take a victory by a comfortable margin. Schill, Al Laufer and brother Joel Laufer comprised positions three through five.

Bob Brownell of McHenry, Ill returned to his dominating ways in the sportsman ranks chalking up his eighth 25 lap main event of the season.

Dekeuster finished second followed by Wagner, Graff and Duncan.

Jim Cina of Hartford and Ron Ragan of Milwaukee each captured a crash-filled 12 lap amateur race and Dave Haferkorn of Milwaukee won the 10 lap figure 8 event.

Peter Ayer Seeking National Masters Outdoor Diving Championship

Six years ago, a motorcycle accident had left Peter Ayer as what he describes as "a bag of bones in a hospital."

At that time, he recalls, doctors had assessed his shattered ankles and massive injuries and "figured if I could get up and walk over to change the knobs on a TV set, that was all I could expect."

From Aug. 28 to 30, Ayer will be at Orlando, Fla., seeking to become the National Masters Outdoor Diving champion in the men's 60-to-69 age bracket. In 1981, several weeks before his accident, he finished first in the 50-to-59 division.

Ayer, who turns 60 on Aug. 20, is associate professor of vocal music at the UW Center — Washington County. He has taught at UWWC since 1969. On Sept. 14, his Moraine Chorus begins its 19th year of rehearsals on campus. On Oct. 16 his Ayer Ensemble opens its ninth year of performances with a concert for the UWWC Fine Arts Series.

During the competition at Orlando, Ayer is scheduled to make 25 dives: seven dives on Friday in each of two competitions — one from the three-meter board and the other in a special contest between all former grand masters in the 50 through 69 age groups; seven on Saturday from one-meter high; and four on Sunday from the seven-and-a-half meter platform.

"This is the first time I've ever competed at that height," he said of the 25' platform. "I had practiced at that height, but the accident cut it short."

This summer Ayer has been traveling to Milwaukee to resume his preparations. In addition, he has been bike riding and playing handball for aerobic conditioning and diving in his home pool and at the West Bend YMCA.

Ayer's inspiration in his return to competition has been retired diving champion Cecil Bush of Akron, Ohio, who turned 82 this year.

Since the accident, Ayer said, Bush had urged him in letters and by phone to return to competition. "Even though you don't think you are as good as you were, you've got to get back in again," Bush told Ayer.

Despite his layoff from competition, Ayer has worked on his diving. The most difficult obstacle to overcome has been his legs. His right is a half-inch shorter than the left. He has six screws and a plate in his right ankle and a long screw in his left.

"That makes it difficult to point my toes," he said, "and it also makes it hard to hurdle — to take the last step before the spring."

Along with his own diving, he has continued a YMCA diving class for kids that he started before his accident. "I had 45 kids this year," he said. Last week they threw an early 60th birthday party for him on the pool deck at the end of the eight-week summer class.

Ayer sees diving as "a good confidence and self-image builder for young kids." He said, "It gives them a good feeling of having accomplished something that is challenging and requires hard work and skill and courage."

He finds that "the big courage thing" comes when "a six-or seven-year-old has to do his first dive backwards." He calls that "the big psychological barrier for beginning divers."

Ayer said, "I've seen some kids pick it up in two or three sessions. Some I've had for three summers that still can't do it because the instincts against it are so strong."

"You're asking your body to do three things that we're born instinctively not to do for our own self-preservation — to hurl yourself into space, to hurl yourself upside down and to do it backwards."

For Ayer, the courage is in-keeping with the nature of diving. "It's a mental sport," he said, estimating that 90 percent of what he does involves things like "thinking of the sequences" involved.

Many of the satisfactions are mental. Ayer said, "I can't explain the feeling to you of taking off a seven-and-a-half-meter platform, turning one-and-a-half somersaults and going in the water right. There's no feeling like it."

Ayer began diving competitively in college. "But most of my dives I've learned since I got out of college," he said. "I'm doing a couple of dives now that I hadn't heard of in the early Fifties in college. Olympic divers are doing dives now that were unthinkable even 15 years ago like the three-and-a-half reverse."

Ayer expects about 70 divers to be competing at Orlando. The one he wanted to see most won't be among them. Cecil Bush died Aug. 11 after a massive heart attack.

"He was always after me," Ayer remembers, saying, "You've gotta come to the next meet." But for two years, I was just trying to learn how to walk. Then last summer, for the first time, I thought it might be possible."

Recovering, like diving, he said, "is 90 percent mental, too."

Ayer said, "An accident like mine could be a great excuse to quit. I could have said, now I can never be world champ because of the accident."

Peter Ayer chose another route. "I think people are too willing to accept defeat," he said.

THIEMERDOME THURSDAY GOODTIME LEAGUE

Barrel Haus	tie	3	1
B.J. & CO.	tie	3	1
Bartelt Ins.		1	2
Thornton's Thunderers		1	2

HIGHLIGHTS

Last week's huge boisterous crowd wore out the clickers in the turnstiles in their eagerness to watch last week's games. They were not to be disappointed as all four teams displayed the fine art of semi-pro slow pitch softball.

The 1st game saw Bartelt Ins. knock off an extremely overconfident Thornton's Thunderers, 5-2. The Thornton squad really had their chests puffed out from the previous weeks beating they gave to B.J.&Co. However Mike "Rags" Pfeiffer really put the kibosh to them as he had a shutout going until the last inning. Rags had just bought a new supply of emery boards and he was able to scuff up the ball just to his liking. Thornton's squad cried foul and umpire Brian "Chocolate" Larson checked Rags glove several times and was unable to find any sandpaper or emery board.

After the game Rags confided to several of his team-mates that he had the offending items safely tucked away in his Fruit of the Looms. The Bartelt team was paced by Tom "Wrenches" Knoeck. Tom, by the way, is one of Honeck Chev's ace mechanics. Stop by and see Tom if you want your valves ground or your lights punched out. The game also saw some daring base running by David "Wheres the anchor" Wieter and Clark "Studder Step" Pearson. After the game Rags Pfeiffer announced his retirement. It appears his retirement announcement was just a ruse so he could collect numerous gifts. In fact he was showered with more gifts than Julius Erving. It will be interesting to see how Rags handles this.

The 2nd game saw B.J.&Co. knock off previously undefeated Barrel Haus 5-4. The game saw lots of complaining and arguments about close calls etc., all the things the league was originally started for to get away from. We all hope that in this weeks playoff the name of the league, the GOODTIME LEAGUE, will be taken to heart. B.J.&Co. came back from a four run deficit to beat Barrel Haus and force a playoff this week at 6:30 p.m. This game will end the season at the DOME.

The Thiemer dome management wishes to thank all the faithful fans, especially the ones with the powerful thirsts for attending this year's games.

Attendance 866. This was way up from last week as everyone was there to see if Jack "Mr. Chevrolet" Couch could extend his 3 game hitting streak.
